

Niemeyer Charges Strawn Was 'Serious'

Questions Wood's Position On Bogus Convention Letters

By JON VAN
Managing Editor

Fred Strawn, A1, Garrison, has termed his recent political activities a "joke," but local members of the Young Democrats are not laughing.

John Niemeyer, L3, Elkader, past YD president and political opponent of Strawn in last fall's intra-club squabble, has raised some questions involving Strawn's conduct at the April convention of the State Young Democrats.

Strawn, who resigned from his post as president of the SUI Young Democrats Monday admitted to The Daily Iowan Tuesday that he forged the signatures of three U.S. senators on letters wishing him success in his bid for state YD president.

Strawn said the letters had been circulated among some delegates at the convention "as a joke." He claimed he was not a "serious" candidate for president at any time.

Merle Wood, A3, Cedar Rapids, and executive vice president of the Young Democrats, said Tuesday he had known of the bogus letters at the convention and that they had been part of a scheme by Strawn to bolster his personal prestige among state delegates.

Wood confirmed Strawn's story that he had never been a serious candidate.

Niemeyer said Wednesday that Strawn had claimed at the convention to have a local membership far larger than he truly had. Bill Snyder, A4, Davenport, said Strawn had claimed 485 members. Snyder had attended the convention as an observer but not a delegate.

Niemeyer also said he believed Strawn had been a serious candidate for state president when he forged the senatorial letters. He pointed to The Daily Iowan of April 14 which quoted Strawn regarding his candidacy.

"AT 3 A.M.," Strawn had said, "I had 203 votes for president on the first ballot out of 316 needed. SUI was certain that when we reached 203, that was as high as we were going to go. I didn't want to risk throwing this into a second ballot and risking (Merle) Wood's position as state treasurer. Therefore, SUI supported Lustbader for state president."

Even with its inflated membership claims, Niemeyer said, SUI could only deliver 96 delegate votes to Strawn. "He must have done some serious campaigning to get 203 delegates behind him," Niemeyer said.

"John Niemeyer's charges show a lot of thought in depth," Strawn remarked sarcastically. The credentials committee, made up of delegates elected from every congressional district, checked SUI's credentials, Strawn said.

"I was attempting to get votes from Lustbader's opponents in order to strengthen his chances," he said. "I later learned the votes promised me could not be delivered since they were promised by people who did not control them."

STRAWN SAID he had not talked with any delegates at the caucuses in an attempt to gain votes. "I might have been a candidate if I were going to stay in this state, or if I had felt qualified, or if I felt I had the time," Strawn said he met none of these conditions.

Niemeyer also questioned Merle Wood's position in the matter. "If Strawn's conduct was 'unbecoming' as the executive council's statement said, Wood's conduct should fall within the same rubric and should suggest his next course of action."

The past YD president went on to say that Wood had known of Strawn's letter hoax all along and he had been a part of the hoax since his letter appeared in campaign packets along with the three bogus letters.

"Wood's attempt to disassociate himself from this thing," Niemeyer said, "is as if Billie Sol Estes claimed to be unacquainted with fertilizer."

Robert Culbertson, G, Blairsburg, along with others termed "Old Young Democrats," had noticed the "phony appearance of the endorsement letters" and had written Sen. Church and Sen. Monroney out of curiosity to check their validity. The Daily Iowan learned to Culbertson's activity from Sen. Church's office.

CULBERTSON said he talked to Wood on Sunday and that he denied any knowledge of the letter hoax until after the letters had been distributed. On Sunday Wood said nothing about the forgeries being part of a joke, according to Culbertson.

Wood said he only wished to answer these charges by saying, "It looks to me like this is developing into another battle of personalities."

A First for SUI—

Poets Read Works In 14 Languages

The mysterious language of poetry assumed an international flavor Wednesday afternoon in Shambaugh Auditorium as poems were read in 14 languages by foreign poets and visitors.

Translations by the speaker or a member of the Translation Workshop accompanied the readings.

The international Poetry Reading, sponsored by Writers Workshop, was the first of its kind. Poems in the Romance languages, Chinese, Korean, Bengali, Gaelic, Hebrew, ancient Chinese and classical Greek were featured.

THE MAJORITY of the participants in the program wore dark suits and dresses, but several appeared in colorful native costumes.

The reading was recorded live by WSUI for later broadcast by the Voice of America. A reporter-photographer news team from Look Magazine also covered the event.

It is a new kind of business for Odessa because, as Oleg C. Tomas, port director, expressed it, "until last year we did not import grain."

THE END of the American deliveries does not mean completion of Soviet wheat imports. Great quantities still are due from Canada and Australia to make up for domestic shortages.

Tomas took a group of correspondents on a tour and showed them two American ships which had moved in with grain. One was the Globe Explorer, with 23,000 tons; and the other the Trans-eastern, with 45,000 tons. Both are of North Vietnamese origin.

THE TRANSEASTERN, 23,310 tons, will bring the final cargo of American grain to Odessa. She is to return about June 13.

Visiting American tourists have been arrested for taking photographs around Odessa harbor, but with a dozen American ships drifting in and out, authorities evidently decided such restrictions had become nonsense.

For sailors the city is a bore, although it offers some scholarly entertainment in the form of ballet and trips to museums.

After 20 days at sea on a grain ship, what's in a museum?

Neutral Forces Move To Slow Pathet Lao

Seven Tiny Airplanes With Bombs and Guns Used for First Time

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Driven from the last footholds on the Plaine des Jarres, the neutralists have thrown in their tiny air force to try to slow the drive of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, Western military sources said Wednesday.

There are seven planes in action, all T28, single-engine, propeller-driven models furnished by the United States about a year ago. One Western source said this is the first time they have been put to use.

SUCH A SMALL air arm cannot hope to do much against the several thousand Pathet Lao deployed on the battlefield 110 miles northeast of Vientiane. The planes aim for select targets.

Western informants said the planes have attacked Red Communist posts, vehicles and troop concentrations caught out in the open. The T28s carry 500-pound bombs and each has two 50-caliber machine guns.

One source said the air strike are believed to have been effective. Pathet Lao broadcasts heard in Vientiane have protested the bombings.

APPARENTLY, the planes were not used for close battlefield support when Gen. Kong Le's army was forced from the Plaine des Jarres and its strategic network of roads earlier this week.

A government communique Tuesday shed little light on the situation at the front except to say that the last neutralist positions on the plain had fallen to the Communists.

Kong held only a few pockets of resistance on the plain when he retreated Monday to Ban Khong, four miles southwest of Muong Phanh. That area, on the fringe of the plain, had been Kong's headquarters.

Delivery of the 1,700,000 tons of wheat the Soviets bought in the United States is to be completed in mid-June. The freighter Exilona docked here with the first of this grain Feb. 21.

It is a new kind of business for Odessa because, as Oleg C. Tomas, port director, expressed it, "until last year we did not import grain."

Announce Second War—

Cubans Jittery at Reports Of Anti-Castro Activities

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cubans at home and in exile marked a jittery Independence Day as Fidel Castro's armed forces went on a state of alert amid reports Wednesday of cane field sabotage and threats of other anti-Castro activities.

There was expectancy among refugees over the whereabouts of Manuel Ray, exiled former Castro underground leader who had vowed to return to Cuba by May 20 to activate sabotage.

An unlisted shortwave station announced Wednesday: "The second war has begun. Plan Omega is in operation."

PLAN OMEGA, calling for guerrilla warfare, sabotage, infiltration and uprisings, is sponsored by an exile action group headed by Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, believed by some to be in Cuba now; and Dr. Armando Fleites.

All announcement from the revolutionary junta of Ray said, "Objectives have been attained, especially from a point of view of psychological warfare." It added, "There will be victory by the people, but not in the form of spectacular invasions."

Havana radio, monitored here, announced new defense measures and expressed defiance against any aggressors. The Cuban Armed Forces Ministry announced artillery and jet plane maneuvers along Cuba's northwest coast.

ALL MILITARY leaves were canceled and the armed forces were placed on alert, The Associated Press reported from Havana. A telephone connection went out and further details were not obtained.

A shortwave broadcast purportedly from inside Cuba said commands of the Revolutionary Student Directorate, an anti-Castro group, burned hundreds of acres of cane in Camaguey Province in eastern Cuba.

In Washington, the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba said it was informed some infiltrators entered Cuba Tuesday night. The committee, composed of American citizens opposed to the Castro regime, said the infiltration group was small.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — There were increasing signs Wednesday that the campaign Cuban exiles claim they are mounting against Fidel Castro originates at bases other than rumored sites in Central America.

High government sources and private inquiries here discount news dispatches reporting anti-Castro staging areas or training grounds in Nicaragua.

Former President Luis Somoza, who has been openly helping one of the exile leaders, Manuel Artime, told The Associated Press, "There are no official bases in Nicaragua, Guatemala or Costa Rica."

President Francisco Orlich of Costa Rica told U.S. newsmen in San Jose Tuesday there were no known Cuban exile bases in this country and nine would be permitted.

Other newsmen, arriving here from Guatemala, said they got no solid information there, only rumors of training camps in Nicaragua.

There was no sign of Artime or his top aides here. A Nicaraguan claiming to have close contact with the exiles said Artime left several days ago for Puerto Rico or Miami.

Two armed forces leaders — Air Force Chief Col. Francisco Saavedra and War Minister Col. Jose Dolores Garcia — stressed that foreign newsmen could travel anywhere in Nicaragua without restriction.

Non-student areas are also planned for the basement. Storage rooms, lockers and loading space would occupy this area.

THE GROUND FLOOR would accommodate 20 men in double and triple rooms and a single room for an adviser. A lobby, lounge, TV room, information desk and organization offices are also planned for this floor.

Each of the other 10 floors would accommodate 51 men in double and triple rooms and single rooms would be provided for advisers. A central toilet and shower, floor lounge, linen supply room and trash collection are planned for each floor.

The Regents will consider the plans at this meeting and will be asked to approve a preliminary budget listing for the construction of the building. If the construction moves forward as planned, the addition may be ready in about three years.

The White House said Boeing, of Seattle, and Lockheed, Burbank, Calif., will receive FAA contracts to examine the effect on aircraft purchase price, direct operating costs, and some boom of variations in the aircraft's speed, size and range.

The White House said that in approving the project and the contractors, Johnson "directed appropriate federal agencies to implement the recommended program immediately."

McNamara Defends Supplies In Viet Nam As 'The Best'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara defended American planes and material in South Viet Nam as "the best equipment available for the unique task at hand."

And, as he tried Wednesday to refute charges that obsolescent planes in Viet Nam had caused the death of two U.S. fliers, the secretary received a firm vote of confidence from the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The committee, complying with a request of McNamara and President Johnson, added $125 million to the foreign aid bill to step up the war against the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam. The committee vote was quick and unanimous — 24 to 0.

THE FOREIGN Affairs Committee acted while McNamara was testifying at a closed session of the House Armed Services Committee.

After the meeting, McNamara told newsmen that he had assured the committee that the equipment in South Viet Nam is the best available in three qualified ways.

He said the equipment was chosen with regard to: "the enemy threat," "the capability of the Vietnamese to operate it," and "the effectiveness of it in operational requirements."

Asked if committee members were reassured, McNamara replied, "Yes, indeed."

THIS WAS echoed somewhat by the committee chairman, Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), who told newsmen: "I am behind the position of the secretary in the prosecution of this war."

But Vinson also said the committee was not finished with its questioning of McNamara, and so could not decide yet about the accuracy of news reports that two American pilots were killed in South Viet Nam because their T28 planes were obsolete. McNamara will return to the committee Monday.

McNamara, in reply to questions from newsmen, said that Vietnamese are taking part in more flying missions.

Although McNamara's testimony was secret, the committee released a copy of his opening statement.

McNAMARA, describing the American mission in Viet Nam, recalled Koscusko, Von Steuben, and Pulaski — Europeans who helped the 13 colonies during the Revolutionary War.

"The time is 1964 and the terrain is a jungle in Southeast Asia, not the east coast of the United States," McNamara said. "But the mission of our men in South Viet Nam is the same as the mission of those Europeans who came to this country to train and assist us in our fight for liberty."

Civil Rights Group To Stress Action On Local Issues

SARE-Friends of SNCC will concentrate its civil rights efforts on a campus and local level this summer and next fall, the organization decided at its last meeting of the year Wednesday night.

During the past year SARE-Friends of SNCC has worked in the civil rights movement largely on a national basis.

A motion was passed by the members to present Dr. Howard Bowen, president-elect of SUI, with demands for action on alleged discrimination in housing and membership in Greek organizations.

Vice president of SARE-Friends of SNCC, Diane DeVaul, A3, Ames, acting in president Mike Kenney's absence, said a committee would be appointed to draw up the demands.

Miss DeVaul said the list of demands would include a general statement by the University backing up non-discrimination policies.

The demands would be presented to Bowen when he takes over as president July 1, Miss DeVaul said.

A second motion was passed to set up a committee to interest Negroes on the campus in rushing and pledging sororities and fraternities.

Regents Set To Consider Quad Plans

The proposed Quadrangle dormitory addition plans will be one of the main items considered by the Board of Regents at their Council Bluffs meeting today and Friday.

The proposed dorm would cost over $2.5 million — less than $16 a square foot. The structure as now planned would have 12 stories and room for 538 beds.

IT WOULD BE located south of the west half of the Quadrangle on the lawn where barracks-type structures now are used by the Highlanders and the Pershing Rifles.

The addition would be connected to the Quad by a passageway and minor adjustments would be made in the present Quad kitchen facilities to accommodate the residents of the addition.

TWO ELEVATORS are planned for the addition, and the lounge, lobby and student activities areas would be air-conditioned.

The basement floor would have a student activities area with rooms for study, typing, laundry, recreation and vending machines.

Non-student areas are also planned for the basement. Storage rooms, lockers and loading space would occupy this area.

THE GROUND FLOOR would accommodate 20 men in double and triple rooms and a single room for an adviser. A lobby, lounge, TV room, information desk and organization offices are also planned for this floor.

Each of the other 10 floors would accommodate 51 men in double and triple rooms and single rooms would be provided for advisers. A central toilet and shower, floor lounge, linen supply room and trash collection are planned for each floor.

The Regents will consider the plans at this meeting and will be asked to approve a preliminary budget listing for the construction of the building. If the construction moves forward as planned, the addition may be ready in about three years.

Car-Truck Crash On Highway 218 Injures Woman

A Mason City woman received minor injuries Wednesday night when the auto she was driving collided with a semi-trailer truck, sideswiped a bridge and overturned seven miles south of Iowa City on Highway 218.

The Highway Patrol said the auto was driven by Charlotte Fitzgerald, 54, and the truck was driven by Victor Scmeling, 40, of Stuartville, Minn. Scmeling was not injured in the 7 p.m. accident.

The Patrol said the Fitzgerald car apparently struck the bridge first, then sideswiped the truck, struck the bridge a second time, traveled a quarter of a mile and overturned.

Authorities said Wednesday night that no charges have been filed.

To Discuss S.E. Asia Situation

LBJ Administration Wants Adlai To Take Command of U.S. Role

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson sped home from Europe Wednesday under orders from the Johnson Administration to address the U.N. Security Council on what the United States describes as the deteriorating situation in Southeast Asia.

A U.S. spokesman said Stevenson will deliver "an extremely important speech" to the council today when it resumes debate on Cambodia's charges of aggression against the United States and South Viet Nam.

THE SPEECH will come at a time when Washington is gravely concerned about Communist military gains in South Viet Nam and Laos.

The decision to order Stevenson to cut short his stay in Europe was made by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in consultation with President Johnson, officials said in Washington.

The move was in anticipation of a major council debate on Southeast Asia involving a confrontation with the Soviet Union and other Communist delegates.

RUSK and Johnson agreed that Stevenson should take personal command of the U.S. role in the debate.

Soviet delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko accused the Johnson Administration Tuesday of seeking another $125 million from Congress in order to spread bloodshed and aggression in Southeast Asia.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost, deputy to Stevenson, denied the charge. He said the United States was giving support to South Viet Nam at that country's request in order to save it from a Communist takeover through subversion.

THE PATHET LAO, backed by Communist North Viet Nam, this week captured the strategic Plaine des Jarres in north-central Laos. The defending neutralists said troops from North Viet Nam took part in the attack.

The Cambodian complaint arose from South Vietnamese crossings of the border in pursuit of Communist Viet Cong guerrillas. South Viet Nam has accused Cambodia of giving haven to the Viet Cong. Cambodia has denied it.

Cambodia charged that U.S. military advisers accompanied the South Vietnamese in two border crossings in May and thus participated in aggressive acts.

Fair Skies Return For 2-Day Stay

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fair skies returned to Iowa Wednesday for what the Weather Bureau said would be a two-day stay. Only in western Iowa was scattered precipitation expected to interrupt the state's dry weather Wednesday night.

A high pressure system centered in the Great Lakes region brought cooler readings to Iowa Wednesday. Highs were in the 70s, but elsewhere readings in the 70s were recorded.

Warmer air feeding into Iowa was expected to keep Wednesday night lows in the 50s and 60s. Highs in the 80s were predicted for today, except in the southwest, where temperatures in the 90s were on tap.

The outlook for Friday calls for fair to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures, with some rain likely in northern Iowa.

tional Educational Television, New York City, will deliver the principal address Sunday at the 100th annual commencement exercise at Cornell College.

Approximately 140 Cornell seniors are expected to receive bachelor's degrees at the commencement exercises.

For Superior Students—

Three-Part Honors Program Can Lead to Special Degree

By PETIE SARLETTE
Assistant Feature Editor

"Graduated with Honors" on an SUI diploma is the result of a student's regular course of study in Liberal Arts and additional work in the honors program.

Some of the recipients of such a degree joined the special program as freshmen here. They were picked to be in the program on the basis of their outstanding high school records. Usually, the top ten per cent of a freshman class entering SUI is enrolled in the honors program.

Continued participation in the program requires a cumulative 3.0 grade average and an expressed desire to remain enrolled as an honors student.

At the beginning of each semester, students are given the opportunity to join the program. Then students who have transferred here or who have maintained a 3.0 and who have a recommendation from their department may enroll through an honors adviser in the department. To be a candidate for graduation "with Honors," however, the student must apply for admission to the honors program by the beginning of his junior year.

During the present semester, 585 students are enrolled in the honors program. Of the total, 245 are freshmen, 106 are juniors, and the sophomores and seniors claim 117 honors students each.

Only 48 of the seniors have completed their honors work and will receive their degrees "with Honors."

The honors program consists of three parts, one of which is an advising program. Each honors student is assigned to an honors adviser in his department. The Honors Council picks the advisers for students with undeclared majors.

There is at least one honors adviser in each of the 28 departments within the College of Liberal Arts that offer honors work. The advisers, who are invited to serve in that capacity, work with honors students, singly or in groups, aiding them in choosing their curriculum, holding informal discussion sessions and guiding their honors work.

Special sections in core courses, designated "Honors Section," comprise the second portion of the program. However, the honors sections are not limited to those students enrolled in the program. Often those who would otherwise have schedule conflicts are allowed to register in the special sections.

According to Rhodes Dunlap, professor of English and chairman of the Honors Council, the honors sections are designed to eliminate the routine work that superior students would find boring and replace it with assignments and class work they would find more stimulating.

Instructors for the special sections are picked by the head of each department participating in the honors program.

Sections for honors students are limited in size to about 15 or 20 students in each section. This is approximately half the size of a regular section.

Completion of the honors syllabus, individual department requirements, is the third requirement for graduation with an honors degree.

Each department sets its own pattern for the syllabus. But to earn the degree, the Honors Council requires that the honors student must earn six hours of credit in honors work, not including the special honors sections of core courses.

To provide the six hours of special credit, some of the larger departments offer special honors courses. Others provide a program of supplemental reading and seminar work that the student and adviser prepare together.

At the end of the required honors work, each student must pass an examination in his major. Only then is he eligible for the diploma "with Honors."

But the honors program here is young; it was begun six years ago after an advising committee had studied the proposal to establish some type of special work for students who had proved themselves superior.

In 1958, the faculty voted to accept the program as proposed by the committee. The plan took effect the same year. Prior to this no honors program of any type had existed here.

The plan the faculty agreed upon included the establishment of an Honors Council. The Council is the co-ordinating arm of the college-wide program. It gives final approval of each department's syllabus and appoints advisers for honors students who have not decided upon a major. In addition it maintains the Honors Commons Room in Schaeffer Hall as a study and seminar room for honors students.

At the University of Michigan about 12 per cent of the freshman class is selected to participate in an honors curriculum that parallels the conventional curriculum. Methodology, bibliography, independent study and research, a senior honors paper, and a comprehensive examination comprise the junior-senior part of the program.

At Northwestern University, there is no comprehensive program for the freshman-sophomore superior student. For the most part, "honors work is confined to seminar or

Concentrated Study Courses Offered by Other Institutions

Specialized programs of study to urge superior students to work up to their capacity are common to many colleges and universities.

The Summary from the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (C.I.C.) reports, however, that the University of Chicago, which operates as a single unit, does not identify an honors group. Rather, it has made a provision for a special honors degree taken in connection with a department. Only senior students are eligible for the work.

At the University of Michigan about 12 per cent of the freshman class is selected to participate in an honors curriculum that parallels the conventional curriculum. Methodology, bibliography, independent study and research, a senior honors paper, and a comprehensive examination comprise the junior-senior part of the program.

At Northwestern University, there is no comprehensive program for the freshman-sophomore superior student. For the most part, "honors work is confined to seminar or independent study sequences which are completed in the senior year," according to the C. I. C. summary. Usually the students submit an honors thesis. About 12 per cent of the liberal arts students are enrolled in honors work.

Ohio State University allows freshmen to enter a plan of individualized study after "one quarter of residence on the basis of ACT scores, quarter grades and a

SUI Coed Injured In Bicycle Mishap

Dawn Hutcheson, A4, Cedar Falls, was injured Tuesday night in a fall from her bicycle in front of the Alpha Phi sorority house, 906 E. College St.

She was taken to the Student Health infirmary and her condition Wednesday was reported as improved.

Police said Miss Hutcheson fell and hit her head on the curb. She suffered a broken collar bone and multiple bruises.

personal interview," the C. I. C. reports.

Scholars of the House at Yale University are relieved of all formal course requirements to pursue independent study under a faculty adviser. Students are admitted to the program as seniors provided they have a satisfactory record.

At Princeton, there is no honors program. The University considers all of its students "honors students."

SUI Honors Students Reply To Questionnaire on Program

The Daily Iowan asked about a tenth of the Honors students at SUI to answer a questionnaire concerning their views on the value of the honors program. The students were selected from the Liberal Arts Honors Student List.

In general, comments and opinions were favorable. Most students questioned felt that honors classes, instructors, and students are "superior" to the equivalents in non-honors.

Concerning the program as a whole, one student said, "Theoretically, I think the program is great." Another maintained that honors work was, some semesters, "the major source of intellectual stimulation." One dissenting voice, however, called the program as a whole "a farce."

Only about a third of those interviewed said their honor courses were "the same as" their non-honors courses: the rest gave them ratings of "superior" or "quite superior."

A number of students said they found their honors courses rather "inconsistent" in quality.

In general, students felt that the excellence of the honors classes was due to the instruction. Some maintained that in spite of the excellence of the instructors, they were sometimes unable to "reach" the class.

More than two-thirds said honors classes permitted more personal contact with instructors than other courses, since the honors classes were by and large smaller than ordinary sections.

Another student claimed it was not the instructors that made honors classes stimulating, but "the fact that we are all honors students."

Again, only five students rated honors students less than superior. The others called honors students more stimulating, more inclined to academic excellence because of their higher grade point averages, and more likely to have a "better sense of the value of education."

Only about half said they felt a sense of esprit de corps among honors students. Some thought such a sense would be valuable since honors students are of "superior intellect and perception."

Many students were undecided about continuing in honors or attempting to graduate with honors, though more than half said they planned to.

Yet one student who is graduating in honors said an honors degree was "practical," and had little academic value.

General criticism was primarily aimed at lack of honors work in certain areas, such as music or pre-medicine.

About 25 per cent of those interviewed said honors was not making a significant contribution to their education. One student who had never done any honors work said that the program was significant in her education.

T-Men Seize 2 Gunrunners With Arsenal

CLINTON, Ill. (AP) — A former Illinois leader of the anti-Communist "Minutemen" and a companion were unable to make $20,000 bond Wednesday in connection with federal seizure of a stockpile of weapons.

Richard Lauchli, 37, of Collinsville, the one-time Minuteman chief, and Donald Sturgis, 36, of Fairmont City were arraigned before a U.S. commissioner in Springfield, Ill. The hearing was continued.

UNDERCOVER agents posing as middlemen for an unnamed foreign power seized machine guns, flame-throwers, mortars and explosives Tuesday night in Clinton. They captured Lauchli and Sturgis after a five-mile automobile chase over country roads at speeds up to 115 miles an hour.

At the arraignment Lauchli said he wanted to hire a lawyer and seek reduction in his bond. Sturgis said he is innocent and asked for time to hire a lawyer.

AUTHORITIES gave this account: U.S. Treasury agents, pretending they represented a foreign power, dickered for weeks with Lauchli and Sturgis and agreed to buy the arsenal for $17,000. The government had learned about the collection of weapons after Lauchli wrote to a Chicago man, offering to sell. He tipped off the T-Men.

On Tuesday an agent went to Collinsville and helped load the weapons into a truck. They drove the truck, disguised as carrying a shipment of dairy products, to an abandoned barn north of Clinton.

TO GUARD against trickery Lauchli kept the weapons' vital firing parts with him. He drove to Clinton in his own car. At the barn the agents were allowed to assemble and fire one of the sub-machine guns to make sure it was in working order.

After Lauchli and Sturgis drove off with the money, other Treasury agents were alerted by radio. They caught the men and charged them with possession of unregistered automatic weapons.

Lauchli had bought the weapons as unworkable scrap and reconditioned them.

Tough Luck But That's It!

An attempted citizen's arrest Tuesday afternoon ended with two arrests — the citizen and the man he was trying to arrest.

Iowa City police officer Donald Strand, 605 S. Riverside Dr., arrested the two motorists after seeing them chase each other down Riverside Drive and onto Highway 1.

Donald D. Zook, 23, Route 2, said Freeman E. Slabach, 19, Kalona, called him a name at Burlington and Clinton streets, causing him to chase Slabach to make a citizen's arrest.

Strand arrested the pair when Zook forced Slabach's car to the side of the road near the intersection of Highways 218 and 6. He charged both drivers with failure to stop when leaving a store parking lot and Zook with driving on the wrong side of the street.

Zook followed with charges accusing Slabach of driving recklessly in the 400 block of Riverside Drive and with disorderly conduct.

Civil Rights Conflict Seen As Challenge

CEDAR FALLS (AP) — The civil rights struggle is a greater challenge to the American system than Communism, an associate professor of history at State College of Iowa said Wednesday.

"We have seen Communism as the great threat to our existence," George Poage said at the annual honors convocation at SCI, "but the civil rights struggle challenges the heart of the American system as no Communist doctrine ever could."

"We cannot legislate values, and we cannot give them in courses," he said. "But we can aid in their preservation by seeing to it that the means of their transmission is secure."

He said such values cannot be transmitted "as dead dogma by uninterested teachers in an indifferent community. They must be transmitted through dedication to the most revolutionary creed on earth — the firm belief that all men are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights."

Poage criticized what he called "indifferent teachers and school administrators" who avoid social study subjects because they may be controversial.

Red China Dims Hope Of Early Laos Peace

LONDON (AP) — Red China, in a first reaction reported Wednesday, appears to have foredoomed Britain's urgent request for help in pacifying the embattled kingdom of Laos.

Qualified British sources gave this account of a meeting in Peking Tuesday between Charge d'Affaires Terence Garvey and an unidentified senior official in the Chinese Foreign Ministry.

GARVEY outlined the British government's serious concern at the worsening situation inside Laos. He expressed Britain's fears that if the neutralist center collapses it will leave the leftist and rightist extremes face to face, enhancing the danger of a fight that could draw in outsiders as Korea did in 1950.

Communist China, therefore, was asked to use its best efforts to restrain the pro-Communist Pathet Lao from further advances.

THE CHINESE official promised to refer the request to the top echelons of the administration. Meaning, he stressed that it was Communist Chinese policy to respect the provisions of the 14-nation Geneva settlement which set up Laos in 1962 as a unified, independent and neutral state.

Authorities here found significance in the emphasis placed on the 1962 Geneva agreement. Several provisions of this settlement are in dispute among the Communists, neutralists and rightists in Laos and between the Communist and Western Powers. It forms the background to the failure of the parties concerned to run the country as a unified and truly neutral state as laid down in the settlement.

Thetaer has been set up by the Young Democratic Clubs of Iowa. The Johnson County Democratic Central Committee has authorized the students to act as junior delegates.

After Maryland Primary—

Wallace: I've Proven Point

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland's Democratic leaders breathed a sigh of relief Wednesday, while Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said he wishes there were more primary battles to be waged after the toughest of his challenges against a stand-in for President Johnson.

Wallace claimed he had proved his point by grabbing nearly 43 per cent of the Democratic vote in Tuesday's presidential primary.

But the forces of favorite son Sen. Daniel Brewster, who held

Maryland for Johnson, said Wallace had only under-scored the obvious and cashed in on emotion by showing that Maryland is a border state with a strong current of opposition to Johnson's civil rights bill.

ONE QUESTION MARK hovered over the outcome: Maryland's vote system, court-challenged unit vote system. Brewster was ahead in the unit vote count, similar to the electoral college, on the strength of a 106-vote victory margin in Baltimore County.

Brewster said the Wallace showing wouldn't affect the civil rights bill now before the Senate, the major target of Wallace's harsh and hectic Maryland campaign.

Brewster accepted Johnson's telephoned congratulations, pledged Maryland's convention votes to the President, and said the Wallace showing will have no significant impact on national affairs.

BREWSTER CAPTURED 53 per cent of the vote and Wallace 42.7 per cent of a record Democratic turnout.

The count: Brewster 265,713;

Wallace 214,029. Brewster was on top 99 to 72 in the unit vote count. But if the official canvass, about a week away, switched the Baltimore County outcome, the unit vote would favor Wallace, 86-85.

The system has already been discarded, on federal court order, in everything but the presidential primary. A hearing is due Monday on a move to extend it to the presidential poll, too.

"A MAJORITY OF the white people in Maryland gave me their support," Wallace said. "That's far more than I ever expected."

About 17 per cent of Maryland's population is Negro. "If I had known I would get this kind of support I would have entered more primaries," Wallace said. "I wish I had entered California. I'd have run good there. Ohio and Illinois would have been other good ones to get in."

Wallace's earlier outings were in Wisconsin, where he captured 33.7 per cent of the Democratic vote, and Indiana, where he won 29.8 per cent.

Miller Plans To Employ Fast Break, Court Press

Ralph Miller's plans for Iowa's basketball team next season include a full court press defense and an offensive strategy stressing the fast break and ball control.

"Each of the starting five will have his own role. All of my boys don't have to be great scorers. Unity, developed through the use of good, sharp passing will make a successful team. This is what we will be striving for next fall," he said.

Defensively, we will play the full 90 feet of the court, he said. "Of course one or two strong rebounders will fit very nicely into a smooth five-man operation," he added.

"Offensively, we don't want anyone to have to force a shot. We will not bring the ball up the court with any single offensive pattern in mind," said Miller. "My patterns are keyed to be flexible enough to penetrate the defensive weakness of opponents," he said. "If the defensive players are over-playing to one outside corner, we will go back to the other side of the floor and try to spring a shooter free for an easy shot."

Miller said he will use the same offensive patterns which have been successful for him for the last 12 seasons as head coach at Wichita University.

"Next fall we will attempt to move the ball quite a bit, looking for the close-in shot. Our purpose will be to try to work the ball in to where a man can take a shot from eight to 10 feet away from the basket," he said.

"This is a zone on the court," he said, "where any player can hit 60 to 80 per cent of his shots. Our primary objective will be to penetrate the defense at its weakest area on the court and to score an easy basket, if we get the opportunity," he said.

He pointed out this does not mean Iowa will ignore the fast-break. "I believe the fast-break to be a very sound part of the game. If we can catch the opposition slipping on defense, we are certainly going to run against them," he said.

Speaking specifically of the Iowa team next season, Miller said the position of each player on the floor will be very flexible. "Under our style of ball, I don't know yet exactly where certain players will fit in. This will be determined when I get the boys on the court, starting October 15.

"It is hard to tell what each returning player can do in my style of play, even though they didn't see much action last winter," he added. Miller said he has met with the team once so far and has been trying to talk to each boy individually. He said he will meet with the team once more before the boys leave for the summer. He plans to give them pointers on staying in good physical condition. "I will also give them a list of offensive terms to familiarize themselves with before returning to school next fall," he said.

Iowa will play seven non-conference basketball opponents in 1964-65, in addition to competing in the Los Angeles Classic. These games have been confirmed but the Big Ten schedule is not yet ready for announcement.

Home games are with South Dakota, Dec. 1; Creighton, Dec. 12; Providence U. of Rhode Island, a new opponent, Dec. 19; and North Dakota, Dec. 21. The Hawks have booked road games with Kentucky, Dec. 4; Evansville College, Dec. 5; and Loyola at Chicago Stadium, Jan. 29.

Bears To Bolster Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — George Halas almost know how they are going to try to break it, too. "We are talking with people and it could be that we will make a deal.

When asked if he meant he was going to try for more than 12 points a game actually, the Bears averaged 21½ last year, Halas smiled and said, "I'll settle for 12 points a game if our defense is good enough."

The pro football Hall of Famer said the Bears' main needs are an offensive tackle and an outstanding halfback. He admitted he also could use a flanker-type back or split end.

Twins 7, Yanks 4

NEW YORK (AP) — The Minnesota Twins erupted for five runs in the first inning and won their second straight over the New York Yankees Wednesday, 7-4, as Camillo Pascual pitched his fifth victory of the season.

HARMON Killebrew hammered his 10th and 11th homers for the Twins and took over the league lead. Rookie Tony Oliva had a two-run homer in the big first.

The victory gave the Twins a sweep of the two-game set, the first series of the year between the two teams.

Pascual struck out nine in running his record to 5-2. Pinch hitter Johnny Blanchard slipped a two-run homer just inside the right field foul pole in the Yankee ninth.

THE TWINS struck swiftly against Yankee starter Ralph Terry. Zoilo Versalles singled and Rich Rollins tripled him home. Then Oliva, the hot-hitting right fielder, hit a two-run homer.

Bob Allison doubled and after Terry struck out Jimmie Hall Killebrew hit his first homer of the day. That made it 5-0 and brought on Bill Stafford.

Allison tripled in the sixth inning and scored on an error by Bobby Richardson, and Killebrew hit his second homer of the game in the eighth inning off Steve Hamilton.

Phillies 7, Giants 2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Johnny Callison's perfect day at the plate — four singles and a home run — put the Philadelphia Phillies back in the National League lead Wednesday with a 7-2 triumph over San Francisco which snapped pitcher Juan Marichal's victory string at 12.

Unbeaten since Aug. 30, 1963, and winner of six games this campaign, Marichal gave up a solo homer to Richie Allen and a two-run shot by Wes Covington in the fifth inning.

Callison singled his first four times at bat, then homered in the eighth inning. His single in the Phils' three-run sixth drove in two runs.

Willie Mays went hitless in three official times at bat and dropped below the 400 mark, winding up the day at 393.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shortstop John Kennedy hit two home runs and drove in another run with a single leading the Washington Senators to a 10-3 victory over Detroit Wednesday night that snapped the Tigers, four-game winning streak.

The Tigers' Bill Freehan and George Thomas hit successive homers in the seventh inning to pull within two runs, but Tom Cheney came on in relief of Claude Osteen and protected the margin.

The homer, off relief pitcher Jack Aker, was Powell's seventh and the fifth in his last eight games. Powell has driven in 18 runs.

Milt Pappas stopped Kansas City on five hits for his third consecutive victory, moving Baltimore into a virtual first-place tie with the idle Chicago White Sox.

Tennis Team Beats Purdue

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Iowa sophomore Tom Benson sparked the Hawkeye tennis team to a 6-3 victory over the Purdue Boilermakers in Wednesday's single dual match held here.

Benson, a native of Arlington Heights, Ill., defeated Joel Leisch, 6-0, 6-1, and teamed with John Svarups to defeat Mike Hannas and Joel Leisch, 6-3, 7-5.

Benson now leads the Iowa team with a 5-2 Big Ten dual meet record.

Dick Riley and Marc Mears defeated Bruce Brodie and Eric Schmidt, 7-5, 6-1.

Purdue gained three singles victories as Bob Powless, Mike Hannas and Bruce Brodie defeated David Strauss, Dick Riley and John Svarups, respectively.

Iowa now takes a 5-10 dual meet record into the Big Ten championship tournament which begins today.

Cards 1, Cubs 0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Slump-ridden Bill White broke a scoreless tie with an eighth-inning single that gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday night behind Bob Gibson's four-hit pitching.

Green Leads Conference With .84 ERA

CHICAGO (AP) Steve Green, Iowa pitcher, continues to lead the Big Ten statistics with a .34 earned run average. Green's record stands at 1-3 with a sole victory over MSU.

Husky Fred Rick Reichardt, Wisconsin's big league-scouted center-fielder, risks his bid for a second successive batting title against the conference's best pitching team this weekend.

REICHARDT takes his .525 average into a three-game set at Minnesota, whose Gopher mound corps has held rival batsmen to a meager .164 percentage in 11 league contests.

Reichardt, 205-pound junior who also excels as a halfback, won the Big Ten batting crown last season with .429. If he repeats as champion, it will set a conference record.

Official league statistics Wednesday disclosed Reichardt holds a 35-point edge over runner-up Arnie Chonko, Ohio State first sacker.

TWO HURLERS have perfect 4-0 marks — Bill Wahl of pace-setting Michigan and Wisconsin's Lance Tobert.

Michigan, holding a one-game edge over Minnesota in the pennant chase, ranks as the top conference team both in batting, with .272, and in fielding, with .969.

Iowa will take on Wisconsin at home Friday, and will host Northwestern in a twin bill Saturday afternoon.

Golfers Tourney-Bound

Six Iowa golfers will compete in the Big Ten tournament at Minneapolis, starting this Friday.

Coach Chuck Zwienen said he plans to take the following Iowa players: senior Donald Allen; juniors Bruce Thompson and Roger Gunderson as well as sophomore's Joseph McEvoy, John Berggren and Jim Scheppele.

Zwienen said Iowa's 1963 captain, Bob Gitchell, will not make the trip although he is eligible to compete. "Bob has not had too much time to practice because he is in medical school. With finals coming up, now is a bad time of the year to pull him out of school for any tournament," he added.

Allen is a veteran player with considerable tournament experience, he said.

Thompson did not do as well as expected during his sophomore season, but is helping out the team quite a bit now, said Zwienen.

Gunderson is considered by Zwienen as an "improved player" over last year.

McEvoy, a member of the Iowa high school title team in 1962, was rated as the most improved player from Iowa's 1963 freshman squad.

Berggren attained some competitive experience on the Big Ten links in 1963. He too had improved and could help the team this weekend, said Zwienen.

Scheppele, considered the "best of the sophomores," won the state high school title and the state Junior Chamber of Commerce championship in 1962.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Junior welterweight champion Eddie Perkins of Chicago was named boxer of the month for April by the World Boxing Association Friday.

BARTER TRADE CONTINUES—
KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Red China and Nepal this week signed a two-year trade agreement providing for most-favored nation treatment. It replaces the 1956 Nepal-Tibet treaty and provides people living about 20 miles on each side of the border may continue traditional barter trade.

Lampe Fund Drive Underway

A fund drive honoring Dr. M. Willard Lampe, the first director of the School of Religion, is underway to assure continued excellence of the SUI religion program in its period of expansion and to establish a professorship in Lampe's name. Lampe was director of the School of Religion from 1927 until his retirement in 1953. Lampe says he feels religion, theoretically and practically, is inseparable from education; hence it should be taught, even in a tax-supported university, not indirectly or surreptitiously—but unapologetically and comprehensively and in line with the best educational procedures.

AT THE annual meeting of the School's board of trustees May 11, Lampe said, "Our School is added proof that education and religion need not be conflicting terms, but may be complementary to each other."
Harold Duerksen, assistant director of the School, said special emphasis will be given to those areas related to Dr. Lampe's own interest.

"THE NEED is great for funds, Duerksen said. The administrative expenses, as a part of a state university, are paid from state funds while most of the teaching faculty is paid from private and various church contributions. He said the Jewish, Catholic, Protestant and other religious groups pay the salaries. The Lampe Fund will aid our program during the expansion of curriculum and student enrollment, he said.
"We hope to raise $10,000 to $15,000 by contributions from alumni of the University and of the School of Religion, friends of the school and others interested in aiding our program," Duerksen said.
SUI PRESIDENT Virgil M. Hancher was the guest speaker at the School of Religion luncheon meeting when the fund drive was first announced. Hancher said, referring to the place of religion in a state university, "Each of us appreciates God within the limitations of our own senses and each needs the visions of others to make his understanding more complete." He added each of us needs a disciplined visitor of God.
Those wishing to make contributions should send them to: M. Willard Lampe Fund, State University of Iowa Foundation, Iowa Memorial Union.

Mary F. Lundquist, interim president of the SUI, was appointed at a meeting of the executive council. The office was vacated by Al Garrison. Miss Lundquist told "SUI's Young Democrats will be expanded and varied in the fall aimed at defeating public nominees on a local and national scale."
THE FALL PROGRAM will include speakers from the Congressional District and state level, she said, adding Y.D. members will work precincts to stimulate interest in elections and to encourage absentee ballots.
Miss Lundquist said the situation provides that in the office of president is the first vice-president. She told The Daily Iowan her former office of first vice president to accept the presidency Strawn's resignation. Only other member of the executive council, retained post.

Two Regents Criticize Quad Plan

COUNCIL BLUFFS members of the State Board of Regents were critical Thursday preliminary plans for a 12-story addition to the Quadrangle Dormitory at SUI.
Stanley Redeker of Boone, man of the board's building business committee, and Merriett Valentine of Des Moines the costs for the structure excessive.
John Oberhausen of Boone also on the committee, could see no reason for the plans, and they will be up by the full board which uses its meeting here Friday.
The plans call for an addition house 538 men at a total cost of $2,376,000. The per man cost estimated at $3,290. Redeker said that the per man cost of the 12-story dormitory at Iowa for which contracts were last month were $2,375.
Theodore Rehder, dormitory director at SUI, said the Quad addition would provide 100 square feet per man in State addition.
The main reason for the costs at the Iowa City in Rehder said, is a "difficult philosophy" on what type of students should have.
