Mazzilli Replaces Goulart in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Ousted President Joao Goulart, abandoning his vow to fight to the death, fled into exile Thursday night in a finale of Brazil's anti-Communist revolution.

Hours after his announced departure from Porto Alegre in Brazil's deep south, however, there was no firm announcement of his arrival abroad. Dignitaries, police and a growing crowd awaited him at the airport in Montevideo, Uruguay.

A Montevideo news agency reported that Goulart stopped at his ranch estate on the Uruguayan border.

MORE THAN a million Brazilians poured through Rio de Janeiro's main street in tumultuous celebration of Goulart's downfall and victory for politico-military leaders who acted to prevent a Cuban-style takeover.

Congress, early Thursday morning, had sworn in Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, president of the Chamber of Deputies, as his successor. Goulart's last redoubt in the southern state of Rio Grande do Sul, where he was born 47 years ago, apparently collapsed under relentless pressure from the generals who launched the uprising Tuesday.

IN A VOICE choked with emotion, Mayor Sereno Chaise de Porto Alegre announced over the radio that Goulart and a party of 15 had left, that resistance was all over and told the people to go home.

Informants in Porto Alegre, Rio Grande do Sul's capital, said it was believed Goulart knew he faced a debacle and decided to leave to prevent bloodshed.

With the first rebel columns from the north marching in triumph through Rio de Janeiro, the rebel generals announced they had arrested the Third Army's commander in Porto Alegre, where Goulart took refuge early Thursday.

The attorneys for the appellees won the argument. They were: Wallace B. Reed, L3, Waterloo, and Terry D. Loesch, L3, Spencer. They argued against the attorneys for the appellant who were Boyd R. Critz III, L3, Clinton, and Robert W. Drall, L3, Hills.

The Order of Coif initiates and Annual Awards were presented Thursday morning. The nine persons named to the Order of the Coif, chosen from the top 10 per cent of the senior graduating class, were presented by Shirley A. Webster, Honorary Initiator. They are:

Charles W. Ehrhardt, Elkader; Richard P. Giova, Lakewood, Colo.; John W. Larson, Iowa City; Robert J. Paulsen, Iowa City; Wallace B. Reed, Waterloo; Lehan J. Ryan, Des Moines; John D. Shors, Pochontas; Stuart G. Webb, Iowa City; and Joe W. Williams, Ames.

Red Showdown Asked

Vote Sets Compromise On House Measure

DES MOINES (AP) — By a 26-24 vote Thursday, the Iowa Senate turned down the House version of a permanent reapportionment plan, sending the measure to a conference committee.

By its vote, the Senate refused to accept changes made in the House on the size of the membership in that body.

The House passed its version Wednesday, calling for 112 House members when the permanent plan takes effect. After 1970, the legislature would reapportion itself to provide a House of up to 115 members.

Senate and House presiding officers named conference committees, but the end of the long session was not in sight.

There was no disagreement over a 47-member Senate as originally provided by that chamber.

Several senators objected that the House version called for some House districts to be twice as large as others.

THE SENATE passed an amended version calling for a different arrangement of the lower chamber Thursday afternoon.

The House immediately rejected this by a unanimous vote.

That gave the measure back to the Senate, which sent it to a conference committee by refusing to accede.

Another major area of disagreement was whether county lines could be crossed in setting up the new legislative districts. The Senate version allowed this but the House would prohibit it.

The measures also differed in their provisions for creating sub-districts within districts electing more than one legislator.

MAJORITY Leader Robert Rigger (R-New Hampton) filed the Senate amendment which the House rejected.

Sen. Jack Schroeder (R-Bettendorf) said there was so much disparity between districts in the House plan that "this reapportionment plan cannot be defended before any person or any court."

SEN. ROBERT FULTON (D-Waterloo) suggested that the Legislature, weary after wrestling with the issue for six weeks, go home now and let the 1965 legislative attempt the task of permanent reapportionment.

Sen. Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque) urged the Senate to reject the House version, "admittedly an unsensible plan."

Sen. Kenneth Benda (R-Hartwig), asked, "How can we explain to the people back home that we passed something even we don't like?"

SEN. D. C. NOLAN (R-Iowa City) who voted for the House version, said he believed the Federal courts which ordered reapportionment would accept the plan, particularly if the voters approve it.

Sen. David O. Shaff (R-Clinton) said the House version would be rejected by the 1965 legislature, the courts and the voters.

Garbage Pickup For Greeks Still Being Reviewed

A decision on whether or not the city will begin pickup of fraternity and sorority garbage is pending the outcome of a "really thorough study" currently being conducted, City Manager Carsten Leikvold said Thursday.

Leikvold said the City is not prejudiced against fraternities and sororities but that a study of the situation must be made "from stem to stern" to determine the fairness of the service for Greeks.

The study was begun in January and was supposed to last about a month, at which time Leikvold said he would present alternative solutions to the City Council.

At that time Leikvold gave a lack of funds as the reason the Greeks were not afforded the service. He has given no reason for the delay in ending the study.

Leikvold said the study was triggered by a letter from the members of Phi Beta Pi fraternity asking why they didn't get the service.

At the present time, the city does not furnish pickup service for boarding houses or commercial establishments, according to Leikvold. He said the service is granted primarily to private residences.

Mrs. Peabody Released

Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, 72-year-old mother of the governor of Massachusetts, greets her son, Rev. George Peabody, an Episcopal rector in New York State, after court Thursday. At the hearing, U.S. Dist. Judge Bryan Simpson refused to take charge of the cases lodged against Mrs. Peabody and 284 other civil rights demonstrators. In making his decision, Judge Simpson disagreed with the demonstrators' contention that they could not receive a fair trial in St. Augustine. In another action, Judge Simpson refused the appeal of Mrs. Peabody and two other New England church women to stop the St. Augustine Police Department from using dogs to break up integration demonstrations. —AP Wirephoto

Russ Call Chinese Reds 'Demagogues'

MOSCOW (Friday) (AP) — Bitter Russian Communists today called the Red Chinese "the main danger to unity of the world Communist movement" and called for a showdown meeting of all party members that could lead to a formal split between the two powerful nations.

But they added hope that a solution to the ideological controversy plaguing the two countries in recent years.

A bitter 10,000-word official party statement published in Pravda charged the Chinese with trying to split the world's Communists and also alienate the Soviet people from the Communist party and its leader — Premier Khrushchev.

"Our party favors convening the next meeting of fraternal parties in order to discuss the basic problems of our time and to hold the broadest possible exchange of opinions in the interest of surmounting the difficulties that have arisen in the Communist movement," the statement said.

IT SET NO date but diplomatic speculation was for April 17 — Khrushchev's 70th birthday.

"No matter how great the difficulties experienced by the world Communist movement, the Central Committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union is certain that it will be strong enough to surmount them and to cement its ranks in the struggle for the great Communist cause," the statement declared.

"THERE IS no longer any doubt," the statement said, "that Peking is steering a course towards a split among the Communist parties, towards the setting up of factions and groups hostile to Marxism-Leninism."

It charged the Chinese were trying to subvert the national liberation movements in developing countries to China's "great power, egotistical interests."

"Unscrupulous demagoguery and slander" were the tools it said the Chinese used.

The wording throughout was of unprecedented bitterness.

PUBLICATION of the statement signaled the Kremlin's resumption of public polemics with Peking and indicated the Soviets had given up any attempt at compromise.

Reports have spread in diplomatic circles that the Russians want the Chinese read out of the movement and banished to a communist limbo.

The last time the Kremlin forced such a denunciation on the rest of the world's Communists was when — under Stalin — it ousted Yugoslav President Tito and his League of Communists. This was a failure and Moscow had to retreat and make friends with Belgrade again.

In commending the work of SUT's Student Association on Racial Equality, the Rev. L. D. Soens, chairman of the Commission, said, "We highly endorse the work of SARE on campus this year. They have been a very active organization."

More Rain Seen In Iowa City Today

A shade of green appearing in Iowa City lawns as spring showers Thursday washed away the remnants of snow and temperatures climbed into the 70's.

The forecast for today is cloudy with occasional rain, with temperatures in the 60's.

Showers and storms covered most of Iowa Thursday, with high winds in some places.

Will To Live' MacArthur's Key Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "strong will to live" marks General of the Army Douglas MacArthur's life and death struggle at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The 84-year-old warrior was listed as conscious but under sedation late Thursday.

Brig. Gen. Henry S. Murphy, hospital commander, said MacArthur's heart, constitution and "his will to live" have helped MacArthur withstand the rigors and complications of three major operations within the past month.

Lt. Col. Edward Costello, information chief at the hospital, told newsmen that MacArthur's blood pressure and pulse were reported satisfactory. Asked what this meant, doctors would say only that they were within normal range, considering age and sedation.

Costello said the five-star general sometimes lapses into sleep, but not into unconsciousness.

He is able to converse normally, Costello said, although with some difficulty due to a tube inserted in his esophagus.

Since his last emergency operation on Easter Sunday morning, MacArthur has received three or four pints of blood.

LIQUOR DISCOUNTS — A resolution directing the Iowa Liquor Control Commission to consider granting discounts to operators of liquor-by-the-drink establishments was referred to the Tax Revision Commission by the Iowa House Thursday on a 51-44 vote. The resolution urges granting of discounts of up to 10 percent.

HOFFA ASSOCIATE INDICTED — Charles L. O'Brien, close associate of Teamsters' President James R. Hoffa, was indicted Thursday in Chattanooga, Tenn., for offering $25,000 to a member of the jury which recently convicted Hoffa of jury tampering.

ALASKA QUAKE DAMAGE — Landslides triggered by last Friday's earthquake in Alaska were the principal cause of damage in Anchorage, the Geological Survey reported Thursday. A three-man team sent to Anchorage reported the area around Anchorage simply "slumped."

NIXON IN SOUTH VIET NAM — Richard M. Nixon declared on a visit to the Communist-infested Mekong River delta Thursday that South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed war on Communist guerrillas is a venture "designed to succeed — it must succeed." Officially on a world business tour, Nixon said his major impression since he arrived Wednesday was "the complexity of the battle."

RIGHTS BILL BACKER — Sen. Gaylor Nelson (D-Wis.), a backer of the House-passed civil rights bill, said Thursday his side has "been too content to rest on the moral correctness of our position." As a result he said proponents of the bill are "too poorly prepared to fight a defensive war on the line-by-line details of this bill" to counter what he called "false propaganda" spread by foes of the measure.

SARE Members Describe A 'Greenwood Vacation'

The Student Association on Racial Equality (SARE) heard talks at its meeting Thursday night from several SARE representatives who spent their spring vacations working on the civil rights movement in Greenwood, Mississippi.

Eleven SARE members went to Greenwood in two shifts, the first group arriving the morning of March 21. The second contingent arrived the following Thursday.

The SARE participants reported that they spent most of their time in Greenwood cataloging some of the 50,000 books sent there last February. They did not reveal the exact numbers of books cataloged. They also told of attending mass rallies organized by the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), and helping SNCC organize a Negro voting registration project called "Freedom Week."

Describing problems encountered by participants, Edward Spannaus, A2, Elmhurst, Ill., said "Greenwood is a rough place for a Negro to live."

Spannaus continued saying that police harassment of the SARE workers was immediate and continuous. The only place the group felt safe, he added, was in the Negro community where they were "warmly accepted."

Andris Raitis, A3, Marion, the leader of the first group to go, called the problems in Greenwood "pathetic, sometimes funny, and often terrible."

Following the slides, Mike Kenney, G, San Francisco, Calif., SARE's president, announced several new projects for the remainder of the semester. Among them were a "Fast for Freedom Day," when students will be asked to give up one meal and contribute 50 cents to SARE and a sale of song books containing Negro protest songs.

No pictures allowed— even at mock trial

SUI OBSERVED Law Day Thursday. One of the highlights was the presentation of cases by selected law students to the nine visiting justices of the Iowa State Supreme Court. This was, at most, a mock court. Yet, photography of the proceedings was prohibited.

When permission was asked to photograph a student delivering his address to the court, it was refused on the grounds that "it would disrupt this court."

While lawyers may be opposed to photography in actual courtrooms during actual trials, and while the mock court could be considered a private university class where photography can be prohibited at the discretion of whoever is in charge, there is another concept to be considered. It's called cooperation.

The Daily Iowan tries to give all schools and all phases of the University the coverage they deserve and request. But when it is hampered by archaic principles, it cannot fulfill its duty.

There is no picture of the Law Day mock court proceedings in today's Daily Iowan. The members of the law profession stuck by their outdated principles, and undoubtedly further instilled these outdated principles into a new crop of lawyers — SUI law students who were observers in the courtroom during the mock trial.

There exists a stodgy, outdated concept about photography in courtrooms. It stems from the period prior to the Depression, when photographers were burdened with large cameras, films relatively insensitive to light, and necessarily, the abundant use of flash powder — grimy, dirty stuff that filled a room with a choking pall of black smoke.

This is 1964, however, and times have changed. No longer are cameras large, no longer are films relatively insensitive to light, and no longer is flash powder used to compensate for all of the old-time shortcomings of photography. Today, pictures can be taken without the use of flash almost anywhere the human eye can see.

Unfortunately, the American Bar Association and most of its members do not seem to have awakened to this revolution in photography. For, today, courts — with very few exceptions — still stick to the old rule against visual reporting — no pictures in courtrooms — known as Canon 35. Some judges even extend this to entire court-houses, some even to prohibiting pictures of principles involved in court action anywhere.

The National Press Photographers Association has been battling this stigma against its profession since its inception, and with few breakthroughs.

The logical approach to erasing this major barrier in news reporting is to demonstrate to the up and coming lawyers — those still in law school — that Canon 35 is archaic and overly-restrictive. While courtrooms certainly can't be made into circus arenas, as many lawyers charge they would be if camera restrictions were relaxed, it nevertheless is time for the law profession to reevaluate its archaic decision.

The Daily Iowan probably could have posed the nine Supreme Court justices and a student after the proceedings, but would this have been factual reporting or a stiff portrait of ten men smiling at a camera?

Perhaps if photography had been permitted during the mock court as Law Day Thursday, some of the law students in attendance could have witnessed, firsthand, a valid demonstration of how inconspicuous courtroom photography can be.

Chances are, though, it would have been so inconspicuous that they never would have known pictures had been taken — until they had read today's Daily Iowan.

Passage shows waste

IOWA'S OWN Dr. Jekyll of reapportionment, the Shaff Plan, has once again come out of hiding in the bill passed Wednesday in the Iowa House which would allow the Senate to be controlled by 35 per cent of the population.

This passage is a monument to the two costly weeks which the Legislature has wasted since the temporary apportionment bill was passed in March.

To the Editor:
The accusation by Miss Friedlander that an article I wrote for the N.Y. Times was more concerned with Engle than with Kim is a very serious one, implying that I take advantage of my students for selfish reasons. Since I seem not to have made myself clear before, may I try your patience with one more effort to explain?

First, may I once again beg you to print the article (my earlier request having been ignored)? Let your readers make up their own minds. How can they possibly make sense of letters about something they have not seen?

Second, let me point out that the article stated that Richard E. Kim, unknown to me, wrote a letter asking about help in coming to SUI, that he was given a fellowship, and that he used our baby bed for his child.

Is a public recital of these true facts so outrageous? The pronoun "I" was used only once in the article in reference to me. This is the remark, "I found the money to bring him." The reason I did not say "we" or "The University" is of interest.

Kim's letter arrived after all graduate appointments had been made, but because businessmen had given money to the Program in Writing, it was possible for me quickly to assign some of it to Kim, on my own.

WHILE IN New York looking for additional funds in January, the editor of the N.Y. Times Book Review, who knows of my efforts to raise money from private sources (and takes a good deal more interest in it than The Daily Iowan), asked whether Kim had come to SUI with the help of this outside income.

When I assured him this was the case, he told me to write an account of how Kim came to SUI, about his life here and my relationship to him. The article is a plain recital of the facts, a little personal, as The Times wanted it.

Since each year a substantial number of talented writing students come to SUI via these funds, I should think a public proof of the way it works would be acceptable.

It seems to me a pity that the only comment on the editorial page of The Daily Iowan about the brilliant success of Kim's book "The Martyred," and of this University's part in it, should have been Miss Friedlander's sly little bit of nastiness.

IT ALSO seems to me a pity that, over the past few years, while the newspapers of London, New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Asia have been firm in their editorial praise of SUI, and of the Program in Writing, The Daily Iowan's editorial response has been cheap attacks on the Program's staff.

Are the London Times and the N.Y. Times really edited by people so much stupider than The Daily Iowan that they can be deceived? Only here on our own campus do we find this sort of thing.

If the N.Y. Times had thought that my article was more concerned with Engle than with Kim, it would not have printed it. If the article seemed a true and fair account to the Times, why should The Daily Iowan print a letter attacking it? Are Miss Friedlander's perceptions so much subtler than those of the N.Y. Times Book Review?

I should think that the marvelous nationwide publicity which Kim's book has brought this University should make The Daily Iowan rejoice (if it is capable of such childish responses).

I should think that those here who worked with Kim in his difficult and anonymous years ought not to receive praise. This is our job. But would it not be proper to concentrate on the distinction a former student's work brings to SUI, rather than on small-minded sneers about the people who helped make that book possible?

Paul Engle

Editor's Note: Miss Friedlander's "sly little bit of nastiness" was not the only thing The Iowan printed on "The Martyred." A review favorable to "The Martyred" several times the length of Miss Friedlander's two short letters combined was printed on the editorial page. In a quick check of our coverage of Workshop activities since this fall, we found a total of 290 column-inches devoted to the Workshop, of which only three to four inches — the Friedlander letters — were critical of Workshop and could be construed to be "attacks" on the Workshop. And they did not attack the Workshop itself, but Prof. Engle's single article about a single novelist from Workshop. The article is reprinted here.

By PAUL ENGLE
(Reprinted from the New York Times Book Review)
Who has not, after reading a book, thought to himself — what manner of man wrote this story, and what sort of life has he led? Behind "The Martyred," with its scenes of violence and hate, is a gentle and compassionate man, Richard E. Kim, who has proved his courage in battle. He has written a novel close to the heart of this dreadful, if not doomed, time. The whole evidence of the novel is the need for pity, not alone for the truly pitiful, but for those who struggle, for those who believe and are shot down.

Risk was long a part of Kim's life. His father had been held in Japanese prisons, in solitary confinement, for years because of political activity. When the Communists took over North Korea in

Reader sees emotion in Ruby decision

To the Editor:
I have no special interest in nor feel any strong sympathy for Jack Ruby, and yet, I believe that a few aspects of the case should be made clear. Under rather normal conditions when someone commits a murder which can be proved beyond a doubt or even less, a severe sentence (usually death) generally follows for the guilty party.

When, however, a lawyer pleads that his client experienced a temporary state of insanity, he, in effect, removes the situation from one of autonomy and throws the decision to the jury. This is what happened in Dallas.

Regardless of the justice of the jury's decision there, it was made. I would argue by the emotional climate of that city. Jack Ruby is being crucified, as strong as that might sound, in order that Dallas might expiate herself for the assassination which occurred in her city. A site noted for some strong radical sentiments.

I would suggest that there exists a close analogy with the way Germany today wages a relentless effort to hunt down and eradicate all former Nazis. In both cases the process is pursued not in a basis of moral justice, but out of a need for some sort of spiritual catharsis and as an effort to show the rest of the world that justice really reigns in their respective balliwicks.

Bloomington blooper

(From The Nation)
A year or so ago 20 romantic young men decided to unfurl the rather faded banner of Leon Trotsky's Socialist Workers Party at Indiana University. A less likely place to ignite the embers of revolutionary fervor in Affluent America could scarcely be imagined than this rather bovine community where the Bible Belt meets the Corn Belt.

A politically ambitious county prosecutor was quick to sense the threat, not to the peace and security of these United States, but to the good order of the state of Indiana. So an indictment was returned against the ringleaders under a 1951 act of the Indiana Legislature, the avowed aim of which was "to exterminate Communism and Communists and any or all teachings of the same."

Last week, in the cruel aftermath of reason, a local judge ruled the state law unconstitutional in an unanimous decision. For its generosity in providing legal counsel — Mr. Leonard Boudin of the New York Bar — without cost, the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee is entitled to a round of thanks and applause.

In resisting the motion to dismiss, the county prosecutor complained bitterly that the State had "lost the battle for public opinion — because the defendants — and those who defended them — had "distorted" the issues by calling the prosecution a "witch hunt."

In terms of literal accuracy, the prosecutor had a point, the indictments in Bloomington were not so much a "witch hunt" as a pure blooper — a piece of unmitigated stupidity.

All the same a touch of rhetorical exaggeration has its uses now and then; in a period of vast complacency it is not easy to focus attention on an act of in-cipient injustice.

When Dr. Norwood Russell Hanson, formerly chairman of the Department of History and Logic of Science at Bloomington, prepared an article for "The Nation" on the indictments, it was carried under the caption "Hoosier Witch Hunt."

Some of Dr. Hanson's faculty colleagues reacted violently to his use of the phrase "witch hunt," but activity in behalf of the defendants was promptly stepped up. If the indictments had been sustained — if the general atmosphere had not continued to improve — what was admittedly the Bloomington blooper might easily have been converted into a nasty local witch hunt.

"Man, that guy is weird."

1945, the father was sent to various prisons, the family's property was confiscated, and his maternal grandfather imprisoned and then shot.

GRADUALLY, individual members of the family separately made their way south to Mokpo, a small port on the southern tip of Korea. There Kim went to school with his brother and sisters. When war began in June, 1950, he had moved to the capital and was a freshman at Seoul National University.

Within three days the city was captured by the Communists and Kim, along with thousands of young people, was arrested and put in a camp. Here the so-called "People's Volunteer Army" of forced conscripts was trained.

Kim escaped and hid out with a band of ROK army stragglers, until the Inchon landing and the recapture of Seoul in September. Kim joined the ROK army and was commissioned a first lieutenant. Later he was assigned as aide-de-camp to Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau, commanding the United States Seventh Division, and then as aide-de-camp to the commander of the Republic of Korea Second Army Corps. In 1954 he came to Middlebury College, Vt.

AT FIRST KIM studied history and political philosophy, but then he began to think, "Is this all there is to it? Where do I come in?" He finally sent a letter to me at the Program in Creative Writing at the State University of Iowa and by turning to that legendary figure, the American businessman, I found the fellowship money to bring him there, Kim says: "You took me in and it was in Iowa I really, seriously began to write . . . in Iowa, I was technically and 'emotionally' prepared . . . I went to Iowa, broke and uncertain as to my future in writing and my ability (after all, I, as a foreigner, had just begun to write English then); and I left Iowa with a novel, a complete novel, and two children, David and Melissa."

So Kim came, used our own tooth-marked baby bed for his child, lived in a little apartment carved out of an old house close to the city jail — and wrote in a foreign language this novel, studying with Philip Roth, George P. Elliott, Vance Bourjaily, R. V. Cassill.

"I keep thinking," he said once, "what it must have been like to Conrad when he wrote his first in English." In this book he uses a wonderfully expressive, simple English; as Philip Roth said, "it is written in a mood of total austerity; and yet the passion of the book is perpetually beating up against its seemingly barren surface."

It is this tension that establishes the moral tone of "The Martyred" — one of restrained anguish.

LBJ is explained through his beliefs

By RALPH MCGILL
The text for this piece about President Johnson is from the Greek philosophers and Jewish prophets; namely, that the past is present in us.

It is fashionable now, at cocktail parties and luncheons and in after-dinner conversations, to aalyze President Johnson, to aalyze President Johnson. The cynical tend to dismiss him as merely an unusually astute professional politician who can "swap apples for orchards." But even they know that it is too easy and glib an answer and that it falls far short of the mark.

Much more than political skill was needed to awaken the Congress. How did the President make it come to life and assume interest and responsibility for an assault on poverty, the problem of retraining those who may be salvaged from the vast and growing pool of unemployed and young drop-outs, and the possibilities for national growth in urban and area redevelopment? No apples were swapped for orchards.

A part of Lyndon Johnson's past is right out of the Populist revolt. He heard it from his daddy, his granddaddy, his uncles and aunts. He listened to stories of the Grangers and their attempts to lift some of the load of exploitation and credit rates off the backs of the farmers and cattlemen. Labor and agrarian discontent were a thunder in the land by the time 1890 arrived.

The Johnsons had been small farm people in North Georgia before they moved on to Texas in the pre-Civil War days. Their descendants were a part of the discontent that led to the Populist revolt that culminated in the Bryan Crusade of 1896. Populism had reached its turbulent peak and failed to win enough congressional support to attain its ends. There was fusion with the Democrats and Bryan.

SOME OF THE Western delegates to the Republican convention of the 1930s and 1940s, it is not the damming of the stream or the harnessing of the floods in which I take pride, but, rather, in the ending of waste of the region.

There is in the President — out of his past — a feeling that this nation ought to do something about poverty, its unemployed, the slums of great cities and education and care for the needy. This is in his genes. He heard it as a boy from men who believed it. He believed.

It is well, in assaying President Johnson, to remember this. He is skilled. He does understand that politics is the art of the possible. He also is good at swapping apples for orchards. But — he believes" and he has commitments. These help "explain him" more than anything else.

"The creative personality works through the fulfillment of self," says Irving Marantz, visiting lecturer in Art, whose 31 paintings will decorate the SUI Art Gallery until April 13.

Those on display were painted in the last few years. He did most of them before going to Europe in 1963, did a few in Rome, and three since coming to SUI.

THE OFFICIAL opening of Marantz's exhibition will be Sunday, April 5, from 4-5 p.m., in the Main Gallery of the Art Building, when a reception for Marantz will take place. The public is invited to attend.

"I paint pictures because I must paint pictures. Painting itself is its own reward," Marantz explains. "I paint shapes and colors, which create moods, and how the shapes and colors relate to one another."

"IT'S LIKE a plant growing when you start a painting. It grows until it becomes an integral unit. A painting starts with a concept and then changes in the process of its development," he said.

"I attempt to get an essence of a thing," Marantz said. "The picture, 'There's a Flower in our Garden,' for example, is a concept and a feeling. A lyrical picture, the flower is a mushroom.

"Paintings imply things, rather than describe them. I attempt to get a sense of timelessness in a painting and present the universality of man."

MARANTZ, who has slightly graying hair and a mustache, was born in Elizabeth, N.J., in 1912. His interest in art, which began when he was 16 or 17, was rewarded when he won first prize in National Scholastic High School Competition.

Graduating from the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts in 1933, he then attended the Art Students League in New York City. On scholarship there, he studied graphics.

Having worked on the Federal Art Project for four years during the 1930's, Marantz said, "America planted its seeds then and is reaping the crop now."

He explained that he was paid $23 a week by the Federal Government, as were other painters, artists, and actors, so they could continue their work.

"TODAY AMERICA is the art center of the world because of the Federal Arts Projects of the 1930's," Marantz said.

After his work as an art teacher and director of the Art Teachers Training Institute with the Federal Project, he lived in China from 1938-1941, working as a painter, studying, and buying Chinese antiquities.

Marantz' first one-man exhibition was in 1948. Since then, he has had nine one-man exhibitions and has been represented in numerous national exhibitions.

Twenty-five of his paintings, done while he lived in Rome from 1963-64, are being exhibited until April 16 at the Galleria Schneider in Rome.

His wife, a graduate of Radcliffe in mathematics, and his 16-year-old daughter, Mady, are in New York City. Marantz's permanent home now, is Michael, his 22-year-old son, is doing graduate work in drama at Tulane University in New Orleans, La.

His summer home is Provincetown, Mass., where he taught and directed the Provincetown School of Painting and Studio Ten for 15 years.

City Traffic Study Begins; Two Surveys Scheduled

By BRAD CHURCH
Staff Writer

An extensive study of traffic in the Iowa City area conducted by the Iowa State Highway Commission is getting underway.

Jack Cline, representative of the State Highway Commission who is in charge of the survey, said dwelling unit interviews to determine the daily movements of Iowa City residents started Thursday. Similar interviews with one of every four truck owners in the area are expected to begin today.

Occupants of one of every eight dwelling units in Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights will be contacted during the next three weeks. In the dormitories, interviewers will contact students in one of every eight rooms.

The truck owner and dwelling unit interviews will be conducted daily, Tuesday through Friday, until April 27 and again from May 12-23.

All trips out of the house by persons more than five years old the day before the interview will be recorded. Each trip taken by more than one person is recorded once for each individual. For example, Cline said, if a woman takes her husband to work, it is recorded as two trips, one as a driver for the woman and one as a passenger for the husband.

Truckers will also be interviewed concerning all trips they made during the previous day. Weekends are not considered for either group.

Other information recorded will include names of all persons in the dwelling unit, their ages and occupations, how the persons who work travel to and from work, number of cars at the address, the origin and destination of each trip, where the person parked and how far he parked from his destination.

A complete study of all trips made by taxis and city buses in a 24-hour period will also be made within the next three weeks.

The information obtained from the study will be compiled by the Highway Commission and returned to the city in booklet form for use in future street and highway planning. Cline said it may take as much as a year to compile all the information.

Two SUI Students To Show Paintings

An exhibition of prints and paintings by David Taylor, G. Des Plaines, Ill., and paintings by Stan Caywood, G. Iowa City, will begin at the Guild Gallery, 130 S. Clinton St., at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Many of Taylor's works were done while teaching at the University of Guadalajara, Mexico, last year. His works have been exhibited at the Brooklyn, N.Y., Museum of Art, Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Art, San Francisco Museum of Art, Seattle Museum, Des Moines Art Center. Some of his works are currently in a traveling exhibition of the Iowa Print Group in Europe.

Caywood received his M.F.A. degree at Wichita University in 1959, and has taught at Western Kentucky College for the past five years. His works have been exhibited widely throughout Kentucky.

The showing will continue through April 30.

A Reminder

Degree Seekers: File by Tuesday

SUIIowans who plan to receive degrees on June 5 should file their applications with the Registrar by 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Posters on University bulletin boards incorrectly set the deadline for 5 p.m. Tuesday, not noting that the Registrar's Office customarily closes at 4:30.

After applications are filed, students in business, liberal arts and nursing uncertain about their degree eligibility should check with the head of their respective college. Graduation eligibility notices will be sent to degree applicants after preliminary grades are processed.

"I strongly urge that degree applicants file with the Registrar well before the deadline Tuesday afternoon," emphasized Mrs. Joy A. Schell, graduation supervisor.

A letter will be sent to prospective degree recipients about one week before graduation day outlining the process for obtaining and returning caps and gowns, Mrs. Schell said.

Lucky 13 Lauded For Scholarship By Business Dean

Thirteen students in the College of Business Administration have been commended for high scholarship for the fall semester.

The students, who made a grade point average of 3.5 or above for the semester while taking 12 or more semester hours, received recognition in a letter from Professor Billy L. Barnes, Acting Dean of the College of Business Administration.

The students are Philip DeVoe, B4, Cedar Rapids; Larry Howe, B3, Charles City; Carl Gambe, B3, Dunlap; Earl Devine, B4, Dyersville; Lawrence Gasho, B4, Ft. Dodge; Ronald Piper, B3, Iowa City; Gavin Collins, B4, Mason City; Marilyn Jahn, B3, Moline; Marnell Fliger, B4, New Hampton; Donald Hoth, B3, Postville; Ronald Draper, B4, Webster City; David T. Roberts, B3, Webster Groves, Mo.; Linda Mabus, B4, Rolling Fork, Miss.

Grad Study Day Set for April 11

Members of Mortar Board will provide information about graduate colleges and programs for all interested students April 11.

The Graduate Study Day will begin at 9:45 a.m. with an address by Dr. John Gerber, a member of the SUI Graduate Council and chairman of the English Department.

Following the address, informal discussion sessions will be conducted by SUI faculty members. More than 30 departments will participate in the program.

Ruth Van Roekel, A3, Manson and Cathy Fischgrund, A4, South Bend, Ind., are co-chairmen of the event which is directed primarily at freshmen, sophomores and juniors. All sessions will be held in Schaeffer Hall.

NEPAL FILM SUNDAY

"Hidden Jewel of the Himalayas," a color film on Nepal, will be presented by Earl Brink at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in MacBride Auditorium as part of the Mountaineers' Film-Lecture Series.

SUI Pianist

Gives Recital At 8 Tonight

William Doppman, SUI pianist who has won wide recognition as a concert artist, will present a recital at 8 tonight in North Music Hall.

The SUI pianist will open his program with Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in B Flat Minor." The first section of the recital will also include Mozart's "Sonata in D Major, K. 311" and four works by Chopin — "Nocturne in C Sharp Minor, Op. 27, No. 1," "Barcarolle, Op. 60," "Etude in F Minor, Op. 25, No. 2" and "Ballade in F Minor, Op. 32."

FOLLOWING an intermission, Professor Doppman will present two contemporary works — "Quadrone Musicale di Annalibera," written in 1952 by Dallapiccola, and "Sonata, Op. 26," composed in 1950 by Barber.

Tickets will not be required for the recital, which will be open to the public.

Doppman considers the "Ballade in F Minor" one of the most outstanding compositions Chopin wrote, with the "Barcarolle" next to it in importance. Though he has been interested in the Dallapiccola composition for some time, the Friday evening performance will be his first public presentation of this work.

WILLIAM DOPPMANN

THE SUI pianist ranks the Barber sonata as one of the best American sonatas of the last 30 years, noting that it has become a "standard" work for concert programs.

Doppman will present a recital at the Phillips Gallery in Washington, D.C. April 20. He won lavish praise from Washington music critics for his last program in the Phillips Gallery — in January, 1962. One critic said that the SUI pianist "has all the earmarks of the future world virtuoso. He is the musician that looks upon his art as the greatest of human expressions."

A member of the SUI music faculty since 1962, Doppman is a native of Springfield, Mass. He received bachelor of music and master of music degrees from the University of Michigan and two major national competitions for soloists while an undergraduate, the Naumberg Foundation Award and the Michaels Memorial Award.

MOVIE CHANGE

The Union Board movie Sunday night will be "The Comancheros," not "The Seven Year Itch" as previously announced in The Daily Iowan.

Bump Views State Office

"Experience in office" and "ability to conduct the office properly" are the prime qualities an attorney general must have, Solicitor General W. N. (Bill) Bump said in an interview here Thursday.

Bump, 34, of Des Moines, and a 1958 graduate of SUI, is seeking the Republican nomination for the position currently held by his boss, Atty. Gen. Evan L. Hultman. Hultman will resign his post to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in the June primary.

Bump has been solicitor general and Hultman's assistant for three years.

The office of attorney general should be run as a "law office," Bump said. "It is not and cannot become a law enforcement agency. When law enforcement has a problem, the attorney general can help but should not make it his own personal war. The attorney general should only help when asked to do so," he said.

Bump was in Iowa City to address the Republican women's council.

Mrs. Doderer—

More Women Seen In Political Races

By JUDY HOBART
Assistant Women's Editor

The Iowa Legislature's only lady Democrat, Mrs. Minette Doderer, representative from Johnson County, is proving herself to be an enthusiastic student of practical politics.

Mrs. Doderer was chosen in a special election last Feb. 18 to replace Scott Swisher as representative to the reapportionment legislature.

She does homework every night. There are about 40 proposed reapportionment plans which she must be able to discuss at various times. In addition, Mrs. Doderer is memorizing the House Rules. "You've got to know the rules," she says, "before you can play the game well."

THERE'S NO question that Mrs. Doderer means to "play the game well." She said she feels that Iowa must "think big" and that progressive legislation is the key to the state's future.

The energetic blonde legislator is serving on eight standing committees, ranging from the Appropriations and Ways and Means Committees to the Committee on Institutions of Higher Learning.

MRS. DODERER'S interest in education is shown by her legislative record, short as it is. She actively supported the Higher Education Facilities Act, which passed the House and is due to go before the Senate in the near future. A vocational education bill she is helping to prepare will probably be presented at the regular session of Legislature next January.

But, as Mrs. Doderer pointed out, the real business of this session of the legislature is to devise a reapportionment bill in keeping with the guidelines set down by the courts. She said that she was among those who advocated that the special session consider only temporary measures and leave the permanent plan to the regular session.

"I THINK THAT the temporary plan which has been approved is better than any permanent plans so far considered," she said, "but, of course, there are disparities in this bill, too, especially within the districts." She went on to say that she felt the biggest fault of the bill was that both Houses were too large and would incur too much expense.

Under the temporary plan, 50 per cent of the people will have control of 48 per cent of the votes in the House. This is close but not exactly conforming to Mrs. Doderer's and other legislators' ideal of "50 per cent of the people controlling 50 per cent of the votes."

"THE PERMANENT bill for reapportionment that the Senate sent over to the House is worse than the temporary bill," she said. "The courts will throw it out. Representation there ranges from 29 per cent to 35 per cent."

MR. DODERER is director of the Personnel Office at the University. Both he and his wife received their degrees from SUU in economics. Mr. Doderer served as mayor pro tem of Iowa City for one year and on the city council for four years.

When she was asked if she got any special consideration from her fellow legislators because she is a woman, Mrs. Doderer said "The men open doors for me and the maid hangs up my coat for me, but once we're out on the floor, I'm just another legislator."

She said that women do not have as many prejudices as men and therefore had an advantage over them. "For instance, some of them are so prejudiced against federal aid that they won't accept it regardless of how much good it has done and could do."

WOMEN, SHE felt, are gaining a place in state government. She said that all 11 seats from Polk County in the House will be empty this fall and that she knows a number of women are planning to run for these offices.

WHOSE Towels?
Mercedes went to wash her clothes in washer 33.
Mrs. Robert Shrader's towels were nice and clean in number 32.
Mercedes put her quarter in and filled the slot with soap.
Mrs. Shrader came to say: "Those are MY towels, aren't they?"
Poor Mercedes, embarrassed and ashamed, departed from the scene.
Mrs. Shrader, 111 Halley, wryly said, "At least they're gonna be clean!"
Mercedes Boos, A2, Anamosa, went home and laughed and cried.
Mrs. Shrader stayed and watched, then dried.

SORORITIES SPONSOR DANCE

TIPS FOR TALL MEN
Easy-fitting jackets with looseness around the waist and extra width at the shoulders, in a slightly-longer version, will make the tall SUU man look broader (and thus shorter).

THE GUITAR . . . part III
Noted Composers and Virtuoso

The guitar played an important role in the lives of many noted musicians and composers . . . Campion, Schubert, Berlioz and Paganini among them. During the 18th century, while the stringed instruments of today's symphony were evolving, the Therobo, (illustrated at left) was popular. A noted Theroboist, Frances Campion experimented with and composed for the guitar. The following century produced Berlioz, who was a guitarist in his youth, and Paganini who is known to have left the violin for three years to devote himself to the guitar.

We've a wide range of guitars available . . . Harmony, Goya, Gretsch, Espana and Gibson. Private instructions on all instruments.

Indians Tell Of Peace Trip

E. P. Menon and Satish Kumar, peacewalkers from India, "have derived much personal satisfaction" from their 7,500-mile trek which began at the grave of Mahatma Gandhi in New Delhi, India, and ended at the grave of John Fitzgerald Kennedy in Arlington, Va.

In addressing students in the Pentacrest Room of the Union Monday night, Menon and Kumar related that they found people everywhere looking for peace. "We feel this endeavor helped the people we encountered to understand better our position through in-the-home communication during the 19 months and 6 days we walked for peace," they said.

Menon and Kumar began their walk on June 1, 1962 and went through Pakistan, Afghanistan, Iran, Russia and five of its satellites, Poland, East Germany, West Germany, Belgium, France, England and the United States.

The trip was made without money. On several occasions they refused offerings. Along the way they were given necessary food and clothing.

The only exceptions to this were when the French government shipped them to England and when the English paid their fare on the Queen Mary to the United States. The lecture was sponsored by the Student Senate.

Hawks Open Home Baseball Season

Keane Predicts Cardinals Are Stronger than Last Year

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Can the St. Louis Cardinals catch the Los Angeles Dodgers this time? Will the All-Star infield do it again? Can Ray Washburn come back? Who will hit the home runs now that Stan Musial has retired? Johnny Keane has been wrestling with these questions since the Cardinals faltered last September after winning 19 of 20 games in a blazing streak. He doesn't profess to know all the answers.

With Musial in retirement, Curt Flood in center is the only outfield holdover. Charlie James, Musial's former understudy, will play left. Carl Warwick, acquired from Houston, probably will be in right although rookie John Lewis has been hitting the ball.

from a broken ankle and didn't win a game until May 21. He was 3-3 June 1 and wound up with 18. Tim McCarver just got out of the Army in early season and we didn't use him much until June. Now he's our No. 1 catcher. And we have added Roger Craig from the Mets.

Clay May Quit Boxing and Teach

CHICAGO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, here for meetings of the Black Muslim sect, says he may quit boxing and accept a $100,000 offer to teach sports in Egypt, Chicago's American reported Thursday.

Clay, 22, said the offer was from the Egyptian government, which has promised to build a sports center in his name in Cairo.

Clay will leave in three weeks for Africa and parts of Asia, he said, on a tour during which he will discuss the Egyptian job with officials in Cairo.

The fighter, who dethroned Sonny Liston Feb. 25, said he met for four hours Wednesday night with Elijah Muhammad, Black Muslim founder.

Clay signed autographs: "Muhammad Ali, the champ."

BOB GEBHARD
Starting Pitcher for Hawks

Meet Luther College If Weather Permits

Iowa's Hawkeyes, ranked 11th in the nation in Collegiate Baseball, the national newspaper of college baseball, will open their home base season against Luther College today if the spring rains stop long enough for groundkeepers to get the Iowa field in shape by game time, 3:30 p.m.

Bob Gebhard, the big righthander who pitched a shutout in his first appearance of the season, beating the University of Arizona 5-0, has been named the starting pitcher for today's game by Dick Schultz, the Hawk field manager. Carl Brunst and Jim McAndrew, both righthanders, are scheduled to open in the double header on deck for Saturday.

THE HAWKS PRE-SEASON rating in Collegiate Baseball was published March 27 while the team was playing in Arizona.

In the bi-weekly newspaper assembled by correspondents from all parts of the United States, the Hawks held down 11th position, but were only eight points behind the eighth place team in the voting, Santa Clara College in California was named as the No. 1 team.

In addition to naming the starting pitchers for this weekend's scheduled three-game series with Luther, Schultz listed six other men who will be in the starting lineup. Jim Freese, one of the last season's top hitters, will be catching. Duke Lee, currently leading the Hawks hitters with a .381 mark, will be at first base.

AT SECOND BASE will be Jim Koehn, errorless after six games and carrying a .296 batting average. Jay Petersen, off to a slow start in Arizona, proved his hitting ability with a .289 mark last season as a with a .381 mark, will be at first base.

BOB SHERMAN, with a .320 average during the Arizona series, and last year's regular right fielder, will return to that spot for the opener. Ken Banaszek's run producing ability has won him the opening day left field position. He accounted for nearly one-third of the Hawk scoring with his runs batted in and runs scored.

STARTERS AT TWO positions will not be definitely decided until near game time. Schultz said that either Mickey Moses or Ron Shudes will start at shortstop and Dick Perkins or Bill Niedbala will be in center field. All four men will probably see action over the weekend.

Late Thursday afternoon both Schultz and Otto Vogel were hopeful that the rain would end Thursday night. Vogel said that the ground crew has enough "dry dirt" to get the infield into shape by game time if there were no heavy rains after early Thursday night.

Miller, Schultz Meet; Wichita Names Coach

Ralph Miller, Iowa's newly-appointed head basketball coach, and Dick Schultz, assistant cage coach for Sharm Scheuerman, met in Wichita Tuesday to discuss recruiting.

Schultz said Wednesday that Iowa definitely would like to enroll a good junior college guard for next winter and that the rest of the recruiting campaign would probably be aimed at current high school seniors.

Miller is expected to visit Iowa City next week to talk with Iowa officials and make additional recruiting contacts.

Wichita Wednesday named Gary Thompson, 31, Miller's top assistant during the last few years at Wichita, as its new head coach. Thompson had been rumored as a possible Iowa assistant if Miller follows the tradition of naming his own assistant. He has made no announcement yet.

Strickland Heads Indians—

Tebbetts Recovering After Heart Attack

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Doctors were reported satisfied Thursday with the condition of Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland Indians manager who suffered a heart attack late Wednesday night.

Gabe Paul, Cleveland owner and general manager, announced Tebbetts was doing very well at St. Mary's Hospital.

Paul said Tebbetts, 54, was described by his attending physician, Dr. Arthur Dudley, as holding up well.

"His pulse is good and steady," Paul reported. "His color is good and the pain has been practically eliminated. Dudley told me there was some tissue damage but that he is pleased with his progress at this time. At no time has Birdie been in a critical condition."

PAUL SAID DUDLEY cautioned him that no one can make any positive statements about a coronary for about four or five days. He said more tests would be administered. Tebbetts was stricken at the Indians' spring training motel headquarters after a late dinner.

ABOUT MIDNIGHT (EST), he complained to his wife, Mary, of intense chest pains. Mrs. Tebbetts called Regis McAuley, sports writer for the Cleveland Press, who was staying in the unit next to Tebbetts.

McAuley massaged Tebbetts' chest for almost an hour before Dr. Dudley arrived and ordered the manager taken to the hospital.

PAUL NAMED GEORGE Strickland, third base coach and former Indian shortstop, to handle the club until further notice.

It was not known how long Tebbetts will be sidelined or whether he will be able to resume his duties this season, which opens April 14.

Paul said Tebbetts will require at least six weeks of hospitalization. It is possible, he added, that Tebbetts will be moved to Bradenton, Fla., near his Anna Maria Island home, after four weeks.

pelitions will be staged on Monday, May 25, and Tuesday, May 26. Survivors must then battle it out in 13 sectional trials June 8-9. All tests are over 36 holes.

The largest number ever to try for the Open was 4,474 in 1962 when the event was won by the rookie Jack Nicklaus in a playoff with Arnold Palmer.

Boros, Nicklaus and Palmer are among the handful of players who will be exempt from qualifying and will go directly into the championship.

These are the exempt players: The last five individuals to win the Open title — Boros, Nicklaus, Gene Littler, Palmer and Bill Casper.

Holders of current major titles — Deane Beman, National Amateur; Nicklaus, PGA; Bob Charles of New Zealand, British Open.

Ten low scores and ties in the previous Open — Boros, Jacky Cupit, Palmer, Paul Harney, Billy Maxwell, Bruce Crampton, Tony Lema, Gary Player, Walter Burkemo, Dan Sikes Jr., Don January, Dow Finsterwald, Dave Ragan.

Ten leading money winners on PGA tour for the year ending on the closing date for Open entries, May 6.

All former Open, PGA, National Amateur and British Open champions will be exempt from the local qualifying, along with members of the U.S. Walker Cup, America's Cup and Eisenhower Trophy teams, the U.S. Ryder Cup team and the low 20 in the Open and PGA tournaments.

Opera Cast Selected

"Abduction from the Seraglio," a three-act comic opera by Mozart, will be presented by the SUI Opera Workshop Saturday, May 2. The opera will be one of the features of SUI's Mother's Day weekend.

The performance, directed by Herald Stark, professor of music, will be given at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium. No tickets will be required.

Set in 16th century Turkey, "Abduction from the Seraglio" tells of two women, Constanza and her maid Blonde, who are kidnapped by pirates and sold to the Turkish Pasha. They are followed by Belmonte, Constanza's lover, who hopes to rescue them.

Constanza will be played by Margie Boston, G. Mount Vernon; Blonde, her maid, by Maryellen Hammer, A. Le Mars; Belmonte, the nobleman, by James McDonald, G. Iowa City; Pedrillo, his servant, by Eric Giere, G. Minneapolis; and Osmin, the Pasha's overseer, by James Pfafflin, G. Lacrosse, Wis.

"Abduction from the Seraglio" has been called the first important opera in the German language. It was written by Mozart as his first stage work after settling in Vienna in 1781.

Visiting Chaplain Tells Obligations To ROTC Cadets

Maj. Walter Tashnick, Protestant Chaplain at Trux Field, Wis., presented "The Moral Responsibilities of an Air Force Officer" and the Chaplain's role in a lecture to Air Force ROTC cadets here Wednesday night.

He said the primary responsibility of a military officer is to be a man of his word. He called this a trait all officers should be proud of and try to maintain.

Tashnick gave, as other responsibilities of a military officer: being trustworthy, not showing favoritism to certain groups of his men and being an example to his men. Tashnick stated that the chaplain should serve as the commanding officer's assistant in upholding the spiritual and moral life of his men.

Studio Matinee To Present Plays

Studio Matinee will present two plays at 3:30 p.m. today in the Studio Theatre.

The first is a Medieval interlude by John Heywood. The title of the play, "John John, Tyb, Sir John," refers to the names of the three characters in the comedy to be played by Gary Stewart, G. Kaysville, Utah; Ann Schultz, A2, Iowa City; and Jack Ragsdale, G, Lexington, Ky.

Also featured in the play will be members of Marcia Thayer's dance class, performing a dance of the Medieval period. The play is directed by Richard Thomsen, G, Charles City.

The second production will be one act from a play by a young British author. The play enjoyed recent success both on Broadway and as a film. The production is directed by Nancy Funk, G, Waynesboro, Pa.

editor of The Iowan for three semesters, and has worked as a reporter for three years.

OTHER EDITORIAL positions on The Iowan will be filled by applications to the editor. Applicants will be asked to state their qualifications and list the editorial positions in the order of preference.

The new Iowan staff will assume its duties May 18.

"The primary concern of the Iowan, as with any newspaper, is to provide accurate reports of news, and also meaningful analysis of news. As the editor, these will be the basic guidelines of my policy," Miss Weiner said.

SUI also initiated a major change in the organization of The Iowan staff. Applicants for City Editor will be required to have had some professional media experience. Professional experience was not previously required.

IT IS HOPED that this requirement will help raise the quality of the Iowan, Publisher Edward P. Bassett said.

"We want to make it clear that the City Editor will in no way be involved in policy decision. The editor-in-chief will have complete control in the newsroom," Bassett said.
