LINCOLN (AP) — Boundary Commissions of Iowa and Nebraska formally agreed Friday that the center of the stabilized Missouri River should become the new boundary line between the states.

They also mapped a frontal assault on the host of legal problems involved in the proposed first boundary revision between the states in 21 years.

Doctors End Their Strike In Belgium

BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgium's doctors' strike ended early today after 18 days of wrangling by the Government and the strikers over provisions of a controversial socialized medical law.

Justice Minister Pierre Vermeylen read newsmen a communique saying the embattled doctors had agreed to call off the strike.

HE ADDED that no understanding was reached, however, on the conflicting points of view concerning the new medical legislation.

Just before the end police announced the arrest of two doctors and a technician for suspected sabotage of hospital X-ray equipment.

Strike leaders, members of the Government and mediators gathered early this morning at the residence of Premier Theo LeFevre after 14 hours of talks and bargaining.

"Wisdom and good sense have won at last," Social Affairs Minister Edmond Leburton, author of the socialized medicine bill, the 12,000 doctors and dentists struck against, said.

TALKS TO compromise differences on the law itself will begin when the doctors and dentists return to their normal duties and the Government withdraws its emergency legislation.

With the ending of the walkout, doctors will again call on patients and treat them in their offices.

IT WAS NOT immediately clear how far LeFevre had committed himself to changing the law to satisfy

De Gaulle Is 'Satisfactory' After Surgery

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle underwent surgery Friday for a prostate gland disease. A bulletin signed by three doctors described the 73-year-old president's condition afterward as "very satisfactory."

A communique at Elysee Palace, said: De Gaulle "underwent an operation this morning for a disease of the prostate. This surgical intervention had been decided several weeks ago."

The operation took place normally. The condition of Gen. de Gaulle is very satisfactory.

The announcement did not disclose the length of the operation, but some well-informed sources said it lasted as long as one hour and 50 minutes.

The announcement was not released until almost 12 hours after the operation had begun. The President went into the operating room shortly after 8 a.m. and the medical bulletin was released just before 7 p.m.

Long before that the news had spread. The delay in making the official announcement was said to have been ordered by De Gaulle.

THE NEWS, which caught the nation by surprise, recalled in dramatic fashion the precarious nature of the country's one-man rule. Only Thursday night, millions saw and heard the President, in evident good form, on a pre-recorded nationwide radio-television broadcast.

Medical authorities in Paris say De Gaulle will have to remain in the hospital a week or 10 days and then rest for two to four weeks. There was no sign that he intended to step out of the presidency. According to the signs, he intends to seek another seven-year term in next year's national elections.

Taxpayers May Owe More in '65

When taxtime in 1965 rolls around, some employees may be surprised to find that they owe the Government extra tax money because not enough withholding tax was deducted from their current paychecks.

Despite the recent tax cut, federal withholding rates have dropped faster than the two-stage income tax rate reduction, according to the Commerce Clearing House, publishers of federal tax reports.

The drop in withholding rates means that a taxpayer's final 1964 tax payment will be greater than it was in 1963.

While the withholding rate dropped from 18 per cent to 14 per cent, the old income tax rates — pegged from 20 per cent to 91 per cent — have been altered to a 16 per cent to 77 per cent spread.

In addition, calculating next year's taxes will require more work. The old 18 per cent withholding rate remained in effect until March 5, 1964. Only on March 5 did the new 14 per cent rate take effect. Thus, calculating total withholding for 1964 will require two separate computations.

Employees can suggest to their employers three possible ways to avoid an additional tax payment next April 15:

Employees may claim fewer personal exemptions for withholding purposes so that more is withheld from each paycheck.

Employees can let the employer withhold additional amounts from their paychecks, provided the employer agrees to do so.

Employees can themselves set aside amounts from their pay during 1964 so they will have enough to cover the additional tax money required.

41 To Be Named—

SUI Union Board To Pick Chairmen

By PAULA KAPLAN Staff Writer

Forty-one new committee chairmen will be named by the Union Board late next week, as a result of applicant interviews today and Sunday.

This is a change from past Union Boards, which were composed of just six committees: Games, Post Games Dances, Fine Arts, Spotlight Series, Special Events and Movies.

Union Board is increasing its membership to allow for the most efficient and flexible utilization of new facilities at the Union.

APPLICATIONS for the following committees were due at the Union Friday at 5 p.m.:

Hospitality, headed by one of the 12 Directors, Bob Gitchell, M1, Cresco, will include three committees: Open Houses, to plan an open house for new students, an activities open house, and Mothers' Weekend; Special Functions, to arrange football weekend hosts and hostesses and other special events; and Union Board Events, to plan an Awards Banquet, mass meetings and social functions for Union committees.

The second area, Dance, headed by Carol Faulk, A2, Mendota, Ill., will include three committees: Instruction, to plan the organizing of classes and obtaining instructors for current popular dances; Post Ball Game, to plan and organize dances after football and basketball games; and Square Dancing, to determine the need for square dance instruction and carry it out.

PERSONNEL, headed by Jim Lof-

Forum and Lectures, headed by Brenda Schmede, A2, Durant, includes three committees: Forum, to present current news items or current events of interest to students, presented in panel form; Last Lectures, a series of lectures by noted professors, speaking as if they were delivering the last lecture of their careers; and College Quiz Bowl.

RESEARCH, headed by Morris Knopf, L1, Iowa City, includes two committees: Newsletter, and New Addition.

Blast Injures Two Yanks In Saigon Bus

Security Men Are 'Jittery as Hell,' See More Trouble

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist terrorists threw a grenade into an American military bus Saturday, wounding two U.S. servicemen, while U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk was only a short distance away.

The grenade was tossed through the doorway of the bus at 8 a.m. (7 p.m. Iowa time) as it was traveling into Saigon from the suburb of Cholon. Fragments hit two Americans inside but did not wound them seriously. They were taken immediately to the American dispensary for treatment.

RUSK WAS ON his way to pay a call on Foreign Minister Phan Huy Quat when the incident occurred. American security men told Rusk of the incident, but no change has been made in his schedule.

"We are jittery as hell," one security man said. "We expect more Communist terrorism like this during Rusk's visit."

A huge force of security personnel converged around Rusk as he made another call on Chief of State Duong Van Minh.

IN ADDITION TO scores of police and troops guarding him on the ground, an American helicopter was constantly flying over the Rusk party as it traveled around Saigon.

Crewmen inside the helicopter have their automatic weapons pointing down on Saigon.

'I'll Kill the President,' 17-Year-Old Boy Writes

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A 17-year-old boy was held under $5,000 bond Friday by U.S. Commissioner Paul Game Jr. on a charge of threatening the President's life.

Carl Delvic, a high school student, handed in an English theme titled, "What I Plan to Do in the Summer of 1964."

The 10th line of the theme read: "I'll take a trip to Washington, D.C. and kill the President."

Mayor Proclaims 'Rights Week'

Iowa City Mayor Richard Burger has proclaimed next week "Human Rights Week."

The action was in response to the requests of the Rev. Lawrence Soens, chairman of the Iowa City Human Relations Commission, and Richard Lloyd-Jones, chairman of the University Committee on Human Rights.

The proclamation makes note of several events scheduled next Thursday, Friday and Saturday in connection with the University-sponsored series of public meetings called, "Human Rights: A Time for Action."

For SARE Exchange—

Applications Now Being Accepted

By DOREEN HYDE Staff Writer

Applications for the exchange program designed to augment SUI's participation in the Civil Rights movement will be accepted by SARE-Friends of SNCC for the next two weeks.

Interested sophomore or junior students enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts may apply to attend the fall semester at an accredited Southern Negro school.

Diane DeVaul, A3, Ames, chairman of the exchange program, said "a semester spent on a Southern Negro campus would quicken a student's imagination, challenge his maturity, and promote his sense of human responsibility as no other experience could."

THREE OF THE following Southern schools will be chosen to participate with SUI in the program: Talladega College, Talladega, Ala.; Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; Tougaloo College, Jackson, Miss.; and Grambling College, Grambling, La.

The program will be conducted on a person-to-person basis. For each student SUI selects to attend a Southern school, that school will in turn select one of its students to attend SUI.

TUITION will be paid by the students themselves at the school which they now attend.

Catalogs will be available to the SUI students chosen to participate in the program and all courses will transfer for credit toward their degrees here.

Students interested in obtaining application information may call Miss DeVaul at x4022.

Dr. Hornbein is one of four members of the 1963 American Expedition to Mt. Everest to reach the top of the peak.

The program will also include illustrated reports of the 1963 outings and the upcoming 1964 expeditions.

Campus Notes

Opera Opens
An opera with a libretto translated by Harry Duncan, associate professor of typography in the SUI School of Journalism, opens Sunday at the St. Louis Opera Theatre Company. Duncan was assisted by Max Yeh, G. Davis, Calif.

It will be the first production of Rimsky-Korsakov's, "Kaschei, The Deathless," in the United States. And it will be the first in English anywhere.

Arab Club
The SUI Arab Club is sponsoring its annual dinner at 6:30 p.m. April 26 at the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, Dubuque and Market Streets. Tickets are on sale for $1.25 at Whetstone's Drug Store and the Campus Record Shop. The Rev. Humphrey Walz will speak at 7:30 p.m. on "The King-Crane Adventure." A discussion will follow.

Sociology Meet
Seven SUI faculty members are participating in the 28th annual meeting of the Midwest Sociological Society in Kansas City, Mo. The conference ends today.

They are Lyle Shannon, chairman of the Department of Sociology; Harold W. Saunders, professor of sociology; Ira Reiss and J. Richard Wilmett, associate professors of sociology; Harold A. Mulford, resident associate professor of psychiatry and sociology; Peter M. Hall, instructor in sociology and Roland K. Hawkes.

Mountaineer's Film
"Triple Conquest of Mt. Everest" will be presented by Dr. Thomas Hornbein as the feature-film lecture of the Iowa Mountaineer's annual banquet at 6 p.m. tonight in the Rose Room of the Jefferson Hotel.

Recitals Sunday
Shirley Dicker, A2, Iowa City, and Christine Radcliffe, A2, Iowa City, will present a soprano and violin recital at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in the North Rehearsal Hall.

Show Rehearsal
Variety show rehearsal will be at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Main Lounge of the Union. All acts must attend the rehearsal.

Professor's Recital
William Preucil, violinist and SUI associate professor of music, and Paul Lyndon, artist-in-residence at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., will present a recital for viola and piano Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in the Des Moines Art Center.

Art Lecture
Prof. Daniel Rhodes, of Alfred University, Alfred, N.Y., a potter and sculptor, will give a lecture Monday at 8 p.m. in the Art Building Auditorium. He will speak on his research and experiences while studying Japanese pottery under a Fulbright Research Grant in Japan last year.

Boy, 7, Struck By Auto Here
Mike Hill, 7, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hill, 120 Westlawn Park, was reported in good condition at University Hospitals Friday night after being struck by a car about 4 p.m. in the Veterans Hospital parking lot. Officials there said he suffered a fractured arm and bruises.

The driver of the car, Henry J. Bawel, 925 Cottonwood Ave., was not charged, Iowa City Police said.

Earlier Friday, Police charged Thomas Edward Hill, A2, Clinton, with striking an unattended car and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to City Police, Hill backed into a car owned by Eugene K. Bristow, 105 1/2 S. Clinton St., about 1:30 a.m., causing damage to the front of the Bristow car.

The accident, which occurred in a parking lot on East Washington Street, Police said Bristow took the license number of the car and Hill was later identified as the driver.

8 Internships In Politics Announced

Up to eight Iowa college students may receive awards to work as campaign interns for candidates for major state office this summer, according to George B. Mather, Assistant to the Dean of the Division of Extension and University Services at SUI.

The internship program is being sponsored by the Iowa Center for Education in Politics, of which Mather is director.

Students selected for the program will work full time for two months this summer. They will receive assignments to work at state party headquarters or with gubernatorial and congressional candidates.

Each intern will receive a fellowship award of $500. Funds to support the program will come from three sources — the political parties, the candidates, and foundation grants to the Iowa Center for Education in Politics.

Students who are Iowa residents attending any of the 27 four-year colleges and universities in the state may apply. Application forms are available at the departments of political science at each institution. The deadline for filing applications is May 8.

Selection of interns will be made by the advisory board of the Iowa Center for Education in Politics, in cooperation with state party leaders and the candidates. The advisory board consists of college teachers and administrators, and state leaders of both political parties.

Kohn To Speak
Clyde F. Kohn, professor of geography, will speak today at an educational conference at Elon College, a liberal arts college in central North Carolina.

Recitals Sunday
Shirley Dicker, A2, Iowa City, and Christine Radcliffe, A2, Iowa City, will present a soprano and violin recital at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in the North Rehearsal Hall.

Show Rehearsal
Variety show rehearsal will be at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Main Lounge of the Union. All acts must attend the rehearsal.

Professor's Recital
William Preucil, violinist and SUI associate professor of music, and Paul Lyndon, artist-in-residence at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., will present a recital for viola and piano Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in the Des Moines Art Center.

Art Lecture
Prof. Daniel Rhodes, of Alfred University, Alfred, N.Y., a potter and sculptor, will give a lecture Monday at 8 p.m. in the Art Building Auditorium. He will speak on his research and experiences while studying Japanese pottery under a Fulbright Research Grant in Japan last year.

SUI TOO BIG FOR YOUNG'UN

Campus Police handled an important lost and found case about 2 p.m. Friday!

Although the subject, Greg Woolums, 2, didn't know where he belonged, his father, Elijah J. Woolums, A1, Packwood, did.

The case began when Don Hanson, 326 Finkbine Park, called Campus Police saying he had found a small, blond, green-eyed boy wearing an Abraham Lincoln T-shirt and blue jeans, by a fence near his home. The boy was crying.

Campus Police notified the Office of Married Student Housing about the matter, and Greg was taken to Campus Police Headquarters. Father and son were reunited an hour later, and the case was closed.

Mrs. Yocum Asks Financial Support
A hearing on an application for temporary support brought against City Councilman Max Yocum by his wife, Donna Gean, has been set for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in Johnson County District Court. Mrs. Yocum is asking the court to award her and their five children $150 per week support while her divorce action against Yocum is pending. She also is asking to be awarded funds for suit and attorney fees.

Beckwith Trial Ends in Hung Jury Again

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The second murder trial of Byron De La Beckwith, a dedicated segregationist accused of killing "the general" of the Mississippi integration movement, ended Friday with a hung jury.

Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick ordered a mistrial and set Beckwith's bond at $10,000.

BECKWITH was driven to Greenwood where his bond was posted by several residents of his hometown.

"When we arrived at Tchula there was a sign saying, 'Welcome Home, Delay' and when I got to the outskirts of Greenwood there was another one," Beckwith said. "It brought tears to my eyes."

It was the first time Beckwith had been in Greenwood since he was arrested 10 months ago.

BECKWITH, a Greenwood fertilizer salesman, is accused of being the sniper who shot Negro integration leader Medgar Evers in the back last June 12.

The all-white jury reported itself hopelessly deadlocked after 18 hours of deliberation and many ballots. The vote was eight to four for acquittal. The first trial ended Feb. 7 with the jury divided six to six.

It was not certain whether there would be a third trial. Dist. Atty. William Waller said it was not definite the state would prosecute the case further.

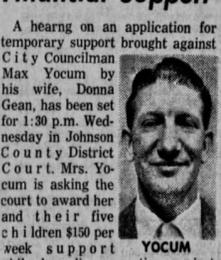

"DON'T see any way we could ever put on a better case than we did at this time," he said.

Hardy Lott, Beckwith's chief attorney, said the defense would decide later whether to press for another trial.

The case, because it ended in a mistrial, will come up at the May term of Circuit Court. It is not likely to be tried then since the May term normally is limited to civil cases.

Fulbright's speech viewing foreign policy

IN HIS CALL for a re-examination of American foreign policy, Sen. Fulbright did the country a real if limited service. He put into words — incisive and scholarly as always — what every politically intelligent American knows: that in its foreign policy the United States is not keeping up with the times, that we see the world as it no longer is, that new, bold concepts are needed as never before.

But it must not be forgotten that Sen. Fulbright has never been anything but a distinguished conservative. Thus on the crucial question of the moment — American policy in Viet Nam — he chose to go along with the Administration's policy, which grows more sterile with each passing month.

The senator's generalities and his precepts for the future tend to be more cogent than the action he took in coping with present difficulties. The reactions were predictable. Republican Chairman William E. Miller charged Fulbright with taking "the same road which Neville Chamberlain traveled in the 1930s." Miller is not such a fool as to believe that Fulbright is an appeaser; it is simply something he trots out whenever he sees a chance to bug the Administration. He also knows that a realistic policy toward the Communist nations — and our own allies — would not lead to disaster; that indeed the reverse is true.

He is on solid ground, however, when he suggests that the Fulbright speech is to some extent an Administration trial balloon.

Fulbright does not ask anyone's leave to state his views. He is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and he knows more about U.S. foreign policy than President Johnson or any member of his staff or Cabinet. For his part, President Johnson is not so oblivious of his opportunities as to ignore Fulbright's pronouncements and their aftermath.

And no more than Sen. Fulbright does the President need to be reminded that this is an election year. Was the intention, perhaps, to lay the groundwork for a strong counteroffensive should the Republicans charge the Democrats with being "soft on communism" or hedging on some of our cold war commitments? Whatever the intention, the balloon is now launched and the Administration can now see which way the wind is blowing.

We have no doubt that it is blowing as Fulbright surmises — or he would not have made such a provocative speech well in advance of the conventions in a Presidential election year. (A check with Sen. Fulbright's office reveals a mail tally — to be the first part of the month — as follows: 2,850 favor communication, 760 unfavorable. The subsequent mail has been holding to a 5 to 1 favorable ratio.)

Nor is Fulbright alone. What he said jibes closely with the views of Ambassador Stevenson, Sen. John J. Sparkman, and numerous other observers who cannot by the widest stretch of the imagination be regarded as appeasers.

Earlier, four leading Democratic senators — Gruening, Church, Morse, Mansfield — have criticized U.S. foreign policy as inadequately and unrealistically conceived. Even Secretary Rusk, who by implication was himself criticized in the Fulbright speech and these earlier pronouncements, said that Fulbright and he were in agreement on some points.

Thus Mr. Fulbright has attained his first objective, to get the country thinking. The obstacles to tangible progress are the vested interest in error which afflicts all great establishments. Arthur Krock puts it forcefully when he writes that most high officials in the United States "are deeply committed to the foundational myths of American foreign policy which Fulbright is seeking to dispel," and they are reluctant to acknowledge their failures until a new climate of opinion is established and politically pretested.

But Krock also says that Fulbright cannot stop at this point, that both out of patriotism and the obligations of his office, he must continue to hammer on the theme his speech has stated. Thus the stage has been set, first for an intensive foreign policy debate in the election and, if the Democrats are victorious, for the change in orientation which has become imperative.

By RALPH MCGILL
There was a crush at the cocktail party reception. A library down the hall offered escape. It was quiet and smelled comfortably and reassuringly of books. Prowling the shelves and looking at titles, I discovered some articles published a few years ago in The New Yorker magazine dealing with food.

There are many sins committed in the name of cooking, and the outlook is not anywhere good. Menus, especially in some of the newer places given over to elaborate decorations, chrome and contrived "elegance," show an increase in "flaming" main-course and dessert sections. Some chefs seem to be so hurried they slop with wine, instead of cooking with it.

The articles quoting the opinions of Mr. Hugh G. Flood, a resident of the area about New York's Fulton Fish Market, are refreshing. Mr. Flood was 93 years old at the time of the writing, and had his aim set at living to be 115 years old. He believed he'd make it because he ate only seafood. He was, he said, the world's only "seafoodetarian," and insisted that meat and vegetables shorten life.

IN ONE SECTION of the book Mr. Flood and his friend Mr. Murchison, a waiter, are upset by one of those cute articles about food written by a gentleman who had had a dish "created" in his honor, the same being a filet of sole on baked bananas. Indignation was high in Libby's fish market restaurant as follows:

"Of course," said Mr. Flood, "you got to take into consideration this fellow is a gourmet. A dish like that is just messy enough to suit a gourmet. They got bellies like schoolgirls; they can eat anything, just so it's messy."

"We got a lot of goormies in Libby's," said Mr. Murchison. "I can spot a goormy right off. Moment he sits down he wants to know do we have any booly-booze."

"Bouillabaisse," said Mr. Flood.
"YES," continued Mr. Murchison, "and I tell him, 'Quit showing off. We don't carry no booly-booze. Never did. There's a time and a place for everything. If you was to go into a restaurant in France,' I asked him, 'would you call for some Daniel Webster fish chowder?'"

"I love a hearty eater, but I do despise a goormy. All they know is booly-booze and pompano and something that's out of season, nothing else will do. And when they're through eating they don't settle their check and go on about their business."

No, they sit there and deliver you a lecture on what they eat, how good it was, how it was almost as good as a piece of fish they had in the Cafy dee lah Pooty-doo, in Paris, France, on January 16, 1922; they remember every meal they ever eat, or make out they do."

I have a certain sympathy with Mr. Flood and Mr. Murchison. Of late I have been getting about the country, and travel has but quickened my antipathy for cute places and for "goormies." The

Football, students and fun

By JON VAN
Editorial Page Editor
The following editorial appeared in Thursday's Iowa State Daily:

The recent editorial in The Daily Iowan suggesting that the State University of Iowa resume athletic competition with Iowa State seemed to be a friendly change in the weather to many here at Iowa State. But even though the editorial was well-reasoned (except for ignoring the financial disadvantages of SU1 playing in Iowa State's stadium), it avoided a basic question: Is Big-Time intercollegiate athletic competition, especially football, a Good Thing?

"The tendency of the Big Time athletics to corrupt education and to make the goal of many schools a winning team, rather than to flight education, has been the chief criticism of the 'football colleges.'"

"THE PRESENT state of athletics at Iowa State is well-illustrated by Pres. James Hilton's remarks made Tuesday night at the Winter Sports Recognition Dinner. He urged every athlete in this room to finish your education no matter how difficult this might seem to be.

"Hilton, like too many administrators, draws a distinction between students and athletes. Somehow, he suggests, athletes are different, their goals are different, and these goals may not include obtaining an education."

"Such remarks, although perhaps realistic, do not seem proper when voiced by the head of an educational institution.

"Athletes of all kinds, including football, can be beneficial and fun when placed in the proper perspective. This perspective should be one in which they do not detract from the educational goals of the University. Athletics at Iowa State are not now placed in this position.

"The main result of SU1-SU2 athletic competition at the present time would seem to be an undesirable increase in the professionalism at Iowa State, rather than a decrease at SU1.

"Perhaps intra-state rivalry will be beneficial at some future time when the game is played for fun, by students rather than by football players. Grinnell College and the University of Chicago would be good examples to follow."

THE POINT of this editorial is well taken, but one strange question arises in reviewing both this article and the other speculation raised by last week's Iowan editorial.

We did not even mention football in the article. We only wrote about "athletic competition," which everyone immediately translated to mean "football."

This only underlines the point of the Iowa State article. "Athletic competition" is not thought of as a term referring to an event surrounded by good-natured rivalry and fun, but rather it means a big business which must have large facilities to accommodate crowds from all over the state.

The reason for the interest created by the original Iowan editorial (especially among Des Moines Register circles, led by columnist Harlan Miller) is the preoccupation in this state with college football as fall weekend entertainment.

College football, and all other forms of "athletic competition," from baseball to gymnastics, should not be conducted on a professional scale in competition with big time entertainment.

Football for students, played by students, against other students, just might be a pleasant change. But don't be misled, we aren't advocating this — that would be heresy.

"Have some more luggage, we don't want you to go at all unless you can go in perfect style."

same flickering neon lights wink at the traveler by night and huge signs beckon by day along all the highways. Rarely is the promise of them fulfilled.

IN THE MIDWEST the roadside food is dowdy and undistinguished and in the West it runs to a phony Mexican and cutie-pie "ranch-style" vittles. In the South it is "fried."

The truth of it is there is good food in all states and regions, but it must be sought out, patiently and with skill. Those who have ruined eating places are those who will eat anywhere just so the place looks "cute" and has the "goormies."

Herbs are honorable, and necessary, but they, too, are in danger of being made into a cult by those who don't know anything about them... the goormies... who throw them into food like hay into a thresher.

Next time I go to New York I am going to see if Mr. Flood is still around. I hope he made it. I, too, despise a "goormy."

Uncontrolled protests called harmful

By JOHN ROBERTS
Staff Columnist
Last summer's "March on Washington" by supporters of the civil rights movement was momentarily successful. It was successful, however, not simply because of its size, and not in the mere fact of its occurrence.

It was successful because it was orderly. It was a dignified protest against discrimination; and because of that quality, it had a great impact not only in the United States, but throughout the world.

Since that "dignified protest," however, we have witnessed increasingly uncontrolled, spontaneous demonstrations — demonstrations such as that in Cleveland, Ohio, recently which culminated in the death of a man so impassioned by the cause that he lay in the path of a moving tractor and was crushed.

That man was not crushed by the tractor alone, however. He was crushed by his unreasoning, uncontrolled emotional defense of his belief.

More and more Negro leaders are arising who direct their appeals to the emotions, not to reason. Simultaneously, under the pressure of time and repeated accusations and counter-accusations of discrimination and injustice, increasing numbers of citizens, both Negro and white, are responding to those appeals. They are responding not as responsible members of a society based upon the rule of the law, however, but as near fanatics seeking to defy the law.

In our society, uncontrolled defiance of the law will accomplish little good. Recent history has proven, however, the effectiveness of judiciously planned and carefully controlled civil rights demonstrations.

This kind of demonstration we urge upon pro-civil rights groups. But even as they sponsor such controlled and purposeful movements as the "March on Washington" or drug store "sit-ins," they must oppose with equal vigor all uncontrolled, spontaneous, and emotional demonstrations such as that which occurred in Cleveland. Such unorganized protests will do far more to harm the cause of civil rights than the good accomplished by ten marches on Washington.

The stress of competition in a new face of Barry Keeley, Iowa gymnast at the United States Gymnastics petition continues at 10 a.m. today.

Gailis Second All-Around Go

Rusty Mitchell from NCAA titlist, Southern Illinois, led the elite men's all-around competition after completion of compulsory routines Friday at the United States Gymnastics Federation meet in the Field House.

Iowa's Glenn Gailis trails Mitchell by 71 points, 1131-1060, as they move into the optional routines in the six Olympic events which will determine the all-around champion this morning. Competition begins at 10 a.m. The individual champion in each event will be decided at 7:30 tonight on the varsity court of the Field House.

MITCHELL LED the free exercise and horizontal bar events after Friday's competition while Gailis was seventh in free exercise, and side horse; fifth in parallel bars and long horse; and second on the horizontal bar and the still rings.

HAWKEYE GEORGE Hery, who is not competing in the all-around, tied for first place with Mitchell in tumbling competition, finished sec-

City Student Wins Top Orator Award

Ann Wayner, a University High School student, won first place in the Girl's Original Oratory division in the Iowa High School Forensics League State Finals held here Friday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Wayner of 303 Lexington Ave.

Along with a first place certificate Miss Wayner will receive a partial tuition scholarship to SUI that will continue for four years. THE ONE-DAY STATE finals drew more than 900 high school students to SUI to participate in the several divisions. The students were chosen through district eliminations.

Headquarters for the event were in Schaeffer Hall, but the number of students attending caused an overflow into several other University buildings.

Brad Lewis, M. Pleasant High School, won first place in the Boy's Original Oratory contest and receives the same tuition scholarship as Miss Wayner.

RESULTS FROM THE other divisions of the contest were announced late Friday night.

Dr. Hugh Seabury, professor of speech, is the Chairman of the Iowa High School Forensics League and coordinator for the event.

Many SUI graduate students and instructors were among those who judged the events.

Final Months Heartwarming: Mrs. Hancher

By TOM GERDIS

"The many wonderful things which have happened to my husband and me during the past few months of our service to the University have been heartwarming."

Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher, wife of SUI's retiring president, said Wednesday afternoon at her home.

SUI's first lady continued, "After all the years of hard work here, it really feels good to know we have been appreciated."

Mrs. Hancher was referring to honors given her husband by various campus groups.

PRESIDENT HANCHER'S official duties for SUI will end July 1 when he will then go to New Delhi, India, as an "educational consultant" for the Ford Foundation.

"After leaving Iowa City, I am going to miss especially the church activities which have been such a vital part of my life here," Mrs. Hancher said.

"My husband and I will attend an Anglican church when we get to India, and no doubt a Christian church will mean a lot to us in a foreign country."

The Hanchers belong to Trinity Episcopal Church, 320 E. College St.

Mrs. Hancher said she hopes to visit the Taj Mahal soon after arriving in New Delhi. She said she would also like to take a two-week vacation on a lake boat where she can enjoy swimming, her favorite outdoor recreation.

The Ford Foundation has prepared a special manual for its employees in foreign lands, which includes 20-odd pages of detailed instructions outlining the specific items the Hanchers will need.

From this manual Mrs. Hancher compiled a four-page list of over 100 items to be taken.

By Wednesday afternoon she had accumulated four rooms of boxes and crates which must be ready for shipment by next Monday. The Hanchers' must also undergo nine vaccinations before leaving.

"I am unsure about the specific duties my husband will be performing there," Mrs. Hancher said, "although they might include work at the University of Delhi."

After two years in India, the Hanchers expect to return to Iowa City where Dr. Hancher will assume a position in the SUI College of Law.

"I am thankful for the privilege of being Mrs. Hancher and for all the wonderful experiences I have had as a result," she added.

Director Says Toughest Job Is Getting One

The most difficult part of becoming a film director, says Josef von Sternberg, is getting a job.

The creator of 25 films during the last 40 years, including the classic "Blue Angel", Von Sternberg told an audience of film students and teachers at SUI Friday that the mediocre talent has a better chance of success in the industry than a really creative one.

The noted director is on a two-day visit to the SUI campus as the guest of the Division of TV-Radio-Film. His views on directing, actors, film technique and kindred subjects were aired during an informal discussion in Studio 2 of the Old Armory.

"I never had to look for a job as director," said Von Sternberg; "they were all thrust at me. But I have noticed that there exists a hostility toward superior performance in most fields. The mediocre talent has a much better chance of success."

Von Sternberg, who was born in Vienna and came to the U.S. at the age of 7, says he became a director by accident. His first studio job was logging cans of film.

Washington sources described the nuclear cutback as a complete separate but parallel action on the part of the world's two foremost atomic powers. No deal was involved, these sources added.

JOHNSON FLEW here from Washington to address the annual luncheon of The Associated Press. He told 1,600 publishers and their guests:

"I have ordered a further substantial reduction in our production of enriched uranium, to be carried out over a four-year period. When added to previous reductions, this will mean an overall decrease in the production of plutonium by 20 per cent, and of enriched uranium by 40 per cent.

"By bringing production in line with need, we reduce tension while maintaining all necessary power."

JOHNSON said he expected similar action by Moscow — and this was forthcoming with the Soviet announcement of what it called a substantial cutback, including a halt to construction of two big new atomic reactors.

THE STATEMENT from Moscow noted that British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had not yet issued a statement on "practical measures in the field of reducing the manufacture of fissionable materials for military purposes."

JOHNSON cautioned the publishers: "We must remember that peace will not come suddenly. It will not emerge dramatically from a single agreement or a single meeting. It will be advanced by concrete and limited accommodations, by the gradual growth of common interests, by increased awareness of shifting dangers and alignments, by the development of trust in a good faith securely based on a reasonable view of the world.

"OUR OWN POSITION is clear. We will discuss any problem, listen to any proposal, pursue an agreement, take any action which might lessen the chance of war without sacrificing the interests of our allies or our own ability to defend the alliance against attack."

"I am taking two actions which reflect both our desire to reduce tensions and our unwillingness to risk weakness."

JOHNSON then announced the nuclear cutback.

"At the same time, I have reaffirmed all the safeguards against weakening our nuclear strength which we adopted at the time the test ban treaty," he said.

U.S., Actions Made 'Parallel', But Are Separate

Uranium Production To Be Reduced 40% In Four-Year Period

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union announced Monday a cutback in the production of nuclear explosive materials, in an effort to ease the atomic arms race. Great Britain is expected to endorse the move.

President Johnson first revealed the plan to American newspaper publishers at The Associated Press luncheon in New York and told them, "We reduce tensions while maintaining all necessary power."

From Moscow, came a similar announcement in which Premier Khrushchev hailed the cutback as "an opportunity for improving mutual understanding with the states on the necessity of avoiding a nuclear war."

Washington sources described the nuclear cutback as a complete separate but parallel action on the part of the world's two foremost atomic powers. No deal was involved, these sources added.

JOHNSON FLEW here from Washington to address the annual luncheon of The Associated Press. He told 1,600 publishers and their guests:

"I have ordered a further substantial reduction in our production of enriched uranium, to be carried out over a four-year period. When added to previous reductions, this will mean an overall decrease in the production of plutonium by 20 per cent, and of enriched uranium by 40 per cent.

"By bringing production in line with need, we reduce tension while maintaining all necessary power."

JOHNSON said he expected similar action by Moscow — and this was forthcoming with the Soviet announcement of what it called a substantial cutback, including a halt to construction of two big new atomic reactors.

THE STATEMENT from Moscow noted that British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had not yet issued a statement on "practical measures in the field of reducing the manufacture of fissionable materials for military purposes."

JOHNSON cautioned the publishers: "We must remember that peace will not come suddenly. It will not emerge dramatically from a single agreement or a single meeting. It will be advanced by concrete and limited accommodations, by the gradual growth of common interests, by increased awareness of shifting dangers and alignments, by the development of trust in a good faith securely based on a reasonable view of the world.
