

Sulowan Tells of Panama Contrasts

By LINDA WEINER
Staff Writer

The planned United States-Panama discussion of the recent Canal Zone crisis may reduce tensions for awhile, but it will not solve the basic problem of antagonism, according to Elizabeth McClelland, NS, a resident of the Canal Zone for 16 years.

Miss McClelland, who spent Christmas vacation at her home in the Balboa district of the Zone, believes that the Panamanians resent the United States' presence in the Canal Zone.

"We Americans have a tendency to forget that we only lease the Zone, and that it doesn't belong to us," she explained. "We haven't been angels there, either," she added.

Miss McClelland described the situation in Panama proper as a contrast between "very rich and very poor." Most Panamanians live in shanties and can't even afford to get married because they can't buy a license, she related.

"I have heard of aid and farm equipment being sent to help the poor farmers," she stated, but they never seem to get to the people who need them. The upper classes seem to confiscate them."

Part of the Panamanian antagonism toward the Canal Zone is caused by the rich Panamanians, in her opinion. They resent the conditions of the lease and the poorer people have accepted their attitudes since they are loyal to their own.

Miss McClelland blamed the American students for creating the spark of last week's riots.

"Regardless of how patriotic they felt, they should have obeyed the law," she stated.

Miss McClelland's brother, who is a senior at Balboa High School where the riots began, wrote her that about 500 students had signed a petition that protested the removal of the American flag outside the school.

"There was no feeling that the Panamanian flag shouldn't be flown at equal height," she emphasized. "They just wanted the U.S. flag up."

Miss McClelland said that when she returned to Panama during vacation, both the U.S. flag and the Panamanian one were being flown at half mast in mourning for President Kennedy. After the mourning period ended, neither flag was flown outside the schools.

Miss McClelland, who talked to her parents long distance over the weekend, said that they had told her that the Panamanian students who had taken part in the riots were from the University of Panama.

Miss McClelland, whose home is three blocks from the Canal Zone border, has witnessed violence in Panama before.

"I've ridden to school while eggs were thrown at the school bus," she explained. "And we've had to hide in closets at home when there was shooting in the streets."

Miss McClelland's family will probably remain in the Zone. Her father is the director of the YMCA which is housing military personnel and visitors who cannot get out of the Zone now.

"It's hard to realize that the ballroom where I celebrated New Year's Eve is now filled with machine guns and artillery," she said.

Miss McClelland described the issue as a "precarious situation" that she is afraid will come to a boil again.

Blood Needed—

5 U.S. Men Killed In Viet Nam Scrap

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Five U.S. helicopter crewmen perished and three were wounded in supporting a massive Vietnamese attack Friday on Communist bases in the Mekong River delta. Hard fighting raged into the night.

Urgent appeals for blood donations were broadcast by the U.S. armed forces radio station as casualties poured into Saigon airport from the opening engagements of a campaign expected to last for several days.

Communist ground fire killed the first American 10 miles west of Can Tho, a river town 80 miles southwest of Saigon. He was a U.S. Army private first class, door gunner on an H21 troop-carrying helicopter. The helicopter was undamaged.

Down river, a rocket-firing UH1A escort helicopter disintegrated in a fiery explosion as it led an aerial strike against guerrilla foxholes. All five U.S. crewmen were killed.

Bearing thousands of pounds of fuel and ammunition, the turbine-powered helicopter appeared to have been hit by a Communist shell or heavy machine-gun slugs. It was one of the worst days of the war in U.S. helicopter operations. Many were badly damaged and had to be temporarily grounded.

The toll of American combat deaths since the United States stepped up its military support of South Viet Nam two years ago rose to 99. U.S. service deaths from all causes now total 173.

New Police Radar Foils 14 Speeders

Iowa City Police Department's new $945 radar unit is on the job and performing efficiently — so efficiently that 14 persons were ticketed for speeding Thursday night and Friday morning.

The unit, purchased about a week ago, was put to work for the first time Thursday night, according to Police Chief John J. Ruppert.

The unit is transistorized so it can be used in all weather. The old radar unit, which was not transistorized, will continue in operation.

Ruppert said the new unit can be operated from inside or outside a patrol car and is easier to set up and take down than the old unit.

GROWTH REMOVED — A non-malignant growth was removed from the throat of astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. — the first U.S. spaceman — in a 75-minute operation Friday.

WATER SCHEME — Kings and presidents, sheiks and strong men of 13 Arab states called Israel's Jordan water scheme a threat to world peace and vowed to oppose it under "the legitimate right of self-defense."

The leaders also pledged at the close of their five-day summit conference Friday to call off their respective propaganda attacks.

FOUND DEAD — The body of T. Sgt. Melvin Wooten, the fifth crew member of the B52 jet bomber that crashed near this western Maryland town Monday was found near Salisbury, Pa. late Friday.

Earlier in the week, two others were found dead. Two others escaped injury.

WAGES AND JOBS — Average weekly earnings of factory workers rose in December to $102, a new high, the Labor Department reported Friday. The November figure was $101.09.

STOP PRESS — President Johnson suspects the Federal Government may be publishing too many books, pamphlets, reports and other documents. At a Cabinet meeting Friday, Johnson ordered all departments to re-evaluate the number of documents they are issuing.

Fears Borneo Conflict May Blossom into War

TOKYO (AP) — President Johnson's fears that the jungle fighting in Borneo would flare into a major war within two months prompted him to dispatch Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy on his urgent peace mission to Tokyo, informed sources said today.

The sources reported that Kennedy expressed the U.S. concern over this grave possibility Friday in his first conversation with President Sukarno of Indonesia. The talks will resume today.

Kennedy will stress this eventuality in talks he will hold in the next few days with President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines in Manila, and Prime Minister Abdul Rahman of Malaysia in Kuala Lumpur.

THE BROTHER of the late President John F. Kennedy was said to be encouraged by his initial efforts to bring the three principals in the Malaysia crisis around the same table to settle their differences.

These same sources said the United States feels that hostilities between Indonesian-backed guerrillas and Malaysian troops must stop during any such meeting.

There have been bloody clashes this month along the frontiers of Indonesian Borneo and the neighboring Malaysian states of Sarawak and Sabah.

Indonesia has embarked upon a campaign to wreck the federation with trade boycotts and other measures. The Philippines claim Sabah and, like Indonesia, refuses to recognize Malaysia.

THOUGH GRATIFYING progress was reported in the first meeting with Sukarno in his Imperial Hotel suite, Kennedy is said to be anxious to iron out some complications standing in the way of a summit conference.

Though little has been written in recent weeks to indicate that the North Borneo fighting had reached a critical stage, the United States was portrayed as deeply concerned.

The original fears were expressed during a meeting of the National Security Council in Washington to which Kennedy was invited, informants said. He then was sounded out on his willingness, because of his earlier contacts with Sukarno, to undertake the mission.

Pope Paul Asks Catholics To Pray For Unity, Trip

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI urged all Roman Catholics on Friday to pray for Christian unity and to give thanks for his successful Holy Land pilgrimage.

In an apostolic letter of exhortation to his bishops, the 66-year-old Roman Catholic ruler said he considered his Jerusalem meeting with Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople a first step toward a united Christianity. The patriarch is spiritual leader of the Orthodox Church.

"Nothing will erase from our heart the memory of what we have seen and heard around us during those unforgettable days," the Pope told the bishops.

He said he wanted the entire Roman Catholic Church to be associated in "our thanks to God for the happy outcome of the pilgrimage." He asked that "in every parish church of your dioceses there be public services of thanks and good wishes."

Glenn To Vie For Senate In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., announced Friday he will be a candidate for the Ohio Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the May 5 primary.

The astronaut, 42, is pitting his strength against that of Democratic Sen. Stephen M. Young, a candidate for re-election. Young is 74.

Glenn, just short of two years ago, orbited the earth three times, the first American to make the big circle.

Both his wife, Anne, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr., were present when he said he will make the senatorial bid.

About 400 newsmen and well-wishers crowded the ballroom of a downtown Columbus hotel as Glenn made his candidacy public.

Young said he is in the race to stay and win.

Democrat Rep. Charles Vanik of Cleveland, said the office should not be made a hero's pawn and described Glenn as unprepared.

Rep. Wayne Hays, one of the most active Glenn boosters, described him as a sure winner in the Nov. 3 general election and hence a boon to Democratic party fortunes in Ohio — a state which the late President John F. Kennedy failed to carry in 1960.

Hays asserted Young is too old to carry the state this year.

In answer to questions, Glenn said he will leave his immediate campaigns in the hands of others until his Marine Corps retirement is effective. He said that might take several weeks.

Special Session To Begin Feb. 24

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Legislature will meet Feb. 24 in special session to begin what probably will be a bitter battle over reapportionment.

The date for the special session — first since 1947 — was set late Friday by Gov. Harold Hughes, who was complying with a

Can Pipe Smoking Cause Lip Cancer?

The mechanical injury to lip tissues which can accompany pipe smoking apparently can trigger the development of lip cancer much as irritation caused by poorly fitting dentures or rough edges on the teeth can lead to mouth cancer, says Dr. Alton K. Fisher of the SUI College of Dentistry.

Dr. Fisher is head of the Department of Stomatology, the study of diseases of the mouth.

There seems to be reasonable assurance that some inveterate pipe smokers who apparently have a tendency to cancer anyway will develop cancer of the lip if they habitually hold a pipe in the same position, Dr. Fisher explains.

The possibility exists, also, that the heat and constituents of smoke and continued contact with the pipe stem can cause cancer of the tongue, Dr. Fisher says, though this would be harder to establish, since the tongue moves around more and so would not be so vulnerable to continued irritation in the same spot.

Though organized studies in the relation of pipe smoking to mouth cancer have not been conducted, many instances of lip cancer at the site at which the patient held a pipe in his mouth have occurred, Dr. Fisher points out.

federal court ruling in which the legislature was ordered to reapportion itself.

The court said such action should be taken in time to allow candidates for office this year to run for election in the new districts.

Hughes said he hopes the legislature will be able to come up with an acceptable plan which meets court guidelines within a month, so the March 28 deadline for filing for office will not have to be set back.

Hughes said the special session should take up reapportionment and "other emergency matters."

In the formal proclamation calling the special session, Hughes said legislators should convene at 10 a.m.

THE GOVERNOR SAID legislators at the special session should "transact legislative business in keeping therewith as may come before the houses of the General Assembly, and such other emergency matters as are necessary to provide for continued operation of government" in Iowa until the next regular session.

The governor met with legislative leaders of both parties in a 55-minute meeting in his office in the morning in an attempt to reach a settlement on whether the special session should be restricted to dealing only with reapportionment.

Republicans and Democrats at the meeting agreed they would like to keep the session as short and simple as possible. But they refused to commit themselves to an agreement limiting the issues that could be taken up at the session.

HUGHES SAID HE would be willing to forego pressing for any special legislation during the session in order to keep costs down. But he said he did not plan to dictate to the legislature and realized that they could not speak for all members of their party.

There were attempts to agree that only reapportionment and non-controversial issues be taken up during the session, but the discussions faltered.

Several other questions concerning the special session were cleared up by Atty. Gen. Evan Hultman, who also attended the meeting.

Hultman, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, told Hughes that after announcing that a special session will be held he has to give only 10 days notice for special elections to fill two vacancies in the House.

THE ATTORNEY general also said that the court order makes it clear that populous counties cannot be divided into districts when more than one representative is elected in the county.

Hughes said he did not plan to invade the legislature's powers by recommending a new reapportionment plan of his own. However, he said he might spell out some guidelines to his thinking when he makes his opening speech to legislators at the start of the session.

P.E. Teachers Attend Clinic

Twenty-five Iowa physical education teachers will attend a half-day gymnastics clinic today sponsored by the Women's Physical Education Department of SUI.

The clinic is the first of a series offered to teachers in the state following recommendations of a national institute on girls' and women's sports in Norman, Okla., in November. The SUI clinic will feature active participation by those attending.

The purpose of the national institute, as well as the state clinics, is to improve instruction at the beginner and intermediate levels in the areas of girls' and women's sports.

Instructors from the SUI Women's Physical Education Department who will conduct classes in the clinic are Barbara Jensen, Dora Vandine, and Marcia Thayer. The afternoon's schedule will include a demonstration of beginner techniques on the balance team at 1 p.m., a demonstration of beginner techniques on the uneven parallel bars at 2 p.m., and a demonstration of dance as related to free exercise at 3 p.m.

Registration for the clinic will be at noon, and a social hour at 4 p.m. will close the program.

Government Ups Draft of Doctors

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department called Friday for drafting of 1,050 doctors for the Army, Navy and Air Force next summer.

"This call is necessary because insufficient numbers of 1963 medical school graduates volunteered for active duty immediately following internship," the department said.

Last summer, Selective Service moved to induct 1,350 doctors. Those to be called this year will enter active duty in the summer and most will serve as general duty medical officers.

Quad Buys Color TV

Quadrangle became the first dormitory at SUI to own a colored television when they installed the new set Friday afternoon.

According to Larry Crain, A4, Roseburg, Ore., a three-man committee made up of Bill Koellner, A3, Davenport; Bill Holtz, B4, Manchester; and Dick Neff, E4, North Muskegon, Mich., purchased the set after the Quadrangle Association council unanimously passed the purchase resolution at a meeting Monday, Jan. 13.

Picard Leaves by Air—

Zanzibar Frees U.S. Diplomat

ZANZIBAR (AP) — A special plane took U.S. Consul Frederick P. Picard to nearby Tanganyika on Friday after he was ordered out of the country by the new revolutionary regime.

Picard was accused of interfering in the internal affairs of this spice island, where the new regime imposed censorship on outgoing dispatches and tightened security measures.

Picard was arrested Thursday night during an argument with President Abeid Karume, who denounced the United States for failure to recognize the new regime.

He was marched out of a hotel with a gun at his back and put under house arrest. He was permitted to depart by chartered plane for Dar es Salaam, capital of Tanganyika.

London monitors recorded a Zanzibar broadcast from John Okello, the self-proclaimed strong man in the new government, denying reports he had taken over the presidency. "Abeid Karume is president and I am field marshal," said Okello.

The special session

THE IOWA LEGISLATURE has been directed to reappoint itself before the elections of 1964. This means that Iowans will have fairer representation in the next General Assembly which convenes in January of next year.

But immediately ahead of the Legislature is the prospect of a special session and many problems. A temporary reappointment plan that is acceptable to the U.S. District Court must come from the special session.

There is no problem in determining generally what the court wants. It said, "Any departure from a population basis in the other house shall be on a rational basis. Extreme departures from a population basis such as now exists in the General Assembly, or as were proposed under the Shaff Plan which was rejected, cannot be justified."

In other words, the Court stipulated that one house of any plan would have to be based on population and the other house — although it does not have to be completely based on population — must contain significant population factors.

However, the passage of a reappointment plan that is acceptable to the court will not be an easy one. Rural Legislators can be expected to write every area proposal into the new plan that has any chance of being accepted. The Farm Bureau, the state's most powerful lobby, has committed itself to getting all concessions it can for the rural segment of the population.

The haggling between the urban and rural forces — if it develops — is bound to take time. The problem is that the Legislature must pass a new plan before the final deadline for legislative candidates to file nomination papers. The deadline is Mar. 28, only a little over two months away. A possible solution to this is that the deadline could be postponed until the Legislature can come up with a new plan, but it can't be postponed forever since the primary election must also be held.

Being an election year also complicates the problem because both parties will be attempting to please Iowa voters. The party that has the best showing in the special session will obviously have some advantages in November's election.

The State also has other controversial issues which could creep into the special session if they are not limited by general agreement. The prison controversy, last summer's interim appointments to the Board of Control and the Highway Commission, and highway problems may cloud the reappointment issue.

Complicating the picture still further is the cost of a special session. Estimates set the cost to the State between $7,500 and $10,000 per day. Iowa already has financial problems and if a special session lasts too long, it could well become a burden on the State.

The problems facing the Legislature in the coming special session are many. The nature of the problems and the need to get quick action, not only because of the Court decree but also because of the financial situation, makes it completely mandatory that the Legislature act with judicious quality and speed. It is a big order. We hope it can be filled.

Glenn for senator?

NOW THAT JOHN GLENN HAS resigned as an astronaut, it is expected he will enter politics by running for a senatorial seat in Ohio on the Democratic ticket. This is expected even though the seat is now held by Sen. Stephen M. Young, a Democrat.

The question is raised why Glenn would be considered capable of winning the Democratic nomination from an incumbent. Earlier speculation about Glenn's political plans could not even predict with which party Glenn might affiliate since he was not even registered in a party.

His only qualification for office appears to be his tremendous popularity as a spaceman hero. Are these sufficient credentials for entering the Senate of the United States?

New registration great for buxom coeds

By JON VAN
Editorial Page Editor

On the local scene the powers that be have decreed registration revised. SU1ovans, eager for learning, will now be admitted to the Field House according to the last two digits of their student identification number. Previously they were admitted alphabetically.

Administrators hope the new system will maintain a "more consistent flow of students through the Field House." The ID number idea is also supposed to give students a better chance of registering first during their four years here.

Meanwhile the University of Wisconsin also has announced a new program. THE DAILY CARDINAL reports the primary innovation in registration procedures this semester is that all juniors, sophomores and freshmen will be put on one alphabetical list.

Freshmen with last names beginning in "A" will register Jan. 29 with anyone else, excluding seniors who will still register first, with a last name beginning with "A."

Why has this change been made? Wisconsin officials claim it will be more fair for the students and will make for a better distribution at registration.

Evidently there must be no set answer as to the best method of registering, but at least the coeds must be happy about SU1's new program. The campus police have instructions to allow any coeds with a 36-24-35 identification to be admitted immediately.

Remember the old days when recruiting on college campuses meant football coaches going out and seeking to attract young moose to supplement the grid organization? How much the term has grown in meaning today.

THE COACHES STILL go out and try to convince athletes to enroll in their schools (just as the NCAA), but now more tricks have been added. Scientists like James Van Allen also go out and recruit; like asking NASAs to build things around the campus.

At some schools, like Indiana University, the president of the school has even gone all out for a "recruiting" program. Indiana's president, Elvis Stahr, is going to meet with the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission in an effort to have an atomic accelerator built in the Midwest.

THIS NEW competition among universities for Government funds and projects has certainly modified the role of university president. They are all becoming well acquainted with techniques involving in persuasion and lobbying; a large portion of time is necessarily devoted to this.

Moxie in Federal spending is becoming such an important part of being a university president that it's rumored Bobby Baker is under strong consideration as a replacement for Virgil Hancher next summer.

Most Ohio State coeds apparently agree that a beard doesn't add much to a man's charm. A survey the Ohio State girls have shown that many prefer men whose faces they can see.

"I remember seeing a bearded man at a party," commented one coed. "It seemed that he was trying to get the attention of any girl in sight, but with little success. The beard had obviously interfered with his eating and drinking."

Ah, but if the man had little success in attracting attention, why was the coed able to remember so well his eating and drinking habits?

OHIO STATE, in addition to having sloppy beard eaters, has also been having its share of political action recently. The student body president, H.

P. Schwitzgebel, told the 40-member student senate it should be replaced — with a smaller 15-member council. Schwitzgebel called the present senate unwieldy and cumbersome.

It's expected the senate will immediately respond to Schwitzgebel's request for consolidation — by firing him and getting a president named Jones. Someone whose speeches are few and far between.

Making a prisoner a useful citizen

By JOE LIPPINCOTT
Chief Photographer

"People can change." Benjamin F. Baer, director of Iowa's correctional institutions, believes this. He also believes the state penal system can go a long way to make an offender into a useful citizen.

Baer told the Des Moines professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic society, Thursday night that "the basic responsibility" of Iowa prisons is the protection of society. "We must have a positive program focused on the offender as an individual," he said. "We can't ignore security, but security isn't an end."

"The individual, when released, must be trained so he can attempt to solve his problems in a socially accepted manner," Baer noted that 98 per cent of the inmates in Iowa's prisons are eventually released.

BAER SAID a man goes to prison, as, not for punishment. Prison personnel must understand, then train the prisoner. "This is a difficult assignment to carry out," he added.

The director said this philosophy, adopted by the Iowa Board of Control, is based on the theory of crime causation. "We believe in the multiple causation theory," he told the journalists. "A man is born neither good nor bad." Baer holds a bachelor's degree in sociology from San Diego State College and a master's degree from the University of Southern California.

A man grows up according to whether his basic needs are met or not met, Baer said, and "criminal behavior is a way of adjusting to internal and/or external pressures." Baer compared it to other maladies such as high blood pressure and weight gain.

THE DIRECTOR of Iowa's prison system said his philosophy basically is a "belief in the dignity and worth of every human being, no matter what he has done."

While rehabilitation is a main aim of the prison system, Baer emphasized that Iowa's approach should in no way be interpreted as coddling, which he defined as "pampering or spoiling."

Baer acknowledged that coddling can occur and gave examples such as custodial personnel allowing open gambling when it is against the law, allowing bartering or trading, and allowing favored inmates to receive special treatment or special clothing.

Coddling is not scientific diagnosis, Baer said. Coddling is not evaluation of each prisoner, development of a classification system, implementing constructive work programs and skills to make prisoners more employable when released, teaching illiterates to read and write, or allowing inmates to work for and receive high school diplomas in prison, he added.

THE ESSENTIALS of a good treatment program, according to Baer, are:

• Effective custodial operation that must safely keep prisoners sent to the institutions. He said this requires well-organized and well-disciplined custodial personnel who must be firm, fair and consistent. They must show a responsibility to the prisoner as a person and a human being. The conduct of custodial personnel is important, Baer added. A training program is vital. "We've started, but we have a long way to go."

• Diagnostic processing. "We don't need a separate center in Iowa for diagnosis," Baer pointed out that it is important to "search for the causes behind the social behavior of the individual" sent to prison. By so doing, Baer said, each man can be trained according to his abilities and potential.

• Education is essential, for men sent to prison are characteristically "retarded educationally," although as a group they are not deficient in intelligence. In many instances, Baer said, there just hasn't been an opportunity for proper education.

"Educational and vocational training programs are more and more important," he noted, adding that most prisoners are unskilled when they arrive to serve time. Such programs, he said, should include recreation to "take steam off" while the men are incarcerated. And he noted there is some carry over value as well.

• Work habits and work skills also are important in prison life, Baer pointed out, saying there is a strong industries program at Ft. Madison and Anamosa that employs most of the inmates and eliminates most idleness. Idleness, said Baer, in prison management's biggest problem.

• Psychological improvement and case work must be furnished to the individual prisoner, Baer said, because "when released, a man usually fails in his leisure time, not when he's busy." Baer said the failure occurs because the former prisoner can't face his problems. While such circumstances aren't 100 per cent solved yet, Baer noted the religious programs at the state institutions are important, and emphasized that the prisons have excellent chaplains.

The goal, he said, should be a "therapeutic community" — everyone knows where we're trying to go. "But, he cautioned, "We're a long way from reaching that point."

• Another essential, according to the state penal director, is "dynamic leadership by the heads of the institutions." The wardens, he said, are responsible to receive, safeguard, and rehabilitate inmates. "They must create an atmosphere for all elements to integrate into a cohesive staff working to improve the inmates," and stressed, "The job is a difficult one."

Crime is increasing, Baer said, but Iowa is below the national average. The crime rate nationally is 1,100 per 100,000 population in Iowa, the rate is only 544 per 100,000.

TV Proves Satisfactory Aid In Dental Education at SUI

This is the third of four articles dealing with educational television at SUI. Today Reporter Neyses discusses educational TV and its impact on the College of Dentistry. Tuesday he will conclude with a discussion of television in the College of Medicine.

By HARRY NEYSES
Staff Writer

SUI's first attempt at splitting a large, lecture-size class into small discussion groups by means of television was started in 1955. This involved a class in "Comparative Foreign Government" conducted by the Department of Political Science.

But the Colleges of Dentistry and Medicine have been the prime exploiters of classroom television techniques.

Television has proven itself to be a very satisfactory audio-visual aid in dentistry, commented Dr. George S. Easton, dean of the College of Dentistry.

THE PROBLEM in dentistry is that many demonstrations encompass relatively small areas and students must see quite fine detail.

Before television facilities were installed in dentistry four years ago, students had to crowd around an instructor, who was performing oral surgery or making a denture. Then only those in front were able to see adequately.

W. I. Hetherington, audio-visual co-ordinator in the College of Dentistry, explained that before television was in use a particular demonstration had to be repeated 10 to 11 times, before groups of from four to five persons.

A disadvantage of this method, besides the time it involved, is that no two demonstrations are exactly alike, Hetherington said.

A SMALL "STUDIO" has been set up in the Dental Building where dental operations and other demonstrations can be performed. These are picked up by a television camera and viewed on monitors in the lecture room two floors below.

The students are in contact with the demonstrator, or with another faculty member in the studio, by means of a two-way audio communication system. There is always a moderator in the room with the students to make further explanation or answer the students' questions.

The demonstrator can have the camera move in for a closer view or a view from a different angle to clarify points which the students may not understand.

RECENTLY, Hetherington said, a direct cable connection was made with the video tape recorder in the Television Center. This makes feasible the recording of a surgical procedure on a tape which can be played back for students at a later time.

Tapes made so far have been erased because they had served their usefulness, Hetherington said. "It is possible, however, to have a library of tapes." In the future there may be an exchange of tapes between SUI and other dental colleges and institutions, he added.

"A TELEPHOTO lens is used on the television camera to get a picture of the oral cavity," Hetherington explained. "The television screen is thus filled with an image of the patient's oral cavity."

The dentist performing the demonstration wears a microphone strapped around his neck in order to communicate with the students. "Because the television lights radiate so much heat, the studio must be air-conditioned."

"AN OCCASIONAL disadvantage of our present television equipment is the lack of color," Hetherington remarked. "An inflamed area of gum tissue for instance is difficult to show with black and white television."

The use of color television, however, is out of the question for the present because of its expense.

Hetherington said. "We do not expect visual aids to replace instructors," he said. "Visuals are used only to make instruction more effective."

IN ANOTHER section of the Dental Building, television is used in yet another way. This is in a large laboratory where beginning students learn about dental bridges, how to carve tooth models, and acquire manual dexterity essential for delicate dental work.

Formerly students were required to shift their attention constantly from their own work to the demonstration or diagrams shown by the instructor. This was inefficient for the students who were at a distance from the instructor.

Now, with television, the instructor focuses the camera upon his demonstration or upon diagrams which he has on the blackboard. Students can easily see on any one of six large television receivers spaced along one wall of the laboratory.

One of the most interesting applications of television in dentistry is in the Senior Clinical Seminar, which was started in September, 1962.

According to Dr. Easton, a senior dental student is assigned a case while he is serving in the Oral Diagnosis Clinic. The case may have a variety of possible treatments.

AFTER THE student has studied the case, completed his diagnosis, and decided on a treatment plan, he presents his conclusions before a lecture-group of students and a panel of dentists.

"Sometimes the conditions within the oral cavity of the patient are televised to the classroom," Dr. Easton said. "In all cases, television is used to show the student's laboratory reports, study models and x-rays."

The College of Dentistry now has one laboratory and one lecture room equipped for television, Dr. Easton said. "Soon we hope to equip an even larger lecture room which will accommodate more students."

Dr. Robert M. Kretschmar, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology, Friday was named to head the Cancer Crusade in Johnson County. The Crusade, now being organized, will be held in April.

As an American Cancer Society Fellow working under an educational grant, Dr. Kretschmar has done cancer research at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Kretschmar expressed pleasure in the "very definite and positive stand" taken by the government committee which evaluated possible harmful relationships between smoking and health.

The newly released information could be the basis for more unbiased reports and future legislation regarding education to smoking dangers.

Volunteers for the Cancer Crusade should contact Dr. Kretschmar, 8-0987, Mrs. Paul Helt, 8-2975, local American Cancer Society head.

Hawks Meet Boilermakers Today

Iowa's Hawkeyes, after a week-end which dropped them to seventh in the Big Ten conference and a week of practice which Coach Sharm Scheuerman called "good and spirited," will attempt to get back in the win column today when they meet Purdue at Lafayette, Ind., at 1 p.m.

Purdue has won only one of its last nine games and has a 3-8 record for the season compared to Iowa's 6-5. The Boilermakers are 6-2 in conference play, losing to Minnesota, 97-93, and to third-ranked Michigan, 77-70. Scheuerman, commenting that Iowa is in a slump and needs a win badly, contributes most of the Hawkeyes' troubles in the 87-70 loss to Illinois and 79-61 loss to Wisconsin to poor shooting. Iowa field goal shooting has fallen off from 45 per cent in the 72-71 win over Indiana to 38 per cent for the season. The Hawkeye offensive average is now 72.5 points per game and the defensive average 74.3.

Only one lineup change is anticipated for the Hawks. Although George Peoples is listed as a probable starter at center, Scheuerman said that it is a toss-up between the 6-8 sophomore and 6-9 senior Bill Skea.

Scheuerman, commenting that Iowa is in a slump and needs a win and Dave Roach, Iowa's three top scorers, are certain to start and Dennis Pauling "probably will" according to the Iowa coach.

Sophomore Dave Schellhase has averaged 19.6 points per game to lead Purdue scorers. Doug Trudeau, 6-7 sophomore forward, and Earl Brown, 6-7 junior center, are the other starters for the Boilermakers.

After today's game, the Hawkeyes will not play again until after semester exams when they meet defending national champion, Loyola of Chicago, at Chicago Stadium Feb. 1.

guards Mel Garland, who earned all-Big Ten honors last year, and Bob Purkhiser. Both are averaging in double figures for the season.

Finley Confident He'll Win Court Battle for A's Move

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles O. Finley, overwhelmingly defeated in an effort to move his Kansas City baseball franchise to Louisville, expressed confidence Friday he will win the battle in court.

"I don't enjoy these fights, but I feel confident everything will turn out well," said the Athletics' owner, whose request to transfer his club was turned down by the American League by a 9-1 vote Thursday night.

"I am confident I can win," Finley added, "but in some ways even if I beat them I lose because baseball loses and I'm part of baseball. But I'll sacrifice to straighten some of these things out."

Finley was to meet with his attorneys here Friday night to discuss what legal action will be taken.

"I was hurt inside and I was trying to hide it," he explained. "I didn't think they would do this to me."

Meanwhile, Mayor Ius Davis of Kansas City, extended to Finley the right to occupy Municipal Stadium until midnight, Jan. 31, on a rent-free basis.

—Grapplers after Third Win— Parker vs. Kennedy Tops Iowa-Gopher Tilt

Coach Dave McCuskey's Hawkeye grapplers try for their third dual meet of the season today when they meet Minnesota as the Iowa swimmers, gymnasts and wrestlers invade Gopherland.

The featured match of the meet will be between Norm Parker, Iowa's 137-pounder who was Big Ten champ at 123 pounds in 1962, and Lew Kennedy, who won the 130-pound title from Parker by forfeit last year when the Hawkeye wrestler was forced out of the championship match by a shoulder separation.

Parker will be trying for his 17th dual meet win and his first over Kennedy in three meetings.

The Gopher squad has only three returning lettermen, Don Henry at 123 pounds, Kennedy and Charles Quaday at 147 pounds.

Henry will probably meet Morris Barnhill, who replaced Tom Bowman in the 123-pound class against Wisconsin last week, and won by forfeit.

Quaday will meet Iowa's sophomore Wilbur Devine at 147 pounds.

Other Hawkeyes who will be probable starters in today's matches are: Bill Fuller at 130 pounds; Joe Greenlee at 157 pounds; Jay Roberts at 167; Mel Wieland at 177 and Roger Schilling in the heavyweight match.

Balanced Scoring Gives U-High Win

U-High combined a balanced scoring attack with four men in double figures to defeat Solon, 61-60, Friday night and even its season record at 5-5.

Steve Koser had 18 for the Bluehawks, followed by Skip Johnson with 17, Karl Hickerson with 16, and Joel Michaelson with 11.

U-High had little trouble in handing Solon its tenth defeat of the season against no wins as the Bluehawks took a 10-8 lead midway in the first quarter and widened their lead throughout the game.

Solon's leading scorer and only man in double figures was Randy Phillips with 14.

DOUGLAS TRADED

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs sent defenseman Kent Douglas, last year's National Hockey League Rookie of the Year, to the Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League Friday night.

Arnie Brown of the Americans was called up as a replacement in a move to strengthen the Leafs' defensive platoon.

Douglas has been instructed to play himself back into condition at Rochester.

Eight Track Stars Head L.A. Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A high-powered array of more than six dozen athletes, including eight major record holders, competes in the Los Angeles Invitational track and field meet tonight.

Among the principals: IN THE POLE VAULT — John Pannel of Northeast Louisiana, the only man to clear 17 feet, against five other vaulters who have done 16 feet or better.

IN THE 60-YARD DASH — Bob Hayes of Florida A&M against Herb Carper of the University of California at Santa Barbara. Hayes holds the 100-yard dash record of :09.1 and Carper shares the indoor 60-yard dash record of :06.0. Nine others are entered.

IN THE 500-YARD DASH — Adolph Plummer of the Los Angeles Striders, holder of the world record of :44.9 in the 440, against AAU quarter-mile champion Uis Williams of Arizona State and two others.

IN THE TWO-MILE RUN — Gaston Roelants of Belgium, holder of the world 3,000-meter steeple-chase record of 8:29.6, against Costa Rica's Julio Marin and four others.

The eighth record holder in the meet is decathlon champion C. K. Yang of Pasadena, AA. He will compete in only one event, the pole vault.

The pole vault field includes John Uelses of LaSalle and Ron Morris of the Striders.

AMERICAN BOXERS LOSE — HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The Finnish national boxing team defeated an American team, 6-4, Friday night.

The American boxers represented the U.S. Armed Forces in Stuttgart, West Germany.

Tankers Look For First Win At Minnesota

Iowa's swimmers are still looking for their first win of the season against three losses as they battle Minnesota at Minneapolis today.

Last weekend, junior diver Michel LeVois was the Hawkeyes' only winner as they lost to Michigan State. Coach Bob Allen hopes that Ralph Laughlin, Gary Grey, Craig Nichols, Joe Roseman and Bill Sjostrom can come through against the Gophers, rated as one of the first division teams in the conference.

Leading Minnesota will be Wally Richardson, holder of the Big Ten, NCAA and American record in both the 100-yard and 200-yard butterfly events. Only a junior, Richardson trimmed three seconds from the American 200-yard butterfly record and more than a second off the American mark in the 100-yard butterfly during the Big Ten meet last March.

Thirteen lettermen are returning to provide the Gophers exceptional strength in the relay events, butterfly, breaststroke and sprints. Their chief weaknesses are in diving and the distance events.

Gailis, Hery Lead Iowa Gymnasts at Minnesota

The Hawkeye gymnasts, who won their first dual meet of the season from Michigan State last weekend, meet Minnesota at Minneapolis today. Iowa Coach Dick Holzhaepfel, who praised the Minnesota mentor Ralph A. Piper as one "who has probably forgotten more than I'll ever know about gymnastics," forecasts a "good, exciting meet."

Balding Still Leads After 2nd Round Of Crosby Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Foreigners grabbed off the first two spots at the midway point in Bing Crosby's $60,000 golf tournament Friday with Canadian Al Balding firing his second par-shattering round — a 67 — for a 36-hole total of 133.

Three strokes back in second place was Australia's Bruce Devlin, 26-year-old French open champion who shot a 67 second round to go with Thursday's 69.

Five strokes off the Canadian PGA champion's pace at 138 were Tony Lama of San Leandro, Calif.; Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., and Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., the lowest shooters among Uncle Sam's huge contingent.

Arnold Palmer, with a 73 Friday, and Jack Nicklaus with another 70, were a dozen strokes off Balding's blistering pace.

The Canadian fired a 66 at Cypress Point and followed with his 67 at Monterey Peninsula Country Club, both par 72 layouts.

Today will be the 39-year-old Balding's toughest test — Pebble Beach with national television in attendance and blustery weather forecast. All the leaders will be at the long oceanside course.

John Miller Sets Scoring Record; Regina Wins, 88-49

John Miller captured two individual scoring records and the Regina Regals set another one as Cedar Rapids Prairie fell to southeastern Iowa's third-rated club, 88-49, here Friday night.

Miller scored 40 points breaking Larry Rogers' 34 set in 1961. His point total came on 18 field goals and four free throws with the field goal total breaking the mark of 15 made by Bob Panther in 1960. The only other Regal to hit in double figures was Ron Miller with 10, but between them it was enough to hand the Hawks their eighth defeat in ten starts.

Jim Voigt with 17, Jeff Schulte with 16 and Lon Scriven with 10 were the only Hawks to hit in double figures with three more players adding two each.

Regina led only 5-3 with 5:45 left in the first quarter as both teams started slow. Miller started getting hot scoring 16 points in the first quarter and Regina led 19-5 with two minutes left in the quarter and continued to race to a 29-10 lead at the end of the quarter.

Miller scored 11 in the second period with Prairie picking up eight and the Regals found themselves with a 47-18 halftime lead.

The third quarter was the only period in which Prairie was able to score more than 10 points picking up 22, but still the Regals outscored them with 24.

Heinsohn, Brown in Rift Over NBA Pension Plan

BOSTON (AP) — Walter Brown, president of the suddenly unhappy Boston Celtics, and Tommy Heinsohn emerged from a meeting Friday still at odds over player efforts to get a National Basketball Association pension plan.

The rift between the owner of the five-time world champions and one of his biggest stars followed a delay of Tuesday night's 14th NBA All-Star game while the players met with league President Walter Kennedy. Heinsohn is president of the players' association.

After the 25-minute, closed-door encounter in Brown's office, he said: "I have nothing to say. Nothing has changed. Heinsohn didn't tell me anything I didn't already know."

"I'm burned up and I'm sore about it. 'IT WAS A FINE WAY for any of my players to treat me. My first obligation is to those people up in the seats.'"

Brown said he did not plan to fine Heinsohn or seek punitive league action.

"Heaven knows we've had enough grief lately," Brown said. "Brown's statement apparently indicated he had no intention of withdrawing an earlier remark that 'Heinsohn is the No. 1 heel in my long association with sports.'"

HEINSOHN explained the player representatives have a chance to get together only at All-Star time and that their intention was to meet with the board of governors before the game to discuss the pension plan.

Heinsohn said they were denied such a meeting and had to settle for a dressing room huddle with Kennedy, which delayed the game 15 minutes. Kennedy promised to bring the pension matter up at a meeting of the owners and to seek its approval.

Heinsohn, looking frustrated and puffing on a cigarette, said: "I think the most unfortunate part of the whole thing is that it happened here in Boston and happened to Mr. Brown, one of the owners who has been behind our organization 100 per cent. In fact, he even dug down into his own pocket to help us sound advice."

"THE WHOLE thing was not directed at him as an individual. It was directed at the league in general."

The bone of contention for the players is a proposal made and approved by Detroit Pistons owner Fred Zollner two years ago.

"DIFFERING GREATLY from pro baseball and football plans, it called for 30-year endowment life insurance policies of $2,000 face value and $1,000 annual premiums, with the player and the owner contributing $500 each year the player was in the league."
