changes will be made unless the district is told to change by state officials. He expects word from the State Department of Education sometime this week.

IN ANY EVENT, Garner says, this year's summer school probably won't be affected. The Iowa City elementary summer schools opened last week and the secondary schools opened Monday.

School Board President Robert Randall says the attorney general's opinion probably is not final. He says no changes are expected until the question is resolved. Probably "the question will be taken to the courts and . . . a final decision certainly won't be rendered in the near future," Randall said.

There is some question if the ruling, if it stands, will apply to the Iowa City secondary program because it is jointly run by SU and the Iowa City District. The $15 tuition fee is paid directly to the University, not the school district. All the Iowa City district does is provide the classroom space.

RANDALL SAID the ruling apparently won't apply to the special secondary summer system in Iowa City. If the school district is ordered to change it will have to map new plans. Garner told The Daily Iowan no plans have been made if a change is necessary.

Longest Bridge

6 Die As Bus Plunges Into Louisiana Lake

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Continental Trailways bus nose-dived into Lake Pontchartrain before dawn Tuesday when two heavy barges tore a 224-foot gap in the world's largest bridge.

Six passengers perished in 15 feet of water. The bus driver and an Army sergeant survived, rescued by a courageous teenager who arrived just moments after the crash. Pushed by a towboat, the long gravel-loaded barges smashed into the bridge pilings as the bus was passing overhead. Four sections of concrete roadway and the careening bus tumbled with a roar into the placid lake waters.

"We didn't see the bus go into the water, but we heard screaming and hollering," recalled Jackie Church, 19.

Church and a companion, Bernard E. Gautreau, 42, were first at the scene. "I could see people floating," the teen-ager said. "I hollered to the towboat, 'Throw me two life preservers.' Then I jumped in."

Church, with Gautreau's help, recovered one body and also held the two survivors above water until Coast Guard helicopters arrived. Skin divers pulled the other bodies from the submerged bus.

Authorities questioned towboat personnel to learn why the barges rammed the 24-mile-long bridge. Visibility was excellent and the lake calm.

The accident was 1.5 miles north of a draw bridge towboats are supposed to use and 8.5 miles north of the New Orleans entrance.

Ernest Vaughn, 38, the bus driver from Jackson, Miss., was reported in fair condition following abdominal surgery. Staff Sgt. William Cockerham of Ft. Benning, Ga., was listed in good condition with multiple bruises.

American Civilian Pilots In Congo Combat Missions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department reversed itself Tuesday and reported that some American civilian pilots are flying propeller-driven T28 airplanes for the Congo Government in sorties against rebel forces.

Red China charged several days ago that American fliers were operating U.S.-built T28s on combat missions in the Congo. As late as Monday afternoon a spokesman said the State Department's information was "that no American citizen pilots are flying these planes . . ."

Tuesday, press officer Richard I. Phillips, asked again about the reports, replied: "In response to inquiries, the department has checked through the American Embassy in Leopoldville and is now informed that some American civilian pilots under contract with the Congolese Government have flown T28 sorties in the last few days in the eastern part of the Congo."

ALCOA Strike Threatened
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Officials of the Aluminum Workers International Union and Aluminum Co. of America met for two and a half hours late Thursday in an effort to settle a dispute.

The dispute could shut down Alcoa plants in five states that employ 8,000 to 10,000 workers, including one at Davenport, Iowa.

Barry Tops Magic 655; Scranton In High Gear

Scranton: Program Going Splendidly

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton declared Tuesday his hunt for midwestern delegate votes for the Republican Presidential nomination "is working out splendidly."

The governor made the statement as he got off a plane in this Minnesota city — his third state in eight hours — to make a pitch for support from the 26-vote GOP delegation.

An Associated Press poll indicates that Minnesota sentiment breaks down this way: Eight votes for favorite son candidate, former Rep. Walter Judd, eight votes for Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, and ten votes uncommitted.

Earlier in Topeka, Kan., Scranton made a personal appeal to 11 delegates of the 20-vote state contingent to the GOP San Francisco convention.

Commenting on his meeting, Scranton said, "I think we did better in Kansas than we did in Iowa, where we did extremely well."

He left Des Moines this morning after making a bid for that state's 24 delegates at an enthusiastic appearance Monday night before some 3,700 backers in KRNT Auditorium.

SCRANTON INDICATED that the Kansas delegates he met with were favorable to his cause.

"Also we had indications of support from three others who could not attend the meeting," the governor added.

The governor is scheduled to go to St. Louis Wednesday and Denver, later the same day. Plans were not firm for the rest of the week.

However, there were hints still another state would be visited before Scranton returns to the East.

At Topeka, Scranton won one probable vote and possibly another. Other uncommitted members of the Kansas delegation withheld comment on whether they will support Scranton for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Scranton, governor of Pennsylvania, spent an hour behind closed doors with 11 members of the 20-member delegation. He also spoke at a jammed luncheon of his supporters.

THE KANSAS DELEGATION has 2 members committed to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater, 5 others favoring Goldwater, 1 favoring Scranton and 12 uncommitted. The delegate favoring Scranton, James E. Woodson of Topeka, previously favored Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York but changed when Rockefeller announced support for Scranton.

Floyd Hutchinson, Wamego, had said earlier he possibly leaned toward Scranton.

Scranton told the news conference he believes he picked up support among Iowa delegates Monday while visiting there. He declined to speculate on numbers or pin-point delegates, however.

"WHEN I LEFT Des Moines I came off with the impression we were much better off for delegates than before," he said.

Among those at the hurriedly arranged luncheon here was Alf M. Landon, the 1936 Republican Presidential nominee. Landon said he is very interested in Scranton's campaign and wants to see him develop his program. Landon has not endorsed any candidate.

An estimated 400 persons attended the luncheon.

Bicycle Regulations

Starting next week, a violation of the SU1 bicycle regulations will result in a fine of $1 for the first offense, $2 for the second offense, and $3 for third and subsequent offenses, according to Campus Police.

Disciplinary action may result from offenses after the third violation. Fines may be appealed by filing a written appeal at the Campus Police office within seven days of the violation date.

The regulations for bicycles are:

- All bicycles used on campus must be registered with the Iowa City Police and must comply with Iowa City bicycle ordinances.
- No student, faculty or staff member shall ride a bicycle on any University sidewalk or on any sidewalk adjacent to the campus.
- In the Pentacrest and adjacent areas and in all other areas where bicycle stands are available, bicycles may be parked only in those stands.
- No bicycle shall be parked so as to limit in any way entrance to a building or the use of a sidewalk, drive or street.
- No bicycle shall be parked in or upon any University building, or in the window areas of any building.
- The University Police may impound any bicycle not bearing an Iowa City registration and parked at any point on campus.
- No motorcycle or motor scooter shall be ridden except upon a street or driveway. No such vehicle shall be parked on campus except in parking areas designated for use by such vehicles, and in no case in violation of bicycle regulations.
- No bicycle, motorcycle or motor scooter shall be parked in such a way that it interferes with the use of a parking facility by other vehicles.

House Extends Delinquency Act For One Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House extended the Juvenile Delinquency Act Tuesday after several members sharply criticized the way the program has been administered so far.

The House voted funds for only one year instead of the requested two and members warned that positive results would have to be shown if the program is to continue beyond that.

The bill, which now goes to the Senate, authorizes $10 million for the coming fiscal year to develop programs designed to combat juvenile delinquency and train personnel to work with youth.

The money goes mainly to cities and universities — with 16 cities and nearly 50 colleges and other institutions currently participating in the program.

Most of the criticism directed at the administration was for its concentration on planning projects rather than in actually putting them into operation.

The record so far said Rep. John Kyl, (R-Iowa), forced members who wanted to see something accomplished to vote for the bill "more out of hope than logic."

Iowa Democrat Neal Smith, said the program "is one of the worst administered we have ever had in the government. We've lost three years, and I have no hope it will be administered better in the future."

In Unanimous Decision— Council Votes to Join Metropolitan Planning

The Iowa City City Council Tuesday night unanimously voted to join the Metropolitan Planning Commission. At the same time it appointed Mayor Richard Burger, Planning and Zoning Commission Chairman Allen Vestal, and Steven Darling as the three Iowa City members of the Commission.

Metropolitan Planning is set up to include representatives of Iowa City, Coralville, University Heights, Johnson County, SU1, and the Iowa City Community School District. The 11-member board will serve mainly to improve communications among the six governing bodies.

IOWA CITY will have three resident fee pickup of a set amount of garbage, with a fee for collection of additional refuse.

Councilman William Maas said the city may have to cut down on city parks and recreation facilities if the residents don't want to pay more for garbage collection. The Council was complimented by the Human Relations Commission on its hiring policy. The Commission found no discrimination and some indications the city is making a conscious effort to represent minority groups on the city payroll.

IN A RELATED matter, the Iowa City League of Women Voters urged the Council establish a fair housing ordinance. The League last night took the lead in supporting such an ordinance.

In a letter to the Council, the League stressed the need for minorities to have equal opportunities to rent or buy property for homes and businesses.

Police Dogs Help Capture 2 Gunmen

CANTON, Ill. (AP) — A posse working with police dogs flushed two gunmen from a hideout Tuesday after robberies of a Post Office and a grain elevator.

A helicopter and an airplane were pressed into the hunt for a third man, Edward Shrike, of Davenport, whom authorities described as most likely armed and dangerous.

Ebert Davidson, 45, an ex-convict from Canton, and Ronnie Owens, 17, of East Moline were captured when one of two police dogs led the manhunters to a hideout in a house north of Midway in Fulton County.

Sheriff James Elam of Fulton County said his deputies surprised the three men as they were looking a grain elevator office near New Philadelphia, McDonough County, but they got away and made for the pre-arranged hideout.

Before the elevator burglary, Elam said, the men had broken into the Post Office in Piatt, Fulton County.

AP Poll Shows Barry With 674

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Republicans gave Sen. Barry Goldwater 56 delegate votes Tuesday, raising his total in an Associated Press survey to more than enough to win the GOP Presidential nomination if he can hold them.

The action boosted Goldwater's total in the nationwide survey of delegates to 674. This is 19 more than the 655 needed for the nomination.

Texas Demos Give Support To Connally
Goldwater, who had addressed the Texans, flew back to Washington before the convention acted, and told reporters on the way he figured the 56 votes would push his pledged and committed strength past the 655 mark.

But he said the job is not done yet. Goldwater said he still needs more delegates — he mentioned the 14 Montana will choose Friday — because of the danger of slippage from among the delegates now on his list.

The Arizona senator could maintain his delegate strength, lose some of it, or increase his margin between now and the GOP nominating convention starting in San Francisco July 13.

THE TEXAS Republican Convention unanimously approved a resolution which said its delegates were "irrevocably committed" to Goldwater until personally released by him.

Earlier, Goldwater in a speech predicted a GOP victory in November. But he warned party members they must unite "against the Democrats and not against yourselves."

The convention adopted resolutions calling for Sen. John Tower to be named head of the Texas delegation to the national convention, and that Albert B. Fay of Houston and Mrs. Ike Kampmann Jr. of San Antonio be named national committeeman and committee woman.

"No one Republican can destroy the Republican party," Goldwater told a cheering Texas GOP caucus.

THE ARIZONA senator's rival for the nomination, Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, has said a ticket headed by Goldwater spelled defeat for other Republican candidates.

More than 11,000 persons jammed the Dallas Memorial Auditorium to hear Goldwater address the Texas Republican Convention.

Appearing relaxed as he faced a sea of Goldwater-for-President signs and only one boosting Scranton, the senator said:

"We are no longer a party that has to write off one great section of the nation, the South. The Republican party can win in 1964 only if it wins substantial support in the South."

Turning to national defense and foreign affairs, Goldwater said the U.S. "today is being disarmed."

HE CHARGED that the Soviet Union was militarily stronger than this country because Soviet intermediate-range ballistic missiles trained on Western Europe tip the balance of nuclear power in favor of the Russians.

Of reports that his nomination would do harm to the Republican party, he said:

"A very funny thing is happening in America all of a sudden. The liberal press, the New York Times . . . the Washington Post . . . are getting concerned about what is happening to the Republican party."

"They say that if I am nominated, there will be no more Republican party."

"Do you know what they are afraid of? In me, they are going to get a candidate they can't control."

Who's on the ball to stop de Gaulle?

By ART BUCHWALD

Overlooked in all the excitement about the Republican nomination race is the fact that President de Gaulle has indicated he wants to run again for another seven years as the President of France.

It can now be revealed that a group of moderate French citizens are trying to organize a stop-de Gaulle campaign. These citizens claim that President de Gaulle is trying to wreck NATO, wants to pull out of the UN, insists on atomic testing, and wants to sell Versailles; to private industry.

They say he will wreck the Gaullist party and all the Deputies will lose their seats.

THE CITIZENS first went to see France's top war hero, Gen. de Gaulle, and asked him if he would join them in stopping President de Gaulle.

The General replied, "I will not become part of any cabal to stop President de Gaulle. I'm not going to stop or boost anybody. Of course I'd like to see an open election and I do have a preference of my own as to whom the candidate should be, but I am not going to reveal it to anyone."

"Would you do this?" the citizens asked. "Would you at least meet with one of the candidates and tell him your philosophy on where you think the Gaullist party should stand?"

THE GENERAL reluctantly agreed to meet with his good friend, Gov. Charles de Gaulle, on Saturday evening.

When the French newspapers heard about it, they printed stories that Gen. de Gaulle was going to endorse Gov. Charles de Gaulle for the Presidency.

On Sunday morning the General received telephone calls from around the country and he was shocked to discover that the meeting had been interpreted as a stop-de Gaulle movement.

GOV. CHARLES DE GAULLE was slated to go on the French television show, "Rendezvous Avec la Presse," at noon and hit out at the irresponsibility of President de Gaulle. But just before he went on the air he received a call from Gen. de Gaulle who said, "I hope you didn't interpret our conversation of last evening as any attempt on my part to join a cabal against President de Gaulle."

Vocal element desires fair housing law here

A DESIRE FOR A FAIR HOUSING law was stated by all those who spoke at a meeting of the Iowa City Human Relations Commissions Monday evening.

Representatives of civic and church groups and individuals voiced the opinion that there should be legal provisions for fair housing here.

The need for such a law was based on the recognition of inequity in rental and real estate sales procedures. In a survey conducted by the League of Women Voters, two-thirds of the 359 landlords interviewed exhibited degrees of discriminatory attitudes, from cautious to openly hostile.

These landlords, or any one sympathetic to their beliefs, either were not present or were silent at the meeting. But their existence means that any fair housing law that the City Council might — and we feel should — pass, must also clearly outline the means of enforcement.

Details of a fair housing law are difficult to establish, since they involve drawing a fine line of distinction in some areas. One such distinction made in fair housing laws in other places has been that the rental of less than five (or some other arbitrary number) rooms in one's own dwelling do not come under legislative ruling.

In a town where students form a large part of the renters, and thus a unique sort of renting group, the number of rooms for rent does not seem to be an equitable means of distinction.

A better method would be to consider the number of renters in a dwelling. Students often double or triple up in a room, and thus provide the landlord with a sizable rental income, although there may be a small number of rooms.

We are sure that an equitable housing law can be established in Iowa City, with the continued backing of organizations and individuals, and that the necessary enforcement can be provided for. It is a piece of legislation that will be extremely beneficial to the city, and one that is long overdue.

Student flight mix-up causes unfortunate loss

THE CONFUSION AT CEDAR RAPIDS airport Monday night centering around the SUI Student Senate sponsored flight to Europe resulted in a long delay for the 120 passengers, and added expenses for 8 of them.

The flight, which was able to take only 113 passengers — as many as there were seats — had been oversold. Several families had understood that it would be permissible to hold children on their parents laps during the flight.

The students who organized the trip apparently received misleading information from Student Air Travel, an agency in Chicago which arranged the flight.

The individuals that left the flight so that it would be carrying only the allowed number of passengers departed for Europe Tuesday.

But since they had to purchase other tickets that were not on the special rate of the student flight, they incurred about $1,000 added expenses.

The exact cause of the mix-up has not yet been determined. University officials, who handled the financial and legal aspects of the flight, are taking steps to pinpoint the cause so that the passengers who left the flight may be reimbursed for their extra expenses.

Perhaps more careful planning could have prevented the unfortunate incident. Reimbursement should be made as quickly as possible.

Highlanders take a fling at touring Washington

By JUDY STEVENS
Correspondent

The Washington visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhart provided an extra thrill for several Highlanders touring the nation's Capital.

As several girls viewed the grave of President Kennedy at Arlington Cemetery, Erhart with other state officials placed a wreath at the grave sight. Another group of girls spotted Erhart as he arrived at the Pentagon and was received by a 21-gun salute, the Marine Band and an honor guard.

This special event and the many activities of Washington, D.C. offered the SUI Scottish Highlanders an exciting beginning to their 1964 European tour.

The 83-member group flew from Cedar Rapids to the Capital June 11 and immediately centered activity around the Roger Smith Hotel. For some, this first visit to Washington brought amazement and confusion with the many sights and crowded traffic.

Early Friday morning the girls dressed in uniforms and officially introduced the Washington resident and visitors to Iowa's own Scottish group. As the group marched the two blocks from the hotel to the White House, onlookers were startled and delighted.

The group received a special tour of the White House and then took cabs for the mile and a half trip to the Capitol building. Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Davenport) personally conducted the group on a special tour of the Capitol followed by a picture session on the Capitol steps. Sen. Jack Miller (R-Sioux City) also joined the group and gave a talk on the Senate procedure and the present civil rights debate.

Miller emphasized the unique feature of unlimited floor debate in the Senate and now, since closure, the hour limit imposed on each senator. He explained that the civil rights bill now being considered had over 400 amendments proposed.

He added that many hours of committee work had planned the proposed bill, and everyone should not feel the Senate has been doing nothing.

Rep. John Kyl (R-Bloomfield) joined Miller in speaking before the group. Each commented on Washington politics, and Miller added that almost 95 per cent of the action regarding bills and proposals is bi-partisan.

Sen. Miller arranged for the Investigating commission unsatisfied with Mrs. Oswald's second testimony

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Members of the special commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy are unsatisfied with the testimony of Mrs. Marina Oswald, and want her recalled for further questioning.

So far, no formal action has been taken on that, as the critics are heavily preoccupied with pressing congressional obligations, primarily the protracted Senate battle over civil rights. As a result, they have had little opportunity to personally question Mrs. Oswald.

THE LATTER INCLUDES, several months before the Dallas slaying, a still-mysterious trip to Mexico, participating in a pro-Castro demonstration in New Orleans, and getting a passport there on the same day he applied for it, that would have enabled him to go back to Russia.

(2) These are seeming contradictions to Mrs. Oswald's testimony.

SIGNIFICANT LOOSE ENDS — Graphically illustrative of the latter was last week's interrogation of the widow on two points.

For the first time, Mrs. Oswald stated she knew her husband had attended "meetings." In her previous testimony, she had asserted she had no knowledge of her husband's activities and associations. But this time she acknowledged being aware he had gone to "meetings."

"What kind of meetings?" "Political meetings," she replied.

CLOSE QUESTIONING brought no further elucidation. Mrs. Oswald claimed she knew nothing about these meetings; their location or nature. She related that all she knew was that her husband had told her he had been at "meetings."

She also testified she was aware her husband possessed a rifle and a pistol, and that he was very bitter about the "capitalistic system" in the U.S. because of its "injustices and hardships on the

what you have told us directly conflicting?"

After a long pause, Mrs. Oswald admitted it might appear that way, but that was not her intention. She was positive her husband had made no threats against anyone.

"YOU SAY," she was asked, "that although you knew he had a rifle and a pistol, and was very bitter toward the U.S. and the capitalistic system, you never heard him threaten to kill anyone?"

"No, he made no threats," replied Mrs. Oswald.

"Yet you have told us that your husband came home one night and told you he had tried to kill General Walker."

"Yes, he told me that."

"And you have testified he also told you he was going to kill Vice President Nixon?"

"Yes, he told me that. But Mr. Nixon did not come to Dallas at that time."

"Did your husband ever express hatred of Governor John Connally?"

"No."

"Did your husband ever express hatred of General Walker?"

"No."

"But he did tell you he tried to shoot him?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever hear your husband express hatred of President Kennedy, or threaten to kill him?"

"No, never."

"Yet you are convinced he did kill the President?"

"Yes."

"You say that at no time did he express hatred toward any particular individual or official."

"No," said Mrs. Oswald. "He did not like the capitalistic system. He was very bitter about it. He felt it had done great harm to him, his mother and family. But he never said anything against any person."

"But in view of what you have told us about his owning a rifle and pistol, his telling you about trying to shoot General Walker and wanting to kill Vice President Nixon, why do you say he made no threats against anyone? Aren't you contradicting yourself, isn't it?"

SCOTT ALLEN

But after reading the transcript of her second interrogation, these members are convinced the 22-year-old widow of the killer can still provide important information.

IN HER TWO appearances, she gave every indication of desiring to be cooperative and helpful. At the same time, her testimony has shed little light on certain vital aspects of her husband's life and activities on which the probes are still very much in the dark and which they are trying to piece together.

Two reasons are behind the private feeling Mrs. Oswald should be brought back for another round of close questioning:

(1) Despite six months of intensive investigating, in which

College graduates unattracted by local government jobs

(From The Milwaukee Sentinel)

The thousands of young men and women graduating from college this month have been bombarded with advice, most of it abstract, on the choice of careers. One such adviser who departed from the traditional platitudes to offer some concrete worthwhile advice was Minnesota's Karl F. Rolvaag, who suggested that the college graduates consider making their state and local government their life's work.

Gov. Rolvaag, addressing the commencement at St. Mary's College, Winona, Minn., made it clear that he expected few, if any, young men and women to heed his advice. But his realistic pessimism does not detract from the value of his message.

"I am willing to wager," Rolvaag said, "that few of the June, 1964, crop of college graduates — the cream of our creative and thinking young people — are today eyeing careers in county or municipal government."

Certainly Rolvaag's wager is well supported by past experience, for those few graduates who have considered governmental service have usually turned to the supposedly more important and glamorous federal field.

Few deliberately choose state government, and the number that go into local government is microscopic. The low state of local government in the United States is due, in a large measure, to this disinclination.

Rolvaag answered his own questions when he asked the graduates, rhetorically, why they would not lend their talents to local government.

"Why would a young man choose a field of endeavor that is widely known for inadequate pay range? Why would a creative, imaginative, inquiring person seek to ally himself with

Three SUIowans Distribute Books

Three SUI students have returned after working for eleven days in Holly Springs, Miss., for the Student Nonviolence Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

Larry Wright, A3, Chicago, Ill., and Sue Grogovic, A2, Des Moines, and Sara Jacobson, A1, Marshalltown, were stationed at Rust College to categorize, sort, pack, and deliver books contributed for libraries to be established throughout the state. In the time the three were in Mississippi, they delivered enough books to begin six libraries.

The books were brought to a room supplied at the all Negro College in Holly Springs and were sorted there by SNCC workers. The books were piled into trucks and delivered to prearranged locations throughout the state. The libraries will be integrated and serve areas where Negro residents are not allowed to enter existing libraries, or areas where libraries do not already exist.

A typical day for them began at 6:30 a.m. with breakfast at the college. The students worked in the boiler room sorting and packing books until 11:30 a.m. and then broke for lunch. The rest of the day, with a pause for dinner, was spent the same way until late at night.

HOLLY SPRINGS is 50 miles from Memphis. An isolated community, the population is 83 per cent Negro and prides itself on its non-violent philosophy.

Students attend the all Negro college for financial reasons. Lacking the necessary number of Ph.D.'s however, the school has lost its accreditation.

"We stayed with the students themselves and found them hoping to remain in the South after graduation," Sue said. The girls with whom she roomed hoped to become elementary school teachers.

Larry drove throughout the state with books packed at Holly Springs. He carried notarized letters from the college that the books belonged to them and were neither subversive nor stolen. Such letters became necessary after the first few trucks were stopped and police found the books to be "subversive" or stolen property.

"THE FIRST time I delivered books was in the town of Clarksdale. The people in the Negro section where the library was to be set-up came to the truck and helped us unpack, then opened their homes to us," Larry recalled.

"On another night, a small child tried to help us unpack but naturally the boxes of books were too heavy for him to carry. One box, however, broke open and he was able to carry the few books on the ground," he continued.

"When the child had finished unpacking he saw the set was all children's books. He crawled into the broken box and started reading them right away. That sight of the child is one of the instances that made the hard work and long hours so worthwhile," he stated.

Both Larry and Sue will continue work with SNCC this summer. In the eleven days they spent in Mississippi, they saw first-hand the inferiority that the Negro is taught in school. They noticed that Negro children are not scheduled for the school session during the cotton harvest session, so they can work in the field.

"They are paid $4 for the nine hours work they do on the plantation fields," Sue said.

Both students felt that they were able to help, through the books they packed and delivered, to educate the people of the South. When they left, an additional 45,000 books had arrived, and work had begun on nine more libraries.

Phys Ed Talks Start Tonight

The annual SUI Colloquium in Physical Education will begin tonight with a lecture on "Sports in Russia" by Max Oppenheimer, Jr., head of the SUI Department of Russian.

Dr. Oppenheimer will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the River Room of the Memorial Union. The lecture, like all others in the summer series, will be open to the public.

All the lectures, co-sponsored by the SUI Departments of Physical Education for Men and Women, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the River Room.

On June 24, Hayden W. Olds, assistant regional director for the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, East Lansing, Mich., will speak on "The Origin and Function of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation (With Special Reference to Needed Research in Outdoor Recreation)." William J. Whalen, associate professor of physiology at SUI, will discuss "Energetics of Muscle" July 1.

"Alcohol and Human Fitness" will be the topic of John Clancy, associate professor of psychiatry, on July 8.

On July 15, Dr. Ernst Joki of the University of Kentucky at Lexington, will discuss "Limitations of Human Performances."

A look at "Current Challenges in Physical Education" July 22 by Leona Holbrook, of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, will end the lecture series.

Picturephone a Reality

The college institution of "cote dates" before "blind dates" will be ancient history to coeds of the future, as they will be able to size up prospective dates on picture telephones. Picturephones are actually in use at the New York World's Fair, but won't be available for home use for some years.

Picturephones At NY Fair

By DOREEN HYDE
Feature Editor

Science fiction buffs will soon see one of their favorite props, the picture telephone, put into actual use by business and family alike. The day is coming when teen-age girls will no longer be able to answer the phone with their hair in curlers and expect their dates to arrive for a party that night, and the entire institution of "blind dates" may even fall by the wayside.

The picturephone will also enable objects to be seen which are difficult to describe in words, and people with hearing defects will be able to read the lips of the person at the other end of the line.

THE FIRST transcontinental call on a picturephone was placed between Bell System exhibits at the New York World's Fair and Disneyland on April 29. The call was made by William L. Lawrence, science consultant to the New York World's Fair, to Donald Shanfer, managing editor of the Anaheim, Calif., Bulletin at Disneyland.

Although the picturephones are installed in the Bell Pavilion at the World's Fair for visitors to use, the exhibit is part of a carefully planned experiment to determine what potential customers will need and want from the phones after the novelty has worn off.

The system at the World's Fair consists of seven sets of individual booths, and another set used by an attendant. All sets are connected to a switching system that permits a visitor to call the attendant or a visitor at another booth.

A SAMPLE OF the visitors will switching facilities. The picturephone set consists of three equipment packages — a display unit, a control unit, and a power supply. The display unit, which is the largest of the packages, contains a picture tube, a camera, the scanning, synchronization and other video circuits and a loudspeaker.

THE CONTROL UNIT contains a telephone handset, a speakerphone and a set of touchtone telephone push buttons.

The picturephone has both conventional telephone and speakerphone service on the same instrument. The user controls the system with the push buttons and makes calls by means of the touchtone buttons.

Other push buttons in the set let the user select one of two modes of viewing — a one-way view, in which the user receives an incoming picture but does not transmit his own, and a two-way view.

ANOTHER PUSH button allows the user to control his own image on the viewing screen and helps him to position himself for focus and the field-of-view of the camera lens.

A lamp, provided in case the room lighting is poor, can be switched on and off manually or set to light automatically when the set is turned on.

The installed picturephones at the World's Fair have a simultaneous telephone conversation and picture, both of which are switched through conventional telephone central office equipment. The fact that the picturephone does not require special cables but can use baseband transmission makes the phone economically feasible.

The picturephone will use a bandwidth of about 500 kc, less than the four megacycles of commercial television and free of interference from the radio broadcast band of 550 to 1500 kc.

Although the first public demonstration in the United States of transmission of television over telephone facilities took place in 1927, further development must be done before it will be possible to offer picturephone service to the average user, according to Roy A. Williams, manager of the Iowa City Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. The Bell Telephone Companies do foresee, however, offering the picturephone limited trial commercial use later in the year.

what you have told us directly conflicting?"

After a long pause, Mrs. Oswald admitted it might appear that way, but that was not her intention. She was positive her husband had made no threats against anyone.

INVESTIGATION SPARKS J. Lee Rankin, general counsel of the special commission, has asked the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department for "all raw material" in their files regarding Oswald. Obviously, the investigators feel these two agencies are withholding certain intelligence information concerning the killer.

The last batch of documents received from Russia regarding Oswald consists mainly of hospital records while he was living there. These reports are being studied for clues to a possible connection between his illness and subsequent violence.

The commission knows nothing about a report that the West German government has submitted information concerning Oswald. According to this account, the data were transmitted through the German embassy in Washington.

Dean Weaver Calls CIC Force in Higher Education

By LOIS HENNING
Staff Writer

John C. Weaver, dean of the graduate school and vice-president for research, has been appointed the new chairman of the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC), a group of Midwestern universities voluntarily bound to provide pools of specialized resources for graduate students.

Dean Weaver explained that the original purpose of CIC, established in 1953, was to improve the image of the twelve member universities. Participating universities include: the State University of Iowa, the University of Chicago, the University of Illinois, Indiana University, the University of Minnesota, Northwestern University, Ohio State University, Purdue University and the University of Wisconsin.

These universities account for a total enrollment of 320,000 students and one of every twelve bachelor and higher degrees awarded in this country. Each member pays $7,000 as an institute fee to the organization. In return, grants and projects have been increasingly offered to the universities.

"BEGUN as an experiment in potential for higher education, CIC has intrigued the imagination of universities throughout the nation," Dean Weaver explained.

Such innovations as the Travel Scholarship Program offered by the CIC have aroused interest. Under this plan, a graduate student at any of the member universities is allowed, without extra cost, to attend courses in his field at any other member university.

An SUI graduate student could pay, for example, in-state tuition and, if approved for the scholarship, take courses at the University of Chicago without extra payment. The credit earned at the travel school would be accepted by the home university and applied to the student's record.

According to Dean Weaver, there are three major concerns at present in the CIC. Having aroused interest and discussion since its beginning, the organization must now live up to the image it has pre-study of language, expository writing and literary criticism will be emphasized.

The first six weeks of the institute, which opened June 15, are devoted to three courses — Criticism and Interpretation of Literature, Introduction to the Study of Language, and Expository Writing. The courses will stress content and not methodological approaches to teaching, said Professor Braddock.

The final two weeks of the course are designed to help each teacher coordinate the material from the courses with the particular problems he faces as a school teacher.

Experts Defend the Moms Who Coo Back at Babies

By MARILYN HOLMES
Asst. Feature Editor

If you are one of those men who teases his wife about coddling her baby and accuses her of being "gushy," then STOP!!

In a recent report published by the American Medical Association (A.M.A.), psychiatrists and pediatricians said maternal "gushiness" is "highly important to the emotional development of children."

"The absence of such development, in turn, is a factor in mental retardation," they said.

They added that in 75 to 80 per cent of patients with mental retardation in this country, a lack of emotional development plays an important part.

All babies who have no congenital disorders start babbling and cooing in early infancy. Although the parent and child cannot understand each other's words, this "baby talk" is one of the most readily available means of communication.

Since words and the ability to link them into thoughts are important tools of learning, the child has difficulty in his emotional development if he does not learn them.

If the child is not encouraged when he starts babbling and cooing and no one cuddles and talks to him, he eventually loses interest and the other in which there were none, the effects would probably be more pronounced in the home with the only child because of the lack of stimulation from other children," he said.

Studies on maternal deprivation have been done which indicate that the warm response the mother or mother-substitute makes to the baby is very important, according to Mrs. Jane Friesema, graduate teaching assistant in marriage and the family.

"If the maternal function is not performed in the early years, there would seem to be an emotional and possibly a physical impairment," Mrs. Friesema said.

"Children who have grown up with insufficient response from the mother or mother substitute may be unable to sustain an affectionate relationship," she said.

When asked if it would make any difference whether the mother substitute is male or female, Mrs. Friesema said: "It is the maternal function that is important, not specifically the person who performs it."

The A.M.A. report did say that it is possible to "over-coddle" a child. Over-stimulation can push him too hard, make him develop too fast, and may result in behavioral problems later in life.

Yankees Split As Ford Wins 9th Straight

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone drove in four runs and Tom Tresh three as the New York Yankees whipped Boston 7-5 for Whitey Ford's ninth straight victory in the second game of a two-night double-header Tuesday.

The Red Sox won the opener 6-5, halting the Yankees' winning streak at seven.

Ford, who has lost only on opening day, survived a three-run first inning. He gave up 10 hits in seven innings before Pete Mikkelsen finished up.

Pepitone knocked in a run in the first with an infield out, doubled home another in the third and slammed a two-run homer in the fifth.

Dick Stuart slashed three singles and a double while Frank Malzone stroked three singles. Each drove in one run.

Malzone drove a two-run homer into the left field stands in the eighth inning, carrying Boston to a 6-5 triumph over New York in the first game.

Malzone connected off Jim Bouton after the Yankee starter walked Dick Stuart.

The Yankees made it close in their eighth when Roger Maris hit his 11th homer of the season.

NL Umps Shelve Plans for Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — The National League Umpires Association shelved plans Tuesday for a threatened strike July 3 and will meet with the league's Executive Committee in New York July 6 to discuss a pension plan increase.

At a news conference John J. Reynolds, Chicago attorney who represents the league's 20 umpires, said the umpire threat of "appropriate action," if pension benefits were not increased, would be suspended pending results of the July 6 meeting.

The session will be held the day before the annual All-Star Game in New York's Shea Stadium. Reynolds said that the decision to withhold a possible strike followed a letter he received Tues-

Wagner Homers In 8th as Tribe Stops Twins, 5-3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Wagner's eight-inning home run broke up a see-saw homer battle as the Cleveland Indians stopped the Minnesota Twins 5-3 Tuesday night.

Home runs put the Indians ahead three times, and Minnesota twice tied the game the same way.

The Indians took leads on rookie Bob Chance's two-run homer in the fourth and Woodie Held's seventh-inning clout. The Twins came back on homers by Rich Rollins in the fifth and in the eighth by Frank Kostro, who was acquired by the Twins from the Los Angeles Angels in a trade last Friday.

Phillies Stop Chicago, 4-2, To Keep Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny Callison's leaping one-handed catch of Billy Williams' long drive with two men on base cut short a seventh-inning rally and helped the Philadelphia Phillies trim the Chicago Cubs 4-2 Tuesday.

Williams slammed a 3-0 pitch off reliever Ed Roebuck and Callison raced to the wall in right-center field for his sensational catch after the Cubs had scored two runs on pinch batter Jimmy Stewart's single.

The catch not only saved Roebuck and the National League-leading Phillies but also helped starter Dennis Bennett gain his eighth victory against four losses. Roebuck replaced Bennett after Stewart had singled home the two runs.

The Phillies started their scoring in the second inning and might have had more than one run except for a great throw by Williams. Richie Allen opened the second with a single and advanced on an infield out. Roy Stevens singled to left and Williams threw Allen out at the plate.

Clay Dalrymple, however, followed with a double that scored Stevens. John Herrstein's home run in the third made it 2-0.

Open Champ Picks Lema Or Nicklaus as '64 Winner

WASHINGTON (AP) — If anybody's going to take away his National Open Golf title this week, Julio Boros figures it will be either Jack Nicklaus or Tony Lema, but he is not giving up yet.

"Let me drop a few good putts on the opening round and I ought to be in there," the forgotten defending champion said Tuesday, "but the guy for all of us to watch is the weatherman."

"If the winds continue to blow, or if they should drift, it would be a different tournament."

The Congressional Country Club course, where 150 of the world's best golfers tee off Thursday in the 64th U.S. championship, underwent a radical overnight change.

Pizarro Wins 8th in Opener On 3-Hit Effort

BALTIMORE (AP) — Juan Pizarro's three-hit pitching brought the American League leading Chicago White Sox a 5-0 first game victory over Baltimore Tuesday night, but the Orioles took the nightcap of the two-nighter 3-1 as Steve Barber pitched a four-hitter.

The split left the White Sox eight percentage points ahead of the Orioles.

Pizarro, bringing his record to 8-3, allowed the Orioles only singles and received home run support from Pete Ward and Floyd Robinson.

Barber, a 20-game winner last season, brought his record to 3-4 in the nightcap while pitching his first complete game of the year. He got all the support he needed when the Orioles scored three runs in the fourth.

Pizarro allowed only two hits, runners to reach second as he faced 30 batters. The two Orioles he walked were erased on double plays.

Chicago scored two runs off their Milt Pappas in the first inning of the opener, added two more on Ward's sixth-inning homer and Robinson homered in the eighth to complete the scoring.

In the nightcap, a walk and consecutive singles by Brooks Robinson, Charley Lau and Willie Kirkland scored two Baltimore runs in the fourth. Then Barber aided his own cause by singling in another run.

Danes Give Khrushchev Cool Reception

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev began a 19-day Scandinavian tour Tuesday with light-hearted hi-jinks but soon was warning his Danish hosts against thinking "we are dumb and you are clever."

Khrushchev was referring particularly to agriculture, a field in which Danes are experts. He admitted that, but told them tartly to "just wait and we will show you what a hell of a job we can do."

The premier seemed unabashed by an unspectacular reception. At a luncheon at Copenhagen's Town Hall he even violated his own strict no-drinking rules. He downed a tumbler of strong Danish schnapps, followed it with a beer chaser, and then sipped some wine.

Khrushchev and his party of family members and Soviet officials received a friendly but un-demonstrative reception when they sailed into Copenhagen aboard the Soviet government luxury liner Bashkiria. Denmark is the first stop in a tour that will also take the Soviet party of 40 to Norway and Sweden.

The Soviet leader seemed to take no notice of the cool reception. He appeared pleased by the few bursts of applause he did get from scattered knots of spectators.

Iowa City Employment Reaches Record Level

Total employment in the Iowa City area during May increased two per cent over the record level set in March, according to Iowa State Employment Service statistics.

The increase is apparently caused by a five per cent rise in manufacturing in the area and the normal seasonal upswing in construction, according to Bernard C. Barber, local Employment Service office manager.

Prof Re-elected to Post

Dr. James W. Markham, SUI professor of journalism and head of international communications, has been re-elected secretary of Kappa Tau Alpha, national scholarship fraternity in journalism.

The SUI chapter is one of more than forty chapters of Kappa Tau Alpha across the country.

Renaissance Group Sets Talk Series

SUI will honor Shakespeare, Marlowe, and Galileo on the 400th anniversary of their births this year with a lecture series during June and July. The series is entitled "Shakespeare - Marlowe - Galileo Quadracentennial."

The series will include six lectures and dramatic readings planned by the Renaissance Committee. Rhodes Dunlap, professor of English, is chairman.

Other members of the committee include C. A. Zimansky, Rosalie Colie, John Huntley, John McGalliard, Sven Amens, and William Paff, all professors of English. The lectures will be held in Shambaugh Auditorium.

Presented through the cooperation of the Graduate College and the summer session administration, the quadracentennial will include lectures by two noted scholars from off-campus and three SUI professors.

Marjorie Hope Nicolson, professor of English at Columbia University since 1941, and now of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, will open the series with a lecture titled "Shakespeare, and Galileo: Symbols of the Future" on June 19. Her talk will also be a feature of the summer lecture series.

A program of Marlowe-Shakespeare dramatic readings, directed by Paul Heimbarg, assistant professor of speech and dramatic arts, will be staged June 24. These cuttings will be aimed at demonstrating the development of the two dramatists in four years, using Marlowe's "Tamburlaine," 1587, and "Edward II," 1591, and Shakespeare's "Titus Andronicus," 1592, and "Richard III," 1596.

The tendencies shown are Marlowe's toward more spectacle and Shakespeare's toward greater character depth. Nine graduate and undergraduate students will appear in the program.

Prof. R. C. Bald of the University of Chicago will speak June 26 on "The Development of Shakespeare's Dramatic Art." A native of Australia and Cambridge graduate, he has been a Foyle Fellow of the Shakespeare Institute and a Guggenheim Fellow.

An illustrated lecture, "Dramatic Illusion in Shakespeare," will be given by Zimansky on June 30. "Religion and Subversion in Elizabethan England" will be the topic of Robert Kingdon, professor of history, July 2.

36 SUIowans To Show Ceramics in Cherokee

Thirty-six students from SUI will be represented in an extensive exhibit of ceramic art forms to be presented by the Sanford Museum in Cherokee during July and August. In addition, the former SUI students who have received master of fine arts degrees will show works in the exhibition.

The invitation of museum curator John Vincent, a 1960 SUI graduate. The 90 works to be shown include bottles, vases, jars, bowls, and many other pieces made in the ceramics area of the SUI Art Department. Most of the works will be for sale.

The exhibit has been assembled under the guidance of James McKinnell, assistant professor of art.

20-Year Highway Cost Nears $1 Billion

Iowa has spent about $1 billion on highways since the end of World War II. The figure was released recently by the Associated General Contractors of Iowa.

Less than 20 per cent of that figure has gone into the costly Interstate system. In the nine-month period ending March 31, 1964, the Iowa Highway Commission awarded just under $27 million for Interstate highways, bringing the state total to about $767 million.

In the 19 years since October 30, 1945, Iowa has spent $562 million in primary roads other than the Interstate system. Farm-to-Market Roads have totaled $308 million.

If this farmer knew what you know, his kids wouldn't go to bed hungry every night

He works a few acres of farmland as rich as most—over in Afghanistan. But he doesn't know—and nobody in his area knows—how to get enough food out of the good ground.

How to plow and plant and rotate. How to fertilize and cross-fertilize and harvest. How to can preserves or balance a diet or smoke a ham. How to get more milk from a cow, more eggs from a chicken, more bushels from an acre. How to drive a tractor, or fix it when it breaks down.

You know these things. You could teach those villagers what you know. As other men and women who know something about farming are doing now all over the world.

Through working in the Peace Corps. Doesn't that sound like a good way to spend two years of your life? A meaningful way to use the things you know? Write for information to The Peace Corps, Washington, D.C., 20525.

Quake Aftermath—

U.S. Air Force Aids Japan Fire Fighting

NIIGATA, Japan (AP) — The U.S. Air Force assigned fire-fighting planes Wednesday to the battle against huge oil fires blazing in this stricken port city after Tuesday's disastrous earthquake.

Police confirmed 22 dead, 11 missing and more than 200 injured, many seriously, in the 10 states rocked by the strongest quake to hit Japan since the 1923 catastrophe. Property damage ran into hundreds of millions of dollars.

Niigata, hardest hit, counted 10 known dead, 4 missing and 109 injured.

Rescue workers in the quake-shattered area of northern Japan searched the ruins for more dead as disaster relief crews moved into Niigata with food and water and equipment to battle the oil fires.

U.S. planes based at Tachikawa Air Base, near Tokyo, planned to pour 4,000 gallons of fire extinguishing chemicals on the burning oil tanks.

Virtually the only light in the city through the night came from the fires, and rescue workers labored in the light.

The quake hit at 1:01 p.m. local time Tuesday. It unleashed a mild tidal wave that broke a dike and flooded a large part of this industrial city of 340,000 population.

As night fell Niigata had no electricity, running water, or cooking gas. Buildings in the city withstood the quake in general, but more than 10,000 homes were flooded and 570 had collapsed, police reported. Forty of the city's 65 public schools were damaged.

Two big oil refineries exploded and burst into a raging fire that sent thick black clouds over the city.

It was the third disaster to strike Niigata in two decades. A U.S. air raid burned much of the city just before the end of World War II. The city was rebuilt — only to be leveled by a fire in October 1955 that caused $100 million damage.

Residents of the city lined up before trucks bringing them water. Officials estimated it will take four or five years to rehabilitate the city.

Plans were made for food to be ferried in. Several ships capsized in the river. Thousands of logs flooded into the streets.

Other cities which felt the quake included Murakami, Mizuhara, Mitsuke and Toyosaka.

lieve that we should have a choice in the selection of the candidate in San Francisco and that there are divergences of viewpoint within the Republican party."

HE WAS quick to point out, however, that in his opinion the differences within the Republican party are not as great as those within the Democratic party, specifically comparing the thoughts of Alabama Gov. George Wallace with those of Lyndon Johnson "at the moment."

The Pennsylvania governor added it is good for the public to know precisely what the feelings are within the Party "provided that we keep them impersonal. And that's what I'm going to do," he stated.

In a question-and-answer session after his address, one spectator asked Scranton what his position was with regard to social security and medicare.

The governor first pointed to Pennsylvania's medicare program, developed under the Kerr-Mills Act. He said he favored Federal action on the problem of medicare in addition to the provisions of the Kerr-Mills Act, but would have it financed under existing Federal income tax laws, not under an increased Social Security tax.

He pointed out that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has estimated the Social Security tax will have to be increased to 9 per cent by 1968 in order to continue the present rates of benefits.

IN ANSWER to a question about civil rights, Scranton reaffirmed his support of the civil rights bill now under consideration, but added, "I don't think it's the end-all of the problem of civil rights and neither does anybody else who looks at it objectively."

He went on to describe a plan he is working on for Pennsylvania which would provide special education for the unemployed after screening them to determine what type of education — technical, vocational, or elementary — these persons would need.

The governor said they hope to initiate a trial version of this program next year in one of the state's middle-sized cities, perhaps Pittsburg.

Scranton cavalcaded left Des Moines 30 minutes later than planned: the plane, a DC-6, did not finally leave until 10:25 a.m. (CDT), almost an hour and a half later than announced earlier.

AS HIS CAR moved onto the airport ramp, Scranton saw Mr. and Mrs. William Blackburn and Mrs. Shirley Percival, all of Des Moines, walking toward his plane. The governor ordered the car stopped and invited the Blackburns and Mrs. Percival into the car to ride the remaining yards.

After Scranton had boarded the plane, Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandrini, identified as Scranton's top political adviser, said the governor hopes to prevent a first-ballot nomination in order "to create opportunity for delegates to express their choice."

Alessandrini said that except for a hard-core of 250-300 Gold-water supporters, the delegates the Arizona senator claims committed to him are changeable.

"BEAR IN mind," he continued, "that in just three or four days we have gained incredible momentum."

"Look at our plane problems," he said. "We started out with about 20 reporters and then had to get another plane because the first one was too small to handle the newsmen who wanted to come. Now there are almost 50 and we had to turn away some last night."

In a statement for The Daily Iowan, Robert Ray, chairman of the Iowa Republican Party, said Gov. Scranton made a strong impression on all of the delegates. He added that George Nagle, 342 Lexington Ave., an at-large delegate and past-president of the state's Republican party, had telephoned him from Wisconsin to say that he, Nagle, was committing himself to Scranton (see story page 1).

NATIONAL Republican Committeeman from Iowa Charles Wittenmeyer of Davenport told The Iowan he is still not expressing any preference. "Even my wife doesn't know," he exclaimed.

"I can't say anything," Wittenmeyer explained. "I'm chairman of the convention's contest committee and if I were to voice a preference now it would make the work of the committee impossible."

Red Prince Denounces Raid As American, Not Laotian

KHANG KHAY, Laos (AP) — Speaking Tuesday above the distant rumble of another air attack against his territory, Prince Souphanouvong denounced a raid on this Pathet Lao headquarters town last Thursday as the work of American rather than Laotian Government pilots.

"The situation is tense in Laos because acts of sabotage are being committed by American imperialists," the Pathet Lao chief told diplomats and newsmen who flew to Khang Khay to discuss the crisis set off by the spring offensive of his Communist followers.

In line with Red China's arguments, he declared the only way to solve the crisis is to reconvene the 14-nation Geneva conference which agreed on neutrality and independence for Laos in 1962.

The Red prince said he was advised that his troops area, 15 miles northeast of Khang Khay captured the American reconnaissance pilot shot down June 6. Though that was 10 days ago, he said he is awaiting details.

The pilot has been identified in Washington as Navy Lt. Charles F. Klusmann, 30, of San Diego, Calif. Also held by the Pathet Lao is a commercial airman, Eugene DeBruin of Kaukauna, Wis., whose Air America transport was shot down on a supply-dropping mission last September.

Newsmen were told by Phoumi Vongvichit, leftist former information minister in Laos' coalition Government, that it will be impossible for International Red Cross representatives to see them.

"It will be unsafe for foreigners to see them due to the insecurity created in the country by the American imperialists," he said.

Laotian T28s were bombing Pathet Lao military installations six miles away as Souphanouvong talked with his visitors at his bullet-riddled villa, overlooking an artificial lake. Bomb explosions and Pathet Lao anti-aircraft fire could be heard clearly.

Helicopters of the three-nation control commission carried the diplomats and newsmen from Vietnamese across the Communist-held Plaine des Jarres to Khang Khay.

The diplomats were Indians, Canadians and Poles of the commission; the British charge d'affaires, John Denson, and the Soviet charge d'affaires, Vassily Techeplev, the latter two representing the nations that were co-chairmen of the 1962 Geneva conference.

Souphanouvong declared he was sure Americans manned the six T28 fighter-bombers which attacked Khang Khay, though he did not say why. The T28s are propeller-driven, U.S.-made planes the little Laotian air force is using in an effort to immobilize the Pathet Lao.

In addition to contributing those planes, the United States is making escorted reconnaissance flights to help Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma's Government determine the disposition and intentions of the Communist forces.

The U.S. Embassy and Souvanna have denied that American jets carried out missions last Wednesday and Thursday.

Ex-Iowan Is Winner A 10-year veteran of the Los Angeles Police Department and former SUI student has been named winner of the 1964-65 George Kukor Fellowship for graduate study at the University of Southern California in the cinema arts and sciences.

He is Richard Allen, 33, who studied voice at SUI for two years in 1948-50. He was present during the mix-up.

SUI Professor, Family Leave for Europe Anyway Prof. Eduard Naudascher and his family left for Europe Tuesday, after leaving the SUI Student Senate sponsored flight Monday, because of lack of space on the plane.

The Capital Air Ways plane had room for 113 passengers, but over 120 people originally boarded the plane at 8:00 p.m. Monday, because they had been informed they could hold children of any age on their laps.

SUI and Student Senate officials have started an investigation to unravel the chain of events that led to the flight mix-up.

Student Air Travel, Inc., arranged the flight on a special group rate with Capital Air Ways. Richard D. Small, an official of Student Air Travel, Inc., has not been reached for comment, but it is understood that it was his firm which said children held on their parent's laps could travel free on the flight.

A federal regulation, however, prohibits any child over two years of age from not having a separate seat in any airplane.

British Secretary To Moscow

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler informed Parliament Tuesday he is going to Moscow for talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko this summer to further Britain's search for East-West understanding.

He said he had accepted an invitation from Gromyko eight months after he had suggested such a meeting to the Russians.

His announcement of the Russian trip came at the end of a foreign policy survey in the House of Commons.

Aides reported the visit will be part business, part vacation, and will take Butler through the country on a tour that still is being arranged. The officials were unable to say if Butler had consulted Allied foreign ministers.

Opening a two-day foreign policy debate, Butler ranged the world's trouble spots, with these among the highpoints of his speech:

The Soviet-Chinese split has developed beyond the ideological stage into a conflict of national interests. The two countries now are competing for influence in Asia, Africa and the Middle East. If this were not enough, Communist countries today face "intractable problems" of economic growth.

Russia's East European partners are becoming "like children too big to be spanked." Britain intends to go on encouraging "the evolutionary trend in Eastern Europe" by adapting her policies, liberalizing trade and generally riding the winds of change.

Dixie Senators May Postpone Rights Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Insistence by a few Dixie bloc senators for a vote on all of their amendments raised the possibility Tuesday that expected passage of the civil rights bill might be delayed until next week.

The Senate continued to steamroll over one amendment after another offered by the Southern forces, but hundreds more were stacked up awaiting action if the authors want to call them.

Even some of the Southerners seemed willing to get on to the passage vote after bringing up only what they consider vital amendments. And the feeling among the leaders still seemed to be that the vote would come this week.

Hopes of winding up action on amendments Tuesday night and voting on the measure possibly Wednesday were dashed after the Dixie forces held a strategy conference.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Southern bloc, told newsmen, "Generally speaking, there seemed to be a consensus that it would be the part of wisdom only to call up those amendments that involve some matter of policy of principle of government."

However, he said, there was no agreement on which amendments fall into this category. It was decided, Russell said, to let each senator decide which of his amendments to bring up for a vote.

Russell was asked about word from House Democratic leaders that they are confident of sending the bill to President Johnson before adjourning for the Republican National Convention if the Senate completes action this week.

The Georgian replied there was no guarantee of the Senate finishing this week but he would not rule it out completely.

He explained that "one or two of our group may call up all of their amendments." He declined to name them.

Carpenters Talk Wages On Thursday

Iowa City Carpenters Union Local 1260, stalemated in a request for a higher wage scale, is scheduled to discuss local contractor's offers Thursday night in a final attempt to avert a strike Friday.

Talks with contractors Tuesday failed to settle any issues, according to J. L. Johnston, the union's business manager.

Negotiations for a new contract were suspended last Friday when the carpenters rejected an offer by local contractors of a 12½ cent an hour raise this year, followed by a 7½ cent an hour raise next year.

Johnston said the Iowa City local wants the same wage scale received by carpenters in Cedar Rapids. His union's rate, he said, is now 10 cents an hour less than the Cedar Rapids level, and will be 20 cents an hour less than it next year.

Members of the Iowa City local now receive $3.65 hourly. Their contract with local builders expired April 30.

The union served 30-day strike notice May 19.

Johnston said some of the 125 members of his local are now working on six major SUI buildings.
