Proposed $10 Million Fine Arts Center

An artist's conception of the proposed $10 million Fine Arts Center on the west bank of the Iowa River illustrates the magnitude of the project. Included in the Center would be expansion of existing facilities in each of the Fine Arts areas. This sketch shows an extension to the present Art Building in the left foreground which would house the University art collections, including the famed Owen and Leone Elliott collection.

Art Center Nears Reality

$10 Million Total Cost Of Program

A cultural enrichment program, which will ultimately cost an estimated $10 million, is "almost within reaching distance," according to Loren Hickerson, director of the SUI Foundation.

"Although plans for a Fine Arts Center are not at all definite yet, things are beginning to crystallize," Hickerson said Monday.

Such a Fine Arts Center, which would be located on the west bank of the Iowa River, would benefit not only the University students and faculty members, but also the community and the state, he said.

Two aspects of the program are already well underway. A $600,000 appropriation, made by the state legislature in 1963, has been earmarked for expansion of the teaching facilities of the Art Department, and preliminary plans have been made for a University auditorium to be financed through student fees.

A third aspect of the project, a $1 million to be built through private contributions, Hickerson said. "The Gallery is being planned to provide space for the growing permanent University art collection," he said. "This collection will, we hope, soon include the famed Elliott collection."

Owen Elliott, a 1910 graduate of the SUI College of Law, and his wife, Leone, have spent the last 40 years amassing the collection which includes representative works of all the leading painters of the modern French movement.

The collection is insured for approximately $1 million and is presently being held in a trust fund for SUI. It will be turned over to the University on the condition that satisfactory space is provided for it by 1967. This requirement would entail construction of an art gallery.

If SUI fails to meet this requirement, the collection will be given to the University of Nebraska.

Included in the collection are works by Gauguin, Picasso, Braque, Bonnard, Redon, Kandinsky, Munch, Durer, Rembrandt, Goya.

In addition, Hickerson said, placing the Music Department on the Fine Arts campus would free a great deal of classroom and office space which is badly needed on the east campus.

"This whole development is still in the preliminary stages," Hickerson said. "No one can say for sure what each building will cost. Some things will undoubtedly be added which we are not presently planning."

Other projects Hickerson mentioned as additions to the Fine Arts program are expansion of the University Theatre and the creation of a Distinguished Chair in each of the three fine arts areas — art, music and drama.

Sinbad's Spree Cut Short by Shot Of Tranquilizer

CHICAGO (AP) — Sinbad the Gorilla, 500-pound star attraction at Lincoln Park Zoo, slipped out of his cage and roamed the inner corridors of the monkey house Monday until a bullet loaded with a tranquilizing drug cut short his travels.

Visitors were evacuated and more than 20 armed policemen converged on the monkey house. The officers were not needed because the eight-foot tall gorilla did not reach the public area.

The only adult gorilla in the zoo and considered priceless by curators, Sinbad slipped out of his cage for 20 minutes after a keeper forgot to close a door.

When the keeper, Ray Hoff, 52, noticed Sinbad gone, he shouted a warning to four employees. They fled locking all doors behind them.

Sinbad explored the corridor and looked out windows. Finally he reached the food room where he knocked over a table and broke several cups and glasses. Attendants locked him in.

Senator Engle Buried Monday in California

RED BLUFF, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Clair Engle was buried Monday in a family plot at the Oak Hill Cemetery in Red Bluff, not far from where he began his political career in 1935.

Some 500 persons listened as the senator was eulogized. Among those present were Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California and former White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, the Democratic party's choice to succeed Engle.

Police said another 1,500 persons gathered nearby on the cemetery grounds to listen to the service over a public address system.

Bail Fund Now Available To Mississippi Workers

The Student Bail Fund, which has received $1,786.76 so far, will be immediately available upon request for any of the seven SUIowans who are in Mississippi as part of the Mississippi Summer Project sponsored by COFO.

The Bail Fund, collected from faculty, staff, students and Iowa City residents, is kept in the First National Bank. Arrangements have been made with Western Union to accept a check on the account at any time, which means that cash will be available in Mississippi within a few hours of a request.

The students in Mississippi, their parents and the Jackson, Atlanta and Greenwood offices of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, the main sponsor of COFO, are being notified of the funds.

Although the Fund will be used primarily for SUIowans, in emergency cases, bail money will be used for other summer volunteers if necessary.

John Huntley, chairman of the drive, has kept a record of all donations to the Fund of $5 or more. These donations will be returned at the end of the summer if they are not in use for bail. All bail funds are returnable, but if the case is being appealed, the bail may be held until the case is settled.

The Bail Fund originated two weeks ago, after Steven Smith, El, Marion, was beaten and arrested in Canton, Miss., and request for bail was made by SNCC to Iowa City.

Donations to the Fund will be accepted until Sept. 1, the approximate time when the summer project will end. Contributions may be sent to John Huntley, 44 OAT, or to the Student Bail Fund, First National Bank, Iowa City.

Members of the Bail Fund committee in addition to Huntley are Roland Hawkes, instructor of Sociology, and Rev. Phillip Shively, campus minister at the Congressional Church, Larry Barret, program assistant at WSUI and Linda Weiner, A4, Minneapolis, Minn., editor of The Daily Iowan.

Controls of Press Opposed in Korea

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — South Korea's press branded unconstitutional and undemocratic Monday a new law imposing controls of the press.

The regime of President Chung Hee Park claims in supporting the law that inflammatory newspaper writing prolonged and heightened student demonstrations against his regime in June.

The law calls for the establishment of a commission empowered to order the news media to make public corrections and apologies for alleged erroneous reporting.

Korean news organizations formed a "struggle committee" to oppose the law and campaign for its repeal.

Science Program Participants Hold Three Symposiums

A symposium presented by the 33 participants in the National Science Foundation Summer Science Program will be held at 7 every night today through Thursday in the Pentacrest Room of the Union.

Each of the research participants will present the findings of his research during the nine week session which began June 7.

The program includes laboratory work, in which each student works directly with a professor on a research project, a course in scientific and technical writing, weekly seminars for informal discussion, and the symposium.

Military Pay Raise Sent To Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has passed and sent to the White House a bill providing $207 million in pay raises for all American servicemen except draftees and newly enlisted men.

President Johnson is expected to sign the bill within a few days, insuring that the pay boosts show up in the next military paychecks, which go out Sept. 1. It would be the second military pay raise in less than a year.

Final congressional action came Monday when the House passed the bill on a voice vote. The Senate had passed it two weeks ago.

THE BILL would authorize a 2.5 per cent increase for all officers and enlisted men with more than two years of service and an 8.5 per cent increase for all officers with less than two years of service.

In its report on the bill, the House Armed Services Committee told the House that it had omitted boosts for draftees and newly enlisted men because they are in training status and also because they are assured of three or four pay increases in their first promotions in the training period.

Congress enacted a $1.2-billion military pay raise last year, putting it into effect last Oct. 1.

In asking for a second boost, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress that the Pentagon was sticking by a pledge made by the late President John F. Kennedy when he signed last year's pay bill.

KENNEDY then said the administration pledged "to use its best efforts to assure that, in the future, military compensation will keep pace with increases in salaries and wages in the civilian economy."

Moon Photos Under Study By Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — U.S. space agency officials flew here Monday to study Ranger 7's historic photos of the moon and try to decide what effect if any they will have on the design of manned Apollo landing craft.

Robert R. Gilruth, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., and Joseph F. Shea, Apollo program manager, were given a detailed briefing by Dr. William H. Pickering, director of Jet Propulsion Laboratory, where Ranger 7 and its six unsuccessful predecessors were built.

There was no immediate word on their reaction but a spokesman said they might comment at a news conference Tuesday morning.

A board of four scientists studying the moon photographs took time out to assist in the briefing, then returned to their labors — precisely analyzing the best of 4,316 pictures for clues to the nature of the lunar surface as photographed by Ranger 7's six television cameras before it crashed Friday.

The scientists are expected to spend the rest of the week here, then return to their home laboratories for further analysis of the photos.

A spokesman said it would be a month or six weeks before any additional lunar pictures — or additional information — are released.

Specially Trained Troops Control British Teenagers

LONDON (AP) — Highly drilled police formations, backed by airborne reinforcements, smothered outbreaks of teen-age hooliganism which threatened to turn southern England coast resorts into a battleground.

Two dead youths were found along the shore Monday morning after a weekend of turmoil involving police and two teenage cults. Police said one could have been the victim of foul play.

AT HASTINGS, focal point of disturbances over the past two days, 40 youths had been jailed. Police Chief Donald Brown said "nothing has got out of hand." Even so, 44 persons, including four policemen, had been injured, none seriously.

Things appeared to be shaping up Sunday for a second Battle of Hastings — the first was in 1066 — when thousands of youths on motorbikes and scooters, obeyed some unexplained herd summons and swarmed into the picturesque township of 65,000 people.

It was all part of what seems to have become a British custom — the seaside rumble between rival Mod and Rocker cults during the three-day weekend holidays, that occur three times a year.

HASTINGS POLICE asked Scotland Yard for help. The Yard dispatched, by plane, a riot squad of 69 men which had been standing by.

When skirmishes started breaking out again Monday morning, Hastings sent a new appeal and again a planeload of officers arrived.

Police were largely successful in preventing any concentrations of the cults — the nattily dressed Mods who favor motor scooters; and the leather-jacketed Rockers, whose favored transport is motorcycles.

An aftermath of disturbances at Hastings and other towns was the discovery of the two bodies along the shore.

ONE WAS A 15-year-old unidentified boy who floated ashore on a beach near the Queen's Hotel in Hastings. Police were unable immediately to determine the cause of his death but said foul play could not be ruled out.

AT COUNCIL MEETING—

Garbage, Fair Housing Ordinances Scheduled

Proposed ordinances on fair housing and garbage collection top the agenda for tonight's meeting of the Iowa City City Council.

The councilmen will hear second reading of the Fair Housing Ordinance which two weeks ago touched off a storm of charges from many of the 120 persons who packed the council chambers.

City Manager Carsten Leikvold says 37 letters have been received from citizens — all but three of them backing the proposed ordinance. Many letters urge the Council to put back in the enforcement clause which was deleted prior to first reading.

That clause would have allowed the Human Relations Commission to seek Johnson County District Court action for non-compliance with the ordinance. As it now stands, the Commission would only be allowed to hear cases and make recommendations.

A majority of the Councilmen said Friday the decision of Iowa City realtors and home builders to oppose the proposed ordinance has not changed their opinions.

The Garbage Collection Ordinance will be heard on its final reading, after which the Council is expected to vote on the proposed changes in garbage collection.

Under the new ordinance, garbage will be collected once a week only from one and two family dwellings. No more than four cans will be collected from any one family. The city would maintain one truck to pick up rubbish left on the curbs.

The new ordinance would exclude apartment houses and commercial establishments which would have to handle their own garbage disposal.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 in the Civic Center.

Religious Leaders Favor Ordinance For Fair Housing

The Association of Religious Leaders of Iowa City Monday went on record in favor of the fair housing ordinance being considered by the Iowa City City Council.

The Religious Leaders bring to four the number of organizations who have taken a public stand on the controversial issue. Last week the Board of Realtors and the Home Builders Association expressed opposition to the proposed ordinance; the Social Action Committee of the Trinity Episcopal Church endorsed it.

The Association, in a statement, said it supported "the efforts of our City Council to adopt a Fair Housing Ordinance which will deal effectively with discrimination."

The Association of Religious Leaders said the ordinance was necessary because education is inadequate. The statement called education too slow and said education and law go hand in hand if they are to be most effective.

They also said law justifies failure to discriminate, and added legislation is the "most impressive way of putting the community on principles or rules of conduct."

The statement continues, "necessitating this ordinance is not primarily concerned with the problem between Negroes and Whites. The Fair Housing Ordinance has as its central issue the simple question of justice. Justice is color-blind. It is concerned with the principle of democracy. This ordinance does not ask us to be pro-Negro or to be pro-White. It asks us simply to be pro-Citizen, pro-Human."

The statement concluded such an ordinance would provide the community with a healthy climate for economic growth and prosperity for all.

Youth Injured After Hurling Rocks at Cars

Violence Breaks Out As Negro Leaders Try To Calm Militants

JERSEY CITY, N.J. A Negro youth was shot and two policemen were injured Monday night in a new outbreak of racial rioting that saw Negro youths hurl homemade bombs, bricks and rocks at police officers. Five Negroes were arrested.

The Negro youth who was shot was identified as Louis Mitchell, in his early twenties. He appeared to have been wounded in the neck or shoulder. Blood soaked his shirt and his trousers as he was carried from the steps of a housing project and placed on the sidewalk to await an ambulance.

CHARLES ALSTON, a fire department official, said the youth apparently had been among a group of Negroes which had gathered by the Lafayette housing project to hurl objects at police.

Police Lt. Raymond Blaszak said two of his men were injured, one of them burned by a Molotov cocktail — a homemade bomb consisting of gasoline in a bottle. The burned patrolman was hospitalized.

About three dozen helmeted policemen, armed with riot guns and 38-caliber revolvers, stood their ground at an intersection where violence broke out Sunday night. They fired shots in the air. The gang of youth stood in the middle of glass-littered street.

Asked if his men would move in on the Negroes, Lt. Blaszak said, "You never move in; you'd get killed if you did."

He said the police would let the Negroes stay there, hoping they would expend their energy and break up.

OFFICERS BEGAN shooting out street lights so the youths would have trouble spotting their targets.

The trouble reportedly started when Negroes began throwing rocks at cars driven by whites.

The violence broke out as Negro leaders, clergymen and city officials met with Mayor Thomas J. Whelan at City Hall to discuss Negro grievances and to seek ways of averting trouble.

A little more than an hour before the renewed trouble began civil rights leaders had canceled a rally and began a talking campaign to settle down militant Negroes in the area.

Earlier, the entire 900-man police force was ordered on stand-by alert and Whelan had warned that "force will be met with force."

THE RALLY HAD been scheduled in the Lafayette housing project, where the arrests of a Negro man and a Negro woman set off the disturbance Sunday night.

The Rev. Msgr. Eugene J. Reilly of Christ the King Church and Negro city councilman Fred Martin confirmed that the rally had been canceled.

"We're just trying to keep the fellows quiet," Martin said. "We're talking with them."

Church leaders and members of civil rights groups walked up and down Grand Street, chatting with Negroes along the way.

Negro leaders, clergymen, police officials and Whelan were to meet later to discuss ways of easing tensions.

The mayor told a news conference that he sympathized with and was in agreement with the Negroes' long-range civil rights goals. He blamed most of the trouble on "young toughs."

Eight Clergymen Begin Jail Terms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Eight white and Negro clergymen, convicted of unlawful assembly after a sit-in demonstration in 1961, began 60-day jail terms Monday after three years of unsuccessful appeals.

Federal Court immediately turned down a new appeal, a habeas corpus petition, saying it should have gone to Municipal Court.

The petition asked U.S. Dist. Court Judge G. Harrold Carswell to release the clergymen on ground there was no evidence of unlawful assembly and that an Interstate Commerce Commission order had wiped out segregation in terminals.

Carswell also turned down a request for bond pending appeal. The clergymen were housed in segregated cells. Police said the clergymen were scheduled for work duty. The eight chose to serve the sentence rather than pay $500 fines.

AUSTRIA AIDS VIET NAM

VIENNA, Austria (AP) Austria has agreed to help refugees in South Viet Nam, reports Vinh Tho, general secretary of the Saigon Foreign Ministry. He said on a contact visit here that Austria would supply mostly medicines, blankets and tents through the Red Cross.

Choosing up sides on ordinance

THE CITY COUNCIL'S MAIL is running 35 to 4 in favor of the proposed Fair Housing ordinance, with all 35 letters in favor of the ordinance also urging reinstatement of the enforcement provision.

Organizations within Iowa City are choosing up sides, and there are definite characteristics on each side. Against the ordinance, so far, are the Board of Realtors and the Home Builders Association.

For the ordinance are the League of Women Voters, the SU branch of the American Association of University Professors, the First Unitarian Society, the Iowa City Baha'i group, the Unitarian Social Concerns Council, the Iowa City Area Council of Churches committee on Christian community concerns and the Association of Religious Leaders of Iowa City, the last two groups being non-denominational.

In its plea for Constitutional rights that opposed the ordinance, the Board of Realtors said that the "real attainment of open occupancy lies in brotherhood, tolerance, education and understanding" and that these qualities are achieved through the churches, the schools and men of good will.

Religious organizations and the AAUP have made strong statements advocating the ordinance and the enforcement provision. The groups that the Board of Realtors says should do the job obviously, and rightly, feel that law is necessary to lend strength to teachings and provide justice now, when it is needed.

Since those groups urging a Fair Housing ordinance are also urging the enforcement provision, the City Council will have to act in favor of one group or the other — unless it adopts the ordinance as it is now, which would accomplish nothing.

It will be interesting to see which group has the greatest influence on the council — those groups whose jobs are social, religious and educational leadership or those whose prime consideration is property rights.

Barry and the KKK

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CHAIRMAN said that as long as the Ku Klux Klan is not "overthrowing the government," the party's position is that it is not discouraging votes. All this after the head of the Georgia KKK said he will support Barry Goldwater.

The National Chairman said that Goldwater will appeal to Negroes who want better government and "get beyond the emotional issue" of the civil rights vote.

The two-faced approach might work if they could convince the Negroes to forget the "emotional issue" of burning crosses and threats that are synonymous with the KKK.

Psychological political warfare—

Extremism styled to attract voters

WASHINGTON — Nobody likes to talk about it, but there is a great deal of stress during a Presidential election on psychological political warfare.

BOTH SIDES are great at spreading rumors about the enemy and using any possible tactic to destroy the other.

We have a friend, a staunch Democrat, who, every Presidential election year, claims he wins hundreds of voters for his side by a simple maneuver. "Everytime I take a taxi I tip the driver five cents and say, 'Vote Republican!'"

Another Democratic friend now spends his spare time driving around Washington, cutting off people, honking his horn at them, and stealing their parking places. He does this in a car that has "Goldwater for President" stickers all over it.

"I don't know if I'm accomplishing much now," he told us, "but I think I'll pick up most of my votes in late October when I accidentally stall on the 14th Street bridge."

A REPUBLICAN friend has a gimmick that he says works miracles. He picks people's names out of the phone book and calls them up at midnight and says, "I'm a volunteer for Johnson. Would you have a few minutes to talk to me?"

A Republican acquaintance claims he won many votes for Nixon in 1960 by scattering Democratic campaign literature on his neighbors' lawns. He hopes to do it again for Goldwater this year.

A Democrat we know says his mother, who has never been active in politics before, is so upset about Sen. Goldwater's nomination that she is working day and night for his defeat.

"WHAT DOES SHE DO?" we asked. "She walks around in old tennis shoes with a Goldwater button on her chest, insulting all the merchants in Georgetown."

"That's not bad. But what have you been doing?" "Not much so far," he admitted. "My only contribution is that everytime I go to a party I put on a Goldwater button and start making passes at all the independents' wives."

"MY BROTHER, on the other hand, has been doing very well getting hostesses to vote for Johnson."

"Everytime he goes to a dinner party he announces loudly that he's for Goldwater and then spills wine on the hostess's new tablecloth."

He told us, "It's going to be a very tough fight."

We have a woman neighbor, a Goldwater supporter, who calls up doctors and dentists and asks them if they have any new information of President Johnson's plan for socialized medicine.

ONE GREENING CARD company is now printing up a letter on Republican stationery which you can send to a friend, informing him that his house has been selected for a neighborhood fund-raising drive and he can expect 50 Republican neighbors to show up for a barbecue "weather permitting."

As the campaign gets hotter, psychological political warfare will be used more and more to attract the undecided vote.

WHILE MOST people abhor this type of campaigning, a specialist in psychological political planning told us, "Extremism in the pursuit of voters is no vice."

Letters to the editor—

Residents voice support for fair housing proposal

To the Editor:

The Iowa City Realtors and home builders have said much about the rights of property owners. I have no quarrel with this. We live in a society which has established the ownership of property as one of its highest values, and those who support the Fair Housing Ordinance have no intent to change it. So let's stop looking under our beds for the boogymen.

However, something is missing in the statement by both the builders and the realtors associations. What about the RIGHT TO OWN PROPERTY? How can there be a FREE enterprise system when a small group in the position of influence and power, such as the builders and realtors, reserve the right to decide who can own property and who cannot?

I trust the realtors and builders are sincere in their opposition to the ordinance, but I do hope they take the time to read it. They will find it an excellent piece of legislation. It was written after a careful study of the experiences of other communities with similar ordinances. With its enforcement provisions reinstated, it will find it an adequate protection for property rights and the right to own property.

Ben Kremnak
510 S. Capitol St.

To the Editor:
We, the undersigned property owners and landlords of Iowa City, express our complete support of the Fair Housing Ordinance under consideration by the City Council. We further ask that the enforcement provisions be reinstated, and that the minimum renters for a landlord to be exempted be reduced to less than four.

We feel that the ordinance has adequate safeguards for personal property rights, and will be an important step towards ending discrimination in Iowa City.

Ceremony depicts roles

By DAVE WIDMER
Film Reviewer

"The Ceremony" tries to show how relative is the line dividing the roles of men, from criminal to prosecutor. Laurence Harvey, producer and director, plays Sean, condemned to death for killing a man in a robbery. His death is warmly anticipated by the prosecutor, who needs a conviction to prove Tangier is more than an internationally-administered hellhole.

JOHN IRELAND is the warden, who balks at the protocol-hypnotized prosecutor's distorted view of the law and the "ceremony" but is powerless to act.

Sean's brother Dominic (Robert Walker) implements Sean's escape from prison, the price being Sean's woman (Sarah Miles). Sean escapes, but Dominic is captured. Disfigured by the flaming crash of his escape car, he is presumed to be Sean and dies before the firing squad.

A HEIGHT OF ludicrousness is attained when the prosecutor orders the dying Dominic to sign a waiver of last rights, so that the "ceremony" may proceed without waiting for the priest.

"Now let them say we have no law," says the prosecutor. Sean immediately appears, flabbergasting his executioners. Formerly an amoral criminal, he is now noble in his defiance of the authorities.

"THE CEREMONY" neatly places the burden of proof on the establishment, as various respectable figures deal with Sean, who recognizes neither God nor institutions. As the priest, Jack McGowan is certainly the most likeable of the futile specialists, and his mission is vindicated as Sean gropes for faith in the realization of his brother's sacrifice.

Generally well done, the story spans one night, and the black and white photography glides the action with an unrelenting starkness.

THE MESSAGE is blatantly written into the screen play, and such references as cannibalism underscore the common human frailty effectively, perhaps too much so. The audience would be better occupied if given a chance to share in the discovery, rather than being handed the clever paradoxes of the dialogue.

Much depends on big states—

Barry faces search for electoral college support

By DORIS FLEESON
WASHINGTON — Goldwater

unity efforts are proceeding successfully with party organizers, but they are unlikely to produce any coattails he can ride in the Electoral College race.

In a close contest, strong supporting candidates, especially if they are in big states, can make the difference. They were almost as important as the candidate himself in Harry Truman's 1948 triumph.

The Goldwater problem is, ironically, the circumstance which enabled his dedicated band to nominate him at San Francisco and gain control of the party. It is that Republicans have been a dwindling minority for some time and notably lacking elector-fighters.

TAKE THE SENATE. With a Goldwater vacancy to be filled, only eight Republican incumbents are standing for re-election this year. The two from pivotal states, Kenneth Keating of New York and Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, and the one from a swing state, J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, instantly expressed misgivings and will run with a high degree of independence.

Two from widely separated outposts, Winston Prouty of Vermont and Hiram Fong of Hawaii, say they will support the nominee but have deemed it wise to explain that they do not always agree with him. Three others — Roman Hruska of Nebraska, Edwin Mechem of New Mexico and John Williams of Delaware — can live comfortably with Goldwater sentiment, as presumably the nominee's replacement can. The total of their Electoral College muscle is still rather slight.

THEN THERE ARE the Governors, with seven of 15 running this fall. Only one, George Romney of Michigan, faces a large electorate, and he is playing it cool. So is Gov. John Chafee of Rhode Island, who doubts if he can get away to the unity summit in August. Again the remainder can live with Sen. Barry Goldwater, but their states carry little weight in the Electoral College.

All this, of course, makes it easier to isolate the complainants against Goldwater policy. It also helps the new party leaders persuade the organization men that they have nothing to lose by going along with Goldwater this once.

REPUBLICANS WILL, of course, field candidates against incumbent Democrats, not all of whom in the Senate are strongly situated. But the challengers, whatever doubts they might have, will go along with the ticket, and anyway few of them are established vote-getters.

New York and California are special situations of great importance because they are the biggest states.

New York leaders, including Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, expect formally to endorse the ticket but will allow their candidates maximum independence. They will lavish praise on Keating and on Sen. Jacob Javits, who is not up for this year, and remind voters how hard all hands worked for moderation until the final decisions were made.

IN CALIFORNIA, the Republicans are badly split and their Senate candidate, George Murphy, is given little chance to defeat Democrat Pierre Salinger. Incumbent Sen. Thomas Kuchel, their prize vote-getter, is not up and has not stated his position. The aggressive California Goldwaterites, angered by Kuchel's support of Rockefeller for the nomination, have tried — and failed — to force his hand.

Summer project report recounts police belligerence

(Editor's note: This report on a portion of the Mississippi Summer Project was sent to The Daily Iowan by Larry Wright, Al, Chicago, who is working out of Holly Springs, Miss.)

The Freedom Schools are still going strong although we have less students now since the public schools opened July 20. We now have about 60 students in the Holly Springs school and around 40 in the Benton County school.

I am teaching 10 to 14-year-olds math and science courses. Also I try to spend some time every day talking about something dealing with civil rights; such as the value of registering and voting as a first step toward freedom, why we all need to stick together if we are going to get anywhere, why it is profitable for the white man to keep things the way they are, and lately we have been attacking Barry Goldwater.

For the past few weeks most of the effort here has been concentrated on voter registration and getting people signed with the Freedom Democratic Party. I have been spending about half my time on freedom schools and half of it on voter registration.

I have been working in an area about 20 miles west of Holly Springs called Chulahoma. When I first started working the area about three weeks ago, the people were scared and it was hard to get them to work with us.

This is easy to understand because most of them live on small farms owned by whites and there is the threat that they will be picked off their property if they deal with us. I know one family personally which was run out of their house for having too much to do with us. Last week we had a mass meeting in Chulahoma of about 200 people. It was a very good meeting which changed the whole atmosphere of the community. Now people are coming to find me asking to sign the freedom registration forms. One lady even apologized for not signing earlier saying she was scared, but she wanted to sign now.

Due to our success all over the state we have also had more trouble. Most of it has come from the cops, but some has come from whites, usually land owners. We are constantly being followed and chased off or out of some area.

One white guy told me he owned the property we were on and that he would "take care of the niggers" on his property. He didn't like our integrated group and he wouldn't let us talk to any Negroes. Usually the Negroes who are with us are students from the freedom school. One or two go with me every day and they are not always the same ones.

As I said, most of the trouble has come from the cops. Two weeks ago one volunteer was arrested in Canton for "blocking traffic" while he was delivering books. Last week I drove him back to Canton to stand trial. He paid a fine of $23 out of his $50 bail. A worker from Canton was fined $21 for running a stop sign on a corner where there is no stop sign.

Apparently this wasn't enough. As we were leaving Canton I was passed by two cars and noticed a highway patrol car behind me. I was going 55 in a 65 zone. He pulled me over and said I was going 75. When I said I wasn't he got mad, took my drivers license and told me to follow him. I followed him to a gas station where he called a judge to come hold trial.

When the other worker tried to call Holly Springs to tell them what was happening, the policeman delayed him by saying to another one who had just pulled in, "Doesn't he look like that guy who had the gun a few days ago?"

He then made him pull out all his identification. When that was done the cop said, "Boys let me warn you outside this judge, he's a real hanger. See that tree outside? He's hanged 15 guys from that tree. You can still see a few pieces of rope hanging from it."

He made a few more remarks about hanging and was very crude. Most of what he said seemed to revolve around sex. Then he asked us how we liked Goldwater. When we told him we didn't, he said, knowing the other volunteer was from New York, "He sure ran that nigger-loving Rockefeller crying back to New York, didn't he?"

When the judge came in he pointed to me and said, "This nigger here has broken the law of the sovereign State of Mississippi." The judge didn't ask me to plea, he merely asked if I had anything to say. I told him I was only going 55 and that two cars passed me right before I was stopped.

To that the cop replied, "You were passing everything on the road and slowing down to 75 when I caught you."

The judge said one of us must be a liar and since he had known the cop for a long time, I must be the liar.

He fined me $27 which seemed high and strange, because with the earlier $23 fine, it used up the $50 bond exactly. After I paid the fine I asked the cop for my driver's license back. He told me the other cop had it. When I asked the other one, he said, "You're the guy who tried to run me off the road a way's back. Follow me back to Canton."

When we got to Canton I was charged with reckless driving for "trying to run a policeman into the cement embankment of a bridge."

This time I was asked to plead so I said "innocent." My trial was set for 10 the next morning and I was sent to jail on $100 bail. I was told I would get a phone call in jail from the judge.

When I got to jail, the Negroes figured out who I was and told me they would protect me if the whites tried anything. The whites were friendly also but I spent most of my time playing cards with the Negroes. I was in jail for about six hours and asked for a phone call three times, but I never did get one. If the other volunteer hadn't known where I was I might have been there a while.

A girl from the freedom house in Canton lent me the $100 for bail. One girl gave me $15, another $10, to pay my fines.

I believe these arrests are an attempt to slow us down, due to our success. You can feel the improvement almost from week to week, especially in the kids. There are many brave and hard working older people who are with us, but I believe that in the long run the effect this project is having on the kids will do the most in changing the "system" here. Almost all the kids we come in contact with have become interested and active in the struggle, and I don't think it will wear off when we leave.

College All-Stars Ready To Test Bears' Defense

EVANSTON, Ill. — With heavy practice work behind them, the College All-Stars began tapering off Monday for their clash with the National Football League champion Chicago Bears in Soldier Field Friday night.

Head Coach Otto Graham's main task now is to polish his offense and defense to the extent that mistakes are held to a minimum. Against the Bears' toughest defense in the NFL last season, the All-Stars may try swing passes to halfbacks much of the time and employ spread — or shotgun — formations.

This was indicated in the full-scale scrimmage Saturday with the St. Louis Cardinals. Many completions were swing passes to backs in the flat — a favorite maneuver of the Bears' themselves.

Most of the hits were for short yardage, but Pete Beathard of Southern California once managed to fire a bomb to end Chuck Logan of Northwestern. Logan, who will join the Bears after the All-Star game, beat the defensive back and took the pass over his shoulder in the clear. Beathard, Jack Concannon of Boston College and George Mira give the collegians a strong arm. Mira, the Miami of Florida slingshot, has been using an arm injury but is expected to be ready Friday.

Their main targets include Logan; Paul Martha, Pittsburgh; Charlie Taylor, Arizona State; Dave Parks, Texas Tech; Willie Brown, USC; Mel Profit, UCLA; Matt Snell and Paul Warfield, Ohio State; Willie Orenshaw, Kansas State and Ted Davis, Georgia Tech.

Facing this aerial squadron will be famous Bear bandits — cornerbacks Dave Whitesell and Bennie McRae and safeties Roosevelt Taylor and Rich Peilbon. In raids against NFL foes last season, this group made a haul of 29 enemy passes to top the league in pass defense.

At the Bears' training camp in Rensselaer, Ind., quarterback Bill Wade is careful to remind that the collegians should never be taken lightly.

"Theoretically, the All-Stars should never win," he analyzes. "But they do, and with some consistency. It's a matter of psychology and spirit. The collegians came from behind to defeat the Green Bay Packers. They did it because they wanted to win."

"That's our challenge as Bears. We must be as spirited as the All-Stars. It becomes a matter of pride."

Reds' Manager Leaves Hospital

CINCINNATI — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds went home from Christ Hospital Monday but there was no word as to when he may return to active duty with his ball club. Hutchinson, 44, had been in the hospital a week for tests in connection with a cancer condition in his chest which first was discovered last January. He entered the hospital after suffering back pains.

Dr. George Ballou, the Reds' team physician and ball club officials declined to say what the tests showed.

Dr. Ballou said Hutchinson's return to the club depends on how he feels after he has an opportunity to relax at home.

Olympic Events Added In Women's Track

NEW YORK — The United States women's track team, flushed with success after a fine showing against the Soviet Union, has two new Olympic events to shoot at this year — the 400 meters and the pentathlon.

The girls have broken the American record in each this year. The new events raise the Olympic schedule to 12 for women's track, and some 200 women will compete in the trials Thursday through Saturday at Randall's Island for place on the U.S. team for Tokyo in October.

Paul Hornung To See Action This Saturday

NEW ORLEANS — One of pro football's most awesome offensive duos — Paul Hornung and Jimmy Taylor — team up for the first time in nearly 18 months Saturday night in Tulane Stadium.

For Hornung the National Football League exhibition clash between his Green Bay Packers and the St. Louis Cardinals will be his comeback to the pro ranks after a year's banishment.

Hornung, the "Golden Boy" of the gridiron, was suspended for a year after he admitted he had bet on NFL games — including his own Packers.

The exhibition tilt here is the first of two pre-season affairs that David Dixon and his New Orleans Pro Football Club, Inc. have lined up in an effort to woo a franchise for this historic city.

And just so the rival American League won't feel neglected, Dixon's group will sponsor the AFL All-Star game here sometime after the first of the year.

The 28-year-old Hornung missed half of the 1962 season with a bad knee plus all of 1963 because of the suspension, but Packer Coach Vince Lombardi pronounces him ready to play.

Taylor, who with Hornung combined for 188 points two years ago when the Packers won the NFL crown, says he's delighted to have halfback Hornung back.

High Winds Mark Sunday's Race At Lake McBride

The Hawkeye Sailing Club's fourth season race was held Sunday on the North Arm of Lake Macbride, with nine entries sailing a dog-leg west course. Variable but generally high winds, with gusts up to 30 miles per hour shortly after the start, produced several capsize and one dismast. Six boats completed the course.

On the basis of corrected time, Arnold Small, of Iowa City, was first, sailing a Flying Junior. Skip Johnson, of Cedar Rapids, in a Penguin was second. Frank Fulkerson, also of Cedar Rapids, was third, sailing a C-Scow. Eugene Helm, Iowa City, placed fourth in his Comet class boat, and fifth place went to Art Searle, Iowa City, in a Flying Junior.

The next of the season series races will be held Saturday, August 8, at 2:00 p.m. off the North Arm launching area of Lake Macbride.

Nicklaus Leads PGA Top Money Winners

DUNEDIN, Fla. — Jack Nicklaus has won only three of the 18 golf tournaments he has entered this year but has carried $92,917 to the bank.

Nicklaus headed the list of 10 top money winners released Monday by the Professional Golfers Association.

Arnold Palmer was second with $84,683 and Tony Lema third with $66,778. Bill Casper Jr. was fourth with $62,926 and Gary Player fifth with $52,449.

U.S. Trackmen Score Wins At London

LONDON — Mike Larrabee, the American 400 meter champion from Los Angeles, trimmed countryman Olan Cassell of Nutley, N.J., in 46.2 seconds Monday in an international meet at London's White City.

The meet, high point of the track season here, drew 30,000. The victory for 30-year-old Larrabee was his third in five tries over Cassell this season. George Kerr of Jamaica was third.

Three other Americans also scored victories before the big crowd. Bill Hardin of Baton Rouge, La., took the 400 meter hurdles, Hayes Jones of Detroit won the 110 meter high hurdles and Morgan Groth of Martinez, Calif., captured the 800 meters.

Hardin was timed in 50.3 in the 400 hurdles. Jones' winning time was 14.0 seconds, and Groth won in 1:48.5.

In the pole vault, John Cramer of Seattle cleared 15-7, the same as winner Rikko Anko of Finland, but settled for second place on more misses.

Ottis Burrell of Los Angeles got third in the high jump at 6-foot-3, the winner was E. Czernik of Poland, who jumped 7-1 1/2.

Clemente, Oliva Top Majors In Batting; Mays in Slump

NEW YORK — Willie Mays, a giant of a hitter for the opening month of the 1964 baseball season, has been producing like a midget lately, jeopardizing his chances of leading in any of the National League's major batting categories.

On May 13, a month after the campaign got under way, the San Francisco star was well out in front with 44 hits in 94 times at bat for a .468 average, 13 homers and 34 runs batted in for 23 games.

Mays still paces the circuit in homers with 29. However, he has dropped to sixth place in batting with .320 123-for-384 and to third place in RBI with 70 for 104 games.

Simple subtraction reveals that over the last 80 games, Willie has hit at only a .272 pace with 79 hits in 290 tries plus 16 homers and 36 runs batted in.

Mays has not homered in his last 14 games and has walloped only two in his last 23 games. Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs is the runner-up in home runs with 24. Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals has wrested the RBI lead from Mays with 78 while Chicago's Ron Santo is second with 74.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh strengthened his batting lead last week, gaining five points to 348 with 10 hits in 24 attempts. The Cubs' Williams held onto second place despite a one point drop to 340.

Rico Carty, Milwaukee's rookie outfielder, moved in among the leaders, taking over the No. 3 spot with 339.

Oliva, who had a 17-game batting streak snapped Sunday, picked up two points to 336 last week while Mantle dropped two points to 323. Oliva had 10 hits in 27 at bats while Mantle managed six in 20 attempts.

Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew slammed two more homers, boosting his leading total to 36. Dick Stuart of Boston is the RBI leader with 65.

FBI Finds In Graves

WASHINGTON (AP) — finding of three bodies in graves in Philadelphia, Miss., where three children were last seen.

The three, Andrew Goodman, James Earl Chaney and Michael Henry Schwerner, were last seen on the night of June 21.

The FBI said a search party of FBI agents turned up the bodies late Tuesday afternoon while digging in thick woods and underbrush several hundred yards from Route 21. The agency said the bodies are being removed to Jackson, Miss., where an effort will be made to identify them and determine the cause of death.

The FBI search for the three missing civil rights workers began June 22. The following day the 1963 station wagon was found abandoned and burned on a dirt road

Senate Acts On Legislative Reorganization

WASHINGTON — A bill to delay court-ordered legislative reorganization until speedy Senate committee approval Tuesday was ticketed for a fast ride to President Johnson's desk.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.), said he will try to attach the measure to the $3.5 billion foreign aid authorization bill now before the Senate.

"The foreign aid bill is certain to hit the President's desk soon," Dirksen told newsmen.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, predicted quick Senate approval after the Judiciary Committee voted 10-2 to clear the bill without the usual formalities of public hearings.

Dirksen said a stay of court orders for reappointment needed to counter what he described as chaos "when the courts assume the role and function of a legislative branch of government."

Last June 15 the Supreme Court laid down a one-man-one-vote rule which would have the effect of giving cities greater representation in state legislatures and reducing the influence of rural areas.

SEVERAL STATES have been ordered by federal courts to reappoint both branches of their legislature — which could take two years or more.

Dirksen says time is needed for Congress to consider a proposed constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court ruling, approved by Congress, such an amendment would have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states.

Sen. Frank Lausche (D-Ohio) announcing he supports the measure, said the framers of the Constitution intended that state U.S. senators should be elected to represent states or districts without regard to population factors.

Dubuque U. President To Address Graduates

Commencement exercises for approximately 800 students will be held at 7:30 tonight in the Fine Arts House.

The Rev. Gaylord M. Couchman, president of the University of Dubuque, will be the principal speaker and University President Howard R. Bowen will confer the degrees.
