Rail Settlement Announced

Nationwide Strike Threat Is Averted

Rail Union Wins Wage Changes For Yardmen, Expense Allowances

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced settlement Wednesday night of the 5-year-old railroad work rules dispute.

The settlement, which requires ratification by the five unions involved, removes the threat of a nationwide rail stoppage scheduled to start at 12:01 a.m. Saturday.

"This is a good day for our country," Johnson said in announcing the settlement on a hastily arranged nationwide radio-television hookup.

Speaking for the unions, Roy E. Davidson of the railway brotherhoods said the agreement was accepted in principle subject to the ratification procedures of the labor organizations.

"While the agreement falls short of satisfying all the important demands of the employees," Davidson said, "we recognize that significant gains have been made."

Without going into details, Johnson said the settlement terms are "just and fair."

DAVIDSON, speaking of what he termed significant gains for the rail unions, said chief of these is reaffirmation of the 100-mile unit of work, wage adjustment for yard employees, paid holidays for all daily rated employees, and expense allowances for road employees required to be away from home terminals.

The railroads will be able to reduce the number of employees required under present rules to man self-propelled track maintenance equipment.

Also, new rules will be established which will enable the railroads to a limited extent to use road crews for certain kinds of yard work. The present rule requires a separate crew to bring a train into a railroad yard and another crew to handle it there.

"MOST OF ALL," the President said, "this agreement prevents — we hope for all time — a crippling and disastrous strike in the railroad industry. This strike, had it occurred, would have put six million workers off their jobs, would have decreased our gross national product by 13 per cent, four times the largest decline in any post-war recession and would have forced a rise in prices throughout the nation."

For him, it was a great personal victory that will not go unnoticed in an election year.

Johnson said the agreement showed American business and labor operating at the highest level of public responsibility.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the settlement followed days of tense negotiations.

The sessions Wednesday were on the 13th day of a 15-day postponement won by Johnson.

The five-year dispute between five unions and nearly 200 railroads involves wages, jobs and working conditions of about 200,000 men who run the trains.

Work on Schedule For Interstate 80

AMES (AP) — The Iowa Highway Commission was told Wednesday that with good weather the 40-mile segment of Interstate 80 between Iowa City and Grinnell should be completed on schedule this fall.

W. W. Wickham, the commission's construction engineer, reported that five paving contractors have stockpiled 544,000 tons of aggregate or crushed rock at 11 locations along the segment, awaiting completion of grading work.

Wickham said the material was "probably one of the largest concentrations ever stockpiled in Iowa, if not the largest."

He said R. B. Burch Construction Co. has approximately three weeks of earth hauling to do, plus probably another two weeks of finishing work. However, he added, no delay in paving work was anticipated.

SENATOR KILLS MAN

LAKE PLACID, Fla. (AP) — A state senator said Wednesday the hardest decision he ever had to make was to fire two blasts from a shotgun at a Negro who was holding the senator's wife hostage.

The man, killed instantly, was tentatively identified as an escaped Georgia convict.

Civil Rights Debate—

Humphrey Is Key To Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major breakthrough appeared possible in the Senate's marathon civil rights debate Wednesday when Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) indicated he would go part way in meeting Dixie demands for jury trials in contempt cases.

Sociologist— History Helps Our Science

By PAULA KAPLAN Staff Writer

"Put up or shut up," George C. Homans, president of the American Sociological Association, said in a public address on Sociology and History" in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol Wednesday evening. "I say this to sociologists, as far as history is concerned."

In stressing the relationship between sociology and history, Homans said sociologists can be content to make generalized statements about social change, but they should listen to the historian and know the facts to back up these statements.

He added that some sociologists have "put up" the facts in some areas, but that an overall acceptance is needed. "However," he said, "the sociologist is not expected to do basic factual research. This is the job of the historian."

"The two sciences are becoming more identical in empirical interests, methodology, and theory. The differences have become blurred between them."

Homans was referring to the last 50 years when he cited similar characteristics between sociology and history. This is a departure, he said, from traditional history.

He said history and sociology stressed different things in the period of traditional history. Historians stressed kings and battles, war and politics, and individuals. Sociologists looked more to slums and things that were not directly political.

"Apparently, the figure one was not a statistic for the sociologist," Homans said.

Currently a professor at Harvard University, Homans is the author of several books and manuscripts. He has published works for 35 years.

For him, it was a great personal victory that will not go unnoticed in an election year.

Johnson said the agreement showed American business and labor operating at the highest level of public responsibility.

Theoreticians Mirror Own Lives—Prof

By BRAD CHURCH Staff Writer

Are we wrong when we think of political theory as an impersonal set of signs and rules to be taken at face value?

Dr. Sheldon Wolin, professor of political science at the University of California, says "theory is a biography" of its author. "A theoretician is embarked on a quest to make his theory apply and he has a desire to do something which will be remembered," Wolin said.

In the second of a series of three Shambaugh Lectures, Wolin discussed the correlation between "The Man of Theory and the Man of Power."

The theoretician wants to put his theory into practice and this involves the use of power, Wolin said. The theoretician or "thinker" must "sell" his idea to the politician or "actor."

In selling his theory, he may have to alter it somewhat in order to convince the ruler or politician that the theory will be of use to him.

The politician needs the theorist for his ideas and the theorist needs the politician to put his ideas into practice. Each is incomplete until the team is formed.

If the theory must be altered in order to be put into practice, it loses some of its impersonality, said Wolin, and should be judged as such.

The theoretician also has power of his own, Wolin said. In creating and ruling a society in his mind, the theoretician thinks much as the politician who rules a real society does. Wolin quoted from Plato. If the theory is true, Wolin said, it can change the real world when acted upon. There is a power in a theory.

Wolin then discussed the special sense of identity a theoretician has with society. This sense of identity is so close, Wolin said, that a correlation can be drawn between the state of society, as seen by the theoretician, and the state of the theoretician's own personal life.

Wolin said Machiavelli wrote of his own suffering as he wrote of the suffering of Italy in disunity. Marx's suffering during the writing of "Das Kapital" was related in much the same language as Marx explained the suffering of the proletariat.

Wolin distinguished between two types of theoreticians: the "insider" and the "outsider." The insider considers himself part of society. "His theories grant the 'Seal of Good Housekeeping' to parts of society as it exists," Wolin said. The "outsider," on the other hand, considers himself outside of society and disapproves of society as it is now. The "outsider" is usually revolutionary and critical while the "insider" merely justifies what exists.

Wolin promised to further explain the differences in his last lecture at 8 p.m. today in the Old Capitol House Chamber.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A nine-man court has sentenced Ngo Dinh Can, younger brother of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem, to die on the guillotine.

The 53-year-old former overlord of central Viet Nam was convicted on charges of murder, extortion and misuse of power.

A diabetic who suffered a heart attack last Friday, Can showed no emotion at the verdict Wednesday.

Despite Goldwater Forces— Republican Delegates To Go Uncommitted

By JOHN ROBERTS Staff Writer

DES MOINES — Despite a strong bid by Goldwater forces to field conservative delegates, the Iowa delegation to the National Republican Presidential Convention in San Francisco will go uncommitted.

Although Goldwater backers are claiming 12 of the 24 delegates, including two from the First District, William O. Weaver, Wapello, issued this statement for the Draft Lodge Committee:

"More than three-fourths of the delegates from the Iowa Convention are uncommitted, but many of them have indicated to me their leaning toward Ambassador Lodge."

ROBERT RAY, Des Moines, State Republican Party Chairman, told The Daily Iowan that as far as he knows only seven of the delegates are committed to Goldwater. "This can change, however," he added.

Delegates to the Convention received a taste of some of the campaign issues as they heard repeated attacks on the Democrats in Washington.

By means of a telephone hookup with Washington, D.C., First District delegates heard their Congressman, Fred Schwengel, cite the Bobby Baker case as part of "a record of exposures that the Republicans in Congress have accomplished."

After saying that President Johnson has described Baker as "the last man I see at night and the first I see in the morning," Schwengel quipped, "I don't know if this is why the lights are turned off at the White House or not."

Civil rights demonstrators join hands in a circle outside the main gate of the New York World's Fair Wednesday as they shout slogans. Despite demonstrations and threats by some groups to block access to the fair, more than 16,000 opening day visitors turned out in the rain to pass through the gate during the first hour. By the end of the day, police had arrested over 200 of the demonstrators.

SUI Speaker Is Arrested In New York

By TOM GERDIS Staff Writer

Bayard Rustin, a civil rights leader scheduled to speak at SUI Friday night, was among 109 demonstrators arrested in New York Wednesday morning for trying to block traffic during the opening hours of the World's Fair.

Rustin is due to address an SUI Committee on Human Rights gathering at 8 p.m. Friday in Macbride Auditorium. It is believed by The Associated Press, that he is being detained in one of the pens which have been set up to handle demonstration arrests.

"The chances of Rustin's getting to Iowa City on time are very good," Larry Barrett public relations director for Human Rights Week, said Wednesday. Barrett talked with officials in New York Wednesday morning by telephone and learned Rustin would probably be out on bail by 10 p.m. Wednesday night.

DEMONSTRATION leaders had said hundreds of automobiles would be stalled on approaches to the fair, but the affair in which Rustin participated apparently fizzled.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), said the purpose of the demonstrations was to "spotlight the issue between the glitter and fantasy of the World's Fair and the real world of discrimination."

In New York, police had to tow away only a few such cars as many of the demonstrators have aimed at subway lines. Police arrested 20 participants, mostly Negroes.

AT SUI another activity was inaugurated Wednesday. It is a human rights program this weekend for a community telegram campaign. This campaign has been organized to influence the civil rights voting of Iowa Senators Bourke B. Hickenlooper and Jack Miller.

The telegram reads: "We, the undersigned, Iowa City townspeople, faculty and students at SUI, respectfully urge your wholehearted support for Civil Rights Legislation now before the Senate. If votes of Middlewesterners."

SUI Speaker Rights Advocates Mark Fair Debut

NEW YORK (AP) — The billion-dollar New York World's Fair got off to a dismal start Wednesday, beset by a cold, relentless rain and besieged by hundreds of surging, shouting, persistent racial demonstrators. There were 200 arrests as police battled civil rights crusaders.

The fair opened on schedule at 9 a.m. with a brief, sharp influx of thousands of dignitaries and visitors. But by late afternoon, trains bound for the fair were nearly empty.

AT NIGHTFALL a galaxy of exhibition lights flashed on their grandeur veiled in fog and low clouds, and attendance mounted slowly to a total of 78,682 — far below the anticipated opening-day crowd of 250,000.

The one bright spot in a miserable spring day was President Johnson's speech inaugurating the fair — and even this was marred by chanted demands for broader civil rights.

In his address, Johnson prophesied peace within this generation, and foresaw an America "in which no man is handicapped by the color of his skin."

PLANS for a massive traffic stall-in on roads around the fair collapsed in the mist and gloom that marked the opening. Traffic around the fair was only 25 per cent of normal, with the very threat of the tieup perhaps contributing to the poor attendance.

However, rights advocates hailed the other demonstrations in and around the fair as successful. The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which denounced the stall-picketing of fair pavilions, said in a statement:

"You know our demands — meet them. Let this nation know we will not stop, we will not hesitate, we will wait no longer for the freedom which is rightfully and constitutionally ours."

Police and pickets clashed and there were minor injuries from kicks and blows.

THE ONLY incident of any magnitude was the halting of a fair-bound subway train by a group of Negro and white demonstrators. Fists flew and blood spurted for a few tense moments. The demonstration was broken up with the arrest of 20 of the participants.

FINALS SCHEDULE

The final examination schedule for this semester has been announced by the University Examinations Service.

Examinations are scheduled according to the time of the first meeting of the course unless the course is otherwise specifically listed in the schedule.

Examinations for single section courses which meet at 4:30 p.m. or later, or which do not meet on Monday or Tuesday, may be scheduled at any time period in this schedule and will be announced by the instructors.

Room assignments will be announced in class by the instructor. Courses having higher department numbers, or higher course number, when the conflict is within a department, will take precedence in the case of conflicts. Single section courses will have precedence over multi-section courses regardless of number.

No student is required to take more than three examinations in one day. An undergraduate student, who has more than two examinations scheduled for the same period or more than three scheduled for the same day, may file a request for a change of schedule at the Registrar's Office.

All requests for such changes must be filed by 4 p.m., Thursday, May 14. Graduate students should arrange for necessary adjustments directly with their instructors.

Following is the final schedule for the Colleges of Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Nursing and the Graduate College.

Another example of duplication

PLANS ARE NOW underway at Iowa State to duplicate facilities that are now adequately provided for at SUU.

Iowa State plans to begin a department leading to a major in music. There has been for several years a course of study leading to a minor in music, which has been adequate and will be adequate in the future.

SUI now has one of the finest music departments in the nation with a top program and top professors. It will take several years before Iowa State could equal SUI's music department not to mention the expensive process of building up equipment and library facilities.

This will mean large expenditures for Iowa State's music department to reach their objective. This money would be better used if it was appropriated to SUI's music department for further improvement.

This is based on the premise that the state really needs only one state-supported university that offers a major in music. And SUI is the place for this music department since SUI is mainly a liberal arts university while Iowa state is still mainly a technical university with liberal arts as a sideline.

However, this is a bigger problem than merely duplicating music facilities. The problem carries over into many educational and extension areas. It arises from the system of state-supported education that is now in existence in the state.

The single university system, recommended by President Hancher, in January would help alleviate this duplication of facilities and effort. If the system would be set up as proposed, educational disciplines would be apportioned between the state's three schools — SUI, Iowa State and the State College of Iowa. It would result in a financial saving to the taxpayers of Iowa and better education for students.

It seems that before further duplication takes place in Iowa's education system, the Board of Regents would do well to seriously study the single university system. We feel they would find it to be the best system for Iowa's education.

The impasse that is now in Cyprus

ARCHBISHOP MAKARIOS has said two things in Athens that are to be welcomed. The first was that he would be willing to accept a United Nations guarantee-presumably in any revision of the Cyprus Constitution — for the protection of the rights of Turkish Cypriots. The second was that the return to Cyprus of right-wing guerrilla fighter George Grivas would be inexpedient now.

If General Grivas did go back to Cyprus from Greece — it would only exacerbate a situation which is already grim enough. The United Nations peacekeeping force has been there for a month now; and through no fault of its own, the best that it has been able to do so far is to prevent things, getting completely out of hand. Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot are still apparently no closer to speaking terms.

It is manifest that once the sad chain of events that started at Christmastide, Archbishop Makarios was determined to make Cyprus a Greek Cypriot-run island — with Turkish Cypriot minority only tolerated at the best. He has won every round in the razor-edged diplomatic maneuvering since then. To that extent, both the Turkish Cypriot community and Turkey have suffered defeat after defeat in this ruthless game.

To have brought General Grivas to Cyprus now would have been cruelly provocative — and would almost certainly have postponed the day when the U.N. mediator, Mr. Tuomioja, could effectively start work. (Even now, it is regrettably still not in sight.) When he does, the idea of firm and meaningful guarantees from the U.N. for the Turkish Cypriots — apparently acceptable to Archbishop Makarios — will be worth exploring.

"When the pressure's really on, sometimes I just go in circles. My mind jumps and races; I feel like a rubber band pulled tight. I become so absorbed with myself that I forget to speak to friends. I'm impatient, irritable and demanding. And, the weekends are no better — I'm still tense — no time to relax . . .

"Most of the time I love it here at SUI, but sometimes I just want out. But where would I go anyway? I guess that's my problem — what am I doing here?"

Are you hearing this kind of statements around the campus today? Are you talking like this yourself?

Or, "WHEN I'M tense and nervous, I fall into a lethargic state. Or, I become annoyed and frustrated. I ask myself what the hell I'm doing — what am I here for? The more tense I get, the more introspective I get. When I try to sleep it off, I can't."

Well, if you are hearing these things, or saying them yourself, you can be assured that apparently these are normal, average reactions to the tensions which college life tends to create.

Several SUI staff members, who have worked with students for many years, intimated this in their answers to recent published charges that colleges today are turning out a "tormented generation."

These men were Dr. Charles H. Hubbell, assistant professor of sociology; Dr. Leonard D. Goodstein, director of University Counseling Service; and Dr. Robert Wilcox, physician at Student Health.

IT WAS THEIR consensus that mental breakdowns, suicides and misery of which modern college students are publicly accused are not as frequent here as in some other schools. However, they said the average student does often undergo a certain amount of emotional stress at some time during his or her college career.

These doctors tell this story of tension in SUI students:

Tension is excessive demands upon the individual. Tension is the problem which arises when an individual does not get satisfaction from the things others find rewarding. It is when he has nothing to look forward to with anticipation or back on with satisfaction. Tension is when a person's anxiety increases sharply, and he does not enjoy life.

Tension is all kinds of things—what you feel it is. And this uncomfortable feeling may or may not be oriented toward the situation in which it shows up.

But, tension is a normal phenomenon and not a pathological problem, until it becomes too much for the individual's mind and body to handle.

The causes of tension in SUI students are characteristic of any student body, they say.

The "identity crisis" is experienced by college youths. College catches the student at a critical point in his life cycle. He is trying to cut loose from his previous identity as a dependent youngster and shape a new identity as an adult.

This crisis is intensified because the student is kept in a state of dependency, while the 18-year-old in the working world is not. College prevents students from taking on an adult identity by imposing hours for girls, attendance at classes and constant oversers.

An important part of the new identity, is the student's desire to be accepted by other students and valued for what he is or hopes to be. But this acceptance is problematic — there is no guarantee he will be accepted and this creates anxiety.

THE PROBLEM in a university the size of SUI is getting to meet people. The student tends to get lost in a sea of anonymity. He has a yearning to meet people and be accepted, but doesn't know how to achieve it. Thus he often pays excessive attention to "How am I doing?" and "Am I doing the right thing?"

Another problem related to the identity crisis is working out relations in the family. Students are trying to undo the apron strings. They still love mother and father, but they want it to be a mutual respect between adults. This is one of the fiercest problems young adults face, because often the parent is less ready to relinquish the child.

Secondly, sex is another source of tension in college students. College age finds young men at the peak of sexual sensitivity and young women just before that peak.

Students are denied (and this is not unique to college students) the gratification of these urges; they must be controlled and this can be a source of tension. It can distract attention from other responsibilities and cause the student to perform poorly.

THE VERY strength of these urges gives rise to strong measures to deal with them. Self-

Students are motivated to come to the University by promises of many rewards — a good time and a degree. But, when they find the competition far stiffer than in high school, they are somewhat overwhelmed by the work load.

The increasing academic pressures on students is a primary factor leading to tension. In the last 10 years, the quality of the freshman class at SUI has increased measurably, and yet there has been no change in grading practices. This means that more superior students are competing for the same grades, and competition is just that much keener.

CONTRIBUTING to this pressure is the increased size of the student body. This makes the University more impersonal, and the ordinary opportunities for students to get faculty attention are sharply reduced. A heightened interest in higher education and an emphasis on a academic achievement adds to pressures on students.

Today's world and the student's awareness of this world sometimes bring on tensions also. Some students seem genuinely concerned about the direction the world is going in. There seems to be a reawakened political interest and a growing student awareness of national and international issues.

Two hundred delegates from 10 Big Ten schools will arrive on campus Friday afternoon to attend the Big Ten Residence Hall Conference, sponsored by the Inter-Dormitory Presidents' Council (IDPC) April 24-26.

Young GOP analysis—

Lodge is chief hope

By NEAL RAINS Chairman SUI Young Republicans

The most discussed question on the national political scene today is who will head the Republican presidential ticket in November. There is little doubt that had he not been divorced and remarried, Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York would have been the nominee. Unfortunately, his divorce has alienated too large a segment of the electorate for the governor to obtain the nomination. In view of his long record of outstanding public service, and his eminent qualifications, Rockefeller is deserving of a better political fate, but it appears now that the chief contribution he can make to the welfare of the party is to instill his moderate views on the platform/committee and defeat Senator Goldwater in the California primary.

The Senator from Arizona occupies a curious position. Although his strength has steadily declined among the GOP rank and file, he remains the overwhelming choice of the party's professionals. This situation is somewhat analogous to 1952 when Senator Taft had the support of the party "pros," but the nomination went to General Eisenhower whom the polls showed to be the popular favorite.

WHEN THE TWO leading announced candidates failing to excite the voters, the nominee will probably be selected from a trio of "non-candidates": Scranton, Nixon, and Lodge. Governor Scranton is the least likely bet, although in many ways he is the most attractive potential nominee. He is young, articulate, handsome, and experienced in the legislative and executive branches of Government, as well as being the Chief Executive of a large pivotal state. In a deadlocked convention, Scranton would likely be Eisenhower's choice, but it is unlikely that "Ike's" support will be decisive.

Nixon retains great strength among the party's leadership, ranking as their second choice behind Senator Goldwater. Nixon has a wealth of governmental experience, and he is widely known. However, he is a two-time loser, and his blast at the press following his defeat in the California gubernatorial race damaged his public image. If Goldwater finds his bid falling short, his support will probably be thrown to Nixon, and it might be sufficient to renominate the former Vice-President.

IF NOT NIXON, then the most likely nominee would be Ambassador Lodge. His tremendous grass roots appeal can be traced to the respect for a man who is serving his country in a trouble spot like Viet Nam, his attractive personal image, and his reputation for "talking tough" to the Russians at the U.N. Lodge's chief weakness is the lack of enthusiasm generated among party pros by his potential candidacy. This stems from what they regard as his lackadaisical campaigning in 1960. Recent polls indicate that Lodge will win handsily in the Oregon primary. This victory coupled with the New Hampshire results and his favorable showing in Illinois, indicates a vote-getting appeal that the convention delegates will find difficult to ignore.

If Lodge receives the nomination he should run a surprisingly strong race against President Johnson. The ambassador possesses the appeal to independent and middle-of-the-road voters needed for a successful minority party candidate. Henry Cabot Lodge is clearly the chief Republican hope for ousting that wheeling-dealing Texas politician from the White House.

Mr. Nixon can say 'I was there'

By RALPH MCGILL

Washington Notes: It is April again, and the nation's editors lately assembled in the city by the Potomac heard Mr. Nixon. April was breeding the purple lilacs of rumor and speculation out of the earth and Mr. Richard Nixon is at the heart of the GOP bouquet.

The date is something of an anniversary for Mr. Nixon. A decade had passed since he first spoke to the American Society of Newspaper Editors at a time when the French, bled weak by a long, fruitless war in Indo-China, were being forced deeper into the ill-chosen city of Dien Bien Phu. The town was in a valley and the guerrillas could fire into it from the hills above. They employed a sort of box constrictor strategy, killing off supplies, shooting down food and ammunition drops, and keeping pressure on the defending forces.

MR. NIXON said that day, speaking under the anonymous cloak of "a high government official," that the United States would send troops to Dien Bien Phu to prevent its fall. The Navy was on the move and the situation was tense. (European reporters present did not consider themselves bound by the rule of not identifying the "high" official.) Later, the city fell. We did not send troops. The war was the first major one of the new guerrilla variety in which old tactics won't work; and great numbers of men are not useful in jungles and vast stretches of marsh, tidal rivers, inlets and lakes. The French found that even in the deserts of Algeria old tactics were not enough. And now, in Viet Nam, the United States is harassed and frustrated by a like situation.

Now, Mr. Nixon is campaigning once more. He reportedly is "not satisfied" with the way the war goes in Viet Nam and suggests that perhaps it should be "extended" into north Viet Nam. Against that, of course, is the question of where it would be extended after the north was won — at what cost one may only guess — and a second query about how long the United States would need to occupy and hold it.

Anyhow, 10 years have passed and Mr. Nixon has spoken and it is not Dien Bien Phu and Indo-China, but Saigon and Viet Nam.

THE FORMER vice president continues to be high in the list of starters in the Republican presidential derby. He also has demonstrated again his methodical planning for the campaign, first for the nomination and, if obtained, for the election. Mr. Nixon believes that the administration will be vulnerable, if at all, at the foreign policy level. So, he made a world trip. He alone will be able to say, casually, "I was there," or "When I talked with heads of government in Pakistan I was told . . ." and so on and on.

Secretary of State Dulles died in the spring of 1959. Two months (to the day, as it happened) after the death of that indefatigable, dogmatic man, Vice President Nixon was in Moscow to open the American Fair and to travel about the country, duplicating in geographic scope an earlier American visit of Soviet notables. The so-called "Kitchen Debate," happily for Mr. Nixon and Mr. Khrushchev, was not taped. It was a finger-waving scene at the level of "anything you can do I can do better." But it did show the vice president shaking a forefinger at Mr. K.

LATER, the vice president made a courageous gamble to go to Warsaw. It was a huge success, demonstrating the emotional response of hundreds of thousands of Poles to the American presence.

The Russian journey was one of great political hope. It, too, was to enable the vice president, assured of the nomination, to say, "I was there . . ." When I talked with Khrushchev . . .

Now it is April again . . . 10 years since Dien Bien Phu, almost five years since Moscow, and the Russians and the Chinese have split. There is no monolith. And even the taxi drivers are divided about foreign policy.

Letters—

Future events will show results of Negro visit

To the Editor:

The recent journey of several sorority and fraternity members to a small Mississippi college, and the attempt of one sorority to explain and justify its part in the exchange to the national president were steps in the right direction. The fact that one student will now see a Negro as not just a Negro, but as a human being, is heartening. The publicity gained by the fraternities and sororities involved will help to establish them as humanitarian and civic minded organizations.

It is still true, however, that none of the social groups mentioned admit a Negro. If the blame is placed on national by-laws, the fact remains that each student on the trip publicized an affiliation with his organization, inferring that the action involved some kind of consensus within the group. It is in fact easier to make a pilgrimage to the South than to face an equally serious situation on one's home ground?

Forthcoming events will no doubt show whether this action was anything more than a clearing of a group conscience.

Big Ten Delegates To Gather at SUI

Two hundred delegates from the Big Ten schools will arrive on campus Friday afternoon to attend the Big Ten Residence Halls Conference, sponsored by the Inter-Dormitory Presidents' Council (IDPC) April 24-26.

A banquet, discussions, a picnic and an informal hootenanny will be special features of the conference. A number of other activities have also been planned.

THE DELEGATES will arrive by plane, train, bus and car. After a registration session in the Union from 2 to 6 p.m., the delegates, including about 50 SUlowans, will attend a banquet at the Holiday Inn Restaurant at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Helen Dawson, associate professor of anatomy. Her topic will be "The Value of Education."

After the banquet there will be several short meetings of the delegates, followed by a dance at the Holiday Inn, featuring "The Felas," a student combo.

A SERIES OF discussion sessions are planned for Saturday. There will be 16 general discussion groups, one discussion group exclusively for residence halls advisers and six "special topic" discussions.

BEFORE THE delegates eat lunch at Quadrangle and Hillcrest, they will hear an address in Old Capitol by Col. Brooks W. Booker, professor of air science, on "The Challenge of Leadership."

The delegates will relax to a picnic at Coralville Lake at 4 p.m. Saturday. Following the picnic, IDPC and Union Board will sponsor a hootenanny on the steps of the Art Building. The event is open to the public at no charge.

THE PURPOSES of the Big Ten Residence Halls Conference are to strengthen communications between the Big Ten residence halls, find out dormitory problems and direct ways of improving dormitory leadership, according to Sharon Thomas, N4, Fremont, Neb., president of IDPC.

Cost of the conference is $16 per delegate, covering room, meals and all activities.

Minneapolis Symphony To Play Here

By DOREEN HYDE
Staff Writer

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, which will appear at SUI Wednesday, is the only major orchestra in the United States to have its home on a university campus.

Started in 1903, the Orchestra was moved into Northrop Memorial Auditorium at the University of Minnesota in 1925.

The university and the orchestra cooperate closely in producing music, much like the joint efforts of the orchestra and choral groups at SUI.

THE PERFORMANCE at 8 p.m. Wednesday will be directed by Stanislaw Skrowaczewski. James Dixon, conductor of the SUI Symphony Orchestra, will direct the afternoon performance at 2:30 p.m. Dixon is a former assistant conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony.

Music presented in the afternoon concert will be a tone poem, "Don Juan," by Strauss; two nocturnes by Debussy and Symphony No. 7 in A major, Opus 92, by Beethoven.

At the evening performance, Skrowaczewski will conduct Symphony No. 3 in G major, Opus 42, by Roussel; Music for Strings, Percussion and Celesta by Bartok; and a Symphony poem, "Roman Festivals," by Respighi.

TICKETS FOR the two performances will go on sale at the East Information Desk of the Union at 9 a.m. Friday. Students will receive their tickets free upon presentation of ID cards. University staff tickets may be purchased upon presentation of staff cards.

Any tickets remaining Tuesday will be available to the public. Afternoon concert tickets are $1.50; evening concert tickets are $2.

High School Art
More than 70 Iowa junior and senior high schools have pre-registered to exhibit art works at the 34th annual Art Conference Friday and Saturday at SUI.

The conference, the oldest of its kind in the county, is sponsored by the Department of Art and the Division of Extension and University Services.

Each school will receive a personal evaluation of its work by two visiting critics, Thomas J. Larkin, professor of art at the University of Michigan, and Marvin Klaven, chairman of the Department of Art at Millikin University, Decatur, Ill.

In addition, Klaven will hold an informal seminar with high school students and will offer a critical appraisal of the show as a whole. Larkin will speak Saturday afternoon on "Some Old Hats Re-examined, and One New Hat." The students will also be addressed Saturday afternoon on "The Artist as Speaker" by Arthur Osver of Washington University, St. Louis.

Art Guild Films
The Art Guild Films scheduled for Friday will be screened in the New Chemistry Auditorium at 8 p.m. instead of MacBride Auditorium. The films are "Zero for Conduct" and "The Red Balloon." Tickets will be available at the door.

Attending were Gerry Finzel, E4, Dubuque; Thomas McClimon, E4, Lost Nation; Fred Barth, E4, Dubuque; William Boardman, E4, Harpers Ferry; and J. M. Trummel, professor of Engineering.

Boardman presented a paper on determining the contact area between aluminum plates. Research for the paper was done at Collins Radio Company in Cedar Rapids. All engineering schools in the midwest were represented.

Phi Kaps To Pick 12 Calendar Girls

Phi Kappa Sigma social fraternity is selecting 12 girls from a total of 57 to appear on the 1965 Coed Calendar.

The 57 contestants were picked by their respective housing units. Currier and Burge nominated 12 each; Westlaw chose three. Each sorority house named two girls.

All the contestants have been attending dinners at the Phi Kappa Sigma house.

Saturday morning the members of the fraternity will choose 24 semi-finalists.

The semi-finalists will attend a tea at the house from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday, during which each girl will be interviewed.

The judges are Mrs. Maxine Matice, fashion co-ordinator for Armstrong's in Cedar Rapids; Hugh E. Kelso, associate professor of political science, and Russell Schlotterback, an alumnus of Phi Kappa Sigma.

Course Scheduled On Nursing Homes

"Efficiency in Business Management" is the theme of the second session of SUI's special course on Nursing and Retirement Home Administration, which will be held today and Friday in the Pentacrest Room of Iowa Memorial Union.

Thirty-eight administrators are attending the course, which is being given in five, two-day sessions directed by the SUI Institute of Gerontology.

Topics for discussion at this week's session will include basic considerations in the management of housing for the elderly—finances, tax problems and records; the administrator's insurance program; principles relating to management of supplies and purchasing; personnel management; management of public relations; working with specialized outsiders; and plant management and housekeeping.

At Drake Saturday— O'Hara Won't Try For Relays' Mark

CHICAGO (AP) — Tom O'Hara, America's great 1,500-meter Olympic hope, won't even come close to cracking the four-minute barrier in the Drake Relays at Des Moines Saturday.

O'Hara will be making his first outdoor start after a sensational indoor campaign and his Chicago Loyola University coach, Jerry Weiland, commented Wednesday:

"I'd like to see Tom run as slow as 4:10 Saturday."

O'HARA WHO ran a record indoor 3:56.4 in the Chicago Daily News Relays March 6, came off the racing boards with a slight groin strain, an aching knee and a sore hip.

One of his rivals in a special Drake mile will be Emporia State's John Camien, who paced O'Hara to a 3:56.6 New York victory a few weeks before the skinny Loyola strider ran the fastest indoor mile ever at Chicago Stadium.

The Drake invitational mile record is 4:06.7, set by Dyrrol Brulson in 1959.

WEILAND'S program of building up O'Hara for an Olympic peak next October calls for gradual outdoor conditioning.

"It's a long, hard grind ahead for Tom before October and the Tokyo Olympics," said Weiland. "Reaching a peak too soon would be disastrous."

Asked for comment in Des Moines on Weiland's plan to keep O'Hara under wraps, Relays Director Bob Karnes at first said he would have no comment.

KARNES, track coach at Drake, then said the decision would not put a crimp in the Drake Relays. "I knew Tom had been out of competition for a while and didn't expect him to pick up where he left off," Karnes added, "but somebody's going to be down there near four minutes, if not under."

He said Camien "would be a factor no matter how fast O'Hara runs." After Drake, O'Hara will run in a couple of small Illinois meets and then start pushing his pace in the Modesta, Calif., Relays May 23. In the June Olympic trials at Randall's Island, New York, Weiland wants O'Hara to run just fast enough to qualify.

O'Hara, a pale 130-pounder, is not a hot weather runner and Weiland plans only a few good runs for him in July and August. Weiland is considering an August trip to England and Germany where O'Hara could tune up against strong European competition.

No 'Winning Edge,' Giacobazzi's Birthday

Iowa football captain Tony Giacobazzi shared one of his birthday presents with his teammates as the Hawkeyes were exempt from "Winning Edge" conditioning drills Wednesday. Giacobazzi was 21 years old.

The Hawkeyes ran through offensive and defensive drills during the 13th day of spring practice and then replaced the usual scrimmage with the offensive unit running against a goal-line defense and a short kicking drill.

Giant Ties NL Record In Victory over Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Willie McCovey, going into the game with an .080 batting average, hammered three home runs for San Francisco as the Giants spoiled Milwaukee's home opener with an 8-6 victory Wednesday.

McCovey's homers came in succession, off three different pitchers, tying the modern National League record. Bobby Lowe of the 1894 Boston Nationals, Lou Gehrig of the 1932 New York Yankees and Rocky Colavito of the 1959 Cleveland Indians, share the all-time major league record of four homers in succession in one game.

Twins Edge Senators, 7-6

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rookie reserve catcher Mike Brumley's passed ball with two out in the eighth inning gave the Minnesota Twins their winning run in a 7-6 triumph over Washington Wednesday.

Zoilo Versalles dashed home with the winning tally after he walked on a 3-2 count with two out and streaked to third on Bernie Allen's single to right center.

The Senators had rallied to tie it in the top of the eighth on Bill Skowron's third home run of the year and Chuck Cottier's sacrifice fly.

Yankees Beat Sox As Boyer Homers

CHICAGO (AP) — Clete Boyer's fifth-inning homer — the first the New York Yankees have hit this season — touched off a 3-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.

Whitey Ford, collecting his first victory after an opening day loss, scattered six hits in grabbing only the Yankees' second victory in five games.

Gary Peters absorbed the loss, leaving him with a 1-1 mark. He retired for a pinch hitter in the seventh after yielding only four hits.

Boyer's blast into the left field stands put the Yankees on top 1-0. They added another run in the seventh when Elston Howard went to first on an interference ruling by catcher Gerry McNettney, took second on a passed ball, third on an infield out and came home on a wild pitch.

Howard singled in the third run in the eighth.

Dodgers Continue To Slump; Drop 3-0 Decision to Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers lost their seventh consecutive game Wednesday night, bowing to St. Louis 7-6, and suffered an additional blow by losing the services of ace left-hander Sandy Koufax.

Koufax, the National League's Most Valuable Player and a 25-game winner for the Dodgers last season, was forced out of the game after pitching only one inning. He is being flown back to Los Angeles for examination.

Koufax has an elbow inflammation and slight muscle tear in his left forearm according to the Cardinal team physician, Dr. I. C. Middleman. Dr. Middleman estimated that Koufax would miss one or two pitching turns.

A crowd of 31,410, largest ever to see a home opener in St. Louis, was on its feet almost immediately as Koufax got into trouble in the first inning by throwing a wild third strike and eventually giving up a three-run homer to Charley James.

It was the first of five homers in the game. Carl Warwick and Bill White also connected for the Cardinals while Frank Howard and Willie Davis homered for the Dodgers.

The Cardinals built a 6-0 lead before the Dodgers battled back on the homers by Howard and Davis. Davis' shot made it 6-5, but White gave the Cardinals some extra working room in the seventh with his homer.

The Dodgers again closed the gap in the eighth on Jim Gilliam's single and a double by Tommy Davis. But that was all for the Dodgers. Roger Craig, who took over for Simmons, set the defending world champions down in order in the ninth.

Gebhard Disobeys Doctors' Orders; Leads Iowa Pitchers

BOB GEBHARD
Probable Starter Friday

While a freshman in high school, Bob Gebhard was told by medical specialists that he would never be able to play competitive athletics again.

But thanks to his love of sports and his desire for competition, "Geb" decided to disobey doctors' orders, go on to star in four sports in high school and rank today as the ace of Iowa's depleted pitching staff.

GEHBARD, IOWA'S PROBABLE pitcher in the Big Ten opener at Illinois Friday, now has a 3-1 record. He shut out Luther on one hit, Bradley on two and Arizona on a 5-hitter. In 32 2/3 innings, he has allowed 17 hits, only 5 earned runs, has fanned 31 batters and has an ERA of 1.35.

All this might never have happened if Bob had not decided to prove that doctors can be wrong. As a freshman pitcher on the Lambertson, Minn. high school baseball team, Bob was bothered by a knee ailment.

An examination revealed an unusual bone growth and Minneapolis specialists advised him to forget about athletics. After abiding by their decision for a month, "Geb" changed his mind and tested his knee once again in competition.

THE KNEE HELD UP as he competed in four sports during his sophomore year. "Actually, it seemed to get stronger and less painful the more I competed," he said. "It hasn't given me any trouble in the last two years. I guess I have just outgrown it."

Gebhard's high school career in Minnesota lends itself well to the "believe it or not" category. As a football quarterback he once scored on a 99-yard run while trying to move the ball away from the goal line on a quarterback sneak.

In one weekend basketball series, he scored 35 points as a forward on a Friday and came back on Saturday with a 49-point performance as his team broke a 22-game winning streak of the opposing school.

IN BASEBALL he was more consistent with his spectacular performances. He racked up seven no-hit games, including a perfect game in an American Junior Legion contest against a team made up of members of the state high school champions.

In track he competed in the 100-yard dash and broad jump, with his best being a :10.4 hundred and a 19-6 jump.

Instead of going to Gopher U, he enrolled at Iowa in 1961 with the Minnesota coaches' challenge that he could not be a Big Ten ball-player still ringing in his ears.

As a sophomore Bob led the mound staff in innings pitched as he toiled 45 1/3 innings. He posted a respectable 3.58 earned run average and a 3-1 record, but the loss really hurt as he was touched for five runs in a 9-8 loss to the Gophers.

"GEB" ALSO SHOWED the coaches he could hit in 1963 as he batted .406 by getting 13 hits in 32 times at the plate. Now with the loss of outfielder Bill Niedbala for an extended period, Coach Dick Schultz has considered using Geb in the outfield when he is not pitching.

During the winter months, Gebhard spends the time as the "court jester" on the Iowa basketball team. His continual team spirit and amusing mannerisms have helped the Hawks over many hardships during the last two years.

Bob is an active member of the I-Club and was recently named secretary for the 1964-65 year.

After graduation he wants to continue playing baseball and since Cleveland and Minnesota have expressed interest in him, he may go on to a professional career just to prove again that doctors and coaches can sometimes be wrong.

Cubs' Banks Bounces Back After Poor Showing in '63

NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Banks, once one of the most feared sluggers in baseball, appeared to be back on the beam after a year in which he hit rock bottom. But the change goes much further back than his mere statistics.

The 33-year-old Chicago Cub first baseman is a picture of health today with an attitude to match. This is a far cry from a year ago when a mysterious ailment not only sapped his strength and stamina but did things to his mind.

IT WAS MONTHS before the doctors finally diagnosed Banks' ailment as sub-clinical mumps, a disease that he believed.

The wonder is not that his batting average skidded to a career low of .227 but that he managed to hit 18 home runs and drive in 64 runs.

WHILE HIS current batting average is below .300, Banks already has smacked a pair of home runs in six games and leads the club with nine runs batted in.

"I'm confident I can deliver this year," he said. "I'm strong and healthy and in a perfect frame of mind. Last year I was down mentally as well as physically."

"It was a disappointment to the club and to myself. They had a great season and I was not a part of it. If I had hit anywhere near what I have in the past, we would have finished higher."

"I FEEL I've got something to make up for. The club was kind, considerate and patient with me. I want to repay them this year. And I can do it by having one of my old years — something like 40 home runs, 100 runs batted in and a .300 batting average."

NO EARLY GAME FOR HAWKS—
Hawkeye football players will continue their inter-squad "offense-defense" game for approximately 20 days in September before their first contest against Idaho U., September 26.

DETROIT (AP) — The pain and torture of 100 games is beginning to take its toll as the surviving National Hockey League teams prepare for the sixth game of the Stanley Cup final.

Manager-Coach Sid Abel of the Detroit Red Wings said Wednesday four or five of his regulars are suffering from assorted aches and bruises, but all are expected to be ready for tonight's game.

"I sure hope we end it then," said Abel, who was forced to use 38 players to staff his 17-man team during the season. Only Andre Pronovost and Alex Delvecchio survived the 70-game schedule without an injury.

Toronto will arrive by train today without shift Don McKenney, who remained in a Toronto hospital with torn ligaments in his right knee, suffered when he was checked by Al Langlois in Tuesday's

Soviets Use Ads Despite Ideology

The Soviet Union is increasing commercial advertising and product differentiation to move its developing surplus, including its shoddy goods, and to improve product quality, James W. Markham, professor of journalism and head of international mass communications, writes in the Journal of Marketing.

"This is a surprising and curious reversal in the official Soviet attitude toward advertising, which according to Communist doctrine, is a peculiarly capitalist phenomenon incompatible with socialism," Markham writes.

"In the traditional Soviet view, advertising is a parasitic form of activity and a drain on the economy. The constant tendency to crises of under-consumption in the capitalistic world, this view holds, caused the development of advertising, Markham continued.

SINCE the late 1950's, as the Soviet economy has changed from one of scarcity to one of relative sufficiency, available merchandise has grown. With this growth has developed the need for a method of equating consumer demand with production, and stimulating production of goods of higher quality.

Credit plans and installment buying became popular, and in some areas a buyers' market developed. Individual factories began to produce and advertise their own brands.

PROFESSOR MARKHAM finds lessons to be learned from the Soviet experience with advertising.

"First, the argument that advertising is a superfluous waste and an unnecessary drain on the economic system is weakened by the historic fact that the U.S.S.R. — the principal exponent of such an argument, as the world's most

Med Students Set Reports

Medical students at SUI will present the results of special research investigations at the second annual Student Research Conference Friday in the new SUI Pharmacy Auditorium.

Fred W. Hahn Jr., M3, Maquoketa, is chairman of Friday's program, which is sponsored by the Medical Student Council and the Dean's Office of the SUI College of Medicine.

Sixteen abstracts of student research were selected by a special student-faculty committee composed of senior medical students Donald H. Beisner, Cedar Falls, and John W. Walker, Iowa City and Dr. John P. Humel, professor of biochemistry; Drs. R. Dale Leichty, assistant professor of surgery; and Daniel B. Stone, associate professor of internal medicine.

The student-organized event is designed to recognize and encourage active research by medical students. By practicing active research, the student gains intensive scientific experience and becomes better equipped to deal with the ever-changing content of medical knowledge.

The following students will read their papers:

H. Paul Freemyer, M4, Bedford; Dennis Boatman, M4, Bloomfield; Bartell Whit, M2, Denver; Michael H. Graham, M4, Des Moines; Robert J. # Mayor Pro-Tem

Coralville City Councilman John L. O'Neill, 709 10th Ave., Coralville, will act as temporary mayor until the City Council has time to appoint a replacement for the late Dr. Robert G. Schreffler, who died of a heart attack Tuesday.

O'Neill was named mayor pro tem at the first meeting of the Coralville City Council last January.

He is the 57-year-old chiropractor. Dr. Schreffler was born in Marion, Ohio, on Nov. 6, 1906. He spent most of his youth in Sunbury, Pa.

He graduated from the Palmer College in Davenport and did graduate work at Logan Basic College, St. Louis, Mo., where he was on the faculty for three years and served as dean of the college from 1944 to 1947.

He moved to Iowa City in 1947 where he entered practice with Dr. S. A. Neumann. After Dr. Neumann's departure for Florida his wife, Dr. Gretchen Schreffler, joined him in practice in the Chiropractic Clinic, 23 S. Gilbert St.

DR. SCHREFFLER was a former president of the Coralville Optimist Club. He was a member of the Iowa City Elks Lodge and the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

Dr. Schreffler is survived by his widow and two daughters, Linda and Nancy. The family resides at 621 6th Ave., Coralville.

U.S. Geologists— Can't Tell If New Quakes Will Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The great shuddering of the Alaskan earthquake was felt over half a million square miles of land — and huge sections of the largest state rose and fell as much as 13 feet.

That was the report Wednesday of U.S. geologists and surveyors who studied the tremendous warping of the Alaskan shoreland.

What they cannot tell:

- Whether there will be any new quakes in the immediate future.
- Whether the great underground crack which caused the quake has indeed broken through the earth's surface. It is perhaps 12 1/2 miles below the surface in origin.

The experts seem relatively sure of these points:

- A 12,000-square mile area — and perhaps an unknown area out at sea-rose between two and eight feet.
- At one station in Anchorage, seismologists counted 560 local shocks in 178 hours of measuring, from March 30 to April 7.
- There is visible cracking in ice and other features over an area of 100,000 square miles — but it isn't known if the underground fault at the quake's origin reaches to the surface.

The reports, made in formal presentations to the American Geophysical Union meeting and at a news conference, were offered by S. T. Algermissen of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and Arthur Grantz, geologist with the Geological Survey, Menlo Park, Calif.

WILL CHILDHOOD BE THE ONLY FREEDOM THEY WILL KNOW?

Personal freedom can slip away a little at a time, as quietly as children grow. It can be destroyed by forces from within our borders... like the steady expansion of Federal Government in business, and the effect it has upon our daily lives. Already our Federal Government owns many thousands of businesses. In the field of electricity alone, the output of Federally owned electric plants has now increased to more than 15% of the industry's total. And there are those who would put government even deeper in business. This could be dangerous. When any government owns business, it can control both goods and jobs. When it does that, it can tell you where to work and for how much, where to live, even what to do or say. In the light of this, can you see any reason for our government to own and manage any business like electric power and light, where it is not needed? Isn't it best to leave that to the companies, like Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company, who have proved that the American traditions of individual effort are what gives our nation strength?

British-Soviet Spy Exchange Frees Wynne

LONDON (AP) — Businessman Maynard Greville Wynne came home Wednesday in a British-Soviet spy exchange after 17 months in Communist jails. He was traded for Soviet master spy Gordon Lonsdale, convicted of stealing secrets from a British naval base.

The exchange was made in secrecy soon after dawn at the Heerstrasse check point linking West Berlin with East Germany. A few British and Communist security agents watched as the two men walked to their respective versions of freedom.

Wynne, 45, was flown swiftly to London. He looked gaunt and grey — a shadow of his former chubby self. His head was shaven but he had kept his mustache.

He told reporters his release completely surprised him.

The Soviet convicted Wynne of spying while on business trips in Eastern Europe. He was sentenced to eight years, confinement — three to be served in prison and five at a labor camp.

Lonsdale had been serving a 25-year term in Britain since 1961. Unofficially, it appeared the British wanted Wynne back and that Lonsdale was of no further value to Western intelligence agencies. He had been tight-lipped throughout his trial and imprisonment.

Stassen Appeals For Primary Entry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen, who wants to make California's Republican Presidential primary a three-way contest, won a Supreme Court order Wednesday halting all preparations for the election pending his appeal for a place on the ballot.

Stassen seeks to enter the June 2 California race against Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

The temporary stay order was issued by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas at the request of Stassen's attorneys.

Stassen is now campaigning in Indiana for support in that state's May 5 primary election.

IN SACRAMENTO, California's Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk said he will move immediately to fight the court order.

Expressing doubt that deadlines for preparing ballots can be met, he added: "We intend to oppose the appeal both on the merits and also on the practical problems it creates in printing the ballots. Some counties have already printed their ballots."

Stassen was barred from the California ballot on the ground his backers failed to submit the required number of registered voters' signatures.

HIS SUPPORTERS contended they had filed more than enough valid signatures, and Douglas was asked Tuesday to stay all preparations for the primary voting, including the printing of ballots, until the full Supreme Court can decide whether to review the issue. About seven million ballots are affected.

In view of the time element, Stassen's lawyers asked for expedited handling by the high court.

The "Progress Corps" comes to the Fair

General Electric men and women have been gathering at the New York World's Fair, bringing the latest developments from the wonderful world of electricity.

They've made their pavilion — Progressland — entertaining. It's a bright show, enhanced by the master showmanship of Walt Disney.

But, more than that, it's your chance to see, as in no other way, the career opportunities offered in the electrical industry. For here, under one huge dome, is assembled a full range of the electrical ideas that are helping millions of people throughout the world progress toward better lives. Ideas that come from the people at General Electric, who form a real "Progress Corps."

There are new electronic ideas for medicine that promise better patient care in our hospitals. Ideas for more efficient factories, less-congested transportation, better community lighting, increased highway safety, and more comfortable living at home.

And there's the first large-scale public demonstration of nuclear fusion — the energy process of the sun.

For you, Progressland is a rare chance to see what General Electric can offer in terms of a meaningful career in engineering, finance, marketing, law, sales and many other specialties.

If this looks like your career path, talk to your placement director. He can help qualified people begin their careers at General Electric.

Booths to get signatures for today's campaign will be manned by volunteers under the direction of the Association of Campus Ministers at Penney's, Things and Things, and Younkers.

HIGHLIGHTS of the weekend conference will include panel discussions on SUI and the Southern Universities Exchange Program, tactics of the civil rights movement, patterns of the community discrimination and rights to employment opportunities.

Activities began tonight at 8 p.m. in the River Room of the Union with a panel discussion on "SUI—Southern Universities Exchange Program."

Two exchange students from Tougaloo Southern Christian College, Tougaloo, Miss., and two SUI students, Tami Grant, A3, Olin, and Dick Lehmann, B4, Cedar Rapids, will be panelists. Ray L. Hefner, SUI Vice President for Instruction and Dean of Faculties, will be the moderator.

Friday's activities will begin with an open house for the four Tougaloo exchange students from 1:30-3 p.m. at the Wesley Foundation, 120 N. Dubuque St. The Tougaloo students will be at SUI through Sunday.

SHORTLY AFTER his 2:38 arrival Friday at the Cedar Rapids airport, a press conference for Rustin is planned.

At 3:30 p.m., Friday a panel discussion, "Tactics of the Civil Rights Movement," will be held in the Old Capitol Senate Chamber. Panelists include John Lewis, national chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee for Civil Liberties, and Ernest Russell, Des Moines Civil Rights Commission.

Robert S. Michelson, director of the SUI School of Religion, will be the moderator.

A panel discussion, "Patterns of Community Discrimination," at 9 a.m. in the Senate Chamber will be moderated by Cecil Reed, Cedar Rapids Human Rights Advisory Committee. Mrs. John E. Kenney, 1004 Kirkwood Ave., Iowa City Human Relations Commission, and Seymour Gray, A3, Iowa City. The moderator will be Donald Johnson, chairman of the Department of Political Science.

FOLLOWING AT 11 a.m. will be a panel discussion on "Employment—Rights and Opportunities." Panelists will be Philip G. Hubbard, professor of mechanics and hydraulics; Charles Toney, Catholic Interracial Council, Davenport; and James E. Trainer, general manager, Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Des Moines.

At 3 p.m. the Westminster Foundation at 25 E. Market St., will hold an open house for Lewis.

Lewis will be the featured speaker at a civil rights rally to be held 8 p.m. Saturday in Macbride Auditorium. An influential civil rights leader and demonstrator, he participated in the March on Washington and numerous Freedom Rides in the South.

Concluding the week's activities, Lewis will deliver sermons at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, 26 E. Market St. He is a graduate of the American Baptist Seminary, Nashville, Tenn.

McNAMARA WINS— WASHINGTON (AP)—The House divided in praise and criticism of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Wednesday, but united in passing unanimously a $46.8-billion defense appropriations bill just after the way he wanted.

Before doing so, the House found itself embroiled in a debate over the life and death of America's naval shipyards. It heard a prediction that the New York, Boston and Philadelphia yards would be closed before the year is out.

Journalists To Hear Talks On Circulation

Newspaper circulation managers from the Midwest and Great Lakes area will attend the 15th annual Iowa Circulation Short Course at SUI Sunday and Monday.

The program, sponsored by the School of Journalism, will include lectures by SUI faculty members, panel discussions and talks by circulation managers from Iowa, Indiana and Illinois.

Moderator for the course will be Norman Tischer, circulation director of the Muncie Newspapers in Indiana. He will also chair a panel of four circulation managers speaking on the topic: "Enhancing the Carrier System Image."

PANELISTS WILL BE Ralph Hackman of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Newspapers, speaking on "The Need"; Jack Wilson of the Dekalb (Ill.) Chronicle, on "What We Are Doing in the Larger Operations"; and Mark Mantz, Des Moines Register and Tribune, on "What We Must Do in the Future."

Next on the Sunday afternoon program will be a talk by Frank Sherman, regional circulation manager of The Des Moines Register and Tribune, on "Carrier Motivation." He will be followed by Don Woolley, SUI pictorial journalism instructor, with a presentation of 30 slides showing "Front Pages Reporting the Kennedy Assassination."

Next on the Sunday afternoon program will be a talk by Frank Sherman, regional circulation manager of The Des Moines Register and Tribune, on "Carrier Motivation." He will be followed by Don Woolley, SUI pictorial journalism instructor, with a presentation of 30 slides showing "Front Pages Reporting the Kennedy Assassination."

Sunday evening James W. Markham, professor of journalism, will speak on "The Revolution in World Communications."

A TALK also will be given by Loyd Mitchell, country circulation manager for The Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, on "Mailroom Automation and Bulk Shipments."

Monday's sessions will start with a speech by Herbert Gilmore, circulation manager of the Michigan City (Ind.) News-Dispatch, on "Carrier Surveys." Next will be Ronald Boyce, assistant professor of geography, speaking on "Urban Scattering: Some Implications for Newspaper Circulation."

Also on Monday morning, Heckman will speak on "Circulation in Suburbia" and Harold Leinbach, assistant professor of physics, will present "Current Views of Earth's Radiation Belt."

THE PROGRAM will end Monday noon with a speech by Howard R. Jones, dean of the College of Education, titled "A Quantum Leap in Education."

Wilbur Peterson associate professor of journalism is chairman of the short course committee.

FORMOSAN STUDENTS—TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Students now may go to Europe, Africa and the Middle East to study without first taking qualifying examinations in Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist Education Ministry disclosed. Also exempt from the exams are students who obtain a scholarship of one or more years in any foreign university.

ON THE GO
In three years the Brothers Four have traveled a long way from the Phi Gam fraternity house where they once sang for kicks. Today they are firmly established on the contemporary scene and audiences cheer them from Tokyo to Tallahassee.

But the fresh, zestful, spirit of their college days remains and can be heard in all of their best-selling Columbia albums. In their latest, The Brothers Four Sing of Our Times, they tell of freedom in "Dance Me a Jig," and of captivity in "Take This Hammer." Of injustice in Bob Dylan's "Long Ago, Far Away," and of love in his "Tomorrow Is a Long Time."

It's an exciting album... perceptive, poignant and full of life.

Dr. Miller Warns—

Spring May Bring Harmful Accidents

Sunburned skin, poison ivy rash and severe foot lacerations accompany the unavoidable outbreak of spring fever for the careless students.

As SUI students turn to springtime activities, Dr. Chester Miller, head of Student Health, warns the students to be careful of sunbathing, picnicking in the woods and swimming in the Iowa River.

Dr. Miller stressed the importance of sunbathing for short periods of time, followed by increasing the exposure gradually.

"A temperature, a headache or an upset stomach are all signs of too much sun," Dr. Miller said. "When any of these symptoms appear, the person should stay out of the sun and drink lots of cold fluids," he said.

"An even, light-brown tan is sensible, however, a black tan which leaves the skin hard and leathery is harmful to the skin," he said. Overexposure may aggravate unknown skin conditions, leading to skin cancer, he said.

The woods around Iowa City are full of poison ivy, warned Miller. If one's skin becomes red, blistered and itchy, it is certain that he has been exposed to poison ivy two or three days before."

He also cautioned students to stay out of the Iowa River. "The bed of the river is littered with broken bottles and tin cans which can cause severe foot lacerations."

'Sleep' To Rest At City Library

"Sleep" has found a resting place. It will rest near the children's entrance of the city library among the shrubbery planned.

The sculpture, which arrived here several weeks ago, has been in the lobby of the Civic Center. It was donated to the city by its sculptor, William Lasansky.

The City Council, following the advice of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Citizens Advisory Committee, made the decision in the Council meeting Tuesday.

City Forester Ed L. Bailey will be consulted so the sculpture will be placed in proper relation to library shrubbery.

SUI Bridge Champs Sail Nationally

SUI bridge champions failed to place in the Association of College Unions 1964 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament. But John Conwell, A3, and Jim Robbie, A4, both of Iowa City, who played on the north-south board, and Jim Ruby, B3, Iowa City and Marshall Porter, A3, Iowa City, who were the east-west team, did win the Region VIII contest.

Oregon State and the University of Texas won top honors in the national tournament after the scores from each of the regions were received and tabulated.

Kohn Will Attend N.Y. Education Conference

Clyde F. Kohn, SUI professor of geography, will participate in a conference sponsored by New York University and the New York State Department of Education at Gould House, Ardsley-on-Hudson, N.Y., Wednesday through Friday.

The conference will be concerned with the topic, "American Education in a Revolutionary World: Challenge and Response." Dr. Kohn has been asked to read a paper on "Education for International Understanding."

Let Your Hair Down: Dunk A Professor

By DOREEN HYDE Staff Writer

Are you feeling tired and run down? Has the fact that finals are just around the corner begun to worry you? Do you want relief from your frustrations about SUI, professors and tests? Forget your cares and attend Project X, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., Thursday.

Project X, part of SUI's Spring Festival activities, will have something to raise everyone's spirits — from dunking professors to chasing greased pigs. Eight activities have been planned.

THE EVENTS will take place on the Women's Physical Education Field, across from the Union. Twelve BMO's (Big Men On Campus) will be the target of sponges thrown by students, while in another activity, your favorite professor could be the subject of some strenuous dunking.

The Dolphin Club will provide a half hour of entertainment on the Union footbridge before the starting of games.

LIMBER STUDENTS are urged to compete for a prize in the limbo contest to the calypso rhythms of a local band.

Men's housing units will be asked to supply able males for a wheelchair race to be run on one of the streets adjoining the Union.

A bed rolling race is also scheduled, with each bed being pushed by two or three men. Each bed is to have six girls seated on it — a clue to all men to line up six of the lightest girls they know for the event.

The other two events scheduled are a balloon roll and a greased-pig chase. The object of the balloon roll is to have an unbroken water-filled balloon at the end of a couple's race. The balloon is placed between the couple.

Orval 'Poor Boy' Faubus Announces for 6th Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Democratic Gov. Orval E. Faubus announced for a sixth term Wednesday and said it will be "interesting to see if a poor boy can still beat a millionaire."

The millionaire is Winthrop Rockefeller, brother of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Arkansas.

The stage is set for the state's first real two-party political fight since Reconstruction. Faubus was born in a cabin.

Professor Sees Five-Fold Enrollment Rise by 2014

Harold W. Saunders, professor of sociology, made "forecasts" of the year 2014 in an address to the 50th anniversary conference of the Association of College Unions Tuesday at Indiana University, Bloomington.

Saunders said he believes the future cannot be predicted but can be "invented" through present-day planning.

He foresaw these probable conditions in the United States 50 years from now:

• The number of college students will reach a "staggering total" of 20 million, or about five times the current enrollment nationally.

• Total U.S. population will reach 375 million, of whom some 32 million will be 65 years of age or older.

• Only 28 per cent of the Negroes in America will reside in the South, compared with 56 per cent now.

• Agricultural surpluses will persist, but shortages will arise in water resources, national parks and outdoor recreation areas.

He began his career as a correspondent for the United Press. As a war correspondent, he covered many of the major battles of World War II for the United Press and later for Reuters, a British news service. After the war, Reuben worked in the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) news department.
Since 1952 Reuben had managed his own restaurant in Manhattan Beach, Calif.

Cockroaches Once More Invade I.C.
It's invasion time once again for the American, German, and Oriental cockroaches.
Even if you have a neat house, you may still be bothered by these adaptable pests this spring and summer.
During its 250 million year history, the cockroach has altered its digestive system to accommodate almost any diet. While it prefers homecooked meals, it will be almost as happy in a repast of shaving cream, toothpaste, hair oil, paint or anything that contains grease.
Everyone can be guilty of bringing the pests into a house. They can be picked up at the grocery store, for instance, and brought home in the grocery bag or soft drink carton.
The roaches can't be seen but the eggs are there. Each egg capsule contains up to 35 potential roaches. Once home, these will hatch out in 5 to 14 days.
Unless one acts promptly, troubles are just beginning, for another generation of roaches will be along in three months, depending upon the climatic conditions. Average infestation can range anywhere from 2 to 5,000.
Sanitation is the first step in getting rid of these unwanted guests.
Cleanliness can hold down the infestation and keep it from getting out of hand and aerosol sprays will help temporarily.

Tension S Life at T Visitors

By DALLA Staff

The civil rights movement and the awareness of the problems of the American Negro today, at Tougaloo Southern Christian College.

The three students, visiting on a change program between the two schools, are: a sociology major from Tougaloo, 21, a biology major from Magdalen, 22, a history major from "all over the world," 23.

As part of a campus located in the struggle for racial equality, the college lives in an atmosphere of tension.

Joan Trumpauer, Jerry Hands extended in fellowship

THE TOUGALOO campus since the object of shootings by the whites once a week. Miss Trumpauer and Jerry Hands, a Negro, are the only two cars patrolling the campus and adding to the tension.

The college owns approximately 10 acres for class buildings and a dormitory. The land is used agriculturally and annually about 330 students, although the college is expected to be increased within the next few years.

Miss Trumpauer, one of the first white girls ever admitted to Tougaloo.

"THERE IS NO discrimination," she said. "This is illustrated by the fact that Negroes were elected president of the college."

"We don't feel white. At Tougaloo what color everybody is," she said.

Miss Trumpauer previously attended Duke University, Durham, N.C. In 1960 she was arrested "several times in several states" for her participation in racial demonstrations.

"I KNEW I'd be expelled from Duke after that anyway," she said. "I wanted to go to school in the South, but I knew with the recommendation I was sure to get from Duke I could only be admitted to a Negro school. So I chose Tougaloo."

Presently vice chairman of the local civil rights group affiliated with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), Miss Trumpauer spent some time in the Mississippi state penitentiary for her part in the 1961 freedom rides.

She has also actively participated in sit-ins, pickets, pray-ins and other local protest groups.

"Through the civil rights movement, students have gained an ambition and a goal they didn't have in 1960. They have gained a self-respect through participation in these demonstrations that is worth more than one lunch counter sit-in," Miss Trumpauer said.

THE ATTITUDE of the southern Negro today is, "We'll do what we have to do to show that we're people too," according to Miss Trumpauer.

"Some of the demonstrations are more worthwhile than others," Bennett said. "For instance, I saw a little value in the demonstration at the World's Fair Wednesday."

THE EXCHANGE program, which these students are participating in, is sponsored at SU by a committee operating under the University Human Rights Committee. Six SU-Iowans visited Tougaloo last week.

The current exchange is a pilot for a larger scale program to be conducted next fall in which about 10 students from three Southern Negro schools will come here, and several SU-Iowans will spend a year in the South.

Although this is SU's first attempt at such a student exchange, Tougaloo frequently sponsors similar exchanges with various Northern colleges and universities.

"The exchange program as a whole is accomplishing a great deal. Students from other schools bring ideas to us and they, in turn, actually feel the civil rights movement, instead of merely reading about it," Miss Wilburn said.

"THOSE OF US who go from Tougaloo to visit other colleges come back changed because of the different atmosphere in the other schools," she said.

"The Northern students always say they are not prejudiced
