In 71-29 Vote Senate Passes Cloture Move

Ailing After 2 Brain
Operations, Sen. Engle
Votes In Wheel Chair

WASHINGTON (AP) — With four votes to spare, the Senate called a halt Wednesday to the 75-day-old civil rights filibuster by limiting each senator to one hour more of talk.

All 100 senators were present for the 71-29 vote invoking cloture on civil rights debate for the first time in senate history. Sen. Clair Engle, (D-Calif.), ailing after two brain operations, came by ambulance and wheel chair to cast an aye vote and help provide the necessary two-thirds majority.

The roll call was tolled off to a packed, hushed chamber. The talk-halting move was backed by 44 Democrats and 27 Republicans. Opposed were 23 Democrats and 6 Republicans — including Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the front-runner for the Republican Presidential nomination.

The Senate then turned to vote on a stack of about 500 amendments that have been offered over the weeks of debate.

After acting on only two of them it agreed to recess from 12:15 p.m. until 3 p.m. to get the parliamentary tangle clarified.

"We need some time to re-group, rethink and re-collect," Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, (D-Mont.), explained with a smile in obtaining unanimous consent for the respite.

The Senate went back to work in the afternoon but acted on only one amendment before recessing overnight at 5:15 EDT. Rejected 69-25 was an effort to strike out one section of the bill — Title VI — which authorizes a cut-off of Federal funds in areas where there is racial or other discrimination.

Senator Bourke Hickenlooper and Jack Miller, Iowa Republicans, voted with the majority Tuesday when the Senate defeated 69-25 an amendment by Sen. Gore, (D-Tenn.), to remove from the civil rights bill a section denying Federal aid funds where discrimination is found to be practiced.

Expectations in the Senate were that the momentous bill would come up for final passage next week, possibly even this week. The time will depend on how many amendments are brought to a vote.

Since many are duplicates or are of little substance the total actually called up may be less than one-third of those offered. Few are expected to be adopted.

But no matter how many votes are taken no senator may talk more than one hour from the time of cloture until the final vote on passage.

Clerks with stop-watches and tally sheets alertly charge off the seconds and minutes as senators speak — miserly with words, compared to the free-wheeling talk since the debate began March 9. Mansfield kept reminding them "Your time! Your time!"

On the first amendment vote, Sen. Samuel J. Ervin Jr., (D-N.C.), used only three minutes of his hour to bring up his proposal to bar a person from being tried twice where the same act constitutes both a crime and criminal contempt. With much vote switching it was finally adopted 49 to 48.

President Johnson, who has repeatedly called for passage of the bill, was delivering a commencement speech at Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., when the cloture vote came.

He departed from his prepared speech to announce: "We are going ahead to end poverty and racial injustice and we are going ahead on civil rights. They voted cloture in the Senate today by a vote of 71 to 29."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, (D-Ga.), leader of the Southern bloc fighting the bill, told the Senate "You are nibbling away at the very cornerstone of the American system, invading a man's private property and taking away his total dominion over it."

Barry Explains His Vote—

Vote Against Cloture,
Not Against Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said his vote Wednesday against shutting off debate on the civil rights bill is in no way related to the basic civil rights issue.

"I have never voted for cloture on anything," he said in a televised interview.

Goldwater, the front-runner for the Republican Presidential nomination, said he does not know if he will vote for the bill but declared, "I hope I can." His indication was that it will depend on its final form. He had called for some changes.

In reply to another question, Goldwater said he believes the civil rights plank adopted at the Republican National Convention next month "will pretty much follow what's enacted in Congress."

He said he is sure the civil rights bill will be passed and guessed this would be within the next 10 days or two weeks.

Goldwater said that no matter who the GOP Presidential candidate is, "the Negro is not going to vote overwhelmingly for him." He said the Republicans have been wrong in not bringing Negroes into

Three Suspended, 44 Fined at ISU For Panty Raid

AMES (AP) — Three students have been suspended and 44 others assessed $25 each in damages as a result of a panty raid at Iowa State University last May 18.

Seven other students have been reprimanded, James L. Warner, assistant director of information services for the university, said Wednesday.

An estimated 1,000 students took part in the demonstration which later was described by school officials as a panty raid. Doors and windows on several sorority houses were damaged and one house mother suffered minor injuries.

Warner said the action was taken by the university earlier this month. The suspensions mean that the three students cannot return to school next fall.

The suspensions ranged in length from "indefinite down to one-quarter," Warner said.

The 44 students who were assessed to pay for damages also were put on conduct probation, which means that further violations of the student conduct code could result in suspension.

The seven who were reprimanded were not assessed for damages. Apparently their violations were not considered as flagrant as those of the other students. They were merely warned that their conduct did not meet university standards, Warner said.

Names of the students were not released.

House Passes Johnson's Aid Bill Unscathed

230-175 Rollcall Vote
Sends $3.5 Billion Bill
To Senate for Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Wednesday Johnson virtually every penny of his $3.5-billion "barebones" foreign aid authorization request Wednesday night.

It was the kind of support no other President has ever received in the 17-year history of the controversial program.

The rollcall vote on final passage was 230-175.

A final Republican attempt to cut $222 million from the economic portion of the bill, led by Rep. E. Ross Adair, (R-Ind.), was defeated by a 211-193 rollcall vote, leaving the military aid intact.

But unlike last year, when he was able to knock off almost $600

Iowa Congressmen Split on Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iowa's congressional delegation split Wednesday on House passage of $3.5 billion foreign aid authorization bill with only one of the six Republicans supporting it.

Rep. Fred Schwengel, Davenport Republican, and Iowa Democrat Neal Smith both voted for passage. Voting against the bill were Iowa Republicans James Bromwell, H. R. Gross, Charles B. Hoeven, Ben Jensen and John Kyl.

million, Adair's motion failed. The difference was that Johnson presented a stripped-down request to start, $1 billion less than President John F. Kennedy asked last year.

THE TWO-DAY debate sparked a few sharp exchanges, mostly on the part of members who reacted to what they regarded as overly sharp tongues.

The House debated an amendment to ban all aid to Egypt, except for schools and hospitals, unless the President determines that Egypt is not preparing for aggressive military action against Israel or any other eastern Mediterranean country.

The President's full request for funds, including an extra $125 million to step up the war in South Viet Nam, was virtually untouched during the amendment process.

The bill now goes to the Senate, where it is likely to get similar support.

But still to come is the appropriation bill for the actual financing of the program. Wednesday's authorization bill only sets the ceiling figure. Traditionally, the program has fared worse at the hands of the appropriation committees.

THESE were the significant amendments adopted: —Earmarking $200 million for supporting assistance to South Viet Nam because of the war situation, but allowing the President to determine otherwise in some unforeseen emergency.

—Earmarking another $200 million for military assistance for South Viet Nam, again with the Presidential waiver clause.

—Forbidding aid for any productive enterprise unless similar U.S. enterprises are operating at near capacity, and providing it does not cut into the U.S. share of the world market.

Johnson congratulated the House for what he termed its "wise and prudent action" in passing the bill by a margin of more than 50 votes.

On the final roll call 56 Republicans joined 174 Democrats in voting for passage of the bill. Against it were 115 Republicans and 60 Democrats.

Johnson presented a stripped-down request, $1 billion less than President John F. Kennedy asked last year.

Smoking Reform To Be Gradual

NEW YORK (AP) — Surgeon General Luther Terry said Wednesday there no longer was any question that cigarette smoking produces lung cancer and other diseases, but he predicted it will take at least 10 years to break Americans of the habit.

Terry, who issued a report last January warning of what he called the dangers of cigaret smoking, spoke at a national conference on the problem as it concerns youth.

The two-day conference was called by the American Cancer Society.

Terry expressed hope that voluntary agencies would be able soon to organize a full-scale attack on smoking, particularly by teenagers.

He said "a quick campaign will not do the job. To change a nation's smoking habits we must think in terms of a program of 10 years plus."

Laos Flights Discontinued For Present

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. sources said Wednesday night that no American flights are now being conducted over Laos, but did not rule out resumption of flights later.

The outcome of a meeting between Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma and the American ambassador at Vientiane, Leonard Unger, scheduled for Thursday will have a bearing on the future of the American reconnaissance missions, the sources stated.

U.S. Navy jets from the carrier Kitty Hawk began picture-taking trips over central Laos at Souvanna Phouma's request May 21 after the Communist Pathet Lao supported by North Vietnamese seized the important Plain des Jarres.

INFORMANTS said considerable photographic information has now been gathered and no flights were made Wednesday.

Vientiane sources were quoted as saying that Souvanna Phouma had asked that the flights be halted Wednesday. The premier also reportedly indicated he had not okayed the use of armed escorts.

Earlier a State Department spokesman defended the U.S. flights but declined to say whether Souvanna Phouma had agreed to them.

Administration reticence here tended to confirm Vientiane reports that the United States has run into trouble with Souvanna Phouma over the flights and is working backstage to avoid a split with the neutralist premier.

If the flights, begun May 21, are stopped now Washington does not want it to appear that this is knuckling under to the Communists. A principal aim of the U.S. reconnaissance missions has been to demonstrate U.S. determination to resist Red aggression.

UNDER PRESIDENT Johnson's orders, tight security wraps remained around what State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips termed operational matters concerning the U.S. flights.

Two U.S. carrier-based Navy jets have been shot down by Communist ground fire in Laos so far — one a reconnaissance plane, one a fighter. One of the pilots is missing and believed in Red hands.

Phillips declined comment on Red Chinese charges that the American planes had bombed and rocketed Red positions. Nor would he confirm that Souvanna Phouma had asked for an end to the flights, as reported unofficially from Vientiane on Wednesday.

The spokesman said the photo-reconnaissance planes would continue to fly over Laos "as necessary." He refused to repeat what he said two days ago — that the armed escorts for the flights "are approved by the Lao government."

The armed escort flights began Sunday after the reconnaissance plane was shot down.

U.S. Denies Cuba Charge Of Shootings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon denied Wednesday a Havana charge that U.S. sentries at the American naval base in Guantanamo Bay shot and wounded a Cuban. It suggested the shots may have been fired by Communist troops hunting down anti-Castro persons.

The Armed Forces Ministry in Havana said that a Cuban was wounded Tuesday night by fire from American sentries guarding the Guantanamo base.

A statement by the Pentagon said of the Havana claim:

"We have thoroughly checked the report with the commander of the base and find that it is totally without basis in fact."

"Cuban military forces have been maneuvering in the area around the base over the past two days, perhaps in an effort to apprehend anti-regime elements."

"It is possible that a Cuban soldier was shot as a result of this action and that the Castro regime is attempting to lay blame on U.S. sentries within the base."

In Havana, a Government source charged that while this was the first time a Cuban had been wounded, "our men have been fired on before." There was no indication in a communique when the alleged earlier firing occurred.

The Havana newspaper Diario de la Tarde said seven rifle shots were fired from the Guantanamo guard post and that the shooting occurred a mile south of the east main entrance and a bronze medal from the President.

Fire on 'Mystery' Freighter Forces 30 To Abandon Ship

HONOLULU (AP) — An engine-room fire aboard the mystery freighter Pomona—which lost its captain last month in an ax murder—was brought under control late Wednesday, the Coast Guard said.

The blaze was contained several hours after it had forced all but three of the ship's 33 crewmen to abandon her 100 miles southwest of Honolulu.

A Coast Guard spokesman said radioed that the fire was under control, that all personnel were accounted for and that the Pomona was in no further apparent danger.

The Rio Hanoa earlier had rescued five of the crewmen and radioed that there were no injuries aboard the freighter, bound for Formosa with 9,500 tons of scrap metal.

THERE was no immediate word on whether crewmen who had left the ship would return to help extinguish the fire.

The Rio Hanoa was standing by, the Coast Guard said, until tugs could arrive from Honolulu and take the Pomona in tow.

The Pomona had left Honolulu harbor just 15 hours before the fire. The ship had docked in Honolulu for 23 days, diverting here after the ship's captain was discovered axed to death.

First word of the ship's plight came at 4:15 p.m. Central Daylight

Ball Delivers Johnson Note To Turkey

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball delivered Wednesday night a message from President Johnson to Greek Premier George Papandreu dealing with the deepening crisis between Greece and Turkey over Cyprus.

Ball met for 90 minutes with the premier.

Contents of the message were not disclosed. Informed sources said earlier Ball was carrying word to both Athens and Ankara that the United States was prepared to take sharp measures to prevent the Cyprus conflict from sparking a Greek-Turkish war that would have disastrous consequences for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The informants did not specify the nature of the possible measures. Johnson ordered Ball to make a hurried trip to the capitals of the two eastern Mediterranean NATO partners in an effort to ease tensions and war scares straining relations between them.

He sped to Athens by military jet from the world trade conference in Geneva.

"You are not here today because you are typical — nor because you are representative of your generation or your graduation class," Johnson said.

"You are here because of what you have accomplished — in your own right — and what you have the capacity to accomplish in the future — in your own right."

"You have the potential to excel even more in the citizenship of your country of 1974 or 1984 or 1994."

marchers and at least one policeman were struck. Police officials fired tear gas into the ugly mob in an effort to disperse them from the park.

A white man burst through the police lines and began beating a white marcher. Policemen clubbed the attacker and hurried him away.

MOMENTARILY, the white marcher, a youth, was surrounded by some of the mob. One of them knocked the youth down, kicked him and slugged him before policemen charged in and the assailant retreated over a hedge into the park.

The outbreak followed on the heels of a similar demonstration Tuesday night by nearly 300 marchers, mostly Negroes. White gangs beat about a dozen of the marchers in that demonstration.

Integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., vowing a massive assault against segregation here, said a few hours before the march that he was asking President Johnson by telegram to send in Federal marshals to help keep order. Police officials had responded with a promise that demonstrators would be protected.

STATE TROOPERS, city and county police, conservation officers and special reserve policemen had formed an escort line all along the march downtown.

One of the Negro parade march monitors said that nine or 10 demonstrators required medical treatment.

"In a real sense this is the beginning of a massive assault on segregation," King said.

"There will be no stopping point short of a good faith promise on the part of city officials to meet our demands."

King said his nonviolent army was being mobilized and bus-loads of supporters would be coming in from Savannah, Ga., Birmingham, Ala., and Wilmington, N.C. He said a march of religious leaders from throughout the nation was planned for next week.

A message from Sheriff L. O. Davis was delivered to one of King's associates, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, during the news conference.

Abernathy said Davis asked for advance notice of demonstrations in order to provide police protection. The Negro leader said they would notify police officials of the time of marches.

Alabamians Defy Arrest, Jail Threats

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Negroes vowing no return to "the shackles of discrimination," made plans late Wednesday for renewed demonstrations despite a warning from police that they will be arrested.

The Rev. James Bevil, an associate of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., told a cheering mass meeting in a Negro church that "We're going to have to meet here again in the morning and we're going to have to do business. Bring your toothbrush and your toothpaste and a small towel."

Another Negro leader, the Rev. T. Y. Rogers, told the swelling crowd which jammed the Bailey's Tabernacle Colored Methodist Episcopal church that, "We intend to march until the jail is full and when we go in again we're not coming out."

Rogers, executive secretary of the prointegration Tuscaloosa Citizens for Action Committee, had been released from a jail cell himself only a few hours earlier.

He was one of 96 Negroes arrested Tuesday in a bloody clash with police outside his church, the First African Baptist.

Police Chief William Marable told Rogers shortly before the mass meeting began that the Negroes will be arrested if they try to resume the protest marches.

Negroes singing freedom songs and cheering wildly as their leaders spoke promised nevertheless to try the demonstrations again Thursday.

Waterloo Boy, 16, Pleads Guilty To Manslaughter

WATERLOO (AP) — David Richard Bruno, 16, of Waterloo Wednesday in a surprise move pleaded guilty of manslaughter during his trial on an open charge of murder.

Bruno had been charged in the May 2 stabbing of his stepfather, Bernard David Hill, 38, in the family home here.

The youth had pleaded innocent. His attorneys conferred with Asst. County Attorney John Beekman and District Judge Peter Van Metre during the noon recess when the second witness was on the stand.

Bruno's plea of guilty in the lesser charge was accepted, and Judge Van Metre said the youth would be sentenced Friday.

Officers said Hill had been stabbed with a kitchen knife during an argument with the youth.

Bobby Kennedy seeking 'open' convention

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT
Political intimates of Attorney General Robert Kennedy are passing the word that he wants the national convention to be "wide open" on the selection of vice president — for the express purpose of attempting to stampede that nomination for himself.

ALLEN

campaign by the attorney general — his one-time boss who prevailed on Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy to set aside her deep mourning long enough to endorse the one-time White House press secretary.

A key factor in the Attorney General's sub-rosa strategy is that around 50 per cent of the delegates to the August convention in Atlantic City were supporters of his late brother in Los Angeles in 1960.

Also a high percentage of state chairmen and national committeemen are Kennedy partisans and won office because of that.

There is also inside word that the Kennedy strategy includes maneuvering Senator "Ted" Kennedy into the spotlight role of keynoter of the national convention. It's been pointed out as very significant that in recent weeks the 32-year-old Bostonian has been making numerous speeches throughout the country.

SPILLING THE BEANS — New Jersey's former Governor Robert Meyner, a last-ditch hold-out against the late President in the 1960 convention, has given the White House a fill-in on ex-Mayor Kennedy's undercover efforts to line up delegates for a "wide open" convention to put over "Bobby" Kennedy for vice president.

Meyner is strongly opposed to that. He is working closely with President Johnson to ensure his firm control of the convention.

Reports of brother-in-law Stephen Smith's activities to line up delegates have reached the White House from New York, Ohio and Michigan. According to these accounts, Smith had much to do with the recent ringing declaration of Peter Crotty, upstate New York Democratic leader, urging "Bobby" as running mate.

In California, "Big Boss" Unruh and Salinger are said to be similarly busy.

A particularly revealing tip-off of this backstage plan came from Maryland Senate nominee Tydings — who was appointed U.S. attorney by the Kennedys expressly to build him up to seek the seat of Republican Senator J. Glenn Beall. During Tydings' stormy contest with the regular organization's candidate, he was importantly helped by "Ted" Kennedy.

Discussing the national convention with Senator Daniel Brewster, D-Md., a strong Johnson supporter, Tydings bluntly demanded control of the state's delegation. In effect, he asked for 51 per cent of the 49 delegates.

"It's only fair I be permitted to name a majority of the delegates," argued Tydings. "My smashing victory at the polls was more than a personal triumph. It was a resounding victory for new leadership in the party, for youth and for the principles and ideals the Kennedys represent."

"Are you saying that 25 of the 48 delegates should be selected by you?" asked Brewster, who nominally is Maryland's "favorite son" candidate. "If that's what you are after, it's ridiculous. It's traditional that state officials and members of Congress be on the delegation. That adds up to 24 delegates alone."

"I'm not objecting to that," said Tydings. "What I want is the right to name 25 of the delegates. I want control of the delegation so Maryland will be ready to support Attorney General Kennedy for vice president in an open convention."

"That's silly," snapped Brewster. "You really don't believe President Johnson is going to throw the choice of his running mate wide open, do you?"

"I'm merely saying," replied Tydings, "that Maryland must be ready for an open race for vice president, and I want control of the delegation. If I can't get that in an understanding with you, we will openly fight for it at the state convention on June 15."

"That's your privilege," retorted Brewster. "I will make no such deal, and that's final."

As precedent for a wide open convention, Kennedites are citing 1956 when Adlai Stevenson, after winning the nomination, left it up to the convention to designate his running mate. The late Senator Estes Kefauver, Tenn., won in a neck-and-neck tussle with then-Senator John Kennedy, Mass.

Kennedy insiders are referring to the possibility of the attorney general's running for senator in New York as an "outside option." They don't appear to be very serious about this likelihood.

If, at first, you don't annex—try, try again

THE IOWA CITY COUNCIL believes in the adage "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The original annexation proposal was trimmed from 12.5 square miles to a little under 10 square miles before the June 1 election. The voters defeated the plan, 2,245 to 1,446. Supposedly, the people had spoken.

But the Council decided to try again: the annexation proposal was reduced to approximately six square miles. The Council voted 3-0 to hold a public hearing July 7 on this new proposal.

During discussion of the new proposal, City Manager Garsten Leikvold said the last annexation should be given one more chance. If it is rejected again, the people have spoken.

This, of course, is one of the wonders of democracy — the people have the chance to speak, again and again. But there seems to be some difficulty in determining when the people have spoken.

'After you, Alphonse'— 'No, you first, Gaston'

THE BEHAVIOR OF THE "ELIGIBLE" Republicans resembles the antics of the classic baseball pair, Alphonse and Gaston.

Alphonse and Gaston were terribly polite. When a fly ball was hit their way, they went into their routine: "After you, my dear Alphonse."

"No, after you, Gaston."

"I really couldn't— after you."

Meanwhile the ball had dropped and the opposition was rounding third.

Sad saga of Arizona Kid

BY ART BUCHWALD
We've decided to remake the very successful movie, "High Noon." In order to bring it up to date, we're going to have to change the story around a bit. In our film they're having an election for sheriff in the town of Little Elephant Horn. Much to everyone's surprise the Arizona Kid announces he's going to run for the office. The Arizona Kid is noted for being quick on the draw and shooting first and asking questions afterwards. The respectable citizens in the town are horrified at the thought of his being sheriff.

BUCHWALD

As our story opens, several of the Arizona Kid's henchmen are waiting at the railroad station for him to arrive on the noon train.

It's 10:45 a.m. on the station clock. A small group of responsible citizens go over to visit the Old Sheriff at his farm to persuade him to come out against the Arizona Kid.

The Old Sheriff shakes his head. "Boys, I'd like to help you, but I'm getting on in years, and I don't feel it's my place to interfere. I don't like the Arizona Kid any more than you do, but I'm not going to get messed up in town politics."

"But everyone respects you," the citizens plead. "If you say the Kid's irresponsible, a lot of folks are going to listen."

"Boys, you know I don't like to deal in personalities. I got my farm and my cattle and I've been through the war. I just want to settle down and be left alone."

The clock at the railroad station shows 11 o'clock and Arizona Kid's henchmen are whooping it up.

The citizens decide to ride over and see Pennsylvania Bill and ask him if he'll run against the Arizona Kid. I may not agree with him, but I'm not going to mess with him."

Except for scrubbing swimming pools, summer job prospects look bleak

(From The Wall Street Journal)
They may need a coed to perfume the tigers in Milwaukee again this summer. And several swimming pool owners in the San Fernando Valley are looking for students to keep the pools scrubbed.

But elsewhere around the country the summer-job picture for students is the bleakest in years. This is the eeriest unanimous finding of Wall Street Journal reporters who talked with scores of employers, employment agencies and school officials from coast to coast.

The tightness in the summer-job market generally is ascribed to three factors: increasing automation, the trend toward more summer closings of plants and the rising number of high school and college students looking for jobs.

"Some employers have frankly told us they're hiring fewer kids because of automation," says a spokesman for the Ohio State Employment Service. Lois Gallagher, owner of San Francisco's Gallagher Personnel Agency, adds, "With so much automation there just aren't the lower-level clerical jobs such as filing and light typing."

In Massachusetts an official says many students used to get summer jobs on road-building crews "but there's little pick-and-shovel work these days — almost everything is done by clam-digger or other machines."

What jobs that are available are being sought by a growing number of students. There are are filled by the executives' children."

There are, however, some jobs not easy to fill. A Pittsburgh funeral home wants a college student to "live in" and help with funeral preparations. Many California home owners are seeking swimming-pool scrubbers and "pool sitters" — students to babysit at poolside. Pool and campaign workers "are needed in some states."

The New York World's Fair expects "tens of thousands" of applications for the 1,000 jobs available to students, a spokesman says. "Chances for high school students are almost nil as most employers at the Fair won't accept employees under the age of 18," he adds. He says the students want to work at the Fair because "it's an interesting job and it has status."

"The summer job problem gets worse each year," says an official of the New York State Employment Service. An estimated 10 per cent to 15 per cent more New York City high school and college students are searching for positions this year than last he says.

Unemployment in some industries is also hurting the summer-job seeker. As of April, San Francisco had 65,600 unemployed workers, most laid off by technical companies because of defense-spending cutbacks, a California agency says.

As a result, the area's aerospace concerns are hiring almost no summer help this year, eliminating about 2,000 jobs usually available, the agency says.

Conversely, good business in the steel and auto industries is providing an expanded number of summer jobs in the Pittsburgh and Detroit areas. U.S. Steel Corp. is doubling its hiring of student engineers to about 70 this year, which a spokesman credits to "a better tone of business."

The students fill in for vacationing engineers.

Students that get jobs also often obtain them through a family connection, employers say. "I'll bet a thousand friends have called me for jobs for their boys," says an official of Kroger Co., the supermarket chain. A Massachusetts agency says most summer jobs are filled by the son or daughter of an executive in the company. A Dallas agency agrees: "What good jobs there

Students predict Nixon, prefer Rocky or Barry

There seems to be some difference between prediction and preference for Presidential nominees, according to the leaders of campus political organizations.

Moderator magazine polled 89 such leaders across the country. Of the leaders, one in five is a "conservative," two in five are "liberals" and the rest are moderates or independents. Nearly half were Republicans and a third were Democrats.

The questions asked were: Who do you think will be the Republican nominee? Who do you prefer to see as the Republican nominee? Who do you think will be elected President? Who do you prefer to see as the next President?

Richard Nixon was expected to be the Republican nominee by a third of the students; Goldwater, Rockefeller and Scranton ran neck and neck, each with about half as many votes as Nixon.

But Nixon was not the preferred nominee. Rockefeller and Goldwater were clearly the students' preferences, each polling about a fourth of the bi-partisan votes.

Rockefeller received most of his support from the Democrats and the unaffiliated, whereas Goldwater drew two-thirds of his from conservative Republicans.

In preference votes for the November election, Goldwater drew a plurality of the votes, but the combined votes of the other candidates (Rockefeller, Nixon, Scranton and Lodge) place Goldwater far behind.

Support of Johnson was noticeable by its absence: he received barely half of the votes, despite the fact that the Democrats and the unaffiliated outnumbered the Republicans in the sample.

Also, more Democrats and independents opted for a Republican candidate than Republicans did for LBJ.

But prediction differs from the preference for the election also. Only a smattering of die-hard Goldwater fans prevented LBJ from taking a unanimous decision in the predictions of the students. Practically no one doubted his re-election.

In the poll, the students also listed their evaluations of the candidates' assets and liabilities:

JOHNSON: assets — JFK continuation . . . liabilities — Who wants to remember the Alamo in Harlem? . . . too dependable.

ROCKEFELLER: assets — H'ya fella . . . liabilities — Father of the Year . . . few real stands on nuttin' . . . too charming . . . throws a little mud, but his backyard is already knee-deep.

NIXON: assets — Well-known in a crisis context . . . time-tested technique of appeal as "next-door neighbor" . . . he can lose California without shame as it's no longer his home state . . . probably could bang a conference table with a shoe as well as Khrushchev . . . liabilities — a follower . . . he even lives in the same house with Rocky . . . sometimes suffers from "hoof in mouth disease" . . . neither very good-looking enough, nor sexy enough, nor old enough to convey a father image.

GOLDWATER: assets — a very good-looking jet pilot . . . a uniform record . . . would help raise the number of "tourists" going from America to Europe . . . Goldwater is not stupid . . . will carry the votes of the semi-educated . . . liabilities — would probably involve us in a nuclear exchange within 60 days of inauguration . . . makes statements before placing mind in motion.

LODGE: assets — General Sarnoff likes him . . . liabilities — if his biggest boost was the Nhu deal, his biggest liability is the New Frontier — he doesn't fit . . .

SCRANTON: assets — Henry Luce likes him . . . a fair approximation of the JFK mystique . . . family, if developed properly, can help . . . liabilities — goeey . . .

SMITH, M. C.: assets — blueberry muffins . . . rose . . . she might bring a woman's outlook to the nation's policy . . . liabilities — who could ever get used to saying "the First Man?"

STASSEN: assets — an awfully long political record . . . probably would never stop trying to do a Good Job as President . . . a well-traveled man . . . a good candidate for any old election, give or take twenty years . . . a sense of humor — he has to have one to be running . . . liabilities — no coherent thought on anything . . . the kiss of death . . . for Stassen to be chosen the balloting would have to go on all summer . . . lacks . . . as for Stassen, I don't think she is well-known enough.

Nuclear Fuel To Produce Electricity

WASHINGTON — An apparent trend toward using nuclear fires to generate home and industrial electricity has developed — at least four years ahead of earliest expectations.

That indication from the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) on Wednesday stands behind President Johnson's announcement of a breakthrough in the use of nuclear reactors for commercial power.

Some U.S. firms are deciding now to build big nuclear power plants — even in the face of lowering costs of fossil fuels such as coal, the major fuel of conventional power production.

Behind their decisions are economic advantages in nuclear power from the growing experience with present reactors, the AEC noted. Also nuclear fuel costs are down because of better use of fuels, and progress in engineering design.

Two years ago, the AEC reported that by 1968 U.S. firms might begin to build big nuclear reactors on the judgment that by then nuclear power would be economically competitive with fossil power.

In the same report, the AEC predicted it would be the end of the century before half of U.S. power would be nuclear-generated, and before U.S. firms began turning totally to nuclear power plant building.

Now, apparently, both goals have been accelerated. (See related story page 4, L.B.J.)

JFK Wanted Me As His Successor Says Johnson

New York — President Johnson was quoted Wednesday as saying he has wondered whether the late President John F. Kennedy had a premonition he might die in office.

The Reporter magazine quoted the President in an article declaring that Kennedy alone decided to ask Johnson to be his running mate on the Democratic ticket in 1960.

The article, by Philip Potter, who is Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, took issue with rumors that the proposal for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket originated in the Johnson camp and that Kennedy's brother, Robert, opposed the choice of Johnson.

Potter quoted President Johnson as telling him in an interview concerning the late President Kennedy: "He said the day after his nomination he hoped I could run with him, that he had said many times that he thought I was the best qualified for the Presidency by experience, but that I should be the one who would succeed if anything happened to him."

The article said Johnson remarked "that many times since Nov. 22 the day of Kennedy's assassination he has wondered whether Kennedy had had any premonition in 1960 that he would die in office."

Professor Says Some Pollution Benefits Fish

DES MOINES — SUI biologist Donald McDonald said Wednesday that a little bit of water pollution is a good thing for fish, but the problem facing Iowa and most other states is too much pollution.

McDonald said widespread use of farm fertilizers plays an important role in the water pollution problem. Fertilizers not only make farm crops grow, he said, but the excess carried into rivers and streams by heavy runoff of water also make algae in the streams grow faster.

"This creates an odor and rotten taste in some water that is difficult to remove," said McDonald. McDonald, assistant professor of sanitary engineering spoke to about 100 sanitary engineers, chemists and public health officials attending the opening session of a three-day meeting of the Iowa Water Pollution Control Association.

McDonald said that the use of insecticides and pesticides also results in some water pollution. "How much, we don't know," said McDonald, "there are so many things we don't know in this field."

He said a "little pollution" will thrive, but this leads to the problem of "proper balance."

Heating Customers - Sign Up Now For the 12-Month Budget Payment Plan!

The plan permits leveling off your total bill evenly over the 12-month period. This helps lessen the strain during the five cold months when 85% of the fuel required for heating is used and simplifies the job of budgeting household expenses.

The budget plan works like this:
• Based on previous consumption, an estimate is made of the gas, and electricity which you will use during the ensuing 12 months.
• This figure is divided by 12 to determine the monthly bill.
• The following June the cost of gas and electricity actually used is compared with the amount paid under the budget plan.
• Any difference is then paid or credited on the July bill.

Don't delay! Call or stop at the Company office. Find out about the plan and what your monthly payments would be.

Another Russian 'First'—

Cosmonauts' Daughter Weighs Almost 7 Lbs.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians have a space baby. A girl weighing nearly seven pounds was born Monday to the world's first and only woman cosmonaut, Valentina Tereshkova, and her husband, spaceman Andrian Nikolayev. The birth was said to have been by Caesarian section.

There was no explanation why the announcement of the birth was delayed.

The 27-year-old blonde and her husband have received congratulations and flowers at the maternity home where the baby was born, the official news agency Tass said.

There was no immediate mention of presents. But at the reception Premier Khrushchev told the couple: "If you have a baby, there will be no lack of gifts."

THE BABY weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces and was 20½ inches long at birth, the news agency Novosti reported.

One report described the baby as looking much like Nikolayev, with dark complexion and the same eyes and nose.

The baby has a healthy head of dark hair, visible in photos released by Soviet news agencies. The pictures showed Valentina and Adrian admiring the child.

The Government paper Izvestia, one of the Soviet Union's two main papers, devoted only 20 words on the back page to reporting the event and did not publish a picture.

NO INDICATION of a name for the baby was available so far. Neither was there a full description of the baby's physical condition. Soviet scientists are believed to be curious whether the time the parents spent in the radiation influence of space might have had any effect.

Miss Tereshkova spent three days in space beginning last June 16, making 48 orbits. Nikolayev orbited the earth 64 times in four days of August 1962.

They were married just before the Nov. 7 Revolution Day parade through Red Square, which was attended by all six Soviet cosmonauts.

Pilot Dies After Rescue Wednesday

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP) — A downed U.S. Air Force pilot was rescued Wednesday after 13 hours in an inflatable raft buffeted by eight-foot waves in near-freezing weather, only to die soon afterward from exposure.

Capt. James H. Davis, 32, of Washington, D.C., was flying to Europe on Tuesday in a squadron of F100 Super Sabres to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization war games in Norway.

HIS PLANE went down 420 miles west of Ireland, and Davis took to his parachute. He carried an inflatable boat and climbed into it. The sea was rough and the temperature 36 degrees.

Three search planes were sent out from Prestwick, located Davis about 20 miles from the weather and navigational ship Juliet, which left her anchorage to speed to the scene.

The Juliet carries no doctor, so four paramedics were parachuted to aid him from a U.S. air-sea rescue plane. They treated Davis while the Juliet was steaming to the scene.

CAPT. RICHARD LARSON of Livingston, N.J., pilot of one of the rescue planes, told of the search and how Davis came to be found.

"We spotted his flares just before dawn," Larson said. "We circled around and when the sun came up we flew within 100 feet of the water and spotted Davis."

"He seemed in good shape and was waving. But when the Juliet arrived and threw him a line he couldn't seem to get hold of it. So they launched a boat and took him off the raft."

THE FOUR medics were then taken aboard the Juliet.

Capt. Roy L. Dehart of Oak Ridge, Tenn., an Air Force doctor, was flown to the ship by amphibious plane but arrived after Davis died. Dehart attributed death to exposure.

Wealthy New Bridal Couple Fly To Europe

NEW YORK (AP) — Wealthy Harry Leeb and his bride soared toward a European honeymoon Wednesday on a champagne sea of matrimony.

Sixteen guests from their El Morocco night club wedding embarked with them.

The bride wore pink slacks and coat. And two huge rings — a cluster of 18 one-carat diamonds on one hand, for balance, an emerald and diamond creation on the other.

AS AIRILY as possible, she lifted one hand in a wave of farewell. Then she boarded the jet airliner where her husband had reserved the entire first-class section and arranged for an in-flight champagne wedding dinner to be served on monogrammed china and silver.

LEEB PICKED up the tab for the entire party. In Paris, he had reserved one floor of the George V Hotel. To keep the honeymoon guests entertained during their two-week party, there were side trips scheduled to London and Rome and the island of Majorca.

Afterward, the Leebes would continue — alone possibly — to Monte Carlo on the French Riviera, a cruise among the Greek islands of the blue Aegean and a tour of Europe. When they were courting, he sent her on a 93-day trip around the world — alone.

Leeb declined to say how much the wedding and celebration was costing him, explaining "that would be ostentatious."

COMPLETE with press agent, two-fifths of a gallon of champagne for each of the 48 guests, and a judge who cautioned that "this is a very serious occasion," the couple exchanged vows Tuesday night in the El Morocco's red-walled champagne room.

It was the third marriage for each. Mrs. Leeb previously was married to a real estate man and to a Wall Street broker. The gray-haired Leeb's previous marriages were both to the same woman.

LEEB, 58, a multimillionaire furniture maker and financier, and his 32-year-old bride, who came to New York from Miami, Fla., at the age of 16 to become a model, met in a night club three years ago. Leeb said he thought it fitting that they marry in a night club.

When someone asked if she had ever considered a quiet wedding, Mrs. Leeb replied: "I've had them. They don't work out."

15th All-State Music Camp Starts Sunday

More than 450 Iowa high school and junior high students are scheduled to arrive on the SUI campus Sunday to participate in the 15th annual All State Music camp.

Frederick Ebbs, director of University Bands at SUI and director of the camp, said the program is designed to give students the opportunity for training and experience beyond that offered in instrumental and vocal work at their schools.

During the two-week session, students will receive private and group instruction in most phases of band, choral and orchestral music.

This year the camp will include both a concert band and a cadet band. Concerts featuring the bands, chorus and orchestra will be presented twice during the camp — June 21 at 3 p.m. and June 26 at 8 p.m. Both concerts will be given in the Union.

The concert band will be under the direction of Allen Bone, of Duke University, Durham, N.C., and Paul Behm, director of instrumental music in the Mason City school system.

The orchestra will be under the direction of Bone and Paul Van Bodegraven, head of the Department of Musical Education at New York University.

The cadet band will be directed by Robert Gower, Charles City band director, and Warren Hatfield, director of the South Dakota State University Band.

The chorus will be under the direction of Daniel Moe, SUI associate professor of music and director of SUI choral activities.

Sulowan Receives $5,000 Scholarship

James D. Cochran, G. Larrabee, is the only Iowan among nine recipients of research scholarships awarded by the Brookings Institution, Washington, D.C., for the 1964-65 academic year. The scholarship is worth $5,000.

The scholarships are awarded annually by the Brookings Institution to provide opportunities for promising young scholars to do research in Washington in economics, government and foreign policy. Recipients are selected from candidates nominated by the graduate faculties of leading universities.

Cochran is one of the first recipients of Johnson Foundation Scholarships for Midwest scholars, which are administered by the candidate for a Ph.D. Degree here which he expects to receive at the August Commencement. His field of study is political science, with a specialization in Latin American politics.

LBJ Announces New Uses Of Large-Scale Reactors

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — President Johnson says the United States is years ahead of the planned progress in the economic use of large-scale reactors for electric power.

He says this knowledge will be shared with the world.

Johnson made the announcement in a commencement address Wednesday at Holy Cross College. He was awarded an honorary degree as doctor of civil law.

"In the past several months we have achieved an economic breakthrough in the use of large-scale reactors for commercial power," he said.

JOHNSON said that by September he will report to the third international conference in Geneva on the peaceful use of atomic energy on our new capability to use the power of the atom to meet human needs.

"This new technology, now being applied in the United States, will be available to the world," he said.

The President also said: "Moreover, the development of the large-scale reactor offers a dramatic prospect of transforming sea water into water suitable for human consumption and industrial use."

"Large-scale nuclear reactors and desalting plants offer in combination, economical electric power and usable water in areas of need. We are engaged in research and development to transform this scientists' concept into reality."

WHITE HOUSE aides said the President's comments on commercial nuclear reactors were in reference to proposals by private firms to build reactors which can compete in price with conventional power.

Johnson departed from his prepared text to hail the Senate closure vote on civil rights.

He said: "We are going ahead to end poverty and racial injustice and we are going ahead on civil rights. They voted closure in the Senate today by a vote of 71 to 29."

HIS MENTION of the closure vote came only moments after the Senate action.

The President was in Worcester three hours to the minute. His plane arrived at 9:39 a.m., and departed at 12:39 p.m.

Every available local and state policeman guarded the President during his Worcester stay.

Extra precautions were taken in view of the escape Tuesday night of a Worcester State Hospital mental patient known to have "political dislikes."

Police issued a special bulletin every 20 minutes warning that the escaped patient is considered dangerous and could resort to violence.

There were no incidents.

77 SUI Highlanders Begin Eight Week European Tour

Even if the excitement of adventure ahead did not disturb the sleep of SUI's Scottish Highlanders Wednesday night, it was a very short night for the 77 coeds who are about to open an eight-week tour of Europe, including performances in England and Scotland.

The Highlanders were scheduled to board buses at 5:30 a.m. today for the trip from Currier Hall to the Cedar Rapids airport. By noon, Iowa time, the Highlanders were to be in Washington, D.C., for the start of their tour.

While in Washington, the Highlanders will tour the White House, have a picnic dinner with SUI alumni living in the Washington, D.C. area, and perform at Sylvan Theatre, an outdoor theatre on the banks of the Potomac River, near the foot of Washington Monument.

The White House tour will be held Friday morning with arrangements being made by Representative Fred Schwengel of Davenport. Arranging the alumni dinner and the public concert, also on Friday, are Dr. Francis Wilcox, president of the Washington Alumni Association, and Ted Koop, vice-president of the Washington SUI chapter.

The coeds will leave Washington Saturday morning, arriving in New York shortly after noon that day.

Their New York performance will be Monday at the World's Fairgrounds. The SUI all-girl bagpipe band will perform at the River Common, then participate in a parade for the U.S. Treasury Savings Bond Jamboree at the Space Pavilion. That evening, they will attend a dinner for SUI-New York alumni.

Their overseas trip will begin officially Wednesday when they board the Queen Elizabeth bound for England. While abroad, they will perform in London, and Edinburgh, Dunfermline, Elgin and Dunbar in Scotland.

21 Cubans Attend Workshop

Refugee teachers enrolled in the SUI Institute for Cuban Refugee Teachers, which began on campus today, express optimism for freeing their people from the Communist rule in Cuba under the military dictatorship of Castro.

The teachers are among 21 Cuban refugees from Miami, Fla., who arrived at SUI Monday for the second eight week Cuban Institute here.

They are receiving orientation about teaching Spanish as a foreign language in American secondary schools. Some of them will teach in Iowa high schools next fall.

Fred Cerreta, director of the institute, says the orientation program includes instruction in methods of teaching modern language and familiarization with American culture and American school environment.

The United States Office of Health, Education and Welfare is financing the Cuban program at SUI.

Most of the refugees attending the orientation program were teachers in Cuba before they had to leave their country two and a half years ago.

Seven of 21 Cubans who are attending the Institute for Cuban Refugee Teachers, which began on the SUI campus Wednesday, are shown above after collecting study materials. From left to right are Victoria Eiroa, Matilda Arcaute, Miquel Recio, Teresita Nunez, Gloria Carreno, Lucia Gonzalez and Julio F. Portela. The Institute closes Aug. 5.

Four members of the group were pleasure in the new job. Mrs. Gloria Carreno, a refugee teacher, says the American people are very friendly and generous.

Picketing Workers Arrested Following Clash with Sheriff

MASSENA, N. Y. (AP) — Fourteen pickets were arrested Wednesday as the result of an early morning clash with sheriff's deputies at the struck Aluminum Corp. of America plant in this Canadian border community.

Nearly 200 pickets, members of Local 420 Aluminum Workers International Union, massed at the plant in the wake of court orders that prevented sympathy strikes threatened by seven other Alcoa plants.

Sheriff Ceylon Allen of St. Lawrence County and one of the pickets were injured. The picket was treated for head injuries. Allen underwent treatment at a hospital.

A sheriff's department spokesman said vigorous pushing and shoving ensued when 27 deputies attempted to clear the entrance for supervisory personnel. Management employees have been operating one of the plant's five pot lines since the union's 2,300 members struck May 23 in a dispute over reclassification of about 60 hourly jobs.

Police Warn Vacationers Of Burglars

The Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police and Peace Officers has warned property owners of the increased hazard of burglary during the summer months when houses are abandoned during vacations.

With houses abandoned for long periods, the chance of property theft is greatly increased, the association warns. Association president K. R. Binger says public support is necessary for greater effectiveness of crime prevention. He compliments the various law officers in the state for an excellent job in protecting private property.

"We feel an alerted public taking a few simple precautions can greatly enhance the job our police are doing," Binger says. "In fact, it is the most expedient way our police can continue to perform its duties efficiently."

Two other Iowa Cities, Ottumwa and Sioux City, also were included among 117 communities, 25 states and one county receiving citations.

A certificate of achievement went to Ottumwa for keeping good accident records and for maintaining a high level of performance in traffic education.

Sioux City received a similar award for traffic safety education in its schools, and for organizing on both government and citizen levels for traffic safety improvement.

Cedar Rapids Gets '63 Safety Council Award of Merit

CHICAGO (AP) — Cedar Rapids, Iowa, received an award of merit Wednesday from the National Safety Council for outstanding accomplishments in traffic safety for 1963.

The award, the council's second highest, was for a balanced traffic safety program. The city also earned certificates of achievement for traffic safety education programs in its schools and public traffic safety education.

Two other Iowa Cities, Ottumwa and Sioux City, also were included among 117 communities, 25 states and one county receiving citations.

A certificate of achievement went to Ottumwa for keeping good accident records and for maintaining a high level of performance in traffic education.

To Talk with News Media—Computer-Predicted Election Returns Concern Governors

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The nation's governors ambled amiably to the end of their 56th annual conference Wednesday, minus any last ditch efforts at Republican Presidential candidate-picking.

The closing session elected Grant Sawyer, 45, Nevada Democrat, as the new conference chairman.

The executive committee picked Minnesota — which probably means Minneapolis — for next year's meeting.

A batch of reports and resolutions was adopted, including one dealing with the problem of election computers.

GOV. GRANT SAWYER, (D-Nev.), made the proposal on election computers. He suggested a governors' conference committee be named to talk with representatives of the news media about the problem of computer-predicted national election victories being broadcast "hours before millions of Americans have expressed their choice" in the Far West. This could influence election results, Sawyer maintained.

This was a conference which produced a sort of capsule Republican political convention as a sideshow which really was the main show.

But according to form, the 16 Republican members got nowhere at lining up any of their own or anyone else to pitch himself under the wheels of the Barry Goldwater bandwagon.

THEY DID little better at getting together on a statement of party principles to be offered the Republican Platform Committee.

As far as Goldwater, the Arizona senator, was concerned, the conference left his battle flags unaltered and his march toward the GOP Presidential nomination unchecked.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York kept himself in contention. But his appeals for others to join in battling for the moderate cause against the Goldwater conservatism went unheeded.

Reports still were fragmentary from the hard-hit area of the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains. Scores of bridges were washed out on major highways, leaving a number of small communities and ranches isolated.

Communications were limited. Air Force helicopters rescued more than 250 persons, reaching down with a hoist and sling to pluck many from trees and rooftops. An Air Force spokesman said his crew dropped a hoist in the nick of time to two Indian boys clinging to a tree.

"The tree was just ready to fall into the water," the pilot said. He said a crowd standing on the shore of a mile-wide creek directed the helicopter to the boys.

At least 18 bodies from the hardest-hit areas of the Blackfoot Indian Reservation will be airlifted to Malmstrom Air Force Base at Great Falls.

"They had no place to store bodies on the reservation," an Air Force spokesman said.

Power boats scooped back and forth across the reservation, seeking dead and missing.

In Great Falls, the state's largest city with 70,000 residents, the flooding Sun River receded gradually as it poured into the Missouri River.

It reached a crest of nearly 23 feet early Wednesday, more than five feet higher than any previous crest on record.

The flooding created a huge lagoon nearly 10 miles wide over western residential sections and water reached to the eaves of some of the city's finest houses, many in the $100,000 class.

As the destructive flood waters spread downstream, they headed toward the vast uninhabited stretch of country leading to the Ft. Peck Reservoir — one of the largest manmade lakes in the world.

The huge Ft. Peck Dam, together with upstream flood control and power dams, was expected to lessen chances for continued flooding.

However, weather observers said normally shallow streams still were running like rivers in upstream mountains on both sides of the Continental Divide.

More rain fell Wednesday but it was not expected to add substantially to the flood pressure.

A newsman said flooded roads and broken bridges isolated 39 Minuteman missile installations around the state.

However, he said, the Air Force reported all were being served by helicopter and their defense capability was not impaired.

One of the state's chief tourist attractions, Glacier National Park was closed temporarily. Park officials said time is needed to repair damaged facilities, including water and sewage systems.

Number Dead In Montana Still Climbing

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — Helicopters, planes and power boats crisscrossed flood-devastated areas of Montana on Wednesday searching for dead and missing residents in the receding water.

At least 30 were dead and 30 missing. Damage was in the millions of dollars.

"There's no question about how bad it is," Gov. J. B. Babcock said as he toured the flood-stricken areas. "It's the worst natural disaster ever to hit this state. The picture keeps getting worse."

Nomination Not In Barry's Bag—Nixon

LONDON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday night Sen. Barry Goldwater does not have the Republican Presidential nomination cinched and Michigan's Gov. George W. Romney has the strongest chance of beating Goldwater.

The former U.S. Vice President, here on a two-day private visit, spoke to newsmen at London Airport, where he was met by a U.S. Embassy official.

Nixon said the question whether Goldwater would have any serious opposition would be decided before the Republican National Convention at San Francisco in July.

"A decision will be made during the next week whether Goldwater remains unopposed," Nixon said.

Romney, in Columbus, Ohio, to make a speaking appearance, declined comment on Nixon's latest statement.

"I made a statement in Cleveland this morning and that's it," he said.

In Cleveland, Romney had said that at the party convention in San Francisco next month "I intend to fight for a forthright Republican platform that spells out the issues and the answers to these issues based on our Republican heritage and proven American principles."

$45,000 Awarded Iowans in Suit Against Gov't

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A $300,000 damage suit brought by an Iowa couple against the Federal Government has been settled for $45,000, U.S. Attorney Nathan Heffernan said Wednesday.

The suit grew out of a highway accident involving an Army truck. Mr. and Mrs. William Atkinson of Davenport brought suit for injuries they said they suffered July 30, 1960, when their car and an Army truck figured in a collision.

Atkinson, 51, said he sustained 10 fractured ribs, a punctured lung, skull fracture and contusions. His 48-year-old wife said she suffered a concussion, scalp lacerations and other injuries.

The case was filed March 16, 1961. U.S. District Judge David Rabinowitz approved the settlement and allowed fees of $9,000 for Hiram Nowlan Jr. of Janesville, attorney for the Atkinsons.

Cards Split With Giants Behind Hobbie

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Glen Hobbie allowed only two hits — both in the first inning — and pitched his new St. Louis Cardinals teammates to a 2-1 victory over National League leading San Francisco Wednesday after the Giants had won the opener 3-0.

The Giants captured the opener behind the combined four-hit pitching of Bob Hensley and Gaylord Perry while slumped-ridden Willie McCovey provided the key hit, a two-run homer.

McCovey, co-home run leader in the National League last year, was batting only .196 going into the game and hadn't hit a homer since May 22.

On a 3-1 pitch from Bob Gibson in the sixth, he broke out of the drought with a shot over the left field fence, scoring Willie Mays ahead of him.

Then, in the nightcap, Hobbie took over and got all the support he needed from a pair of run-producing singles by Bill White.

Hobbie, acquired last week from the Chicago Cubs, was touched for a run in the first on singles by Harvey Kuenn and Willie Mays around a sacrifice.

U.S. Plans in High For '64 Olympic Baseball Squad

OMAHA (AP) — United States plans for Olympic Baseball are in high gear at the College World Series, in spite of professional signings, a shortage of funds and baseball's orphan status outside the Olympic structure.

"We're doing our best to get an outstanding U.S. team for the Olympic exhibitions at Tokyo," said

Dutch Fehring, Stanford coach and chairman of the U.S. Olympic Baseball Committee. "I think we can do it despite the handicaps and frustrations."

Fehring and a group of college coaches held tryouts Tuesday and Wednesday at nearby Offutt Air Force Base for servicemen from nine bases, plus top high school and other non-pro players.

The coach of the U.S. Olympic team, Rod Bedeaux of U.S. Southern California, said he hopes to name several players to the 20-man squad at the conclusion of college tournament this weekend.
