

Johnson Seeks Economy, But Budget May Hit $103 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's economy campaign may delay expansion of some existing federal programs and curtail others not of the highest urgency, the White House reported Thursday.

All heads of departments and agencies have before them a presidential directive to re-examine personally their budgets for the next fiscal year which begins July 1, 1964, to determine what further savings can be made.

The memorandum directed the department and agency heads to: • Undertake a personal re-examination of the appropriations, expenditures and employment figures contained in the most recent tentative allowances for the next fiscal year.

• Identify those further reductions in appropriations, expenditures and personnel which can be achieved through tighter management, better utilization of personnel.

• Determine what program expansions can be postponed or curtailed along with other appropriate steps to hold down spending at a time of "severe budgetary stringency."

Johnson has set a figure of $98 billion to $103 billion for the next spending year, but has said it will be hard to cut below $102 billion. The current year's budget calls for expenditures of $98.8 billion.

The White House also said Johnson will call in leaders of major farm organizations next week for a review of the whole farm situation. This is expected to put heavy emphasis on wheat and cotton legislation.

Wheat growers rejected earlier this year a planting control program. As a result, the support price will drop $1.25 a bushel, unless new legislation is enacted.

Smart SUlowans: Bundle Up, High Today Will Only Be 20

Smart SUlowans will bundle up for trudging to classes today. The weather prognosticators say the temperature won't quite hit 20.

Thursday's high was 14 degrees at the SUI Power Plant. The low recorded for the day was 5 above Thursday morning.

Barring a blizzard, you should be able to make it to classes today.

Highways are normal with a few icy spots, according to the Iowa Highway Patrol.

The snow in the business district was scheduled for removal from the downtown area beginning at 11 p.m. Thursday.

Occasional snow with a high of 15 is predicted for the southeast.

There were three accidents with minor damage in Iowa City Thursday.

Other parts of the country were suffering more adverse weather Thursday.

The storms striking the Northern Plains and eastern part of the United States were blamed for at least 16 deaths on the highways.

Speed limits on the New Jersey Turnpike were cut from 60 to 35 m.p.h. after an inch of snow slicked its entire length.

Blizzard warnings went out Thursday for Minnesota, Kansas, Nebraska, and parts of Missouri, as well as the western part of Iowa, as storms mushroomed in Montana and elsewhere.

The storm which hit Montana dumped 15 inches of snow. Blowing snow cut visibility to one-eighth of a mile in Minot, N.D.

Merger Plan Protests Due

If Iowa Citizens wish to object to the proposed merger with the Sharon No. 2 school district, they must file their objections by noon Dec. 20.

Objections are to be filed with County Supt. Marshall R. Field.

The Sharon No. 2 rural independent district has petitioned to merge with the Iowa City high school district.

A large number of objections in the Iowa City school district could result in the Sharon petition being thrown out.

The Iowa City school board and the Johnson County board of education both have approved the merger petition.

Police Warn Dorm Thefts Still Persist

Campus Police and dorm advisers have reminded students to lock their doors and beware of thefts since the beginning of the semester.

In the past two weeks $115 in cash and personal belongings were reported taken from SUI dormitories.

Four thefts in Burge and Currier Halls were reported to the Campus Police Tuesday and Wednesday.

A camel-haired coat, brown gloves and hat were taken Tuesday from the cloakroom in the Burge Hall lobby.

Reported missing from N112 Currier were $5 belonging to Louisa Dunham, N2, Grinnell and $4 belonging to Kit Zaiman, A2, White Plains, Ky.

Men's residence halls have been prey to thefts also. Tuesday night a $20 electric razor was taken from the dresser in $311 Hillcrest, the room of Dave Bennett, A1, Cedar Rapids.

Chief John H. Hanna, Campus Police, said Thursday afternoon that students are especially busy now and apt to be careless.

More Freshmen Wanted On Hillcrest Council

"It's about time freshmen get representation," Don J. Loftus, A1, Gilmore, chairman of the Hillcrest Freshman Forum, told Hillcrest residents at an open meeting of the Freshman Forum Thursday night.

Addressing an audience composed mainly of freshmen, Loftus referred to an "unwritten seniority rule" which allows only one freshman on the 16-member General Council.

Loftus appealed to freshmen to petition the council for more representation and encourage them to present their gripes to Forum members.

Local Woman Struck by Train, Killed

Elizabeth Hetherington, 30, was killed about 5:30 p.m. Thursday when struck by a train near Tiffin. According to Iowa City Police, Miss Hetherington, who worked at Jess's Place on College Street, was walking in the area of the tracks with three men: Jess Hodges, owner of Jess's Place, Mervin Rotter and Lyle Kinney. They were unhurt.

IC Interstate Paving Query To Result in State Hearing

FORT MADISON (AP) — The Legislative Interim Committee decided Thursday to look into the Iowa Highway Commission's plan to use asphalt paving instead of concrete on a 14-mile section of Interstate 80.

The committee, meeting here in connection with its annual visit at the State Penitentiary, decided to hold an informal hearing on the matter in Des Moines Jan. 8.

Chairman Clifford Vance said the Highway Commission would be requested to provide information on four specific points in time for the hearing, and to send representatives to it.

Vance said a decision on whether to hold a full-scale investigation of the asphalt-concrete matter depends on results of the informal hearing next month.

Correction

A headline in Thursday's Daily Iowan incorrectly named Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, as head of the committee to study the possibility of an exchange with a Southern institution. The head of the committee is Ray L. Heffner, vice president for instruction.

3 Amendments Are Proposed For Veep Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three constitutional amendments to keep the office of vice president filled were proposed Thursday.

Under the present system, the office formerly occupied by President Johnson will remain vacant until the next general election.

Two of the proposals for changing the Constitution would provide for the prompt election of a new vice president by both houses of Congress. He would fill out the unexpired term of a vice president succeeding to the presidency.

THESE PROPOSALS were offered by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, (R-N.Y.) and Rep. J. Vaughn Gary (D-Va.).

A third plan, offered by Sen. Birch Bayh, (D-Ind.) would provide that within 30 days after a vice president took over the presidency he would nominate a new vice president. His choice would be subjected to confirmation by a majority of the House and Senate.

Because of the time required for a constitutional amendment to pass Congress and be ratified by a majority of the states, none of the proposals could have any bearing on the present situation.

UNDER JAVITS' proposal the House and Senate, meeting in joint session, would elect a new vice president from either their own ranks or the Cabinet. He could be a member of any political party, which means he probably would be a member of whichever party was in control of Congress.

Bayh's proposal that the new president nominate a successor vice president would tend to preserve the present system of keeping both offices in the same party.

Hillcrest Downs Dress-up Rules

Hillcrest residents Thursday evening voted to abolish their Sunday and Wednesday "dress-up" rule.

Doug Zahn, A3, Waverly, told The Daily Iowan, "Constitutionally there were 423 'no' votes to defeat the question on the ballot. There were 438 'no' votes cast in the referendum. There were 213 'yes' votes cast."

The Sunday "dress-up" rule required that the men wear khaki or dress trousers, dress shirt and tie, sport or suit coat and hard-soled leather dress shoes.

For Wednesday evenings, minimum requirements were khaki or dress trousers, a shirt with collar and hard-soled leather dress shoes.

The Council Monday night approved a proposal not to enforce the "dress-up" rule on Wednesday nights.

SUISBCNL Rally Tonight

Historians have written volumes on the great American inventors, their lives, and the consequences of their contributions to society. But somehow they have overlooked James Buchanan McNab, founder of what has come to be known as BuNaBs.

To promote a better understanding of BuNaBs and to give students the opportunity to purchase one or more of these products, the SUI Student Body Crusade for Nicer Living (SUISBCNL) will present a rally from 7 to 9 p.m. in the River Room of the Union. All profits from sales of BuNaBs will go to Project AID, the SUI Student Senate scholarship program.

SUI Civil Rights Petition Secures 300 Signatures

Ed Spannaus, A2, Elmhurst, Ill., reported Thursday night that more than 300 persons signed SUI's Telegram for Freedom. Persons who have not yet signed can do so today between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Booths have been set up at three sites, the Union, Schaeffer Hall and in front of Younkers, where students, faculty and townspeople can personally urge Iowa's Congressmen to endorse a petition to bring the civil rights bill from the House Rules Committee to the floor for debate.

Copies of the telegram and its signatures will be sent to Iowa's five uncommitted representatives. Only Neal Smith (D-Altoona) and Fred Schwengel (R-Davenport) have signed the petition.

Protests Fail—

33 Military Bases Get Axe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's economy axe fell on a flock of military bases Thursday, cutting off or paring down 26 in this country and 7 abroad.

Moreover, "further reductions in the coming months" should be expected, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told a packed news conference.

The action will knock out 8,500 civilian positions and reduce military personnel by 7,800 during the next 3 1/2 years. But McNamara insisted that work will be found elsewhere for all those who want it.

Economy was the administration's watchword in ordering the cutbacks. McNamara estimated Thursday's action would save about $106 million.

REACTION AMONG many members of Congress from the 14 states hit by the cutback was late. One of these was Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), whose state will lose the most, seven installations.

He introduced a bill to slow up the effort and declared angrily: "It is incredible that anyone could analyze this as an economy move."

He said it costs about $4,230 to create jobs under the accelerated public works program in hard-hit unemployment areas. To create jobs for the number that would be affected by the order, Keating said, would cost about $38 million.

BUT REP. Edward F. Hebert, (D-La.) chairman of a House Armed Services subcommittee that has been hitting at military waste for years, had this to say of the closing of Camp Leroy Johnson and the Army overseas supply agency at New Orleans: "I've been preaching economy for all these years and I'm not going to start screaming now just because they shut down something in my backyard."

There were outcries from officials in many communities affected. But Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said he could not quarrel with the closing of Ft. Chaffe in his state if it is part of a genuine economy move.

Faubus added, however, that he didn't want to see the dollars saved "sent around the rest of the world or put down some other rat hole."

MENAMARA AGREED that his phone had been ringing with calls from Capitol Hill since word of the move was spread Wednesday. Identification of the seven bases to be closed overseas was withheld in Thursday's announcement, to permit time for consultation with and explanation to the other governments involved.

McNAMARA expressed no surprise at the outcry from congressional members, nor that they had been in personally or called by telephone to talk to him. He said it was understandable that each Congress member "wanted to assure himself that we knew all the facts" in considering each base.

But his news conference comments carried no implication that this had or would change his mind. Savings were strong in McNamara's remarks. He calculated that base closings and job cutbacks under the previous and the new program would mean an average saving of $442 million per year in operating costs since the spring of 1961.

HE WAS asked if the action was in discussion before the death of President John F. Kennedy, and if Johnson personally approved Thursday's list. McNamara replied that Johnson had stressed repeatedly that it was absolutely essential to review the need for economy in government.

The secretary added: "We have done, and, therefore, this action I am announcing today is a reflection of the instructions of both presidents."

Regents Sell SUI Dorm Bonds

The State Board of Regents, meeting in Des Moines Thursday, sold $16.5 million in bonds to refinance the dormitory system at SUI. The contract went to the lowest of four bidders, White-Weld & Co. of New York, a combine of 38 financial institutions.

The bond issue will re-finance an existing $11.5 million debt, a Burge hall addition now underway, Hillcrest remodeling, fire protection work already done, Quadrangle remodeling and the Currier Hall addition.

The Board of Regents will undertake a study of the functions and proper spheres of activity for the three state schools of higher education.

The recommendation for such a study came from the three institutional presidents and from their inter-institutional committee headed by SUI's vice-president John C. Weaver.

A special meeting is planned for the study, perhaps for late February.

The Board will be meeting again today.

Moonshot 'Possible'— Artificial Belt 'Hot' For Space Flights

By FRANK CAREY Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though steadily decaying, the artificial radiation belt created by the American high altitude nuclear blast of July 9, 1962 is still "hot" enough to kill astronauts if they remain in it for eight hours, Dr. James Van Allen said Thursday.

That's three times as fast as it would take to kill a man orbiting within the natural radiation belts that gird the earth, he said. Van Allen is the SUI physicist who discovered the man-made belts in 1958.

THE MAN-MADE belt, created by the nuclear blast 250 miles above Johnston Island in the Pacific, is intermingled with part of the natural belt.

But Van Allen stressed in an interview that this would not rule out the attempt to land American astronauts on the moon by 1970, since the moonshot would involve only quick passage through the most dangerous areas.

He said the man-made belt should be virtually non-existent by 1969, due primarily to the cleansing effect of increased sunspot activity during 1967 through 1969. Increased bursts of natural solar particles during that period, he said, "will almost kill off" all that remains of the belt.

And even the last remnants should be gone by 1973, he indicated.

BASED ON THE latest data picked up by American and Canadian satellites, Van Allen said "a hard core of the original man-made belt still remains at altitudes ranging from 1,100 to 1,800 miles with the hottest part at about 1,400 miles. These particles constitute about 10 per cent of those originally constituting the belt.

Declaring this hot area extends in space only 15 degrees north and south of the earth's equator, Van Allen indicated that a manned spacecraft would have to be orbiting within those limits for a lethal effect to be produced within eight hours.

USSR in Hot Water With Africans in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union finds itself in hot water with many African delegates in the wake of a renewed threat to veto moves for enlargement of major U.N. councils.

Soviet discomfit over the angry reaction of the Africans could only cause chuckles in Peking, which has been a kind of a third party in the situation, U.N. diplomats said Thursday.

THE AFRICANS made plain their attitude in the General Assembly's 11-nation special political committee, which was debating proposals for enlargement of the Security Council and the Economic and Social Council.

Outside the Soviet bloc and Cuba, virtually solid support has been voiced for a Latin-American resolution to enlarge the Security Council from 11 to 13 countries and the economic and social council from 18 to 24.

The added seats are designed to meet requests for greater representation from the African nations, which will have 34 seats in the United Nations, with the admission of Zanzibar and Kenya expected on Monday, bringing the total U.N. membership to 113.

THE ASIAN-AFRICAN group was reported ready to bring in their own resolution proposing that the Security Council be enlarged to 15 and the economic and social to 27 or 30.

Consultations were under way with the Latin-Americans in an effort to seek a compromise. The big Western powers are cool toward the scale of enlargement proposed by the Asian-Africans. They endorse the Latin-American move.

Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko reiterated in the special political committee on Tuesday that until Communist China is admitted to the United Nations nothing could be done on enlargement. He favors a redistribution of seats, which does not satisfy the Africans.

ENLARGEMENT requires amendment of the U.N. charter.

Job Training Bill Increase Passes House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to increase job training opportunities for school dropouts and illiterates was passed by voice vote by the House Thursday but at a lower spending level than proposed.

The measure was requested by President John F. Kennedy, who made it part of the civil rights program he urged Congress to pass last June.

A slightly different version has cleared the Senate and the two measures will have to be reconciled before final action is taken.

The House bill called for a four-year authorization in new funds of $803 million, but under attack from economy-minded members was cut to $527 million for three years.

The bill amends the Manpower Development and Training Act passed two years ago to train long-term unemployed workers in new skills more in demand. The main aim of the changes is to make it possible for more youths to take advantage of the program.

Soviet opposition was a threat to veto the proposed amendment. Ratification by all the five big powers is required.

Rhetoric Plan To Be Explored At SUI Today

Representatives from several Iowa high schools and colleges will meet here today to explore the possibility of conducting college-level rhetoric courses in high school, according to Richard Braddock, associate professor in charge of the SUI rhetoric program.

The public school systems of Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Davenport, Iowa City and University High School will be represented at the meeting. Iowa State University, Drake University, the State College of Iowa and SUI will be the colleges represented.

Braddock, John Gerber, chairman of the English Department, Richard Lloyd-Jones, associate professor of English, and Dewey Stuit, Dean of Liberal Arts, have worked on the proposal.

Braddock said that the program would not be initiated in schools that had junior colleges or colleges that did not want to cooperate in the program.

"Acceptance of the proposal depends on how many schools have bright students and competent teachers, how many of these would want to participate in the plan and if enough colleges would cooperate," he explained.

Braddock stated that one criticism of the proposal is that college courses cannot be taught in high schools and that there is an added value in a college classroom that cannot be duplicated in high school.

In investigating which Iowa high schools would be candidates for such a program, Braddock found that there were six high schools that had three or more students who were exempted from rhetoric this fall.

Bolivian Workers March for Miners

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Thousands of workers — some shouting "Down with American militarism" — marched through La Paz Thursday in support of tin-miners holding a group of hostages, including four U.S. citizens.

The crowd, estimated at 4,000 to 5,000 persons, marched four abreast to the Labor Ministry where speakers denounced the policies of President Victor Paz Estenssoro.

The parade marked new pressure on Paz Estenssoro by followers of his estranged vice president, Juan Lechin, whose miners took the hostages captive Friday to try to force the government to release two jailed leftist union leaders.

There were no reports of incidents along the heavily guarded parade route, although police said known troublemakers armed with guns had infiltrated the marchers.

Should rats and mice be allowed to smoke?

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — Despite the recent publicity concerning the effects of cigarette smoking on the human body, we are happy to report to the cigarette companies, who have so much at stake, that our wife is not impressed with the evidence so far. If she speaks for the majority of cigarette smokers, and she insists she does, sales should continue and even rise as the reports come piling in.

The other night we said to her, "I see someone from the American Medical Association has come out and said there is a definite correlation between cigarette smoking and heart disease."

"What do they know about it?" she said angrily.

"Well, they're doctors and they've done a lot of research on the problem."

"The tobacco industry also knows a lot about it, and they say we should wait until all the evidence is in. Would you please pass the ashtray?"

"The evidence is pretty conclusive," we said. "I read the other day that in an independent investigation they had 20 mice smoke cigarettes and 20 mice who didn't, and the ones who didn't lived twice as long as the ones who did."

"I DON'T THINK they should allow mice to smoke," she said. "I've always thought it was very bad for them."

"They're just trying to dramatize the effects of smoking on the human body," we said.

"I don't see why we should give up smoking because mice can't do it," she said.

"It isn't just mice," we told her. "They did the same thing with rats."

"Are you calling me a rat?"

"There is nothing personal about this. I just thought you'd be interested in what they're saying these days about smoking."

"I NEVER LIKED mice or rats," she said.

"That's not the point. We are dealing here with medical evidence."

"I'll bet the mice who lived longer were nervous wrecks," she said.

"They didn't study that part of it."

"Of course they didn't. All they were concerned with was cancer and heart disease. Why didn't they study their mental health? Do you know why women smoke? Because they're nervous. Do you know who makes them nervous? Their husbands. Why don't you find out how many marriages have been saved by smoking instead of how many mice have died from it?"

"DO YOU THINK there is a correlation between marriage and cigarette smoking?"

"There is in any house where a husband starts throwing mouse and rat statistics at his wife."

"You may have a point," we admitted.

"The trouble with all these reports is, the more they put them out, the more nervous smokers become and the more they smoke."

"Why don't you just give up?"

"Why don't you come right out with it and say you want a divorce?" she said.

"I don't want a divorce. I just suggested you give up smoking."

"As far as I'm concerned," she replied, "it's the same thing."

Surprises from the 'apathetic generation'

IT IS EASY — perhaps too easy — to attend the State University of Iowa, to live in Iowa City, and to look at the problem of civil rights as someone else's problem. SUI and Iowa City have had their own civil rights problems, but they have been more the problems of changing old habits and customs than of getting at deeply ingrained prejudice. We have not had police dogs nipping at our demonstrators, and we have not had policemen with electric prods burning the flesh of our picketers.

In fact, we've had few picket lines at all — although we still have problems of discrimination. They are the subtler problems which can often be worked out by discussion. The Iowa City Human Relations Commission and the University Committee on Human Rights can do the quiet, behind the scenes work that is needed to combat these subtler forms of discrimination.

Because of our relatively quiet climate in the area of human rights, it is easy to forget — it is hard to believe — the violence used by the purveyors of prejudice in less enlightened areas than our own.

It is especially encouraging, therefore, that the leaders of every political group on campus have endorsed the "Telegram for Freedom" campaign at SUI. They have thus demonstrated some awareness of the civil rights problem and a willingness to involve themselves in the fight for civil rights.

It is also encouraging because it proves there is a potential on the SUI campus for an increasing awareness of students of all the problems that exist beyond our own microcosm.

We hope to see an even bigger response today to the telegram petitions. The universal endorsement by campus politicians shows that the civil rights bill isn't really a political one. It is a moral one based on the generally common belief that human dignity for all men is the least that all of us can expect.

Your signature and your quarter may seem an insignificant expression of that belief. Perhaps it is, but it is at least a commitment to the principle that we cannot wait much longer for universal equality.

It is a way to let congressmen know that we are impatient with the delay of civil rights legislation and to let the world know that we are not the "apathetic generation."

To dress or not to dress . . .

HILLCREST RESIDENTS awoke Thursday morning to find not only the usual copy of The Daily Iowan squeezed under the door, but also another subversive piece of printed matter. The second bit of literature was a mimeographed sheet requesting Hillcrest residents to vote against dorm dress-up rules and "stamp out mommy-ism in Hillcrest."

The paper was signed by the "Freedom to Dress Committee." The Daily Iowan has not been able to learn who is in charge of this organization, but we do have a few questions.

For one thing, why are they against mommies? Remember, if it was not for mommies, there would not be any kiddies now living in Hillcrest and debating the all important question of proper eating apparel. Has the Committee taken this into consideration?

Why didn't the Committee strike right at the heart of the matter and encourage the men to "stamp out clothes." What are they trying to hide? Who's covering up?

A mental patient writes a letter to McGill

By RALPH MCGILL
President Kennedy's assassination and the discussions of Lee Oswald's case stirred many emotions. Some persons were glad. Most revealing and pathetic of all were the young school children in the fourth and fifth grades who cheered the news because of what they had heard their parents say. Some high school classes, especially in Mississippi and Alabama, celebrated as if the football team had won the big game.

These were, of course, in the minority. Most Americans felt compassion and grief. Some tried to express themselves in poetry.

For others, patients in mental therapy, there were letters which tugged at the heart. (They noted that at 13 years of age Lee Oswald was, in New York, so obviously mentally sick that he was assigned to the school psychologist. But the mother moved back to Texas. It was a subject of comment that Oswald had spoken of his mother's hard work as explanation of why he was bitter about exploitation of workers. But he never helped his mother. He ran away to Russia where he never was admitted to the Communist party. Oswald felt everywhere rejected — by the Russians, by the Castro committee, by Americans. And, since he was aggressively arrogant and hostile, he was rejected.)

A WOMAN WHO has been released from a mental institution to try for stability at home is one who wrote. She wrote with pencil on paper from a high school note book.

"This is my first letter . . . You speak of the national burden of mental illness . . . as words these are cold and lacking in understanding . . . why not say that those who suffer from mental and emotional illness suffer most the sins and burden of our nation . . . ? I understand President Kennedy's desire to help people . . . many cried . . . but all of us fail God . . . I have suffered deeply, greatly, darkly, the agony of emotional ills . . . But seldom is any shame felt by me any more . . . the suffering has been too great. But I do feel anger toward those who think, write or talk about the burden of it . . . If only old persons and not adults and young men and women were not suffering, I would feel better . . . If only adults had the stigma and the deep suffering, sorrow and shame attached to mental illness . . ."

"WRITING YOU tonight I look out at the cold and lonely snow, the first of the year . . . here in our mountains . . . here by our lake. The memories of childhood come back . . . of childhood and violence . . . of daddy drunk and raging so we have to run for our lives . . . to grandmas, a neighbor, or maybe we had time only to hide in the nearby woods, a field, or the barn, because he could run, too. The snow and the cold hurt bitterly at those times. One night, while hiding in the grapevine patch in the snow, I looked toward heaven and said, 'God, you should not let us suffer so.' Today there is suffering. It is good to be able to write. (I still love my daddy.) Since October I have lost 14 pounds because of mental illness. But I understand better and I write better at these times . . . I wasn't taking any medicine when Kennedy was shot, but when I learned of his death I thought he must be John the Baptist — AFTER I looked out the window and saw a huge arrow of light come down and hang in some very dark clouds. During the past two years I have felt, seen and experienced the most holy and unusual things . . . with the deepest love for children . . ."

"I have once lodged in a thicket of pine
Where no warmth from the sun's ray shines—
I ask you come back with me. Need it be into A cedar, or oak. No matter, it must be into a living tree."

The labored words ended . . . a name was signed . . . "Please don't use my name . . ." The rest was silence . . .

One out of every eight Americans is in some degree mentally disturbed . . . about 20 million. Relatively few ever have treatment. Perhaps five million are very sick, at the edge of being psychopathic, ready to commit crimes of violence . . .

What will America do about these — and about the lunatic fringe, sometimes persons of wealth and position — who influence those sicker than they?

THE LAST LAUGH

Fire at the Union!
Was that really tar burning or just the Liggett & Myers representative paying SUI another call?
A/LA Playboys:
"Harold's" is closed; "Shannon's" is closed; "The Mayflower" is being prosecuted for serving liquor at private parties; and the Greeks?? They're planning to convert the frat houses to key clubs.

Yule Approaches:
$397.50 of fencing equipment (outfits and weapons) was stolen from the Field House recently. Really, boys, who on earth would give their Dad a fencing outfit for Christmas?
Sponsors of SUI's "Telegram for Freedom" shouldn't be surprised by its enthusiastic acceptance. After all, students have been sending them home for years.

There is so much snow in Iowa City that the Board of Regents is planning to build some igloos to take care of the crowded classroom situation.

Choose a Sweater—Fill His Stocking

Coeds who find it difficult to pick the perfect Yule gift for that perfect guy might do well to consider a good looking and comfortable sweater which every fellow needs in his wardrobe.

THE RIGHT sweater chosen with some thought helps the B.M.O.C. assert his individuality and reflects his personality. Sweaters are the thermostat of any man's wardrobe.

Naturally, you may be confused by the wide variety of style, patterns, colors, and materials offered by men's stores, but this diversity is meant to help you pick the right sweater for Christmas giving.

In deciding what kind of sweater the man in your life would like, pay close attention when he drops those subtle comments on clothing. If you don't know his size, chances are a good salesman can recommend the right fit if you describe the lucky guy.

CLOTHING surveys reveals that the average college male has at least five sweaters and may have as many as fifteen, each correct for all occasions. Usually sweaters are at home for dress as well as informal wear.

Probably the most popular sweater on campus this winter is the classic V-neck pullover in shetland wool, mohair combinations, or

Hawks Survive SMU Comeback

We'll Take This One With a Smile: Sharm

By GARY SPURGEON
Managing Editor

Sharm Scheuerman was quite satisfied to get out of the SMU game Thursday night with a victory. The Hawkeyes, leading by as much as 11 points at one time, saw the lead evaporate to one point in the last few seconds. They finally pulled the game out, 73-70.

"We are now 4-0 and we better take this one with a smile," Scheuerman said. "It will look the same as any other victory at the end of the season."

"I think we ran out of gas at the end. We had two tough ball games over the week end and SMU is a better team than most people think," he said. "But we still have a long way to go."

Scheuerman said he was satisfied with the outside shooting, but would like to keep developing it and hopes to get more outside help in the future. He said it was important for a team to have outside shooting to supplement the inside game because most teams cannot stop both the inside and outside at the same time.

"We did run better, but we still have a lot of improving to do," Scheuerman said commenting on his fast break.

"We are pleased with our defense, although the inside defense has to improve."

Scheuerman said he was sorry that he could not play his sophomore more during the game. He did praise sophomore center George Peoples, who played less than half the game. Peoples missed the Evansville and St. Louis games because of a bout with the flu. Although he is not in top physical condition, Peoples scored 10 points and led the Hawkeye rebounders with 11.

"I wish I could have played Jessen more and I wish that I could have gotten Denoma into the game, but he would have had to replace Roach and we could not afford to take Dave out," Scheuerman said.

HE ALSO noted that he would have liked to have played Karl Noonan and Fred Riddle, but the type of game prevented them from getting in. Noonan, a sophomore, and Riddle, a letterman, are just rounding into shape after reporting late because of football duties.

The Hawkeyes' next game is against unbeaten Creighton at the Field House Monday night. Creighton is regarded as one of the top teams in the Midwest by most experts.

TITLE AND JOBS—SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Green Bay battles for a chance at a title and San Francisco battles for jobs Saturday when the two National Football League clubs meet at Kezar Stadium.

Crucial Free Throws Give Iowa 73-70 Win

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Sports Editor

After leading by ten points most of the second half, Iowa survived a comeback effort by Southern Methodist in the final two minutes, and clinched a 73-70 win over the Mustangs in the Field House Thursday night.

The Hawkeyes, who had trailed SMU for the first 12½ minutes of the first half, took the lead for the first time, 23-22, on a hook shot by Dave Roach, with 7:40 remaining. A scoring surge in which Iowa outscored the Mustangs, 10-0, during a three minute period late in the half gave the Hawkeyes a 45-36 halftime advantage.

In the first 15 minutes of the second half, Iowa scored only 18 points as the Mustangs were out-rebounded by the Mustangs and had trouble bringing the ball up the floor.

AFTER HOLDING their biggest lead of the game, 61-50, with 10:32 remaining, the Hawks were out-scored 12-7 in the next eight minutes and the margin dwindled to 69-62. Three straight jump shots by SMU guard Jim Brockman were good and with :33 left, the Hawkeyes were only one point ahead. Brockman's shots came after the Mustangs were successful in stealing the ball twice from the stalling Hawkeyes.

JIMMY RODGERS hit two free throws in a one-and-one situation with :19 remaining and, after Bill Ward had sunk a lay-up for the Mustangs, Andy Hankins, who hit two crucial free throws with :19 remaining against St. Louis Monday night, calmly sank two from the charity line with :02 left to clinch victory No. 4 for the unbeaten Hawkeyes.

It was the third game in a row that Iowa has won by three or less points, and also the third consecutive game the Hawks have won from the free-throw line. SMU connected on 26 field goals; the Y. A. TITTLE, 37-year-old quarterback who is the sum and total of the New York Giants' offense, was named the National Football League's Most Valuable Player by the Associated Press Thursday. Cleveland's Jimmy Brown was second in the voting.

TOLEDO'S ROCKETS threw up a harassing defense and bewildered New York University, the nation's second-ranked college basketball team, 87-74, in Madison Square Garden Thursday night. The unbeaten Rockets, now 5-0, swept out in front early in the game on the strength of their rebounding and carefully controlled offense and fought off an NYU revival to take it going away.

CHICAGO LOYOLA, the nation's No. 1 college basketball power, survived a 44-point performance by Western Michigan's 5-10 guard, Manny Newsome, to edge the Broncos, 105-102, Thursday night. Ron Miller hit 33 for the Ramblers and Art Hunter finished with 28.

COSMO IACAVAZZI of Princeton and Memphis State's Dave Casinelli shared the major college individual scoring championship in 1963, the final statistics compiled by the NCAA Service Bureau revealed Thursday. Iacavazzi and Casinelli wound up with 84 points each, both on 14 touchdowns.

PAUL FLATLEY, former Northwestern star now with the Minnesota Vikings, was named the NFL's Rookie of the Year Thursday. Flatley, 22, has caught 51 passes for 867 yards and four touchdowns as the Vikings head into their final game against Philadelphia Sunday.

Local Christmas Sales Total One-Fourth of Year's Business

By MARY REID
Staff Writer

Some merchants in Iowa City count on the Christmas shopping season for as much as one-fourth of the year's sales and almost all stores have an increase in general sales during the last three months of the year.

Chamber of Commerce figures show that the month of December is the leading month for retail sales, although the gap between sales in December and other months is not as great as people often expect.

ONE MERCHANT remarked that Christmas sales cannot be anticipated from year to year. While they may be high one year, the next may show a decline in the amount of sales. Christmas spending, several merchants remarked, depends not only on the financial situation of the individual family but also on the economic conditions in the entire country.

Iowa City merchants as a group do not depend on SUI students for a large part of their Christmas sales. Usually the students go home before they really begin to think about Christmas shopping, one merchant commented. Many merchants consider students late shoppers.

SUI's Injun III Now One Year in Orbit

By HAROLD YAHNKE
Staff Writer

After transmitting 180 million bits of scientific data, more than any previous U.S. earth satellite, the made-in-Iowa Injun III is now silent, precisely one year after its launch into orbit Dec. 13, 1962.

The end of the communication life of Injun III was described to The Daily Iowan by Donald A. Gurnett, G. Fairfax, and Ted A. Fritz, G. Iowa City, graduate research assistant in the SUI Department of Physics and Astronomy.

SUI physicists who were associated with the project emphasized that they are very well satisfied with the overall performance, and the amount of data transmitted by the satellite.

During its active lifetime, about 10 months, Injun III transmitted 180 million data points, Gurnett said. Its predecessor, Injun I, transmitted 40 million data points during a period lasting about 18 months. Injun III was able to transmit data four times faster than Injun I.

Briefly, as described by the SUI physicists, the satellite was designed to study the properties of natural and artificial radiation zones, auroras and airglow, VLF phenomena — unusual whistling noises generated by very low frequency radio waves — and to study possible correlation of the phenomena.

Twenty-three assorted detectors, a magnet designed to orient the satellite into a prescribed attitude, and a complex telemetry system are housed in the 24-inch aluminum shell. More than 2,000 solar cells were used to charge the power supply.

Scientific observations made by the detectors were recorded in the basement of the Physics Building and at other reception sites below the orbital path.

The satellite had a very limited "vocabulary" with which it sent its scientific messages back to earth. It could "say" only "one" or "zero." By arranging these figures into varying sequences the satellite reported on the observations made by the detectors.

The signals of all detectors were relayed to earth simultaneously. The recorded compound message, mixed with static, was then fed into a computer at SUI. The computer "translated" the garbled signal into a meaningful message.

KWAD Office Move Asked

A petition calling for an all-Quadrangle referendum on the relocation of radio station KWAD has more than the required number of signatures, according to Robert Katz, A1, Chicago, of KWAD.

A motion to relocate the broadcast facilities from the room adjacent to the Quadrangle Council office to the office was defeated at a Quadrangle Council meeting Monday, by a 13-8 vote. There were 11 absentees.

Katz said that the station needs the extra room, and suggested that the Council office be moved to a tower room. The Council objected to this, Katz said, saying this would restrict its activities.

The Quadrangle Association constitution allows a referendum vote on any matter the General Council rules upon, Katz said, if signatures from one-third of the dormitory residents appear on a petition. Katz said that more than half of the 660 residents have signed the petition.

The petition will be presented Monday at a special meeting of the Council in the Quadrangle Study Room at 10 p.m.

If the petition is accepted by the Council, Katz said, there will be a referendum vote before the Christmas recess.

However, there may be a move to block the petition's acceptance, Katz said.

Suit Filed Against Holiday Motel

A construction firm from Memphis, Tenn., asks for a $73,132 judgment against the new Holiday Inn, west of Coralville, in a suit filed Thursday in Johnson County district court.

The suit was brought by H. G. Hall & Associates, and asks establishment of a mechanic's lien against the motel.

The petition alleges the motel failed to pay labor and material costs for the construction of the building as the motel company had agreed to do in a written contract.

The Home Savings and Loan Association of Black Hawk County and the Westinghouse Credit Corporation were also named as defendants in the petition.

SINGER TO RETIRE—

NEW YORK (AP) — Marian Anderson, the great Negro contralto, announced Thursday that next season's concert tour will be her last. She plans to retire in the spring of 1965.

Now 55, Miss Anderson was born in South Philadelphia.

radio noise in outer space," Gurnett said. "The satellite has demonstrated that these very low frequency waves are associated with the occurrence of auroral phenomena."

The satellite continued to make observations of the decay of the artificial radiation belts that were caused by the "Starfish" high altitude nuclear explosion over Johnston Island, July 9, 1962, Gurnett said. First observations of these belts were made by Injun I.

In addition, a vast array of strange VLF radio noises whistles, howls, chirps, and squeaks, of a completely unknown origin, have been observed, Gurnett said.

The VLF experiment was designed by Gurnett and the results are being studied by him.

Fritz and Gurnett added that a number of SUI students and staff members are continuing studies of the accumulated Injun III data. A wide variety of scientific results are expected to come from these studies.

Hoover Library Addition To Double Current Space

W. B. Anderson, president emeritus of the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Foundation, Inc., reviewed with Iowa City Rotarians plans of the foundation for building an addition to the Hoover Library, including an auditorium seating 185 people.

This addition would allow twice as much space for books, documents and papers that chronicle Hoover's great deeds, he said.

Room is also needed for the documents, films and tape recordings complementing Hoover's 50 or more years of public life, he said. For this reason we are building an addition that would increase our present space from 6,000 to 12,000 square feet, Anderson said.

This work is scheduled to be completed next spring. An estimated 60 per cent of the construction has already been completed.

The Hoover Birthplace Foundation has acquired an additional five acres, Anderson said. The West Branch Memorial now contains about 33 acres.

Dr. Franz Lassner, newly appointed director of the Library, said Thursday that the new auditorium could possibly be used by SUI students interested in viewing special films which the foundation could request and receive from the General National Archives in Washington.

Studio Matinee To Present Two Productions Today

Two plays will be presented at the Studio Matinee this afternoon at 3:30. The public is invited. The first production is a new play by the SUI playwright, Ralph Arzooonian, G. Cranston, R. I. It is set on a carnival midway, where two off-beat characters, Bozo and Betty, fall in love. They are played by Kent Gravett, G. during a war. It is directed by Thomas Vachon, G. Manchester, N. H., as an M. A. thesis tryout. AMERICAN CUSTOM—The community Christmas tree is a modern American custom. The first was erected on Mount Wilson in 1909 by the people of Pasadena, Calif.

Engineering Jobs Offered

Seniors or graduates studying industrial engineering are being offered a work and study fellowship program in Israel. The program, to begin next August, is divided into three phases: orientation, on-the-job training, and employment. During the two-year employment period, students work for an M.S. at the Israel Institute of Technology. Transportation to and from Israel is paid by the sponsor, and housing expenses are subsidized. Further information is available from: Mrs. Marion Kabat, Committee on Manpower Opportunities in Israel, 515 Park Ave., New York 22, N.Y.

TURKEY UNKNOWN—Turkey, a Christmas delicacy, was unknown in Europe before 1542. Goose, beef or meat pies were customary fare for Christmas feast before then.

'Mess' ah' Still Has Freshness

Daniel Moe, associate professor of music, said in a pre-concert briefing Wednesday that "the 'Messiah' still retains a certain excitement and freshness even after repeated listening."

The briefing was sponsored by the Fine Arts Committee of the Union Board to acquaint interested students with the "Messiah" in preparation for next week's Christmas concert.

The Oratorio Chorus and Symphony Orchestra will present Handel's "Messiah" at the annual Christmas concert Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

There is no admission charge for the concerts, but tickets will be required. White tickets for the Tuesday performance and green tickets for the Wednesday concert can be secured at the Information Desk in the South Lobby of the Union.

The "Messiah" was first performed in London in 1743. It passed unnoticed, however, until Handel agreed to let it be used for a charity performance.

"It has entertainment value, yes," said Moe, "but it also has a profound theological and religious meaning."

TWISTER TO WED—

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rock 'n' roll singer Chubby Checker Thursday announced his engagement to Catherina Lodders, a Dutch girl whose year-long reign as Miss World ended last month.

Checker, a Negro, is credited with inventing the dance craze, the twist.
