Presidential Candidates Trade Sharp Campaign Attacks

LBJ Uses Defense Money Politically, Barry Accuses

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Wednesday night that when it came to dealing with communism, President Johnson and his advisers "have a wishbone where they need a backbone."

In a day of campaigning in the Fort Worth-Dallas area, the Republican Presidential nominee also accused the Democratic Administration of playing politics with defense contracts and using income tax returns to apply pressure for campaign support.

GOLDWATER spoke at a morning rally in Fort Worth, the American Legion convention and a night rally in Dallas.

In Fort Worth, where the TFX warplane contract eventually will bring some $6 billion in business to the General Dynamics Corp., Goldwater said it should have been awarded to the Boeing Co. of Seattle, Wash.

He told an estimated 8,500 persons that the TFX contract was "a politically oriented piece of business," adding:

"We must never play politics with defense."

THE ARIZONA senator went on quickly to say GOLDWATER that as President he wouldn't try to take a contract away from Fort Worth because "we're too far along with it."

In his American Legion speech, he repeated the charge that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who spoke to the convention Tuesday, had played politics in awarding the TFX contract, Goldwater said:

"The rumor-ridden award of the contract for the TFX aircraft is a $6 billion instance of the present secretary, deliberately and against all professional military advice, ordering on his own say-so the second best plane at the highest price."

MEMORIAL Auditorium was slightly over half-filled with Legionnaires for the Goldwater speech. Police estimated the crowd at 6,500. Goldwater was interrupted by applause 29 times.

In a speech at the night rally in Dallas, Goldwater attacked the Johnson foreign policy as "a policy of weakness, a policy of indecision, a policy of indirection."

GOLDWATER said the United States must confront communism with strength to keep the pace.

"The interim President and his curious crew do not understand this," he said. "That is the tragedy of the day. They cannot defend this nation against Communist bullies because they don't know bullies when they see them. They cannot begin to unravel the real problem of the cold war because they live in a dream world where those problems don't exist."

"THEY HAVE a wishbone where they need a backbone. The result is a policy of weakness. The result is war — Lyndon Johnson's war."

Earlier, Goldwater told a closed-door fund-raising breakfast in Fort Worth that he is investigating a letter to two Texas men in which he said Johnson put pressure on them through the Internal Revenue Service for campaign support.

AMERICANS are concerned, he said, about "the use of Internal Revenue Service files to get people to comply with what the President wants."

Johnson Warns Against Irresponsible Extremists

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said Wednesday the American way of life is under attack in this election year by "reckless and rejected extremes" which "bid for power over your lives and the lives of your children."

Johnson addressed a confetti-tossing audience of labor union members and said that those who love America "must go forth to save it."

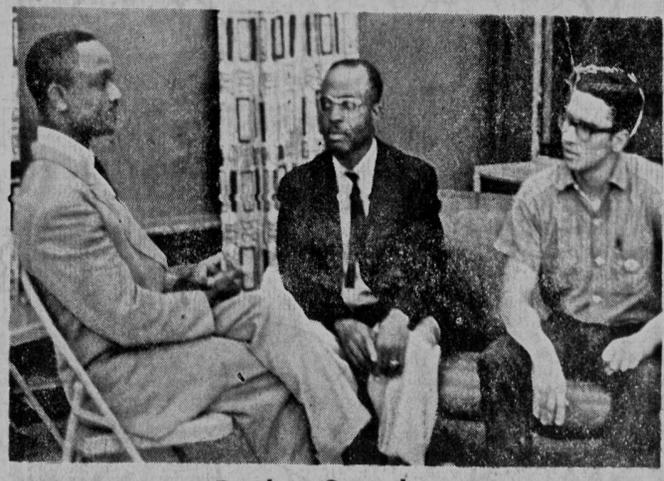

USING STRONG language but speaking softly, Johnson said the election year choice is not between two political parties, but between liberalism and conservatism.

"It is a choice," he said, "between the center and fringe — between the responsible main-stream of American experience and the reckless and rejected extremes of American life."

Johnson said all citizens "have a clear and compelling duty — to make it clear that America will not fall and will not fall into the hands of extremists of any stripe."

The President never mentioned the Republican party or its ticket-heading candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater. But Johnson's audience here obviously felt his target was the Goldwater campaign.

FIVE OTHER union audiences watched and heard Johnson in other cities by way of a closed-circuit television network.

Rights Speakers

The lifetime veterans and a veteran of a summer in the civil rights battle in Mississippi compared notes at Wesley House last night. At Rights Meeting — Open Closed Doors, SUI Students Told

A plan to open part of the "closed society" of Mississippi was presented Wednesday night to a group of students, faculty, University administrators and Iowa City residents at Wesley House.

A "sisterhood" plan to develop educational, clerical and vocational exchanges between Mississippi and Iowa counties was proposed by Mike Kenney, former SUI graduate student who is now an SNCC project director in Holmes County, Miss.

The Rev. Jesse Russell, a Negro minister for four churches in Holmes County, and Joe Smith, master of the Negro Masonic Lodge in Tchula, Miss., also spoke to the audience of about 150.

Kenney, Smith and the Rev. Russell have been in Iowa since Thursday. They have addressed groups in Waterloo and Cedar Rapids and will speak in Davenport before returning to Mississippi this weekend.

THE SISTERHOOD plan, as outlined by Kenney, would be a county-to-county exchange of people, goods and information.

"We would like to see, as part of the plan, an apprenticeship program established by labor unions in Iowa," said Kenney. "Negro youngsters from Mississippi could come up here and learn how to be masons, plumbers, electricians — things that they can't learn to do in their hometowns."

"THE YOUNGSTERS would then be required to spend so many years

Regents Given SUI Plan for Mental Health

A bill clarifying the legality of the Iowa Mental Health Authority is expected to be presented by SUI officials for consideration by the Board of Regents in Des Moines today.

If the Regents approve the bill, it will be submitted to the State Legislature for consideration.

The Iowa Mental Health Authority is now set up as the state agent receiving and distributing federal funds earmarked for mental health work.

UNDER the present arrangement the director of the University Psychopathic Hospital is appointed Mental Health Authority. This is because in Iowa most training, teaching and research in this area is carried on at the hospital.

The new bill will not change the present arrangement, but will clarify it. A joint resolution of the Senate and House of the Legislature now serves as legal basis for the authority.

STATE and University officials wish to have the Mental Health Authority based on a law instead of a joint resolution because there is question as to the legality of the present arrangement.

Other proposed legislation which the University is expected to present to the Regents will include a bill allowing the University to enter long-term agreements with the Iowa City School Board.

The University now educates some Iowa City public school pupils on a tuition basis, but present laws only allow agreements up to two years. The new bill would provide for agreements as long as 15 years.

ANOTHER SUI scheduled proposal is a bill enabling the University to rent property owned by private corporations and individuals and to rent University property to others.

Contracts for the renovation of the Electrical Engineering Building and for electrical work in the Quadrangle remodeling project are scheduled to be awarded.

At its summer meeting the Board of Regents authorized SUI to seek a budget of $45,588,627 from the Legislature for 1965-67.

THIS FIGURE is for general operations of the University including repairs, replacements and alterations. University Hospital appropriations are not included.

The proposal is 39 per cent higher than present SUI appropriations, but it is not a large increase over what was asked for this year.

Plague of Cycle Accidents Goes On 2 Students Injured

Two SUI students were injured Wednesday night when a motorcycle on which they were riding went out of control on the hairpin curve on Ridge Road north of Park Bridge.

Jon Gaskell, 22, 18, 729 N. Dubuque St., the operator of the cycle, suffered a broken leg and Susan Crowell, 22, 19, Des Moines, a passenger, suffered bruises and minor cuts.

Gaskell was admitted to the emergency clinic at University Hospitals. Miss Crowell was treated at the hospital and released.

According to investigating officer Bud Suplee, when the cycle went out of control Gaskell was thrown over a guard rail and down an embankment.

The accident occurred at approximately 8:30 p.m.

U.S. Bombers Shot Down In Viet Nam

American, Vietnamese Presumed Captured After Attacking Reds

SAIGON, South Nam (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas shot down two U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers in a fight 125 miles southwest of Saigon Wednesday and presumably captured two of their four crewmen — one American and one Vietnamese.

The missing American was identified in Washington as Lt. George E. Flynn III of New Orleans, La., an instructor pilot.

The planes were Douglas Sky-raidors, single-engine, propeller-driven two-seaters. They carried Vietnamese markings but are U.S. Air Force craft used to train Vietnamese pilots.

THE SKYRAIDERS were hit while striking Communist units that were attacking a town and two government posts in the Rach Gia area, on a bay of the Gulf of Siam.

The occupants of Flynn's plane bailed out. The Vietnamese pilot was rescued, but his tutor was missing and fellow officers believed him to be a prisoner. The second plane crash-landed. The U.S. pilot made his way to government lines. His Vietnamese companion failed to get through.

FAR TO THE east, other Sky-raidors helped blast suspected positions of the survivors of a Viet Cong battalion that staged a night attack on a clay-walled civil guard outpost at Long Phu.

Though heavily outnumbered, the 51-man garrison repulsed the attack and even bottled the Communists for the Viet Cong dead and arms that fell outside the barbed wire defenses. Reputed to have killed 30 or 40 of the attackers, they collected 20 bodies and 26 weapons. The guards and their families suffered six dead and about 12 wounded.

THE MILITARY activity flared as Premier Nguyen Khanh's harassed caretaker regime faced a new labor crisis.

About 3,000 workers on French-owned rubber plantations of Bien Hoa province were reported to have struck, calling for a 50 per cent wage increase and double allotments of rice.

U.S. Prelates Split Ecumenical Council

Clash Over Issue With Europeans

VATICAN CITY (AP) — American cardinals pressed the Vatican Ecumenical Council on Wednesday for a declaration on religious liberty and set off a conflict with European conservative prelates. The Americans' stand was applauded, in violation of council rules.

Nearly the entire body of 244 U.S. bishops, with support by bishops from Canada and Latin America, issued urgent appeals for the council to come out in favor of religious freedom for all.

Cardinals from Italy and Spain denounced such a declaration as a danger to the Roman Catholic Church.

THE CLASH in St. Peter's highlighted one of the most dramatic — and certainly the most action-filled — meetings of the 3-year-old council.

In the space of less than four hours:

- The 2,500 council fathers took part in a ceremony with major significance for Christian unity efforts, the start of a three-day prayer period preceding the return of St. Andrew's head to Greece as a gesture of friendship to the Orthodox faith. Pope Paul VI carried the relic past the bishops in an altar in St. Peter's.
- The Vatican announced the names of 15 women from nine nations to attend the council as auditors, the first women in history ever to go to an ecumenical council in an official capacity. Among the women was a nun from the United States, Sister Mary Luke, president of the Conference of Superiors Major of Women's Institutes.
- The council fathers accepted by a vote of 1,927 to 292 a crucial provision that bishops in union with the Pope share in his supreme jurisdiction over the church. This is the heart of the collegiality issue which Pope Paul has called the "weightiest and most delicate" business of the council. It could ultimately lead to a new form of church government, a permanent senate of bishops to help the pontiff rule.
- The controversial declaration on religious liberty came up for debate for the first time and touched off an immediate storm.

Spearheading the American bishops' campaign for the religious liberty declaration were Cardinals Richard Cushing of Boston, Albert Meyer of Chicago and Joseph Ritter of St. Louis.

CARDINAL CUSHING'S speech added a personal touch of drama to the session. It was the first time the unconventional, craggy-faced prelate spoke in council debate.

When his 10-minute talk in Latin, delivered in his booming voice with an unmistakable Boston accent, ended, the council ignored the rules and burst into a roar of unauthorized applause.

The Church must become the champion of religious freedom," said the 69-year-old cardinal.

'Tator' Hunt Features Pep Rally Tonight at 7

Preparations for the Hawkeye-Idaho Vandal's game Saturday will begin at 7 p.m. tonight with a pep rally in front of Old Capitol.

A mysterious guest will address Hawkeye fans tonight at the rally. Pep Club officials declined to give clues concerning the identity of the speaker.

Earlier, at 6:30 p.m., housing units planning to take part in the potato hunt will assemble to try to find 200 potatoes hidden in the roped-off area in front of Old Capitol. A trophy will be awarded to the unit finding the most spuds.

If two housing units wish to hunt together, Pep Club officials said, identical trophies will be awarded to each.

Washington Pleads Innocent On First-Degree Charge

Robert Lee Washington, a former SUI basketball player, pleaded innocent Tuesday to a charge of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of John William Cavanaugh, a part-time student at SUI.

Washington, 27, entered his plea before District Judge James Gaffney at arraignment proceedings in the district courtroom of the Johnson County Court-house.

Gaffney set the case for trial on Nov. 2.

Washington, who was indicted last week on a county attorney's information, has been held without bond since his arrest Aug. 28 for the slaying of Cavanaugh outside a downtown pizza parlor.

Washington entered his plea through his court-appointed attorney, A. C. Cahill. Cahill could not be reached to determine on what grounds the plea of innocent was entered.

Guilty associations

ONE OF THE POINTS RAISED by many editorial columns, including The Daily Iowan, after Sen. Goldwater's nomination in July was that the Republican nominee should be judged on his own merit, rather than declaring guilt by association.

The problem has been that although the principle of "guilt by association" is unjust, it is also realistic to admit that politics is a game of influence — a favor returned for a favor given.

The difficulty in dealing with Sen. Goldwater has been to differentiate between the undesirable groups supporting the Republican nominee that would have some influence with him were he elected, and those that would not. The KKK, the Birchers and the American Nazi Party are all equally undesirable, but which ones would be on the political coattails?

Goldwater, either through pressor or his own beliefs, renounced the support of the Ku Klux Klan (although not the Birchers) which seemed to be a step toward clarifying a small part of the issue.

But after his campaign tour of the South, Goldwater destroyed whatever clarification he had made.

In his tour of the South, Goldwater did not mention his stand against the civil rights bill, which has won him a place in the hearts of many Southerners. As Walter Lippmann pointed out in his column, Goldwater did not have to. His warm reception of Sen. Strom Thurmond (South Carolina) to the Republican party said it all for him.

Thurmond is the sort of segregationist that many Southerners consider one of their own; in a neat reversal, Goldwater can ride on those coattails through the South in November.

In another part of the tour, the Grand Dragon of the South Carolina KKK sat on the speakers platform with Goldwater in Spartanburg, S.C. The "honor" was bestowed for work done on the behalf of George Wallace's campaign for the presidency last spring.

Goldwater is not only accepting the support for Wallace — an avowed segregationist — at the polls in November; he is also lending whatever prestige he can to local people who worked for Wallace's candidacy.

In view of these recent actions, there is no other interpretation of Goldwater's stand on civil rights — one of the most pressing domestic issues of the campaign — than that he will at least tolerate individuals and groups actively working for segregation.

If Goldwater objects to this guilt by association, then let him speak on the issue which he has strenuously avoided so far. And we're not interested in hearing about the desegregation of the Arizona National Guard.

He is running for national office — he should discuss this vital national issue, so that the voters may evaluate. Otherwise, voters can only judge by what seems to be the present position of Sen. Goldwater. —Linda Weiner

A parking breather

SUITS EVER GROWING enrollment is creating a scarcity of nearly every kind of space in Iowa City. Parking space has almost become a thing of the past.

Although the University's parking ramp has alleviated some of the problem in the area around the Union (at a cost of 10 cents an hour), parking in the downtown area is almost impossible.

Some relief is in sight, however. About 150 more cars can be accommodated downtown within four weeks. A new city parking lot now being constructed on College Street is scheduled to be finished — at least for temporary use — by mid-October.

The city lot, like that University ramp, will cost drivers a dime an hour, but money will be collected only during daytime meter hours. A discount may be offered for those who shop while parking.

The new lot won't solve the city's parking problems, but it will provide a bit of a breather until another step can be made. —Jon Van

Republicans bolt tradition; back Goldwater

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — A friend of ours has started a new organization called "Republicans for Goldwater" with which he hopes to attract many Republicans who have become disenchanted with President Johnson.

"I got the idea last week," he told us, "when I realized that all Republicans wanted to vote for the Democratic candidate this year. I discovered many of them wanted an organization they could join which would give them dignity. So I started 'Republicans for Goldwater.'"

BUCHWALD

"How has the response been?" we asked him. "Well, it's slow at the moment," he admitted. "But by November we hope to have quite a few converts. You see, many Republicans are embarrassed about switching over to Goldwater. It's against everything they believe in, and although they might not like Johnson personally, they still feel some sort of loyalty to him. The 'Republicans for Goldwater' organization tries to explain that they're not being disloyal if they vote for the Republican candidate."

LBJ, Barry stand alone in Western campaign

By DORIS FLEESON
LOS ANGELES — President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater have each crossed a Great Divide in their campaigning.

Large and exuberant Western crowds suggested that the President, for better or for worse, is no longer a Kennedy legatee but is recognized and enjoyed as Lyndon Johnson. The crowds did not gather to honor the Presidency; they came as partisans to see and touch the tall Texan in person.

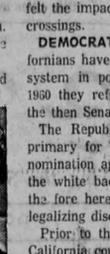

In Goldwater, the South was meeting the first Presidential nominee of modern times who came not to buy the states' rights doctrines but to praise it. The others have said they hated the sin of segregation, but loved the sinners. Goldwater stuck to the doctrine and all its segregation overtones without regard for how it might echo in the rest of the country.

OF BOTH men it can be said that they deliberately chose to run as themselves.

Johnson did not want to appear to owe to another that which Providence has given him the opportunity to do for himself if he can. He rejected Robert Kennedy as Vice President and, in effect, said to the country, "Take me as I am." The Western results are excellent.

Similarly, Goldwater declined to dissemble. Possibly it was in part a political judgment. Things have not been going well for him. The polls have been unfavorable and there has been a wide range of Republican defections, including the newspapers. The South he must have, and the white backlash is an element of his appeal elsewhere. Yet, he, too, is acting boldly and in character. His immediate audiences also cheered wildly.

California, formally adjudged by the President to be the state with more Americans than any other,

FLEESON

"THAT SOUNDS like a good idea. Have you had any reaction from the Democrats?"
"They're absolutely furious. I've gotten threatening calls from leading Democrats who have told me that any Republican who votes for Goldwater cannot expect any favors from the Democratic party during the next four years."

"What did you say?"
"I said there was a question of principle involved, that many Republicans felt that President Johnson was not the right man for the job and we felt we didn't have to support him if we didn't believe in his policies."

"THAT MAKES sense," we said.
"They said it wasn't a question of believing in Johnson or not believing in him. If you were a Republican, it was your obligation in this election to vote right down the Democratic line. One Democratic leader said, 'Where would this country be if all the Republicans voted for Goldwater? Don't you have any respect for the two-party system?'"

"I said I had a great deal of respect for the two-party system, but at the same time I felt a Republican wasn't obligated to vote for every Democratic candidate just because he was a Democrat. After all, there were many Southern Democrats who indicated they're not going to vote for Goldwater, so why can't some Republicans decide not to vote for Johnson?"

"What's your first step?" we asked him.
"WE'RE TRYING to raise money to buy full-page advertisements in all the leading newspapers explaining why we, as Republicans, feel we cannot support Johnson. We're also seeking out names of other Republicans who won't be ashamed to admit they're voting for Goldwater. It hasn't been easy. Many friends have told me they would like to sponsor the ad, but they're afraid of what their Republican friends will think of them."

"You've done a wonderful thing," we told him. "You've put your country before your party, and although you may have antagonized many people, I admire you for sticking to your guns."

"Thank you. But I'd like to ask you one favor. If you write about 'Republicans for Goldwater,' I'd appreciate it if you didn't use my name."

Hearing held after riots; why didn't police fire?

By KENNETH L. DIXON
PHILADELPHIA — They were scheduled to hold a hearing here this week to see if the cops should have killed people during the race riots last month.

As an added little touch, the investigation and hearing was called by the city's Public Safety Committee. Maybe they should have named a public slaughter committee instead.

If my needle seems to be stuck on this subject, it's because I'm angry. I've spent endless hours in the riot area, talking to policemen, public officials, peaceful citizens — including some of those who lost their life's savings — and even a few of the admitted rioters.

THERE IS absolutely no justifying what happened, and I make no attempt to do so. But it is equally clear that at the time it happened, there was no way to stop it short of shooting down scores of people. And even if that had been done, the rioters might then have found means to arm themselves and shoot back.

Nevertheless, the hearing was called to see why the police didn't go ahead and open fire on the rioting, looting mob. That's what the hearing amounts to.

It was instigated by a Philadelphia city councilman late last week.

He introduced a resolution demanding the inquiry and saying that "because of orders by a person or persons high in city government or our police and park guards, stores and business enterprises were allowed to be pillaged."

PERHAPS TO those who are cynical about their politics, this is understandable because the councilman belongs to the party which opposes that of the city administration. Also, it is easy to understand anyone's concern about the destruction of property.

But while I consider myself fairly cynical on political matters — and certainly I love property — still this is to me unthinkable. Because, as of this writing, not one single person — including the councilman — has suggested one simple solution to the riots, once

English students organize

By RITA DERSHOWITZ
SHEFFIELD, England — The University of Sheffield, one of England's "red brick universities," is a dynamic, growing institution whose new student union could be easily transplanted to any midwestern state university were it not for the well-stocked bar in one of the lounges.

The union building and the student government which runs it are part of the new philosophy of higher education which Sheffield manifests. The union is the center of social and cultural life of the University and is completely directed by a representative student council. Student representatives also have a voice on the governing bodies of the University and, in most instances, are seeking a greater influence in the policy-making sectors of the universities.

The development of student government and the campaign for students to share the administration of their own education is closely connected with the development of the modern universities themselves.

In this respect the redbrick universities are far ahead of the "Oxbridge" colleges. Undergraduate dissidents at Oxford and Cambridge are just now attempting to establish the student's right to influence university policy, following the example of the younger universities.

THE UNIVERSITY of Sheffield was originally founded to provide local industry and business the technically competent workers the area needed.

It has since expanded into all the liberal arts as well, but remains a nationally recognized top rate institution for technology.

Its students are drawn mainly from middle and working class families, selected competitively on the basis of academic ability, but never financial ability.

All university students have their tuition paid by the University Grants Committee, the administrative arm of the Ministry of Education. In addition they receive an annual stipend that varies between $50 and $300.

THE DRIVE for a stronger voice determining university policy parallels the American student's quest for the same influence. At present, students at the red brick universities are represented on the highest governing body, the University Court, which is a figurehead organization, and on the lower scale sub-committees which have the power to recommend policy but not determine it.

Present efforts are aimed at representation on the two functioning bodies, the Senate and the Council, which includes graduate representatives. In a surprising upset, one of the positions was captured by a young iconoclast who had been an officer of the Sheffield student union and is currently general secretary of the National Union of Students.

"AGITATION" is a misnomer for the kind of activity in which the British student engages. The rational, unfrilled, English temper also characterizes student politics and marks student efforts on the national level. NUS, which is comparable to the United States National Student Association (USNSA), can be effective in influencing national educational policy to a degree which is impossible in this country.

European higher education is first and foremost a state-supported, state-controlled activity. Because it is usually handled by a single, centralized Ministry of Education there exists a clear and open channel for attempts at reform. Central planning means that educational resources can be developed according to national needs.

Rags turn 'Riches' into fashion show

By LINDA WEINER
Reviewer

If you would rather be anesthetized — by stinkingly elegant scenery and clothes — than entertained, then "I'd Rather Be Rich" is the movie to see.

If it weren't for the tides, the viewer might think he was watching a fashion documentary rather than what is supposed to be a movie.

Fortunately, however, the wardrobe modeled by Sandra Dee is extremely useful — it distracts from the plot.

Sandra Dee is a very rich girl ("Only the Government has more money") who, in order to please her dying grandfather, Maurice Chevalier, induces Robert Goulet (poor-but-handsome) to impersonate her fiancé Andy Williams (rich-but-handsome). Of course, the two fiancés meet, grandfather isn't really dying but faking it and love — real love, that is — conquers all. Simple, isn't it? Oh, and Andy Williams sings a few songs.

The only scene in the movie which is half-way funny is a bit where Williams and Sandra investigate a house that has been booby-trapped by Goulet. The poorly-timed slapstick is lost, however, because you are too busy estimating how much Sandra's leather pants cost.

Any contribution that Chevalier and Hermione Gingold, as the nurse, might have made to the picture is sacrificed to the latest Paris fashion.

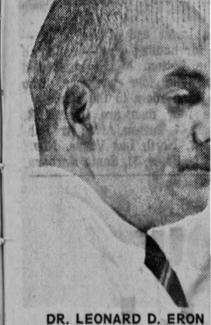

It's not all bad, however — Sandra Dee models very well.

...a Republican wasn't obligated to vote for Goldwater just because he was a Democrat. After the Democrats indicated they're not voting for Goldwater, so why can't some Republicans decide to vote for Goldwater?" we asked him.

...to raise money to buy full-page advertisements for Goldwater explaining why we, as Republicans, should vote for Goldwater. We're also seeking out names of Republicans who would be willing to vote for Goldwater. Many friends have told me they're willing to do it, but they're afraid of what their neighbors would think. We told him, "You've put Goldwater in a position where you may have antagonized your neighbors for sticking to your guns. But if you ask one favor, if you write about Goldwater, I'd appreciate it if you didn't use my name."

Library Shows Novels Of 'Buckskin Bill, Poet'

From now until Oct. 4, 83 dime novels, short explosive stories about the Old West, will be displayed in the lobby of the SUI Main Library.

The paper-cover magazines are from the collection of a Davenport raconteur of the Old West, Col. Charles D. Randolph, who prefers to be called "Buckskin Bill, Poet of the Plains." Randolph, 75, published his own book of poetry in 1925 titled "Western Poems."

Selections now in the library are the pick of Randolph's collection of several thousand Wild West dime novels. Randolph keeps the collection at his home in Davenport.

According to Ronald Fingerson, special collections librarian, certain novels in the exhibit were valued at $62 each by the 1953 book collector. Value of the entire collection is undetermined, he said.

Six Named Scholarship Semifinalists

Six local high school students have qualified as semifinalists in the 1964-65 National Merit Scholarship competition, making them eligible for 4-year scholarships to the college or university of their choice.

Semifinalists from Iowa City High School are Ella Sue Bohlin, Forest View Trailer Park; Rosemary J. Michael, 431 S. Governor St.; Barbara J. Vetter, 320 E. Davenport St.; and David L. Woods, 716 River St.

Mary R. Dvorsky, 333 Roosevelt St. and Russell J. Campion, Route 5, are the semifinalists from Regina High School.

About 14,000 seniors from 17,100 high schools across the nation became semifinalists in the competition on the basis of their scores on the National Scholarship Qualifying test given last March.

All semifinalists will be required to take a second test to verify the results of the first test. Those receiving scholarships will then be selected from the finalist group. Usually, according to the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, about 98 per cent of the finalists receive scholarships, many of which are sponsored by business corporation, foundation and colleges.

Sat. Half-Time Shows Planned

The Hawkeye Marching Band will spoof the freshmen at its half-time "Welcome Show" Saturday when the University of Idaho football team challenges The State University of Iowa on SUI home grounds.

"The band's humorous formation will show a freshman 'show' taking a test to the tune of 'Brain Music.' This welcome to the students will be preceded by a welcome to the fans to the lively 'Mr. Touchdown,' while the band swings into the outline of a football player kicking off. A concert number featuring selections from 'Brigadoon' will welcome the Highlanders home from their European tour.

"Getting to Know You," a welcome to SUI President Howard Bowen, will be played to a drill routine for the final selection. The band's entry fanfare and downfield march will be to the fast-stepping cadence of "Hello, Dolly."

Fans on time for the pre-game performance of the spirited SUI Highlanders will see the all-girl band in three numbers. Entering to the tune of "Iowan Tree," a Scottish song, the Highlanders will pause while the band plays the National Anthem. They will march off-field to the special drum beat of "Duncan."

Nuclear Test Hole Workers Freed Safely

MERCURY, ev. (AP) — Four men were rescued Wednesday from a 1,800-foot-deep nuclear test hole. They were in good shape physically and better shape financially.

The ordeal was accompanied by overtime, double overtime and maybe even double-double overtime pay during the 8½ days they were trapped.

There was one tragic note. As the four worked on a thick cable Saturday night, it snapped. The cable, thick as a man's wrist, whipped to the top of the shaft and killed James C. Gray, 45, Indian Springs, Nev.

The lower end of the cable — used for hauling wire — collapsed to the bottom of the shaft and sealed the four workmen, who were in a room to the side.

The four men are George R. Cooper, 44, Tucson, Ariz.; Art Lubnow, 27, North Las Vegas, Nev.; Lloyd L. Shaw, 51, Santa Barbara,

Programs for Rezoning Discussed by Council

Meeting jointly Tuesday afternoon, the City Council and the Planning and Zoning Commission considered a proposal for long-range planning in the city rezoning programs.

Councilman William K. Maas requested the session. He said the rapid growth of Iowa City and the major annexation plan going to the voters in November make an overall review of city zoning important.

MAAS SUGGESTED a limit be established on zoning requests. He added that the city needs a program of longer range.

Allan D. Vestal, planning and zoning chairman, said the commission tries to provide "continuity" in long-range planning.

"THE ULTIMATE authority rests with the City Council," Vestal said, "but the commission can give continuity in its recommendations."

Vestal said the commission will meet soon with Charles Barker, local attorney representing Standard Oil Co. of Indiana which seeks a zoning change to put in an industrial development on North Dubuque Street.

1st District Groups Hear Candidates

The two major party candidates for Congress from the First Congressional District found different targets for campaign wrath in speeches this week in Farmington and Cantril.

Speaking Wednesday night before a Van Buren County Democratic group in the Cantril school gymnasium, John Schmidhauser, the Democratic candidate for the 1st District seat, chided the Republican Party as a whole for its welcoming of U.S. Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina into the GOP ranks.

On Tuesday night, Congressman Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa), speaking at a Candidates Night meeting at the Farmington Methodist Church, took a more direct approach. He scored what he called his opponent's abuse of the Code of Fair Campaign Practices.

Open House Winners Listed

Prizes were awarded by Union Board to nearly 30 winners in the Games Competition of the Union Open House Friday night.

Fran Feuer, A4, Winnetka, Ill., and Ron Maclosky, A3, Omaha, Neb., provided the competition for participants in the "beat the champ" bowling contests.

THE PAIR LOST only eight out of 50 matches. The successful challengers were Bryan Williams, Liz Langon, Jim Seamans, Richard Nelson, Jim Phipps, Charles Dare, Barbara Miller, and Glen Schwartz.

Bruce Kaiser, E4, and Dennis Kaiser, E2, both of Iowa City, defending champions in the chess competition, successfully withstood all challenges. Challengers who beat them were to receive chess sets.

WINNERS of 30 minutes of free billiard play are listed as follows: Fred Vollbre, Don Henze, Randy Sitzmann, Gene Leonard, Mike Shrad, Jeff Margulies, Bud Atkinson, Gene Bell, Bill Goodman, and Gerry Jones.

William Lehman, Jerry Schmidt, Dick Peltz, Dick Lietzau, Don Sorenson, Mike Manning, Max Feuer, Bud Mathews, Joe Carey, and Guy McIntosh.

Hawks Will Be Ready, Even For Substitution Problems

By JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

Iowa's Hawks took time out from regular practice Wednesday to spend 30 minutes in the Stadium for a substitution drill.

This drill was designed by Coach Burns to give the coaches a chance to practice sending specialists into a game situation.

Wednesday's drill "was held for the coaches benefit but I hope the players got a feel of the substitution problem under the new rules," said Burns.

"We will do more of the same tonight," he added. "SITUATION COMEDY prevailed as the players broke away from their normal practice drama to stage fumbles, intercept passes and create substitution problems for the coaches."

"The team has lots of hustle, spirit and plenty of desire to play football Saturday," said Burns.

"Our objective is to beat Idaho and I don't care what the score is," he said. "As far as I am concerned, one point is enough to beat them."

"Idaho has a good defensive unit and must be respected. We are going to give them that respect," he said.

SUI PRESIDENT, Dr. Howard Bowen, was a guest of the coaching staff for Wednesday's practice. President Bowen planned to have the evening training table meal with the coaches and players.

Earlier Wednesday afternoon, Coach Burns told the combined members of the Iowa City and Coralville service clubs the coaches have the fullest confidence in quarterbacks Gary Snook and Mickey Moses.

"While we may lack an outstanding breakout back, as such, I believe our running attack will be dangerous enough that our foes had better recognize it and be prepared to defend against it, or we will run against them with success," he said.

"I believe our offensive lines, for size and quickness, will compare favorably with some of those we've had here in recent years," he added.

"OUR PASSING attack may lack the long bomb scoring threat that it had last year, but our ends are adequate and capable receivers," he said.

Defensively, the Hawks will play what coach Wayne Robinson calls "Russian Roulette," he said.

"We will do a lot of stunting to mask some of our weaknesses," he said. "We may line up defensively in six or seven different formations during a single game," he added.

Burns believes his defensive secondary will have good speed, quickness and the ability to recover quickly. "I would say Phil Deutsch could play tackle for any team in the conference. Bob Mitchell is an aggressive guy who will get to that ball carrier. Steve Hodaway will do a capable job as 'nose man' on defense," he said.

"This Bill Briggs, Dave Long, Tony Giacobazzi and Terry Mulligan should do a fine defensive job," he said.

IF IOWA has a defensive weakness this year, it will be at line-backer, he said. "Dan Hilsbeck, Del Gehrke and Rick Hendryx are aggressive, tough kids who lack the necessary experience in that position. I'm sure they will improve as they go along," said Burns.

Idaho Counts On Defense To Beat Iowa

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Idaho, lacking in manpower to play two-platoon football efficiently, is expected to concentrate heavily on defense in an attempt to upset the favored Hawkeyes in Iowa City Saturday.

Idaho Coach Dee Andros had high praise for the Vandals' defense Tuesday, but had his players working mostly on offense in a closed workout Wednesday afternoon.

Idaho Sports Information Director Tom Hartley, in Iowa City to spread the word about the Vandals, said Idaho's system of platooning is called "the poor man's platoon."

Although he has a lot of experienced players, we only platoon about four men, he said.

"I think Iowa's untested defense may have trouble containing half-backs Rich Naccarato and Bill Scott," he said.

"Our quarterback, Mike Monahan, has a slick pass receiver in Vern Leyde," he said. "Dale Meyer, our senior fullback, can gain well, too."

Tigers Bomb Orioles for 2nd Straight Win, 10-3

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, aided by two passed balls and three errors, blasted the Baltimore Orioles 10-3 Wednesday and sent them three games in back of the pace-setting New York Yankees in the American League race.

The Yankees met the Indians in a two-night doubleheader at Cleveland.

Bill Freehan paced the Detroit romp with a pair of doubles, a single and four runs batted in.

Freehan's second two-run double of the game and run-producing singles by Norm Cash and Al Kaline sparked a four-run seventh inning for the Tigers which put the game out of reach of the fast-fading Orioles, who led the league just a week ago.

Mets 2, Cards 1

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis pitcher Roger Craig, who found ingenious ways to lose when he was a member of the New York Mets, threw a bunt away and let the winning run score in the seventh inning Wednesday as the Mets trimmed the Cardinals 2-1.

Redlegs Tounce Phils, Close To Within 3 1/2 Games

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Vada Pinson's second homer in two innings carried charging Cincinnati to a 6-4 victory over National League leading Philadelphia Wednesday night that trimmed the Phillies edge to 3 1/2 games over the second-place Reds.

Pinson put the Reds ahead 2-1 in the sixth inning with a bases-empty homer, then capped a four-run uprising in the seventh inning with a three-run shot that overcame a three-run shot that overcame a 3-2 Philadelphia lead.

Senators 1, Red Sox 0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Don Loun pitched a five-hit shutout in his major league debut Wednesday night as the Washington Senators defeated the Boston Red Sox 1-0.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Reds and their third in a row over the sluggish Phillies, who now have dropped five of their last seven games. The Phillies' lead hasn't been so small since they led San Francisco by three games Aug. 11. The Phillies have nine games remaining and the Reds 10. The teams will meet twice more this season at Cincinnati.

GM To Hold Price Line On '65 Cars

DETROIT (AP) — A General Motors announcement Wednesday that it would hold the line on its 1965 car prices allayed fears of an inflationary spiral in the auto industry.

GM, largest of the auto makers, said basic prices of its new models would remain unchanged for the seventh consecutive year. Ford had said earlier its Lincoln-Continental prices would be unchanged.

Chrysler Corp. and the remainder of Ford's divisions are expected to announce prices Thursday. American Motors said its new figures would be announced by next week.

Officials to Confer On Urban Renewal

Approximately 100 persons connected with urban renewal throughout the state are expected to attend an Urban Renewal Conference here Friday and Saturday.

Present at the conference will be mayors, city managers and councilmen interested in urban renewal in their own communities. Registration will be from 9:30 to 10 a.m. today in Union conference room 203.

Ronald R. Boyce, associate professor of geology, and Earl Stewart, associate professor of urban and regional planning, will address the morning session.

Stewart is the recently selected Iowa City-SUI joint planner.

Dennis McElrath, director of research at Northwestern University's Center for Metropolitan Studies, will speak to the group in the afternoon as will Charles

A. Adrian, chairman of the Political Science Department and director of the Institute for Community Development at Michigan State University, Lansing.

David M. Bane of the U.S. Foreign Service will speak to the evening session, to be held at the Holiday Inn, Highway 218 north.

Saturday's session, also to be held at the Holiday Inn, will include an address by William G. Colman, executive director of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, and an open forum.
