Flash Floods Bash Northern Montana

Dams Are Broken, Towns Evacuated

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Dambusting flash floods swept down from Montana's mountains Monday, killing at least five persons and causing millions of dollars damage.

Entire towns were evacuated as water three to six feet deep poured down streets into homes and businesses. Numerous bridges were washed out, roads were flooded and families were isolated.

This deluge came from a combination of near-record rainfall and melting snowpacks in the mountains.

Three of the dead — two children and a woman — were in the path of a mighty wall of water that swept down Birch Creek after an earthen and brick dam broke at Swift Reservoir, 60 miles northwest of Great Falls.

Birch Creek, normally a small tributary of the Marias River, was nearly a mile wide.

Two other persons were missing and presumed drowned. They were motorists whose vehicles plunged into the raging flood waters in northwestern Montana.

TWO THOUSAND residents of Choteau were evacuated as water from the rampaging Sun River rolled through the town.

Eureka Dam on Choteau's city reservoir reportedly gave way late Monday, sending a huge wave of water cascading toward the town.

Another dam was out at East Glacier on a reservoir holding the town's water supply.

Other community water supplies were polluted and typhoid vaccine was flown in in quantities to central distributing points.

All the dams are northwest of Great Falls — a city braced for heavy flooding late Tuesday.

Reports of pilots and airplane observers indicated houses were twisted off foundations by the force of the water.

Chief troublemaker was the Sun River, a tributary of the Missouri. The Sun joins the Missouri at Great Falls.

As the Sun carried heavy runoff from the east slope of the Continental Divide, numerous streams and rivers flooded on the west slope.

AIR FORCE helicopters from Great Falls were prepared to evacuate stranded persons or drop supplies in hard-to-reach areas. Calls for other helicopters were made to other bases, but poor flying conditions delayed the missions.

The Weather Bureau in Helena forecast continued rains and flood crests of more than 19 feet in Great Falls, one of the state's largest cities with 70,000 residents.

Christine Keeler Released from Jail

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, the prostitute that traveled in such high circles that she almost brought down the British government, ducked shyly out of prison Monday.

The 22-year-old redhead was slipped out the prison gate shortly after midnight, well ahead of the 8 a.m. release time. This disappointed a crowd of 200 curious gathered to see her release.

She dropped out of sight in London.

Registration materials may be picked up at the Field House at the time of registration. Course schedules will be available this week at the Registrar's Office.

GEN. EISENHOWER Staying Neutral? GOV. SCRANTON He's Available . . .

Ike Quashes Anti-Barry Movement in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater arrived at the National Governors' Conference Monday night and found that political infighting over attempts to block his path to the Republican Presidential nomination had subsided.

The Arizona senator, who is rushing along toward the party prize, ruled out any summit session here with top Republican leaders, candidates and possible candidates for the nomination.

Instead, Goldwater said he would return to Washington for today's Senate battle on the civil rights bill.

It apparently was former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who quashed what might have been a final effort to put together a stop-Goldwater drive at the conference.

He offered no rallying point for anti-Goldwater forces — if it could be called that. He withheld completely any hope that he would pitch in on a stop-Goldwater drive.

A DECLARATION of availability for the nomination by Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania amounted to that and little more.

The declaration was made Sunday after Scranton had conferred with Eisenhower the day before and been encouraged to declare himself more available than in the past.

Gov. John Anderson Jr. of Kansas, conference chairman, said "we agreed that the Republican party and Republicans nationally are bigger than any individual."

An aide to one governor reported that Goldwater's name was mentioned and Eisenhower was told that with the senator at the top of the ticket the Republicans might face disaster in some of the big states, such as New York, Ohio and Illinois.

NEVERTHELESS, one informant said Eisenhower believed that Republicans should unite behind the man who is so far ahead in the drive to the nomination.

Goldwater slipped into convention headquarters through a garage entrance. But he received an ovation and was caught up in a throng as he tried to greet delegates.

The Arizona senator also posed for pictures with Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, said to be available for a genuine nomination draft.

Ike Urges States To Force Writing Of Amendments

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower urged the states Monday night to wield their unused power to amend the Constitution to require that Federal budgets be balanced at least every two years.

This, he said, would be a matter of some wisdom and help arrest what the former president viewed as a disturbing concentration of power in Washington.

Eisenhower deplored the bigness of Government, took a swipe at President Johnson's war on poverty, and warned that in this century there has been a noticeable breaching of barricades erected by the Founding Fathers "against the propensity within us to destroy liberty."

EISENHOWER was guest of honor and main speaker at a dinner at

Communist Party Wins Court Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communist party gained another round Monday in its 14-year-old legal battle against registering as an instrument of world-wide Communism.

The Supreme Court refused to review — and thus let stand — a U.S. Court of Appeals decision of last Dec. 17 which reversed on technical grounds a $20,000 fine against the party for failing to submit details of its membership and finances.

No reason for the refusal was given in the one-line order that indicated no dissent. It merely added that Justice Byron R. White, a former deputy attorney general, took no part.

The lower court had expressed no opinion about the party's duty to submit the data demanded by the Justice Department. That included naming officers and members, listing the amounts and sources of income and expenditures and giving the location of its printing presses.

The Supreme Court in 1961 had upheld the validity of a 1963 order by the Subversive Activities Control Board directing the party to register under the Internal Security Act.

A Justice Department spokesman said the Government's next step to force the Communist party to comply has not been decided.

In New York, Gus Hall, former executive secretary of the Communist party in this country, called the court's action "a major victory for the constitutional liberties of all the American people."

He said the Supreme Court had opened the way for the Communist party to resume some of its "political" activity that had been curbed in recent years.

FIVE PERSONS were singled out today for special recognition by SUI for their outstanding professional and public service and citizenship.

Also receiving Distinguished Service Awards were David Dancer of Des Moines, George E. Frazer of Chicago, Orville F. Grahame of Worcester, Mass., Victor E. Henningsen of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Dorothy Houghton of Iowa City, formerly of Red Oak.

DANCER, secretary of the State Board of Regents since 1942, was lauded by Hickerson as a "quiet, constant force for quality and progress in higher learning in Iowa."

Hickerson declared that Dancer has been relied upon for all manner of aid and counsel by governors and presidents, legislators and professors, lobbyists and laymen, and has achieved the mutual respect and affection of all.

FRAZER, a specialist in public finance, was described by Hickerson as a man who has "lived in a world that giants might have fashioned . . . he has found his excitement in other than small plans." With degrees in accounting and law, Hickerson noted, Frazer has applied his knowledge of both fields "in fashioning monuments of great dimension and public impact, including the fiscal structure of the State of Illinois and aspects of the present organization of government in the State of Ohio."

GRAHAME, said Hickerson, has achieved eminence in a combination of professions as vice-president and general legal counsel of the Paul Revere Life Insurance Company and the Massachusetts Protective Association. "Professionalism, in politics, civil affairs, in the arts, and through his support of SUI, Orville Grahame has enlarged horizons of the mind and spirit."

HENNINGSEN became, at 25, one of the youngest men ever elected an officer of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, of which he is now vice-president and actuary. Later this year, Hickerson said, Henningsen will become president of the Society of Actuaries — the first SUI graduate to be elected to that office.

The Alumni Association director said of Mrs. Houghton: "When the definitive story of this state is told, it will be written that over a course of decades in the 20th century there was a woman in whom the fires of purpose and of zeal burned brilliantly. It will be noted that the flame of her endeavors illuminated all of Iowa, spread outward across the nation, and leaped oceans to shine in far countries of the world."

Six Honored For Service To University

Awards Presented At All-Alumni Luncheon Saturday

The second major honor in as many days was bestowed on President Virgil M. Hancher Saturday.

Friday he received a previously unannounced honorary Doctor of Laws Degree at the SUI Spring Commencement, his last as president before he retires June 30.

Saturday, a Distinguished Service Award, presented in the names of some 67,000 living SUI alumni, was given to President Hancher during the All-Alumni Luncheon attended by 400 persons in Iowa Memorial Union. This honor, too, came as a surprise to Dr. Hancher, who has headed SUI since 1940.

John J. Greer, Spencer, president of the SUI Alumni Association, made the presentation of the special award at the conclusion of ceremonies in which five other outstanding citizens were given awards by the University.

IN THE citation for the award, Loren Hickerson, executive director of the Alumni Association said:

"Despite the harassments of the hour, changes in command are a time for sentiment, and the world of this University is a sentimental world. As He Resigns— Baer Assails Iowa's Board of Correction

DES MOINES (AP) — Benjamin F. Baer resigned as director of Iowa's correctional institutions Monday, charging that the State Board of Control over-ruled him in naming a new warden for the Men's Reformatory.

Baer, 46, further charged that the board had "deliberately and subtly undermined" his job.

He also was critical of Charles H. Haugh, 56, Federal prison official for 26 years who was named warden of the reformatory.

Baer's resignation — which reportedly had been requested by the board — brought an end to a long controversy between him and some board members.

Gov. Harold Hughes, in a statement from Cleveland, Ohio, where he is attending the National Governors' Conference, said he regretted Baer's resignation.

"I regard Ben Baer as a well qualified penologist and a personal friend and am sorry it didn't work out," Hughes said.

"But let's make no mistake about it — The authority to hire and dismiss institutional personnel resides entirely in the Board of Control. I have not interfered and I do not intend to now."

"I have taken an active interest in personnel matters and in all other matters relating to our corrections system. I have communicated and will continue to communicate my views to the board. But in the final analysis, the decisions are theirs. In general I will support their decisions unless they were to adopt some major policy change that I feel would be contrary to the public interest."

And, Hughes added: "The presumption that a modern, enlightened corrections program means 'coddling the prisoners' is an old wives' tale contrived by people who would like to see us return to the Devil's Island era in handling offenders."

"The Board of Control and I are united in our determination to continue in Iowa the modern, enlightened corrections program that has been so well begun. Any other course would be unthinkable."

Board members Carroll Price and Jim Henry declined to comment on Baer's charges. The third Board member, Russell Wilson, is on vacation.

"The board certainly does not agree with Baer's charges," Price said, "but we would serve no purpose in answering them."

Price and Henry said they had not formally asked for Baer's resignation, but they did not deny that they had suggested he find another job.

PRICE indicated there had been friction between Baer and the board for some time when he said that Baer had been given a free hand in directing operations of the state's correction institutions until about six months ago.

That would have been about the time of a riot at the reformatory last fall when inmates did more than $250,000 damage. That was followed by a minor disturbance at the State Penitentiary and by several outbreaks this spring at the reformatory.

Baer has been acting warden at the reformatory since the April retirement of Warden Ray Purcell, 63.

Henry said Baer was not being made a scapegoat for recent problems at the reformatory, which have brought the ire of numerous state legislators.

SOME LEGISLATORS have accused Baer of coddling prisoners. Baer has contended he emphasized discipline as well as rehabilitation.

U.S. 'Copter Rescues Flier In Laos Jungle

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A U.S. helicopter flew into the Red-hell jungle in central Laos Monday and plucked out one of two U.S. Navy jet pilots downed over the weekend by Communist ground fire.

A heavy monsoon season cloud cover hampered the search for the pilot.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Vientiane said the helicopter rescued Cmdr. Doyle W. Lynn of La Mesa, Calif., pilot of a 1,000-mile-hour Crusader jet fighter, and flew him back to the U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk in the South China Sea.

HIS PLANE was hit Sunday while flying escort for other Navy jets on reconnaissance missions.

There was no word on the air search for Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, father of two, who was shot down Saturday in an unarmed reconnaissance plane, also a Crusader jet.

Klusmann was seen to parachute after his plane was hit. Accompanying aircraft flew cover for him while he faded into the jungle.

RED CHINA charged that a flight of four U.S. jets fired two rockets Sunday at Khang Khay, the Plain de Jarres headquarters of the Pathet Lao.

Reliable sources in Vientiane said that Laotian air force F27 fighter-bombers armed are flying cover for the U.S. reconnaissance planes. Souvanna's neutralist Government ordered the Laotian planes into action after consultations with U.S. Embassy officials in the wake of the loss of the two jets.

The U.S.-made F27s are flown by Laotian pilots.

In Washington the United States reportedly has ordered its jet fighters to attack Communist anti-aircraft guns firing on low-flying, unarmed photo reconnaissance planes operating over Laos.

TWO U.S. Navy jets operating over the Plain de Jarres have been shot down by ground fire, one a reconnaissance plane, the other a fighter. The first was lost Saturday, the other Sunday.

A Navy spokesman said the assumption here is that the two jets from the carrier Kitty Hawk were shot down in Laos by radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns.

The spokesman added that it is assumed that the anti-aircraft guns are manned by the North Vietnamese rather than the local Pathet Lao Communist forces.

"We have known for some time," he said, "that the Chinese have been training the North Vietnamese in the use of radar anti-aircraft."

The State Department said Sunday the flights will continue and unarmed reconnaissance aircraft will be protected.

Jury Selection Begins In Waterloo Trial

WATERLOO (AP) — Selection of a jury began Monday in the trial of David Richard Bruno, 16, charged in the May 2 stabbing death of his stepfather, Bernard D. Hill, 38.

Defense Attorney James Dunbar indicated by his questioning of prospective jurors that a plea of self-defense would be made.

Testimony at a preliminary hearing indicated Bruno fought with his stepfather after Hill forbade the youth to leave the house.

Prospectus for summer: hotter than usual

THE LONG HOT SUMMER has begun, and in the area of civil rights and politics, it will become hotter as the summer grows longer.

The United States has been promised more civil rights demonstrations this summer by civil rights organizations, but they may be demonstrations far different from the freedom rides and sit-ins of past summers.

In any social struggle, especially one that is protracted, there is always a tendency to polarity. The moderates who work toward a central, far-reaching goal, find it more and more difficult to control the extreme elements within their own ranks.

Leaders such as Bayard Rustin, James Farmer and Martin Luther King have spoken eloquently of their belief in non-violence, but leaders such as these do not, and cannot, control the entire civil rights movement.

The Negro ghettos of the Northern cities such as New York, Chicago and Detroit hold the potential for race riots that could be hundreds of times more tragic than the bombing of the Birmingham church last summer.

It is not so much a question of whether violence is "justified" by social conditions as whether action can be taken in this country to avoid a great tragedy.

The passage of the civil rights bill would be a minimal step in this direction.

This summer will not see the resolution of the question of civil rights in America, but, depending on whether the moderates become more active and aware or allow other forces to take the reins, the movement may take some new directions.

As far as national politics are concerned, the Republicans have already stolen the show from the Democrats.

With his win in California and his collection of first ballot votes for the convention, Barry Goldwater has given Republican politics a negative approach.

The motto for the liberal Republicans is not "Elect Goldwater" this summer, but rather "Stop Goldwater."

Rockefeller fought in the primaries, but the other Republican hopefuls politely hung back, waiting for a "spontaneous draft" from below.

The liberal Republicans would love to start a hand-wagon rolling, but in addition to running out of time, they find that they have no one to sponsor.

Whether the events of Republican politics will be able to "Stop Goldwater" or whether there will be a split in the party or whatever, it promises to be an interesting summer hotter than usual.

Inside Washington—

Russia stalling on air agreement

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT
WASHINGTON — Despite those published reports to the contrary, Russia — and not the U.S. — is holding up the signing of the air agreement permitting an exchange of commercial flights between Moscow and New York.

White the White House is privately prodding U.S. negotiators to reach an immediate agreement, Premier Khrushchev is stalling until his technicians iron out the bugs in their heralded new II-62 supersonic airliner.

U.S. negotiators report that Khrushchev is delaying the signing until the Russians can cap the U.S.-Soviet air accord with a smashing propaganda victory by landing the world's first supersonic airliner in New York.

If U.S. intelligence estimates are anywhere near correct, this major feat is still several months off, since the 1,500-mile-an-hour II-62 is plagued with both mechanical and equipment troubles.

The 200-passenger plane is reportedly having serious difficulty taking off and landing with less than half the fuel needed to fly to the U.S. from Moscow.

There have been so many equipment failures on the Soviet airliner while in the air that it now taken an average of a week to overhaul the huge plane after each flight. Without this inch-by-inch checking, the four-engine jet would be unsafe for flying long distances.

In sharp contrast, Pan American Airways, which will serve as the U.S. commercial carrier, is ready now to use its fully-tested pure-jet Boeing 707 on the run.

The sleek 707, in operational use for several years, can make the non-stop flight in about 8½ hours eastbound and 10 hours westbound, or a full two to four hours less than the TU-144 — the best Soviet plane now in operation.

By pressing into service the new four-jet II-62, the Russians expect to cut their air time from Moscow to New York in half — giving Aeroflot, their government airline, a big speed advantage over the Pan American jet.

REVERSE ENGINES — Senator Thomas Dodd (D-Conn.), most outspoken opponent of the proposed air agreement, is taking advantage of Khrushchev's haggling to petition President Johnson to call off the negotiations.

In a memorandum to the White House, Senator Dodd expressed the hope that the President "will pause to weigh the potential disadvantages of the proposed agreement against any conceivable advantages before we commit ourselves to a course which, I am certain, we will live to regret."

He pointed out that Russia will use the new air rights to step up its espionage activities in the U.S., warning:

"The Russian embassy and U.N. staffs number several hundred people. If they could shuttle between New York and Moscow twice a week in their old planes, think of how much secret material, military secrets, scientific and technical data and other valuable information gathered for them by their friends and operations in this country, they could tuck away without detection.

They would be able to carry away tons of so-called 'diplomatic mail.'"

"If the U.S. goes through with the signing of the agreement," Dodd stressed, "all Latin American countries will follow suit, making the task of fighting Communist subversion and espionage in these countries almost impossible."

NO JUSTIFICATION — Dodd charged that the air agreement cannot be justified "in terms of Soviet tourist traffic to the U.S., because in recent years this has amounted to less than 150 persons a year."

"On the other hand," he pointed out, "American tourist traffic to the Soviet Union in 1963 ran approximately 15,000. In order to operate commercial flights to the U.S. on a profitable basis, Aeroflot would have to bid for a substantial chunk of the U.S. tourist traffic."

While President Johnson has not yet replied to Dodd's memorandum, Ambassador Foy Kohler is still pushing the negotiations. He is trying to get the Russians to sign the air pact before they make one with Canada.

The Soviet-Canadian agreement, giving the Russians a direct air route to Montreal, is scheduled to be announced in July.

Under its unannounced terms, a Canadian airline will be permitted to fly to Moscow via Peking, as well as directly to Russia. This secret Chinese Communist collaboration with the Russians in arranging the air route with the Canadians has cast new doubt on whether there really is a deep Soviet-Chinese split.

'SOS' has special meaning in College of Education

By BEV BECKER
Staff Writer

(Editor's Note: This is part one of a two-part story concerning the Specialty Oriented Student.)

"SOS" has taken on a new meaning in SU1's College of Education in the form of a revolutionary program which is gaining acceptance on a national level.

Dr. Kenneth Hoyt, professor of education at SU1, began the Specialty Oriented Student Research Program in 1960.

"I got tired," Dr. Hoyt said, "of getting letters from high school counselors saying, for example, 'I've got a student who's thinking about going to Coyne Institute in Chicago. What do you know about it?'"

"We started collecting information to help counselors help their students. We knew that there were an increasing number of youngsters who were going to have to seek more specialized training beyond high school before they could enter the labor market, and we knew counselors were going to have to help these persons."

Hoyt said.

Pages of college-bound and non-college-bound students concerning with counselors were collected to compare methods used to inform the students of opportunities available after graduation.

"The interviews for the non-college-bound student usually started with the counselor asking the student to tell him more about one or more trade schools he was thinking about entering," Hoyt said.

"Then the counselor might say 'Good luck, watch out for the gyp school, and end the interview by asking if the student had considered getting his training in the Armed Forces.'"

"Counselors simply didn't have the information about the opportunities available. For example, there were no ACT tests to predict how students would do in trade schools," Hoyt said.

"Many counselors were devoting a majority of their time to that minority of students who needed help the least — the college-bound. The reason was that the counselors were most able to help these students. They had test scores to predict how the college-bound student would do. They had folders giving housing and tuition information, but because of the emphasis on the college-bound student, they had little time or desire to obtain information for the other students," Hoyt said.

Hoyt would like to do away with the term "non-college-bound students." "This implies a person who isn't as good as the college-bound student, one who will have less maximal success. Perhaps this term was appropriate when a student went to work as soon as he graduated, but now many students have to further their training in order to enter today's increasingly technologically oriented labor market," Hoyt said.

"These students are not persons who don't care about education," Hoyt said. "They just don't want a liberal arts education. Many have economic reasons for not selecting a liberal arts college. They know they will have to be largely self-supporting. Their educational motivation is 'specialty oriented.' These students don't want to learn just for the sake of learning, but rather they want to learn something that will help them get a job. It's a different kind of educational motivation," Hoyt said.

The term "Specialty Oriented Student" was coined by Hoyt as a result of interviews held with students attending trade, technical, and business schools concerning why they chose to seek further training. Hoyt defined the Specialty Oriented Student as "one whose motivation toward educational achievement are built

After computers speak, voters should stay away

By ART BUCHWALD

If there is anybody who gets us mad, it's somebody who wants to vote after a computer has declared a winner in a nationally televised election.

Last Tuesday night, only 23 minutes after they were on the air, and 48 minutes before the polls were closed, the Columbia B or a deasting System declared Senator Goldwater the winner in the California primary. While only 2 per cent of the votes were in, it was sufficient, as far as the network was concerned, to declare a winner.

As soon as we heard the results, we telephoned a friend of ours who lives in San Francisco. He said, "I can't speak to you now. I have to go out and vote. I've only got 40 minutes left."

"But haven't you heard?" we said. "CBS has declared Goldwater the winner. There is no sense in bothering to vote now."

No, Miss Weiner, I care very little about your repugnance for the Indianapolis "500." If you had raced, I would listen, but it is a different sort of person who races out there, a kind you might not understand. I do not want him destroyed and I wonder what makes you think you have the right to try.

Students 'sit-in' to protest U of M bookstore eviction

In this age of sit-ins, lie-ins, sleep-ins, kneel-ins, fall-ins and pray-ins, the University of Minnesota students have inaugurated a new type of demonstration — the "sit-in."

The students were protesting the upcoming eviction of Melvin McCosh, the owner of a bookstore in Dinkytown, the shopping area near the University's campus.

According to a letter received from the owners of the property, McCosh is being evicted because of violation of a clause in the lease forbidding him to sublease the store without the owner's consent.

But McCosh — and the students — believe that he is being evicted in order to allow Bridgeman's ice-cream store — situated next-door — to expand.

The "sit-in" was staged by the Ad Hoc Committee for the Preservation of McCosh's Book Store during the noon rush at Bridgeman's.

Students filled the ice-cream store and only ordered coffee, which they sipped for two hours, forcing lunch customers elsewhere.

Persons have called McCosh, offering him space for his store in other areas of Minneapolis, but McCosh insists that "there is no other part of the city that would work for the store."

McCosh, whose store is a jumbled collection of books that are stacked haphazardly on shelves, was amazed to see so many people involved. He said that he was "sort of hopeful."

In addition to circulating a petition protesting the "injustice" of the eviction, the Ad Hoc Committee is also planning a "mothers march." The Committee hopes to have a group of neighborhood mothers push baby carriages in front of Bridgeman's as a protest.

Until the issue is resolved, McCosh's windows are plastered with signs that advertise "Outsted Sale" and "Eviction Sale."

Reader defends the '500'

To the Editor:

One of the prime objects of the Indianapolis "500" is, I suppose, money. However, I think that for the driver in the winner's circle who has just driven his car to victory against some of the best drivers and cars in the world, something else might be more important. Maybe a feeling of personal pride, of achievement, of contentment for having done what only a very select group of individuals has done.

You say it is dangerous and I agree. I doubt that I would have the courage to race, but I admire those who do and so I wait for one of them to say it is too dangerous. Death became one of the main objectives of the Roman Circus only after the gladiators were no longer volunteers. But these same gladiators were the ones who revolted. They were the ones who "stopped the show."

No, Miss Weiner, I care very little about your repugnance for the Indianapolis "500." If you had raced, I would listen, but it is a different sort of person who races out there, a kind you might not understand. I do not want him destroyed and I wonder what makes you think you have the right to try.

Ready one take one — number one on a 90. This jargon, which is common vocabulary in the Radio-Television-Film division of the Speech Department, indicates which camera is to take which shot during the taping of a television or film show. Running comment like this was heard at the taping of the most recent dramatic production, "Out to Lunch," by Howard Stein, instructor in playwriting. His play was one of two produced this year with the cooperation of both the Department of Dramatic Arts and the Television Center faculty and students.

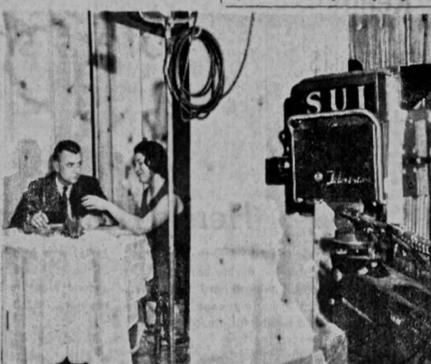

Ralph Arzooonian, G, Crans-ton, R.I., was author of "Road-bird," the other dramatic production taped this year.

The idea for "Out to Lunch," began with a conversation between Stein and Dr. Shepherd Morgan, visiting lecturer in Radio-Television-Film, about the possibility of doing a dramatic show. Stein then wrote a scenario for consideration.

STEIN SAID the story seemed "appropriate but risky." The plot centers on the idea of the wife of a $25,000-a-year advertising executive, and mother of two children, who tries to escape her trapped and agitated life as a conventional housewife, and invites her husband to spend an afternoon in a motel with her.

Ann Schultz, A2, Iowa City, portrays the wife, and James Kerr, A1, Iowa City, portrays the husband in "Out to Lunch."

Taping a show utilizes the cooperation and skill of everyone from the scriptwriter to the cameraman. While Stein worked on the script, the set was being planned and built by Larry Hutchins, G, Iowa City. Dr. Morgan worked on actor positions, camera angles, and also helped they participated not only in all of the actual taping, but also did some location work at the Holiday Inn, located on Highway 218 north of Iowa City. Excerpts for the introductory film clip and the reverse screen image were taken at the motel.

During the taping, cameramen must demonstrate their skill by reacting quickly to the director's signals, and student actors, inexperienced in television work, had to learn to perform while dozens of people were running around. Rehearsals were also stopped and started frequently while cameramen learned their positions. "It was challenging, tedious and frustrating," Morgan said.

MORGAN explained that taping such programs give the students an opportunity for experience and also provides a program to broadcast. "We hope to have it shown on WMT-TV in Cedar Rapids," he said.

Dramatic productions comprise only part of the work that continues at the Television Center. Instructional shows for use on closed-circuits, such as Introduction to Geography by Kennard Rummage, professor of Geography, are also taped at the center.

Air Conditioned Comfort For Fine Arts Festival

SUI will offer air-conditioned comfort to visitors who come to enjoy the 28th annual Fine Arts Festival, beginning Wednesday.

Most of the concerts, lectures, and theatrical presentations planned for the festival will be presented in air-conditioned halls where visitors can forget the heat and enjoy the best the University has to offer. In addition, when the Fine Arts Festival gets underway officially, two art exhibitions and three special museum displays will be open to the public without charge.

"Drawing and the Figure," a compilation of drawings of the human body which span more than five and one-half centuries, will be on display in the gallery of the SUI Art Building. "The President and the Portrait" — a selection of paintings of SUI presidents from the first, Amos Dean, to the current president, Virgil Hancher — will open formally Wednesday in the Terrace Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

In addition to the art exhibits, a number of natural science, anthropology and special technical exhibits will be on display throughout Macbride Hall.

Other special events of the two-month festival include the fourth annual series of plays by the SUI Repertory Theatre. All plays this year are modern, and include: "Daddy and the Witch" by William Gibson, July 6, 10, 15, 20 and 24; "The Birthday Party" by Harold Pinter, July 7, 11, 16, 21 and 25; "The Snob" by Carl Sternheim, July 8, 13, 17, 22 and 27; and "Call Me by My Rightful Name" by Michael Shurtleff, July 9, 14, 18, 23 and 28.

Tickets to the Repertory Theatre plays will go on sale June 22, and are $1.50 for general admission. SUI students registered for summer school will receive tickets upon presentation of identification cards. Tickets may be ordered through the mail by including a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Puccini's world-famous opera, "La Boheme," will be presented July 28, 29 and 31 and Aug. 1. Singers in leading roles for the lyric tragedy will include Eric Giere, Minneapolis graduate student; and Deborah Treger, wife of Professor Charles Treger of SUI's music faculty.

Giere and Mrs. Treger were "leads" in last summer's highly praised production of "La Traviata." Tickets for "La Boheme," to be sung in English, will go on sale July 13; all will be priced at $2.50. Mail orders should be addressed to: Opera, Iowa Memorial Union, SUI, Iowa City, Iowa, and should include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A number of concerts will be presented during the Fine Arts Festival, beginning with an All-State Music Camp concert June 21 at 3 p.m. The final All-State concert will be presented June 26 at 8 p.m.

The SUI Summer Session Orchestra will present a concert July 1 at 8 p.m. In addition, there will be a faculty chamber music concert July 8 at 8 p.m., and a faculty concert July 26 at 4 p.m. All concerts will be free, and all will be held in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Lectures being given as part of the festival program include talks by Dr. Harlow Shapley, noted Harvard University astronomer, who will speak on June 16 at 8 p.m., and by Dr. Peter D. Comanduras, former assistant executive director of CARE, who will speak July 7 at 8 p.m. on "Doctors of Humanity." Both lectures will be given in Macbride Auditorium.

Professor Marjorie Hope Nicholson, of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University, will give a lecture at 8 p.m. June 19, through the cooperation of the SUI Committee on the Shakespeare Quadricentennial. She will speak in Shambaugh Auditorium.

"Whenever a person adds or drops a class it means one of our people has to go through and change the registration cards in the student's file," said Donald E. Rhoades, SUI Registrar. "Sometimes it means we need to reassess the person's fees, from full time to half time. And it always means we must revise class lists for the instructor."

"I'd say adding and dropping of classes is a problem, but we have others," Rhoades added. "It has been our experience that people tend to register for more class hours than they can carry. Then they drop classes to lighten their load."

RHOADES SAID the idea of a fee and change of date for final program changes has been discussed and is still being studied. Any decision on using a fee would require final approval by the Board of Regents. Collecting a fee might discourage some program changes, he said, but there is the administrative cost of collecting the fee.

Is Your Schedule Bungled? Just Add or Drop a Course

Probably no student graduates from SUI without having to make at least one change in registration at one time or another. Officially, registration ends in the Field House. But for many students the process continues with adding and dropping of courses until a schedule is finally arranged.

As predicted enrollment increases are translated into students occupying seats in the classroom, the administrative and educational problems of adding and dropping courses are being studied at SUI with an eye toward making changes of policy in the future.

One professor particularly concerned with this problem is Dr. Richard Braddock, coordinator of SUI's rhetoric program. During the two-week period following registration for the spring semester, 135 students changed rhetoric sections for valid and sometimes questionable reasons.

"FOR ABOUT a week after registration, all our secretary does is handle the crowd of people in the office waiting to make section changes," Braddock said. More than twice as many students asked for section changes than received them, he added. "This places a tremendous burden on our staff. If it's this way right now, consider the problem when the enrollment doubles."

In a letter to Dr. Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and chairman of the Educational Policies Committee, Braddock said he feels too many students are changing sections on flimsy grounds. He recommended that the committee formulate a unified policy for the College of Liberal Arts. At present, according to Braddock, some departments change sections at the request of a student. Others have stringent regulations.

"WE'RE ALWAYS willing to go along with a student that has an honest conflict with his job," Braddock said, "but there's always that other extreme."

"I had one student come in here last fall wanting to change sections because he couldn't attend any Friday afternoon classes. He said he read to his blind grandmother."

"I asked him if it was all right if I checked with his grandmother since she lived in Iowa City. With that, the student got up and said, 'Ah, go to hell' and walked out."

Braddock said many students change sections or add and drop classes because of carelessness at registration or a childish attitude. Many sign up for any section open and then wish to change to a more advantageous one later. Braddock also suggested that Union and fraternity and sorority house gossip might prejudice a student against a certain instructor.

"A STUDENT is in a class for one day, and maybe the instructor parts his hair on a different side, or the student decides that the work load is less in another section. The next day that student wants to change sections," Braddock said.

"We have an instructional problem when a student changes sections," Braddock said. "By the second week of class, students are turning in papers and giving speeches in class. The instructor is beginning to evaluate that person. When he changes sections, the whole process has to begin again."

"With extra help we could handle all of these section changes. If we paid a graduate student $1.50 an hour for 10 days, it would cost about 10 cents per student making a change. But I'm not sure that's the whole answer to this problem."

IN HIS LETTER to the Educational Policies Committee, Braddock offered two suggestions for curbing excessive adding and dropping of courses.

—Reduce the time for making changes without penalty.

—Charge a fee for making changes.

Both of these suggestions would affect the operation of the registrar's office.

"Whenever a person adds or drops a class it means one of our people has to go through and change the registration cards in the student's file," said Donald E. Rhoades, SUI Registrar. "Sometimes it means we need to reassess the person's fees, from full time to half time. And it always means we must revise class lists for the instructor."

"I'd say adding and dropping of classes is a problem, but we have others," Rhoades added. "It has been our experience that people tend to register for more class hours than they can carry. Then they drop classes to lighten their load."

RHOADES SAID the idea of a fee and change of date for final program changes has been discussed and is still being studied. Any decision on using a fee would require final approval by the Board of Regents. Collecting a fee might discourage some program changes, he said, but there is the administrative cost of collecting the fee.

"The problem of adding and dropping of classes will be with us as long as we have a liberal arts philosophy of allowing flexibility in scheduling," Rhoades said. "For the present our staff is adequate."

Dr. Patrick L. Alston, course chairman of the Western Civilization program, said his department is careful at registration to reduce the number of people adding and dropping courses at registration. Even then, many changes are made.

"The biggest problem is trying to find an open hour for a person to take a class," Alston said. "Part of the answer to this problem could be in the complicated registration procedure. Freshmen unfamiliar with registration procedures get confused and register incorrectly. By the time they're sophomores, they can walk through it while asleep."

"ONE PROBLEM we run into is the ROTC orientation meetings. They meet for only two or three weeks, but they eliminate scheduling another class at that time because they're mandatory. They should be on Saturday morning or during the evening," Alston said.

"Sometimes these people sign up for a conflict hour and then try to change the section later on. It's a complex problem," Alston said, "and I don't think anyone has a quick answer for it. Do you?"

Family Housing Session Opens Here Wednesday

A new workshop on Family Housing to be held at SUI will open Wednesday under sponsorship of the Home Economics Department. Offered for the first time this summer, the workshop has been set up in recognition of the need for training in dealing with the serious housing inadequacies in our country.

The workshop has been designed for college and university teachers of home economics and related subjects and for professional specialists in extension services, social work, public health, architecture, engineering and city planning. It will also be of interest to gerontologists, motel administrators and allied professional workers.

Professor Janet K. Smith, formerly professor of housing and interior design at Florida State University and now on the faculty of Washington State University, will be the instructor for the workshop. A graduate of Wellesley College and the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, she received an Ed.D.

Degree from Columbia University and has studied at the University of Oregon and Mills College.

A nationally recognized authority on family housing, Dr. Smith has travelled and studied extensively abroad. She was the leader of a study tour of England, Scotland and the Scandinavian countries sponsored by Florida State University during the summer of 1959.

Three semester-hours of graduate credit may be earned by those taking the Workshop in Family Housing. In addition to lectures and discussion sessions, a number of field trips to study varied types of housing in the Iowa City area are scheduled. Registrants will also work on individual research problems.

Workshop sessions are scheduled for 8 a.m.-9:50 a.m. daily Monday through Friday for four weeks.

Scotland Epidemic

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — City health authorities closed a butcher shop and a food factory Monday in efforts to halt a typhoid epidemic that has hospitalized 412 persons.

Ten new cases were reported hospitalized by Monday afternoon. The butcher shop was closed after one of its operators was thought to be a typhoid case. Four hundred pounds of meat was destroyed. A frozen foods factory was closed for the duration of the epidemic as a precautionary measure.

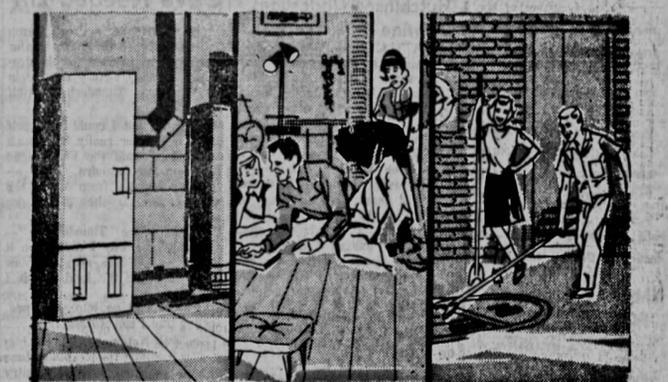

United States Public Health Service officials said Monday they see no present cause for worry about any outbreak of typhoid fever in this country tracing to the epidemic in Aberdeen, Scotland.

But they said all precautions deemed necessary have been taken.

Let Your Gas Furnace Serve You All Summer!
Keep Your PILOT LIGHT ON

Throughout the summer months, this thrifty little gas flame more than pays for itself by protecting your furnace and providing extra home comfort for you and your family.

- PROTECTS YOUR HEATING EQUIPMENT
The small amount of heat from the Gas Pilot keeps your equipment dry through the summer. Helps prevent rust and corrosion. Prolongs the life of your furnace for years to come.
- BENEFITS YOUR BASEMENT
The furnace pilot generates just enough heat to increase the draft up the chimney. This helps ventilate the basement, reduces dampness and mustiness, makes basement more comfortable.
- PROVIDES COMFORT ON COOL DAYS
Your furnace is always ready to be turned on for cool, damp summer days when a little heat makes your house much more comfortable.
- ASSURES INSTANT HEAT IN FALL
At the first sign of cold weather . . . a turn of the thermostat gives you heat instantly. No shivering while you wait for the furnace pilot to be lighted.

11 Yanks Advance In British Tourney

GANTON, England (AP) — George Blocker, a young Army corporal, and a pair of Walker Cup veterans, Dale Morey and Frank Strafaci, led an 11-man American advance Monday into the second round of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Eleven members of the large U.S. delegation of 34 were eliminated, two by fellow Americans, and two others defaulted. Ten play for the first time today.

Blocker, 24, from Jal, N.M., scored the biggest upset of the opening day when he crushed Alan Slater of England, finalist in this event in 1955, by a one-sided 7 and 6 score.

Morey, 44-year-old internationalist from High Point, N.C., threw a pair of birdies at Ian Fernyhough of England and lost only one hole in winning 6 and 4. Strafaci, from Miami, playing in his ninth British Amateur, edged John Boston, an Irish lawyer, 2 and 1.

American winners were John Thornton of Rochester, N.Y.; Henry Timbrook of San Francisco, Woodward Mellon of Locust Valley, N.Y.; Orville Goens of Des Moines; Chuck Will of Baltimore; Maj. Matt Tatum of Birmingham, Ala.; and James Bostwick of Jericho, N.Y.

Nats' 4 Homers Fail To Stop A's

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Aluskis's two-run homer capped a four-run uprising in the eighth inning and carried Kansas City to a 5-4 victory over Washington Friday night despite a three-homer outburst by the Senator's Jim King and a pinch-hit homer by Don Zimmer.

King, who hadn't hit a homer at D.C. Stadium previously this season, connected in the second, sixth and eighth innings each time with the bases empty. He now has nine for the season.

Ed Charles hit a homer in the first for the A's, but King's first two shots shoved the Senators into a 2-1 lead.

Hutchinson Undergoes 'Routine Checkup'

SEATTLE (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds underwent another examination Monday in his battle against a cancerous growth in his upper chest.

Dr. Orrius Wildermuth, head of the Tumor Institute of the Swedish Hospital, said he considered it a routine checkup.

The malignancy was discovered late last year and Hutchinson was treated at Swedish Hospital with high-voltage x-rays in a special pressurized oxygen chamber.

Indians Hit 2 Homers in 8th To Defeat Los Angeles, 6-3

Wagner's 13th, Chance's 6th Spark Rally

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Wagner and Bob Chance crashed eighth-inning home runs sparking a comeback and giving the Cleveland Indians a 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Monday night.

The Angels had rallied with three runs in the seventh to take the lead after Cleveland had broken a scoreless tie with two in the sixth. The Indians came back in the eighth against Angel relievers Bob Lee and Willie Smith.

Joe Azcue opened with a single, moved up on Al Smith's sacrifice and scored the tying run on Dick Howser's single which knocked out Lee.

Smith came on to retire Vic Davillo but then Wagner and Chance crashed back to beat homers to put the Indians on top.

Here's How, Pop Mike White, rookie outfielder for the Houston Colts, makes with the big bat during batting practice at Houston Monday. Taking a hard look at his son's swing through the batting cage is Jo Jo White, third base coach for the Milwaukee Braves.

NEW YORK (AP) — In black and white and every other way, Mike White of the Houston Colts must be ranked among the major surprises of the 1964 baseball season.

Drafted from the Milwaukee organization for only $2,000, the rookie outfielder is batting .367, a mark that places him second in the National League among the regulars.

He was inserted in the starting line-up three weeks ago and with 36 hits in 98 tries he needs only two more times at bat to qualify for the circuit's top 10 batsmen.

In last week's games, the 25-year-old, who hit .324 for San Antonio of the Texas League last season, had 10 hits in 22 attempts for a .455 mark.

Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs, the league's leading hitter, batted .348 with eight hits in 23 at bats last week. The performance resulted in a six-point drop to .406.

Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants moved up two notches to second although he lost seven points to .357. The slugging outfielder had six hits in 20 trips.

Mays continues to lead in home runs with 18 and runs batted in, 44. The figures include Sunday's games.

In the American League, Tony Oliva, Minnesota's rookie outfielder, held onto first place despite a three-point drop to .390. He had nine hits in 25 times at bat last week.

Mathews, whose slugging has not been the same since he popped a shoulder muscle in swinging at a pitch two years ago, said the old ailment had disappeared and can't be blamed for his troubles at the plate.

Mathews, who ranks eighth on baseball's all-time home run list with 426, hasn't connected for one since May 10. Meanwhile, the Braves are staggering along with a .500 record.

"Let's face it, I've really been lousy," the 32-year-old slugger said. "I've tried everything I can think of. I've taken extra hitting and I've gone without batting practice. You name it and I've done it. Yes, I've changed bats, too."

Hankins Wins Medal of Honor From Big 10

CHICAGO — Ten of the Big Ten's most outstanding student-athletes have been awarded the coveted Big Ten Medal of Honor on the 50th anniversary of the Conference's highest honor. The ten representing six sports were tapped for this award for demonstrating the "greatest proficiency in scholarship and athletics" at their respective institutions.

The Medal of Honor was endowed by the Conference in 1914 and the medal itself was executed by famed sculptor R. Tail McKenzie of Princeton. Each winner has received a medal with the following inscription: "Mens servida in corpore lacertoso." ("... a fervid mind in a vigorous body...")

The list of winners includes Phi Beta Kappa winner, a Davis Cup tennis player and seven team captains. The 1964 winners include Andy Hankins of SUI.

Hankins was captain of the 1963-64 Hawkeye basketball team and a three-time letterman. He excelled as a floorman.

In addition, he is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa national honorary senior society. He compiled a 3.38 grade point in pre-medical. He is from Waukegan, Ill.

The current winners bring the total of Medal of Honor recipients to 481 in its 50 year history. The 1964 list has a composite grade point average of 3.20 (A minus), on a 4.00 scale. Their courses of study include: advertising, business administration, chemistry, education, engineering and pre-med.

A'S SIGN PITCHER — KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics signed another $75,000 bonus pitcher today, an 18-year-old high school boy from Hartford, N.C.

He is James (Catfish) Hunter, who pitched five shutout games in the past two seasons with the Perquimans County High School team.

Last week the Athletics signed also for $75,000, Johnny Lee (Blue Moon) Odum, 19, from Macon, Ga.

Yansion Mounts in Greece, Reported

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — on the alert again Monday against the invasion of Cyprus swept by the Greek Cypriot Government.

There was no immediate report of a Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

Pressure from the United Nations is being applied to the Greek Cypriot Government to prevent the present constancy and not to partition the island between its Greek and Turkish populations.

It was the second time in days that Greek forces had placed on alert, and a Government source declared, "We are on edge of an outbreak of war."

The source said that according to information "Turkey is preparing to invade the island of Cyprus Monday night or early Tuesday."

Sources in Ankara have that a warning note from the United Nations, supreme commander Allied forces in Europe, for an immediate Turkish attack on Cyprus.

Monday night a British sentinels officer who disappeared with his driver and jeep. He was Maj. Edward Macey, 46, a target for criticism in the Cypriot press.

The incident came as U.N. officials continued with rival forces of divided Cyprus on their political settlement.

They put an end to conflict that flared last December and brought U.N. troops to the island.

Wartburg Opens Tourney With Win in 16 Innings, 2-1 ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Wartburg College of Waverly opened the eighth annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) baseball tournament Monday with a 2-1 victory in 16 innings over West Liberty, W. Va. Roger Kittelson's single to right field in the top of the 16th inning scored Gary Ludvigson. The 16-inning contest equaled the NAIA tournament record set in 1961 by Defiance, Ohio and Winona (Minn.) State. Ludvigson started off the inning by drawing a walk off West Liberty reliever, Joe Niecko. He got to second when the first half of a double play misfired and moved into scoring position on Ray Bye's long out to right field. Dave Langrock, a southpaw who relieved Wartburg's starter, Leon Carkey with one out in the 13th, retired the side in order at the bottom of the 16th to boost his record to 8-1.

Tension Mounts in Cyprus—Greece, Turkey Both Reported Battle-Ready

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece put its Armed Forces on the alert again Monday night as renewed fears of a Turkish invasion of Cyprus swept the Greek capital.

There was no immediate reaction in Nicosia, where the Greek Cypriot Government has maintained a state of alert in fear of a Turkish invasion that failed to materialize over the weekend.

Pressure from the United States was said to have halted any quick Turkish action.

In Ankara a source said Turkey was sending a note to President Johnson declaring that the only aim of a Turkish landing would be to preserve the present constitution and not to partition the island between its Greek and Turkish Cypriot populations.

It was the second time in three days that Greek forces had been placed on alert, and a Government source declared, "We are on the eve of an outbreak of war."

The source said that according to information "Turkey is prepared to invade the island of Cyprus Monday night or early Tuesday."

Sources in Ankara have said that a warning note from Johnson and a hurried visit by Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, forestalled any immediate Turkish action.

U.N. forces on Cyprus sought Monday night a British senior liaison officer who disappeared along with his driver and jeep. He was Maj. Edward Macey, 46, often a target for criticism in the Greek Cypriot press.

The incident came as U.N. officials conferred with rival leaders of divided Cyprus on their positions toward a political settlement that would put an end to communal strife that flared last December and brought U.N. troops to the island.

280 Attending High School Journalism Workshop

More than 280 students are taking part in the 12th annual Iowa High School Journalism Workshop, a new high for the five-day training program which began Monday on campus.

L. Erwin Atwood, head of high school relations at the School of Journalism, said seven high school journalism advisers have also registered for the program.

The workshop offers instruction in six major divisions: printed and offset papers; mimeographed papers; school pages in local papers; high school yearbooks; advanced newspaper; and depth reporting. All divisions are designed to help prepare high school newspaper and yearbook editors for their duties during the next school year. The advanced division is tailored to the needs of students who have had prior publications experience or a course in journalism.

Students attending the sessions receive instruction from experts in their fields. Division leaders for the 1964 workshop are Kenneth Stratton, East High School, Des Moines, printed and offset papers; Mrs. Helen Stephens, Linn-Mar School, Marion, mimeographed papers; Leonard Rossman, Perry High School, Perry, school pages in local papers; Prof. Wilbur Peterson, Iowa School of Journalism, high school yearbooks; Donald F. Haley, Roosevelt High School, Des Moines, advanced newspaper; and F. Neil Puhl, Mason City Senior High School, Mason City, depth reporting. Rod Vahl, Davenport West, is also a faculty member in the yearbook area.

In addition, Donald K. Woolley, instructor in journalism, will discuss work in photography and James K. Buckalew, also an instructor in journalism, will lead work in broadcasting news.

The journalism advisers will earn one semester hour of credit through enrolling in a special program.

Students live in university dormitories and eat in university dining rooms during their week on campus. Total cost for the week is $43. This fee includes all expenses except travel and from the workshop, and incidental expenses.

Daily and weekly newspapers in Iowa have provided about half of the workshop students with full scholarships in recent years.

Early Detection, Treatment Best Cancer Control Method

The lives of some 1,500 more Iowans could be saved each year through the early detection and treatment of cancer, the president of the American Cancer Society (ACS) said here Sunday.

Dr. Wendell G. Scott, professor of clinical radiology at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., said 9,000 Iowans will be under treatment for some form of cancer this year.

He spoke to 425 volunteer workers of the Iowa Division of American Cancer Society who attended a Cancer Research Day Sunday at the SUI Medical Center.

"In Iowa there are 1,300 cases of colon and rectum cancer which could be cured in 75 to 80 per cent of all cases if adults had a yearly physical examination that included a proctoscopic examination," Dr. Scott said.

"About 1,000 Iowa women have breast cancer. The best way to control this cancer is to find it early — women can do this by examining themselves — and treat it immediately.

"An estimated 500 cases of cancer of the uterus will be diagnosed in Iowa this year. Since the Papanicolaou test is a reliable, inexpensive and painless procedure that can detect cancer when it is invisible to the eye, there is no reason why all these cases should not be picked up in the pre-invasive stage when it is curable in nearly 100 per cent of the cases.

"There is no longer any need for women to die of uterine cancer in Iowa or elsewhere. They can protect themselves by getting the Papanicolaou test," he said.

About 700 Iowans have lung cancer, Dr. Scott said, noting that 75 to 80 per cent of such cases are caused by inhaling cigarette smoke.

lion, that ACS has profitably invested more than $500,000 in research in Iowa, and that the Iowa Division of ACS has supplemented this by a number of grants over the years.

Presiding at the afternoon session of the Cancer Research Day Program was Dr. L. J. O'Brien, Fort Dodge, chairman of the board of directors of the Iowa Division of ACS. The cancer volunteers were welcomed by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher and Dr. Robert C. Hardin, dean of the College of Medicine.

Professor Titus C. Evans, head of the SUI Radiation Research Laboratories, and chairman of the Iowa Divisions Research Committee, gave a report on cancer research now being done at SUI. Daniel R. Kramer, Clinton, chairman of the 1964 Iowa Cancer Crusade, reported on this year's fund-raising effort in Iowa.

'Desert Rats' Off For Tahiti — By Sail

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — Grandpa Cliff Stretch and his "pack of desert rats" are well over the horizon today, bound for Tahiti — 3,500 miles away.

It was precisely high noon Sunday when the wind puffed the 31-foot ketch "Sea Call" away from its slip in Los Angeles Harbor.

For Stretch, 54, and his wife, Dan, their daughter Pat, son-in-law Jim Roy and the Roys' three children, Traci, 8, Dani, 10, and Rusty, 10, it was the first ocean voyage.

Friends drank a champagne toast to the crew. Traci clanged the ship's bell and ordered the first watch set.

"This pack of desert rats is under way at last," Stretch said responding to the toast. He is a retired Albuquerque, N.M., real estate man.

500,000 Swarm Area—

Nehru's Last Rites Lose Dignity to Mob

ALLAHABAD, India (AP) — Jawaharlal Nehru's ashes were consigned to India's holy rivers in a mob scene Monday that smothered much of the dignity of the last rites for the nation's first prime minister.

About 500,000 mourners gathered on the banks and thousands plunged into the muddy Ganges for a closer view of the ceremony. At least one woman drowned.

The mourners swarmed over a special platform, built for the ceremony of casting the ashes into the water. The platform sank.

Swimmers tried to climb into boats carrying parties of officials, threatening to swamp them. Police drove off the would-be boarders.

Adding to the confusion, large numbers of huge turtles suddenly appeared among the swimmers.

Other boats loaded with spectators clogged the river while police in boats used clubs to drive the wading, swimming thousands back to the bank. Mourners for centuries have made it a custom to wade into the Ganges.

With the ceremonial platform sunk and with no ordinary boat safe, the Nehru family carrying the urn of ashes had to use an army amphibious vehicle.

"Father is gone," Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, was heard to say as she sobbed aboard the vehicle.

When the amphibious vehicle reached the point where the Ganges and the Jumna rivers meet, Mrs. Gandhi's sons Rajiv and Sanjay emptied the urn with some of Nehru's ashes into the waters.

Other portions of Nehru's ashes were strewn in rivers and over fields and mountains in other parts of this vast land that Nehru had ruled since independence in 1947.

Nehru's will directed that his ashes be immersed in the rivers of Allahabad, the city of his birth. Hindu priests chose for the Allahabad ceremony the ashes of his head and chest, to signify mind and heart.

Nehru died May 27. When his body was cremated the next day, two persons were killed in the stampede at the ceremony.

Engle Edits New Creative Writing Text

The program in creative writing at the State University of Iowa provides the background for a newly published book of practical advice to help the beginning writer learn the demands of his craft and develop his talent.

The book, "On Creative Writing," published this week by E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., is edited by poet-teacher Paul Engle, head of the SUI writing program. All but two of the contributors are present or former members of the SUI Writers Workshop teaching staff.

Among the SUIowans represented in the collection are Engle, with a section on "The Writer on Writing"; R. V. Cassill, "Form and Expression in the Short Story"; Brock Brower, "The Article"; Donald Justice, "On The Writing of Poetry"; and George P. Elliot, "The Novelist as Meddler." Other chapters are "Writing the Commercial Short Story," by Jean Todd Freeman, and "On Writing a Play," by Lionel Abel.

The publishers state that many of the principles used in the SUI writing program are incorporated in the book. The program is described as "the most highly respected writing center in the United States."

Engle, a native of Cedar Rapids, has been on the faculty at SUI since 1937, and has directed the program in creative writing since 1942. He is a graduate of SUI and also attended Columbia University and Oxford University, England, where he was a Rhodes Scholar.

He is the author of numerous volumes of poetry, a novel, and other works of fiction and non-fiction. Together with Donald Justice and Henri Coulette, he edited the Random House anthology, "Midland," a collection of prose and poetry written by Iowa workshop students during the past 25 years.

TEACHING CAMPAIGNS—PARIS (AP) — Preliminary planning has begun in the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization on a program aimed to teach the world's illiterate masses to read and write. The first step would involve spending $33 million in three-year literacy campaigns.

Diary May Give Reason For Suicide

NEW YORK (AP) — In the last four pages of her diary, a passage intended for an unfinished third novel, police discovered what they believe to be Pamela Moore's farewell to the world.

The author of "Chocolates for Breakfast" and "The Horsey Set" died Sunday at the age of 26 from a bullet wound in her mouth. A .22 caliber rifle was found beside her body.

Her husband, Adam Kanarek, 30, a lawyer, found the body when he returned to their six-room Brooklyn apartment.

Their 9-month-old son, Kevin, lay asleep in another room. Police withheld the diary from reporters, but a detective said, "If you put it all together, the last four pages, under the date June 7, indicated that she was having trouble with her writing and that she intended to destroy herself."

Miss Moore was only 18 and a student at Barnard College when her first novel, "Chocolates for Breakfast," was published. It was a sexy best seller which was printed in 11 languages and sold over one million copies.

Miss Moore became a celebrity and followed "Chocolates" with the equally sensual "The Horsey Set."

Hartman Given Research Study Advisory Role

Gerhard Hartman, superintendent of University Hospitals at SUI has been appointed to serve on an advisory committee for a Veterans Administration architectural research study.

Dr. Hartman, who is professor and head of the graduate program in hospital and health administration, will attend a meeting of committee members in Washington, D.C. Thursday and Friday.

The meeting will focus on the question "How can the hospital be designed to render it a more effective instrument for medical education, and what do you see as the future role of the hospital in medical education?"

Purpose of the project is to offer planning and design guidance in Administration hospitals to make them more effective instruments for medical education.

Materialism, Communism Evil—

Pope Paul VI Warns Against Prizing Wealth Above All

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said Monday there is "something deeply wrong" with the modern industrial system and he appealed to businessmen to strive for more social justice.

In one of the drunest speeches of his year-old reign, the Roman Catholic ruler told Italian industrialists that captains of modern industry must overcome materialistic concepts of early capitalism and work for a "more peaceful, more brotherly society."

HE BLAMED Communists and those who prize wealth above all else for many of the ills of modern society.

Addressing a private audience, Pope Paul warned against attempts to use religion merely as a way to "temper the passionate and easily subversive explosion of the working classes against the capitalist class."

He said religion must show up "the fundamental deficiency of the system that pretends to consider as purely economic and automatically controllable the human relations deriving from the industrial phenomenon."

"Is it not sad about you," he asked his audience, "that you are capitalists and the guilty ones? There must be something deeply wrong, radically insufficient in the system itself, if it originates such social reactions."

THE POPE spoke in general terms. But he was believed to have the Italian economic situation particularly in mind. Italy's mounting inflation has touched off a growing series of strikes and demonstrations over the past year. The Pope recently urged workers to

Handicapped Children Need 'Brothers, Sisters'

More than 150 student "big brothers" and "big sisters" who can spend time aiding handicapped children are needed at once at the University Hospitals School for Handicapped Children, according to Miss Marie Tilly, educational psychologist at the hospital.

Students who volunteer should expect to spend at least one hour weekly with a handicapped child, usually on an afternoon or weekend. More than 40 children, ranging in age from six to 16 years, are now enrolled at the school.

Volunteers should telephone Mr. Gene Rostermundt, supervisor of recreation at the school.

Actors Strike Ends After Only 2 Days

NEW YORK (AP) — The Broadway actors strike that closed two matinee performances but threatened 16 other shows ended Monday in time for the evening curtains to go up.

Performers won a $12.50 weekly increase in minimum pay over a four year period. A spokesman for the theater said producers "will hold the line on ticket prices."

Settlement terms were worked out by negotiators at 3 a.m. in a meeting with Mayor Robert F. Wagner, The League of New York Theaters and the 72-member council of the Actors Equity Association announced separate, unanimous-acceptance of the pact.

Thus the strike, called at midnight Saturday, stopped only Sunday matinees of "Oliver!" and "The Deputy."

The new agreement, retroactive for one week, boosts the $17.50 minimum weekly pay for actors immediately to $125, and in steps subsequently to $130 in the fourth year of the contract. Most performers, however, earn considerably more than the minimum. Equity had sought a $132.50 minimum.

Robert Kennedy 'Undecided' Given Honorary Degree

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says he hasn't made up his mind whether he wants the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination.

As for suggestions that he run for senator in New York, Kennedy again said he had made no decision.

At a news conference Sunday, Kennedy denied reports that a survey is being taken to help him determine his chances against Republican Sen. Kenneth Keating of New York.

Signs inscribed "Wisconsin wants Bob Kennedy for Vice President," and "Johnson and Kennedy in 1964" greeted the Attorney General at the airport when he arrived to speak at Marquette University Commencement exercises.

The Milwaukee Arena was jammed to its 12,000-seat capacity when Kennedy was presented with an honorary doctor of laws degree by Marquette.

S. Korean Gov't Moves To Pacify Student Unrest

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park took another step Monday to pacify students threatening the stability of his South Korean regime. He ordered 576 officials, among them a deputy minister, suspended for corruption.

Park's announcement came on the heels of the death of a university freshman injured during demonstrations by students who were demanding Park's resignation on charges of dictatorship and government corruption. The student's death raised the possibility of new demonstrations.

The Government acknowledged that citizens other than students had been arrested since the imposition of martial law to stem rioting in Seoul last Wednesday.

Unofficial reports said 29 newsmen, university professors and other citizens had been arrested on unspecified charges. The brief announcement said arrests were made "to maintain security" against antistate activities.

Ringo o.k.

LONDON (AP) — Ringo Starr, drummer for the Beatles, was reported improved Monday after a bout with tonsillitis. The quartet's manager said he hopes Starr will be well enough to fly to Australia for the Beatles' first concert there Friday.

Quill and Scroll Initiated 28,995 In 1963-64

A record 28,955 students from 3,187 high schools were initiated in 1963-64 into Quill and Scroll, international honorary society for high school journalists headquartered at the SUI School of Journalism.

This number represents an increase of 2,378 students and 170 high schools over the same period in 1962-63, according to Prof. Lester G. Benz, executive secretary of the Society.

NEW LINGUISTICS COURSE — A course entitled 8:89 Proseminar in Language and Linguistics has been created in the English Department for undergraduates. It will be given for the first time in the Fall Term, 1964.

The course, which is open to non-majors, will consist in an intensive introduction to the major fields in linguistic theory and methodology. Extensive reading and reporting will be required.
