

National, State Searchers Comb Mississippi Swamps

Sailors Join Intensive Hunt For Missing 3

Authorities Fear Rights Workers Already Dead, Admit 'Found Nothing'

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — A hundred dungaree-clad sailors, under Presidential order, combed a swampy region near here Thursday in a fruitless search for three missing civil rights workers.

As a darkness settled over this tense east-central Mississippi town, the sailors boarded trucks and returned to their quarters at the nearby Meridian Naval Auxiliary Air Station.

"THEY FOUND nothing," a state highway patrol official told newsmen.

"The search will be resumed tomorrow at first light," a Navy spokesman said. "We will increase to 200 men if the situation warrants."

The spokesman refused to comment on whether Navy search parties unearthed any clues, saying such information must come from the Defense Department in Washington.

President Johnson made 200 sailors available for the widening search. The second hundred were held in reserve Thursday.

THE SAILORS fanned out on foot over the area where the missing youths' charred station wagon was found Tuesday.

At Jackson, Aaron Henry, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called for 1,000 NAACP volunteers to join the summer civil rights projects in this state.

The sailors joined in the exhaustive hunt during the afternoon. Peeling off into search teams, the unarmed sailors began combing the Neshoba County forest area. They were led by two naval officers and Joe Sullivan, identified as an FBI inspector from Washington.

THE SEARCH was intensified as fears mounted that the three youths, missing since Sunday, might not be alive. They are Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andy Goodman, 20, both white and from New York, and James Chaney, 22, a Negro from Meridian.

The White House first announced that 200 Marines from an out-of-state base would be airlifted into the search.

But late in the afternoon as the sailors were arriving here, the White House said it was "inadvertently inaccurate" in the earlier announcement. "There is no plan to send Marines," said Press Secretary George Reedy.

At the same time, Reedy withdrew an earlier statement that suggested military men were being thrown into the search with the advance knowledge of Mississippi Gov. Paul B. Johnson. Johnson had said he was caught by surprise by the Federal government's action.

CONCERNING the governor was not told in advance, Reedy said "there was a slipup somewhere." Although Gov. Johnson made no direct protest against the move, some Mississippi members of Congress challenged it and said military personnel should have been sent in only on the request of and with the consent of the governor.

Since the sailors are not engaged in any law-enforcement activity the White House did not cite any law for their employment, as it does when using armed forces for law enforcement.

TECHNICALLY, of course, the sailors were not sent into Mississippi since they already were based at Meridian, near Philadelphia.

The sailors spread out over an area 6 to 10 miles long that embraces the spot where the missing group's charred station wagon was found Tuesday. The search parties moved on foot.

LT. Cmdr. James Wassell, assistant chief of air operations at the Meridian base, was in command of the Navy search teams.

Each 11-man team included nine sailors, an FBI agent and a state highway patrolman. The teams

Interview With SUlowan Civil Rights Trainees React

By LINDA WEINER, Editor

The consensus of the staff and trainees at Oxford, Ohio, working on the Mississippi Summer Project, is that the three workers missing in Mississippi are dead and have probably been mutilated.

In a telephone interview with The Daily Iowan, Mike Kenney, G. San Francisco, one of the five SUlowans training for the project, said the news of the missing workers has saddened, not discouraged, the trainees.

"WE ARE MORE determined than ever to go," Kenney said. Kenney, who is part of the group that will be sent to southwest Mississippi, went to Washington this week to talk to congressmen about getting Federal protection for the students going to Mississippi.

"Sending those kids off on the buses was like sending people off to war," Kenney said. "There was a feeling that we were sending some of them to their death."

WATCHING THE BUSES depart, one of the Freedom Singers, who appeared at SUI this spring commented to Kenney,

Interview With SUlowan

"The general response that we got from the congressmen was that they would call the Attorney General and express their concern," Kenney said.

THE GROUP that left Monday had been training for a week. Other groups currently training are scheduled to leave for Mississippi this weekend.

WHEN THE TRAINING sessions first began, there was some friction between the staff members and the trainees.

"There were two different types of thinking," reported Kenney. "The trainees felt that they were full-fledged freedom fighters because they had gotten as far as Oxford."

"The staff, most of whom have been jailed or beaten because of their civil rights activities, regarded the trainees as rookies."

Dulles Ends Racial Mission

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Presidential emissary Allen W. Dulles ended his whirlwind mission to Mississippi on Thursday night, reviewing his findings with Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. before returning to Washington. He held a 90-minute, closed-door session with Mississippi civil rights leaders and then visited the governor for 45 minutes.

Dulles said the civil rights leaders made "a number of suggestions in the race relations field in Mississippi" and this will be reported immediately to the President.

Aaron Henry, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said, "We discussed the gravity of the situation in Mississippi."

"We expressed our concern for the summer volunteers," Henry said, "and we hoped to set the stage for some kind of protection for these people."

Mrs. Michael Schwerner, wife of one of the missing workers being hunted near Philadelphia, Miss., was at the meeting but did not testify or talk to Dulles.

Dulles reiterated that he was not in Mississippi to investigate the disappearance of the three men, but to survey the entire state scene.

Last-Ditch Fight for 'SS' Health Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A last-ditch fight to get a Social Security health financed plan on the statute books this year was being studied among senators Thursday.

But the most dedicated backers of the program, for which President Johnson has repeatedly pleaded, realize the odds against them are heavy, since the House Ways and Means Committee shelved the plan.

IF THE SENATE adds a health care program to the Social Security bill the House is expected to pass, the legislation goes back to the House and presumably to a conference held by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, (D-Ark.).

As chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, Mills steadfastly opposed inclusion of a hospital and nursing home provision in Social Security benefits for the retired, contending the cost would threaten the whole system.

THE COMMITTEE agreed on a bill Wednesday to increase old age payments by 5 per cent and otherwise liberalize retirement benefits. But all proposals for health programs, including extension of the existing state-federal system for the needy and near-needy, were set aside.

There's Danger In Cherry Bombs

If your children wanted to set off four or five dynamite caps, you probably would forbid them. What would you do if they set off the plastic cherry bomb, which youngsters are saving for July 4th?

The cherry bomb is of pin-ball size and explodes with about as much force as five dynamite caps, according to the Iowa State Department of Health. The Department cited information from military demolition experts who made a detailed report in a publication of the National Safety Council.

Despite the outlawing of the sale of fireworks in 27 states, including Iowa, illegal sales continue, the report said. One exploding cherry bomb tested by the experts cracked a brick in two and tore up large pieces of metal, hurling them 50 feet. Another placed under water completely split a submerged coconut. This could easily have been the skull of a swimmer.

The sparkler is reported to be extremely dangerous, since it burns at a temperature of 1,650 degrees, nearly hot enough to melt copper.

"Don't let your children have 'fun' with cherry bombs or any other fireworks," the State Department of Health stressed.

Tobacco Firms Promise FTC Court Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco industry accused the Federal Trade Commission of a power grab Thursday and promised a long court fight if that is the only way to block the new commission rule on cigaret labels and advertising.

This pronouncement pre-empted years of litigation before the FTC can — if ever — put into effect its rule that all cigaret labels and advertising warn the public that smoking may cause death from cancer and other diseases.

The commission, in announcing the rule Wednesday, set next year as the deadline for the warning notices. But FTC Chairman Paul Rand Dixon acknowledged that court suits could delay the effectiveness for years.

THE THREAT of a lawsuit materialized Thursday as Bowman Gray, board chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., testified before the House Commerce Committee.

"I am here," Gray told the congressmen, "as a spokesman for the manufacturers of virtually all cigarets produced in this country."

In reply to questions, Gray said he believes the FTC rule was "step one" in trying to get control of one industry," and he added it also was "a first step to get control of other industries."

Gray did not make specific suggestions on what the industry thinks Congress should do. First, he said, "We do not believe that any governmental action is necessary at the present time with respect to cigaret advertising or labeling."

GRAY SAID the industry does not want the FTC rule because, unlike a law, it would not prevent the states and local communities from issuing regulations of their own.

Senate Votes To Repeal Excise Tax On Some Items

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to repeal the Federal excise tax of 10 per cent on all cosmetics, handbags and luggage, and that on less expensive furs and jewelry.

The tax would still apply to that portion of the cost of furs and jewelry which exceeded $100.

This was a defeat for President Johnson and a victory for industry groups and women who have been lobbying for repeal on the ground that cosmetics and handbags are not luxuries but basic consumer items.

The proposal to repeal these excises, approved 48-38, was offered by Sen. John O. Pastore, (D-R.I.), and Kenneth B. Keating, (R-N.Y.), as an amendment to a bill extending some other excise taxes.

Johnson Concludes Cyprus Mediation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson concluded four days of talks with the Greek and Turkish prime ministers Thursday without winning immediate agreement for direct talks between the two NATO allies on the explosive Cyprus issue.

U.S. officials said Johnson's separate two-day meetings with Greek Prime Minister George Papandreu and Turkish Prime Minister Ismet Inonu have been useful.

These officials voiced hope that the President's personal diplomacy and the urgent talks with the two leaders have cleared the air on the problems over Cyprus so that the U.N. mediator can move more quickly toward a solution. So far the U.N. mediator has had no success.

"Davy Crockett — Indian Scout" will be the free movie at tonight's Family Night in the Union. The film is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Pentacrest Room.

Informal discussions, normally a part of Family Night activities, will not be held this week because of the All State Music Camp concert in the Main Lounge.

$375 Million Transit Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed 2-2-189, a bill for $375 million in federal aid to cities struggling with problems of decayed and dwindling transit systems.

Dr. Alfred Strauss, 81, of Mical Reese Hospital and Medical Center, Chicago, said he had injected 100 rabbits, vaccinated this way, with a transplant cancer several times in the last two years, and not one had developed cancer.

Rabbits not vaccinated but given the same injections of tumor cells, known as Brown-Pearce carcinoma, died within 8 to 12 weeks, he said, in sessions of the American Medical Association.

DR. STRAUSS advanced a theory that the electrocoagulation method killed more cells in cancer tissue, to provide a vaccine more potent in stimulating antibodies on protective agents against the cancer.

He theorized that electrocoagulation might also stimulate protection against further growth of cancers in humans by leaving dead cells behind.

Dr. Strauss said his experiments so far have been limited to the Brown-Pearce experimental carcinoma, but that he plans to extend the research to cancer in humans.

Possible Vaccine For Cancer Found

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rabbits have been protected against one form of cancer with a vaccine prepared with use of an electrical knife, a surgeon said Thursday.

The vaccine contained material from cancer cells killed by electrocoagulation — use of the electrical knife.

Dr. Alfred Strauss, 81, of Mical Reese Hospital and Medical Center, Chicago, said he had injected 100 rabbits, vaccinated this way, with a transplant cancer several times in the last two years, and not one had developed cancer.

Houston Wins, 7-5, On 6-Run Seventh

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Houston Colts, tying their biggest inning of the season, came from behind with six runs in the seventh inning Wednesday night and held on to defeat St. Louis 7-5.

The Colts, trailing 3-1, started their winning seventh with Dave Roberts' pinch single. Consecutive singles by Bob Lillis, Mike White and Joe Gaines scored two runs and got rid of starter Ray Sadecki.

Reliever Mike Cuellar threw wildly for an error on Walt Bond's bunt single, giving Houston the lead run. Then, after Cuellar walked Bob Aspromonte purposely and fanned Rusty Staub, Fox squeezed a run home before Jerry Grote singled for two more.

White finished with four hits for the Colts.

A set of premises, a suggested conclusion

IF YOU BELIEVE that the right of every citizen of the United States to vote is one of the safeguards of our democracy, and that this right should be treasured and protected for all citizens...

If you believe that every citizen deserves the right to a quality education and decent living conditions and the knowledge how to acquire them...

If you think that when these rights are denied, action should be taken to encourage and educate citizens to demand and utilize their rights...

If you know that the hundreds of college students who will be participating in the Mississippi Summer Project, sponsored by COFO, will be teaching Negroes in freedom schools, encouraging and helping Negroes use their right to vote, and helping Negroes to improve their physical and mental health through community centers...

If you realize that these students are not going on a lark this summer, but are risking insult and injury and death because others have suffered insult and injury and death...

If you realize that these students are not rabble-rousers and not out for "kicks" but feel it necessary to act in the cause of improving the human condition...

If you realize, after reading about the three missing COFO workers in Mississippi, that these students will need protection from those who do not want their fellow-citizens to vote...

And if you want to add your voice to those asking for recognition of the problem and requests for protection from the Federal government, for the five SUIowans and all the other students participating in the Summer Project...

Then go to either the Gold Feather Room of the Union or in front of Younkers. Sign your name to the telegram asking for Federal protection for these people.

We'll see you there.

SUI is a fine arts festival this summer

TONIGHT'S FINAL CONCERT of SUI's 15th annual All-State Music Camp is but one of the many cultural, instructional, and recreational advantages offered summer session SUIowans.

No charge is being asked for this evening's band, choral, and orchestral program which marks the end of a 13 day meeting for 450 of Iowa's upcoming musicians. The concert is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Summer music festivities are set to continue throughout the summer. SUI's Symphony Orchestra will perform July 1; the Faculty Chamber Music Ensemble, July 8; another faculty concert on July 26; and Puccini's "La Boheme" will run July 28-29, 31, and August 1.

SUI's Repertory Theatre is scheduled to rotate nightly with University on four productions: William Gibson's "Dinny and the Witches," Harold Pinter's "The Birthday Party," Karl Sternheim's "The Snob," and Michael Shurtleff's "Call Me by My Rightful Name."

Two lectures on SUI's Shakespeare-Marlowe-Galileo Quadricentennial bill already have been given, but three remain, the next being Professor Curt Zimansky's address on "Dramatic Illusion in Shakespeare," set for Tuesday night.

Varied displays are also scattered throughout the campus for summer students and visitors. An exhibit on "Drawing and the Figure, 1400-1964," is presently on display in the Art Building. The Terrace Lounge of the Union is the background for "The Portrait and the President," a pictorial chronicle of SUI presidents.

These are but a sample of the Fine Arts features available this summer — a selection indeed comparable to the array of programs offered by many of Iowa's larger cities, all within walking distance for summer students.

Letter to the editor— Eavesdropping reader spurred to comment on conversation

To the Editor: While taking a smoke-break at the library Tuesday night, two graduate students were heard talking about the racial situation in Mississippi, and the sad story regarding the three student volunteers who have been missing.

"Serves them right" was the statement that really caught my ears and led me to eavesdropping. "The South will do better when we folk up here stay out of their problem." And then the statement that prompts this letter — "Integration does take a little time but since it will be granted by the Civil Rights bill, all they have to do down there is wait..."

Let there be no mistake about this — integration is spiritual and no court no matter how powerful or intelligent can make any man "love his neighbor." These two words integration and desegregation have, I admit, been used interchangeably since the May 17, 1954 decision. But rulings such as that can only give orders to desegregate, which at best means to stop willfully keeping minority groups out of restaurants, schools, etc.

It does not mean — and it cannot mean that once these groups are admitted to the places that they have to be treated like welcomed patrons.

The truth is that in many places one is not so treated. In fact, one is often reminded of basic feelings of resentment by having a menu dropped onto the table after being made to wait too long to even see the thing.

Or, at a motel, to be made to feel welcome at the desk and then being told with a smile that they are sorry that the place is full — but there may be a vacancy down the road, although the sign out front flashes "Vacancy" (oh, that's out of order.)

After dispatching you, the desk clerk probably calls the next motel and informs the clerk there that the "people" are coming. The rat race for lodging could continue throughout the night, but many travelers in this category find it easier to stop on the side of the road, sleep and then tell themselves that they have had enough rest. With a rub of the eyes they are back on the road.

This does not mean that all places behave this way — and thank God and man that they don't — but this is just the point: some DESEGREGATE and others INTEGRATE.

Other points of the conversation I overheard made me want to interrupt, but I saw no opening from where I sat. If I had, I would have told them when they spoke of the restaurants and restrooms how almost every Negro mother taught her young ones in the South never to get hungry downtown — and your stomach just doesn't want to do it. They also taught them not to get "the urge" downtown and you just don't have to go.

No, young men, the South needs the North, and the North the South, the East, the West and so on. This is our United States — at least that is what the books say — and we should be concerned about every inch of it and everybody is needed to cross the border albeit there are many differences to which one must become accustomed.

The South might have some good examples to pass on, for one, a lesson on discrimination: where signs have been removed in the South, the owners' faces will communicate their feelings. In the North, there haven't been many signs and there isn't always a look that says "do or don't" but lets one decide for himself. Occasionally, he may be told.

It does take the time — as one of the fellows said — loads of time to really get things handed down from Washington into motion, but I am sorry to inform them that it may take eternity to get the heart to accept the message that the head has known for years.

Political exhibit to open at Smithsonian Institute

Politics and politicians from the American past come to life in a new exhibition hall of the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of History and Technology.

Scheduled to open on June 29, the Hall of Historic Americans is unlike any other museum exhibition in the United States. Focusing on the history of political campaigning, it traces the development of campaign techniques from the era of genteel "parlor politics" to the modern political use of the mass media of communications — press, radio, and television.

A dramatic political parade illustrates the growth of Presidential campaigning between 1840 and 1890. Papier-mache marchers carry authentic political banners, pennants, and torchlights, and "wear" campaign clothing and badges.

In association with the parade are exhibited a log cabin such as might have been erected as a Whig party headquarters during the "Log Cabin and Hard Cider" campaign of 1840, a front porch similar to those used by candidates during the McKinley and Harding eras, and the rear platform of a railroad observation car representing the "whistle stop" period of campaigning.

Following the parade is an area illustrating the important relationship between politics and the mass media of communications.

Other exhibitions in the hall show some of the Museum's most interesting collections relating to American history. Personal memorabilia suggest the roles of Congress and the Supreme Court, scholars, "men of enterprise," women, and Indians in the development of this nation.

A former United States Senate subway car is exhibited, while one of Robert H. Goddard's early experimental rockets indicates the impact of scientific scholarship in American life.

The influence of "Americans Abroad" is suggested by an exhibition of gifts received by Americans while they represented this country in foreign lands. One of these gifts is a colorful Sicilian cart given to General Marshall in gratitude for American aid to Italy during the years after World War II.

A Red Cross ambulance built for use in the Spanish-American War illustrates the contribution of a great American woman, Clara Barton, and suggests the expanded activities of women in public affairs. The women's rights movement is represented by campaign materials and by personal memorabilia of Susan B. Anthony, one of its greatest leaders.

Newly designed exhibitions show memorabilia of distinguished American families and individuals — the Washington and Adams families, Abraham Lincoln and Ulysses S. Grant — in settings which give a heightened visual impression of the objects.

Gas stations do anything except fill'er up

By JON VAN

I had been driving all day and decided it would be wise to fill up with gas before running out. I pulled into one of those big "super" service stations. That was my first mistake.

"Yessir?" greeted the smiling attendant, who was dressed in an immaculate white uniform which would have made the head-waiter in any restaurant turn away shame-faced.

"Can I give you travel directions?" he asked. "We have a complete travel and tourist center inside to serve our customers better."

"No," I said, "I won't need that, I..."

"Have you had one of our Jet Service agents plan your trip for you?" he interrupted.

"No, I already know the way, I..."

"Ah, but do you know the way? You wouldn't want to ruin your trip by just driving and not get the most out of it, would you?" he argued.

"Well, no, but I don't..."

"Of course not. Now we can plan your trip so that you'll hit all the high points on the way. We'll give you tips on all the best places to eat along the way... the best places to sleep... all the historic sites you just can't miss."

"But you see I..."

"And while we're at it we'll give you our exclusive route to the New York World's Fair, including a guide to travelling around New York City and the high points of the Fair itself, complete with the copy of the original blueprints of the Jet Service pavilion. It even includes a guide to the Giant Power Tower Gas Pump in the center of the pavilion," he almost shouted with wild-eyed enthusiasm.

"But I'm not going to the World's Fair," I said emphatically. "You're not?" He was astonished. "Oh, you've already been. I see, well..."

"No I have not been there and do not plan to go," I told him. "What are you nuts?" he questioned me. "Why it's the biggest attraction in the country. Exhibits from all over the world and all over our own United States. Yessir, it's a monument to modern man. An unforgettable and educational masterpiece of wizardry."

"I don't care about all that," I said.

"What are you Mac, some kinda Communist or something?" he was becoming angry. "I mean don't you like America, are you unpatriotic?"

"No, I just don't want you to map my route or give me my free Fair guide, that's all."

"Well, why don't you think about it over night, now we can give you a guide to our fair city here with recommendations for..."

"No!" I was losing my temper.

"Well how about our free fishing folder?"

"No!"

"Baseball scorecards?"

"No!"

"Political predictions for the election year?"

"No!" I started my car and left him standing next to his "Better Driving With Jet Service" sign.

I drove for five minutes and then ran out of gas — flour blocks away from my room at the YMCA.

Mrs. Kennedy to pause in mourning to take part in memorial at convention

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy is putting aside her year-long period of mourning to play a dramatic and potentially far-reaching political role at the Democratic national convention in Atlantic City the last week in August.

The former First Lady will participate in an all-day memorial program on Tuesday, second day of the convention, for her assassinated husband.

This significant backstage development is a direct outgrowth of the serious injuries sustained by her brother-in-law, Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass., in a plane crash.

THE 32-YEAR-OLD lawmaker had been under consideration as convention keynoteur.

Most likely choice now is between Senator Eugene McCarthy, Minn., and Senator Gale McGree, Wyo., both militant liberals and staunch administration supporters.

The decision for Mrs. Kennedy to take a leading part in the memorial program was made after President Johnson gave the word he favored holding these ceremonies on Tuesday rather than Friday, the closing day of the convention.

THE LATTER was urged by top political lieutenants of the President on the ground the memorial services on Tuesday could be used by supporters of Attorney General Robert Kennedy to sway delegates to press for his nomination as vice president. It was pointed out that an estimated 50 per cent of this year's delegates were supporters of the late President at the 1960 convention.

This possibility was carefully weighed by the President, but was discarded because another factor was deemed more important — his conviction that the convention should not wind up on a funeral note.

AS ONE White House insider expressed it, "Having the memorial program on Tuesday is a gamble. We're fully aware that involves very definite risks. But the President feels we'll have to chance them because we certainly do not want to wind up on a mournful note."

The White House is keeping a close eye on undercover country-wide efforts to maneuver a so-called "open convention" on the running mate issue.

Authoritative reports from a number of states leave little doubt that influential delegates are being sounded out on such a move — for the unmistakable purpose of building up a powerful boom for the selection of Attorney General Kennedy.

It is also known that efforts are underway to persuade nationally-known Democratic leaders to declare publicly for an "open convention."

Until Senator Kennedy's near-fatal plane crash, the inner strategy called for three limelight figures of the family to participate prominently in the convention — the senator, the former First Lady and Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps and the proposed anti-poverty program.

THE ATTORNEY general, the senator and Shriver have been delegates to the convention, and will have the valuable "privilege of the floor."

Shriver also is seeking a place on the Platform Committee. That has been put up to Illinois party leaders who are in a position to give him this prize. Potential influence is being brought to bear on them to name him as one of the state's two representatives on the committee — where Shriver could play a headline role.

ANOTHER significant facet of this situation is a developing drive to bar the seating of regular party delegations from Mississippi, Alabama and possibly Louisiana.

A revealing tip-off on this was the action of the Wisconsin State Democratic convention in overwhelmingly instructing its delegation to support the seating of a "Free Party" delegation from Mississippi — which doesn't even exist as yet. Apparently it is anticipated such a group will appear and challenge the regular party delegation.

WISCONSIN Governor John Reynolds, an ardent Kennedy supporter, masterminded this strategy. He contended the regular party delegation was illegally elected because negroes were excluded from voting.

Similar moves reportedly are contemplated in other Northern and Western states, with the backing of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

A stormy fight against the seating of the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana delegations could precipitate a bitter explosion at the convention — which might play into the hands of the attorney general's partisans bent on naming him the President's running mate.

PREMIER Khrushchev is "contributing" to the Kennedy Memorial Library. The Kremlin ruler has agreed to make a tape-recording of his still-secret exalted changes with the late President, as well as impressions of him.

Still to be determined is whether a Kennedy emissary will go to Moscow to interview Khrushchev or he will do his own recording.

Defense Secretary McNamara is dipping into the turbulent political waters. He has agreed to allow his Washington home to be used for a $50-a-ticket fund-raising party for Representative Neil Staeber, Democratic candidate for governor of Michigan.

Although Staeber is rated as a millionaire, his backers seem to feel a fund-raising party is called for. Chief sponsors of the affair are Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams, former Michigan governor, Assistant Postmaster General Frederick Belen and Assistant HEW Secretary Wilbur Cohen.

ANOTHER well-to-do Democrat is also to be the beneficiary of a fund-raising party — Senator Harrison Williams, N.J. This event will have some unusual angles. It will consist of a reception and volley ball party; with the charge $10 for women, $15 for men, or $25 for a couple.

Fast political footwork by Texas Governor John Connally blocked a move by backers of the attorney general to persuade Democratic governors at the recent Cleveland conference to go on record for an "open convention" on selection of vice president.

WISCONSIN Governor John Reynolds proposed that at a meeting of the Democratic governors, Connally, tipped off in advance of the move, adroitly adjourned the caucus before Reynolds could act. Reportedly, he had three other governors lined up with him. When out-manuevered by Connally, Reynolds countered by persuading the governors to meet in Atlantic City the day before the national convention opens on August 24.

Academic freedom under fire at U. of Minnesota

A debate over academic freedom in Minnesota has begun to snowball following "extremist" statements by University of Minnesota political science professor Milford Q. Sibley.

Sibley's half-facetious suggestions to challenge the "monolithic, safe, middle orthodoxies" in American culture led to outbursts of anger from state legislators, the American Legion and a Republican lackey of Sen. Goldwater, running for re-election as St. Paul's public works commissioner.

A LEGISLATIVE inquiry into the University, which has been charged with condoning laxness and timidity, is under way.

Sibley, who describes himself as a Norman Thomas socialist and a Quaker pacifist, set off the controversy last December when he wrote to the student newspaper:

"Personally, I should like to see on the campus one or two Communist professors, a student Communist club, a chapter of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, a Society for the Promotion of Free Love, a League for the overthrow of the government by Jeffersonian Violence, and Anti-Automobile League and perhaps a nudist club. No university should be without individuals and groups like these."

COMPLAINTS against the University itself ranged from criticism of "leftist" professors like Sibley to attacks on Wilson President O. Meredith University for apologizing to Premier Khrushchev when a Soviet flag outside a traveling medical exhibit was torn down.

The American Legion has charged the University's Student Peace Union and its World Affairs Center with being Communist fronts.

IN SPITE of this flurry of accusations, however, Minnesota Gov. Karl Rolwang and Lieut. Gov. A. M. Keith oppose the investigation. The Minnesota branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, the American Association of University Professors, the Minnesota Board of Regents and the University's student body have gone on record against the investigation.

The excitement isn't limited to the University, however. The principal of a Minneapolis high school cancelled an invitation to Professor Sibley to speak before a politics club. Just to be fair about it, the principal also cancelled a discussion of Barry Goldwater's "Conscience of a Conservative," scheduled for the following week.

SUI Prof. Helped Organize Colombian Educational TV

"Telemastros" now working in Bogota, Colombia, were trained by an SUI professor and his associates in a program designed to help speed the education of Colombians, young and old.

John R. Winnie, associate professor of television, returned recently to Iowa City with his wife and two daughters after spending a year as project director and associate Peace Corps representative for educational TV programming in Colombia.

A TOTAL of 103 Peace Corps volunteers and 45 Colombians were trained in the United States at the University of New Mexico, Los Angeles State College and in network facilities in New York before leaving for Bogota, a capital city some 9,000 feet above sea level with a population exceeding 1.25 million people.

Initially, project personnel are beaming six hours of daytime programs on the government channel daily. Current programs are geared to serving the major needs of elementary education in language (Spanish), natural science, mathematics, physical education and especially teacher training.

THE LITERACY RATE in Colombia is approximately 50 per cent, but a high percentage of the nation's teachers has less than an eighth grade education. To bridge this gap, interested Colombian businessmen prompted an inquiry about educational TV programming. A proposal was taken to the Alliance for Progress. With cooperating agencies, the project was established. Winnie was a logical choice as project director following his experience in a similar capacity in Venezuela in 1958.

The project in Colombia is now running smoothly, according to Prof. Winnie. Project members received intensive training for nearly five months in the United States, and Peace Corps volunteers selected for the project had previous TV training, he said.

OF THE ORIGINAL 103 volunteers, three have returned to the United States, one to enter business. A couple was requested to return when the wife decided she did not wish to remain in Colombia. Replacements and additional units are expected to join the project, Prof. Winnie said.

As the project continues, programming will include subjects for secondary school children and eventually for university students. Adult education programming is

Workshop To Study Problems of the Aged

An SUI workshop which starts Monday in Social Gerontology — the study of aging and its social implications — is believed to be the first of its type.

The focus of the workshop will be on the phenomena of aging may be related to home economics programs. The course will provide information on the nature of aging: its biological, sociological, psychological, economic, and political aspects.

Also included will be an evaluation of community resources for older people, and an analysis of governmental, community and organizational efforts to identify and deal with the needs and problems of older people.

THE TWO-WEEK workshop will cover problems dealing with clothing behavior and personal appearance, recreation and leisure-time activities, housing and living arrangements, and frauds and quackery directed toward older persons.

It is designed primarily for teachers of home economics in colleges, universities and secondary schools, and for home economists in the SUI extension service. The course will carry two semester hours of graduate credit in home economics.

Co-sponsors of the workshop are the Department of Home Economics and the Institute of Gerontology. Dr. W. W. Morris, director of the Institute of Gerontology, and Dr. Adeline M. Hoffman, professor of textiles and clothing, are the workshop directors.

WORKSHOP speakers will be from professional organizations, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the SUI faculty. The afternoon speaker the first day will be Dr. Helen Judy Bond, an SUI alumna and former head of the Department of Home Economics at Columbia University.

Other speakers include Dr. Harold Saunders, professor of sociology, "Social Phenomena of Aging"; Miss Amelia Wahl, of the Office of the Aging, Kansas City Regional Office of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; "Regional Programs in Gerontology"; Dr. Ralph Ojemann, professor of child behavior and development, "Mental Aspects of Aging"; and Dr. Margaret Ohlson, director of the department of nutrition in the College of Medicine, "Nutritional Aspects of Aging."

Two panel discussions by older persons on retirement problems and development of regional research in social gerontology will also be held. Workshop students will visit a number of homes for older people in Iowa, including the Methwick Manor retirement home in Cedar Rapids.

DR. HOFFMAN said the purposes of the workshop include updating current knowledge about the problems of older people, providing the opportunity for recognition and appraisal of the needs of older people, and providing better understanding of the place of the older people in the community. She said the workshop directors also hope the course will provide an understanding of how to evaluate community resources for older people.

"We hope to counteract traditional thinking in terms of the place of older people in society," Dr. Hoffman said.

"We also hope to acquaint people with government, community and church organizational efforts by dealing with the needs of older people."

"We want to develop program specifics for dealing with older people in home economics," she added.

Dr. Helen Judy Bond (Mrs. Perry Avery), an SUI alumna, will be the featured speaker at the SUI Gerontology Workshop June 29-July 10.

Dr. Bond received her B.A. degree, magna cum laude, from SUI in 1920 with a major in home economics and a minor in sociology. In December of 1923 she was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

DR. BOND taught home economics in Iowa and Illinois for eight years, and was a high school principal for three years. In 1926-27 she held the Lydia Roberts Scholarship for graduate work in Columbia University, New York City, where she received her M.A. degree in 1927 and her Ph.D. degree in 1929.

She taught in the Department of Home Economics at Columbia in the summer of 1927 and remained a staff member until she retired July 1, 1958. Dr. Bond held a professorship for 30 years, the last 20 as department head.

Through her efforts, graduate work at Columbia was broadened to include a course in marriage and family relations in 1952. Upon her retirement, the students, alumni and faculty honored her with the creation of the Helen Judy Bond Fellowship in home economics.

DR. BOND has been active in professional, civic and international affairs for many years. She was awarded a traveling fellowship by the trustees of Columbia for study in Europe in 1932. She was a delegate to the International Congress on Home Economics to the Institute of International Education from 1946 to 1957.

SHE WAS chairman of the Committee on Aging of the American Home Economics Association 1960-'62, and in 1960 went as a consultant to the Government of Colombia, under the auspices of the International Cooperation Administration.

Barry Wants Lodge To Tell Of Viet Nam

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater on Thursday urged Henry Cabot Lodge to delay political warfare for an hour to explain real warfare in South Viet Nam.

Goldwater, the front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination, said Lodge owes it to the country "to tell us what is wrong — or how it could have gone right."

GOLDWATER, back in his home state for the Saturday marriage of his younger daughter, spoke to a party rally in Tucson and to an American Legion convention in Nogales.

Lodge resigned as ambassador to South Viet Nam earlier this week to help Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's fight against Goldwater for the GOP nomination.

Noting that Lodge had said the situation in Viet Nam should not be a political issue, Goldwater said, "Surely he cannot believe that such questions can be evaded simply by pretending they do not exist. That is precisely what this administration has been doing, and I hope that no Republican will support such an evasion."

THEN HE added: "I hope that Ambassador Lodge will not be a lone Republican voice crying excuses or evasions in the wilderness of the administration's Vietnam policy."

"He has in all these matters much to tell us, I am sure. The responsibility to do so certainly must rank as high as any personal political ambitions."

"I urge Ambassador, Lodge to consider" as his first order of business, an explanation to the people of America.

GOLDWATER also lashed out at the proposed U.S.-Soviet agreement for each to burn aircraft.

"It's not pleasant to find one's country in unilateral disarmament," he said, adding that the Soviet Union hides its weapons budget under the classification of research and development.

He also said that he doubted whether the proposed Soviet sacrifices in the bomber-burning were comparable to this nation's B47s.

State U.N. Group To Meet Saturday

The first meeting of the board of directors of the Iowa organization for the United Nations under its new name will be held Saturday morning at the Fort Des Moines Hotel.

Allin W. Dakin, SUI administrative dean, is state president.

Because of the recent merger of the two national groups supporting the United Nations — the American Association for the U.N. and the United States Committee for the U.N. — the name of the general organization is now the United Nations Association of the United States of America.

The Iowa group was affiliated with AAUN. It is now the Iowa division of the UNAUSA and remains its same officers and directors.

Student Press Tells How Kennedy Death Covered

A special 20-page supplement to the Spring 1964 College Press Review, journal of the National Council of Publications Advisers published at the SUI School of Journalism, tells how the student press of the United States covered President Kennedy's assassination last fall.

Photographs of pages from 83 selected newspapers demonstrate the maturity and ingenuity of college editors in meeting this new event's challenges. The photographs, taken by Pietriar Journalism Instructor Donald K. Woolley and his assistant, Paul Long, of the School of Journalism, show both front pages and special in-

Small Cut for Foreign Aid By Appropriations

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's foreign aid program cleared the House Appropriations Committee Thursday with the smallest money cut since the Korean War.

The approval of $3.3 billion of the requested $3.5 billion was a victory not only for Johnson, but for his fellow Texan, Rep. George H. Mahon, who recently became chairman of the powerful committee that originates all money bills in Congress.

In the first challenge to his new authority earlier this week, Mahon bested Rep. Otto F. Passman (D-La.), in the latter's own subcommittee. Passman in the past has led successful drives to cut deeply into the money Congress provides.

MAHON MADE his position stick when the full committee approved what Passman called a mere token cut — a little more than $200 million.

But Passman promised to lead a vigorous fight for a $19-million cut when the bill reaches the House floor next Tuesday. He will be backed by many Republican members and some Southern Democrats.

The $200-million cut which Mahon insisted upon amounts to 5.5 per cent of the money total. Last year Congress lopped off 33 per cent of the amount requested by the late President John F. Kennedy, providing $3 billion.

Only once before has the Appropriations Committee reduced the foreign aid bill by a lesser percentage. That was in 1950 during the Korean War when it cut only 2 per cent.

JOHNSON ASKED this year for $3.5 billion — a billion dollars less than Kennedy's request — and called it a barebones program that could not be cut without affecting U.S. security.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, which sets the ceiling for the money bill, approved virtually every cent of the $3.5-billion request in its authorization bill.

All of the $200 million cut by the Appropriations Committee lies in the economic side of the program. The military request of $1,055,000,000 was approved untouched.

THE LARGEST cut was $140 million in development loan funds. It also reduced the development loan portion of the Alliance for Progress by $40 million, and development grants by $20 million.

Johnson has been wooing Democrats on the Appropriations Committee for weeks with personal attentions, phone calls, breakfast meetings at the White House, it was learned.

Vets' Carelessness Costs Them Money

Some 200,000 veterans miss at least one payment of their monthly compensation because they fail to notify the Veterans Administration and the Post Office of a change of address.

More than $15 million dollars in monthly compensations, pensions and other benefits is involved. Dr. J. Gordon Spendlove, director of the Iowa City Veterans Administration hospital, says this is one of the Administration's biggest headaches.

Prompt notification of change of address would eliminate the problem according to Dr. Spendlove.

'Rededicate Yourselves'—

If You Need Guns, Go Home: Rustin

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — Students at a civil rights training school here were urged Thursday to "rededicate yourselves to work harder in Mississippi" as a result of the disappearance in that state of three civil rights workers.

The plea came from Bayard Rustin, who led the civil-rights march on Washington last summer. He came here to speak to approximately 400 collegians who are taking courses to prepare them for civil rights work in Mississippi.

USSR Sure To Reject LBJ's Plan

GENEVA (AP) — An American inspection plan to implement President Johnson's proposal that the nuclear powers agree to stop producing fissionable material for arms purposes faces almost certain rejection by the Soviet Union.

The plan was presented to the 17-nation disarmament conference Thursday by chief U.S. delegate William C. Foster.

It provides for inspection of all installations producing fissionable material, but stresses that this does not involve inspection of nuclear stockpiles or disclosure of information concerning storage or deployment of nuclear weapons.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made no reference to the plan. But Czechoslovakia, which usually sticks rigidly to the Soviet line at the talks, denounced it as "failing to open up the possibilities of real agreement during 1964, as called for by President Johnson in his address to this conference last January."

The American plan offered "verification without intrusion" in the event of a cutoff agreement.

The Soviet Union frequently has charged that American insistence on inspection procedure is motivated by the desire to create "legalized espionage."

DI Reporter Will Attend National GOP Convention

The Daily Iowan will have its own reporter at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco July 13-17.

John A. Roberts, G. Wilmington, Del., will leave Iowa City July 9 to cover the activities of the Iowa delegation to the convention.

Roberts, summer news editor of The Daily Iowan, has been following the activities of the delegation since the precinct caucuses in March — the first step toward its selection.

Since then, he has covered the Johnson County Republican convention, the state Republican convention in Des Moines, and the recent visit to Des Moines of Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton.

College Costs Increasing: HEW Survey

The cost of a college education continues to increase according to a survey of 92 per cent of public and private colleges and universities by the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The survey, for the academic year ending in June, showed that male undergraduates attending private colleges and universities paid $1,399, for the two semesters, 5.1 per cent more than a year ago. Women paid $1,425, compared with $1,364, an increase of 4.5 per cent.

Further, male undergraduates attending public institutions outside their own state paid $1,084, compared to $1,039 in 1962-63. Coeds were charged $1,042 compared to $1,036.

Costs for male students in public colleges in their own state jumped from $758 to $790. Coeds had about the same proportionate increase from $755 to $784.

Tuition alone is the same for both sexes though women sometimes pay more for room and board. Students in public colleges in their own state paid only $191, an increase of $21. Students in out-of-state public colleges were charged $449, virtually the same amount as last year.

Tuition fees were highest in the northeast, whether the student chose a public or a private college. In that section, tuition at private colleges reached $883. Non-resident students in public institutions paid $596. Resident students were charged $298.

The large number of two-year public colleges in the West and Southwest charging little or no tuition made these areas the most economical for those attending a public institution. Resident students in those areas paid only $141. Non-resident students paid $426.

Local Residents Elected To Historical Society

William J. Petersen, superintendent, announced recently that 67 persons were elected to membership in the State Historical Society of Iowa during the month of June.

New members from Johnson County are Robert M. Hedges, Rev. James C. Kelly, both of Iowa City and Mrs. Stella C. Swanson, Oxford.

ONE OF THE MEN missing in Mississippi attended the school here last week.

In a discussion of the nonviolence idea of the civil rights drive, Rustin said: "We should be willing to use our bodies in the face of suffering and create an atmosphere of trust. If you think you should use a gun to defend yourselves, you should go home."

RUSTIN WAS to leave for Jackson, Miss. He said he would be there only a day or so to make his own observations in the state.

After Friday's classes here in facilities made available by Western College for Women, the students are expected to start moving South in small groups. Classes in the school started last Monday.

Reservoir Reaches Recreational Level

The Coralville Reservoir reached the summer recreational level of 680 feet above sea level Tuesday morning, John Story, reservoir manager, announced Thursday.

The rapid rise of the reservoir from the spring flood control level of 670 feet was made possible by the recent rains, Story explained. The reservoir manager added that all forms of water recreation are available at the reservoir now that the summer elevation has been reached.

Badly needed rains began just about June 15, which is the date when the Corps of Engineers begin raising the reservoir to the summer level.

Sailing Club To Race At Macbride Saturday

Members of the Hawkeye Sailing Club will race on the north arm of Lake Macbride at 2 p.m. Saturday. Competition is expected especially between the skippers of the club's most popular boat, the Flying Junior.

A regatta is planned by the club for the Fourth of July weekend. Races are scheduled for the morning and afternoon of the fourth and in the afternoon of the fifth, weather permitting.

The club now has approximately 75 members, equally divided between Iowa City and Cedar Rapids residents. Several members pull their boats from Ames to race or take part in the regular family sail-picnic programs.

Max Pepernik, associate professor at the SUI Psychopathic Hospital, is commodore of the club. John R. Knott, Professor, SUI Psychopathic Hospital, is chairman of the activities committee and Lane Davis, SUI associate professor of political science, is secretary.

There are four classes of membership in the club:

Membership is open to those 16 or older who own a sailboat and to non-owners who wish to qualify for full voting rights.

Students 16 or older who own a sailboat and are full-time students may join.

An associate membership is available to anyone 16 or older who does not own a sailboat.

Junior members may join between the ages of 8 and 15.

IVY TO SCOUT

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank (Pop) Ivy, former head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National Football League and the Houston Oilers in the American Football League, signed Wednesday as an area scout for the NFL New York Giants.

Ivy, 48, will operate in the area of the Southwest Conference and the Big Eight looking for talent.

Three Home Runs Power Pittsburgh As Mets Fall, 8-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lynch crashed a pair of home runs and Bill Mazeroski connected once in the Pittsburgh attack as the Pirates whipped the New York Mets Thursday for the 11th time in 13 meetings, 8-1.

Supported by a 13-hit offense lefty Joe Gibbon coasted to his fifth victory to go with his two defeats. Gibbon, who had three of the hits, permitted only four singles, two by Ron Hunt.

The Mets' only run was unearned and Gibbon had nobody to blame but himself. After Hunt singled in the sixth inning, Gibbon threw wild in a pickoff attempt and Hunt took second, from where he scored on Joe Christopher's single.

Pittsburgh . . . 241 010 000—8 13 3
New York . . . 000 001 000—1 4 2
Gibbon and Burgess, Fisher, Wakefield (2), Lary (1) and Cantizaro, W. (1) and Gibson (5-2). L — Fisher (5-6).
Home runs — Pittsburgh, Mazeroski (5), Lynch (2).

Boyer Drives Home 2 In 8th To Nip Colts, 4-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer doubled home two runs in the eighth inning, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-2 victory over the Houston Colts Thursday.

Roger Craig, who singled across the first Cardinal run after Julian Javier doubled in the third, got the pitching victory.

Houston . . . 010 001 000—2 7 0
St. Louis . . . 001 000 03x—4 8 1
Bruce, Owens (8) and Groat, Craig, Hobbie (1) and McCarver, W. — Craig (6-2). L — Bruce (7-4).
Home run — Houston, Aspromonte (6).

McKinley Goes To 4th Round

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Chuck McKinley of San Antonio survived another shaky day on the tennis courts of Wimbledon Thursday, while other Americans were going down in large numbers and a Russian and a Hungarian were walking out.

McKinley, who romped to the title last year without the loss of a set, had to pull out all the stops for a third-round victory over Torben Ulrich of Denmark, 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

It was the second close call in a row for McKinley, who is second-seeded this year, and almost the only American player of note left in the men's singles.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., third-seeded in the women's singles, moved into the third round with an easy 6-2, 6-2 victory over Donna Floyd Fales of New York.

That was only one of several American match-ups as the tournament finished its fourth day.

Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., defeated his doubles partner, Bill Bond of San Diego, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1. Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn trimmed Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., in a marathon five-setter carried over from Wednesday, 14-16, 11-13, 6-4, 6-2, 10-8.

That left McKinley and Ashe as the only Americans in the last 16 in men's singles. Holmberg must meet Rafael Osuna, Mexican holder of the U.S. singles title, in a third-round match, and is an underdog.

Geiberger Leads In Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Smiling Al Geiberger, who said he hadn't been playing too well, birdied six of the last 10 holes Thursday for a 34-30-64 to take the first-round lead in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

Despite his heroics — his card showed 10 threes — he was able to take only a one stroke edge, as the field of 149 professionals and 10 amateurs practically wrecked the 6,821-yard, par 71 Highland Park municipal course.

Billy Casper, George Archer, Ray Floyd and Harold Kneece were tied at 66. Defending champion Arnold Palmer was in an eight-way tie at 67, and Jack Nicklaus was in a 10-way tie at 68.

were spaced about three quarters of a mile apart, starting out along a rural gravel road.

MUCH OF THE AREA was swampy. The sun was shining brightly.

The three civil rights volunteers vanished Sunday night after paying a $20 fine here for speeding. They had driven here from Meridian to investigate the burning of a rural Negro church.

Their charred station wagon was found Tuesday in snake-infested Bogue Chitto swamp 13 miles to the northeast. It offered no clues to the strange disappearance.

Mississippi highway patrolmen turned to the numerous creeks, bayous and gravel pits that dot the area, after two days of checking outbuildings and questioning Neshoba County residents.

INQUIRIES WERE made at service stations on the theory that gasoline or kerosene was used to burn the station wagon.

Reedy said President Johnson has spoken by telephone several times to the parents of the missing Goodman and Schwerner. Efforts by the President to talk with Chaney's parents were unsuccessful, Reedy said.

At Meridian, Lauderdale County Sheriff Raymond Davis ordered his deputies to check freshly dug graves in Negro churchyards and graveyards. He acted as rumors spread that bodies of the three missing workers had been buried in a Negro graveyard.

Schwerner and Chaney had been working in the civil rights field for several months as members of the Congress of Racial Equality.

GOODMAN HAD COME to this state only last weekend with some 175 other volunteers, most of them college students, who had trained for civil rights work at Oxford, Ohio — scene of a training school for volunteer civil rights workers.

In Washington, a group of parents demanded that at least 400 federal agents be sent to Mississippi to protect their children who are engaged in civil rights work.

Also in Washington, Rep. Arthur Winstead, (D-Miss.), told the House that the disappearance of the three missing workers might be a hoax. Winstead is from Philadelphia.

Schwengel To Sponsor 2 Resolutions

WASHINGTON — Although the Civil Rights bill is on the threshold of becoming the law of the land, Congressman Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) has pointed out that one vestige of discrimination in voting still exists and needs the attention of Congress — the archaic state laws dealing with residency requirements which prevent as many as 10-million people from voting on election day.

In remarks prepared for the House floor Monday, Schwengel called for action on two resolutions he has introduced. One is a House Joint Resolution which proposes an amendment to the Constitution which would permit any eligible voter who moves from one place to another to cast his vote for President, Vice President, U.S. Representative and U.S. Senator in his last place of residence until he has qualified for voting at his new residence. The other resolution would petition the states to act in adopting the same type of provision.
