SUI's "Littlest Soldier," Mervin Zacharias, 9, was all smiles Tuesday when he was allowed to leave classes at the Hospital School for Handicapped Children to view Governor's Day ceremonies.

... And while he was there, a tall, important looking man walked up to shake his hand. Little Mervin talked awhile with the man, Gov. Harold E. Hughes, honored guest of the day.

... But the time came when the ceremonies became serious, and just like the bigger soldiers, Mervin raised his hand to salute the colors as they passed by. It was his biggest day since he first became interested in watching the Army ROTC Pershing Rifle drill team and became friends of Col. William Holm, professor of Military Science, Col. Booker, professor of Air Science, invited Mervin to be a special guest at the 80th annual Governor's Day ceremony at SUI Tuesday.

Firemen Ask Pay Increase

Across-the-board pay increases and uniforms supplied by the city were the major requests from city departments to the City Council at its second special session Tuesday.

Representatives from each of the city's six departments met separately with the council to present their financial proposals for the fiscal year of 1965.

IN ADDITION to a salary-increase request, the fire department asked for retroactive longevity pay. The proposal would give an additional $5 a month to each employee who had worked in the department for a minimum of five years. For each added five years, the longevity pay would be an additional $5 a month to a maximum longevity pay of $240 a year.

The Fire Department also requested additional holiday time or compensatory pay.

Similar requests were voiced by

Rusk Asks Cuban Isolation

Tells NATO U.S. To Keep Spy Flights

Lord Home Says Britain Won't Trade with Cuba

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked the Western Allies to send non-military aid to South Viet Nam and to isolate Cuba to head off a new world crisis.

He also saw potential danger to the West in the Moscow-Peking dispute.

He urged the isolation of Cuba economically, politically, socially and even spiritually to prevent Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime from subverting other Latin-American countries.

Rusk told the opening session Tuesday of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Council of Foreign Ministers that a new crisis over Cuba would affect the whole Western world. This was aimed at such NATO nations as Britain and France who trade with Cuba despite the U.S. economic embargo of the island nation.

THE UNITED STATES is determined to continue aerial reconnaissance of Cuba, Rusk said, pointing out this could lead to as serious a confrontation as that in October of 1962, when the Soviet Union introduced missiles in Cuba.

Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler of Britain agreed with Rusk's proposal for nonmilitary aid to boost morale among civilians in South Viet Nam, where the United States is supporting a war against Communist guerrillas.

Butler conceded that there was a difference of views over Cuba, a reference to the sale of British buses to Cuba. But this did not alter the fact that the aims of the Allies are the same and that the NATO countries are determined to help Latin American countries protect their security, he declared.

IN LONDON, however, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home told a cheering House of Commons that Britain's trade with Cuba is increasing and the Government has no intention of stopping normal commercial practices.

Rusk advised the foreign ministers to use every opportunity to ease cold war tensions. He also conceded that in some ways the world seemed a safer place now.

Rusk did not share, however, the easy comfort of many in the West who feel that peace is more secure somehow because of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's arguments with Mao Tse-tung of Red China.

THIS FIGHT inside the Communist family raised dangers of its own. Rusk said, because the clash might tend to delay the modification of Soviet policies along lines more acceptable to the West.

Cambodian Jets Aid Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A new incident Tuesday on the Cambodian frontier complicated South Viet Nam's anti-Communist war while U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara reviewed the general outlook under heavy security guard in Saigon.

Reliable sources said two Cambodian jet fighters zipped across the border, bombed and strafed Vietnamese infantrymen who were hunting Communist guerrillas and then roared back to Cambodia under fire from the infantrymen.

There were no Vietnamese casualties, the informants said, and it was not determined whether either of the planes was hit.

The clash occurred near Tay Ninh, 55 miles northwest of Saigon. It was the latest in a series of attacks by this U.S.-backed nation and its neutralist neighbor stemming from Communist use of the frontier zone as a staging area for attacks on Vietnamese villages and army posts.

In Saigon, McNamara opened his fifth visit to South Viet Nam with another promise that the United States will provide "whatever is required for however long it is required" to win the war.

Then he started conferences that a briefing officer described as an audit of progress made on recommendations by McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

SUI Corrects Housing Error

The following statement was issued Tuesday by James J. Rhatigan, Off Campus Housing Adviser:

"The Tuesday, May 12, edition of The Daily Iowan noted that the housing facility owned by Mayor Richard Burger at 503 S. Clinton St., was not approved by the University. The reporter received erroneous information from this office which should be corrected.

"This house is approved for women and is considered an excellent facility. The Burgers have worked closely with the Office of Student Affairs and the Division of Environmental Health and Safety in the reconstruction of this facility and have spent a great amount of time and money in the process.

"It is hoped that this correction may be recorded in a matter consistent with the prominence of the original article."

DI MAKES CORRECTION

The Daily Iowan incorrectly identified Joe Glassman, owner of White Way Supermarket, Tuesday as the late Ira Glassman. The Daily Iowan regrets the error.

Senate Asks Better Bus Service Here

Two resolutions aimed at reducing Iowa City parking and transportation problems were introduced, discussed, and referred to committee for study Tuesday night by the SUI Student Senate.

The transportation resolution cited a "definite need for transit service linking downtown Iowa City and outlying areas in Western Iowa City" and proposes that the Senate "appoint a committee . . . to go before the transit line expressing the desire that the . . . service be established." According to its originator, Frank Punelli, A3, Des Moines, the resolution "might give the bus company the push it needs" in setting up such a service.

A resolution introduced by John Barrett, A1, Solon, would set up a five-man study committee "to investigate the existing parking problem and to submit directly to the Senate concrete recommendations for its solution." Barrett said Punelli's resolution was unnecessary since the proposed study committee would consider the extension of bus service. "Without a thorough evaluation we can't do anything about it," he said. Both resolutions will come up for vote in next week's final Senate meeting.

In other action, elections committee chairman Don Sulentic, B3, Cedar Falls, reported this year's all-campus elections cost $300.78, about $300 less than last year's elections. The savings were due largely to use of IBM cards in vote tabulation.

Snyder said the 1965 Senate budget will be submitted at next week's final meeting of the year and that applications for Student Senate Traffic Court positions are now available at the Senate office.

In Speech Here—

Hultman Criticizes Hughes' Program

Iowa Atty. Gen. Evan Hultman, Republican candidate for governor, stated Tuesday that his opponent, Gov. Harold Hughes, has neglected to back his principles with programs.

Hultman, speaking before a luncheon meeting of the Iowa Council of Republican Women in the Union, said Republicans need to be specific to win and to "deal with Hughes' program as it really is."

Mother, 2 Tots Die in Crash

A 26-year-old mother and her two small children were killed Tuesday afternoon when the car in which they were riding collided head-on with a semi-trailer truck on Highway 220 in West Amama, 22 miles west of Iowa City.

The deaths raised the 1964 Iowa traffic death toll to at least 248 compared to 184 for this same date last year.

Katherine Joyce Hanshaw, 26, Kenneth L. Hanshaw, 2½, and Kelly Ann Hanshaw, 3 months, all of Route 1, Newhall, were killed instantly in the collision which occurred in heavy rain as the Hanshaw car was turning a wide curve.

Hultman cited Hughes' penal program as a primary factor in the ultimate and costly breakdown of Iowa's prison system. He explained that Hughes had vowed to take his personal program to the prisoners as an experiment instead of relying on penal experts' advice. He also quoted Hughes as saying, "This is an experiment on my part."

In the area of education, Hultman said the Republican legislature has made appropriations for $3.2 million more than Hughes proposed.

HULTMAN SAID Hughes has failed to present any constructive program for Iowa's "number one" industry, agriculture. He said the governor has not bothered to appear or send a representative to the Government hearings in Washington, D.C. to state Iowa's position on the red beef imports.

Hultman also said Hughes "had the audacity to say there isn't anything we can do this year" to a meeting of 5,000 beef raisers when beef prices were at an all-time low.

Other Republican candidates in the June primary also spoke at the luncheon. Lieutenant Governor nominees, incumbent Bill Mooty and Bob Naden both gave short speeches. Bill Bump and Garry D. Woodward, candidates for the Attorney General nomination also spoke.

Hughes Sees Gap in Iowa Education

Hancher Gets Medal; Corps Reviewed At Governor's Day

Gov. Harold Hughes, the honored guest at the 80th annual joint Air Force-Army Governor's Day ceremonies Tuesday, urged the citizens of Iowa to formulate a "long-range plan for Iowa education at the public school and university level."

Hughes, speaking to advanced Army and Air Force students at a luncheon in the Union, said there is a "big gap" between the people of Iowa and the education system. He said there have been "historic breakthroughs in Iowa in the past year and a half," but added the public must gain a more thorough understanding of the importance of higher education.

Hughes added the "Old Capitol and the State House should be closer together" since they "serve the same citizens."

Hughes said planning and looking into the future are the most important jobs private citizens and public servants have. Most public officials are too busy taking care of the mental tasks connected with public office to do this, he added.

"It is essential that we dream great dreams" to realize improvements in our educational systems, Hughes said.

Hughes said the people of Iowa have all the requirements to strive forward in all fields, "if only we believe in this enough to implement it."

The governor, accompanied by Major General Junior Miller, Adjutant General of Iowa, arrived at the Iowa City airport in an Iowa National Guard aircraft Tuesday morning. He was met by President Hancher, ROTC Corps Commander David Still, A4, Coralville, Col. William Holm, professor of Military Science and Col. Brooks Booker, professor of Air Science.

D. B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Arthur W. Melloh, dean of the College of Engineering, Honorary Cadet Colonel Barbara Derr, A3, Cedar Rapids and her court of Cadet Lieutenant Colonels and the dignitaries who met him at the airport accompanied the governor.

Hughes later spoke at a luncheon at the Union and presented the Department of the Army Outstanding Civilian Service Medal to President Hancher.

A similar award from the Department of the Air Force was also presented to Hancher by Gov. Hughes Tuesday, but administrative difficulties caused the presentation to be scheduled for later in the month.

In the citation which accompanied the medal, Hancher was praised as a "distinguished lawyer, educator and loyal friend of the Army."

The citation called his achievements in "the highest traditions of patriotic, selfless public service and reflect great credit on himself, his university, state and country."

After the luncheon, Hughes was presented with a Photo Documentation Book by ROTC Corps Commander David Still.

Other Councilmen Comment—

Yocum: Housing Code Tamperers with Citizen's Rights

By DALLAS MURPHY Staff Writer

(Seventh of a Series)

One of the most perplexing problems facing our city fathers has been the formulation of a municipal housing code satisfactory to both landlords and home renters.

Such a code is needed, and needed quickly, if the city intends to proceed with its plans for urban renewal certification by the Federal Government since the state and local housing codes presently governing Iowa City are not stringent enough to meet Federal regulations for this purpose.

For the people who live in Iowa City's sub-standard housing, few civic issues are of greater import than the immediate passage and enforcement of a housing code. These people, many of whom are University students, often are accustomed to and would prefer more livable housing facilities, but find, because of the tight housing market in Iowa City, they have no choice but to rent sub-standard housing.

CITY COUNCILMEN seem to agree on the necessity of a housing code, but the expediency with which it will be passed remains questionable.

"At present, there are so many items being discussed by the council that, while others are not necessarily more important, some may be more pressing than a housing ordinance," Councilman William Maas said.

Mayor Richard Burger, Councilman William Hubbard and City Manager Carsten Leikvold said they anticipate the completion of a housing code before the end of the year.

"We need an adequate housing code before we can apply to the Federal Government for urban renewal aid, and we'd like to be eligible for that within a year and a half. I think something will be done on the housing code before the end of the year," Burger said.

COUNCILMAN James Nesmith said he anticipates the passage of the ordinance to be delayed by public opinion.

"You won't be seeing action too fast on this; there is too much involved. A good ordinance always steps on somebody's toes and is met with some opposition," he said.

The Council is not capable of writing an ordinance that would eliminate the housing problem, Councilman Max Yocum said. "The best we can do is write an ordinance that will aim at correcting the situation," he said.

"A good housing ordinance is always difficult to draw," Maas agreed. "We don't want to make ours so difficult and complicated that it can't be realistically enforced."

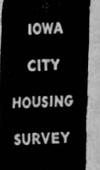

ENFORCEMENT of a housing ordinance has always presented a problem to local officials. Leikvold has said frequently that state and local housing ordinances have never been enforced in Iowa City and won't be until a new ordinance is passed.

Referring to another city ordinance, Leikvold remarked at the May 5 council meeting:

"It isn't up to the council to decide if an ordinance should be enforced. We have an ordinance here and we have to enforce it. We can't allow people to willfully violate our ordinances," he said.

The distinction between enforcement of a housing ordinance and other city ordinances has not been clarified completely, but city officials attribute it, at least partially, to lack of enforcement personnel.

The advertising code for cigaret companies

THE CIGARET INDUSTRY has been shown the handwriting on the wall and doesn't like what it sees. The Federal Trade Commission has proposed a Government ruling that every cigaret package be required to carry a warning that cigaret smoking is dangerous to health.

Even tougher regulation may lie ahead. The industry's remedy is a time-honored one: self-regulation by a code, which in this case governs not the product, but only its advertising. Most industry-written codes are phony, and the one cooked up by the cigaret industry's publicists and lawyers is no exception.

According to the provisions of the code, the industry agrees to do what it has been doing since last June — plus two additions. Celebrity endorsements are to be barred, together with unproved health claims. These stipulations are reasonably specific and by all indications the industry has decided to abide by them, but some of the other sections are disingenuous.

One such dodge is the disclaimer that the cigaret manufacturers wish to appeal to the young. Therefore the models must be at least 25 years of age, and look it. Since when have men and women ceased to be attractive at 25, and since when have teen-agers regarded people of that age as squares, unworthy of imitation?

A particularly objectionable maneuver of the cigaret manufacturers is the $10 million grant by six firms to the American Medical Association for tobacco research. There have been charges that the AMA was lenient in its warnings against cigaret smoking in return for opposition by tobacco-state Congressmen to hospital care for the aged under Social Security.

Actually the proposed labeling of cigaret packs would probably have little effect on sales to older people. Most of them cannot and will not stop. David Ogilvy, one of the country's leading advertising men will not allow his agency to accept cigaret accounts.

"I wish the Government would ask me to do a campaign on how to stop smoking, and maybe change to pipes," Ogilvy said on a WCBS-TV broadcast. If the psychological lore of the advertising industry could be applied in a campaign to prevent the young from starting to smoke, some real good might result.

Taylor-Burton romance worth about $40 million

By ART BUCHWALD
A few weeks ago 20th Century-Fox announced they were suing Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton for $50 million in damages in connection with the motion picture "Cleopatra." The couple were charged with breach of contract and depreciating the commercial value of the movie by their "scandalous" conduct before, and during, the filming of the movie.

When the news was published, Bob Hope said, "Gee, that's going to spoil their honeymoon." As one of the many combat correspondents who covered the sinking of "Cleopatra" from beginning to end, we were certainly interested in the figure 20th came up with. All of us in Rome knew the Elizabeth Taylor-Burton romance was a hot one, but we never figured it was worth $50 million.

So we went back over our notes to see if the $50 million was justified. THERE WAS one night the couple went out in Rome and Mr. Burton almost socked an Italian photographer. That certainly was worth $5 million to 20th. Then there was another evening when several reporters tried to climb over Miss Taylor's stone wall while Mr. Burton was presumed to be in the house. That was worth $3,500,000 of injury to the reputation of the picture.

On another occasion the couple went for a picnic to the beach with Miss Taylor's children. This cost 20th $4,900,000 in bad publicity.

And then there was that week end when they went off together and Miss Taylor came back with a swollen eye. We put down $6,100,000 for that incident.

Of course, the big damage was done when they were photographed on a raft together. This was terribly costly to the studio and probably resulted in their losing $7,800,000 in business. WHEN EDDIE FISHER left Rome and Miss Taylor refused to answer his telephone calls, 20th went into a spin. It was a $2,200,000 breach of contract.

Then there were the love scenes at the studio, and while the press agents pretended they were good for the picture, and that people would break down the doors of the theaters to see them on the screen, we knew all along it was costing the Fox people embarrassment to the tune of possibly $5 million.

Then we had several miscellaneous items marked down, such as the couple's being photographed in Roman night clubs, holding hands on the set, and walking down the Via Veneto. Under miscellaneous, we noted $6 million damages.

BUT THIS only comes to about $40 million, and for the life of us we can't figure why 20th tacked on another $10 million.

We're sure the studio, who would never take advantage of a publicity stunt, can justify it or they never would have started the suit.

We also owe the executives at 20th Century-Fox an apology. During the filming of the picture, one of the top men said to us, "This picture, in spite of everything, will make $100 million."

We scoffed at the time, but what we didn't know was that Fox planned to get back $50 million of it by suing the stars.

Attitudes in Washington change on poverty, rights

By RALPH MCGILL
There is slowly-increasing evidence that leaders in American business are reorienting their philosophy in certain areas. It is admitted that there is an attack on poverty. It is imperative that a part of this include specific attention to the South Appalachian region as well as to slums, lack of education and so on. This cannot be done by "local communities" or "the states. They can, and will, participate. But the Government" must lead. Planning and direction will be done centrally, with the advice and participation of the several state governments.

Here we have an important reorientation of philosophy by a majority of the business community. Heretofore, there had been an almost compulsive reaction of the knee-jerk type against such Government action as being "socialism" or "the creeping or running variety."

Reality and events continue to make us aware that while the "general welfare" clause of the Constitution is a short one it has validity and relevance equal to that of the more lengthy and detailed sections. Reality also teaches that poverty is not good for business but a war against it is.

ONE FINDS here, too, a modification of business philosophy regarding the civil rights bill. The statesman of industry and commerce more and more understand that elimination of discrimination in the public sector of American life is necessary to the health of the economic and political system under which we have lived and progressed.

Business is a part of the public sector of national life. One encounters in it the not-always delicate balance of semantics. A privately owned business doing, or rendering, a public service cannot easily sustain the argument that it is really private.

It comes upon the fact that there are literally private eating places and clubs. The business selling a public service also is confronted by the commerce regulations and the 14th Amendment.

Private ownership is in no wise disturbed. But the obligation to offer a public service without discrimination is under examination.

HERE AGAIN, the climate of opinion in Washington reflects the wish of a majority of the nation's leading businesses engaged in public service enterprises, to get on with the Civil Rights Bill and turn their energies toward business, rather than demonstrations, protests and arguments about the "right" of a business offering a public service to discriminate.

The health of the economy, local and national, requires a stable basis of operation. There is a growing wish to have the law banning discrimination in public accommodations so that competitors cannot themselves participate in unfair competition against those who voluntarily remove discriminations.

This opinion is being presented to the Congress and the effect is noticeable. There is argument today about the public accommodations section of the act.

THAT A MAJORITY of the nation's business leadership now believes the war of poverty to be a legitimate feature of concern by the Government, "the general welfare requiring it," and that this same force now wants the Civil Rights Bill passed so that a legal basis may be had for eliminating discrimination in the public sector, is one of the more meaningful changes in business philosophy in our time.

"There is a third change also in evidence. The Christian church is at last mobilizing its force behind the declaration that discrimination and prejudice are a legitimate moral issue wholly outside the field of politics. In years to come the tardiness of the church to act will be the subject of books and research articles.

There still are many of its leaders who insist that even the gross discriminations in church-related schools and institutions are not moral issues insofar as the church is concerned. Yet, slowly but surely, this hypocrisy is becoming less and less tenable. Direct action founded on basic principles is a growing force. Recent votes in the Southern Presbyterian and Methodist church organizations are straws in that wind. The presence here in Washington of a genuine and forceful ecumenical crusade of prayer and declaration of principles in behalf of moral action is another example of change.

Letters to the editor—

'Co-existence is answer'

To the Editor:
On the Jan. 5, 1964, Sen. Barry Goldwater was asked on "Meet The Press" what his frequently used phrase "Why Not Victory" meant in the Cold War context. He replied that it meant "very simply — and I like to be simple — it doesn't mean defeat. The only alternative to victory is defeat and the only alternative to defeat is victory."

For this statement and many others like it, Mr. Goldwater has been charged with oversimplifying the issues. I would hazard a guess that most Americans are convinced that there is some middle ground between total victory and total defeat, which might be called a "state of co-existence."

Furthermore, I would venture that these Americans, for various reasons, ascribe to such a policy, for if they didn't, Mr. Goldwater's strength would be far greater than it presently is.

IS A stalemate or a compromise, or a "state of co-existence" consistent with recent American foreign policy? In his 1942 State of the Union Address, Franklin D. Roosevelt said:

"We are fighting today for security and progress and for peace, not only for ourselves but for all men, not only for one generation but for all generations. We are fighting to cleanse the world of ancient evils, ancient ills.

"Our enemies are guided by brutal cynicism, by unholy contempt for the human race. We are inspired by a faith which goes back through all the years to the first chapter of the Book of Genesis — 'God created man in His own image.'"

"We on our side are striving to be true to that divine heritage. We are fighting, as our fathers have fought, to uphold the doctrine that all men are equal in the sight of God. Those on the other side are striving to destroy this deep belief and to create a world in their own image, a world of tyranny and cruelty, and serfdom.

"Only total victory can reward the champions of tolerance and decency and freedom and faith."

The U.S. Congress gave the President a standing ovation for this speech. Would they do it now? If they didn't, what would it mean?

Franklin Roosevelt associated "evil" in this context with states which had "unholy contempt for the human race" and which were "striving to destroy this deep belief."

CERTAINLY a state which holds to a doctrine that the end justifies the means has "unholy contempt for the human race." Certainly atheism fits into his definition of evil. Certainly, in 1964, most Americans associate the Soviet Union with evil and evil things.

Then, if we agree with Franklin Roosevelt, there can never be and there never will be successful compromise between the United States and the Soviet Union unless and until our sense of "good" and "evil" become the same and unless and until we give the same meaning to the same words.

What about the "total victory" part? Nuclear war is unrealistic. Revolution is improbable. Total victory will become a reality when we agree to the same sense of values, and no sooner.

Franklin Roosevelt's prophecy and Barry Goldwater's phrases are compatible to the extent of goals. But the question is time and method, and the answer is co-existence.

How to solve the football problem

IT MATTERS NOT whether you win or lose, but how you play the game — unless you're dealing with Iowa football. Then it's strictly a matter of whether you play the game at all.

The latest installment in the Big Question of Iowa State versus Iowa University in a gridiron contest was registered last week when Harry Burrell, sports information director at ISU, brought up the question again.

Burrell suggested that if Iowa continues to refuse to share the profits from its lucrative football program by not agreeing to an SU-IU game, it may be a matter for the State Legislature to decide.

He cited a case in Alabama where the Legislature refused to allocate certain funds for the University until it agreed to play Auburn in football.

Well it seems kind of silly to make such a big thing out of what should be a fairly simple game.

Maybe instead of calling on the Legislature to take a stand on this much debated question, the lawmakers could placate the entertainment appetite of Iowa sports fans themselves. Perhaps the State Senate could play the House of Representatives in a volleyball game — they could hold the match in the governor's office.

It might not be quite as good as a college football game, but it would keep a lot of people talking — about something other than ISU-SUI football. That would be quite an accomplishment in itself.

Music Prof Makes Record Of Modern Sacred Hymns

"If music is going to be composed for use in our churches today, it ought to sound like today's music," says Daniel Moe, associate professor of music and director of choral activities.

Professor Moe's modern approach to church music is mirrored in his own compositions, a number of which were recently recorded by Christus Records for sale across the country.

The major work on the new recording is Professor Moe's "Christus Nunc" (Christ Now), a modern antiphony in which God speaks to his people today.

IN THE work, a narrator speaks the Word of God in three New Testament texts, reset in contemporary thoughts and images. God's people answer musically in three articles of the Apostle's Creed.

The composition is performed by the Augsburg College Concert Choir, cantorian singers, male chorus and wind ensemble, directed by Dr. Moe.

"Christus Nunc" will be performed for the second time in the United States in Detroit in August at the national youth convention of the American Lutheran Church. Professor Moe will conduct the choir from Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, in the performance.

DR. MOE said that the executives of Christus Records were aware of a renaissance of interest in contemporary church music, and asked for some of his other sacred works.

Six shorter works, composed by Dr. Moe and performed by the First Methodist Church Choir of Iowa City, are on the second side of the album. The choir, which includes a number of SUI students, was directed by Herald Stark, professor of music, with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Eunice Hanlin of Iowa City.

Technicians came from Minneapolis last May to make the recording in the Iowa City church. He has also written "Te Deum," a composition for large chorus and wind ensemble, which was performed at the SUI Easter concert in 1962; "The Coventry Nativity," a Christmas opera presented by the Denver Symphony; and more than 20 other published works.

Political Panel To Discuss Voting Issues

Do you have questions about the 1964 election — the candidates, the issues?

Panel members representing the Republican party are: Russell Ross, associate professor of political science; David Stanley, State Representative for Muscatine County; and Gene Kreckel, L1, past president of the SUI Young Republicans.

Names of the Democratic panel members have not been released. Following opening remarks by Stanley and the Democratic politician, the audience will ask the panel members questions about the 1964 state and national elections.

"We hope that this will be a very informal meeting," said Merle Wood, A3, Cedar Rapids, executive vice president of the Young Democrats. "We encourage questions and discussion from the audience."

"With the 1964 election only a few months away, it is important that college students are well informed and interested in the political process."

gton rights

al basis may be had for eliminating discrimination in the publisher, is one of the more meaningful changes in business philosophy in our time.

There is a third change also in progress. The Christian church is mobilizing its force behind a declaration that discrimination and prejudice are a legitimate moral issue wholly outside the field of politics. In years to come the tardiness of the church will be the subject of books and research articles.

There still are many of its leaders who insist that even the gross discriminations in church-related schools and institutions are not moral issues insofar as the church is concerned. Yet, slowly but surely, this hypocrisy is being replaced by a growing force. Recent votes in the Southern Presbyterian and Methodist church organizations are straw in that wind. The presence here in Washington of a genuine and forceful interdenominational crusade of prayer and declaration of principles in behalf of moral action is another example of change.

ist proposed to expose good people'

the Editor:

If the Iowan is really interested in, and not just making a statement at, the alleviation of sub-standard (euphemism) housing in Iowa City, the following (and, obviously, only workable) suggestion is tendered:

Compile a list of all owners of sub-standard dwellings and notify me that if improvements are not made within, say, six months, their names will appear weekly (page 1) in The Daily Iowan improvements are made.

The Daily Iowan would be attacking the "good" people (bank residents, physicians, lawyers, college professors, city councilmen, etc.) in Iowa City.

"The "good" people are quite and and touchy about their public image. Ergo, in most cases, improvements would be made through by the "good" people.

The Achilles heel of this suggestion, is that the Daily Iowan would be attacking the wrong people (that is, the "good" people who, by virtue of their position, influence and acquaintances are immune to any part of direct attack by any "responsible" newspaper that purports to serve the public.

—The Al Randolph Story—

Determination and Courage Make Goals a Reality

RANDOLPH AS GRIDDER . . .

If it had not been for the determination and courage of his parents to educate their seven sons, Iowa's Alvin Randolph, trackman and football player, might never have been able to clear any of the hurdles of his life-time goals.

Although he is only a sophomore, Randolph has established himself as one of the Big Ten's best hurdlers and will be a leading contender in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles in the conference meet May 22-23 at Evanston, Ill. However, a recent leg injury may slow him.

ON THE INDOOR tracks, Al scored the most points of any Hawkeye as he tallied 31 while winning four hurdle races and placing in others and in the high jump. On the gridiron he is expected to be Iowa's starting defensive safety next fall after almost lettering as a sophomore end.

But competing in two sports and gaining an education is not just a game to Randolph. It is a serious business to him and he shows it by the personal goals he intends to reach before leaving Iowa.

BESIDES GRADUATING, Al is striving to clear the following obstacles:

- Break Don Gardner's Big Ten and Iowa record of :37.1 for the intermediate hurdles.
- Develop his defensive football skills to near perfection to help create the possibility of a pro contract.
- Learn the entire interior designing field so that he will be able to work in any area.

However, none of the accomplishments and hopes visualized by Al would be possible if his fore-sighted parents had not chosen to leave Alabama.

In 1939, Leonna and Lester Randolph headed north with their four sons and two daughters. They settled in East St. Louis, Ill. Then No. 5 son, Alvin, arrived.

FROM THE BEGINNING, education was an important part of the Randolph family plan. Father Randolph had decided that his sons were to receive a college education and it became a reality when Scott, the second son, enrolled at Southern Illinois University.

Since then Scott and Ross have received degrees, Bob has almost completed his work, Al and Calvin are both in college, and Henry's turn is next as soon as he graduates from high school. Only James, the eldest son, missed out on the "Randolph Plan."

AL IS THE ONLY son who has received an athletic scholarship to help with his education. And he almost by-passed Iowa to take a track scholarship at either Purdue or Illinois. But he visited the Iowa campus, like what he saw and decided to enroll.

When asked about what sport he would give up if he could not compete in both, he said he enjoyed both track and football, but that he would probably give up track because of the possibility of a future career and bonus contract that football gives and track does not.

IN HIS SPARE TIME, "A. C." enjoys reading and writing poetry. He has written several poems but he is not interested in having them published. "When an editor gets finished with them, they no longer are your poems," he said.

Although Al participated in spring football for only two weeks before rejoining the track team, Coach Jerry Burns found out that Randolph could make the transition from offensive end to defensive safety.

Even Al likes his new position. "You are your own boss on defense. You excel or fail on your own merits and you don't have to depend upon someone else to make the play work. This is why I enjoy track so much. You win or lose on your own ability," he said.

With his ability and desire to excel, Al may well go on to attain the goals he has set for himself at Iowa.

Tigers Halt Yankees' Win Streak at 5

DETROIT (AP) — Left-hander Mickey Lolich threw a three-hitter and snapped New York's five-game winning streak as the Detroit Tigers downed the Yankees 7-2 Tuesday night.

One of the hits off Lolich was a two-run home run by Hector Lopez in the first inning. Lopez also singled in the ninth.

The Tigers, who had lost five in a row, made the most of eight hits and capitalized on five early-inning walks. Four of the runners who reached first on walks scored.

Fischer allowed only a double by Frank Thomas in the fifth inning and a single by Larry Elliott in the eighth and a pinch single by Jesse Gonder in the ninth. He faced 29 batters, just two over the minimum. He struck out two and walked none.

Carty connected in the fifth inning after Frank Bolling had reached base on an error. Until then Fischer and the Mets' Al Jackson had matched serves with the Braves' starter retiring the first 12 batters he faced.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave McNally, 21-year-old left-hander, pitched a two-hitter and Boog Powell hit a three-run homer, leading the Baltimore Orioles to a 5-0 victory over Washington Tuesday night.

Chuck Hinton doubled to right in the first inning and pinch hitter Fred Valentine poked a hit through the middle in the sixth for the only hits off McNally.

The Orioles used two of their five stolen bases to advantage in a two-run first inning. Luis Aparicio singled, stole second and scored on Willie Kirkland's single. Kirkland stole second and scored on Brooks Robinson's single.

Kirkland walked in the third inning, was forced by Norm Siebern and Robinson singled ahead of Powell's upper deck home run to right, all off loser Dave Stenhouse.

Giants 6, Colts 0

HOUSTON (AP) — Torrid Willie Mays hammered his 12th and 13th homers, added a single and drove in four runs, while Juan Marichal won his sixth game without a loss as the National League-leading San Francisco Giants shut out Houston 6-0 Tuesday night.

Marichal allowed only five hits and retired 14 Colts in order at one point, recording his second consecutive shutout and his 12th straight victory over a two-season span. But Mays stole the spotlight with a 3-for-5 performance.

Mays flied out in the first inning, then began his assault against Houston starter Hal Brown. He hit a solo homer in the third inning, connected for another with Matty Alou aboard in the fifth and singled Jesus Alou home in the Giants' three-run seventh. In his last at-bat in the ninth, Mays grounded out.

Error with Two Out in Ninth Gives Dodgers 3-2 Win over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Dick Tracewski fumbled pinch-hitter Joey Amalfitano's grounder with the bases full and two out in the ninth inning Tuesday and the Chicago Cubs edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2. Pinch-runner Don Landrum scored the tie-breaking run.

After Joe Moeller struck out Andre Rodgers in the Cub ninth Dick Bertell tripled. When Merritt Ranew batted for Billy Cowan, Manager Walter Alton brought in Ron Perranoski.

The season's first visit by the Dodgers produced a corking duel between 21-year-old Moeller and the Cubs' 35-year-old Bob Buhl.

Rhythm and Song Concert Monday

"Rhythm and Song" will be the theme for the Old Gold Singers and Percussion Ensemble Concert scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in the Main Lounge of the Union.

The annual concert, presented by Union Board, will feature show tunes and folk songs. Half the program will be presented by the Old Gold Singers and half by the Percussion Ensemble, with the two groups joining together for the finale.

The Percussion Ensemble, under the direction of Thomas Davis, percussion instructor and assistant professor of University Bands, is composed of 20 members using more than 100 percussion instruments at various times.

The ensemble combines the use of instruments of definite pitch and instruments with definite tuning to produce melodic and harmonic sounds as well as rhythm, Davis said.

The Old Gold Singers, directed by Kenyard Smith, resident assistant in music, are 25 non-music majors who receive no credit or pay for their participation in the group.

The Old Gold Singers were organized in 1958 and the Percussion Ensemble in 1959.

There will be no admission charge for the concert.

Romania Lets Prisoners Go; Talks Set

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Romania's Communist regime is quietly releasing political prisoners in an effort to improve the climate for forthcoming talks with the United States, diplomatic sources reported Tuesday.

"PRISONERS sentenced to jail or 'corrective labor' terms for political offenses are being freed in growing numbers and allowed to return to their homes, the sources said.

Between 1,000 and 2,000 prisoners are reported to be released. They obviously were timed to coincide with Romanian diplomatic moves to obtain U.S. agreement for the talks which are scheduled to open May 18 in Washington.

The U.S. State Department, in announcing the agreement last week, indicated the talks would concentrate on expansion of trade. But the Johnson Administration is understood to view its future policies toward Romania in the light of the regime's recent demonstration of independence from the Soviet Union.

ROMANIA openly opposes Soviet control of its industrial and trade developments and has rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's scheme of a supra-national authority to guide the economies of member countries of the East European Council for Mutual Economic Assistance (Comecon).

The regime is eager to develop Western trade and British, West German, French and Austrian firms are competing for contracts for a variety of new industrial projects.

Romania's domestic political life still is considered one of the most tightly controlled in Eastern Europe.

Dr. Walter Lunden, Iowa State University sociologist, complained of the forced idleness and lack of rehabilitation facilities for prisoners in county jails in a speech before the 28th Regional Forum of the National Jail Association and Iowa Sheriff's Association in Des Moines Tuesday.

"The county jail is the most important unit in the correctional system in the United States and yet it is the most neglected agency in the rehabilitation of offenders," Lunden said.

There are no facilities for rehabilitation in county jails because the cost of maintaining and operating such a program is too expensive for most counties, he said.

Planning a Vacation? Camp Show's Coming

The old Finkbine Golf Course, on Highways 218 and 6, will be turned into a camper's paradise Saturday and Sunday for the 1964 Family Camp Show.

Sponsored by the Men's Physical Education Department, the show is expected to attract more than 20,000.

The free displays will be exhibited from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Families will demonstrate camping equipment by actually camping out during the weekend. This year, the campers will be members of the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Family Campers Club. Individuals from Ottumwa and Davenport will also participate.

Visitors may also obtain camping tips in the "Education Tent" in the middle of the showgrounds. Included in the education display will be maps and brochures from campsites throughout the United States and information on camping equipment and supplies.

More than 100 different tents, new types of trailers, and boats will be exhibited at the show. Among the new items to be shown this year are a self-contained camper trailer, a water purification flask, and a Swedish Smoker, which will smoke a two-pound trout in 10 minutes.

Fire Delays Class For Retarded Children

Trash burning in a box alongside the CSA Hall, 524 N. Johnson St., delayed classes for 11 retarded children Monday morning.

The fire, of undetermined origin, was confined largely to a wooden trash box at the southeast corner of the building. A few flames, however, did spread to an adjacent window frame, breaking some glass. Smoke went into a lower floor classroom.

Youngsters in the special class were taken out of the building by their teacher.

Peace Corps Sends Former SUI Prof To Ghana

A former SUI history professor, Dr. Francis Broderick, has been appointed Peace Corps representative in Ghana.

Broderick, 42, who taught at the University from 1948-1950, is an instructor at Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, N.H.

In his new capacity, Broderick has complete responsibility for the Peace Corps projects in Ghana, one of the first countries to request volunteers.

He is married to the former Barbara Baldrige of Iowa City.

Citizens Report: 400-500 Dwellings Here Sub-Standard Yocum—

"ONCE SOME of the deadwood is thinned out of our local government through the reorganization of city departments and the recodification of ordinances being carried on, we will have a more realistic civic organization," Maas said.

"The personnel we already have will then be able to devote their efforts more wholeheartedly to housing enforcement," he said.

Iowa City presently has building, plumbing, and electrical inspectors, according to Mayor Burger. He said he thinks the city will need to add a full-time fire inspector to the payroll, however.

Councilman Nesmith said there will be little difficulty instituting changes in new housing. "But there will be many legal obstacles over existing dwellings," he said. "We may find ourselves in court a lot over this one, I'm afraid."

Enforcement will be the greatest problem facing the city once the ordinance is drawn, according to Maas.

"WHO IS TO say that one dwelling unit is adequate and another is not? Where will that hairline difference lie, and who is to be the judge?" he asked.

"When we create a new housing ordinance, we immediately create non-conformity. Everything already existing doesn't comply. We just can't enforce a thing like this overnight."

A new housing ordinance presumably would regulate not only new dwellings, but existing units as well.

"We all know the conditions prevailing downtown," Mayor Burger said. "The question facing us will not be so much 'How will we enforce the code?' as it will be 'What will we do with the people who are living in this already existing sub-standard housing?'"

"WHAT IS THIS sub-standard housing everybody is talking about?" Yocum asked. "Sub-standard is a relative thing. For people like me who were born in a two-room log house, this standard is different than for some of the other Council members."

"This whole business is like asking 'Which way is up?'"

According to a report made by the Citizens Advisory Committee in April, there are an estimated

Passage of compulsory housing regulations tamer with the constitutional rights of citizens, according to Yocum.

"All people are created equal presumably," he said. "Each man has his constitutional rights and we as a city council are in no position to deprive him of these rights."

"IF PEOPLE are happy in sub-standard housing, how can we enforce a law which will make them change their way of life," Yocum added.

That Iowa City will get a new housing ordinance has not been disputed by the members of the City Council. But, as Leikvold said in a recent council meeting,

"We have a long, long road to travel before we can put any proposed housing ordinance into general circulation."

Survivors of Atom Bomb Strive for World Peace

Five survivors of the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II who are touring the United States to help crystallize their stand for banishing war, were in Iowa City Tuesday afternoon.

The group, known as the World Peace Study Mission, attended a noon luncheon at Trinity Episcopal Church, 320 E. College St. The members of the mission are a newspaperman, a surgeon, a housewife, a student and an interpreter.

After leaving Iowa City Tuesday afternoon, they went to Peoria, Ill. The group also plans to travel to England, France, East and West Germany, Russia and Red China.

The newspaperman, Kenmitsu Iwanaga, 36, of Fukuoka City in Southern Japan, said "Our group hopes to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and thus by face-to-face meetings to exchange our ideas."

Iwanaga called Red China's entry into the nuclear arms race a lurking threat to world peace. "We must do everything we can to stop this movement," he said, "and I think we must direct our efforts for peace to the world's younger generation."

Iwanaga was an 18-year-old Nagasaki Commercial College student working in a warehouse at the time of the bombing.

"I saw a flash of light; the ceiling of the building came down, and I was knocked unconscious. When I woke up minutes later, people were screaming for water, and by the next morning most of them were dead," he said.

He has taken about two months leave of absence from his job as a layout editor in Fukuoka City to make this tour for the World Peace Study Mission of New York.

In their tour through the United States, the survivors have been staying in homes, and have expressed their views before civic, community, church and fraternal groups.

The mission is supported by civic leaders and mayors of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Treatment Plant Removes Calcium From SUI Water

The new water treatment plant on the east bank of the Iowa River along Burlington Street has taken the hardness from the SUI water.

According to Neil Fisher, the new plant removes calcium, a major cause of water hardness.

It can turn out 4 million gallons of water daily, if necessary, as opposed to the old plant's production of 1.9 million gallons.

The plant, built by funds from the Iowa Legislature, also has space for research facilities.

Firemen—

The Police Department. However, it also asked for additional men to staff the force and a percentage increase in pay for night shift work.

The Sanitation Department asked that the council establish better grievance channels, a seniority system and a retirement and disability program similar to that of civil service.

SEWER Department proposals contained the uniform request and a plan to reinstate tetanus shots for all its employees.

The Street Department asked that the city not transfer, arbitrarily, employees from one department to another and that the number of holidays be increased.

The Water Department also requested a $30 a month pay increase and an allowance for uniforms or city-supplied uniforms for its 19 employees.
