Calls for Bond Issue—

Park Commission Submits Report

Present needs and long-range plans for park and recreational areas in Iowa City were submitted to the City Council Wednesday night by the Park Board and Recreation Commission.

The park and recreation proposals suggest that a $750,000 general obligation bond issue will be needed to finance the program.

THE COST summary includes provisions for land acquisition and development and improvement of existing facilities.

Four major areas of park and recreational improvement and development were dealt with in the report — neighborhood parks, playfields, major parks and miscellaneous areas.

One of the problems necessitating city development of recreational areas is the rapidly increasing size of SUV. Because the student body will be making more extensive use of University facilities as the number of students increases, these facilities will become increasingly restricted from public use, according to the report.

It was suggested that neighboring towns which use Iowa City recreational facilities should help with the financial burden of the program. Members of the Park Board and Recreation Commission said they would send a letter to the City Council recommending negotiations with surrounding towns to establish an equitable financial arrangement.

Before any definite decisions on the proposed bond issue can be reached, the Council will need to discuss the proposals made in the report and review the city's other financial commitments, Mayor Richard Burger said.

Members of the Park Board and Recreation Commission said that while some Federal aid is available for such projects which would defray up to 20 per cent, the City Council should show some tendency in favor of the program before application for aid is made to the Government.

Court Will Try Two Cases Here

The Ninth District Court of Appeals will try two cases in the SUU College of Law's courtroom today.

Dean Mason Ladd of the College of Law said the cases have been appealed from decisions handed down from the Interstate Commerce Commission. They will not be jury trials. One case will be heard at 9 a.m. and one at 1 p.m. The trials will be open to the public, but the courtroom is limited by size to about 100 people.

It's 'Fill 'er Up, Please' As Gas War Begins

By WOODY EARL
Staff Writer

A "war" that should gladden the hearts of all car-owning SUUians began in Iowa City at 6 p.m. Tuesday when gasoline prices fell to a low of 24.9 cents per gallon.

The gas war started when Bill Brown, manager of the Hawkeye Shell station, 104 W. Burlington St., became "fed up with the discounting in the area," and lowered his prices.

Brown said, "There have been gas wars all around Iowa City and the discounting practices of some local stations brought the situation to a head."

Most gas station owners feel the gas war that started in Cedar Rapids last week is the major factor in the beginning of price cutting in Iowa City.

One manager said, "Local stations have been losing a great deal of business to Cedar Rapids since the war started there." He added that many people who shop and do business in Cedar Rapids but live in Iowa City have been "filling up" there instead of at their local stations.

Most major brand dealers have dropped their prices to 26.9 cents per gallon for regular and 28.9 cents for ethyl. This is a cut of approximately five prices to 24.9 for regular and 26.9 for ethyl. 33.9 cents. Independent dealers maintained their normal two cent difference by dropping their prices to 24.9 for regular and 26.9 for ethyl.

According to a local major brand jobber, a gas war hurts the local dealer, his local jobber and the national company. He added that the local dealer bears most of the loss because his margin of profit is reduced by lower prices.

The jobber said the only way a station owner could profit by starting a gas war would be if he were "trying to catch additional gallons from someone else."

He added that this might work for a while but that soon all stations would have the lower price and business would return to the original equilibrium. He said when this happens the stations are doing the same amount of business as they used to but at a lower profit. In his opinion, "no one gains from a gas war in the end."

The same jobber predicted that "many stations could be forced to close" if the war lasts very long.

Few station managers felt that prices would fall as low as 18.9 cents per gallon as they did two years ago in Iowa City during a 15-month war.

No one could predict how long this war might last.

Garbage Plan To Be Offered By Leikvold

The problem of garbage pick-up at SUU's Greek housing units may be nearing a solution, City Manager Carsten Leikvold indicated Wednesday.

Leikvold said he plans to propose at the Council meeting Tuesday that all sanitation services be placed on a fee basis and taken off the tax roles.

"The proposal will include a basic minimum fee for all residents of the city. Commercial establishments, boarding houses, and fraternity houses will be required to pay an additional fee for the extra services they require," Leikvold said. "We hope this will make things more even all the way around."

Many fraternity and sorority houses now are not receiving garbage pick-up service, although they pay taxes to the city.

A thorough study of the garbage problem was begun in January and scheduled for completion in February. No official reason has been given for the delay.

The study was triggered by a complaint to the city from members of Phi Beta Pi, one of the fraternities which was not receiving pick-up service.

Several councilmen have indicated they were unaware of the situation at that time. Leikvold cited a lack of funds as the reason for the city's failure to extend these services to commercial establishments and boarding houses.

Senators Call Showdown On Cloture

WASHINGTON — Southern foes of the civil rights bill virtually dared Senate backers of the measure Wednesday to force a showdown on the jury trial amendment with their threatened debate-stopping cloture attempt.

The Southerners met in caucus and agreed to permit no votes on the amendment this week and to give no commitment on a later time for voting.

Quickly, the Senate Republican leader, Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), and Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), set out to canvass backers of their cloture move on the best time to launch it.

Dirksen has said that such a move would be made Monday if the Southerners did not agree to a vote before then.

The amendment, now before the Senate is the 43rd day of the civil rights debate, would assure a jury trial to persons charged with criminal contempt of court under injunction provisions of the bill if the penalty involved more than 30 days in jail or a fine of more than $300.

U.S. Chamber Favors More Soviet Trade

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Chamber of Commerce voted overwhelmingly Wednesday in favor of increased trade in nonstrategic goods with the Soviet Union and her European satellites.

The resolution, approved by about 90 per cent of the businessmen at the chamber's annual meeting, represented an endorsement of the recent wheat sales to Russia. It also put the organization on record in favor of selling many other consumer goods to European Communist countries.

A few delegates wanted to extend the new policy to Communist China, Cuba, North Viet Nam and North Korea, but there was no vote on this point.

The resolution called on the United States to re-examine its export control system "with the objective of strengthening some controls and eliminating others . . . which result in discrimination harmful to its competitive position."

The resolution also called for a coordinated trade policy among free nations to "effectively inhibit and prevent the buildup of Communist war-making potential."

The resolution says there should be no long-term credit for the Communist countries.

The organization unanimously adopted resolutions favoring greater public access to government information and favoring arms control and disarmament with adequate inspection and safeguards.

Egg-Shaped Flying Objects Burn Earth, Scare Witness

SOCORRO, N.M. — One of the things that bothers the scientist investigating New Mexico's unidentified flying object reports for the Air Force is the lack of mention of radar contacts.

"It's my understanding New Mexico is infested with radar equipment," said Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University, an astronomer who is a special consultant to the Air Force. "I'm going to check to see if there have been radar contacts that might tie into these reports."

HYNEK VISITED. Wednesday the secluded hill where Socorro policeman Lonnie Zamora reported seeing an egg-shaped object fly away from a draw last Friday evening. Other reports have followed. The Socorro report and another at La Madera in northern New Mexico were similar in that state and military authorities confirmed a scorched area where the object was supposed to have landed, and wedge-shaped impressions that appeared to have been left by some type of landing gear.

Hynek would not offer an opinion on just what Zamora did see. He said he had investigated many such sightings but "this is one of the clearest, no that's not the right word; just say it is one of the soundest, best substantiated reports as far as it goes."

50 Arrested At Cafeteria Demonstration

Lewis receives charge for encouraging minors to join rights action.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — John Lewis, main speaker Saturday evening during the Civil Rights Freedom Rally at SUU, was among 50 or more racial demonstrators arrested in front of a segregated Nashville restaurant Wednesday.

Arrested along with Lewis, national chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), was Lester McKinnie, another Negro civil rights leader.

Both men were charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors by encouraging them to remain out of school and join the demonstrations.

The group of demonstrators were arrested shortly after the firm obtained a temporary injunction to prevent demonstrators from interfering with business.

It was the third day this week of civil rights demonstrations, led by Negroes, but including a few white men and women. Some of both races were arrested. Leaders say they are seeking a fully "open city."

Tempers flared and a few minor injuries were reported as policemen dragged demonstrators out of the street and loaded them into cars and patrol wagons. Automobile traffic was blocked briefly.

The arrests, more numerous than during the earlier demonstrations, came about two hours after Morrison's Cafeteria obtained the temporary injunction in Chancery Court. Judge Ned Lentz will set a date for hearings on a motion to make the order permanent.

The injunction petition named 10 individuals and two integration organizations, the Nashville Christian Leadership Council and the central committee of the SNCC.

Negro policeman Charles Hamilton was taken into custody after a scuffle with a white officer.

Morrison's one of the few Nashville restaurants which maintain a policy of segregation, was closed when the demonstrators arrived on the scene.

Most of Nashville's restaurants, hotels, motels and movie theaters were integrated last year, following a series of demonstrations and outbreaks of violence.

The red beer gimmick stems from the Red military parades in Moscow on May Day, Neill explained.

A large glass of beer will be heavily saturated with red food coloring and then added to the regular beer as it is poured. This is necessary since no draft beer is sold, Neill explained.

Other patrons may ask for red beer if they wish, he said.

No other Iowa City taverns plan to celebrate May Day. Their patrons will have to settle for the usual amber-color beer.

Primaries help LBJ

AS PRESIDENTIAL primaries roll on, and Republicans continue to do battle, it looks as though President Johnson is winning more and more political advantage.

Washington experts believe that Sen. Goldwater would be the President's first choice as an opponent next fall. They also predict that Goldwater's strength at the delegate level is growing, though his grass roots popularity is declining.

The recent write-in victories which Lodge scored over Goldwater in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania indicate Goldwater's popularity drop. Private polls also support this trend. But Goldwater forces continue to work behind the scenes to pledge enough delegates before the convention to get the needed 655 for a first ballot nomination.

If the Arizona senator secures the nomination but loses popular support, the Republicans would be widely split in the contest against Johnson.

Dogs or no dogs, the President's political fortunes are prospering.

Our nation, by God

IT'S VERY NEARLY too much for one nation to withstand. The very moral fiber of our heritage at stake because of the libidinous behavior of one man.

He wasn't satisfied with just speeding through the Texas countryside lickety-split, gulping beer. (And if it weren't for some perceptive newspapermen who happened to be his guests at the time, we wouldn't have known about that whole messy affair.)

Being too occupied with other things — the current odds in Viet Nam, quibbling in Laos, getting rid of the slums and like that — he paid no attention to the signs of decay, to the loss of dignity as it were of the highest office in the nation. No, sir. That Texan just went about his own singular way.

But he may at last be undone. He was caught red-handed by newsmen and photographers pulling the ears of his own dogs. And everybody knows that's the business of the whole country. I mean there has to be some limit to what we can take, and it's a relief to see that some people have the moral decency to come to the defense of those poor dogs. If it weren't for the courage of groups like the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, it's hard telling what would happen to this country.

We'd probably still be occupied with other things — the current odds in Viet Nam, quibbling in Laos, getting rid of slums and like that.

Iowa—the literate state

THE WASHINGTON POST is incensed, but not surprised, at a report that "thousands of pupils in Washington, D.C. elementary schools cannot read."

Nor was it surprised to learn that "nearly one-third of the young men called by the city's draft boards in January were unable to pass the basic intelligence test."

These are two areas in which Iowa excels.

In 1960, the U.S. Census report showed Iowa led the nation in literacy. Only 7 of one per cent of the Iowa population 14 years old and older was illiterate, which meant they could not read or write a simple message in any language.

The national average of illiteracy was 2.4 per cent. The highest rate was 6.3 per cent in Louisiana.

In 1962, Iowa ranked seventh in the nation in selective service testing. Only 5 per cent of Iowa's young men failed the pre-induction mental test of that year.

The national average was 24.5 per cent. Minnesota had the lowest per cent of failures (2.7) and South Carolina the highest (51.8).

So Iowa has done well in these minimum areas of educational attainment. It is up to us to see that maximums are attained, as well, preparing each student to his fullest capacity.

Performance counts most—

How close is LBJ to the people

By RALPH MCGILL

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It is quite possible that President Lyndon Johnson is closer to the American people than are the pundits and the voices of press and radio. There are those in the capital city used to the clean, intellectual prose that was a part of the elegant, overall style of the late John Kennedy, who profess to find a high corn content in commentaries of LBJ. This makes them wince.

But Mr. Johnson is not supposed to be another Kennedy. He is Lyndon Johnson, one-time school teacher, whose mother had a total of $25 when her husband died. He worked his way through the small, obscure, sun-baked Southwest State Teachers College. His accent is different. He is a direct man. He knows how to speak concisely, clearly and persuasively. His phrases are not honed on a whetstone of classical Greek, Latin and a familiarity with the poets. But he communicates as did John Kennedy. The President may be at his very best in small groups, rather than in addressing vast audiences. But he is by no means at a loss with either.

There was objection, one may recall, to Mr. Truman's flat Missouri twang and, more especially, to his taste in sport shirts. The louder they were, the better. In fact, once Mr. Truman learned that the loud patterns annoyed the more esthetic, the more he sought for garish, clashing colors. Odius comparisons were made between his style and that of the ebullient and dramatic FDR. When Mr. Truman called feuding groups together to knock heads, it was said by some that he "demeaned" the office. A critic said exactly this of LBJ when he got the railway unions and operators together in a last-ditch effort to avoid a strike and to save the processes of negotiation.

What we also have before us is an explanation of why there is quite a difference between the two parties — the Democratic and the Republican. There is, admittedly, no tie that binds Governor Rockefeller and Senator Goldwater, Harold Stassen and Richard M. Nixon have little in common. The Arizona Redeemer has no philosophy to share with Henry Cabot Lodge.

There is, however, a very strong tie between the late John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson as there was between Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt. There is a thread of political principle, or philosophy, that reaches all the way up from Jefferson

Art Buchwald—

Be patriotic, write the President

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Ever since Cathy May Baker of 36 Hemlock, Park Forest, Ill., wrote to the President asking him to settle the railroad strike, etc., parents all over the United States have been urging their children to do the same.

Our eight-year-old daughter was scribbling a letter to the Beatles the other afternoon when we walked in on her.

"What are you wasting your time on letters like that," we said angrily, "when our nation is in peril?" She looked up, startled.

"Why don't you write to the President like other seven and eight-year-olds are doing?" we said. "He wants to hear from you."

"What should I tell him?" she wanted to know.

"Tell him you're concerned about the balance of payments, or the rate of economic growth, or the unemployment issue. What does a kid write to the President, anyway?"

"I want to write to the Beatles."

"That's a very selfish attitude. Suppose Cathy May Baker of Park Forest, Ill., felt that way. Do you know what would have happened? There would have been a railroad strike."

"How come?"

"Because she wrote the President and said her grandmother couldn't come to her communion unless the railroad strike was settled. So the President got real angry and he made the heads of the railroads and the labor leaders sit down together and prevent the strike. If Cathy May hadn't written to him, the President might not have even known about it."

"How do you know?" she asked.

"Because the President read her letter on television to millions of people and he told Cathy May that because labor and management reasoned together her grandmother could come to her communion."

"Why didn't her grandmother fly or take the bus?"

"That's none of your business. That fact is, Cathy May's grandmother prefers the train. Now why don't you write a letter to the President and tell him what you're worried about?"

"I don't know what I'm worried about," she said.

"You must be worried about something. What about the Autoworkers' Union threatening to strike against the automobile companies? Doesn't that worry you?"

"What should I say?"

"Tell the President you don't want the auto workers to go out on strike because you want your grandfather to visit you in a new car. Say you're having a birthday party in July and, if there is a strike, your grandfather won't visit you if he doesn't have a new automobile."

"Why can't he come on the train like Cathy May's grandmother?"

"Because your grandfather doesn't like trains."

"Should I tell the President that?"

"No, not so soon after he settled the railroad strike."

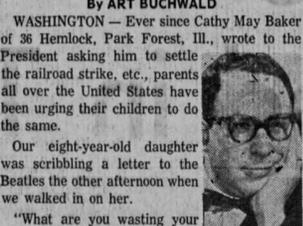

"Will he read my letter?"

"Sure he will. He might even read it on television."

"If I write to him, can I then write to the Beatles?"

"Yes, if it means that much to you. But you might as well learn, now that you're eight years old, that you should take an interest in national affairs. If you can help the President with the difficult job he has to do, it will make up for not being able to pray for him in school."

Readers criticize rights editorial

To the Editor: We, too, support the cause of civil rights. Supporting the "cause," however, does not prevent us from taking issue with Mr. Roberts. Today we think it necessary to comment on some of his generalizations in his editorial of Tuesday, April 28th.

Bayard Rustin's speech was not one centered primarily on either Negro or civil rights. Rustin is first a humanitarian before being either a Negro or an American. His plea was one for a re-evaluation of our present governmental system and its deficiencies.

Mr. Roberts seems to have failed to grasp the main implications of Rustin's speech. If one regards the movement as one for human rights, as did Rustin, certainly no one person has the right or moral obligation to criticize the movement unless he is a direct participant.

Give credit? To whom? The progress to date leaves no room for any man to sit back complacently and sing a song of victory. Where else — in what specific in-

Washington review—

Doppmann shows touch of Master

By PAUL HUME

Washington Post

EDITORS NOTE: The following is a review of a piano recital presented April 20 by William Doppmann, associate professor of music, at the Phillips Collection in Washington, D.C.

Everything in William Doppmann's piano recital at the Phillips Collection was beautifully played.

Since the program carried us from the B Flat Minor Prelude and Fugue of the first volume of the Well-Tempered Clavier through the Barber Sonata, with stops along the way for Mozart Chopin and Dalcipicola, it says much for Doppmann as a musician-pianist that he handled every self-assigned task with complete authority and assurance and kept the beauty of his instrument to the fore without easing. Among the thousand ways that might seem perfect openings for a keyboard recital, the particular prelude and fugue that Doppmann chose and that he played with infinite affection and expressive restraint, is one of the best.

From the moment he began, it was clear that he regulates by flawless control the weight that goes into every note, even when the notes come as fast as those of Chopin's F Minor Ballade and the scherzo and fugue of the Barber Sonata.

His Mozart, the D Major Sonata K.311, was never without careful shape and thought, yet it flowed from musical impulses that gave it life and meaning. Doppmann's piano sings, a phrase that is no empty grouping of words, since this same piano is heard from week to week and cannot always be said to sing.

His Chopin program included the C Sharp Minor Nocturne, the Barcarolle, and in F Minor, the famous etude and the last of the Ballades.

In all of it, there was regard for the voices, upper and inner, that make this music unique.

Dalcipicola's contrapuntal studies, designed for the notebook of his daughter, Annalibera, are in the grand line of Bach, Liszt and Hindemith, with all that such variants imply. They are superbly pianistic, a powerful series of studies wherein Doppmann showed, at their height, his superior gifts of widely shaded touch and marvelous pedaling.

The Barber Sonata remains one of the best pieces for the young virtuoso. Doppmann played it for the big line, caring nicely for the myriad minor matters that fill it, but letting the largest design establish the dominant mood of the piece. Deeper shadows would enhance the slow movement, stronger accents strengthen the fugue, but it was a concept in the grand manner. So was the B Flat Minor Brahms Intermezzo that came as an encore.

Traffic Survey Continues; Enters Second Phase

By BRAD CHURCH
Staff Writer

The second phase of the traffic study being conducted in the Iowa City area by the State Highway Commission began Monday.

On-the-street interviews will be conducted through May 8 at stations located at all entrances to the metropolitan area. The first part of the survey consisted of daily interviews with dwelling unit residents.

A 50 per cent sample is being taken on routes which have traffic totaling 1,000 vehicles per day. Vehicles leaving the area are stopped and the driver interviewed.

On routes with less than 1,000 vehicles per day, a 100 per cent sample is being taken. Traffic is stopped at the check points.

Drivers are questioned as to their origin and destination, purpose of the trip, route used entering and leaving the city, direction of travel and where the car is garaged. Registration numbers and the number of occupants are also noted.

Vandals Strike
Jack Cline of the Iowa Highway Commission reported that several mechanical counters used in the traffic study have been damaged by vandals.

Every time a counter misses a day, a full five-day count has to be retaken, Cline said. "This costs more than $100."

Cline warned that anyone caught tampering with the counters would be prosecuted for destroying state property.

Crowds Cheer Couple After Royal Wedding

ROME (AP) — In a Roman carnival of excitement, Princess Irene and Prince Carlos of Bourbon-Parma, for whom she gave up all rights to the Dutch throne, were wed Wednesday.

She often was solemn, possibly thinking of the twist of fate that kept her royal parents at home.

The golden haired princess, 25, and Carlos, 34, claimant to the now-vacant Spanish throne, exchanged vows in the Basilica of St. Mary Major and then received the blessing of Pope Paul VI at the Vatican.

Police had to struggle with the cheering crowds to get the couple into the church and out again.

A rebel princess who defied her government and a Protestant tradition to embrace Catholicism and marry Carlos, Irene was subdued and reflective through much of the ceremony. But she always seemed in full control of her emotions.

The strains of the Dutch anthem and the cheers of Dutch tourists provided a touch of Holland. But the flavor of the wedding day was decidedly Spanish and Carlist, for Carlos is of that branch of the Bourbon family.

The Dutch royal family watched the ceremony on television — although a power failure caused them to miss the last part.

For nine minutes shortly before she left for the church, Princess Irene had talked by telephone with her mother in Amsterdam.

Cassill's Novel 'The President' Goes To Press

"The President," latest novel by R. V. Cassill, Iowa author and lecturer at SUI's Writers Workshop, has been released by Simon and Schuster of New York. Official publication date has been set at May 28.

"The President" is set on the campus of a small liberal arts college in the Midwest. A struggle for the college presidency between the former president's son and a Madison Avenue-type executive reflects a larger conflict of opposing values. The novel poses the question of whether detachment — the refusal to manipulate people and forces — is a high moral choice or a fatal temperamental flaw.

Cassill, a native of Cedar Falls, has taught fiction writing in the SUI program in creative writing since 1961. He also taught at SUI from 1949 to 1952. He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from SUI, and attended the Sorbonne in Paris under a Fulbright Scholarship.

"The President" is Cassill's 15th published novel. His previous books include "Eagle on the Coin" (1950), "Clem Anderson" (1961), and "Pretty Leslie" (1963). A textbook, "Writing Fiction," was published last year. His short stories have won an Atlantic "First" award and an O. Henry Prize award; five of Cassill's stories are collected in the New Directions anthology, "Fifteen By Three" (1957).

During the past year he has been a regular reviewer for the New York Times Book Review and the New York Herald Tribune Book Week. He is presently working on short stories and articles.

Bureau Plans Annual Labor Short Course

The annual Iowa Labor Short Course will have a new look this year.

Instead of a single week-long program, the short course will be split into two programs to cover both fundamental and advanced problems confronting union leadership. Each session will be a five-day resident program on the Iowa City campus. The advanced course will be held May 10-15 for those who have attended a previous course. The basic course will be held May 17-22.

Anthony V. Sinicropi, head of labor services for the Bureau of Labor and Management, said the course was divided to give union members more intensive training.

"To cope with the complex problems confronting union leadership in 1964, a deep exposure to leadership principles as well as the economic and social problems of our time is necessary," he said.

"The basic program will focus on the introductory problems — the structure and function of unions, government and the economy — while the advanced course will develop the more specialized problems — civil rights, social insurance, public relations."

SPORTSCASTER GETS WSUI RECOGNITION

Robert F. Nelson, A4, Coralville, will receive this year's WSUI Alumni Award.

The award is presented to a senior who has worked two years at WSUI and has a satisfactory academic record.

It comes from a fund collected from alumni who have received their training at WSUI. The purpose of the award is to encourage or reward students interested in careers in radio or television. The award is given only in years when the sponsors feel a student is deserving.

Nelson has served as sports director of WSUI and has broadcast play-by-play accounts of football and basketball games this year.

The earth-quake-proof building is the second largest U.S. embassy in the world, exceeded only by London's. It cost $5 million.

Official opening is May 30 but already 500 officials and employees have moved in.

In the past, many U.S. agencies operating here were scattered. In the new building most will be under one roof.

Richards Upset About Draft For Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — General Manager Paul Richards of the Houston Colts says he once suggested to Colt team owners that Houston not accept players in the expansion pool.

He told newsmen Wednesday he came close to giving up when he saw the assortment of players available to Houston and the New York Mets, the two National League expansion clubs.

"I HAVE never hesitated," he said, "to tell people what a hijacking we got."

He recalled that when the list of available players was submitted to him in 1961 at Cincinnati, he went directly to co-owners Bob Smith and Roy Hofheinz.

"How much," he asked them, "would you lose if you pulled out right now?"

"Why," between $600,000 and $700,000," replied Smith. "It would be cheap at four times that." Richards said "if you get out now, My advice is to go to Mr. Giles (National League President Warren Giles) and tell him we've changed our minds. We don't want a club and we're going home."

Richards said Smith replied: "Okay, then the next thing to do is go to Mr. Giles and tell him you don't want those players. We'll just do without a draft. Then they'll release 75 per cent of them, and we can sign them for nothing."

SMITH said that sounded fine to him and he directed Richards to advise Giles of Houston's stand — if the Mets would go along.

"The Mets said no," Richards recalled.

He quoted Met officials as saying: "Why don't you fellows not draft any, and we will and we'll see what happens."

"We weren't going to do that, even at those prices," Richards said.

Mays Hikes Average As Giants Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Willie Mays slammed a triple and two singles, drove across two runs and hiked his National League-leading batting average to 4.8 in pacing the San Francisco Giants to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

Mays' first-inning triple and seventh-inning single each drove across a run, boosting his league-leading RBI total to 20 and easing Juan Marichal's third pitching triumph without defeat.

Demeter's Homer In Tenth Inning Gives Tigers Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Don Demeter smashed a home run in the 10th inning, giving Detroit a 5-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday night.

The Athletics tied the game with a three-run rally in the seventh inning. Ed Charles singled home Tom Reynolds with the tying run after Dick Green had knocked in one run with a single and another scored on a double play.

Hawkeye Thinclads Underdogs In Saturday's Opening Meet

A determined stand against powerful Wisconsin will be made here Saturday afternoon by Iowa's depleted track team in the first dual outdoor meet.

But it appears certain that the Hawkeyes simply do not have the personnel to bother the Badgers. The meet opens at 1 p.m. with the field events, with the first track event set for 1:30 p.m.

In the outdoor meets over the years, the teams now stand even as holders of meet records: each with seven and one tie.

However, previous performances within the last few weeks, all by Badgers, indicate the possibility of Wisconsin breaking at least seven meet marks, three of which, along with a share, are now held by Hawkeyes.

Milwaukee 1, Pittsburgh 0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Young Tony Cloninger pitched no-hit ball for 6 2/3 innings and wound up with a brilliant one-hitter as the Milwaukee Braves blanked Pittsburgh 1-0 Wednesday night.

Willie Stargell got the only hit of the 23-year-old Cloninger — a single — after two were out in the seventh inning. The hit was a line drive past first baseman Gene Oliver.

The Braves scored off Pittsburgh starter Bob Veale in the third. Denis Menke doubled to right center, was sacrificed to third by Cloninger and scored on Felipe Alou's single to center.

Coaching Clinic, Intrasquad Game Set for Saturday

Although all Iowa football fans are invited to watch the intrasquad football game in the stadium Saturday at 1:30 p.m., the annual spring clinic and football weekend has been primarily designed "For Coaches Only."

Approximately 350 high school and collegiate coaches from a five-state area are expected for the 15 sessions of the two-day clinic that will include talks and demonstrations by 12 outstanding coaches.

The Friday section of the clinic opens at 9:30 a.m. with a welcoming speech by Athletic Director Forest Evashevski.

The major portions of the opening day program will be conducted by Dave "Admiral" Nelson, who in 1963 guided the University of Delaware team to an undefeated season and the Lambert Cup. Nelson will discuss all aspects of Delaware's offense and defense with emphasis being placed on "Updating the Winged-T."

Other Friday speakers include two Iowa high school coaches. They are Gary Grouwink, coach of Ottumwa's championship team ranked No. 1 by the AP; and Lloyd Kilman, who guided the Des Moines Lincoln team to a 7-1 mark in 1963.

Friday's program will be concluded with a practice field session featuring demonstrations by Jerry Burns and the Hawkeyes plus a dinner and film session in the evening at the Elks Home.

On Saturday morning the coaches will hear talks by Joe McNeill, coach of the undefeated Mt. Ayr team; and Bob Evans, coach of Mt. Pleasant, the No. 1 team in the 1963 UPI poll.

Iowa's assistant coaches are also scheduled for Saturday talks to acquaint the coaches with the Iowa offensive and defensive alignments they will be seeing during the intrasquad game that will close the clinic Saturday afternoon.

ASSUMING POST — AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Jack Patterson, track coach at the University of Texas, will also assume the job of assistant athletic director May 1, Athletic Director Darrell Royal said Wednesday.

Patterson succeeds Ed Olle, who died April 3.

COACH RESIGNS — LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Louis Weenie Miller has resigned as basketball coach at Virginia Military Institute effective at the end of the academic year, the college announced Wednesday.

Gary McPherson, Miller's assistant during the past season, will take the head coaching job.

However, previous performances within the last few weeks, all by Badgers, indicate the possibility of Wisconsin breaking at least seven meet marks, three of which, along with a share, are now held by Hawkeyes.

The endangered meet records include pole vault, discus, shot put, high hurdles, half mile, two mile and one mile relay. Three of the marks for the Iowa track and field might fall.

Hawkeye hopes for points center around Steve Goldston in the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Gary Hollingsworth, especially the 440 but also fast in the 100 and 220; Al Randolph, hurdles; Dennis Kohl, sprinter; Scott Rucker, 660; and Larry Kramer, distance runs.

An ailing leg may keep Elzie Higginbottom of Wisconsin, the Big Ten indoor champion, out of the 440-yard run, thereby spoiling a duel between him and Iowa's Gary Hollingsworth.

Some of the better Wisconsin athletes, each a potential meet record-breaker, are Brian Bergeman, 14-9, and Dave Seiberlich, 14-7, pole vault; Don Hendrickson, 55-3 1/2 in the shot and 156-3 in the discus; Gene Dix, :14 in the high hurdles; Barney Peterson, 1:52.5 in the 880; Mike Manley, 9:14.6 in the two mile and 4:12.6 in the mile; and a mile relay team which has run 3:11.2.

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — The bettor who won $132,232.80 in the Roosevelt Raceway twin double Tuesday night was a man, it was determined Wednesday. The holder of the one winning ticket has not appeared to claim the money.

PREVIOUSLY it was believed that the bettor was a woman but a check of the mutual machines in the mezzanine at this suburban trotting plant showed that the ticket was purchased from George Hawkins, a seller in his first year at Roosevelt.

Hawkins, an employe of an export-import firm in New York City during the day, recalled seeing the ticket because the purchaser bought 18 tickets for $10 each, paying for the tickets with two $100 bills and getting $20 in change.

"I RECALL distinctly that the chap, who was about 35 and spoke and was dressed like a member of Princeton's class of 1955, combined the No. 5 horse in the seventh race with every horse in the sixth race at 10 each. Then he asked me to repeat it and when that was finished he bought extra $10 tickets on the 1-2 combinations.

"That made 18 tickets at $10. While I was punching out the tickets, the machine broke down and we had to have it repaired. During the wait, the bettor was as nervous as a cat."

MOVE ARGENTINE CAPITAL?
 BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—
 An opposition senator has authorized a bill supporting an aspiration of President Arturo Illia's government: that the Argentine capital be moved from Buenos Aires, population 6.5 million, inland to Cordoba, population 600,000. Sen. Celestino Gelsi said the move would help shake the country out of its economic lethargy.

sponsored by the Cooperative Research Branch of the U.S. Office of Education "to determine whether growth and maturity resulting from the college experiences will themselves bring about improvement in writing performance comparable to improvement which seems to result from composition instruction."

Also participating in the experiment will be the State College of Iowa, Northern Illinois University, the University of Colorado and Kent State University.

THESE STUDENTS will be matched with 225 control students who are taking Rhetoric. The two groups will be tested on four occasions: September 1964; January and June of 1965; and June 1966.
 Each test will include a two-hour
 theme and two one-hour objective
 English tests.

The June 1966 test will make it possible to determine if differences in the writing performances of the two groups appear.

"Of course, we hope the results will prove that the Rhetoric Program is a significant factor in teaching people to write," Richard Braddock, associate professor of Rhetoric and English, said Tuesday. "If not, I'll be flabbergasted."

SUI is departing slightly from the original experiment plans by requiring the September 1964 and the June 1966 tests. Previous research has shown that good writers vary markedly in their performance from one day to another but that poor writers do not, Braddock said.
 The Rhetoric Program is concerned that improvement of its students not be obscured by individual day-to-day variations in performance, he said. The two additional tests will help prevent this.

"This is a bold thing we are attempting," Braddock said. "No students who enter the University on probation will be excused from Rhetoric but there's always a chance that someone who is excused will find afterwards he is weak in this area. In this case we'd recommend he take Rhetoric, or he may simply be referred to the Writing Laboratory of the Rhetoric Program for intensive help."

Tentatively titled "The Fields of at the outbreak of the war. The theme is the place of the Christian Church in the modern world.

THE NOVEL was written during the last four years, while Fetter was studying in the SUI program in creative writing under a grant from the Iowa Fellowships in writing. Fellowship funds are contributed to the program from private sources outside the University, including many Iowa business firms

Fetter studied under Vance Bourjaily and R. V. Cassill of the Writ-

A native of Latvia, he lived and traveled in Europe before coming to the United States in 1939 at the age of 14. He served in the U.S.
 Army during World War II, and later attended various universities, including Chicago, De Paul, South-

Scranton
 Disavows Candidacy

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton, saying he was astonished by his record 220,000
 write-in votes in Pennsylvania's presidential preference primary, said again Wednesday he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination and never has been.

State Republican leaders, who facilitated a write-in with a distribution of stickers, pencils and rubber stamps, said they hoped the showing would convince the 46-year-old Scranton that he should become an active candidate. He is now in the second year of his first term as governor.

CRAIG TRUAX, state GOP chairman, said the vote is proof that "Scranton is a major force in Republican politics in America."

Although the write-in doesn't bind convention delegates, 52 of the 54 chosen in Tuesday's balloting have pledged to go to San Francisco in July uncommitted but supporting Scranton as a favorite son. This has been the governor's position.

Only two of 13 delegate candidates favoring Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona were elected. Ten at-large delegates chosen last month by the Republican State Committee also are uncommitted.
 Scranton garnered nearly 60 per cent of all the Republican write-ins.

President Johnson, without any organized campaign, polled over 176,000 write-ins on the Democratic side, about 90 per cent of the vote cast. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had 10,500.

HENRY CABOT LODGE, U.S.
 ambassador to South Viet Nam who won presidential write-ins in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, showed impressive strength in finishing second behind Scranton, far ahead of Goldwater, former Vice President Richard M.
 Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

No candidate campaigned in the state, and no name was on the ballot.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, a Democrat and an advocate of segregation, collected a total of more than 4,000 votes on both ballots, principally from Delaware County in suburban Philadelphia, which has been the scene of recent violent civil rights demonstrations.

SUI Professor Gets $34,500 Study Grant

A basic characteristic of human hearing will be studied by an SUI professor under a $34,500 grant from the National Science Foundation.

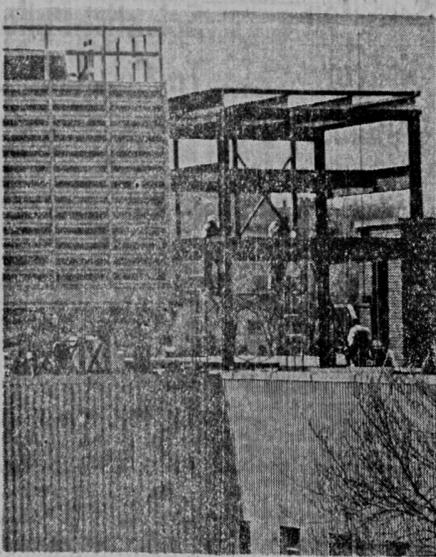

The two-year research project to be directed by Arnold M. Small, Jr., associate professor of speech pathology and audiology, will concentrate on "loudness adaptation."

Small explained there is a decrease in the perceived loudness of sound when presented for a long period of time. There is a quick recovery from the process (loudness adaptation) as soon as the stimulus is turned off. Research may lead to a better understanding of the normal processes of hearing.

Small said the results of this investigation also have potential use as a diagnostic tool in cases of auditory disease and hearing loss.

The NSF grant is the second received by the SUI professor for hearing research. In 1959 he was the recipient of a $46,200 grant from NSF to conduct research on "mechanism of pitch perception."

Assisting Small in the latest research project will be Julius Canahl, G. Bartlesville, Okla.

Henry Cabot Lodge Says Primary Win 'Means Much'

BOSTON (AP)—News of his Massachusetts victory prompted Henry Cabot Lodge to comment, "It means much to me that my fellow citizens of Massachusetts have shown this confidence in me."

This was the first political comment Lodge, in Saigon as U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, has made since he assumed that position.

He declined any further comment.

Massachusetts Republicans Tuesday threw their enthusiastic support behind the move to draft favorite son Henry Cabot Lodge for the Republican Presidential nomination.

President Johnson was the write-in victor on the Democratic ballot.

Unofficial totals from 1,530 of the state's 1,764 precincts on the Republican ballot gave Lodge 63,688 votes; Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona 8,395; former Vice President Richard M. Nixon 4,996; Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York 2,130; Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine 371.

The Democratic ballot totals from the same number of precincts gave Johnson 49,224; Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy 12,649; Lodge 2,447.

Scattered write-in votes included 594 for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, a Republican, and 128 for Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama.

Speaks on Campus—

Art Searches for Meaning—Tillich

By MARY ANN JOHNSON Staff Writer

"Religious Dimensions of Contemporary Art" was the topic of Paul Tillich's address before the Religion in Human Culture class Wednesday morning in Maebride Hall.

Tillich, who has written on everything from depth psychology to art, opened his address by saying there are dangers in considering the religious dimensions of art; that religion could be replaced by art or the reverse or that art would be valued only for its religious value. "If the two dangers can be avoided, we can go ahead," he said.

Tillich included in his definition of art all kinds of expression including dance, music, drama and poetry.

VISUAL ART is Tillich's favorite.

Tillich: Religion Will Never Die

Religion points to something beyond any one religion and that is the "source of our existence," according to Paul Tillich, noted philosopher-theologian who spoke to a capacity crowd in the Main Lounge of the Union Tuesday night.

Even those who feel that the answer to the problem of world religions is to have no religion must ask the question of the meaning of life and so they stay within the dimension of religion, Tillich stated.

SPEAKING OF world religions, Tillich did not look forward to either a victory of one religion, a mixture of all religions, or an abstraction from religions. These, he explained, are the wrong conclusions that are drawn from discussions of world religions.

Tillich spoke of "dialogues" between peoples of various faiths that he, himself, has enjoyed. One of these was with a Jew and the "dialogue" lasted forty years — during which time neither was converted by the other for that, he said, could not be their purpose.

He has had similar discussions with Buddhists and Hindus. In this way, Tillich said, one discovers common elements in each other's religion.

According to a Time magazine article about him, he is attempting to construct a modern Protestant system, fitting all aspects of the Christian faith into a single whole.

AT THE START of the speech Tillich defined various types of beliefs or religions in the world. The three main types he listed were theistic, non-theistic, and quasi-religious.

The non-theistic type includes Buddhism, Mysticism and Taoism and the quasi-religions include socialism, nationalism and liberal humanism.

Any of the three main types can be distorted, Tillich explained. For example, liberal humanism could be distorted to "scientism," which views science as a saving God. Tillich said, "All the great religions are under attack from the quasi-religions."

These quasi-religions are a "new type of ultimate power," Tillich said, "and thus they are more than secularism or estrangement from the traditional religions."

ite because he experienced German expressionism first hand. In reference to his experiences he said, "I was overwhelmed by the beauty on one side and the religious profundity on the other of non-religious works of expressionists."

"Every cultural creation has a religious dimension to it in so far as it answers the question of the meaning of existence; it appears in every social act including laws, education, and art," said Tillich. He cited the play "Oedipus" and the painting of Raphael to show how works of art answered the question of the meaning of life in their respective periods of time.

"You find the religious dimension in a style of a particular period by asking what the style meant to them," Tillich said. The theology of art is meant to "find what the religious style reveals about ultimate concern of the meaning of life."

CONTEMPORARY art since 1900 has shown a disappearance of naturalism and idealism. "Artists have broken through the ordinary surface and cut reality into pieces or brought the elements of reality to the surface," Tillich said.

"These artists should not be accused of negativism because they had the courage to penetrate the depths of meaning," Tillich said.

"Those who have not gone to the depths cannot replace what has happened in this time."

"IF ARTISTS have tried to force the grace of life, the basis of creativity, out of which all creation comes, they will never succeed," he said. "Something good cannot be forced back and if God is absent, it can't be forced." Tillich predicted that the power of the ultimate will come if enough "grace of life is present."

He concluded by saying there is no chaos in art if it is seen in view of the ultimate meaning of life.

38 Administrators Take Course Here

"Caring for Elderly Patients or Guests" is the topic of the third session of SUI's course on Nursing and Retirement Home Administration being held today and Friday in the Pentacost Room of the Union.

It is the third of five two-day sessions, which are part of a three-year demonstration project to provide training for the administrators of nursing and retirement homes.

Thirty-eight administrators are attending this year's course, which began April 16 and will end May 15. It is directed by the SUI Institute of Gerontology.

Bridge over Coralville Reservoir To Be Built

Construction will begin soon on a new bridge over the Coralville Reservoir. It will be located on Johnson County Road Y which connects North Liberty and Solon, located on opposite sides of the reservoir.

The apparent low bid of $1,197,835.06 was submitted to the Rock Island District, Corps of Engineers Tuesday by the Iowa Bridge Co. of Des Moines, and F. A. Mosher, Inc. of Farmersburg, in a joint venture.

The new bridge will be 544 feet long and is to be completed by Nov. 30, 1965.

Publication of Anti-Rights Ad Is Criticized by Schwengel

Congressman Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) took the floor of the House Monday to attack the "implications and false impressions" of an anti-civil rights newspaper advertisement which appeared in several newspapers in Iowa, including The Des Moines Register.

The Daily Iowan did not publish the ad.

The ad, entitled "Billion Dollar Blackjack — The Civil Rights Bill," was placed in Iowa papers as well as papers in other selected states, under the sponsorship of the Coordinating Committee for Fundamental Freedoms, Inc., which draws most of its funds from the Mississippi State Sovereignty Commission.

Schwengel pointed out the ad's major attack is directed at Title IV of the Bill, which provides for the cut-off of federal financial assistance where such assistance is used in a racially discriminatory manner. The advertisement maintains that almost the entire $100 billion federal budget would be affected by Title IV.

"Actually," Schwengel said, "only a small percentage of the amount is involved since the federal assistance is only a small percentage of the budget."

Schwengel also referred the references in the advertisement to star chamber proceedings, voting, public facilities, public accommodations and threat of dictatorship.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

LET'S LOOK AT ALL THE RECORD

Scott Swisher has served five sessions in the Iowa House of Representatives. Let's look at just a few of the things he has sponsored, has worked for and that have been achieved.

1955:
Legislation permitting the use of dead bodies for scientific purposes. Made the "Eye Bank" possible.
Tuition for students residing at Oakdale Sanitarium who attend public schools would be paid by the Legislature upon filing of claims.
The appropriation of money for EQUIPMENT at SUI under Salaries, Support and Maintenance rather than Repairs, Replacements and Alterations. This greatly improved the University's ability to purchase equipment at a time of great need.
Removed some of the duplicatory approvals of the Legislative Interim Committee over Board of Regents Capital improvements. This speeded up the building process.
Allowed nine month employees at SUI to accumulate 90 days sick leave over a four year period.

Elimination of the "Pre-Audit" of expenditures at the University by the State Comptroller.
Legislation providing for the financing and building of "Self-liquidating" buildings such as the Iowa Memorial Union addition.

1959:
Legislation relating to the manner of selecting members of the Board of Regents — increasing from one to two the number of alumni members from each of the state institutions of higher learning.
Appropriation of funds to the Board of Regents for the construction and equipment of facilities for emotionally disturbed children. Creation of the Office of State Archaeologist — to be held by a staff member at SUI.

1961:
Appropriated $25,000 to Psychopathic Hospital for study on Alcoholism and created an Alcoholism Commission.
Legislation providing for payment of transportation of public school children living on University property.
Legislation which would permit Iowa City and SUI (if they so decided) to cooperate in construction, use, etc. of a water treatment plant.

Clarified law permitting the charging of fees to private patients at the University Hospitals. Without this legislation the private patient policy at University Hospitals would be in jeopardy.
Authorization of a new and broadened system of financing dormitory construction at SUI and other Regents' institutions. Enabled SUI to proceed with multi-million dollar dormitory expansion program.

APPROPRIATIONS:
During this ten-year period the University appropriations have doubled. This did not happen by accident. The 1953-55 annual appropriation for SUI was $7,829,500. In 1963-65 it was $16,338,150. Another example is that of Psychopathic Hospital's annual appropriation — it went from $376,686 of 1953-55 biennium to $1,424,700 during the current biennium.

INTERIM COMMITTEE:
Scott Swisher served four years on the Interim Committee and fought the attempt to place ceilings on the salaries of Psychiatrists at state institutions.
Emergency Funds — acquired from emergency funds money to build with matching federal funds the Medical Research building as a part of the University Hospitals complex.
Approval of Union addition and Parking Ramp.
Approval of all Dormitory construction such as Burge Addition which is self-liquidating and not subject to legislative appropriation but must be approved by Interim Committee.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS:
Scott Swisher has worked for various capital improvements at the University. Here are some of them:

- Law Building
- Library Addition
- Physics Building
- Psychopathic Hospital Additions
- Pharmacy Building
- Engineering Building
- Chemistry Addition
- Classroom Building (not started)
- Speech Pathology Building (not started)
- Psychology Building (not started)
- Art Building Addition (not started)
- Minimal Care Building
- Business Administration Building (under construction)

SABBATICAL LEAVE:
The Board of Regents regard attainment of a Sabbatical Leave program as essential to getting and keeping a good staff. Scott Swisher has worked for this — in fact it was passed in the House in 1961 and 1963 but died in the Senate both times.

Scott Swisher has had personal tax problems. Those problems can not erase his record as a PROVEN Friend of the University. A PROVEN record of ABILITY to get things done in the Iowa General Assembly.

Barnes is doing research on a descriptive bibliography of Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Barnes and Bargeburr are among 52 scholars from 37 colleges and universities and two non-academic organizations who have been selected as recipients of the grants.

The American Council of Learned Societies is a private, non-profit federation of 31 associations interested in the advancement of humanistic studies.

VA Hospital Director Explains Citizen's Role

Dr. J. Gordon Spendlove, Director of Veterans Administration Hospital, called attention to May as Senior Citizen's Month by explaining the senior citizen's role Wednesday at the VA Hospital.

"We feel that the proclamation setting aside May as Senior Citizen's Month is especially appropriate for the VA Hospital and the Veterans Administration," he said.

"One out of every ten veterans are 65 years or older and over 60 per cent of all our patients are past 65," he added.

Spendlove pointed out that many senior citizens assist in volunteer work. "In addition to our hospitalized veterans, we have over 200 volunteer workers who are 65 or over," he said.

A. H. Arneson
'Outstanding
Iowa Citian'

36 SUI Students,
2 Faculty Tapped
Into Mortar Board

Virgil M. Hancher and A. H. Arneson earned honors at the Sixth Annual Leadership Banquet Thursday night.

Dr. Hancher, SUI President, named Outstanding Iowan. Arneson, manager of the J.C. Penney Co. store, was honored as the Outstanding Community Leader.

Hancher, who was out of town and unable to accept the award in person, is the second person to receive the honor. The award is sponsored jointly by Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, who also sponsor the annual dinner.

The SUI President has received at least 12 honorary degrees from numerous universities and colleges served as a delegate to the United Nations in 1959, and has also been a strong supporter of SUI-Iowa City relations.

HANCHER, who is retiring in June after nearly 24 years as chief administrator, has served as president here longer than any other man.

Arneson, a long-time community leader, has served as president of the Chamber of Commerce and local Kiwanis Club. He has served on the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and several of its committees, has been director of the local Community Center Drive, quarterback of the City Quarterback Club, and is head of the Iowa City Citizens Committee.

He received an engraved award bowl. ARNESON said he hopes the award was not the end of his career. "I hope this doesn't mean I'm an old poop."

He was referring back to an earlier comment by Don W. chairman of the Retail Trade Association of the Chamber, who said progress is not made by poops.

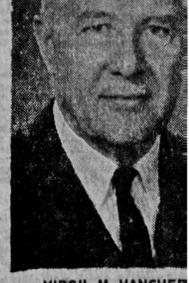

THIRTY-SIX SUI students and two faculty members were tapped into membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership honor society for upperclassmen, and Mortar Board, senior women's honor society, at the close of the program.

SUI faculty members tapped into Omicron Delta Kappa were Cretzmeier, track coach; George Forell, professor of religion.

SUI women tapped for membership in Mortar Board were: Judith Skalsky, A3, Cedar Falls; Linda Johnston, A3, Centerville; Reynolds, A3, Charles City; Hipwell, A3, Correctionville; Mockridge, A3, DeWitt; Sheila A3, Guthrie Center; Kathryn A3, Kelllogg; Dottie Darling, A3, Iowa City; Ruth Turpin, A3, M. Moore, A3, Marshalltown; Linda A3, Creed, N3, Newton; Tami Graf, A3, Olin; Kitty Kushner, A3, St. Mary Ann Johnson, A3, Spencer; Scott, A3, West Union; Ann T. A3, Princeton, Ill.; Linda Weim, A3, Minneapolis, Minn.; Lois Johnson.
