Johnson Announces New Missile Detection Devices

Defense Weapon Spots Aircraft Below Horizon

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - President Johnson disclosed Thursday the United States is able to spot missiles beyond the curve of the earth and also destroy bomb-carrying satellites in space.

The Chief executive announced these major defense breakthroughs in a speech to some 40,000 Californians massed on the grounds of their state capitol.

While Johnson said he spoke as no partisan, he obviously had in mind that Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater has accused the administration of failing to develop any strategic weapon systems.

STANDING on the capitol steps, Johnson said this is a united nation in an election year, that "our only purpose still is peace," but should another nation employ armed satellites in space, the United States will be prepared and ready to meet them.

Then he said he wanted his voice heard around the world.

Some officials considered the development of the new radar that can see beyond the horizon as more important than weapons to knock down satellites, on the basis that missiles are a more likely threat than bomb-bearing spacecraft.

THE PRESIDENT said this country has no intention of putting warheads into orbit and supports a United Nations ban on use of weapons of mass destruction in outer space.

He said "we have no reason to believe that any nation now plans to put nuclear warheads into orbit," as we have more effective systems today.

But someday, he said, an aggressor might use armed satellites to terrorize the world and the United States has acted to meet that threat.

Putting aside the curtain of secrecy, Johnson said:

"We now have developed and tested two systems with the ability to intercept and destroy armed, satellites circling the earth in space.

"I CAN TELL you today that these systems are in place, they are operationally ready, and they are on alert to protect this nation and the free world.

"But this is not the only new development. "Previously our radar capability has been limited to detection of objects within the line of sight. But now we have produced - and we are installing - our first facilities for operational 'over-the-horizon' radar.

"THIS RADAR will literally look around the curve of the earth, alerting us to aircraft and especially missiles, within seconds after they are launched.

"This capability will give us earlier warning than ever before of any hostile launchers against this country.

Home Pledges To Retain Nuclear Arms

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservatives pledged Thursday to keep Britain's nuclear armory, saying the nation one day might have to stand alone against an enemy's threats.

In a manifesto of general election promises, the ruling party labeled "nuclear abdication" plans of the opposition Socialists and Liberals to phase out Britain's atomic arsenal.

Douglas-Home launched the Conservative program at a news conference.

"The irrevocable consequence of Socialist policy would be that France and Red China - which are developing their own nuclear weapon capacities - would take our place in the highest international councils of the world," he said.

Harold Wilson's Laborites argue that the Conservatives are seeking to justify a continued nuclear role for Britain with the false assertion that the United States and other allies might desert Britain in a crisis. They maintain this idea lies behind French President Charles de Gaulle's policy of building up a French nuclear arm.

Housing Search Leads to Motels

By DOREEN HYDE Feature Editor (1st of a series)

Motel owners and hotel officials in Iowa City have found their units and rooms almost entirely filled by University students looking for rooms and apartments in the last month.

Reports vary from motels which have been able to rent their units on a monthly basis to those which have rented units for as long as three weeks while students were searching for housing just before school.

One motel owner, Roy Mulford of the Skyway Motel, said he found out that many Iowa Citizens had converted student rooms into apartments for working couples in the past year.

"The University," Mulford contended, "is going into competition with Iowa City and the people in Iowa City feel that cannot depend on the student population."

Most report that they have never found the housing situation as bad as it is this year and many speak of students who have been forced to return home because they could not find living quarters.

One motel owner offered to rent 18 units on a monthly basis and in a few hours in one day received over 100 phone calls from students who wanted a room.

Mrs. Homer Boerman of the Rebel Motel said her units were three-fourths full of students during the last month, some of whom stayed for two weeks until they could find living quarters. She termed the housing situation in Iowa City "drastic" as did the personnel at the Jefferson Hotel.

Although the hotel doesn't have any students on a permanent living basis momentarily, they reported that many international students have been looking for rooms in the past week.

Eight motels reported that students had stayed in their units for varying lengths of time and some had married couples and families staying while their apartments were being finished.

Many SUJowans have resorted to peculiar living situations, some living in cars, while many others are camping on friend's couches. All are hoping to find living quarters in several weeks when other students might be leaving campus.

Barry Claims—

Johnson Trying To Cover Up Misdeeds

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Sen. Barry Goldwater Thursday night accused the Johnson administration of trying to cover up blunders and misdeeds because "nothing... must stand in the way of his grab for power in this election."

The Republican presidential nominee ripped into the Democratic administration, accusing Johnson of trying to head off possible embarrassment with "tidal waves of whitewash."

Goldwater's sharply partisan speech delighted the crowd, estimated by police at 25,000, in huge Tulane Stadium. They cheered, stomped their feet, clapped and booed every time the Arizona Senator mentioned "Lyndon B. Johnson."

EARLIER in the day, in a television interview in Raleigh, N. C., Goldwater touched on the civil rights issue for the first time since coming south in the campaign.

In response to a question about the possible effect of the so-called white backlash on the presidential election he replied: "I don't know

Court Rejects Key Section Of Rights Bill

3-Man Federal Panel Notes Spreading Powers of Congress

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - A three-judge federal panel, expressing concern over spreading congressional powers, declared unconstitutional Thursday a section of the Civil Rights Act as it applied to a Birmingham restaurant.

The Justice Department at Washington responded by filing notice of appeal in the U.S. Supreme Court.

THE JUDGES referred specifically to interstate commerce in issuing a temporary restraining order preventing Acting U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach from enforcing the public accommodations section of the law against Ollie's Barbecue.

Restricting its ruling to the Birmingham restaurant, the panel held that the Justice Department violated the Fifth amendment in applying the public accommodations section against Ollie's.

"WE CONCLUDE," the panel held, "that Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as applied to Ollie's was beyond the competence of Congress to enact, and that its enforcement against plaintiffs under the circumstances of this case would be violative of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, in pertinent part reading: 'No person shall be deprived of liberty, or property, without due process of law'."

But the situation was different than an Atlanta restaurant which was located adjacent to an interstate highway. The Birmingham establishment is several blocks from the nearest type of interstate travel.

A SIMILAR three-judge panel in Atlanta had upheld the public accommodations section of the law as it applied to a restaurant there.

The Birmingham panel - U.S. Dist. Judges Seymour H. Lynne and H. H. Grooms, both of Birmingham, and Circuit Judge Walter Gwin of Tuscaloosa, Ala. - said that "if Congress has the naked power to do what it has attempted in Title II of this Act, there is no facet of human behavior which it may not control by mere legislative ipse dixit, mere assertion that conduct affects commerce when in fact it does not do so at all, and rights of the individual to liberty and property are in dire peril."

THE OWNERS of Ollie's, Ollie McClung Sr. and his son, Ollie Jr., initiated the Birmingham suit after refusing to serve Negroes at their restaurant.

The establishment is located on Birmingham's south side. Although it is in a predominantly Negro neighborhood, it caters to a middle-class white clientele.

Bicycle Regulations

Regulations for the parking of motorcycles, motorbikes, and bicycles will be strictly enforced beginning Tuesday, according to Lt. Oscar Graham of the Campus Police.

All motorcycles, motorbikes, or motorbikes must be parked in areas prescribed for that type of vehicle. These areas are:

- South of the Engineering Building
- North of Restricted Area 11 by the Medical Laboratories
- South of the Field House between Quadrangle and Hillcrest

Bicycles may be left only in bicycle racks located in convenient spots across the campus.

Campus Police will issue written violation notices to any vehicle failing to comply with the regulations.

Bowen Tells Students—

Draw On SUI's Rich Resources

One of the largest induction ceremony audiences in the 118-year history of SUI stood attentively beneath an overcast sky as Howard R. Bowen, president of the University, officially opened the academic year Thursday morning.

Standing on the east steps of Old Capitol, where he attended his first Induction Ceremony as a student 31 years ago, Bowen spoke proudly of the pioneer days of the University.

"When our ancestors moved west, they sought not only to acquire new land and new wealth; they sought also to build a great new civilization," Bowen said.

"THEY WERE deeply concerned about education at all levels, and they founded schools and universities almost before they broke the sod and built their homes."

Bowen said he feels the people of Iowa today are as far-sighted about the importance of education as were the founders of the University.

"I think we can approach the future with confidence that we shall be able to meet our responsibilities and that in our generation we shall be able to keep faith with the pioneers," he said.

CONTRASTING the University's century of existence to the relative brevity of individual experience at SUI, Bowen said that, despite the shortness of our stay, it is our duty - both as students and faculty members - to draw upon the rich intellectual and cultural resources of the institution and to replenish and increase these resources so the University will be stronger when we pass it on to our successors.

One of SUI's main objectives as it grows in size will be to maintain itself as a "friendly place where the individual counts," Bowen said.

"THE GROWTH that lies ahead presents us with a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," Bowen said. "Those of us now on the scene at Iowa are called upon to rise to this challenge and to carry the University forward in a manner consistent with the aspirations of the founding pioneers."

Bowen told the crowd - which he labeled the first wave of the post-war "baby boom" - that SUI's growth will entail much responsibility for the University itself and for the people of Iowa. Such growth, he said, will require additional faculty, academic buildings, and student housing.

IT WILL ALSO, according to Bowen, offer opportunities for the strengthening of educational programs.

"If the growth is not dissipated in proliferation of programs, degrees, and courses, but instead is

Humphrey Calls Barry 'Fearful'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey brought the LBJ campaign into the land of the Alamo Thursday. He extolled Texas as a state of big dreams and deeds and called Sen. Barry Goldwater a "fearful" candidate.

With the sweep through President Johnson's home state and into Arkansas, Humphrey was making his first venture into the South as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Humphrey, in a speech prepared for delivery at the John F. Kennedy High School, praised Texans, and declared they "have built a mighty, throbbing empire through faith in the future, not through fear and retreat from reality."

Humphrey ticked off promises that he said the Kennedy-Johnson Administrations made "to get America moving again," including the tax cut, the poverty program, the civil rights bill and space program to land an American on the moon.

The disabled car which Kenney swerved to avoid was then struck by another vehicle traveling approximately 70 m.p.h.

Of the four occupants in the disabled car, three are in critical condition and one is dead.

Kenney was held in St. Louis until the accident was investigated and was then released.

He will arrive with his companions in Cedar Rapids today as scheduled.

Kenney and the Mississippi Negroes were scheduled to speak in Cedar Rapids today. Kenney said he would not be able to attend today's engagement, but would probably be released in time to speak in Waterloo, Iowa City, and Davenport.

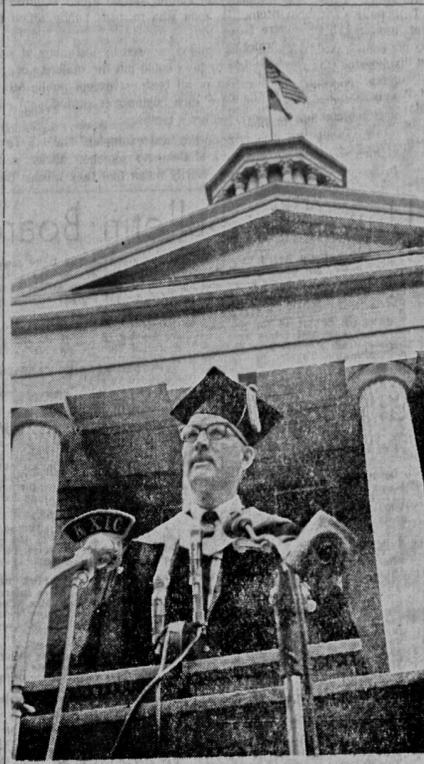

Kenney was on his way to the area to solicit support for a project to provide clothing, food and aid to Negroes in Holmes County for the winter.

A past president of the SUI Friends of SNCC (Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee), Kenney was one of 25 volunteer workers in Holmes County this summer, where he is now SNCC project director.

The Daily Iowan Starts Off-Campus Next Wednesday

Delivery of The Daily Iowan to students residing in off-campus housing will get underway beginning Wednesday. Carrier delivery begins Wednesday while mail delivery to students living in Coralville, trailer parks, and other places outside Iowa City starts Friday.

Copies of The Iowan are available for free pick-up until delivery begins at the following places: South Lobby Information Desk, Iowa Memorial Union; Front Lobby, Main Library; and The Daily Iowan office, 201 Communications Center.

Sen. Thurmond makes his choice in '64

CONSERVATIVE SEN. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina has decided to switch his allegiance from the Democratic to the Republican party.

Although the Johnson-Goldwater election race has produced several shifts in support among office holders, this is the first actual change in party affiliation which has occurred.

Republicans in New York and Michigan have declared they will run independently of the Goldwater ticket or are giving the Arizona senator only minimum support.

Democrats in Mississippi have gone so far as to declare themselves independent of the national party. They openly support the Goldwater-Miller ticket.

Before Goldwater had won his party's nomination, his battle cry was a "choice, not an echo." And no matter what else is true of this contest, it does provide a choice.

It is appropriate for Sen. Thurmond to openly change his political affiliation since he is supporting Goldwater rather than President Johnson. Perhaps the "Democratic" party in Mississippi should consider a similar switch en masse to Goldwater and the Republicans.

The present situation finds the Mississippi Democrats supporting the Republicans but continuing to label themselves Democrats.

This means that Johnson Democrats in the state have no party organization within which they may work to support their candidate.

Sen. Goldwater would have to agree that this arrangement does not supply voters in Mississippi with a choice instead of an echo.

Situations are similar among liberal Republicans who are supporting the national ticket openly, although they may not be as enthusiastic as they might. These people, however, have not openly endorsed the Democratic ticket. A few have refused to endorse Goldwater and many prefer to keep quiet, but no support to the "enemies" is offered.

Sen. Thurmond's decision to publicly endorse his party's national opposition was correctly associated with a switch in his political ties.

We agree that Sen. Thurmond belongs in the same party as Sen. Goldwater. He was wise to decide he'd rather switch than fight.

Coeds come through

THE PROGRAM TO provide coeds over 21 with keys to off campus houses and sororities has worked out well. It is to be instituted again this year after a successful trial last year.

A change has been made in procedure for these women. They will now merely sign "in" when they return for the evening. They previously were required to sign the time they returned as well as their name.

A study of these times last year found that most coeds signed in within half an hour of the closing time.

Another change provides women with keys on a semester basis instead of from night to night as was the practice last year.

These changes giving more responsibility to SUI women will undoubtedly be met with the success last year's program had.

Most SUI coeds — adults and minors — are responsible people.

The changes in the program and the fact that it has been set up again attest to the good judgment of these people.

We look forward to more opportunities for SUI students to prove their individual responsibility.

Limit to everything

SUI CAMPUS POLICE are now giving out "courtesy tickets" informing violators of their sins. This practice is thoughtful of the officers, but we might point out that drivers should not attempt to take advantage of it. Two courtesy tickets equals a plain old "uncourteous" one.

Courtesy, like everything else, has its limits.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is owned by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four trustees appointed by the president of the University. The Daily Iowan's editorial policy is not an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion, in any particular.

The text of Bowen's induction speech

This morning, we are inaugurating the 118th year in the history of the University of Iowa. As always, on academic New Year's Day I am thrilled by the return of students and faculty, by the renewal of friendships, and by the promise and challenge that is inherent in a new school year.

This particular New Year's Day means a great deal to me personally. Like many of you in this audience, I am starting out hopefully on a new venture.

I am pleased and proud to have the opportunity to work with you, and I pray that I may be able to do my part effectively and helpfully toward the advancement of learning at this great University.

I ATTENDED my first Induction Ceremony, on the steps of Old Capitol, just 31 years ago when I first came here as a student. Then, as today, I was impressed by the symbolism of this stately building.

Old Capitol reminds us of the pioneer origin of this University, and of our present duty which derives from that origin.

When our ancestors moved west, they sought not only to acquire new land and new wealth; they sought also to build a great new civilization. They were deeply concerned about education at all levels, and they founded schools and universities almost before they broke the sod and built their homes.

THE UNIVERSITY of Iowa was chartered in 1847, just one year after the admission of Iowa to the Union and at a time when the population of the state was only a little more than 100,000.

The founders thought of this University not only as a place where people would be trained in the learned professions but also as a center of liberal learning and humane culture. The very form of Old Capitol — its gracious dignity and proportion — tells us something about these pioneers and their values and aspirations. Their thinking was neither narrow nor small.

They regarded this University as a principal instrument for achieving their economic and cultural aspirations. They thought of it as both foundation of their civilization and opportunity for their young people.

SINCE 1847, the University has grown and prospered. It has served tens of thousands of students and has been a fertile center of discovery. It has become one of the world's leading institutions of higher education. I would mention especially the notable progress of the past 24 years under the leadership of President Hancher.

When I reflect on the fact that the life of this University extends over a century or more and is expected to continue for centuries in the future, I am impressed by the brevity of our individual experiences here.

Students come for only a few years, a mere moment in the history of the University. Few faculty members have been here as long as 20 years.

Yet despite the shortness of our stay, it is our duty, students and faculty alike, not only to draw upon the rich intellectual and cultural resources of the University as it has emerged from the hands of our predecessors, but also to replenish and increase these resources so that the University will be a stronger institution as we pass it on to our successors.

ALL OF US, students and faculty alike, stand in relation to the University community as givers as well as receivers. We faculty members have come here primarily to impart something, namely, such knowledge and wisdom and creativity as we can muster.

At the same time, those of us on the faculty receive, or should receive, as much as we give. What we receive is in the form of stimulation and constructive criticism and the give and take derived from association with able students and colleagues in a free and invigorating intellectual community.

We receive also the tools of our trade in the form of books, laboratories, and studios. Similarly, students come here to get something, namely, an education and an honored degree. Yet the mark of a successful student career is that the student gives to the University as much as he has taken from it.

WHAT DOES a student have to give? Primarily, it is the giving of himself as an enthusiastic participant in his studies, in classroom and campus discussion, in extra-curricular life, and in University affairs. It is also the giving of his talents, whether they be in the arts, in journalism, in organizational leadership, in public service, in social activities, or perhaps most important, in friendliness and concern toward others.

This kind of giving by each student adds up to a college community of stimulation and inspiration — the kind of community in which intellectual growth and moral commitment can occur. A successful college education is a two-way street where the student is both giver and receiver. And in the end what he receives is in proportion to what he gives.

Those of us in the current generation of students and faculty at the University of Iowa have assumed responsibility for this institution at a critical period. We happen to be here just when the University is on the threshold of growth more rapid than at any previous time in its history.

This very year 1964 is the year when the first of the post-war babies reach college age. As the birth rate rose dramatically from 1946 to 1957, so the number of eighteen-year olds ready for college will rise at an increasing rate from 1964 to 1975.

THE ENROLLMENT of the University is expected to increase from last year's 12,900 to this year's 13,700 to more than 20,000 in the next decade. And while the overall growth is occurring, the increasing emphasis in our society on technology and professional skill is expected to bring about an increase in the proportion of our students who will be in the Graduate College or in advanced professional colleges.

The growth that is ahead of us, while it contains dangers, offers unparalleled opportunities.

It means, for example, that we shall be hiring several hundred new faculty members. If these faculty members are chosen carefully and wisely, the expected growth could result in a significant strengthening of our faculty through the importation of new points of view, new interests, and new ideas.

GOP also involved—

No big probe expected in Bobby Baker case

By KENNETH L. DIXON
WASHINGTON — Despite all the outraged campaign oratory, don't hold your breath waiting for a full-scale Congressional investigation of the Bobby Baker case.

It could happen, of course, if public opinion reached such a fever pitch that it became almost unavoidable. Otherwise, it isn't at all likely in the foreseeable future. And, although traditional campaign tactics require them to shout loudly for such a probe, the Republicans on Capitol Hill — proportionately speaking — are just about as much opposed to the idea as the Democrats.

THE REPUBLICANS don't really want it much more than the Democrats because Bobby, who was a real smart operator, is reputed to also have a sizable number of big G.O.P. names and deals in his figurative little black book. It seems that although Bobby worked for the Democrats by day, he was such a farsighted soul about his future security that he wasn't above a little "moonlighting" among Republicans at night.

How many G.O.P. stalwarts on Capitol Hill also tremble whenever Bobby's name is mentioned is anybody's guess. But it's everybody's word that there are quite a few.

However, an even more basic reason why such a probe is unlikely to be held — or, if held, even less likely to be pushed to the limit — is that it might snowball into legislation which would make penalties far heavier for the man who misuses public office for private gain.

And, pushed by a public opinion aroused by testimony at such a hearing, the resultant law or laws could put the majority of senators and representatives out of all business except public office. And the ones who do not have such business or professional connections now are as scarce as hen's teeth.

Take lawyers, who provide the best examples. The law firms of men who become members of Congress somehow always seem to prosper. This does not necessarily mean that they misuse their public office (although some unquestionably do), but it does mean that if a strict enough law were passed, they'd have to give up their lucrative side income from their law firm.

OR BUSINESS. If a senator or representative owns, or is a partner in, an auto dealership, an insurance company, a hardware store or even a newspaper, his firm is almost certain to do more business just because of his public position. And that's without even misusing his office. How much more business his firm does when he decides to misuse his public trust, not even an IBM machine could estimate!

But this problem has always been a part of the American system of government. Jefferson and Hamilton quarreled over it. And when that quarrel spread to other men, it ended in tragedy.

It is almost impossible to distinguish with certainty between the men who merely profit naturally because of their prominent positions and those who misuse their public trust. It is only occasionally that a Bobby Baker case comes along.

And even when it does, it seldom results in any remedial laws. And from what I'm told here on the Hill doubt that this one will.

THE ANTICIPATED growth will require many new academic buildings. If these are designed tastefully and located according to a coherent master plan, an exciting face-lifting of the whole campus on both sides of the river could take place and the potential charm and beauty and order, which our natural setting cries out for, could be realized.

The coming growth will require new housing for thousands of students. If the plans for this housing are imaginative and designed to provide varied types of quarters to meet the differing circumstances and preferences of students, an enormous contribution to student life and welfare could be realized.

The coming growth will offer opportunities for the strengthening of educational programs. If the growth is not dissipated in proliferation of programs, degrees, and courses, but instead is directed mainly toward reinforcement of our present activities, marked qualitative improvements in our educational programs could be achieved.

THE GROWTH that lies ahead also offers opportunity for imaginative improvement of our student life. There will be more money in student activity funds, the number of counselors and advisers can be increased, and new recreational facilities can be provided.

If these resources are planned and used wisely, especially with the object of keeping Iowa a friendly place where the individual counts, the quality of student life could be enhanced.

The growth that lies ahead presents us with a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Those of us now on the scene at Iowa are called upon to rise to this challenge and to carry the University forward in a manner consistent with the aspirations of the founding pioneers.

We must do so in cooperation with the people of Iowa acting through their General Assembly. I believe that the people of Iowa are today just as far-sighted about the importance of excellent education as were our ancestors who conceived and designed Old Capitol and who founded this University.

I think we can approach the future with confidence that we shall be able to meet our responsibilities and that in our generation we shall be able to keep faith with the pioneers.

Grad student likes new DI cartoonist

To the Editor:
After following Hugh Haynie's editorial cartoons during my four years of undergraduate work at Berea College, Berea, Ky., I am very happy to hear that "The Daily Iowan" intends to carry future work of his. Personality and technique make him, I believe, the most outstanding editorial cartoonist in America today.
Readers perhaps will be interested in knowing that Mr. Haynie always includes his wife's name (LOIS) in each of his cartoons usually by a unique handling of lines. I was able to find the name twice in the cartoon you carried in your Sept. 16 issue. One is located immediately under the "e" in "Baker" and the other is located between the elephant's eyes and the donkey's ears.

Arizona governor explains conservatism

By PAUL J. FANNIN

Conservatism is today's challenge to the status quo. It is a dynamic challenge to the prevailing policies of liberalism, to the people who advocate and administer those policies, and to the theories behind them. In simple terms, conservatism is an adherence to ideas and policies based on experience rather than theory.

Conservatives are constantly searching for new ideas, and in fact have probably originated most of the world's best thinking. Aristotle was a conservative. Cicero was a conservative. John Locke was a conservative. Immanuel Kant was a conservative.

Edmund Burke was a conservative. The list extends back through the most fertile periods of social, political, and economic expansion in the world's history — the 19th Century industrial revolution, the 18th Century age of reason, the development of science in the 17th Century, the tremendous worldwide economic and intellectual renaissance of the 15th and 16th Centuries, all the way back to Rome in the Second Century B.C. and Athens in the Fifth Century B.C.

CONSERVATISM is sometimes mistakenly considered an archaic form of modern political thought, which is ridiculous. It is not, as its critics imply, a reactionary philosophy with the purpose of restoring an earlier social or political order any more than it is an effort to maintain the status quo.

This is the argument used by the principal defenders of the status quo, and in the United States today they are the so-called liberals who have become fairly well established in public administration, the news media, the arts, the academic profession, the professional labor field, social and welfare work, and some segments of American corporate management and finance.

Many of these people have something to lose personally if the status quo is changed. Many others feel that a way of life which is familiar to them is being threatened by any deviation from the doctrinaire liberal views dominating their own professional and social environment.

IT SEEMS to me that liberalism as a form of modern political thought is acting as a deterrent to human progress in precisely those areas where progress is now most needed, and while unfortunately it cannot yet be called archaic, the sooner it is discarded for something more promising, the better.

Then we can begin to cope with the multitude of problems already left in its wake. The role of conservatism today is to accomplish this purpose.

Viet Youths Dissatisfied With Council

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — The new National Council in Viet Nam to steer South Viet Nam toward civilian rule is being born in controversy.

Students expressed dissatisfaction Thursday at a list of 10 Viet Nam leaders reported nominating membership by Maj. Gen. Van Minh, the titular chief.

Spokesmen for the student headed "the August" riots pushed Premier Nguyen Van Thieu's military government to call a constituent assembly to replace the Diem government in a coup last November.

The confirmed nominees — Dinh Ham, Nguyen Chu and Khac Suu — conferred with at Gia Long Palace.

The chief of state said his ard in picking the council "their integrity, lack of relations with the Diem regime, military pasts and anti-Communist and anti-neutralist attitudes.

Others reported chosen in laymen of the Buddhist, Catholic and Protestant faith. The Hoa Hoa and Cao Dai. Another was Nguyen Van L. father of Lt. Nguyen Van G. bombed Diem's palace in a 'five coup in 1962.

The council is expected to meet its first meeting about Nov. 15 to draw up a new constitution and create a national constituent convention which eventually have legislative powers. An election is slated to be held by the end of 1965.

Khanh will run the country meantime provided he is not by some new civil or military crisis.

Viet Youths Dissatisfied With Council

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — The new National Council intended to steer South Viet Nam toward civilian rule is being born in controversy.

Students expressed dissatisfaction Thursday at a list of 16 civilian leaders reported nominated for membership by Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the titular chief of state.

Spokesmen for the students, who headed the August riots that pushed Premier Nguyen Khanh's military government to caretaker status, demanded a greater representation of Vietnamese youth.

Named by Khanh to handle creation of the council, Minh announced he has chosen three men who were active plotters against President Ngo Dinh Diem and will disclose the rest next week. Minh destroyed the Diem government in a military coup last November.

The confirmed nominees — Tran Dinh Ham, Nguyen Chu and Phan Khac Suu — conferred with Minh at Gia Long Palace.

The chief of state said his standard in picking the councilmen is "their integrity, lack of connections with the Diem regime, revolutionary pasts and anti-Communist and anti-neutralist attitudes."

Others reported chosen included laymen of the Buddhist, Roman Catholic and Protestant faiths and the Hoa Hoa and Cao Dai sects. Another was Nguyen Van Lue, the father of Lt. Nguyen Van Cu, who bombed Diem's palace in an abortive coup in 1962.

The council is expected to hold its first meeting about Nov. 5. It is to draw up a new constitution and create a national constitutional convention which eventually will have legislative powers. A national election is slated to be held by the end of 1965.

Dance, Contests, Prizes Set For Open House at Union

Painted clowns and side-show barkers will be among the elements contributing to the "Carnival" atmosphere of the Open House from 8 p.m. to midnight today in the Union.

The last formally scheduled event of new student Orientation Week, the Open House is designed to demonstrate the function of the Union by acquainting students with the educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities available.

A dance, scheduled for the River Room from 8-11:30 p.m., will feature a hootenanny during the intermission.

For those interested in the fine arts areas special sections for art and literature will be set up. Art objects will be offered for sale and demonstrations with a pottery wheel will be given. A scheduled poetry reading by Richard Lloyd-Jones, associate professor of English, will highlight the literary area.

Lectures and forum sessions, including a political discussion, are scheduled. Another feature of the evening will be the "soapbox sound-off," during which students may air complaints and opinions about the University. Opinion sheets will also be available for completion.

The crafts area will feature a "pitch the tent" contest, during which competitors will struggle with an inflatable tent. Every 25th person competing in the event will have his picture taken free of charge.

Sec. Synhorst Faces New Court Action

DES MOINES — A member of the Iowa Conservative party took new steps Wednesday to speed court action in a suit aimed at keeping the Democratic presidential ticket off the state election ballot in November.

Gordon Risher, Winterset attorney, filed a new suit in Polk County District Court against Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst.

His mother, Mrs. Blanche Risher of Winterset, also is plaintiff in the petition alleging that the names of President Johnson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey were not certified with Synhorst by the Aug. 31 deadline.

District Judge Wade Clarke set a hearing for Friday on whether the case will be advanced.

In the original suit by Risher and his mother, filed Sept. 4, Synhorst was not required to appear before Sept. 24 or to file an answer before Oct. 1.

Judge Clarke ruled Wednesday that he had no authority to call up the previous suit before Sept. 24 because the Rishers had not asked that Synhorst be required to appear "forthwith," instead of the usual 20 days.

The Rishers followed up that ruling with a new suit. Synhorst, a Republican, had accepted certification of the Johnson-Humphrey names, although Iowa Democratic officials had failed to make the certification until the day after the deadline.

Pact Signed By Tito, Red Market

BELGRADE — Yugoslavia Thursday established links with COMECON, the Communist bloc's equivalent of the West European Common Market.

It was the closest formal tie between independent-Communist Yugoslavia and the Red bloc since Stalin ousted President Tito from the since-dissolved Cominform in 1948.

Although the U.S. Congress stripped Yugoslavia of most-favored-nation status in 1962, this status was restored early this year and the Belgrade Government has been making steady progress at improving trade relations with other Western countries.

A trade pact signed with West Germany in July recognized Bonn's responsibility for the State of West Berlin—a claim the East Germans, COMECON members, have rejected.

A government communique said Yugoslavia will cooperate in the framework of the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance or COMECON in the fields of foreign trade, currency and finance, metallurgy, machine building, the chemical industry and the coordination of scientific and technical research.

The formal statement made it clear, however, that Yugoslavia will not have full membership of the massive trading group.

President Tito's independent-minded regime will occupy a role somewhere between observer and associate member status, informants said.

The country will send representatives to permanent committees and the executive council of COMECON when subjects of concern to Yugoslavia arise. These representatives will have what was described as a "consultative right of vote."

The agreement was a new breakthrough in the improvement of relations between Belgrade and Moscow—first chilled by Tito's 1948 split with the Kremlin over the excesses of Stalinism.

Wallace Summons State Legislature

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Gov. George C. Wallace summoned the Alabama Legislature Thursday to a special one-day session in a move he said is aimed at restoring control of public schools to the states.

Telegrams calling the session for next Monday, were sent to lawmakers. Wallace was in Milwaukee, Wis., when he disclosed the move aimed at amending the U.S. Constitution "to keep the Federal Government out of our schools."

Wallace said he would ask the legislature to adopt a resolution calling for amendment of the Constitution.

The session is to convene Monday evening. The resolution could be the first step in what the governor hopes will be a snowballing effort at re-writing the U.S. Constitution.

DISARMAMENT—GENEVA, Switzerland — Unable to make any progress on East-West differences the 47-nation disarmament conference in Geneva Thursday recessed for five months. In the interim, the disarmament debate will shift to the U.N. General Assembly opening Nov. 10.

Little Girl Waves, Stops Freight Train, Earns A Fin PORTSMOUTH, Va. — A 5-year-old Portsmouth girl who prevented the possible derailment of a Norfolk & Portsmouth Belt Line railroad freight train got her reward Wednesday — a $5 bill.

Terri Lynn Cross, daughter of Mrs. Norma Cross, was playing by the belt line tracks near her home Tuesday.

As she gathered stones to shore up the miniature sand caves she was digging nearby she noticed a section of track was missing.

Just then a diesel locomotive shunting freight cars approached the break.

Terri waved furiously at the engine to draw the engineer's attention to the break.

The engineer and brakeman realizing Terri's waving was more frantic than friendly, stopped the train and got out to see what was wrong. They found the break in the rails.

Wednesday, Terri got a letter from J. L. Jones, belt line superintendent. A $5 bill was enclosed.

"Thank you for informing one of our brakemen of the broken rail you observed at Piedmont Avenue," the letter said.

"Had you not called this to the attention of brakemen, we might have had a derailment."

Joint Meeting Set To Study Border Feud

Dr. George Forell, professor of Protestant theology at SUI, will speak at 6 p.m. Sunday at the first of a series of Sunday evening supper discussions at the Christus House, the Lutheran Student Center at Church and North Dubuque Streets.

Forell's topic will be "The Christian Student in Today's World."

Seal Workshop Dr. William Spear, director of the Oakdale Sanatorium, will talk on "Tuberculosis — Problems and Treatment" at a regional meeting of volunteer Christmas Seal workers on Sept. 29 at the sanatorium near Iowa City.

Also on the program, Dr. Paul M. Seeborn, professor in the Department of Internal Medicine at University Hospitals, will speak on respiratory diseases to the group.

The Oakdale meeting is one of five Christmas Seal workshops to be held throughout the state during September. Volunteers from 32 counties are expected to attend.

The program will feature a dramatic skit based on the life of Emily Bissell, the creator of the Christmas Seal. In addition, Paul C. Williamson, executive director of the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association; Nita Nolin, Seal campaign director, and field consultants will speak on aspects of the approaching Christmas Seal campaign.

Registration will be at 9 a.m. (DST). The session is expected to end at about 3 p.m.

Joint Meeting Set To Study Border Feud

LANCOLN, Neb. — The joint boundary subcommittee of Nebraska and Iowa will meet in Omaha later this month to pinpoint areas of disagreement between the two states over the Missouri River border.

Announcement of the meeting was made in Lincoln by Gov. Frank Morrison's office. The meeting has tentatively been scheduled for Sept. 30.

The governor's office said it is hoped an aerial tour of the border can be arranged before the session is held.

The subcommittee report then will be forwarded to the full boundary commission for consideration and possible action.

The governors and commission members agreed last spring that the center of the now stabilized channel should be the boundary. The subcommittee was charged with studying intricate legal problems, including individual property rights.

Since that meeting the Senate of Iowa has initiated lawsuits to obtain title to lands now occupied by Nebraska.

Nebraska has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to restrain the Iowa Conservation Commission from claiming title to river-bottomlands that lend themselves to recreation development.

In Security Council—

Soviets Veto U.N. Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Casting a veto Thursday, the first in more than a year, the Soviet Union killed a Security Council resolution deploring the Sept. 2 landing of Indonesia-based paratroops in Malaysia.

All of the council's 11 members except the Soviet Union and Communist Czechoslovakia supported the Norwegian proposal which grew out of a Malaysian complaint charging Indonesia with aggression.

This was the 102nd veto cast by the Soviet Union.

The effect of the Soviet action was to bring eight days of debate to an end without any formal pronouncement by the council.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson expressed regret and surprise that the veto had "prevented the council from doing its duty."

He said the action was hardly designed to engender confidence in the Soviet Union's avowed desire to strengthen peace through the United Nations.

Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov backed Indonesia's claim that the resolution was one-sided. He said the Western powers were trying to impose their will on Indonesia and the other peoples of Southeast Asia.

Any draft which did not take into account Indonesia's claim that it was fighting neocolonialism, Morozov said, was unacceptable.

Stevenson quoted from a December letter in which Soviet Premier Khrushchev told President Johnson he was prepared to write into an international agreement a declaration banning use of force by one country against another no matter what the reason might be.

"I am now forced to wonder whether our gratification was not premature," Stevenson said.

Morozov said the Soviet Union still tands behind Khrushchev's words, but it would continue to oppose Western efforts to maintain colonial positions. He said the United States was at present engaged in trying to suppress what he called democratic movements in several countries of Southeast Asia.

Malaysia's minister of home affairs, Dato Ismail Bin Abdul Rahman, said he was pleased that nine council members had supported the Norwegian resolution, which he interpreted as backing Malaysia's charges against Indonesia.

It is clear, he said, why the resolution did not win approval.

UN Mediator: Will Accept Any Advice

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Galo Plaza Lasso, the new U.N. mediator from Cyprus, declared Thursday he would pursue a "fiercely independent" course in seeking a solution to the Cyprus crisis, but that he would accept advice from anyone.

The onetime president of Ecuador said he had no plans to see former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, who is President Johnson's special representative for Cyprus, or anyone else who had taken part in Geneva negotiations on the issue.

"I believe this above all is a problem for the people of Cyprus," he said at a news conference. "Therefore, a solution must be sought primarily in Nicosia."

This reflected a view taken also by the government of Greek Cypriot President Makarios, which turned a cold shoulder to suggestions advanced in Geneva by Acheson.

While no specific plan was disclosed, Acheson was said to have suggested union of Cyprus and Greece with compensating concessions to Turkey.

Makarios contends a solution must be devised in Nicosia rather than in Washington, Athens, London or Ankara.

Plaza told reporters that while suggestions by Acheson and others may have had some value, he intends to follow an independent path in seeking a solution. He added that his headquarters will be in New York and Nicosia, and "I will not go back to any place in Switzerland."

Tuesday he is to fly to New York for conferences with Secretary-General U Thant, after talks with Makarios and Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president of Cyprus. He will visit in Athens, Ankara and London before returning to Nicosia.

Unmanned Model Of Apollo To Be Launched

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Saturn 1, the world's most powerful rocket, is ready for an attempt Friday to launch an unmanned model of the Apollo moonship. But Hurricane Gladys forced officials to abandon recovery of eight camera capsules as a major goal.

The rocket, towering 19 stories tall and weighing 570 tons fueled, is scheduled to blaze skyward between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., EST, on 1.5 million pounds of thrust generated by its first stage.

But Gladys' predicted course would push gale-force winds into the camera recovery area near San Salvador Island about launch time. San Salvador is in the Bahamas about 500 miles southeast of the launching site.

The cameras, with 16 mm color movie film, are designed to record engineering functions during the early phase of flight. The eject and drop into the ocean on paraboloids when they complete their job.

Rocco A. Petrone, Apollo program manager for the Kennedy Space Center, told newsmen that the main recovery ship had been ordered into port at San Salvador because of the advancing hurricane.

However, the cameras have radio beacons with a 20-hour life, and it may be possible to recover them after Gladys passes.

12 Join SUI Faculty In Math, Physics, P.E.

The Departments of Mathematics, Physics and Physical Education for Men at SUI have added a total of one professor, four associate professors and seven assistant professors to their faculties this fall.

In the Department of Mathematics, Robert H. Oehneke has been appointed professor; John J. Birch, associate professor; and Paul E. Leaverton, John C. Cantwell, Michael Geraghty and Thomas M. Price, assistant professors.

Philip Reuschlein is a new assistant professor and Leon Smith, an associate professor, in the Department of Physical Education for Men.

In the Department of Physics, Hans G. Groth is a visiting associate professor in astronomy; Edward W. Hones, visiting professor in space physics; Edward C. McCliment, assistant professor in theoretical physics and John S. Neff, assistant professor of astronomy.

Professor Oehneke, formerly a mathematician at the Institute for Defense Analysis at Princeton, received his B.S. degree in psychology from the University of Michigan in 1949, his M.S. degree in mathematics in 1950 from the University of Detroit, and his Ph.D. degree in mathematics from the University of Chicago in 1954.

Professors Birch and Leaverton are both on joint appointments with the College of Medicine. Birch was an assistant professor in mathematics at the University of Nebraska from 1960-64. He earned his B.S. degree from Brown University in physics in 1950 and his Ph.D. degree in 1960 from the University of California at Berkeley in mathematical statistics.

Leaverton received his B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees in statistics from Iowa State University in 1958, 1961 and 1963, respectively. Formerly employed in research at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, Professor Cantwell was granted a B.S. degree in electrical engineering by S. Louis University in 1957 and a Ph.D. degree in mathematics by Notre Dame in 1962.

Professor Geraghty, who was a visiting professor at the University of Alabama from 1962-64, earned both his B.S. and Ph.D. degrees in mathematics at Notre Dame in 1952 and 1959, respectively.

Professor Price was a teaching assistant at the University of Wisconsin, where he received his Ph.D. degree in 1964. His B.S. degree was earned at Carroll College in Wisconsin in 1959.

Professor Reuschlein, who was a project assistant for the Medical School and the Department of Physical Education from 1961-64 at the University of Wisconsin, holds a B.S. degree from Wisconsin State College.

He earned his M.S. degree in 1956 at the University of Wisconsin, where he expects to receive a Ph.D. degree in physical education in February, 1964.

Professor Smith, formerly an assistant professor at the University of California at Riverside, received his undergraduate training at Teachers College in Western Australia and was awarded the institution's highest certificate in 1951. In 1960, he received a Ph.D. degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

Professor Groth holds a Ph.D. degree from Hamburg University in Germany.

Professor Hones was a staff member at the Institute for Defense Analysis in Washington, D.C., from 1960-64. He received a B.S. degree from Duke University in 1943 and a Ph.D. degree from the same institution in 1952. Both degrees are in physics.

Professor McCliment, formerly a research assistant at the University of Wisconsin, earned a B.S.E. degree from the University of Michigan in 1958, an M.S. degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., in 1958, and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois in 1962.

Professor Neff was an atmospheric physicist at Sacramento Peak Observatory from 1959-61 and a research associate at the University of Chicago from 1961-64. He earned a B.S. degree in physics in 1957, an M.S. degree in astronomy in 1958, and a Ph.D. degree in astronomy in 1961, all from the University of Wisconsin.

While no specific plan was disclosed, Acheson was said to have suggested union of Cyprus and Greece with compensating concessions to Turkey.

Tuesday he is to fly to New York for conferences with Secretary-General U Thant, after talks with Makarios and Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president of Cyprus. He will visit in Athens, Ankara and London before returning to Nicosia.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A Saturn 1, the world's most powerful rocket, is ready for an attempt Friday to launch an unmanned model of the Apollo moonship. But Hurricane Gladys forced officials to abandon recovery of eight camera capsules as a major goal.

The rocket, towering 19 stories tall and weighing 570 tons fueled, is scheduled to blaze skyward between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., EST, on 1.5 million pounds of thrust generated by its first stage.

But Gladys' predicted course would push gale-force winds into the camera recovery area near San Salvador Island about launch time. San Salvador is in the Bahamas about 500 miles southeast of the launching site.

The cameras, with 16 mm color movie film, are designed to record engineering functions during the early phase of flight. The eject and drop into the ocean on paraboloids when they complete their job.

Rocco A. Petrone, Apollo program manager for the Kennedy Space Center, told newsmen that the main recovery ship had been ordered into port at San Salvador because of the advancing hurricane.

However, the cameras have radio beacons with a 20-hour life, and it may be possible to recover them after Gladys passes.

U.S. Urges Britain Not To Open New Trade to Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States was reported strongly urging the British Thursday not to grant Communist Cuba another opening to the Free World.

The newest episode in the Cuba trade issue involves a Fidel Castro attempt to start weekly commercial flights Monday between Havana and Nassau, capital of the British Bahamas—185 miles away.

Washington has waged a long and only partly successful campaign to isolate the Castro regime in hopes of wearing down Cuba's economy and dampening Castro's efforts to spread Communism in this Hemisphere.

Britain, which advocates trade regardless of political differences, and other U.S. allies have continued to do business with Cuba. In the airline field, however, only Spain and Mexico have allowed regular flights to Havana.

The Cuban question has figured in domestic politics both in the United States and Britain, where re-election campaigns are under way.

Illinois' GOP Starts Drive

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois Republicans will strive for a party turnout of 2,750,000 voters in the November election, state GOP Chairman Victor Smith said Thursday.

If the figure is reached, it would represent an increase of 382,000 votes more than were cast in 1960 for Richard Nixon, Republican presidential candidate.

Smith announced the appointment of William D. Stiehl of Belleville, GOP registration chairman for Illinois, as head of a "victory in Illinois" program which will work in cooperation with the Republican National Committee.

Under the program, counties and precincts will be given vote turnout quotas.

Professor Geraghty, who was a visiting professor at the University of Alabama from 1962-64, earned both his B.S. and Ph.D. degrees in mathematics at Notre Dame in 1952 and 1959, respectively.

Professor Price was a teaching assistant at the University of Wisconsin, where he received his Ph.D. degree in 1964. His B.S. degree was earned at Carroll College in Wisconsin in 1959.

Professor Reuschlein, who was a project assistant for the Medical School and the Department of Physical Education from 1961-64 at the University of Wisconsin, holds a B.S. degree from Wisconsin State College.

Hawks Correct Mistakes In Rainy 2-Hour Session

By JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor
Iowa sloshed through a two-hour workout Thursday, capped by a 30-minute passing drill.
"The squad was in good spirits, despite the constant heavy rain," said Coach Burns.
Thursday's practice was devoted to ironing out all mistakes from previous scrimmages in preparation for a closed scrimmage planned for Saturday in the Stadium.
DEFENSIVE Coach Wayne

Robinson Thursday singled out Bill Briggs for his play at defensive tackle.
Briggs, a 6-3, 218-pound junior from Westwood, N.J., was formally at first string defensive end. While playing that position earlier this fall, he impressed Coach Robinson with his roughness and ability to stop off-tackle plays.
Robinson said Briggs has been switched to a tackle spot to get more versatility and effectiveness in the defensive interior line.
THURSDAY Robinson said Briggs is now playing well at tackle and will occupy that post Saturday in a continued experimentation with the defensive line.

From a defensive standpoint, Robinson said Saturday's scrimmage will have a lot to do with picking the defensive alignment that will open against Idaho here, Sept. 26.
Saturday Robinson plans to start with a line posting Dave Long and Terry Mulligan at ends; Bob Mitchell and Bill Briggs at tackles and Lou Williams at center.
ROBINSON said Phil Deusch, a burly 6-2, 236-pound senior defensive tackle, has been concentrating on offense this week.
Backing up starters Leo Miller and Bob Ziolkowski as the third offensive tackle is Deutsch's alternate assignment.
Robinson said Deutsch will probably play both ways during the season and will start as a defensive left tackle against Idaho.

U.S. Leads in Race For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — Sovereign got some of the wind she wanted and a colossal licking she didn't want Thursday as the United States yacht Constellation drubbed the British challenger for the second straight time in their sea battle for the America's Cup.
The 68-foot sloop of the New York Yacht Club needs only two more victories to retain the Cup that has been gathering dust in this country since 1851. Few can now doubt that she will get them.
Thursday's race was like the first one, only more so. Much more so. In fact, her winning margin of 20 minutes and 24 seconds was the greatest in the three series since 12 meters began sailing for the Cup in 1958. There will be no race Friday at the British request.
Sovereign's losing time was almost double Scepter's when she lost her second race to Columbia in '58. You would have to go back to 1886 to find a bigger loser in the long series.

55 Grid Freshmen Turn Out for Drills

About 55 freshman football candidates reported for their first practice today under freshman coach Ray Jauch.
Jauch, a stand-out halfback on Iowa's championship teams of 1957 and 1959, came here Feb. 1, 1964, from a teaching and coaching job in Winnipeg, Canada, to succeed his former teammate, Bill Happel, as freshman coach.
JAUCH

At 26, Jauch joins Happel, new varsity defensive coach, as one of the youngest men ever named to a full time coaching job at Iowa.
His senior year as a player in 1959 was a successful one as he was Iowa's second best rusher and led the Hawks on punt returns, kickoff returns and pass interceptions.
That year he was co-captain with end Don Norton and was named to the Chicago Daily News all-midwest team.
AFTER PLAYING two years from 1960 to 1962 for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Canada, Jauch became Director of Athletics at United College in Winnipeg.
Only 26 of the new players are on athletic scholarships.
Since the Big Ten allows 30 such scholarships to be granted each year, Iowa can "bank" four until another year.
THE LIST of gridders on tender includes 11 Iowans. Here are those on tender, with home towns listed, as well as the position they played in high school or the position the coaching staff plans to start them at here:
Donald Baier, Royal Oak, Mich., tackle; Guy Bieck, Hollywood, Ill., halfback; Tom Brown, Deerfield, Ill., tackle; John Diehl, Cedar Rapids, tackle; Ron Elder, Huxley, end; Stewart Gaumer, Meadownbrook, Pa., tackle; Roosevelt Griffin, Dallas, Texas, halfback; Roy Ralstenberg, Chapin, Ill., end; John Hendricks, Boone, Iowa, guard; Terry Hutz, Davenport, guard; Gary Larsen, Detroit, Mich., halfback. Also reporting were: Michael Lavery, Quincy, Ill., tackle; Farley Lewis, Dallas, Texas, quarterback; Larry Lust, Newton, quarterback; Charles Lynch, Cedar Falls, fullback; Philip Major, Park Forest, Ill., tackle; William McCutcheon, Des Moines, halfback; Silas McKinnie, Inkster, Mich., fullback; Donald Ott, Caledonia, Ill., fullback;

Iowa High School Milers To Run Here Sept. 26

Several hundred high school runners will compete in the annual one mile team races on the Iowa track Sept. 26.
They represent schools in five classes in the event sponsored by the Iowa High School Athletic Association.
Defending champions are Marshalltown in AAA, Valley of West Des Moines in AA, Clarinda in A, Sheffield in B and Bayard in C.
Cornelius Patterson, Dixon, Ill., halfback; Chuck Roland, Des Moines, quarterback; Phil Schooley, Belle Plaine, quarterback; Don Schurr, Pontiac, Ill., end; David Strub, Merrill, fullback; Paul Usinowski, Pompton Lakes, N.J., end; Tony Williams, Davenport, halfback.
The squad will practice until mid-November, as usual. Under Big Ten rules, freshmen football squads are not allowed any competition.
ASSISTING JAUCH with the frosh are graduate students, R. C. Johnson, George Latta, Gary Fletcher, and John Bryan. Also helping is Bob Gates of Shenandoah, a sophomore student who was on the varsity squad until sidelined for the season by a leg injury.

Reds 7, Cubs 5

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Robinson, Vada Pinson and Johnny Edwards hit home runs as the Cincinnati Reds kept their faint National League pennant hopes alive with a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday.
Robinson hammered his 26th home run off loser Lew Burdette in the second inning and ignited a two-run seventh inning with a single.
Edwards hit his seventh homer in the fourth and drove in another run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Pinson hit his 21st home run in the eighth.
Jim O'Toole of the Reds retired 22 Cubs in a row at one stretch but failed to finish. He did not allow a base runner after the Cubs scored their first run in the first until John Boccabella's pinch single leading off the ninth.

Five Cagers Enroll Here on Tenders

Five basketball players, four freshmen and one junior college transfer, have enrolled at SU on athletic scholarships, Ralph Miller, Iowa's new head basketball coach reported Thursday.
Big Ten rules allow a school to offer six scholarships per year, so Miller can "bank" or hold one scholarship and offer seven next spring.
The transfer student is Chris Purvall from Coffeyville, Kan., junior college. He is listed as a junior and will be eligible to play with the varsity this winter, but will have only two years of Big Ten eligibility. Purvall, a 6-3 guard was a highly-rated scorer and playmaker for the Coffeyville team which was ranked among the nation's best junior college teams, and was selected the outstanding player in several tournaments.
FRESHMEN ON TENDERS include Dick Schultz, acting field coach of the Iowa baseball team has scheduled a freshman and varsity squad meeting for today at 4 p.m. in Room 206 of the Athletic Office building. It is also open to all those men who want to try out for either team.

Cyclones in Final Drill for Drake Tilt

AMES (AP) — Iowa State's football team ran through a spirited drill Thursday, in the final tune-up for Saturday's season opener against Drake.
Coach Clay Stapleton devoted 30 minutes to defensive work, 10 minutes to the kicking game, and 20 minutes to offense.
The Cyclones held a no contact drill in sweat suits but at full speed.
Iowa State business manager of athletics, C. Kim Tidd, reported at the end of business Thursday only about 1,500 tickets remained on sale for Saturday's game.

Southern Cal vs. Colo. Begins Night Action

Southern California and Colorado kick off the first big week end of the 1964 college football season tonight.
Southern Cal has lost three important men from the team that was No. 1 in the nation in 1962. Gone are the B boys — quarterback Pete Beathard, end Hal Bedsole and guard Damon Bame.
Colorado graduated only five men from last year's team, which had a 2-8 record, but still is depending heavily on sophomores.
By contrast, the Saturday program is loaded with the kind of games that make you wonder what ever became of early-season breathers. Some examples: Navy at Penn State, Oregon State at Northwestern, Oklahoma at Maryland, Southern Methodist at Florida, Duke at South Carolina, Missouri at California, Stanford at Washington State and Texas Christian at Kansas.
The week's regional television games are Navy Penn State, SMU-Florida, Kansas State at Wisconsin and Stanford at Washington State. Wisconsin is the only projected favorite in the lot.

Illini Must Improve To Stay on Top

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Can a Big Ten and Rose Bowl championship team with 22 lettermen — 15 of them seniors — become a better football club?
Coach Pete Elliott says his highly rated University of Illinois juggernaut indeed must "improve materially to stay up there."
"THE TEAM that beat us, Michigan 14-8, and the team that tied us, Ohio State 20-20, last season both are rated considerably improved," said handsome Pete, beginning his fifth term of a rags-to-riches Illinois career.
"So that obviously means we have to get better or give up the title because we play those two teams again this year."
The championship wind may whistle strongly as early as Oct. 10 when Ohio State and Illinois collide here in the third game of the season for both.
The schedule favors Illinois playing seven conference games compared with six for Ohio State.
BUT PETE also must send his Illini against brother Bump Elliott's well-regarded Michigan at Ann Arbor, Nov. 7.
Bump, whose Wolverines also have a seven-game league card, has beaten Pete four straight times since his younger brother took over at Illinois in 1960.
"You might say Bump is carrying this big brother stuff too far," said Pete, at 37 two years Bump's junior.
IF A TEAM owning the likes of All-America linebacker Dick Butkus, Rose Bowl star fullback Jim Crabowski and 262-pound, mobile tackle Archie Sutton can have a weakness, it's at defensive halfbacks.
Elliott must replace defenders Jim Warren, Mike Dundy and Ron Fearn, who with holdover safety

Tight Race Doesn't Bother Lopez

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League pennant race may be squeakingly tight, but their boss says the Chicago White Sox are going to bag the flag.
"The prospect of a three-team photo finish with the Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees seemingly does not disturb the White Sox as they prepared for Friday night's opener of a three-game set with the Washington Senators.
"This is the most remarkable club I ever saw," said Manager Al Lopez Thursday. "Nothing bothers these guys. They're the looziest team I ever managed. You wouldn't know we were in a pennant race watching them off the field."

Basketball Teams To Meet

Ralph Miller, Iowa head basketball coach, has scheduled a freshman and varsity squad meeting for today at 4 p.m. in Room 206 of the Athletic Office building. It is also open to all those men interested in trying out for either team.

Brain Abnormality Reviewed

A "success" rate of approximately 70 per cent has been reported in the surgical treatment of hydrocephalus (commonly called "water on the brain") in infants, according to a SUI physician.

Dr. William Bell, assistant professor of pediatrics and neurology, described various advances in diagnosis and treatment of the condition for more than 40 physicians from Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, who attended a Pediatrics Post-graduate Conference Wednesday and Thursday at the SUI College of Medicine.

Hydrocephalus is a condition which results from an abnormal collection of fluid within the cavities or ventricles of the brain. Normal outlet channels for the fluid are blocked and the fluid collects, enlarging the head and also pressing on the delicate brain tissue.

Unless the pressure is relieved, permanent damage is done, he said. PRESSURE often may be relieved through a vascular shunt operation in which a tube is inserted to drain the excess liquid harmlessly to other parts of the body, a surgical technique which Dr. Bell said has brought "a tremendous advancement in the treatment of infantile hydrocephalus."

A child with early hydrocephalus whose disorder undergoes spontaneous arrest before he is first seen by a doctor can be safely watched with surgery, Dr. Bell said.

In infants with hydrocephalus, there is considerable variation in the time of appearance and the degree of clinical manifestations, Dr. Bell pointed out.

FREQUENTLY parents do not immediately recognize that their child's head growth is abnormal," he said.

Dr. Bell explained that various types of abnormal eye movements may occur. In the infant with hydrocephalus, and, with long-standing hydrocephalus, loss of vision may develop.

Mental Health Issue Raised In Illinois

CHICAGO (U) — Charles H. Percy, Republican candidate for governor, challenged Thursday what he called Gov. Otto Kerner's "absurd claim that we are now second to none in mental health."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Percy declared. Citing "Fifteen Indices," a publication of the Joint Information Service of the American Psychiatric Association and the National Association for Mental Health, Percy said under the Kerner Administration Illinois has dropped in every important health rating category.

Since Kerner took office, he said, "Our ranking for average daily maintenance expenditure per resident patient has gone from 31st to 32nd, below the national average."

"And our ranking for the number of full-time employees per 100 patients in public mental health hospitals has declined from 41st to 44th," he added.

Citing Kerner's plan for seven new mental health clinics throughout the state, Percy said that "After four years, none of the seven clinics is completed and four of them have not even been started."

Miller Warns Against One Party Rule

DUBUQUE (AP) - Republican Rep. William E. Miller declared Thursday that Democratic President Johnson's repeated appeals for national unity are an attempt to cut off partisan campaign debate and point the nation toward one-party rule.

He added in a speech in traditionally Democratic Dubuque that Soviet Premier Khrushchev's boast of having a monstrous new weapon makes the election of Sen. Barry Goldwater as President imperative.

MILLER SAID the Communists know that Goldwater "will not retreat or appease." The vice presidential candidate said Johnson was trying to "silence criticism behind appeals for unity" while painting partisanship as "some sort of political evil."

"The fact is our nation cannot and should not avoid partisanship in an election period," Mr. Johnson knows it," Miller said.

"Choke off that discussion, as Mr. Johnson apparently would have us do, and we would be headed inevitably toward one-party rule in this country."

"IS MR. JOHNSON so sensitive to criticism, is he so confident of his unquestionable leadership, that he would want to destroy the Republican opposition?"

"They have a one party system in Russia and it isn't very good," he said.

Miller addressed an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 persons from atop a rolling replica of a steamboat in this Mississippi River city's Washington Park where President William McKinley made a speech in 1899.

ON HIS WAY here from Beloit, Wis., where he spoke earlier Thursday, Miller stopped his motorcade at Key West, a Dubuque suburb, so he and Mrs. Miller could shake hands with children alongside a road outside a parochial school.

Miller drew loud cheers from the Dubuque crowd, which stood in a light rain, when he said "no man detests war more than does Barry Goldwater," Miller said.

MILLER OPENED Thursday's campaign at a rally attended by more than 1,000 persons - mostly students - in the Beloit College fieldhouse.

He said that regardless of whether Khrushchev's claim was true, the Russian leader's statement "again emphasizes that the single most important issue in this election is which presidential candidate is best able to keep the peace and preserve our freedom."

Remap-Delay Amendment Makes Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) - A constitutional amendment aimed at upsetting the Supreme Court's ruling on state legislative reapportionment was pushed along Thursday toward House action.

But even as the Rules Committee cleared the way for a vote, Sen. William E. Proxmire, (D-Wis.) advised the House it would be engaging in an act of futility if it passed the amendment.

Proxmire, one of the senators who is blocking a vote on a proposal to delay court-ordered reapportionment, said "a long educational campaign" will be conducted in the Senate on any constitutional amendment sent over by the House.

PROXMIRE said he feels there is little chance of the Senate passing any amendment before it adjourns.

The Senate has been deadlocked on the reapportionment issue since it reconvened Aug. 31 after the Democratic National Convention. Unable to produce a quorum after Thursday's session began, the Senate adjourned for the day.

The quorum call brought only 37 of the 100 senators to the floor. Many members were out on the political campaign trails.

THE HOUSE Rules Committee worked a power play in trying to get action on the amendment. It reached into the House Judiciary Committee, where various reapportionment proposals are pending, and plucked out an amendment introduced by Rep. Wright Patman, (D-Tex.).

Although permitted by the House rules, this tactic had not been used for years until Rep. Howard W. Smith, (D-Va.), chairman of the Rules Committee, took similar action last month to snatch another reapportionment measure from the Judiciary Committee.

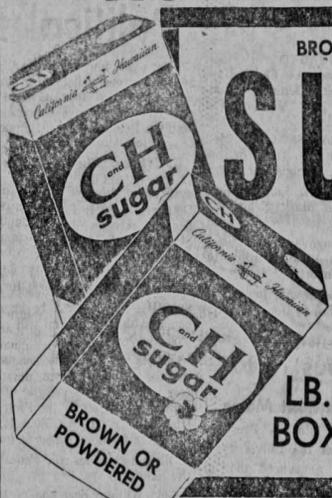

THAT ONE, a bill which would have stripped the federal courts of any authority to consider state reapportionment cases, passed the House 218 to 175, but failed in the Senate, 56 to 21.

A constitutional amendment requires a two-thirds majority for passage, and many opponents flatly predicted it would be impossible to muster that big a margin in either house.

Patman's amendment would permit a state to apportion one of its two houses on a area, rather than population basis, as provided for in the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling last June.

Patroling

WASHINGTON (AP) - The destroyers, sent to patrol the waters off Communist North Viet Nam, were fired on by the Communists.

This became known Friday as the Defense Department verified just what happened overcast and darkness had away.

THE PENTAGON, White House and State Department information, beyond a statement by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara that "preliminary fragmentary reports have received of a nighttime international waters in the Tonkin."

McNamara's brief statement said, "There has been no reported by American vessels no loss of American personnel."

McNamara said reports were being investigated and "we will have nothing to say until our investigation is complete."

AT 8 P.M., Asst. Sec. of Defense Arthur Sylvester said men he expected nothing Friday night, add that he McNamara were going home.

There was a low-key at about the Pentagon and other government offices.

It was understood that were being made to in the skippers of the two destroyers and the pilots of U.S. planes had been in the air over the area.

IT WAS HOPED that would provide some evidence.

Informants said the destroyers did not report seeing any craft, but that what appeared to be possibly torpedo vessels were observed on radar screens miles away.

There was every indication the government was proceeding cautiously before making any statement on the significant incident, if any.

SINCE THE first of two destroyers between U.S. and Communist vessels last month the first of the U.S. destroyers had been for U.S. destroyer travel in pairs.

Unofficial sources said patrol boats fired on the destroyers and the Americans returned fire, with the extent of damage not reported.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Lennartson, who read McNamara's brief statement, would not say whether shooting occurred, he pointed to the fact of no damage and no loss of lives, seeming to indicate there had been shooting.

McNAMARA said the incident are being investigated and "We will have nothing to say until our investigation is complete."
