Featherbedding To End On U.S. Railroads: Court

Supreme Court OKs Dropping Of Firemen

Could Bring Strike In 1966 by Unions; No Reason Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lingering railroad work-rules dispute moved another giant step toward settlement Monday when the Supreme Court let stand an arbitration ruling which could eliminate up to 48,000 jobs.

The court rejected, 8 to 0, an appeal by four on-train brother-hoods from the congressionally created arbitration board's ruling of last November to allow dropping of firemen and other crewmen whose jobs the carriers find unnecessary, called "featherbedding."

Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, former secretary of labor, took no part in the decision.

The brief order gave no reason for the decision.

THE ACTION comes on the heels of last Wednesday's agreement reached under President Johnson's prodding for settlement of other issues in the five-year-old dispute. Both sides have begun the job of getting that agreement into contract form for submission to the unions for ratification.

The brotherhoods could ask the Supreme Court to reconsider its decision but the unanimous vote is likely to discourage any such step. The way is left open for the brother-hood to strike later on the job elimination issue, after the arbitration runs out in 1966.

The only other issue not settled by last week's negotiations involves interdivision runs. This was set aside for ironing out later.

UNION SPOKESMEN indicated they will seek to have the board modify its award to the railroads when the board meets here May 7, the date on which, by mutual agreement, the award will become effective.

Charles Luna, president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said in Cleveland, Ohio: "WE WERE hopeful that the Supreme Court would rule that the arbitration law was class legislation. We will comply with the law when the arbitration board makes its interpretation May 7."

Railroad spokesmen declined to comment on the ruling, except to say that the board's ruling would go into effect on May 7.

A spokesman for the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers said an effort would be made to argue the interpretation of the next step when the board meets.

Congress set up the arbitration board in August last year as the last-ditch move to head off a threatened strike by the 200,000 members of the five on-train brother-hoods.

The board ruled only on the job-elimination question and left the other issues to negotiation by the two sides.

Under the board's ruling, the railroads were given a go-ahead to eliminate up to 90 per cent of the 33,000 firemen's jobs on freight and yard diesel locomotives. The lines were told to negotiate locally for elimination of up to 18,000 other crewmen.

The 200 railroads were free to begin eliminating the jobs Jan. 24 of this year but delayed action pending outcome of appeals to the courts.

The railroads contend firemen are not needed on most modern diesel locomotives and that keeping them on is "featherbedding."

New Sanity Trial Request Granted In Jack Ruby Case

DALLAS, Tex. — Jack Ruby, described by his lawyers as a man whose "mind is falling apart," will get a jury trial to determine if he is now insane and should be committed to a mental hospital.

In response to a request for a sanity trial filed by Eva Grant, Ruby's sister, Judge Joe B. Brown said he would begin empanelling a jury at the first suitable date.

Texas law requires that a judge hold such a trial if the defense asks for it.

Ruby, who banged his head against a cell wall Sunday, appeared pale and shaky at a hearing Monday. An abrasion the size of a half-dollar could be seen on the top of his head.

A psychiatrist testified that Ruby, the slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, believes his crime has brought about a slaughter that will bring death to 25 million American Jews.

May Be Illegal—

Union Stops Pay For Hoffa's Bills

ST. LOUIS — Teamster Vice President Harold J. Gibbons said Monday that Teamster President James R. Hoffa had ordered the union to stop paying his legal fees.

"Mr. Hoffa," Gibbons said, "wants to find out if such payments are legal. The decision will not be reversed until their legality is upheld by a nationally outstanding authority."

GIBBONS said Hoffa's decision came at Chicago where Hoffa is being tried on federal charges of mis-using $20 million in union pension reserves.

"Mr. Hoffa made the decision in view of a request by Teamster Vice President John J. O'Rourke of New York," Gibbons said.

O'Rourke said he received a legal opinion that paying Hoffa's legal fees with union funds is illegal. Gibbons denied reports that the Teamster secretary-treasurer had ordered the payments stopped.

AN ATTORNEY representing 127 members of Teamsters Local 107 in Philadelphia, Gibbons said, sent a letter which said that union payment of Hoffa's legal fees is illegal. Gibbons said that a copy of the letter went to all union vice presidents.

"Teamster vice presidents agreed Friday to hire an outstanding legal authority from outside the union to study the problem," he said. "Hoffa made his decision in a phone call to the vice presidents today."

The opinion of Teamsters, general counsel Edward Bennet Williams that it is illegal to use union funds to pay Hoffa's trial expenses appeared to put both Hoffa and the union's 15-member executive board in a tight financial bind.

WILLIAMS reportedly told executive board members they could be made personally responsible if they continue authorizing such use of union funds.

And, Williams reportedly advised, Hoffa could be liable for personal income taxes on union money used to pay his trial costs, which are estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

HOFFA was reliably reported to be angry, emotional and upset about Williams' advice, which informed sources said came as a complete surprise and reversed an earlier opinion that such expenditures were legal.

Businessmen Applaud LBJ At Convention

Chamber Hears Attack on Poverty, Forecast of Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wave after wave of applause from a predominantly Republican audience greeted President Johnson Monday. Some came on his prediction of a $30-billion profit year and his promise of "restraint and responsibility" in government but he drew noisy endorsement at dozens of other points.

Some 5,000 delegates of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and their wives interrupted with applause or laughter, or both, 60 times during Johnson's lively, hour-long speech.

It was a triumph for the Democratic president and, sensing it, Johnson strayed far from his prepared text to regale the businessmen with Texas-style quips and anecdotes.

His forecast that 1964 would bring industry $30 billion in profits, after taxes, was given in a long extemporaneous passage, in which Johnson noted that profits were $17.2 billion in 1952, $24.8 billion in 1957 and $27.1 billion last year.

HE SEIZED the opportunity to press his attack on poverty, telling the businessmen they can help make "taxpayers out of tax-eters."

The President said that despite the rising level of profits and prosperity for millions, the poverty of many Americans is "a mounting burden" of relief, medical and police costs. He said that racial and religious discrimination is costing the nation $15 billion in output each year.

More costs are entailed in fighting the effects of poverty elsewhere in the world, he said, adding: "If you don't remember today, anything else that I tell you here I want you to remember this: 'IF PEACEFUL change is impossible, then a violent change is inevitable.'"

The President gave assurance that he means business about cutting government costs, closing unneeded military posts and "cavalry forts," eliminating excess federal workers.

"I do not accept the viewpoint on either side, that business and government are inherently hostile opponents," he said.

Constitution Hall was jammed for his appearance — an unusual circumstance for the opening session of the chamber's annual meeting — and if there was any ice Johnson broke it quickly by his mild greeting: "I suppose it might not be entirely accurate to greet you as 'my fellow Democrats.'"

HE SAID he'd settle for "fellow Americans," and then swiftly recounted the good news of the past few weeks — settlement of the rail dispute "without a strike and without compulsion," a record $608.5-billion rate of national output, the "largest tax cut in all history."

"But I must apologize to you this morning," he said.

"We haven't done anything for business this week.

"But please remember, this is only just Monday morning."

With evident pride he noted that the federal budget has been cut by almost a billion dollars, the deficit is being halved, federal employment in March was down 13,000 from a year ago.

Couple Challenges Law—

Court To Review Mixed Marriages

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to rule on the validity of Florida laws that prohibit Negro and white persons of the opposite sex from getting married or living together unmarried.

An appeal by Dewey McLaughlin, described as a Negro, and Connie Hoffman, a white woman, said Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana, Nevada, North Dakota and Tennessee have similar laws.

The pair was arrested in Miami Beach in February 1962 and each was sentenced to 30 days in jail and $150 fine. A Florida welfare worker testified at their trial that the white woman said she had been living with McLaughlin as her common-law husband since 1961 and they never married.

THEIR APPEAL asked "whether a state can forbid parties from contracting a lawful marriage within the state because of their race, and then convict the same parties for entering into 'unlawful cohabitation.'"

The pair contended that Florida punishes Negroes and whites who engage in certain conduct together but does not forbid such conduct by Negroes only or whites only.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed a brief on behalf of the couple. It argued that their conviction violated federal guarantees of equal protection and due process of law.

FLORIDA, arguing against a high court hearing of the case, contended that the question of interracial marriage is not involved.

Atty. Gen. James W. Kynes of Florida said the sentence was given the couple "because of a violation of basic concepts of sexual decency and not because of any race."

'Nurse' Steals Baby From Mother's Arms

CHICAGO — A woman dressed as a nurse stole a 2-day-old baby from its mother's arms in Michael Reese Hospital Monday, authorities said.

The woman entered the mother's room while she was feeding the baby and took it on a pretext that the infant had to be returned to the nursery for an examination.

The mother, Mrs. Dora Fronczak, 28, described the woman as about 5-feet-7, blond, and between 35 and 40 years of age.

Cigaret Producers Agree Not To Appeal to Minors

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's cigarette makers said Monday they have agreed on an advertising code stating that ads will "not represent that cigarette smoking is essential to social prominence, distinction, success or sexual attraction."

Banned by the code are testimonials from athletes, celebrities or anyone "who might have special appeal to persons under 21."

THE CODE ALSO ends the distribution of free sample cigarettes to anyone under 21 and promotion of cigarette smoking on school or college campuses, including advertising.

The companies, represented by the Tobacco Institute, said an administrator to enforce the code will be named soon. All advertising must be first submitted to him for approval.

THE CODE, which must be cleared by the Department of Justice for compliance with anti-trust laws, will apply to all cigarette advertising, the announcement said.

No statements can be made unless they are "significant in terms of health and based on adequate, relevant and valid scientific data," the code states.

Exhibits Give View of SUI

Six exhibits of the SUI campus will be shown Wednesday through Monday during Spring Festival.

Lynn Barricks, A2, Des Moines, and Mimi Stone, A2, Bettendorf, chairmen of the Spring Festival exhibits committee, announced Monday that the displays will be in the Union, Library, Old Capitol and Field House.

"The Changing Face of SUI," a presentation of campus construction projects and a display of student life, in the form of composed photos and captions from the 1963 Hawkeye, will be in the New Lounge of the Union.

SUI's history, shown by mats, pictures and captions, will be exhibited in the Library showcases.

Old Capitol will be the site of a pictorial history of development under each of the SUI presidents, and also the history and contributions of persons for whom campus buildings have been named.

Stanley Johnson, assistant professor of military science, said an Army helicopter, will be displayed by ROTC on the army drill floor of the Field House Friday through Saturday afternoon.

Faculty members assisting the exhibits committee are Dale M. Bentz, associate director of the Library; Francis Paluka, head of special collection for the Library; Mrs. Lillian C. Bezanon, library assistant; and Kenneth D. Donelson, coordinator of special services for the University Relations Office.

$100 Scholarships To Be Awarded

Undergraduate honors students who plan to major in Chinese language and civilization are eligible for the Pollock Scholarship awarded annually at SUI.

Two $100 scholarships will be awarded to freshmen and sophomore students in the SUI Honors program who plan to study Chinese. The scholarship was established last year by Mrs. Winfield Cobb of Roanoke, Va., in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Pollock, formerly of Burlington.

The selection of the candidate to receive the scholarship will be made on the basis of scholastic excellence and financial need. Application deadline is Saturday. Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Chinese and Oriental Studies office, 322 Gilmore Hall.

"The President has made his position known, the House has done its duty, and the issue is here in the Senate," Mansfield said.

Aiken, before yielding the floor, said "I withdraw my invitation to the President." He told reporters later he thinks Mansfield "knows the President better than I do."

Persons shown smoking in ads shall be at least 25, the code states, and "shall not be dressed or otherwise made to appear to be less than 25 years of age." The provisions apply also to drawings.

The code bans pictures of persons "smoking in an exaggerated manner."

Rights leaders should emphasize progress

THE DAILY IOWAN supports the cause of civil rights. Supporting the "cause," however, does not prevent us from taking issue with its methods or its spokesmen. Today we think it necessary to comment on some of the remarks made by Negro civil rights leader Bayard Rustin, as reported on these pages Saturday, April 25.

Mr. Rustin said, "No one, whether he be black or white, has the moral right to criticize Negro tactics unless he has earned that right by joining the Negro movement and using his tactics."

We disagree. Not only has each citizen the "moral right," he has a moral obligation to criticize Negro tactics in this civil-rights struggle if he considers them not in the best interest of either the cause or the nation. The democracy of this country, however poorly practiced, functions through the conflict of ideas and the eventual resolution of that conflict. This is the process by which Congress makes our laws.

Secondly, Mr. Rustin said the civil-rights bill now on the Senate floor "lacks the teeth" necessary to be a real value to the civil-rights movement. "A clause should be added to the bill which would punish persons discriminating against Negroes," he said.

Again we must disagree. Provision for the punishment of persons discriminating against Negroes is already part of the bill — but only if the offender disobeys a court order prohibiting the discrimination.

Finally, Mr. Rustin says that Negroes have protested peacefully for ten years and things are no better. He says there are more Negroes unemployed now than in 1954. "There are more Negroes in segregated schools and the conditions in Negro housing are worse," he says.

Again we must take issue. There has been great progress in the civil-rights movement.

It is true, as Mr. Rustin says, that there are more unemployed Negroes now than there were in 1954. He neglects to point out, however, that there are also more unemployed white men now than in 1954.

It is also true, as Mr. Rustin says, that there are more Negroes now attending segregated schools than there were before the 1954 Supreme Court decision. This fact is not a product of increased segregation, however. It is a product of increase population. Mr. Rustin should have pointed out that there are both more integrated schools and more Negroes attending them.

More truly illustrative of the change in the Negro housing situation than Mr. Rustin's cry, is the increased number of integrated communities. Many of these communities have been integrated only after strife; many, however, those that did not make headlines, have been integrated quietly and without difficulty.

It is too easy for us to talk about the lack of progress in any movement, especially one as close to us as the civil-rights movement. We would like to see greater emphasis on the progress of the movement. We would like to see admissions that such means as the use of billy clubs and police dogs are not limited to pro-civil-rights demonstrations.

We realize that techniques of arousing the people to action do not normally include haranguing them about the worthwhile accomplishments of the opposition. Because the Negro seeks civil rights with integration, however, not separation, because he seeks to live in harmony with the white man, not at war with him, both sides must exercise honest and patient understanding — in spite of the immediacy of the Negro's needs.

The goals of civil rights with integration and harmony will not be gained by arousing antagonism. For that reason, although the Negro neither can nor should be satisfied with his present situation, he must honestly recognize, and both give and take credit for the accomplishments of the civil-rights movement, not deny them.

—John Roberts

Repercussions of the stall-in

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Not only has the stall-in caper of militant civil rights demonstrators caused ill-feeling at the New York World's Fair, but the repercussions have spread to the rest of the country.

Anyone who runs out of gas now, on a major highway, is an immediate suspect.

Two days after the World's Fair publicity on stall-ins a friend of ours ran out of gas on a highway outside of Washington and this is what happened. He flagged down another car. When it stopped, he said to the driver:

"I'm sorry to bother you, but I just ran out of gas."

"Oh, you're one of those guys," the driver said menacingly.

"No, you don't understand. My wife forgot to fill up the gas tank yesterday."

"She's one, too, huh? I ought to punch you right in the nose."

"Please, I don't want to get into a fight," our friend said. "I just want some gas."

"All you guys are for non-violence," the driver snarled. Several cars stopped to see what was going on.

"This guy says he's run out of gas," the driver said.

"Let's lynch him," another driver said.

"Our friend started to get nervous as the crowd enlarged and cars started to honk their horns.

"If someone would just help me push it over on the grass, I'd be most grateful," our friend said.

"Sure," said someone in the crowd, "and then you'll push it out on the highway again."

"I won't," our friend promised. "I'll go buy some gas."

"You should have thought of that before you started the stall-in."

"Has anyone got a cattle prod?" a voice yelled.

"I don't need a cattle prod," our friend said. "I just need some gas."

"What did you do, drive from Brooklyn to start trouble down here?"

"No, I live around here."

"Oh, so you're a local agitator."

"I'm not an agitator," our friend said.

From the crowd he could hear people saying to one another, "What happened?"

"Some Commie says he ran out of gas."

"Throw him in the jug."

"That guy waving his arms says he's going to turn on all the tap water in Washington to protest civil rights."

"What happened?"

"Fellow threw himself in front of a car because they won't hire Negro bus drivers."

Finally a policeman came along and our friend explained that he was out of gas.

"They got an injunction against guys like you," the cop said.

"Look, just call a tow car and take the car away," our friend said.

"You're not going to get off that easy," he cop said. "Okay," he said to the crowd, "break it up. Everybody gets a fair trial — even a stall-in."

They towed our friend's car away and finally let him go. When he got home he could barely speak to his wife.

"Where have you been?" she wanted to know.

"You forgot to fill the tank yesterday," he said bitterly, "and I've just been made an honorary Black Muslim."

"It's a relief to get rid of the overcoat."

Letters to the editor—

Explanation of concepts wanted in Rustin speech

To the Editor:

Friday night Bayard Rustin told us how he thought equality, justice, democracy, etc., could be achieved in this country. He appealed to us all as members of the human family to strive for a realization of these concepts not out of selfishness but because they are worthy of attainment for their own sake. His ideas on how we could bring these things about were sound and very appealing. He did not, however, tell us what made justice, equality and democracy worthy of attainment. He laid out a course of action but gave no justification for following it except for our own short-sighted, selfish advantage. He made a vague reference to getting rid of the foot-draggers in our legislature who make progress difficult. This was intended to stimulate apathetic whites to promote civil rights so that they too could benefit from an overall improvement in the country's legislature. Still this says nothing of the intrinsic value of civil liberties per se or, to carry the line of thought another step, of the society for which they operate. This letter is not in any way intended to downgrade Mr. Rustin or the civil rights movement. It is to point out that if Mr. Rustin expects any thinking people, Negro or white, to follow his plan of action he must not only explain that plan but also the necessity of accepting the basic concepts upon which it is centered.

Reader has cockroach complaint

To the Editor:

Recently there appeared in The Iowan a small article in regard to the "return" of cockroaches to Iowa City. May I please correct your statement by saying that there are more of them at present.

The reasoning behind this statement is that there are and have been all year cockroaches in the dormitory (Currier). We have had the creatures crawl out from the wall to perch on our sink and to run across the floor. In all modesty, I cannot justify their presence. Our room, while not always picked up, is at least better than many of the rooms — including the basement area. Food is usually kept in containers and there is not an excess of crumbs or general dirt on the floor. From whence cometh the bugs?

In addition to my personal experience and contact with these creatures, I have heard rumors that the kitchen at Burge is also housing them. I am sure that the possibility of their presence in Currier is high. Cannot something be done about our visitors — before the majority of rooms are filled in the Fall, or over Christmas, and Easter when the rooms are supposed to receive additional cleaning?

It is bad enough to have to live with the creatures, but must we eat them too?

Indiana, Mr. Wallace and the Ku Klux Klan

By RALPH MCGILL

Alabama's Governor Wallace may be expected to do rather well in Indiana for the same reason that in Wisconsin, as President Johnson put it, 75 people voted against him for every 25 that were for him. In Wisconsin he ran best in strongly conservative, Goldwater districts and in the old Joe McCarthy home state.

Indiana is a remarkable state, producer of admirable literature and culture in general. Yet, in the 1920s it was the one state outside the South where, for a time, the Ku Klux Klan literally controlled the government and, for a brief period, the lower courts.

Estherville praises U. Choir

(From the Estherville Daily News)

The recent performance by the University Choir from SUJ made it clear why this group has in its brief existence established itself as a major choral organization in the Midwest.

Daniel Moe, the director, has produced an ensemble that has a bright, full sound — a choral blend that capitalizes on, rather than inhibits, the natural beauty of the individual voice.

The excellence of the performance could leave no doubt, of course, as to the mechanical training of the organization. It was this technical proficiency coupled with the naturalness of production, that gave the performance such a spontaneous and free quality.

The concert was a testimonial to the craftsmanship of Moe, both as a sensitive conductor and as a gifted composer. His "Three Twentieth Century Carols" reveals the workmanship of a composer who uses a first-hand knowledge of choral resources to create music that is fresh in style and contour.

It would be difficult to single out a particular selection on the program as being better executed than the others, but one could not fail to be excited over Bach's double motet, "Be Not Afraid" or the Gloria section of Pinkham's "Sinfonia Sacra."

Without question, however, the piece of resistance of the evening was the "Mass in G" by Poulenc, a work of spiritual integrity cast in the modern idiom. This work held many thrilling moments for the listener . . . the soaring tenor melody the Gloria countered by angular rhythmic patterns . . . the sharp punctuation of the Sanctus . . . the sustained quality of the Benedictions. Moe's reading of this work was that of one who is sensitive to the modern treatment, one who does not permit effect to obscure content.

The musical experience last evening was not shared by as many listeners as this choral group deserves, but it was an attentive, responsive and enthusiastic audience, liberally laced with appreciative members of Ken Ven Der Sloot's high school chorus.

We hope the University Chorus will include Estherville on its spring tour again soon.

The state always contained strong anti-labor sentiment. Its major newspapers see Goldwater as the nation's savior. It was a combination of these factors that persuaded Governor Wallace to enter the Indiana primary just as the presence of similar conditions brought him to Wisconsin and will, later, see him in Maryland.

The Ku Klux Klan in the 1920s was not so much concerned with the Negro as with Roman Catholics, Jews and "foreigners." Save in a few Southern states where there were only a small number of Roman Catholics and Jews, the colored man was listed by the Klan as a "minor" enemy. (In Indiana a Klan leader once tried to reassure a Catholic acquaintance by informing him: "We are not against you Irish Catholics," he said, "just them foreign Roman Catholics.")

The Klan always was largely a racket and this caused it to attract the usual percentage of scheming rascals and underworld muscle boys. If there were 200,000 members, for example, they each had paid $10 for initiation, $10 for dues, $10 for the basic robe, and extra for other regalia. If the organization could control the state patronage it could, of course, make extra millions. In Georgia, the Klan for some time largely controlled the sale of asphalt to the counties and the state highway system. Klan organizers also made killings in Indiana, Colorado and Oregon. In these states the "enemy" were foreigners. In Oregon, for example, the Japanese were targets. In Colorado a Klan governor was sent to jail on a stock fraud case a short time after his term ended.

It was Indiana, however, that provided the most flagrant example of Klan lawlessness. Power corrupts, and David C. Stephenson, grand dragon, arrogant with wealth and sure that he was above the law since he was confident that any jury would not convict him, brutally battered and then raped his young secretary. This young lady, when she recovered consciousness, killed herself.

Stephenson, who boasted, "I am the law," might have got off. But a newspaper exposed him. He was tried and convicted — in part, because the Klan, with headquarters in Atlanta, disowned him. The Klan insisted it stood for the purity of Southern womanhood and apparently extended this to include Indiana womanhood. "I-Am-the-Law" Stephenson, grand dragon of the Klan of the 1920s, went to jail in 1924. John Bartlow Martin, writing an account of Stephenson in Harper's Magazine, titled "Beauty and the Beast," provided a look at some of the Klan jargon in quoting an order from Imperial Wizard Hiram Evans to the Evansville Klavern, suggesting Stephenson's suspension. It was addressed to "all Genii, Grand Dragons, Hydras, Great Titans, Furies, Giants, King Kleagles, Exalted Cyclops, Terror and all citizens of the invisible empire." The letter was signed "on April 17, 1924, the Deadly Day of the Weeping Week of the Apalling Month . . ."

The late Doc Green, who came to be known as the "Reluctant Dragon" of the Georgia Klans, once told the writer that when this jargon gibberish was read out by a fellow in a black robe the eyes of the more illiterate suckers up for initiation used to bug out.

At any rate, the enclaves of old prejudices and new, plus the anti-labor factions, will give Mr. Wallace votes. His selection of Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland was based on an estimate of just such factors.

Mexican Trips, Bullfights Set In SUI Program

A bullfight, a mountain trip by burro to a secluded waterfall and an excursion to historic caves are among activities available to SUJowans attending the 6-week summer session at the Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores, Monterrey, Mexico.

The program, sponsored by SUI's Department of Romance Languages, will begin its second annual session July 11, and end Aug. 21. Classes will be offered in Spanish language and culture, credits may be transferred to the student's home institution.

Armand Baker, instructor in Romance Languages, who will be conducting the group, said: "This is a wonderful opportunity for students to learn a language in the native environment. They will live on campus with students from all parts of Mexico and will have the opportunity to see the Mexican way of life first-hand."

University or high school students may apply, regardless of knowledge of Spanish. Courses will be taught at all levels of language ability, with beginning courses taught by English-speaking teachers, and more advanced courses by natives of Mexico.

Total cost for the program is $330, including tuition, room and board, medical services, laundry, and social and recreational activities. Books will cost under $10, and round-trip bus fare from Iowa City to Monterrey is about $70. Students may make their own travel arrangements if they wish.

A few vacancies remain for this summer's group, said Baker. He urged students who wish to participate to submit their applications before the June 1 deadline. Last year's group included 17 students from SUI and other schools in the area.

Students interested in more information may call Baker at Ext. 2051, or at his home, 337-7979.

Units Attend Rough Saturday Session—

Pre-Summer Trials Test ROTC Cadets

An Air Force ROTC flight "dresses up" in preparation for drill competition during the Pre-Summer Training Unit held Saturday at the Armory. Approximately 45 cadets participated in the day program emphasizing physical conditioning, drill, and small arms marksmanship.

Straighten Up!

What the Summer Training Unit is and how to act when going through it was the theme of the Air Force ROTC Pre-Summer Training Unit held Saturday at the Armory.

Approximately 45 third year Air Force ROTC cadets took part in the day long training session, which is meant to prepare the cadets for their four week stay at an Air Force base this summer.

Most of the Iowa cadets will be stationed at Schilling Air Base, Kansas. Those who do not live in Iowa will be stationed at an Air Force base close to their home.

THE DAY began with a lecture by Capt. A. G. Lincoln, assistant professor of Air Science, on the purpose of the Pre-Summer Training Unit and the Summer Training Unit itself.

The units are designed to:

1. Develop in the cadets a better understanding of the Air Force mission as exemplified in the operation of an Air Force base.
2. Increase cadet proficiency in essential areas of junior officer training, such as leadership, military discipline, customs and courtesies, small arms marksmanship, and drill and ceremonies.
3. CREATE in the cadet an awareness of the necessity for physical conditioning and to provide the cadet with an evaluation of his own physical condition.
4. Provide an atmosphere where "esprit de corps" may be fostered, where the cadet can identify himself with the Air Force, and where he can learn and practice Air Force customs and courtesies.
5. Provide for evaluation of cadets in an Air Force environment to assist the professor of Air Science in selecting cadets for commissioning and identifying distinguished cadets.

A SECOND lecture was presented which acquainted the cadets with Air Force methods of caring for equipment and clothing. During this session they learned how to properly fold their uniforms and

Air Force Cadets Get Training Tips, Physical

Later in the day the AS III's took the 5BX, a physical fitness test which all Air Force officers must pass yearly. Among other requirements, an officer must be able to run the mile in 7 1/2 minutes, do 24 pushups in one minute, and do 35 situps in one minute.

During the afternoon the cadets were divided into three marching units and competed in the 46 step drill competition.

THE DRILL is a prescribed set of maneuvers the cadets will use this summer when they will be graded on their drill ability.

The training session ended with a movie which acted as a summary of the summer training camp activities.

Mexican Prof Visits Here

Alicia Roca, professor of hospital administration at the National University of Mexico, has been visiting the SUI Medical Center this month through the Exchange Professorship Program in Hospital Administration sponsored by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

Hosts for Prof. Roca are Gerhard Hartman and faculty members of the Graduate Program in Hospital and Health Administration. Dr. Hartman is superintendent of University Hospitals and professor and director of the graduate program.

Besides her university post, the Mexican educator also teaches courses in nursing service administration for the Mexican Ministry of Health, and serves as superintendent of the Institute for Nutritional Diseases, a research and teaching hospital in Mexico City.

Prof. Roca is a graduate of the School of Nursing and Midwifery of the National University of Mexico. She received a masters degree in nursing education from the National University of Mexico.

While at SUI, Prof. Roca is spending the major portion of her time observing various facets of the Graduate Program in Hospital and Health Administration and conferring with faculty members on program objectives, the philosophy and theory underlying the program, and the courses taught.

Prof. Roca also is conferring with various other administrators and educators at the Medical Center on the role of the nursing service in hospital administration, and the nursing service education program in the College of Nursing.

Exercises, Patrol Practice, M-1's Orient Army Cadets

Approximately 50 Army ROTC students got a real taste of Army life Saturday during the first of two pre-summer camp training sessions designed to acquaint them with the activities they will encounter at Fort Riley, Kans. this summer.

Activities began at 7:30 a.m. at the Armory where the "troops," uniformed in traditional Army fatigues, trucked up in three National Guard vehicles and began the 45-minute ride to the Wilton Junction Rifle Range.

Once there, the MS III's were divided into four units, each of which took part in four "activities" during the day.

THE FIRST of these "activities" was a basic orientation to the Army Daily Dozen — a relatively rigorous set of 12 exercises designed to develop every muscle in the human body.

All of the "activities" were conducted and supervised by senior Army ROTC cadets (MS IV's).

After a brief rest period the trainees were marched to the rifle range where they learned how to fire and handle the M-1 rifle. Range safety and accuracy were stressed during this phase of the training.

The third training station consisted of a general question and answer session during which the third year cadets asked questions on what they could expect at summer camp and what procedures to follow after they arrived there.

THE LAST training station was a reconnaissance patrol problem. Armed with M-1 rifles and blank ammunition, the cadets trekked into the woods with the mission of capturing the outpost of an "enemy" command.

While trying to accomplish this mission they encountered several obstacles including "enemy" snipers, 80 degree hills, and several "fordable" streams.

Despite many difficulties, the cadets went on to overrun the "enemy" position and bring back the enemy colonel.

THE "ENEMY" force was made up of second year Army ROTC students.

A field kitchen was set up and the cadets were provided with a hot lunch of C-rations and milk.

The day ended back at the Armory where the cadets cleaned their weapons and were then dismissed.

Tillich Talk

Planned Today

Paul Tillich, noted theologian who will come to SUI's campus today to lecture, will talk to two classes in the School of Religion Wednesday.

"Christianity and the World's Religions" will be the topic of his lecture at 8 p.m. today in the Union. Dr. Tillich has been John Nuyven Professor of Theology at the University of Chicago since September, 1962. He left Germany in 1933 to become a professor at the Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

He will talk to students in Religion in Human Culture at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Prof. and Mrs. James Van Allen will give a reception for Dr. Tillich in their home following his lecture tonight. The School of Religion will entertain Dr. Tillich at a luncheon Wednesday noon at the Jefferson Hotel.

Ross Denies Democrat's Accusations

Russell Ross, associate professor of political science, repudiated charges Monday that he and Dell Wright, associate professor of political science, along with several students were paid $255.18 for work done in February, 1964, as members of a research team.

The charges were made by John R. Schmidhauser, Democratic candidate for Congressman from the First District, last Friday.

Schmidhauser had said that Republican State Sen. D. C. Nolan's attack on Forest Evashevski, director of athletics, and Bob Flora, administrative assistant to the athletic director, for participating in politics, was ill advised because Congressman Fred Schwegel (D-Iowa), had maintained a political group working in his behalf at SUI for several years.

Ross said that four SUJowans, who are graduate students in either law or political science, are selected each year to do research for Congressman Schwegel.

"These students," Ross said, "are from Schwegel's congressional payroll allotment. Congressman Schwegel and Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) hire student researchers in lieu of secretarial help."

Prof. Ross said that neither he nor Prof. Wright have received salaries from Schwegel except during the month of August. "We merely serve as advisors to the student researchers during the school year," he said.

Congressman Schwegel originally arranged the student researcher program in 1955 after receiving permission from President Virgil Hancher. In the past nine years, approximately 18 students have been researchers.

Carpenters Strike, Idle 20 Sioux City Construction Jobs

SIoux CITY — A carpenters' strike Monday idled about 20 major construction projects involving millions of dollars worth of contracts.

Members of Local 948 of the Carpenters Union set up picket lines at construction sites in dispute with the Sioux City Master Builders Association, which includes seven Sioux City area contractors.

According to statement issued by the union and the association the strike is over an arbitration ruling in a dispute dating back more than a year and a half. The statements indicate that the union and the association have different interpretations of the ruling, which was handed down by arbitrator Prof. Harold Davey of the State College of Iowa last month.

The various construction unions belonging to the Northwest Iowa Building Trade Council voted unanimous support of the Carpenters Union.

Anthony Boe, business representative for the Carpenters Union, said all the projects being built by members of the Master Builders Association, were being picketed and were completely shut down.

According to Boe, the dispute involved alleged underpayment of union wages by a subcontractor, Curry Paint and Floor Co., of South Sioux City, Neb., on a job more than a year and a half ago.

Dick Gregory Set For Rights Sing

Dick Gregory and The Freedom Singers will present a concert of freedom songs at 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium May 12. Their concert is sponsored by SARE-Friends of SNCC.

Tickets for the concert will go on sale May 5 in the East Lobby of the Union for $2.50. Prior to the concert students will have an opportunity to meet Dick Gregory and the Freedom Singers personally at a coffee hour from 10-11 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Congregational Church, 30 N. Clinton St.

Gregory and his group of five singers, are nationally known for their appearances on campuses throughout the country in connection with the civil rights movement. The group also has appeared at Carnegie Hall in New York, on television, and has recorded several albums.

GREGORY

All members of the group were active in the civil rights movement before organizing into a group.

Gregory himself first gained prominence as a comedian. As the integration movement gained momentum, Gregory became more involved in it. He has since participated in many demonstrations in the South and has spent more than half his earnings as a professional entertainer on the rights movement. He has been arrested at least eight times, posted bonds totaling about $2,000 and has lost more than $100,000 in cancelled engagements.

Marshall Jones, 26, Knoxville, Tenn., is a graduate of Florida A and M and was arrested twice at the University of Tennessee for participating in civil rights activities there. While working on his M.A. at Tennessee last year, he was a prize winner in the University's folk festival.

Emory Harris, 20, of Albany, Ga., has worked with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) voter drives in Terrell and Lee counties in Georgia. He has been arrested seven times. A third member of the Freedom

Singers is James Peacock, 23, a native Mississippian who has worked for SNCC in Greenwood, Vicksburg, and Jackson, Miss. He has been arrested three times.

Charles Nebelitt, 22, left Southern Illinois University to work with SNCC in Cairo, Ill. and Missouri in the summer of 1962. He has since been working in Mississippi.

Mathew Jones, 27, of Knoxville, Tenn., is also an active member of SNCC. A former teacher in Macon, Ga., Jones has been arrested 20 times for civil rights participation. He has composed many freedom songs, some of which the Freedom Singers will present.

Print Group Shows Work In Missouri

Work by 16 members of the Iowa Print Group printmakers who have studied under noted artist Mauricio Lasansky at SUI — were recently exhibited at the Springfield, Mo., Art Museum.

Most of the 30 works displayed have been added to the museum's permanent collection through purchase awards for works submitted Italy; Harry Brorby, 1954, of the purchase awards this year went to Ivan Schieferdecker, G. Fort Madison, for his color intaglio print, "Bowl of Fruit."

SUI master of fine arts degree recipients in the current exhibit include: Keith Achopoh, who received his MFA in 1960, and is currently studying and working in Italy; Harry Brorby, 1954, of the Ottawa Fine Arts Workshop, Holland, Mich.; H. C. Cassill, 1950, instructor at the Cleveland Institute of Art; and Gordon Cook, 1951.

Also represented are: Ann Diddy, 1952; Harland Goudie, 1954, of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.; Andrew Kincaannon, 1956, instructor at the Memphis Academy of Arts; Evan Lindquist, 1963, of Arkansas State College; Marvin Lowe, 1960, Berea College Art Department, Berea, Ky.; and Wanda Miller Matthews, 1957, Boulder, Colo.

Other Iowa Printmakers in the exhibition are: Virginia Meyers, now an instructor in the SUI Department of Art; Jack O'Shea, 1956; Philip Russell, 1957; Franklin Sampson, 1952, of the Department of Art, University of Colorado, Boulder; and Lynn Schroeder, 1959, University of Arizona, Tucson.

Hawkeye Business Manager Don Kellogg, B3, Charles City, and Editor Susan Artz, A3, Galveston, Tex., plan for the Hawkeye Coffee Hour from 7-9 tonight in the Communications Center Lounge.

Coffee Hour Scheduled For Hawkeye Applicant

Applications for staff positions on the 1964-65 Hawkeye Staff will be accepted at a coffee hour from 7-9 tonight in the Communications Center.

Editorial, business, photography and art positions are open.

"The student does not need yearbook experience to work on next year's Hawkeye," Editor Susan Artz, A3, Galveston, Tex., said.

"This is an excellent opportunity for freshman and others who haven't become involved in activities to participate in University affairs. The enthusiastic student will also have an opportunity to work up on the staff."

Training programs in various areas of staff work, especially sales, will be available, Miss Artz said.

According to Business Manager Don Kellogg, B3, Charles City, here is a need for students interested in selling papers and books. Seven committees will operate under the general business staff with each committee headed by a student.

"The student will be able to participate in the over-all success of the Hawkeye without spending too much time," Miss Artz said. The staff usually totals about 30 members.

Prof. Wilbur Peterson, associate professor of journalism and Hawkeye advisor, will speak briefly at the coffee hour. Questions will be answered at that time.

If students have a time conflict, they may leave the meeting after filling out applications, Miss Artz said.

Jurors Return Innocent Verdict In Slaying Case

SIGOURNEY (AP) — Norman Caskey, 37, of Williamsburg, was found innocent Monday of a charge of murder in a slaying at an Ollie tavern.

A District Court jury deliberated less than two hours, the sheriff's office said, before returning a verdict in favor of the truck driver. Caskey was charged with the fatal shooting last Jan. 21 of Rex Ruggles of Ollie. Sheriff John Wallich said Caskey accused Ruggles of seeing Caskey's wife.

TECHNICAL POINT—FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Ed Arnold of Frankfort paid the fine but argued that he really hadn't been driving without an auto license. Arnold explained to Judge Max Smith that he merely hadn't bothered to renew the license issued to him in 1954.

Lewis Chooses Peace, Truth For Sermon

"Peace and brotherhood among all men will come by our own actions and with the leadership of God," John Lewis, National chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, said Sunday.

Lewis, who holds an A.B. degree from the American Baptist Seminary, delivered two sermons to the First Presbyterian Church as SUI's Human-Rights Week drew to a close. The title of his sermons was "Truth, Brotherhood and Peace."

Departing from his practical world of voter registration drives and demonstrations in the South, Lewis explored philosophical and religious areas of the civil rights conflict.

"Tension between the races has brought a negative peace to our nation," he said. "And it is not a Christian peace but a pagan peace in which truth is being crucified."

An advocate of mild civil rights measures, Lewis said the idea of "peace and harmony among men is not just and cannot be destroyed because Jesus brought peace to earth and He is with us in the struggle."

Lewis indicated that many leaders in the south have not accepted "Christ's beliefs."

"Many of the leaders would to lay consider Jesus a menace to their society."

Before the civil rights problems are settled, Lewis said, "We will all have to hear the words of Jesus over and over and over again."

Post Office Cuts Parcel Policy

Iowa City Postmaster Walter J. Barrow said Tuesday no parcel post will be delivered on Tuesdays in Iowa City effective May 4. Barrow said the change is one of several postal service adjustments ordered last month by Postmaster General John A. Gronouski.

Diplomats Named By France, China

PARIS (AP) — Paris and Peking named their ambassadors Monday, completing the French-Red Chinese diplomatic link forged by President Charles de Gaulle three months ago to the dismay of the West.

Paris announced Lucien Paye, 56, recently ambassador to Senegal, as its ambassador. Peking selected Huang Chen, one of six deputy foreign ministers of Red China.

Paye began as a teacher in North Africa and rose to become education minister in 1962.

Turn Clock Up or Back?—

SUI Adjusts to Fast Time

SUIowans apparently are having little trouble adjusting to Daylight Saving Time.

Dormitory advisers reported no mix-ups in the dorm system Monday and students said their only problem was whether to set their watches ahead or behind.

One grad student did run into problems, however. He woke up at 8 a.m. Sunday and remembered a meeting at 10 a.m. He set his clock back instead of forward accidentally, and thought he had another hour to sleep. He awoke in an hour and arrived at the meeting thinking he was early. It was nearly 12.

Churches reported that attendance fell off somewhat. One minister said jokingly that some people probably woke up, looked at their watches, didn't know whether they were an hour ahead or behind and to avoid the confusion, went back to bed.

The Rock Island train depot reported a few problems with the fast time. The agent said since the schedule for trains is still on Central Standard Time, many customers are confused.

He said from one-fourth to one-half of the people needed help in figuring out the new time.

The Greyhound bus depot said the transition has gone very smoothly, with few of the anticipated scheduling problems.

English is the 17th member of the journalism honor society's Hall of Fame, all of whom are SUU alumni.
English received an M.A. Degree from Iowa in 1937 and Ph.D. Degree in psychology in 1944. He has been recognized as an authority on the readability of type faces, having received the award of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism society, in 1945 for his dissertation, "A Study of the

In the fall of 1937 he was appointed to the SUU staff as an associate in journalism, continuing his graduate work.

State Cars Denied Power Steering

DES MOINES (AP)—Power steering on state cars for use by Iowa Safety Commissioner William Seupel and four Highway Patrol supervisory officers was vetoed Monday by the State Executive Council.
Council members said they did not authorize power steering on cars for Seupel, Highway Patrol Chief Ted Mikesch, Assistant Chief James Machholz, Capt. Leon Chevalier and another supervisory officer.
"We give state officials prestige in the titles they hold and by the salaries they are paid," declared Secretary of State Melvin D. Syn-horst after the Executive Council meeting. "We don't need to try to give them status symbols by putting fancy equipment on the state cars they drive."

State Car Dispatcher H. E. Montgomery said he was aware that the council had not authorized power steering on the five cars. He said it was included in the specifications

SUI Freedom Rally Asks Equality 'Now'

By CATHY FISCHGRUND
Guest Writer

"For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven: . . . a time to rend and a time to sew; a time to keep silence and a time to speak; a time to love and a time to hate; a time for war and a time for peace." (Ecclesiastes, 3:1-10.)

"This passage," said Andy Hankins, A4, Wintzka, Ill., "summarizes the whole civil rights movement."

Hankins was speaking at the Freedom Rally held Saturday night at Macbride Auditorium, sponsored by SARE-Friends of SNCC, Socialist Discussion Club, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, Young Liberals, University Committee on Human Rights, and the IFC Human Rights Committee.

Interspersed with freedom songs by Paul Kelso, Alan Hausman, Harvey Spinks, and Dick Levin, four speakers talked of various aspects of the Civil Rights movement.

HANKINS, who was moderated by Delta Chi here two years ago, quietly and firmly told the audience that "Negroes are not socially acceptable on this campus. They should be given equal opportunity to join social organizations at SUI. They do not have this right, said Hankins.

Chuck Dick, A4, Hampton, past president of Union Board and Outstanding Greek Man on Campus said there is a "ray of hope" for the improvement of the fraternity system in the area of civil rights. This hope is that the liberal elements within the fraternity system seem to be gaining strength.

THE MAIN speaker of the evening, John Lewis, chairman of SNCC, pointed out that the Negroes want the right to vote now — not after the National elections.

He warned the audience that "the only real integration is that within the civil rights movement itself. Only those who are willing to stand up and fight for what they believe know what integration is."

The struggle is just beginning, Lewis said. And we must solve it now in a non-violent way. Segregation continues because so many people give their tacit consent to the issue, instead of standing up against it.

Bill Stroud, G, Magee, Ark., spoke for the white Southerners who are "aware." He said these people should stay in the South and not run to the North to "throw stones." The men who will build the new South are those who will stay and persevere," Stroud said.

"ARE YOU fed up with Barbie dolls?" Mike Kenny, G, San Francisco, asked the nearly full auditorium.

Kenny said that he hoped the audience had come because they were tired of the inequality present in our country today. The civil rights movement is a moral and a social question concerning freedom, he added. "We are faced with a challenge that must be met by action — this action must be to give the Negroes the freedom they deserve as human beings . . . now."

Wilson Mayor At Coralville

Clarence H. Wilson, 207 9th St., Coralville, was unanimously elected Mayor of Coralville succeeding the late Dr. Robert G. Schreffler, at a special meeting Saturday afternoon.

Wilson, president of C. H. Wilson Transport, Inc., was re-elected to the council last fall after completing his first two year term. He immediately announced the retention of all city personnel appointments.

The council also unanimously elected Virgil G. Mortensen, 724 12th Ave., Coralville, to fill Wilson's vacancy on the council. Mortensen was defeated for re-election in December, but received the largest number of votes of any of the runner-up candidates. He will assume Mayor Wilson's previous positions on all city committees.

Committee Begins Evaluating City's Condemned Area

A condemnation commission to determine the amount of damages to property owners and tenants in an area of a proposed city parking lot began its study Monday.

The property is located in the 200 block on the south side of College Street, between Dubuque and Linn Streets.

The six member commission, appointed by Sheriff A. J. Murphy, was selected from persons who are property owners in Johnson county but who do not own property in Iowa City and do not live here.

The city will not begin work on the condemned area until the commission has made its condemnation awards, which the city has estimated will be near $400,000.

Tree Hits House In Local Storm

An unoccupied one story house received an estimated $3,000 damage when high winds caused a large willow tree to crash onto it early Monday morning.

The house, owned by Dr. A. E. Montgomery of 819 Otto St., is being sold.

The house incident was the only reported serious damage during a state-wide storm which took the form of heavy rain and gusty wind as it moved through Iowa City Sunday night and Monday morning.

Russians Race To Save Flood-Threatened City

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet engineers prepared Monday a massive explosion to release a dammed-up mountain river as a first step toward saving the flood-threatened, timeless city of Samarkand.

They planned to set off 110,000 pounds of explosives Tuesday in their effort to cut a canal outlet through a landslide that has blocked the Zhetysay River 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow.

They seek to build a canal 985 feet long that would drain the backed up waters into the river bed below.

Experts at the dammed gorge said the lake rising behind the landslide will push out the natural dam in four days at most, according to one report by the official news agency Tass.

That would send a wave of destruction down the valley toward the fabled old central Asian trade marts of Samarkand and Bukhara — unless the water can first be let out gradually through a canal.

The landslide is so unstable that holes have to be dug by hand to place the explosives, chief engineer Antoli Tsurikov told a Soviet correspondent at the scene.

Pravda reported Sunday that bombers were sent to the area, but the experts apparently decided their use would be too risky. Creation of a canal that will let the water out gradually is the engineers' aim.

If the dam breaks, the waters can flood Samarkand, Pendzhikent, and Bukhara, and many villages, Izvestia warned.

Explains Music In World Today

When you hear different noises, such as those that come from a neighbors apartment, you do not have to see it to know what it is. This ability to infer what is happening from what you hear is also important in the field of music.

When a tray is dropped, or a car screeches to a halt, the noise produced is merely an accompanying occurrence. When the purpose is to give something that is not only audible, but also visible, then music is intended.

"Serious music" is seriousness toward music and music making," according to Herbert Brun, visiting professor of music at the University of Illinois. "All serious music presents itself to the ear of the contemporary listener as invented sound," he said.

Speaking to the Humanities Society Monday night in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol on the topic "Musical Idea in Search of New Sound," Prof. Brun said that invented sound belongs to the world of musical thoughts. It is these musical thoughts that are converted into musical meaning.

According to Brun, musical sounds are based on colors of sound which allow for variety of interpretation. The composer of electronic music makes his own colors of sound and mixes them himself.

BARRY GOLDWATER Forces Weaken

Scranton Leads On Write-In

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gov. Liam W. Scranton of Pennsylvania rolled up a wide lead Tuesday night in Republican presidential preference write-in votes on basis of scattered early reports from Tuesday's primary.

With 455 of the state's precincts reporting, Scranton had 11,432 write-in votes; Henry Lodge 1,339; Richard M. Nixon, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona 489; Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York 69; Sen. Margaret Smith 2; Harold E. Stassen 3; George Romney 5.

On the Democratic side, 80 precincts gave President Johnson, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

Republican leaders struggle against rain and voter apathy their efforts to roll up a big win for Scranton.

In past primaries, except in isolated areas where there was important local issue or a date battle, fewer than 30 per cent of the eligible voters balloted.

Supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said that, in his role of "favorite must get at least 80 per cent of the total Republican vote to get substantial backing for president. Scranton backers re this as ridiculous.
