Scene of crash fatal to 21-year-old mother south of Iowa City Friday. Desired results of Highway Commission surveys?

THE SECOND FATAL automobile crash at an Iowa Highway Commission "check point" in less than a year should be sufficient warning to the Commission that the check points should be made safer or discontinued. Friday a 21-year-old mother of two was killed at a survey site south of Iowa City. Last July an Air Force sergeant and his family of three were killed at a survey site on Interstate 80 near Wilton Junction.

The two accidents were not similar in any respects. The Interstate survey site was at a more dangerous portion of the highway than the Iowa City site. In the Interstate case, the driver whose truck rammed the car of the family was convicted of possession of a stimulant drug without a prescription. Fault apparently lay in more hands than the Highway Commission's.

Nevertheless, neither of the accidents would have happened had it not been for the obstruction the survey crews placed on the highway.

Robert Henley, district construction engineer for the Highway Commission in Cedar Rapids, has noted that warning signs are placed before such sites. In a statement that strikes us more as cold-hearted than practical, he added, "work has to be done where the desired results can be gotten."

We don't doubt, of course, that the Highway Commission is as disturbed as anyone else over accidents like these. We think it's time, however, that the whole system of traffic surveys be re-evaluated. The warning devices they have installed at check points are not enough, it would seem, to prevent disaster.

Perhaps additional precautions are needed. Flagmen or blinking red danger lights — perhaps both — may be necessary. And certainly the sites should always be in a clearly visible portion of the highway.

Whatever the "desired results" of such surveys are in the Commission's mind, they cannot be worth the deaths of five people.

At 'Disneyland East' —

LBJ's conference called seduction attempt

By ART BUCHWALD

As everyone knows, President Johnson turned the White House into "Disneyland East" last week for the benefit of Washington reporters. In one of the most blatant attempts to seduce the members of the Fourth Estate, the President told reporters he would love to have their wives and children attend his televised press conference. The newspapermen, suspicious of the invitation, vowed they would not be taken in by such obvious ploy to win them over, and we're happy to report that only 1,196 out of 1,200 accredited correspondents brought their families.

do with integrity. We felt that, if he had us to his house, then we would have to have his family to ours, and our wife said she just couldn't afford to feed so many Secret Service men.

BUT we did go to the White House alone to see the show, and we must say it was a moving experience. The kids were moving during the entire press conference.

The thing to do if you were covering this press conference was to sit next to a youngster and get his cute impressions of the affair. Many reporters interviewed their own children, others had their children write their stories, and still others made up quotes of things their children might have said.

Ralph McGill column —

Poverty war comes late for mountaineers

By RALPH MCGILL

Washington, D.C. — Until the Civil War not much was heard of the people of the Southern Appalachians. The poorer among them were referred to as "mountain whites." This was not to differentiate them from Negroes — there were none, or almost none, in the Cumberland, the Great Smokies and the Blue Ridge. The phrase identifies them with the whites of lowlands who occupied the same social and economic status.

John F. J., whose novels of the Appalachians were widely read in the early years of the century, wrote: "The (Southern) mountaineer was discovered . . . at the beginning of the Civil War, when the Confederate leaders were counting on the presumption that the Mason-Dixon Line divided the North and South. . . . The plan seemed so feasible that it is said materially to have aided the sale of Confederate bonds in England. . . . but the (loyal) Southern mountaineer helped hold Kentucky in the Union; kept the east Tennesseans loyal, made West Virginia secede from succession, produced more than 100,000 volunteers. . . . Jackson County, Kentucky, for example, depleted itself of every male under 60 years of age and over 15. . . ."

THE MOUNTAIN people owned land — but no slaves. The national feeling from the Revolutionary War had not died out. Mountain men remembered King's Mountain. Over many a fireplace, on deer-horn racks, were long rifles that had been fired in defense of the flag.

This is why the mountain men were largely Republican in national politics until the 1880s. Some of that loyalty persists into our time. But once the Civil War was done, the mountains fell back into Rip Van Winkle slumber, broken only by feuds, most of them fired by the bitterness of the Civil War divisions.

It was not until after the turn of the century that timber, minerals, coal, and water power caused roads to be pushed into the mountains. Change came too fast. The mountains, men, said started to die.

By 1930 the U.S. Census Bureau noted the Appalachians held the highest concentration of low income farms in the nation. The density of farm population was roughly 50 per cent greater than in the better farming areas of the Midwest. The people on the rugged Cumberland Plateau were the lowest income group in the United States. Six counties had more than half their population on relief. . . . in the coal counties the relief figure was 21.8 per cent.

THE MOUNTAINEER had a wry humor about his farms. The fields were so steep, sometimes steeper, than their cabin roofs. Many fields were 45-degree slopes. "Many the hill of corn I've propped up with a rock to keep it from falling downhill," a mountain farmer would say — with truth.

There are tales in the hills of farmers who fell out of their fields and broke their necks.

It was the depression of the 1930's that changed the practices of 200 years in one brief decade. Public works, the Civilian Conservation Corps, relief, all served to substitute a money economy for subsistence status. Dams, roads, schools, all served to reduce isolation.

The rugged individual was glad to have a better standard of living and some cash in hand. But his small farm was not large enough to fit into the pattern of agricultural benefits. Elsewhere farmers were cutting back production. The mountain farmer had always scabbled a meager living out of his steep acres. He could not cut back.

INDUSTRIALIZATION came. But losses in mining, forestry, and farming followed swiftly on the heels of the Second World War and its demands for fuel, timber, and minerals. Today, the Southern Appalachians constitute a major pool of unemployment and desperate poverty. They have the largest share of depressed non-commercial agriculture and mining.

Since 1938 when the South was named the nation's Number One economic problem, the region as a whole has made real recovery — one that has attracted national attention. Cotton has been reduced. Tenancy is all but abolished. Yet, the one big sub-region — Appalachia — lags far behind. Its plight requires special attention. (In 1912 specialists were pleading in vain for help for Appalachia.)

The coming of the 20th Century has all but ended the parochialism and isolation of the people of the mountains. But no way yet has been found to bring them into a share of the 20th century's opportunities. The war on poverty includes politics — but it is, nonetheless, at least 50 years overdue.

Court Rules A

Prohibits Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board Monday ruled that a federal arbitration clause in a contract between a railroad and its employees would be null and void.

District Judge Alexander H. Leitch said the clause violated the official of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen who strikes or discourages any strike in defiance of the injunction.

Judge Holtzoff also said a railroad employee who fails to show up for work could be subjected to discharge and lose all his seniority rights and his rights under arbitration ruling.

HE REJECTED a union request to restrain the railroad from putting into effect disputed interpretations of the arbitration award until the seven-man arbitration board settles the disagreement over the order's terms.

The arbitration board is scheduled to rule next weekend on 40 dozen disputed points in applying the award, which went into effect May 7 under an emergency law passed by Congress last year.

There have been a number of wildcat strikes on individual railroads since that time.

Union President H. E. Gilb declined comment on the ruling. But a spokesman for the firemen said "we hope the matter will stay on the job until we've got this thing settled."

HE SAID none of the strikes had been authorized.

The arbitration board ruled last November that the railroads could eventually eliminate 90 per cent of the firemen on diesel and freight engines, subject to the job security provisions.

About 3,000 men lost their jobs the day the award went into effect. These, all men with less than 25 years seniority, were given severance pay.

'Summerskin' doesn't deserve prizes; it's a plot to spread green cheer

By RAY PRESTON

Iowan Reviewer

According to the ads "Summerskin" won the Critics Award at Cannes a few years back; according to the earthy clatter of the lowing herd with their all-powerful paid admissions, the Cannes judges are a bunch of beasts. And I'm a fence-straddler. Was it as bad as our critics said, constantly? Or, does the Right of personal expression come with every little 75-cent duet? I always thought we had enough built-in trouble what with the little girls around the popcorn machine and that funnyman in the projection booth with his inexhaustible bag of tricks. (I was told — I didn't see it because I always miss all the really good things — that he finally got the reels switched the other day.)

PRESTON

No, "Summerskin" doesn't deserve either prize. Part of the purpose of the major European festivals is to help spread the green cheer of movie-making around the globe. When more recognition comes out of a country, opportunity is opened to pour products of recognition back into said country.

Movie-making "international quality" is restricted to bloody few countries so when anything of note comes out of the brush the insiders jump with glee. And it is a rare day when the Rays or Mekas or even Nilsons are able to come up with anything at all.

A BIG PART of the reason for this is the difficulty in turning out valuable work from a country which has no tradition in the art form. Like all the German Ballet companies and the American operas. Right now Argentinean film fame is nip and tuck with the Tasmanian Pie-Raphaelites. Not that this makes it worth your buck, but I remember vividly that first dog Stanley Kubrick ground out. Or, better yet, compare "Summerskin" to early Bergman's.

This is better because of the close similarity of script urgency and idea. It's an unfortunate choice; that amorphous (I'm sorry) love which knows no bounds or description but must be expressed. I hear its popular, if not mandatory, among young novelists too.

But they say that if you can successfully get it out of your system you have a good chance of going on and doing something. As demonstrated by "Summerskin" the basic device in film for expressing this pain is by holding on a face for hours after the Hollywood director would have cut and got the action rolling.

"SUMMERSKIN'S" unforgivable blunder seemed to be a certain ineptitude with script and technical details. A friend told me (I can't take credit for everything) that when the people came running after the suicide he thought there was a fire in the stable. Not only do I wish I had said that but I admit the sound didn't match all that perfect. Could it be that our top competition critical enjoyment is filtered through Hollywood perfection? The opposite side of the Argentinean coin. Whatever happened to exuberant calypso experimentation?

Whatever happened to Failure! The posters say that "The Greenwich Story" is the next attraction. Let's all go down and see how our hometown boys do. Unless I'm mistaken, festival-wise American films are right with that Tasmanian group.

ISU seeks more money; threatens SUU

(From The Iowa State Daily)

Statements made earlier this week by Harry Burrell, sports information director at ISU, served to reinforce the image of the athletic department as an anti-educational institution.

Burrell predicted a football game between Iowa State and the University of Iowa, saying that Iowa State looks to such a game with one main thought in mind: the money that could be made.

Burrell's emphasis on money is a repudiation of the values of athletics and of education. Athletics should be played for fun and by amateurs if they are to receive the sponsorship of a university. A large physical plant is not necessary to achieve the goal of a well-rounded athletic program.

Burrell also said that "As a last resort, the controversy could be taken to the Legislature, where Iowa State has more backers than Iowa University does." He hinted that the Iowa game could come about through legislation, citing a similar controversy between Auburn University and the University of Alabama.

In the Alabama controversy, Burrell said, certain funds were not granted to the University of Alabama until Alabama had agreed to play a game with Auburn.

To suggest such a tactic for use in Iowa shows a shocking disregard for Iowa's system of higher education. Legislative appropriations ideally should be based on the educational needs of the respective state schools.

A football game with SUU someday may be beneficial. Football players, students, and alumni would like to see this game. But until the goal of an ISU-SUU game ceases to be the perpetuation and growth of Big-Time Athletics, such a game can only detract from every student's educational opportunity.

Court Rules Against Firemen; Prohibits Arbitration Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads won a permanent Federal Court injunction Monday against any strikes by union firemen in connection with a federal arbitration ruling eliminating many jobs.

District Judge Alexander Holtzoff said he will hold in contempt any official of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen who instigates or encourages any strike in defiance of the injunction.

Judge Holtzoff also said any railroad employee who fails to show up for work could be subject to discharge and lose all his seniority rights and his rights under the arbitration ruling.

HE REJECTED a union request to restrain the railroads from putting into effect disputed interpretations of the arbitration award until the seven-man arbitration board settles the disagreements over the order's terms.

Khrushchev Vows Support For Arabs Against Israel

CAIRO (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev drew thunderous applause from the Egyptian Parliament with a firm declaration Monday of Soviet support for the Arabs in their bitter feud with Israel and Britain.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser also led his one-party Parliament in applauding Khrushchev's promise to continue providing arms with which to push the Western powers out of Africa.

The Soviet leader in an hour-long speech to the legislature:

- Denouncing Israel's project for diverting the Jordan River waters as a scheme to "rob Arabs of their own water."
- Endorsing Arab demands for the evacuation of British military bases in Libya and Cyprus and Aden trouble spots.
- Declared Soviet weapons will always be available to forces engaged in "the sacred struggle" against colonialism.

Khrushchev's speech appeared to be aimed mostly at winning the favor of a Middle East and African audience. He touched only briefly on the major anti-Chinese propaganda theme.

Alaskan Tapes To Run Tonight

Two experimental tape-recorded television lectures will be presented at 7:30 tonight in 102, Old Armory.

The lectures are "Ice Wedges in Alaska — Classification, Distribution, and Climatic Significance," by Professor Troy L. Pewe, head of the Department of Geology, University of Alaska, and "Sanitary Engineering in Alaska," by A. J. Alter, chief engineer, Division of Public Health, Alaska Department of Health and Welfare.

The lectures were recorded at Purdue University during the International Conference on Permafrost held there last November. They were made available to SUI through the Committee on Institutional Cooperation. The exchange, the first of a projected series, marks the first time that television instructional material made on another Big Ten campus has been used for lecture purposes at SUI.

The lectures are for geology and engineering students, and is also open to the public.

Annexation Foes Form Committee

Opponents of Iowa City's annexation of over 10 square miles to its boundaries will organize a committee at an 8 p.m. meeting Friday in Montgomery Hall on the 4-H Fairgrounds.

This group is composed mainly of residents living just outside the city limits. If passed, in an annexation election, scheduled June 1, the annexation proposal would nearly double Iowa City's area.

Committee officers will be elected at this meeting.

Church Builds Quake Victims New Homes

One hundred twenty-five Yugoslavian families of Skopje who lost their homes in an earthquake last July have moved into new houses provided in part by gifts from U.S. churches.

In a dedication at the site of the homes — a hillside area called Trnodal-Kozle on the rim of Skopje — each occupant family received keys and a welcoming letter from Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches (WCC), who presided at the ceremony.

U.S. Protestant denominations, following the quake, joined others around the world in responding to a WCC appeals for funds for housing. The total gift of American churches was $101,753. Of this amount, $93,934 was contributed to the cost of the houses. The balance provided tents, blankets and water purification tablets rushed to the scene immediately after the disaster.

This summer 50 young volunteers recruited by the Church of the Brethren and the Youth Department of WCC will assist occupants of the houses in putting up storage annexes for fuel and other items.

Iowa Sophomore Pitcher Stars—

League Leading Wolverines, Hawks Split 2-Game Series

By CURT SYLVESTER
Staff Writer

The Iowa Hawkeyes split a double-header with the league leading Michigan Wolverines on the Iowa field Saturday, winning the opener 6-2 behind Bob Schaubenberg's pitching before taking a 5-3 loss in the night cap.

Schaubenberg, the sophomore starter, pitched nearly perfect baseball through the first eight innings, giving up only three hits before the ninth. One of the hits was a wind-blown single by the Michigan lead-off man in the first inning and another was a bad-bouncing ground ball single in the second by Ron Tate. After that Schaubenberg gave up only a single in the sixth. In the ninth, however, Michigan loaded the bases on two singles and a walk.

COACH DICK SCHULTZ then brought Steve Green in to relieve Schaubenberg. After giving up a run-scoring single and sacrifice fly that scored another run, Green retired the side and preserved the victory.

The Hawks took the lead in the third inning of the opener and never gave it up. Schaubenberg and Dick Perkins opened the inning with walks and each advanced on a wild pitch by Clyde Barnhart. Jim Koehn then singled Schaubenberg home after Bob Sherman had grounded out. Later Duke Lee singled across the second run.

In the fifth inning the Hawks scored the winning runs of the game on a single by Jim Freese, a walk to Ken Banaszek, a fielders choice and a two-run double by left fielder Bill Niedbala.

BOB SHERMAN accounted for another Hawk run in the sixth inning when he blasted his first home run of the season over the left field fence.

Bob Gebhard, who started Friday's game with Michigan State, started the second game of the double-header Saturday. The Hawks took the lead in that game in the second inning on consecutive singles by Bill Niedbala, Ron Shudes and Bob Gebhard. Michigan came back with three runs off Gebhard in the third inning, driving the big right-hander off the mound with two doubles and a single.

Iowa tied the score in its half of the third, with Niedbala again providing the big hit for the inning. Niedbala's two-run single came after Sherman had walked. Lee had singled and Banaszek had walked.

MICHIGAN scored a run in the sixth and another in the seventh

Willie Mays Paces Hitters With .481

NEW YORK — Twenty games don't make a season, but at the rate he's going Willie Mays could be the first big league ball player in almost a quarter of a century to finish with a .400 batting average.

Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox was the last to do it. He hit .406 in 1941. And Mays is stepping at a pace much more brisk than Williams did. In 20 games, the San Francisco Giants' star has 39 hits in 81 tries for a .481 average. Williams, after 20 games in 1941, had hits in 64 times at bat for a .375 mark.

In last week's action Mays picked up an additional 25 points with 13 safeties in 24 tries, a .542 pace. He also continued to lead in homers with 11 and runs batted in with 30, collecting two home runs and seven RBI.

Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs rushed up to grab second place in the National League batting race. He gained 60 points to .405 with 12 hits in 21 at bats, a .571 gait.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh moved up two notches to third at .398 with 16 hits in 34 trips.

TONY OLIVA, Minnesota's rookie outfielder, moved into first place in the American League with a .441 average. He batted .538 with 14 hits in 26 at bats and gained 33 points in last week's games.

Jim Fregosi of the Los Angeles Angels held the runner-up position despite a drop of 23 points to .400. Ed Bressoud of Boston climbed two places to third at .378 although his 20-game batting streak was snapped Sunday.

ROCKY COLAVITO of Kansas City maintained the lead in home runs with nine while Leon Wagner, Cleveland, still is the RBI leader. Colavito slammed three homers. Wagner's 10 RBI gave him 24 for the season.

DI Yellows Beat WSUI Mike Hawks In Season Opener

The DI Yellows continued their winning ways of previous seasons by beating the WSUI Mike Hawks 14-12 Sunday in the opening game of their softball season.

Trailing 10-3 going into the top of the seventh inning, the Yellows shelled Mike Hawk pitcher Bob "Nellie Belly" Nelson for 11 runs on 10 hits.

The Mike Hawks made a gallant try to pull out the victory in the bottom half of the inning when they scored two runs, but they rally was nipped at the bud by sensational defensive plays by Eric "Floyd" Zoeccker at short and "Mr. Ed" Bassett in left.

"Boy Ace" Moyer sent the distance on the mound for the Yellows to gain the win. Allowing only seven hits, Moyers was slightly hindered by 10 Yellow miscues.

Moyers also led the Yellow hitting attack with four hits. Woody "Dutch Elm" Earl, John "Baby Huey" Bornholdt and Jimmy Joe "Little Daddy" Collier each had three hits for the Yellows.

Dick "The Bald Eagle" Schultz, Iowa Baseball Coach, called a foul game as umpire.

Indians 11, Red Sox 7

CLEVELAND — Fred Whitfield's grand-slam homer and a three-run blast by Larry Brown snapped Cleveland's four-game losing string and powered the Indians to a 11-7 victory over Boston Monday night.

Young Tommy John, a 20-year-old left-hander, was breezing along with a six-hitter and a 10-run lead when the Red Sox suddenly struck for six runs after two were out in the ninth.

An error, John's walk, and singles by Lou Clinton, Dick Stuart and Tony Conigliaro produced three Boston runs and brought on Gary Bell, who promptly walked the next two men, forcing in one run. Chuck Schilling singled in two more before Ted Abernathy finally got the side out.

Colts 4, Giants 1
Colts, held to one hit for five innings by Billy O'Dell, struck for five hits and three runs in the third inning and went on to defeat the National League-leading San Francisco Giants 4-1 Monday night.

The score was tied 1-1 and O'Dell had retired 14 men in a row when the Colts rallied. Eddie Kasko started things with an infield single and reached second base when Jim Hart threw wildly past first.

Cards 3, Phillies 2

PHILADELPHIA — Julian Javier slammed a three-run homer in the seventh inning as St. Louis left-hander Ray Sadecki overcame early wildness and defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 Monday night for his first victory after three losses.

Javier had collected the Cardinals' first hit off starter and loser Ray Culp, a single between third and short in the sixth inning. Javier's homer followed singles by Johnny Lewis and Charley James. Sadecki, who allowed only six hits, helped the Phils to single runs in the first two innings with his wildness. Cookie Rojas walked to start the first, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Richie Allen's double down the third base line.

PITTSBURGH — Pete Rose hit a three-run homer off the scoreboard clock in left field in the eighth inning Monday night, giving Cincinnati a 7-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

Rose's homer, his first of the year, came off Frank Bork. Bork relieved Tom Sisk, who had been touched for a single by Leo Cardenas and walked Gordy Coleman.

The Pirates rallied in their half of the eighth, scoring two runs on Smoky Burgess' double, a triple by Donn Clendon and Bill Mazeroski's double.

The Pirates scored one run in the second and Willie Stargell put them in front 3-2 in the third when he hit his sixth homer, with a man on.

Nats 6, Orioles 4

WASHINGTON — The Washington Senators scored one run on a freak play and two more on Don Zimmer's triple in the seventh inning Monday night and defeated Baltimore 6-4, snapping the Orioles' four-game winning streak.

Don Lock was on third and Ken Hunt on first with one out when Stu Miller relieved Mike McCormick. Pinch hitter Don Blasingame was intentionally passed, loading the bases.

Pitcher Bennie Daniels then blooped a ball that dropped in shallow center and Hunt did not leave the bag at second. Center fielder Jackie Brandt picked up the ball and raced in to second, forcing Blasingame as he touched the bag. Lock scored on the play.

Zimmer scored Hunt and Daniels with his fourth hit. He also had three singles.

Federal Aid Not Needed Says Dentist

The majority of American dentists are opposed to an increase in federal aid to dental schools, according to Anthony E. Bedrick, secretary of the National Society for Reciprocity in State Dental Licensure.

Many states claiming a shortage of dentists deliberately fail a large percentage of applicants for licensure, even though the applicants may be outstanding dentists who later practice in other states, Bedrick said.

The Federal Government recently passed a bill appropriating $35 million to increase facilities needed to train practicing dentists.

According to Bedrick, the public suffers because even after paying for the construction of these facilities, they will still have to wait for dental appointments because the induced shortages will remain in the same states.

Editor Sees Growth in Suburban Papers

Charles H. Bobo, editor of the Joliet (Ill.) Spectator, predicted a bright future for suburban newspapers in a recent talk before SUI journalism students.

Regarding suburban newspaper growth, Bobo said: "As long as the population movement to the suburbs continues, the growth in papers will continue. A better suburban press will develop as the communities grow."

He foresaw a pattern in the Chicago area closely resembling that of Los Angeles — a number of small dailies and many week-

Light Plane Crashes; Iowa Pilot Badly Hurt

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A light airplane Monday crashed into a bank of the Wolf River near Severance, Kan., injuring the pilot seriously.

The Kansas Highway Patrol said Harris Hess, 37, of Coon Iowa, apparently was attempting to land at a small airport north of Severance when the plane spun out of control and crashed.

Students Compromise on Housing

Ray Carlson, 23, Glencoe, Ill., who lives at 123 1/2 S. Clinton St., said "I consider Iowa City to be a unique town in Iowa since there are many more students than places for them to live.

"Add this highly competitive situation to the relatively poor housing market in the downtown area and you will find most of the student tenants are willing to compromise," he said.

"THE STUDENTS have no bargaining power in Iowa City," Carlson said. "Those who want to live off campus, but don't have very much time to look around, are really stuck with sub-standard living conditions. No one would be stuck if Iowa City had its own housing code ordinance."

Mrs. Georgia Marlas, Carlson's landlady, was recently brought to Johnson County District Court in an eviction case. During the trial, Warren J. Buchan, Iowa City building inspector, testified he has inspected apartment No. 1 at 123 1/2 S. Clinton and that he could not approve it by issuing a certificate of occupancy.

Buchan said there is not enough light or proper ventilation in the apartment to meet the state housing standards, and there is no adequate fire escape exit.

Several minor violations including no available fire extinguishers and no exit signs are also cited by the building inspector.

MRS. MARLAS has tried to remedy this by posting the following notice at the top of the stairway leading to the apartments which she rents:

"NOTICE TO ALL TENANTS:
In case of fire — if you cannot leave the building by the front stairway, go to the entrance doors of apartments three or six in the back, break the glass panel with the brick placed on the floor there, reach in to unlock the door and exit down the back stairway."
These procedures are being

Student Arrested Riding Stolen Bike

An SUI student and an Iowa City man were arrested and charged with petty larceny late Friday night by Iowa City police who spotted the two riding bicycles listed as stolen.

Police said Larry Duane Anderson, 22, Goldfield, and David Michael Clowes, 19, 420 E. Jefferson St., were arrested in the 100 block of Washington Street. They were riding bicycles belonging to Leonard Ellis, G. 319 1/2 S. Gilbert St., and James Hall of the Iowa City Trailer Park.

posted at the request of the fire chief. Please follow them for your own safety. Destruction of the notices, signs, or materials provided may endanger your life or someone else's.

"Note: Unlock your doors to facilitate work of firemen, but leave them shut so that the fire will not be drawn into the rooms by the draft. At all times take precautions not to let fires start. Do not smoke in bed, etc." (Landlord)

There is another side to this story: Dr. J. A. Swisher, of 1215 Meirose Ave., owns two houses in Iowa City which he is renting to students. One is at 303 S. Capitol St., the other at 114 N. Gilbert St.

Swisher is termed by his renters as a fair man, willing to overlook an unpaid bill for a while — whenever the student can't pay his rent. He rents mostly to foreign students because "they have a hard enough time finding a place to live as it is."

One landlady, Mrs. Dan McNamara, of 715 Iowa Avenue, said sometimes poor living conditions are brought on by the students living in the apartments off campus.

She said, "I have two apartments which I am trying to rent for the summer months but am afraid to show them to anyone. The students living there now have not bothered to take care of the place."

Mrs. McNamara said, although she supplies six or seven garbage cans and the use of her own vacuum cleaner, the students have not bothered to clean their apartment or to take out their garbage for periods of two weeks at a time.

WEDNESDAY: City Councilmen express their views on a city housing ordinance.

Fire Protection?

Iowa City Building Inspector Warren J. Buchan reports several apartments in the business district are lacking minimum fire protection devices or escape routes. Especially important for protection are outside fire escapes, but some, such as this one, become rickety with rust and age. — Photo by Bob Nandell

SUI's Littlest Soldier Gets A Big Thrill

SUI's "Littlest Soldier," six-year-old Zacharias, 9, was all smiles Tuesday when he was able to leave classes at the Home School for Handicapped Children to view Governor's ceremonies. . . .

... And while he was there, tall, important looking men walked up to shake his hand. Little Mervin talked away with the man, Gov. Harold Hughes, honored guest of day. . . .

... But the time came when the ceremonies became serious and just like the bigger soldiers, Mervin raised his hand to salute the colors as they passed by. It was his big day since he first became interested in watching the ROTC Pershing Rifle team and became friends with Col. William Holm, professor of Military Science. Col. Holm, professor of Air Science, invited Mervin to be a speaker at the 80th annual Governor's Day ceremony at SUI Tuesday.

Firemen Ask Pay Increase

Across-the-board pay increases and uniforms supplied by the fire department were the major requests from departments to the City Council at its second special session Tuesday.

Representatives from each of the city's six departments met separately with the council to present their financial proposals for fiscal year of 1965.

IN ADDITION to a salary increase request, the fire department asked for retroactiveevity pay. The proposal would give an additional $5 a month to each employe who had worked for the department for a minimum of five years. For each added year, the longevity pay would be an additional $5 a month to a maximum longevity pay of $10 a year.

The Fire Department also requested additional holiday time and compensatory pay.

Similar requests were voiced by other departments.
