for a hard-core of 250-300 Goldwater supporters, the delegates at the Arizona senator claims committed to him are changeable.

"BEAR IN mind," he continued, "that in just three or four days we have gained incredible momentum."

"Look at our plane problems," he said. "We started out with about 20 reporters and then had to get another plane because the first one was too small to handle the newsmen who wanted to come. Now there are almost 50 and we had to turn away some last night."

In a statement for The Daily Iowan, Robert Ray, chairman of the Iowa Republican Party, said Gov. Scranton made a strong impression on all of the delegates. He added that George Nagle, 342 Lexington Ave., an al-large delegate and past-president of the state's Republican party, had telephoned him from Wisconsin to say that he, Nagle, was communicating himself to Scranton (see story page 1).

NATIONAL Republican Committeeman from Iowa Charles Wittenmeyer of Davenport told the Iowan he is still not expressing his preference. "Even my wife doesn't know," he explained.

"I can't say anything," Wittenmeyer explained. "I'm chairman of the convention's contest committee and if I were to voice a preference now it would make the work of the committee impossible."

foreign interests, with these among the highpoints of his speech:

The Soviet-Chinese split has developed beyond the ideological stage into a conflict of national interests. The two countries now are competing for influence in Asia, Africa and the Middle East. If this were not enough, Communist countries today face "intractable problems" of economic growth.

Russia's East European partners are becoming "like children too big to be spanked." Britain intends to go on encouraging "the evolutionary trend in Eastern Europe" by adapting her policies, liberalizing trade and generally riding the winds of change.

VISITORS INCREASE

OTTAWA (P) — Foreign vehicles entering Canada on travelers permits — a key indication of the state of tourist trade — increased 16.6 per cent in May over the same month of 1963.

The war's tempo was rising after a relative lull for a month.

About 600 guerrillas hit Duc Hoa at 3:30 a.m., setting off a three-hour battle whose sights and sounds carried to Saigon like a thunderstorm. The Viet Cong troops were backed by mortars, recoilless rifles and machine guns.

The defenders suffered 51 casualties, including 15 dead.

Nineteen of the guerrillas were known to have been killed and U.S. advisers estimated the toll may have reached 50 or 60.

The sharp action lent emphasis to developments elsewhere:

Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who will succeed Gen. Paul D. Harkins on Aug. 1 as commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, said he would not rule out attacks on Communist North Viet Nam, though that would be a matter for the U.S. Government to decide. He told newsmen in Malaysia, where he has studied techniques that put down a 12-year Communist revolt, that the war against the Viet Cong is reaching its most critical stage. He said he believes the Saigon government will triumph, but victory may be slow in coming.

A senior U.S. military adviser who declined to be identified by name or rank told newsmen at a Saigon briefing that the Communist threat is more serious than it was when he came to Viet Nam nearly three years ago. He said the Viet Cong are better armed and disciplined than they were when he first encountered them and that, though the government forces are improving, this rate of improvement is "not enough to win the war." He said the biggest problem is getting the Vietnamese Government and Army to accept American advice.

The independent English-language Saigon Post predicted that Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, the strong man premier, will hand power by Friday to a civilian cabinet possibly headed by Vu Van Mau, now ambassador to Britain. A government spokesman denied this report and usually well-informed Western sources said no such shakeup appeared imminent.

In Washington, meanwhile, U.S. officials said Wednesday the United States is keeping open the possibility of hitting North Viet Nam hard enough to force it out of the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam and the fighting in Laos.

Just what form this strike to the north would take and the circumstances that would bring it about were not stated.

But one condition could be a conclusion that the North Vietnamese role in both areas is being stepped up and the risks of dealing with it through a strike to the north would be less than not doing so.

The official sources, discussing this, said for the time being the situation has settled down a bit in Laos and the anti-guerrilla campaign in South Viet Nam is not losing and perhaps making some headway.

The officials ruled out U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam and said it is important to resist the Communist encroachment on the Plain des Jarres of Laos.

In the view of U.S. strategists, the South Viet Nam and Laos situations are interrelated, both in a military sense and in the psychological impact of events in either place.

Thus the Communists cannot be allowed to treat the Plain des Jarres, which they overran in May, as something which is theirs and bargain over what is left, it was stated.

The U.S. officials sketched this picture: The Reds have been violating the Geneva accords on Laos' independence and neutrality ever since they were signed in 1962. The May Pathet Lao-Viet Minh offensive on the Plain des Jarres was carefully prepared and was not a result of a previous right-wing coup in Vientiane.

The United States has need to apologize for its reconnaissance flights over Laos, undertaken at the request of neutralist Premier Sauvanna Phouma. The armed escorts for the photo planes fire only when fired upon.

Tot Electrocuted By Heating Lamp

CLINTON (P) — A 2-year-old boy was electrocuted in a brooder house on his grandfather's farm near here Wednesday.

The lad was Michael David Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gray of Niles.

The boy went into the brooder house on the Ray Eggers farm in rural Clinton and came in contact with a heating lamp, which fell over or was pulled over on him. There was a puddle of water on the floor, authorities said.

A spokesman said the proposal applies to some 30 products, made by about 11 basic manufacturers, and sold mostly without prescription. The FDA included no trade names in its generic listing.

21-Year-Old Women To Hear Regulations

All women who are 21 or will be this summer and are living in residence halls or off-campus are to meet today at 3:15 p.m. in Shambaugh Auditorium. Regulations governing women over 21 will be explained.

Barry off main track on civil rights vote

BARRY GOLDWATER HAS TAKEN A detour from the "mainstream" of Republican thought on what will be the greatest domestic issue of the Presidential campaign — civil rights.

Goldwater was one of the 6 out of 33 Republicans who voted against invoking the cloture rule on the civil rights bill and now hints that he will vote against the bill itself.

The Senators that Goldwater associated himself with on the cloture vote do not represent any stronghold of Republican power.

The other Senators were Wallace E. Bennett of Utah, Edwin L. Mechem of New Mexico, Milton R. Young of North Dakota, Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming and John G. Tower of Texas.

The western states represent a small fraction of the electoral vote, and Texas belongs to President Johnson.

Goldwater has acted consistently with his past attitude toward civil rights at a time when all responsible leaders recognize the necessity for action, however watered down it may be on this important domestic problem.

There seems to be little evidence that the Arizona Senator is moderating his views, as some of the Republicans have been wishfully thinking.

At least on this vital domestic issue, it appears that Goldwater is going to maintain his principles, however alienated they are from the mainstream of Republican — and American — thought.

HUAC on the loose in Minneapolis

THAT GREAT DEFENDER OF FREEDOM and the American way of life, the House Uni-American Activities Committee, is at again.

HUAC, one of Congress's most itinerant committees, will hold hearing in Minneapolis June 24-26. Eleven Minnesotans, including one University of Minnesota student, have been subpoenaed to appear before the Committee.

None of the witnesses were informed by the Committee why they were being subpoenaed.

The mandate for HUAC nominally limits its activities to investigation of "un-American propaganda activities." But in the past, HUAC has stretched itself far beyond this limitation.

It has indulged in investigation of past associations of witnesses and accusation of communism and subversion. Since HUAC is a Congressional committee, it is under no obligation to present evidence or justify its investigation.

Also, since HUAC cannot technically try an individual, the witness does not have the right to cross-examine his accusers nor may his council address the Committee.

These technical limitations do not prevent HUAC from being harmful to an individual. Some people have either lost their jobs or been blacklisted as a result of HUAC hearings, since the Committee makes its accusations, proven or otherwise, public.

In the scheduled Minneapolis hearings, HUAC has added another incident to its follies. The names of all the subpoenaed witnesses appeared in the press June 10. None of the subpoenaed witnesses released the information.

In its "Rules of Procedures," adopted in 1961, HUAC states, "No member of the committee or staff shall make public the name of any witness subpoenaed before the committee or subcommittee prior to the date of his appearance."

The public announcement of the witnesses names, two weeks before their appearance, is a direct violation of HUAC's own rules. HUAC might pause from its "investigations" and try to justify this last violation.

HUAC persists in its questionable activities, the responsibility for its blunders lies with the House of Representatives. The Senate had to take the responsibility for the outrages committed in its name by the late Senator McCarthy.

Buchwald says—

Where were the pollsters in 1776?

By ART BUCHWALD

The political pollster has become such an important part of the American scene that it's hard to imagine how this country was ever able to function without him.

What would have happened, for example if there were political pollsters in the early days of this country?

This is how the results might have turned out. When asked if they thought the British were doing a good job in administrating the Colonies, this is how a cross section of the people responded:

BRITISH DOING GOOD JOB 63 per cent
NOT DOING GOOD JOB 22 per cent
DON'T KNOW 15 per cent

BUCHWALD

The next question, "Do you think the dumping of tea in the Boston Harbor by militants helped or hurt the taxation laws in the New World?"

HURT THE CAUSE OF TAXATION 79 per cent
HELPED THE CAUSE 12 per cent

DIDN'T THINK IT WOULD MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE 9 per cent

"What do you think our image is in England after the Minute Men attacked the British at Lexington?"

MINUTE MEN HURT OUR IMAGE IN ENGLAND 33 per cent

GAVE BRITISH NEW RESPECT FOR COLONIES 10 per cent

UNDECIDED 7 per cent

"Which of these two Georges can do more for the Colonies — George III or George Washington?"

GEORGE III 76 per cent

GEORGE WASHINGTON 14 per cent

OTHERS 10 per cent

It is interesting to note that 80 per cent of the people questioned had never heard of George Washington before.

The next question was, "Do you think the Declaration of Independence as it is written is a good document or a bad one?"

GOOD DOCUMENT 12 per cent

BAD DOCUMENT 14 per cent

NO OPINION 84 per cent

A group of those polled felt that the Declaration of Independence had been written by a bunch of radicals and the publishing of it at this time would only bring harsher measures from the British.

When asked whether the best way to bring about reforms was through terrorism or redress to the Crown an overwhelming proportion of Colonists felt appeals should be made to the King.

REFORM THROUGH PETITION 24 per cent

REFORMS THROUGH ACTS OF TERRORISM 8 per cent

DON'T KNOW 66 per cent

The pollsters then asked what the public thought was the most crucial issue of the time.

TRADE WITH FOREIGN NATIONS 65 per cent

WAR WITH INDIANS 20 per cent

THE INDEPENDENCE ISSUE 15 per cent

The survey also went into the question of Patrick Henry.

"Do you think Patrick Henry did the right thing in demanding liberty or death?"

DID A FOOLHARDY THING AND

WAS A TROUBLE MAKER 53 per cent

DID A BRAVE THING AND MADE HIS POINT 23 per cent

SHOULD HAVE GONE THROUGH THE COURTS 6 per cent

DON'T KNOW 8 per cent

On the basis of the results of the poll the militant Colonials decided they did not have enough popular support to foment a revolution and gave up the idea of creating a United States of America.

Madame Nhu barred from touring U.S.

Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, on direct orders of Secretary Rusk, is being prevented from coming to the U.S. for a nationwide lecture tour "to tell the American people the truth about South Viet Nam."

Her first scheduled talk is before the Conservative Party of New York on July 7.

Barring a complete State Department reversal, the outspoken sister-in-law of the slain President Diem will not fill that engagement — nor any others, at least until after the November elections.

Abba Schwartz, director of the Bureau of Consular & Security Affairs, whose "advisory opinions" have cleared the way for the admission of a number of controversial aliens, is personally handling the stalling of Madame Nhu's application for a six-month visitor's visa.

Miss Nguyen Thi Thuan, secretary to Madame Nhu, in a letter to Charles Hasteck, an official of the Conservative Club of Flushing, N.Y., has outlined her plans to counter the State Department's efforts to muzzle her. Highlights are as follows:

"If the State Department refuses a visa to Madame Nhu, she is contemplating sending her daughter instead to present the address. If Madame Nhu decides to publicly release her letter to Secretary Rusk, she will inform you.

HER AIM in life is to expose the truth about Viet Nam, and she therefore does not hesitate before the blocks put in her way to the telling of the truth, no matter how much controversy that will be created by her.

STATE DEPARTMENT insiders say that Schwartz, who has been under sharp congressional fire for some time, is planning to delay the granting of her visa as long as possible in the hope that will cause the more blocks that are put in her way, the more it means that there are powerful persons who do not want the truth told and the more reason there is to tell it."

In the event Madame Nhu does come to the U.S., her secretary has asked Hasteck, a business executive, to provide guards through a private detective agency. The secretary said this was necessary because of threats on Madam Nhu's life.

TO FINANCE HER proposed nationwide lecture tour, Madame Nhu is asking $1,500 and expenses for each talk. Fees for TV-radio interviews are $500 per half hour.

Friends of the one-time "First Lady" report she has no income, as the present Viet Nam government confiscated the property of her family as well as that of her bachelor brother-in-law, the late President Diem.

VARIOUS reports have put the value of this property in the millions. The State Department has officially denied this.

Rep. Clement Zablocki, (D-Wis.), a ranking member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, asked the department to comment on these widely-circulated allegations. In reply the department stated, "The U.S. government cannot attest to the veracity of stories concerning the wealth of the Nhu and Diem families."

A NUMBER OF MEMBERS of Congress have sent inquiries to Secretary Rusk about Madame Nhu's stalled visa.

So far he has answered none of them.

PRAISE WHERE IT BELONGS — The smooth and systematic enactment of President Johnson's "must" legislative program by the House of Representatives is no accident.

It's due primarily to careful planning and forceful and astute leadership by a small group of veteran Democrats, foremost among them Speaker John McCormack, Mass. The lanky, white-maned Bostonian is rarely singled out for public praise, but a knowledgeable colleague went out of his way to do that in a chat with President Johnson.

IT OCCURRED at a White House meeting between the President and the powerful House Rules Committee. The President was ticking off various difficult measures that have been passed.

"Do you know why the House approved your farm bill?" asked Representative James Delaney, (D-N.Y.).

"It was a good piece of legislation," replied the President.

"Yes, but that wasn't the real reason," said Delaney. "The real reason your bill was approved was because of personal friendship for Speaker McCormack. I can give you the names of at least 30 members who voted for that bill solely because John McCormack asked them to do so, and they feel they couldn't let him down. If he hadn't gone to bat for your bill, it would have been defeated."

THERE ARE A LOT of other instances of the same thing. Take the transportation bill. If it wasn't for our personal friendship for John McCormack, that legislation would still be hung up in the Rules Committee. You don't have to take my word for that; ask the other members here in this room."

"I don't question your word, Jim," said Johnson. "I know full well how greatly indebted I am to John McCormack."

Kornfeld's solution: move into the shaft.

The 6-foot-3, 180-pound Oklahoman started his career as the phantom of Silliman College last fall. He tried living in the attic of the rambling, 24-year-old building, but after two months of sleeping on an old couch and using abandoned university furniture, he began to attract the attention of campus police.

In November, after searching through the building with a flashlight and passkey, he took up housekeeping in the shaft.

Lake Macbride Camp Adapted by Workshop

By MARILYN HOLMES
Assistant Feature Editor

The SUI Macbride Field Campus at Lake Macbride was a beehive of activity last week as graduate students and teachers in a women's physical education camping workshop cleared a camp site and pitched their tents.

The campers had no ready-made facilities for comfortable outdoor living, so they constructed their own. Facilities constructed included a wash stand and food preparation table, a latrine, garbage disposal pits, water disposal pits, and a Chippewa Kitchen.

The Chippewa Kitchen is a storage kitchen consisting of four long poles that come to a point at the top. All cooking was done on an open fire. Campers even picked the cherries for fresh cherry cobbler.

Workshop registrants were required to build this camp site as a part of their course credit assignment.

Workshop participants' courses during morning and afternoon sessions included nature study and four outdoor sports — casting and fishing, field archery, firearms safety, and orienteering.

Speakers in the nature study courses were: Bryan Glenister, SUI associate professor of geology, fossils; Robert King, professor of zoology, insects; and Paul Sorenson, graduate assistant in Botany, plants.

Evening sessions included courses in nature crafts, nature trails, and astronomy. John Bixler, a teacher at the hospital school, brought a telescope and explained its use one evening. On another evening, Paul Sorenson showed slides on local flora.

For the first two or three days of the workshop the campers were hampered by strong winds, which gave them a practical lesson in holding down billowing tents and tarps.

Mrs. Barbara Busse, on a study furlough at SUI from the Presbyterian Mission to Iran, was among the campers. She plans to start a camp for her church group when she returns home.

One student who thought she would never shoot a bow and arrow is now planning to build her own archery range at the camp she directs.

"One of the primary values of the workshop was that it gave the campers practical experience," said Dr. Van der Smissen. "They had no facilities and had to make everything," she added. "It was a wonderful test of their camping skills."

Congress for Legislation But Beef Imports Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is having little luck in getting Congress to drop legislation which would impose tighter controls on imports of beef even though foreign supplies have fallen off in recent months.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman told a House Interstate Commerce Committee recently that imports this year will be down to the 1958-63 average — the level sought in legislation pending in both houses of Congress and being pushed by cattlemen.

Freeman said there was no need for the legislation because of the lower level of foreign supplies.

Despite this, the Senate finance Committee called him to appear before it Wednesday to testify on the legislation.

The low cattle prices — blamed by many livestockmen on imports and by the Agriculture Department on increased domestic production — has become a political issue between Democrats and Republicans. Sen. Carl T. Curtis, (R-Neb.), disagreed sharply Wednesday with Freeman.

Freeman told Freeman at the Senate Finance Committee hearing that the department's own figures show an increase of 25 per cent in imports so far this year and not a decrease of 25 per cent.

Curtis contended that foreign beef was being withheld temporarily "for political economic effect."

In reply, Freeman said there was "some implication of a mis-use of figures" and said the department had no control over when meat was put into consumption.

"Imports are down this quarter and will be down by the end of the year," Freeman said, adding that the figures used were "not for political purposes and they have not been twisted or distorted."

300 Demonstrate For Strikers In Ottumwa

OTTUMWA (AP) — More than 300 persons marched on the Winger-Boss manufacturing plant and the Winger main offices Wednesday afternoon, in an apparent sympathy demonstration for striking workers.

The marchers included members of Local 1 of the United Packinghouse Workers and Local 74 of the United Auto Workers.

Some 20 workers have been on strike at the Winger-Boss plant since May 1. They are members of the United Steelworkers Union, Local 6223.

Police described Wednesday's demonstration as orderly.

Winger-Boss manufactures metal products for packinghouse firms. Negotiations between a union bargaining board and company officials, in the presence of a federal mediator, have failed to settle the strike.

Prince Edward County Told To Reopen Public Schools

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal court Wednesday ordered Prince Edward County supervisors to act by June 25 to appropriate county funds sufficient for the reopening and operation of closed public schools.

The court said that it appeared the supervisors did not intend to comply willingly and hence the enforcement order was written.

It appeared to be the final order hoped it was — in the 13-year litigation over operation of Prince Edward county schools which resulted in the closing of public classrooms in the county in 1959.

This move was made when the supervisors shut off funds to avoid court-ordered racial desegregation.

Lewis turned down a bid by counsel for the Negro plaintiffs to order hiring of a public school faculty and school employees on a non-discriminatory basis. He said it was not part of the case before him or the supreme court mandate.

Nor did he follow the original request of counsel for the Negro pupils to spell out the amount of money that should be appropriated.

IHSAA Turns Down Proposal For Prep Grid Tournaments

BOONE (AP) — A proposal to hold a high school football tournament to determine six class champions has been turned down by the Iowa High School Athletic Association.

"Our board members just felt that there isn't any place in our program for playoff games or all-star games," Lyle Quinn, executive secretary of the association, said Wednesday in announcing the decision.

Quinn said the association's Board of Control met Tuesday night and voted against the proposal, which had been advanced by the newly organized Iowa Football Coaches Association.

Quinn said his association has had a long-standing policy against football playoffs or all-star games. He added that "several school administrators came in and protested against the proposal."

Schools that participated in such football games would not be allowed to participate in the association's programs, Quinn said, and "as far as we are concerned this is the end of it."

The coaches association, organized in March, had proposed that the football tournament be held in 1965.

Ted Lawrence, football coach at Cedar Rapids Jefferson, said he was surprised to hear the athletic association's decision "because we had not asked them about it."

He said he was not ready to announce what future action his association planned to take on the proposal.

In announcing the rejection of playoff games, the athletic association said:

"The Board of Control . . . discussed the desirabilities and educational values associated with a program of football and post-season football activities."

"It was the decision of the Board of Control that the Iowa High School Athletic Association would not sponsor, sanction or approve the participation of its member schools in a program of post-season football playoffs, and/or all-star high school football games."

Greek Fans Riot At Soccer Match

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Thousands of fans rioted at a soccer match in Athens on Wednesday, clashing with police on the field, ripping up railings and goal posts and setting fire to nets and dressing rooms.

About 25,000 fans surged into the field shouting that the game between two of the country's top soccer teams — Panathinaikos of Athens and Olympiacos of Piraeus — had been fixed. The game ended in a 1-1 tie.

Club-swinging police battled the fans and drove them from the field.

The Angels broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth when Joe Adcock singled and went to third on Ed Kirkpatrick's double. Bob Rodgers scored Adcock with a sacrifice fly and Bobby Knoop drove in a second run with a squeeze bunt.

Los Angeles 7 — Bob Lee and Bob Duliba put down late-inning threats Wednesday night as the Los Angeles Angels completed their first winning trip of the season with a 3-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

Lee came on for starter Bo Belinsky in the eighth with one out after Ed Brinkman tripled and John Kennedy singled. He got Chuck Hinton and Moose Skowron on ground outs.

In the ninth, Lee walked the first two batters, Dor Lock and Jim King. Duliba took over. Lock was picked off when Mike Brumley missed a bunt. Brumley then fled out and Duliba ended it by getting Dick Phillips to bounce back to the mound.

The Angels won six and lost five on the trip ended here.

Pesky Picks Yanks To Win AL Pennant

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Pesky's Boston Red Sox have beaten the New York Yankees more times than any other club has this season, six in nine meetings after Wednesday's 4-3 victory in 12 innings.

But the sharp little skipper still thinks the Yankees are the club most likely to win the American League pennant. Pesky disagrees with Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox and Hank Bauer of the Baltimore Orioles that the Yankees are not as strong as last year. The White Sox currently are in first place with the Orioles second.

"The Yankees look the same to me as they always have," Pesky said. "They're just as tough to beat. Even when you beat 'em you know you've had a fight on your hands."

A week ago, during Baltimore's visit to Chicago, Bauer was quoted as saying, "The Yankees are through." That was, of course, before the Yankees swept a five-game series from the White Sox.

Lopez, on the same television program with Bauer, agreed that the Yankees had degenerated and were ripe to be taken.

"I'm not surprised at Lopez's statement," Pesky said. "He's been preaching the Yankees can be beaten for years. But Hank should know better. He was a Yankee for many years."

"The Yankees are closing in," Pesky mused. "Well, I'd still like 'em if they were five games out."

Orioles Regain League Lead

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bonus Ruth Wally Bunker throttled the Chicago White Sox 6-1 on six hits Wednesday night, putting the Baltimore Orioles back into first place in the tight American League pennant race.

By winning, the Orioles moved 10 percentage points ahead of the White Sox and 1½ games ahead of New York, which lost 4-3 to Boston Wednesday.

Baltimore backed the 19-year-old right-hander with 10 hits, including home runs by Jackie Brandt and rookie Sam Bowens, who drove in two runs apiece.

It was the seventh victory in nine decisions for Bunker. Chicago's only run off the poised youngster, was a Homer by Gene Stephens in the fifth. Bunker pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth.

Palmer's Caddie Quits Suddenly—Too Much Tension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer's caddie quit him Wednesday on the eve of the National Open Golf Tournament — he said he couldn't stand the pressure.

"I'm a nervous wreck," said Eli Morrison, a wiry, 31-year-old Negro who voluntarily blew the dream of most every bag-trotter in the world.

"I thought about it all night. I couldn't sleep. I tossed and turned. I couldn't sleep."

"Then I decided I couldn't do it. All them people pushing and shoving. All that tension out there. I didn't feel up to the pace."

Eli was trembling and on the verge of tears when he disclosed his surprising decision in front of the caddie shop, run by ex-fighter Jocko Miller.

The caddie said he realized he was giving up one of a caddy's most desired assignments and perhaps blowing a $1,000 check in case Palmer, a favorite for the title, should win.

"I decided money didn't mean that much to me," Eli said. "I can't take it here."

He patted the place where his heart is.

Palmer was surprised but not taken aback by the event.

"I went up to get my clubs and I asked Jocko, 'Where's my caddie?'" Palmer said. "Jocko said, 'Here he is.' I looked up and I was facing a giant. I almost swallowed my adam's apple."

The man assigned to Palmer was William Bryant, a hulk of a man who stands 6-5 and weighs 230 pounds. He has a heavy mustache and a goatee.

Besides Nicklaus and Palmer, the ranking favorites include Tony Lema, whose blast-hot putter has carried him to two straight tournament victories; lazy-swinging Jul-

Muscle Boys Favored As Open Play Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Muscle instead of finesse is the keynote and so two of the game's mightiest hitters, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, go to the tee as 4-to-1 co-favorites today in the 1964 National Open Golf Championship — already dubbed the "Bogey Open."

"There will be more bogeys and fewer birdies in this tournament than in years," predicted Palmer, the golfing millionaire with the blacksmith's arms who hopes to add this title to the Masters as the second link in his bid for a professional grand slam.

"There won't be more than eight or 10 rounds under par all week," said Nicklaus, the 210-pound Ohioan who at 24 promises to set records surpassing those of the great Jocko and Ben Hogan.

There is general awe and respect — and a little bitterness for the massive 6,033-yard Congressional Country Club course where 150 of the world's best players play 72 holes in three days for the world's most coveted golfing prize.

"It's long and it's tough. There are bunkers and rising knots in most of the fairway hitting areas. The rough grows like knotty rope along the unusually broad fairways. Water guards three strategic holes.

The players contend that there is not a birdie hole in the entire 18, which plays par 35-37-70. It's expected to be fair and cool, with temperatures in the 70's and no wind today and Friday, with rain possible Saturday for the double round showdown.

Besides Nicklaus and Palmer, the ranking favorites include Tony Lema, whose blast-hot putter has carried him to two straight tournament victories; lazy-swinging Julian Boros, the defending champion; Bill Casper Jr., the putting wizard from Apple Valley, Calif., and Gary Player, the South African who looms as the chief foreign threat.

Nicklaus played 52 holes at Congressional before he got his first birdie. Palmer said he had played six rounds and averaged no more than a birdie a round, with bogeys plentiful. Lema, who made 23 birdies in winning the Buick Open last week, shot a 78 on his first practice tour. "It was like digging ditches," Lema said.

The Phils wasted leads of 3-1 and 5-2 as the Cubs cut loose with an 11-5 hit.

Baldschun, third Phil pitcher, had kept the Cubs from hitting the ball out of the infield when he took over with a bases-loaded none-out situation from Dallas Green in the sixth. He got out of the jam by yielding only one run.

Lyne James, a 21-year-old Welshman, died in a London hospital early Wednesday, six hours after he had been knocked out in the sixth and

Engineering Building Embarrassment

At left, oil, broken glass, and a broken wall litter the scene as the men in background strain against a block and tackle hook up to slide a two and one-half ton diesel engine across the floor of the Mechanical Engineering Building Wednesday afternoon after it fell from a truck bed as it was being taken outside for transfer to another truck for shipment to Louisville, Ky., to be sold for scrap. At right, the same engine hangs from a hoist as a University truck driver (who declined to be identified) drove the truck under it. On this, the second try, the men succeeded in getting the engine out of the building.

C.I.A. Involvement Hinted—

U.S. Halts Combat Flights By Americans in Congo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has abruptly halted combat flights by American pilots against rebel tribesmen in the Congo who reportedly have Chinese Communists backing.

There was no official comment on reports the action involved some clash of purposes between the State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). The reports said the CIA has supplied the pilots.

The announcement that the flights had been stopped was made at the State Department after several days of confusion and embarrassment over whether such operations were taking place.

Tuesday the State Department reversed previous denials and acknowledged that combat missions had been flown by Americans under civilian contract to the Congoese Government.

Officials said privately the activity has been small-scale, involving three pilot-mechanics and half a dozen airplanes of the T-28 type.

The Congolese Army has been fighting rebellious tribesmen in the Kivu Province area of the eastern Congo.

Methodists Boost Budget by $80,040

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Delegates to the North Iowa Methodist Conference approved a $1,367,822 budget Wednesday for 1964-65, an increase of $80,040 over the current budget.

Figures presented to delegates showed membership in the conference has reached a record 154,446 members, an increase of 793 persons over 1963.

Full conference membership and elder's orders were voted to eight young ministers Wednesday. They were to be formally received into the conference Thursday morning.

In other action Wednesday, the conferences voted to proceed with a $200,000 capital funds appeal for the Sioux City Methodist Hospital.

Bicycle Regulations

Starting next week, a violation of the SUI bicycle regulations will result in a fine of $1 for the first offense, $2 for the second offense, and $3 for third and subsequent offenses, according to Campus Police.

Disciplinary action may result from offenses after the third violation. Fines may be appealed by filing a written appeal at the Campus Police office within seven days of the violation date.

The regulations for bicycles are:

- All bicycles used on campus must be registered with the Iowa City Police and must comply with Iowa City bicycle ordinances.

- No student, faculty or staff member shall ride a bicycle on any University sidewalk or on any sidewalk adjacent to the campus.

- In the Pentacrest and adjacent areas and in all other areas where bicycle stands are available, bicycles may be parked only in those stands.

- No bicycle shall be parked so as to limit in any way entrance to a building or the use of a sidewalk, drive or street.

- No bicycle shall be parked in or upon any University building, or in the window areas of any building.

- The University Police may impound any bicycle not bearing an Iowa City registration and parked at any point on campus.

- No motorcycle or motor scooter shall be ridden except upon a street or driveway. No such vehicle shall be parked on campus except in parking areas designated for use by such vehicles, and in no case in violation of bicycle regulations.

- No bicycle, motorcycle or motor scooter shall be parked in such a way that it interferes with the use of a parking facility by other vehicles.

SUI Improvements—

Record $23 Million Asked from Regents

SUI has requested nearly $23 million for improvements of old buildings and construction of new ones during the 1965-67 biennium.

SUI officials requested the record-setting amount Wednesday at the State Board of Regents meeting in the Iowa City campus. The Regents are considering budgets for the two-year period to determine the amounts it will request of the January session of the Iowa Legislature.

The $23 million figure includes 17 projects to be undertaken during the 1965-67 period. This figure does not include $4,762,000 SUI expects to receive from the federal government for some of the projects.

The SUI figure of $22,615,000 is nearly half the capital improvements being considered for the biennium for the six institutions controlled by the Board.

Iowa State University at Ames is requesting $21,980,000, and State College of Iowa wants $4,276,000. The three smaller institutions bring the total to $51,066,365.

SUI PRESIDENT Virgil M. Hancher said the high figures were needed to balance the 1945-55 decade when there was no building. In the 34-year period 1925 through 1959 the Legislature appropriated only $833,215 for all six institutions.

Like many colleges and universities, SUI is caught in the dilemma of overcrowded classrooms, lack of space and a rapidly growing enrollment. SUI's enrollment — 13,000 last fall — is expected to grow to 15,400 by the fall of 1966.

Stressing the importance of approving the requests, the SUI written report reads:

"Failure to meet these needs can only restrict SUI's development at one of the most critical periods in the history of higher education . . . and to impair its ability to perform the tasks for which it was conceived."

"The University feels every project . . . is essential to meet the demands of the present and immediate future, and that no item should be deleted from it."

ONE OF THE 17 projects under consideration is $2,750,000 music building on the projected Fine Arts Campus on the west edge of the Iowa River. The SUI report says the Music Department has made great accomplishments "largely in makeshift facilities."

Vacating the present buildings would relieve pressure on East Hall—the most overcrowded building on campus. The music buildings would allow office space for 138 persons and room for moving the Education Library.

Another major project is a new basic science building on the West Campus. The new building — estimated at $3.5 million — would give added space to the Medical Library.

To relieve crowded facilities for humanities, social sciences and foreign languages, the SUI officials are asking for $2 million for a classroom and office building, probably near the planned English building on the Library parking lot.

An additional $3 million for another addition to the Main Library is also requested. Listed as parts four and five, the project would add 175,000 square feet of floor space.
