

GOP Senator Terms NATO Issue 'Phony'

GRINNELL (AP) — Sen. Peter Dominick (R-Colo.) said Tuesday the furor over Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater's proposal to give nuclear weapons to NATO is "as phony as any issue in the campaign."

Dominick spent 75 minutes at a student news conference at Grinnell College supporting Goldwater's views.

He said that under the Administrations of President Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson "arrangements have been made to place some nuclear devices under the control of an American in command of NATO."

"We have to defend Europe," Dominick said. "We can either threaten to use ICBMs from the United States, or give NATO relatively small explosives they can use."

He said the tax rate can be reduced five per cent if the budget is cut $5 billion dollars, as called for in the Republican platform.

The Democrats, Dominick said, "have programmed us into deficits for the next five years."

Dominick appeared here as part of the college's program in practical political education, which will be devoted next week to the Democrats.

Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.) will be the school's "politician-in-residence" Oct. 13.

The program called on both occasions for informal meetings with students in classes and in the residence halls.

Sen. Dominick addressed a student meeting Tuesday night.

Rockefeller Says N.Y. Republicans Back Goldwater

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said Tuesday night that New York State Republicans were "pledged to support our candidates from Barry and Bill, right down the line, all the way and that is what we are going to do."

The governor told a regional strategy conference of Republican candidates and leaders that Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican Presidential nominee, "is a man of great courage and integrity who hasn't ducked issues. I respect Barry" for endorsing Sen. Kenneth B. Keating for re-election, although Keating has declined to endorse Goldwater.

Local Boy Greeted President

LBJ Visits Des Moines

Greeted by Largest Crowd In History of Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP) — President Johnson shook hundreds of hands, praised the looks of a pretty Democratic woman, kissed a teen-ager and sold a couple of calves in a tumultuous 141-minute visit to Iowa Wednesday.

He also made a strong pitch for farm votes as almost uncontrollable crowds gathered at the airport, along a downtown Des Moines street and at the Capitol to see him.

Johnson wound up his speech before an estimated 45,000 by saying "this is one of the most wonderful crowds I ever saw. I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

"I WISH each and every one of you could come to my inauguration in January. Wouldn't that be wonderful?"

Minutes later Johnson was heading on to Springfield, Ill., to continue his campaign swing through the Midwest.

The turnout for the President was considered by newsmen accompanying him as probably the largest of the campaign.

ONE OF THE first to greet him was Bill Miltner of Iowa City, who had sent Johnson $300 for two calves on the LBJ ranch in Texas.

"I just sold you two calves," Johnson told the grinning boy.

Twelve-year-old Billy, who took the $300 from his savings to buy two Hereford calves, had the opportunity to speak with the President briefly.

The boy said Johnson asked him if he raised hogs. "No," Bill replied, "but I have some sheep."

Young Miltner had received a letter in September confirming his order on the two calves. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miltner, Route 1.

Des Moines Police Chief Year Douglas estimated that 12,000 people were present.

Zoning Unit To Consider 3 Proposals

Three requests for changes in zoning, which would permit the construction of apartments in Iowa City, have been referred to the planning and zoning commission for recommendation.

The city council, meeting Tuesday night, also set a public hearing for Nov. 3 on the proposed rezoning of an area bounded by Rochester Avenue, Market and Clapp Streets. If rezoning is granted, the area would be eligible for apartment construction.

The requests for rezoning which were referred to the commission came from Elmer J. Giblin for property north of Hudson Ave. and south of the railroad tracks, Frank C. Weyer for property south of West Benton St., and Charles Hicks for property at Marcy St. and Kirkwood Ave.

sons were at the airport, 120,000 along the streets and 45,000 at the Capitol. Douglas said it was the biggest crowd in Des Moines history.

THE PRESIDENT took special notice of Mrs. Lex Hawkins, attractive wife of Iowa's Demo-chairman. When she asked for an autograph for "my 9-year-old boy," Johnson replied "you couldn't have a 9-year-old boy."

The President was wearing a wide-brimmed Texas style hat during his visit. He took it off when he leaned over and kissed Peggy Reinhart, 17, a member of the St. Joseph High School Stepperettes — on the cheek and told her "you all looked beautiful. Thanks for coming out."

LBJ To Ask 'Security' Law Change

WITH JOHNSON IN MIDWEST (AP) — President Johnson said Wednesday he is going to ask for improvements in the Social Security law and "maybe sooner than you think."

The President dropped this remark to a crowd at Peoria, Ill. Later he told reporters who asked about it, "I meant just what I said."

"After Jan. 3?" a reporter inquired. "I didn't say that," the President replied.

JOHNSON SAID he considers improvement of the Social Security program a matter of highest priority.

He declared in the Corn Belt earlier in the day that there are those in the land whose policies would wreck and bankrupt the Social Security system and one farmer out of every five.

Johnson hammered away on bread basket and pocketbook issues, on peace, prosperity and responsibility — and on Republican Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, but not by name.

THE PRESIDENT told the people in Des Moines they have a choice Nov. 3 between peak prosperity or wrecked progress; between tested, good-sense policies for keeping peace or an uncharted course.

He said Americans can pick between policies he said would mean more income and opportunity for farmers on the one hand, or disaster in small doses on the other.

3 U.S. Craft Shot by Cong, Fear 6 Dead

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist Viet Cong gunners shot down three U.S. Army aircraft Wednesday, and all the six men aboard one — a helicopter felled in flames — were presumed to have perished. The crewmen of the others survived.

A strong Red band operating only 13 miles west of Saigon knocked out two of a fleet of helicopters attacking it with rockets and machine guns in support of a drive by Vietnamese ground troops that developed heavy casualties.

ONE OF THE helicopters, carrying five Americans and a Vietnamese observer, fell burning in the midst of the Viet Cong position.

Troops who later fought their way to the wreckage found three bodies charred beyond recognition. They considered the other three also were dead, though there was some possibility they had been taken away by the Viet Cong as prisoners.

THE U.S. CREWMEN were three officers and two enlisted men. Confirmation of the loss of all would increase to 200 the roll of American combat deaths in Viet Nam since 1961.

A second helicopter was shot down near the Communist lines, but its crewmen lived through the landing. They were reported to have made repairs to get the craft back in flying condition.

Senior Officers Lead Meeting— Student Academic Ideas Aired

By DENISE O'BRIEN Staff Writer

Suggestions and criticisms of SUI's academic programs, grading system and cultural environment were aired last night when Senior Class officers met with students for their views on recommendations to be presented soon to two faculty committees.

CLASS OFFICERS Connie Hipwell, president; Steve Shank, vice president; Rich Elder, secretary; and Judy Skalsky, treasurer, will present the suggestions to the committees Oct. 15.

Elder, A4, Homewood, Ill., stressed that the class officers are in a position "where all we can do is suggest."

ONE PLAN suggested keeping the present system, but giving credit for "plus" grades. Thus, a B-plus in a course would have a numeric value of 3.5. A second plan entailed giving no letter grades, just "pass" or "fail." This plan is presently used in the SUI College of Medicine.

Shank, A4, Iowa City, suggested that honors courses taken by students be indicated on final grade transcripts.

FRED VOLBER, suggested that student entering college for the first time be given a minimum grade-point, suited to their individual capabilities, which they would not be allowed to fall below.

Miss Skalsky, A4, Cedar Rapids, presented a plan for student-faculty retreats, an arrangement now used at Stanford University.

Miss Hipwell, A4, Correctionville, said she had been asked to bring up the weighting of courses offered at SUI, asking, "are three hours of sociology taken by a freshman equal to three hours of philosophy taken by a senior?"

OTHER SUGGESTIONS at the meeting included opening classrooms for study at night, regulating the temperature in the Main Library, posting final schedules at registration and setting up a program to help students in determining their major fields of study.

Dolphin Queen Field Narrowed To 11 Semi-finalists

Contenders for the Dolphin Queen title have been narrowed to 11, it was announced Tuesday night by queen committee co-chairman Bill Holt, A2, Des Moines.

The 11 semi-finalists all in their first semester at SUI, are: Sue Andelman of Wardall House, Burge, Northbrook, Ill.; Patricia Faulds of Kate Daum House, River Forest, Ill.; Shari Geach of Delta Delta Delta, Des Plaines, Ill.; Jan Henrikson of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Ames, Iowa; Jimmy Joy of Daly House, Burg, Elmhurst, Ill.; Susan Junge of Wardall House, Burge, Bettendorf; Darlene Kasning of Wellman House, Burge, Mt. Prospect, Ill.; Julie Kneeland of Gamma Phi Beta, Bettendorf; Gail Langenecker of Daly House, Davenport; Sharon Main of Alpha Phi, Hinsdale, Ill.; Dorothy Stevenson of Kate Daum House, St. Louis, Mo.

Judging for the five finalists will be Thursday evening at 7:30.

Barry Urges Morality, 'War Against Crime'

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater hammered hard Wednesday for morality in government and law and order in the streets, pledging personal leadership in a war on crime. The Republican presidential candidate stressed these twin themes as he stumped for votes in New Jersey, lashing out also at the growing concentration of power in Washington.

HE RAPPED President Lyndon B. Johnson for slogans, saying: "We have heard of and seen many wars in the time of the present administration. But have we yet heard of the only needed war — the war against crime?"

"This I can pledge to you — that I will launch the attack." The Arizona senator said that if elected he would use "our power and influence to see that law enforcement officers, on the state and local level, get back the power they need to carry out their job."

GOLDWATER made no mention of rioting earlier this year in three New Jersey cities — Jersey City, Paterson and Elizabeth — in his speech prepared for delivery at the West Orange Armory in a Newark suburb.

He said law enforcement was strictly a local and state responsibility, but there were three things he could do as president.

—APPOINT judges to the Supreme Court qualified to carry out their judicial duties and to respect the Constitution.

IF THE court decisions should remain unaltered, urge amendments to the Constitution.

—URGE CONGRESS to consider changing some of the rules of judicial procedure in the federal courts.

Goldwater swung into his day's dominant theme at a breakfast in Atlantic City, telling a partisan crowd that overflowed a 1,200-Bobby Baker day.

He said it was just a year ago that Baker quit his job as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority.

Goldwater accused Baker of misusing his office to gain riches and said there was "prima facie evidence" of kickbacks from government contracts.

SCORING centralized power, Goldwater said "The people are finally waking up that the concentration of power in the central government in Washington is no different than the concentration of power in the hands of Hitler, Mussolini or in the hands of any Communist government in the world."

"Centralized government is centralized government. I don't care where it goes on. It can do as much damage to freedom all over this world."

Goldwater said he could remember when Johnson preached against centralized power, "at least he did in Texas when he was running for the Senate. Now he wants more and more and more power."

HE CONTINUED his call for morality in government as he went on to Asbury Park and then here, where he elaborated on this and on his call for a war on crime.

Police Warn SUI Cyclists To Park in Provided Racks

University officials have placed new motorcycle and bicycle racks around campus. And they want them to be used.

University Police Chief John H. Hanna said the change was made mainly to avoid congestion caused by bicycles and motorcycles parked all over campus.

"ABOUT TWO years ago, bikes and motorcycles were parked about anywhere on campus," Hanna said. "Students riding them would leave them where it was convenient, often in front of exit doors and windows of buildings. This obstructs traffic and could be dangerous in case of a fire or other emergency."

"Motorcycles are a problem because they drip oil," Hanna continued. "Then the sidewalks are spotted with it, and students track it into buildings on campus."

He said the physical plant ordered motorcycle racks and additional bicycle racks to keep the vehicles in one general area and out of the way of pedestrians.

OFFENSES will be handled in the same manner as car violations. If a bicycle or motorcycle has not followed regulations, police will put a notice on the handlebars. If a student repeatedly ignores the rules, his case will be referred by University police to the Office of Student Affairs for disciplinary action.

Motorcycles may be parked in the parking ramp across from the Union. University police require, though, that only one motorcycle be parked at each meter.

The new parking racks for motorcycles are located at the following spots on campus:

Northeast corner of the Medical Labs.

Southwest corner of the Field House.

Southeast corner of Hillcrest.

South of the Engineering Building.

Splendor and Dignity Added to Miss SUI

By CARLA SCHUMANN Staff Writer

The only frill the Miss SUI Pageant will lack this year is Bert Parks singing "Here she is, Miss America," in front of an audience of millions at the Atlantic City Convention Hall.

For the first time in the pageant's history, Miss SUI will be selected in the splendor of a grand court and reign with the dignity of a true queen, Pageant Director Bill Parisi, A3, Chicago Heights, Ill., said.

Parisi has instigated a complete revolution in the selection of SUI's Homecoming queen. "The pageant," he said, "will make people realize Miss SUI is not just another queen, but a queen of queens."

This year, Miss SUI will rule as official hostess of the Union, Parisi said.

PREPARATIONS for the selection of Miss SUI began last spring under the direction of the Miss SUI Pageant Board, a student organization composed of three representatives from each of the student governing bodies — Union Board, Central Party Committee (CPC) and Student Senate.

Things will begin to look like Atlantic City when Miss SUI of 1963, Joeth Mannebach, A4, Glenview, Ill., parades down the runway adjoining the stage in the Main Lounge. This is the first time a reigning Miss SUI has been recognized at the pageant, Parisi pointed out.

Following Miss SUI's presentation, a fashion parade featuring each candidate in alphabetical order of housing units will be held. This year, the coeds, wearing dressy suits or dresses, will parade down the runway in a display resembling the parade of States at the Miss American contest. However, present plans do not include the girls being judged in swim-suit attire.

INTRODUCTIONS and narrations will be provided by Cindy Ritzenour, A3, Cedar Rapids, and Larry Goetsch, A4, Monticello.

Replacing the individual talent displays of the Miss America Pageant will be the usual skits presented by the women's housing units followed by their candidate. The four-minute skits have been in rehearsal for weeks and will consist of a musical or humorous play on the candidate's name, campus situation, movie or song, Baron said.

DURING THE JUDGING, spectators will be spared the "no-mess" home permanent commercials of the Miss America Pageant. However, Goetsch will double as a Bert Parks when Sharon Byers, A3, Cedar Rapids, and he sing a selection of duets.

Parisi said the 10 semi-finalists will be announced to the audience when they emerge through a red draped passage displaying the official emblem of the pageant, a gold crown.

EACH SEMI-FINALIST will receive a charm engraved with the official emblem and a bracelet, Parisi added. "No gifts have been given in the past," he said.

Another touch from the Miss America Pageant will be questioning of the semi-finalists. Each coed will spontaneously answer one question pertaining to the actions and responsibilities of Miss SUI, Baron said.

In previous years, the five finalists were chosen from the 10 semi-finalists by an all-campus male election held the Thursday before the Homecoming game. However, the top five will be announced at the Union presentation this year.

Each finalist will be crowned and presented with a crown, black and gold cape, and bouquet of flowers, Parisi added.

THE PAGEANT will also begin to take on the appearance of the Democratic Party National Convention, held this summer in the same place as the Miss America Pageant, when the five finalists begin their public appearances following their selection.

Harold Hughes, in an effort to publicize Miss SUI and Homecoming," Parisi said.

MISS SUI will be announced after the Homecoming parade and pep rally Oct. 23. Either Parisi or a SUI official will crown Miss SUI and clothe her in a white brocade cape lined with red velvet. A special stage will be built on the east steps of Old Capitol for the coronation, Parisi said. "Previously, the queen was crowned in a make-shift stage on Clinton Street," he explained.

The five finalists will receive trophies this year, Parisi said. In addition, a 42-inch traveling trophy will go to the winning coed's housing unit, he said.

"Miss SUI's reign doesn't end with her crowning," Parisi said. She and her court will appear at the Homecoming game and dance, Oct. 24, and at other events throughout the year.

THE ORGANIZATION behind the pageant, the Miss SUI Pageant Board, is supported financially by the Student Senate, Union Board, CPC and the SUI Homecoming Committee. Additional money is received from charged admissions at the Union presentation and in the form of entry fees from competing housing units, Baron said.

Representing the three student organizations composing Pageant Board this year are: CPC — Parisi; Larry Crider, A4, Montezuma; Tom Pardon, A4, Sioux City; Union Board — Bob Pfeffer, B4, Seneca, Ill.; Rick Davis, A3, Fort Dodge; Nancy Fredrickson, A4, Deerfield, Ill.; Student Senate — Baron, Judy Skalsky, A4, Cedar Rapids; and Bill Parks, A4, Centerville.

SUI scores twice

IOWA'S UPSET VICTORY over Washington Saturday was a credit to the football team and the coaching staff — national television coverage of the game made the win just that much sweeter. But fully as much a credit to the University was the fine work of SUI's marching band.

An athletic victory would have brought attention to the University whether NBC had broadcast the game or not.

The network colorcast of the half-time show however, exposed millions of viewers to the type of precision drills and routines which are presented by the band for every half-time.

The broadcast spread the fame of Iowa's band just that much more across the nation.

Doc Severinsen, the professional trumpet player who appeared with the band Saturday, added to the musical excellence of the performance. The accompaniment provided him by the students was of professional quality.

The SUI band presented a worthwhile musical performance as well as a sharp marching show.

Long hours of practice go into every show the band presents. They are fully worthy of the standing ovations which they receive from football spectators everytime they march on the field.

A sticky business

EVERY MONTH the Department of Labor releases statistics on the retail price level, and if there is one-tenth of 1 per cent increase in the cost of living it is dutifully reported by all the news media. But if it is shown that trading stamps increase the cost of the groceries by, say, 2 per cent, the news media take no interest, and consumers keep on pasting up book after book.

They are perfectly aware that the only way to get something for nothing is to stick a gun in somebody's stomach; but they do not apply this ancient maxim to the trading-stamp racket.

Eight out of ten American families now collect trading stamps, and in Hartford, Conn., heart of the New England thrift belt, 98 per cent of all families are so addicted. However, when a deception gets too big, it invites scrutiny, official and otherwise, and the trading-stamp mythos is now entering that phase.

According to their promoters, stamps are a beneficent institution which increases sales, does not cut into the merchants' profits, and never, never causes an increase in prices.

Now both the Federal Trade Commission and a couple of inquiring professors are on the trail of exposing these claims. The professors are James D. Bromley and William H. Wallace of the University of Rhode Island, and their specialty is agricultural economics.

They studied 185 dry grocery items before and after stamps were issued by a national grocery chain. Careful corrections were made for increases in prices from other causes. The premiums received were evaluated on the basis of mail-order and discount-house prices — not the list prices, which have become almost meaningless in many fields.

Contrary to the claims of the trading-stamp industry, Bromley and Wallace found that the stamps increased prices by 2.02 per cent.

A family of four, spending $1,000 a year on food and related items, would be paying $20 for stamps — even if they redeemed them, which many buyers do not. If anything, this figure is low.

The claim that stamps increase retail volume is absurd on its face. What actually happened as the hoax gained momentum was that the merchant who offered stamps took customers away from the merchant who held out.

When the hold-out succumbed, the first retailer had to resort to some other gimmick. Once the practice has become widespread, it is difficult for the unaided retailer to curb it.

Some supermarket chains have dropped trading stamps in an experimental basis, reduced prices accordingly, and appear to be doing well.

All of us — and especially the Government — should encourage this trend.

LBJ, Barry both friends of businessmen'

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For businessmen the difference between Lyndon B. Johnson and Barry Goldwater is more than what — how as President they'd conduct Government's many relations with business rather than what their specific policies promise.

Both candidates say they want to see business prosper — in profits as well as in job-producing expansion. The measures they think would bring this about may differ. But businessmen studying the two candidates, their pronouncements, records and performance, think the difference more likely would be in how either's Administration would perform in the regulation, care and feeding of industry and trade.

And some see as the issue: Which candidate would make the economy — and thus business — grow the most, the fastest and the healthiest?

Business interest in the campaign covers a wide range: Fiscal responsibility, tax programs, Government spending, and the Government-business climate — how businessmen are regarded and treated by the Administration.

Important to large and influential business groups are the variations in the candidates' foreign policies, attitudes toward Government competition with private enterprises such as utilities, and even civil rights enforcement as it touches both large and small business firms.

THEN, TOO, Government taxing, spending and attitudes extend right down to the local community that prospers or suffers when Washington gives or withholds orders or projects.

Here is how President Johnson's and Sen. Goldwater's pronouncements, actions and party platforms touch on the above issues vital to industry and trade:

Favoring the incumbent is some businessmen's uneasiness about change and dislike of uncertainty as to future Government policies and enforcement.

FAVORING the contender is Goldwater's and his party's platform stand that business fares best when freed to all but the most necessary federal control. And Goldwater charges that big Government under the Democrats has reduced the rewards for good work and lowered the penalties for laziness or waste.

Lyndon Johnson
Already inviting them...

Johnson has wooed businessmen of the conservative stripe by pledging economy in Government spending. But he puts economic growth above a balanced budget.

He tells businessmen that by increasing the whole economic activity of the nation there will be a bigger slice — though not necessarily a different proportion — for business, labor and the consumer. And the Government will then take in more tax revenues and thus balance the budget.

GOLDWATER's approach is that such planned deficit financing is irresponsible and heading for fiscal disaster. He says the Government should be trying instead to pay off some of the Federal debt. The Republican platform proposes a cut in Government spending of not less than $5 billion. Goldwater says short-lived deficits are likely from time to time but balance must be restored in a reasonably short period.

But both candidates foresee tax cuts, too. The President pushed through the first one early this year and talks of cuts in excises and maybe another in income taxes next year.

JOHNSON SAYS he believes in profit incentives and won't penalize a business just for being big or making larger profits. If the public interest isn't harmed by its activities.

Goldwater's pledge to trim Government spending pleases many businessmen in principle. But a number note that many of the Government projects the President is backing mean orders for industry and prosperity for tradesmen in the areas where either the projects or the supplying plants are located.

Some businessmen fear Goldwater might cut off this bonanza in their own territory.

JOHNSON'S RECORD seems to favor Government-owned projects, such as utilities. But now he also urges cooperation of public and private industry in future developments.

Goldwater, in urging that the Tennessee Valley Authority's sideline businesses be sold to private companies, is appealing to all businessmen who object to Government competition with private industry — especially in their own fields.

The senator says there are some projects that Government must take on, but that any which private enterprise can do should be left to industrialists and private financing.

Goldwater's broad pronouncement is that economic growth should be left largely to private enterprise so that man can enjoy the fruits of his labor and foresight. He wants Government to stop telling people how to manage their own affairs and to quit meddling with what he views as the economy's natural operations.

MANY COMPANIES with large export markets, or need for foreign materials, or with big plant investments overseas, or with an important business here, watch closely the Johnson and Goldwater foreign policy stands. Prime concern is which is more likely to upset or improve international relations. But closer to home are the everyday dealings of business with the many Government regulatory agencies. These enforce the laws that control business in many fields, laws that Congress is unlikely to change whoever wins the election. But enforcement policies can change.

Both LBJ and BG are running as the friends of business. Barry's supporters say if he's President there'll be more businessmen around the White House, fewer labor leaders.

LBJ goes out of his way to invite a lot of businessmen there right now.

Lady Bird goes South University Bulletin Board

By DORIS FLEESON
WASHINGTON President Johnson has entrusted to his wife the task of persuading Southerners that the so-called Southern family in the White House remains their friend even though it has broken ancestral attitudes on the race issue.

Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will travel mainly through towns and cities off the jet-airport route where Southern devotion to family often includes blind reverence for family beliefs to the point of ancestor worship.

But she will attempt as well to take the hand of her fellow-Southerners and lead them into acceptance of the equality which majority opinion sees as the American destiny. While praising her proud past, she will summon them to full participation in the American future.

THE PRESIDENT paid his wife a singular compliment in assigning her this task, which is so close to his heart, but then it is close to hers, too. There is good reason to believe at this point that he might be elected without the South, but the Johnson family doesn't want it that way.

Of course, no President enjoys a rebuff from the home folks or likes being challenged by an outsider in his own backyard, which is the case this year. Johnson

Goldwater loses heavily in the South, it will be the end of Goldwater as a potential President and party leader.

But there is more to it than that. Johnson values the South's political skills. He has drawn heavily upon them all his years in Congress and now. He wants to retain them and have reason to reward them.

Mrs. Johnson's Southern heritage is proclaimed in her intonations and in the unabashed title of her train, "Lady Bird Special."

BUT WHILE the accents may suggest magnolia blossoms, it would never occur to the cool and prudent businesswoman, now the wife of the President, to leave things to chance and charm. Her whistle-stop speeches are carefully organized and splendidly brief. She will take time to visit spots cherished by Southerners minus speechmaking.

Her attractive aides have political experience and can type if necessary, as it probably will be. What her impact will be, of course, remains to be seen. She is a speaker of the inspirational variety, but she is not florid. Her quotations are brief and terse. She is polite about it, but she asks for votes and mentions the thorny issues.

Letters to the editor—

Another sound truck blast

To the Editor:
I have just read Robert Christiansen's letter and agree wholeheartedly. I am curious to know why this has not come to light before. I have two points of my own to add which are nonetheless important.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Christiansen wrote Tuesday to protest the use of sound truck advertising, especially during class time, by a local merchant.)

The first was touched upon and mentioned the possible interruption of deep thoughts. Not only has this happened to me several times, but twice during examinations where any distraction is considerably multiplied by the tension.

There is a basic question of individual privacy involved here as it is not possible to exercise any choice in time, place, or manner of consideration of this means of advertisement.

My contention is that this form of advertisement violates these rights and on this basis alone should be eliminated.

HOWEVER, I have a stronger and more urgent reason for speaking against this particular execution of loud speaker advertisement.

This is the element of traffic safety I have seen the driver of this truck in heavy downtown traffic, driving with a piece of paper in one hand, a microphone in the other, and while moving, reading from the paper.

He seemed to be steering with the heel of his hand which was pressed up against the wheel.

I have no idea how he can read and drive at the same time, nor how he is able to avoid accidents, let alone how he would cope with an emergency situation.

IN SUMMARY, there are two principles in question here. One involves the basic human right to privacy, the other the adherence to the law and to driving safety.

The first principle suggests that advertising be performed during class breaks when the probability of interrupting "deep thoughts" becomes less.

But this would violate the second principle for this is precisely the time that pedestrian traffic is heavy and that strict safety rules must be observed. Saturday traffic in the downtown area and the Sunday respect for the Sabbath also involve the same principles, thus eliminating those days for this form of advertisement.

Thus I propose that the sound truck be allowed to advertise in its usual manner on the days that fall between Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Ten reasons why . . .

To the Editor:
Recently I came across some Goldwater propaganda that is being spread by the GOP campaign headquarters. Next to a strikingly handsome portrait of the senator were the words "Ten reasons why we should select Goldwater for President." Up until then I hadn't realized that there were any reasons, so with a slight apprehension and an aroused curiosity I flipped the card over to find:

"Barry Goldwater is a practical businessman . . ."

"Barry Goldwater is a World War II veteran and jet pilot . . ."

"Barry Goldwater is a man devoted to his family, with a lovely wife and four children."

"Barry Goldwater is an extraordinary all-American man . . ."

The inevitable question is — So what? Are these reasons for electing a man to be Presi-

Police is heavy and that strict safety rules must be observed. Saturday traffic in the downtown area and the Sunday respect for the Sabbath also involve the same principles, thus eliminating these days for this form of advertisement.

Thus I propose that the sound truck be allowed to advertise in its usual manner on the days that fall between Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Iowa's Snook Is Big Ten's Best Passer

Iowa's Gary Snook leads all Big Ten quarterbacks in completions and total passing yardage, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Snook has 33 completions in 56 attempts for 441 yards and two touchdowns. His completion percentage is .589.

Behind Snook is Indiana's Rich Badar with 31 completions for 61 tosses, good for 401 yards and two touchdowns. Badar's passing percentage is .508.

In other Big Ten statistics, Iowa's place kicker, Gary Simpson, is third in kicking points with eight PAT's for two games. Ohio State's Bob Funk leads the pack with three field goals and five PAT's for 14 points. He is followed by Minnesota's Mike Reid, with two field goals, five PAT's and 11 points.

IOWA'S Ivory McDowell still leads the Big Ten for the longest kick-off return with a 61-yard romp against Idaho.

The Hawks worked for two hours Wednesday with emphasis on defense. A live contact drill was held for the starting defensive unit.

They made several goal line stands against the scout team which was running Indiana plays. Coaches agreed there was some good hitting by the defensive regulars.

COACH BURNS complimented linebackers Del Gehrke, Rick Hendryx, Dan Hilsabeck and Tom Ross. "We are satisfied with their progress so far and all of them have improved their play," he said.

Talking about the switch of John Niland, a 250-pound tackle last season, to offensive guard, Burns said "We are all happy with his play as a pulling guard this year. He has come a long way and is helping out the ball club a great deal."

Burns described Wednesday's drill as having lots of spirit, but lacking in concentration on the play.

As for Saturday's contest at Bloomington, he said "we realize that Iowa has been picked as the underdog in practically all the Big Ten games this year. We accept this fact and hope to do better than expected in each Big Ten game we play."

INDIANA feels concern for its own pass defense for Iowa's attack. Wednesday Coach Phil Dickens said "although we have out-gained our opponents through the air, our defenders have been playing the man more than the ball."

"We've had a lot of trouble getting our defensive backs to go for the ball," he said. "Of course, there's a time to be cautious and a time to be bold. The fact that we haven't had an interception in our first two games indicates we aren't going for the ball enough," he added.

OFFENSIVELY, the Hoosiers have moved the ball well enough to win. Against Northwestern and Ohio State they averaged 307 yards against their opponents' 288. But inconsistency kept them on the

6th Inning 4-Run Uprising By Cards Beats Yanks, 9-5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Young Mike Shannon and broken-jawed Carl Warwick struck key blows in a four-run sixth inning uprising that gave the underdog St. Louis Cardinals a 9-5 victory over the New York Yankees in the opening game of the World Series Wednesday.

A standing room throng of 30,805 at St. Louis, first Series game since 1946 savored the spectacle of the proud Yanks losing their fifth straight.

The Cardinals turned the game into a rout in the eighth with three unearned runs.

SHANNON, a young man recalled from the farm system in mid-season, struck a tremendous 450-foot home run with a man on off the "B" of a brewery sign atop the scoreboard in left that tied the score in the sixth. It came off loser Whitey Ford, who was knocked out when Tim McCarver followed with a double.

WARWICK, who went into the game with a scar on his right cheek and a "throb in my head" as a souvenir of a line drive during a Sept. 27 batting practice, stroked home the tie-breaking run with a pinch single off relief man Al Downing.

Until the Cardinal uprising, Ford had been rolling along with a five-hitter and a 4-2 edge over Ray Sadecki but the old master was in his usual sharp form.

A stiff wind from the south-east that stiffened the pennants atop Busch Stadium helped Shannon's drive and also boosted Tom Tresh's two-run 400-foot homer into the left center field seats in the Yankee second.

SADECKI, the winner, allowed eight hits in six innings before he was lifted for a pinch hitter, Ford, making his 22nd Series start, was bombed out in the sixth and charged with five of the Cardinals runs. If it was a pitcher to write about it was Barney Schultz, a 38-year-old refugee from the farm system by way of two or three big league clubs. The knuckle ball artist, so important in the Cards late pennant drive with 11 saves, allowed the Yanks only one run in the last three innings.

WHEN DANGER threatened, Schultz was able to dig down a little deeper and pitch his way out of it. After Mickey Mantle singled and Tresh walked in the seventh, he struck out Joe Pepitone. After a run had scored and the Yanks had Bobby Richardson on second and Roger Maris on first with two out in the eighth, Barney forced Mantle to ground to Julian Javier.

In the ninth, Schultz had them on the hip all the way, 1-2-3.

THE OPENING victory was a tremendous lift to the Cards, who had been 12-10 underdogs in the Series and 6-5 in the first game with Sadecki, a 20-game winner but often erratic, because Manager John Keane had to jumble his pitching to clinch the pennant on the final day.

HAVING BEATEN FORD, the Yanks' ace, the Cards now are able to send fire-balling Bob Gibson, 19-12, against the Yanks' rookie Mel Stottlemyre, 9-3, in Thursday's second game. There will be a day off for travel Friday before the Series resumes in New York Saturday with Curt Simmons, 18-9, of the Cards facing Jim Bouton, 18-13, at Yankee Stadium.

Two Yankee errors and a pair of passed balls by Elston Howard marred the play of the American League champs while the Cards played errorless ball and came through with some fine fielding plays by Ken Boyer and Curt Flood and an excellent throw by Lou Brock.

Karl Noonan Brings the 'Luck of the Irish' Here Instead of Taking It to Notre Dame

By BOB MOYERS Staff Writer

Stop the presses. Forget the "era of Ara." The luck of the Irish (Notre Dame, that is) has suffered a setback.

The setback is really a flanker back on the Iowa football team known as Karl Noonan. Fortunately for Iowa, the junior letterman decided to keep his pass-catching talents near his home town of Davenport instead of displaying them on the green grass of "Araland."

But in the case of Noonan, the luck of the Irish has continued to perform for the former four-sport star at Davenport Assumption.

A case in point is that Iowa will be a passing team as long as the golden arm of quarterback Gary Snook is available. And if Coach Jerry Burns had not taken a passing fancy to be air-minded (not Ara-minded), Noonan might well have found himself as a setback on the bench instead of one of the Big Ten's leading pass-receivers.

KARL is the first to admit that his slender build (6-2 and 176 pounds) would have hampered him as a running back or an inside end. He calls the flanker spot "a dream position."

"Although you're often covered by two men, you don't get held up at the line of scrimmage. When you run your pattern and make a fake you're in business. The offensive pass-receiver always has the advantage of an open field since he knows where he's going and the defensive player doesn't. I should know since I tried to play defense last year," he said.

BUT this season Karl is catching passes instead of defending against them. So far he has caught 17 in two games for 258 yards and one touchdown.

Top Flanker Back

Iowa's Karl Noonan, top flanker back and pass receiver on this year's team with 17 completions for 258 yards and one touchdown in two games.

Noonan had his greatest day Oct. 3 when he caught 11 passes as Iowa upset Washington, 28-18. This broke the Iowa single game record of nine, held by three players. Noonan missed only three throws from Gary Snook.

He accounted for 49 of Iowa's first 64-yard TD drive, 36 of 49 on the second, 17 of 46 on the third and 10 of 26 on the final one. Karl caught the first five thrown to him, one for a 17-yard touchdown. However, he suffered a gashed wrist which may keep him out of the Indiana game Oct. 10.

IN HIGH SCHOOL at Davenport Assumption, Karl lettered in football, basketball, baseball and track. In football he played quarterback and end while leading the Quad Cities in scoring his senior year. Besides earning all-state honors in football he duplicated the feat in basketball as a guard.

Needless to say, Notre Dame was interested in securing his talents, especially since Karl's brother, Bill Noonan, was a senior basketball starter for the Irish back in 1961. He was offered a scholarship in either football or basketball. However, at the last moment he decided to attend Iowa on a football scholarship.

KARL CONSIDERS practice sessions as an important part of football and doesn't hesitate to tell off teammates who tend to take passing drills lightly. While preparing for the Idaho opener Karl got upset when Snook was throwing poorly.

After missing another high pass, Karl came back to the huddle, gave Snook a helmet cuff and told him to shape up. Needless to say Snook's next pass to Noonan was at least 10 feet over his head. Again Karl came back to the huddle and boxed Snook's helmet. The next pass was on target.

The moral of this story? Naturally, it's two wrongs sometimes make a right. And it's almost certain that the Noonan-Snook duo is just the "right" combination for Iowa.

Riddle was a year ago when he tossed five touchdown strikes against the Hoosiers in Iowa City to set a Big Ten single game record.

If the Hoosiers put the ball in the air as much as they have in their first two games, Saturday's meeting will be an aerial circus.

Mozart's 'Cosi fan Tutte'—

Met Studio Performance Set

The Metropolitan Opera Studio's presentation of Mozart's comic opera "Cosi fan Tutte" on October 14 will give its audience an 18th century fashion show in addition to an example of the professional talents of the younger members of the New York Metropolitan Opera.

The costumes of the upper classes, about whom operas at that time were usually written, were fanciful and elaborate. The women wore hoop skirts; the men, waistcoats, breeches and hose. Both men and women wore powdered wigs. The Studio will use its own costumes in its production of "Cosi fan Tutte."

The music for these operas was equally formal although the slightly abridged version SUIowans will see has only piano accompaniment. Originally, a full orchestra accompanied the singers except for short conversational sentences, which were spoken to the rapid notes of a harpsichord.

THIS VERSION of the opera omits many of the solos which do not noticeably advance the action of the story.

The plot involves two sisters, Fiordiligi and Dorabella, who are tested by their soldier-lovers when they are called away to war. On the advice of a philosopher, the two soldiers return disguised as Spaniards to see how true to them Fiordiligi and Dorabella are. Through various ruses, the "Spaniards" win the girls' hearts.

EVENTUALLY, the men reveal their true identities. The philosopher has proven that women are not to be trusted but the girls are forgiven and all ends happily.

Dorothy Coulter and June Genovese will portray the sisters. Miss Coulter made her debut in the NBC-TV performance of "La Boheme." She has sung two seasons with the Metropolitan Opera Company and has made guest appearances in Europe during the past two years.

Miss Genovese performed as a soloist with the Metropolitan Music Festival and recently appeared with the American Opera Society at Carnegie Hall.

Barbara Stevens will play the maid Despina. For every uncomplimentary thing that the philosopher says of women, Despina holds a like opinion of men. Miss Stevens has appeared frequently on television and in summer stock and toured with the national company of "The Music Man."

Robert Gregori, who plays Fiordiligi's lover, is in his first season with the Metropolitan Opera Studio. He has appeared before in the national touring company of "Most Happy Fella" and "Streetcar Named Desire."

Stanley Kolk, in the role of Dorabella's lover, appeared with the Studio in its first performance at the New Philharmonic Hall in New York City. The winner of a Ford Foundation Grant, Kolk has also appeared with the New York Center Opera Company.

Gimi Beni will be recreating the role of the philosopher, which he filled when the Studio appeared at the White House in 1961 at the request of Mrs. John F. Kennedy. Beni is a Fullbright Scholar from Rome, Italy.

Ticket sales for "Cosi fan Tutte" (translated it means, "That's the way they are") will begin October 9 at the Union, although mail orders are already being accepted. All seats are reserved. Tickets are $2 each.

At its monthly meeting Sunday the SUI chapter of Sigma Delta Chi (SDX), professional journalism society, elected a new secretary and a delegate and alternate to the national SDX convention in Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2-5.

Ron Slechta, A4, Denison, was named secretary of the group. He replaces Harold Yahne who has withdrawn from school to manage the newspaper at Buffalo Center.

Curt Sylvester, A4, Charles City, president of the chapter, was selected to be SUI's official delegate to the convention. Mike Toner, A3, Humboldt, was named alternate.

SUI To Host Meet of Home Economists

The Home Economics Department of SUI will be host to two groups of the Iowa Home Economics Association (IHEA) Saturday in the Union.

The groups are the College and University Section of IHEA, made up of college and university teachers of home economics, and the Colleges Section, composed of students.

Speaking to the faculty section will be Ross Wilbur, director of the Division of Family and Children's Services of the State Department of Social Welfare, Des Moines. His topic will be "Utilization of the Skills and Knowledge of Home Economists in Social Welfare Programs."

Florence Fallgatter, retired Iowa State University professor of home economics, will address the group on "A Proposed New Structure for the American Home Economics Association."

Representatives of the 14 student chapters will hear a report from Adeline Hoffman, SUI home economics professor, on her trip to the International Congress of Home Economists in Paris during the summer of 1963.

Donna Schafer, La Porte City junior at SUI, is president of the state colleges section. Jeanine Hopson, Corpus Christi, Tex., heads the SUI chapter.

Mabel Parsons, assistant professor of home economics at SUI, is chairman of local arrangements for the faculty group meeting. Lena P. Buckingham, State College of Iowa home economics professor, is chairman of the faculty division.

Six To Visit Workshop On Politics

Six SUI students will attend a Workshop on Practical Political Research to be held Friday at Grinnell College.

Four of the students will attend the workshop as delegates; Gary Malfeld, A, Melbourne, and Paul Fiala, A2, Cedar Rapids, representing the Democrats, and Don Carlson, A2, Stratford, and Jean Fee, A3, Denison, representing the Republicans.

They will be joined by their faculty adviser Donald Johnson, chairman of the SUI Department of Political Science.

In addition, two SUI students who have served internships with candidates in the 1964 campaign will participate in a panel discussion with four other interns. The SUI participants will be John C. Barrett, Solon, and Roger Wiley, Sioux City.

The workshop, sponsored by the Iowa Center for Education in Politics, Iowa City, is a bi-partisan meeting intended to bring some 30 college students and their professors closer to professional politicians, as well as to bring the politicians closer to political study.

Student 'Fair' After Accident

An SUI student remained in fair condition at University Hospital Wednesday after receiving a mild concussion, fractured left leg, and lacerations in a car-motorcycle collision Tuesday.

Edson Eugene J. Moore, A3, Fort Dodge, was operating the motorcycle which collided with an auto driven by Theodore Clifford Reynolds, 72, Tiffin.

A passenger on the motorcycle, Randall William Johnson, A3, Fort Dodge, was treated for a mild concussion and released.

A charge of failure to yield at a stop sign has been filed against Reynolds, who was not injured.

Journalism Group Elects Secretary, Two Delegates

At its monthly meeting Sunday the SUI chapter of Sigma Delta Chi (SDX), professional journalism society, elected a new secretary and a delegate and alternate to the national SDX convention in Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 2-5.

Ron Slechta, A4, Denison, was named secretary of the group. He replaces Harold Yahne who has withdrawn from school to manage the newspaper at Buffalo Center.

Curt Sylvester, A4, Charles City, president of the chapter, was selected to be SUI's official delegate to the convention. Mike Toner, A3, Humboldt, was named alternate.

Daily Iowan Ad Staff For Fall Term Named

KOTOK — Alan Kotok, A2, Buffalo, N.Y., has been named advertising manager of The Daily Iowan for fall semester. Other advertising executives named by advertising director Irv Grossman are Ralph Laughlin, A4, Catawba, Va., classified advertising manager; Paul DiBlasio, A2, Davenport, national advertising manager; and Ron Slechta, A4, Denison, advertising photographer.

Kotok served on The Daily Iowan advertising staff since June, 1963. He held the position of classified advertising manager and was a

Expect Large SUI Turnout In Mock Vote

"I expect a great turnout of voters in the SUI mock election because of the wide difference in views between the national candidates," said Steven Gumbiner, A4, Highland Park, Ill.

The election will be held Oct. 20 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at ten polling booths to be located on campus.

Mock elections at SUI go back to 1944 and perhaps farther, according to Gumbiner, chairman of the event this year. The 1960 mock election resulted in Kennedy being defeated by Nixon 1,413 to 1,948.

Gumbiner speculated that results of this election would be a good prediction of the national, but not the statewide, election results.

Students may vote even though they are under 21. Booths will be located in the following places: The Pentacrest; Schaeffer Hall, first floor at the north end; Schaeffer Hall, basement, outside the library; McBride Hall, first floor near the service elevator; University Hall, first floor near the south end; Chemistry Building, east lobby; Union, outside the Gold Feather Room; Law Building, outside the library; Hillcrest, central round; Quadrangle, courtyard.

Kyle Showed No Remorse, Doctor Says

WATERLOO — A defense witness testified Wednesday that John Thomas Kyle, 16, showed no remorse or shame over the knife slaying of pretty, brunette Diane Kay Gable, 19.

Kyle has admitted the May 31 slaying, changing his plea from innocent to guilty Monday on the first day of a District Court hearing.

The defense opened its case Wednesday, seeking leniency for the muscular son of a Waterloo banker. The purpose of the hearing is to determine the degree of the youth's guilt and fix the sentence.

Dr. William Grimmer, who is in the resident physician program at University Hospitals in Iowa City, was on the witness stand for three hours.

He said in his opinion and after conducting a series of tests on young Kyle, the defendant would express hostility and antagonism and be unable to form a meaningful personal relationship. Dr. Grimmer went on to say Kyle had a tendency to "immediately gratify his personal desires — whatever."

Under cross-examination, Dr. Grimmer said some of these tendencies "are prevalent in all of us."

Miss Gable's body, nude from the waist down, was found in her parents' home the morning of June 1. She had been stabbed twice, an autopsy showed, and sexually molested. She was the daughter of a Waterloo real estate and insurance operator.

Dr. Grimmer said young Kyle, while under the effects of a so-called truth serum, told of the events preceding the slaying.

Local Iowa Quartet Concerts Planned

MUSCATINE — The Iowa String Quartet will present four concerts during the coming season for the Muscatine Community College Fine Arts Series. The four concerts, all on Sundays at 3 p.m., will be given in the Auditorium of the Muscatine Community College, with the first program on Nov. 15. The other concerts will be given Jan. 31, Feb. 21 and March 21.

Muscatine is the fourth city to schedule a concert series by the resident quartet from The State University of Iowa for 1964-65. Announcement of series of four concerts each in Washington, D.C., Des Moines and Iowa City was made in September. The group also will present two concerts at Luther College, Decorah, and one at Central College, Pella, as well as make appearances outside the state this winter.

The Iowa String Quartet includes violinists Allen F. Ohmes and John Ferrell, violist William Preucil and cellist Joel Krosnick — all members of the SUI music faculty.

Ohmes joined the SUI faculty as an associate professor in September to teach violin at SUI, was concertmaster and soloist with the U.S. Air Force Symphony Orchestra from 1953-57, appearing in the United States, Iceland, Norway and Denmark, and has since been a member of the Rochester Philharmonic and Civic Orchestras and a lecturer at Brooklyn College, New York City.

A member of the SUI faculty since 1954, Ferrell has been soloist with the Eastman-Rochester Symphony and the Oklahoma City Symphony. Cities in which he has given solo concerts include Los Angeles and Washington. He made his New York debut in 1958.

Preucil was principal violist in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for two years before joining the SUI faculty in 1958. He participated in the Casals Festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico, in 1958, and was principal violist and soloist at the Peninsula Music Festival, Door County, Wis., during the past eight seasons.

Krosnick has given recitals in New York City annually since 1960. The co-founder and director of the Group for Contemporary Music at Columbia University, Krosnick appeared with this ensemble in numerous concerts of contemporary chamber music before joining the Iowa String Quartet in 1963.

Local Firm Gets Commission's O.K. On Road Access

AMES — The Iowa Highway Commission overruled a staff recommendation Wednesday and voted 4-1 to enter into an agreement with the Hawkeye Real Estate Investment Co. of Iowa City, granting a special public road connection.

The special access, granted to Iowa 1 in Iowa City, will clear the way for a proposed $1 million development project.

The principal interest is represented by the Howard Johnson Co. of Chicago.

Judges Selected For News Contest

Five judges who will pick winners in the fifth annual Penny-Missouri Awards newspaper competition have been named by Dean Earl F. English of the University of Missouri School of Journalism.

The national honors program for daily and weekly papers — known as the J. C. Penney-University of Missouri Journalism Awards — gives $10,000 in prizes in three divisions: women's pages, fashion reporting, and reporting-writing excellence, a new class this year.

Judges for the 1964-65 competition, completed Sept. 30, are Frank J. Starzel, former general manager of the Associated Press, Lloyd P. Burns, manager of the New Jersey Press Association, W. Earl Hall, editor emeritus of the Mason Globe-Gazette, and Dr. Margaret W. Mangel, director of the University of Missouri School of Home Economics.

SUI Students Evicted From Unfinished House

The pleas of four SUI students who face eviction from an unfinished house fell on deaf ears Tuesday night at the city council meeting.

The city turned down a request to delay the eviction order after city housing authorities ruled the house at 418-420 Brown St. uninhabitable. The house, still under construction, lacks heating and plumbing facilities.

Robert Katz, A3, spokesman for the tenants, told the council the house would probably be finished Nov. 1. Each of the tenants is now paying $25 a month.

Katz said they were quite comfortable in the house and that on cold evenings they shared a small electric heater.

Public Employees Lead Contributors In 'Givers' Drive

Twenty per cent of the $97,435 goal has so far been collected or pledged in the Community Givers drive, according to Robert D. Marsden, general campaign chairman.

Latest tabulations show contributions totaling $19,851, with the public employees division so far leading among the five major solicitation divisions.

The campaign ends Oct. 13 and Marsden is optimistic about reaching the goal. "We are significantly ahead of previous drives at this point," he said. He reminded residents that the goal is nine per cent above the amount contributed last year.

The campaign contributes to the operating budgets of 17 agencies which serve Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights.

Students Enthused With Work Exchange

The International Association of Students in Economics and Commerce (loosely translated from the French title whose initials are AIESEC) was formed after World War II to promote an exchange of law and commerce students for summer months and provide training "on-the-job" in Europe and other parts of the world.

SUI is a member of AIESEC and no less than five students of the University have accepted traineeships during each of the past five summers.

The AIESEC program provides more than routine job training to the student, according to John S. Harlow, associate professor of business and faculty adviser of the SUI chapter of AIESEC.

Some of the experience gained in the program is outlined by two students, Richard J. Borchers, B3, LeMars, and Dick H. Montgomery, B3, Larrabee, below. Borchers and Montgomery both participated in the AIESEC program this summer.

A formal meeting of the SUI chapter will be scheduled this fall. Any interested students in the program are invited to contact Prof. Harlow or Montgomery, president of the SUI affiliate.

An "exchange" AIESEC trainee, Miss Brigit Herzberg of Germany, is working at the Iowa State Bank this fall.

I spent a rewarding summer in Stockholm, Sweden, where I worked as an AIESEC trainee for Folksam, the third largest insurance company in Sweden with 1,100 employees in the main Stockholm office. The experience was very beneficial, something every college student should do if possible.

I arrived in Stockholm June 20, the second day of the Midnight Sun celebration, one of the most lively national holidays in Sweden. The countryside was dotted with bonfires and the blue and yellow flag of Sweden.

AIESEC arranged accommodations for me in Bromma, a suburb of Stockholm. I didn't realize at first how fortunate I was to get such quarters. I learned that many residents of Stockholm wait five years on a government list to get such a place.

I HAD THREE roommates, two of whom also participated in the AIESEC program. One was an American from New York; the other was from Japan. The third roommate was from Karlstad in southern Sweden. We spent a weekend in his home.

Folksam has a very impressive 26-story building, covered inside and out with Swedish marble. It contains a gymnasium and two Finnish sauna baths for the employees. The firm's personnel were extremely friendly. In fact, I spent a weekend with one of the vice presidents in his summer home.

The company arranged the following schedule for me during the six-week period I was there: a week in the selling section, a week in the economics and administration section, a week in the fire and marine section and the car section; a week in the life section and the personal accident section; a week in the research department and a week in the advertising section.

AS I VISITED each department, members explained the department's function and purpose. By the time I left, I understood the organizational plan of the company.

Folksam is unusual in that it is a cooperative company, closely tied to the labor force and cooperative movement of Sweden. At least once a week I would visit another cooperative in the Stockholm area and learn of its part in the cooperative movement.

Folksam also arranged visits to the headquarters of the respective labor unions and the Swedish Institute where I was allowed to take all the literature I wanted about the socialist practices, labor and economy of Sweden.

I took part in many lively discussions comparing the United States and Swedish systems and came home much more broad-minded.

STOCKHOLM OFFERS much entertainment for the foreign student in the summer. The International Student Center and AIESEC arranged dances and cultural activities every week. The first week I was there Dr. Wallin, leader of the Swedish Liberal Party, defended his views in a question and answer period.

The week was usually arranged with a discussion and get-together on Monday night, a dance on Wednesday and a cultural trip on Friday. Many of the local Swedish students took part in these activities as well as the foreign students.

Stockholm, of course, offered many other amusements — beaches, the Tivoli (where I saw Ray Charles for 60 cents), and Skansen, an open-air museum.

For any one desiring to go to Europe and really get to know the people, the AIESEC program can't be beat.

Through AIESEC I obtained a job as a trainee for Excelsior, a steel and plastic pipe manufacturer in Holland.

I was with the firm for seven weeks and during that time I lived with a Dutch family. I then spent about three weeks traveling on a Lambretta motor scooter through five other countries.

I left the United States June 22 and flew to Europe on a charter flight. After I arrived in southern Holland, the AIESEC committee found a place for me to live, and I began my training.

AIESEC TRAINEES fill white-collar jobs and are made familiar with as many facets of the business organization as possible. The head of a specific department explains his job along with the jobs of the men under him.

After receiving a basic background I worked in each department for a few days. I spent most of my time in the accounting and IBM departments of the factory. I also visited four other Excelsior plants in other parts of Holland during the summer.

AIESEC Netherlands also provided eight tours of major interest points in the country, generally on Fridays. The tours were free to the 70 AIESEC students of which 30 were from the United States.

In addition to these tours, I also spent the weekends hitchhiking around Holland. On one long weekend I hitchhiked to Berlin. I entered East Berlin twice, once by tour bus and once on a bicycle.

After I completed my training I began a three-week tour with a friend by motor scooter. We traveled down the Rhine through the Italian Alps and followed the Mediterranean coast to Spain, then reversed our direction and traveled to Paris.

Experiences ranged from sleeping in the grape fields to watching the bull fights in Barcelona. I wish I were still there, and I am looking forward to going back.

Utility Companies Hear Power Plea

DES MOINES — An international agreement that will help even small communities to compete for power has been proposed to the Management Conference of the Utility Companies of Iowa.

By pooling their resources, Herbert said, the MAPP companies can distribute surplus electric power from one area to another where it is needed. Thus larger and more efficient generators can be built and large amounts of industrial electricity can be made available throughout the area at low cost per kilowatt hour.

A. H. Herbert, president of Minnesota Power and Light Co., Duluth, reported on the present status and future plans of the organization, known as MAPP — Mid-Continent Area Power Planners.

Swedish Chorus Sings Out

The National Swedish Chorus under the direction of Martin Lidstrom, will appear in the Main Lounge of the Union at 8 p.m. Friday, The Chorus participates in all Swedish major state and public functions and is being sponsored in the United States by the King of Sweden.

Selections from the works of Schubert, and Hayden and Scandinavian folk songs will be presented. Tickets are available at the East Lobby Desk of the Union.

Swedish Chorus Debuts Before SUI Friday

Seventy-five male voices will sing out in the Main Lounge of the Union at 8 p.m. Friday as the National Swedish Chorus makes its debut at SUI.

The Chorus, founded in 1888, has been one of the musical ornaments of Sweden since that time. It participates in all the major state and public functions including coronations, state funerals and official visits of heads of state. In addition to its programs in Stockholm's concert halls, it has made seven recordings.

Under the patronage of the King of Sweden, the chorus is currently making its third visit to the United States. SUI is one of 20 stops, including Carnegie Hall in New York City, on their tour. The Chorus first toured in America in 1906 and again in 1950.

The Chorus' extensive repertoire, numbered at more than 1,000 individual pieces, includes classical, baroque, romantic, folksongs and contemporary compositions. For its appearance at SUI, selections will range from the works of Schubert, Hayden and Brahms to Scandinavian folk songs and music of the 20th century.

Sociology Prof Advocates Establishing Police Academy

Caldwell Calls Punishment Necessary For Society

By DAVID HOYT
Staff Writer

Robert G. Caldwell, professor of sociology, has a suggestion for those who seek to reduce crime in America — re-emphasize the responsibility of the individual for his behavior.

Only by doing this, he believes, can the standards of society be maintained. "If people don't internalize and adhere to the values fundamental to our way of life then the controls we impose on them will be inadequate," Caldwell said.

The individual citizen must assume more responsibility with regard to moral values or the government will have to take the role of enforcing such standards," he said. "The government will then be in the position of telling people what is right behavior as well as what is wrong behavior. The individual will even lose his choice of correct behavior."

Therapy by itself is not enough for the individual who violates the standards set up by society, Caldwell said, since punishment is needed if both society and the individual are to be served. Also, he said, the standards of a community cannot be violated with impunity, without the standards losing their meaning.

"Courts and agencies of correction must act not only as therapeutic agencies," Caldwell said, "but as moral agencies in support of community standards."

Caldwell pointed out that people readily accept the need for rules in football and the justice of penalties when the rules are violated. Why then, he asked are the same people unable to appreciate the justice of punishment when the rules of society are violated?"

CALDWELL

"PUNISHMENT for serious crimes, Caldwell said, serves to protect the values of the group as well as satisfy the group's need for retribution."

Caldwell said he will include this re-emphasis on individual responsibility and the utility of punishment in a revision of his textbook, "Criminology," which will be published next spring. His views, he said, are not popular with people who feel that the criminal should receive therapy without punishment.

Lack of self-responsibility, Caldwell said, is a major factor in the American crime rate, which has increased five times faster than the population since 1958.

AS A PARTIAL answer to the crime problem in Iowa, Caldwell would like to see carried out:

First, he said, Iowa should have a police academy. Such an academy would be available to all police departments in the state and would aid in establishing uniform standards of police training. Also, the academy would serve as an information center for the dissemination of the latest police methods as well as a forum for the discussion of problem common to the various departments.

The logical place of the academy Caldwell said was Iowa City. Ideally police trainees would have use of University facilities and perhaps be able to take selected University courses.

Caldwell's second aim is to set up a graduate program leading to a master of science degree in corrections.

"THIS DEGREE," he said, "would involve not only the study of sociology but an interdisciplinary approach aimed at preparing the student for specialized work in the field of corrections."

Under the present program students major in sociology and concentrate in criminology at both the graduate and undergraduate levels. Caldwell has, however, made arrangements with the juvenile court in Cedar Rapids for seniors who are concentrating in criminology to sit in as observers while the court is in session.

To satisfy requirement for a master's degree with a concentration in criminology, the graduate student must serve a practical internship at one of the state's correctional institutions.

Most of these students travel to the Iowa State Men's Reformatory at Anamosa, during the school year. Caldwell said, because it is closest to SU. During the summer, however, some students have worked as guards full time at the Iowa State Penitentiary at Ft. Madison.

CALDWELL, who came to SU in 1949, is the author of three books on the history of prisons and other correctional institutions in Delaware in addition to his textbook which was first published in 1956. He also serves as a consultant in criminology to the Iowa State Board of Control for All Correctional Institutions.

In recognition of his contributions to the fields of criminology, Caldwell was appointed Senior Research Fellow for the year 1963-1964 by the University of Chicago School of Law.

75 SUlowans Plan For Homecoming

Faculty and student members of Homecoming subcommittees have been preparing since May for this year's 53rd annual celebration.

The Hawkeyes will battle the Purdue Boilermakers October 24. Plans for the weekend are the responsibility of the 1964 Homecoming Committee and its co-chairmen, Royce Beckett, professor of mechanics and hydraulics, and Jean James, A4, Iowa City.

THE TEN homecoming subcommittee members include three Iowa Citizens: Ray Bywater, Route 1, badge sales; Robert Bott, Woodlawn Apartments, parade floats; and Keith Kafer, Route 5, parade floats.

Faculty and students are: General Committee: Barbara Beiler, A2, Davenport, secretary.

BADGE: Richard Gibson, administrative assistant of student services; Cherrellyn Chuck, A3, Mason City, co-chairmen; Gardner Van Dyke, assistant director of admissions; Helen Reich, assistant director of student affairs; Gordon Wasinger, assistant director of instructional services; Wendle Kerr, associate professor of Pharmacy; Dianne Johnson, A3, Hampton; Dean Deeburg, A2, Bennett; John J. Murphy, A2, Cedar Rapids; and Alan B. Kotok, A2, Buffalo, N.Y.

PARADE FLOATS: Clifford Trinder, assistant controller of the Business Office; Dan Merta, A3, Cedar Rapids, co-chairman; Helen Foelt, counselor of women in student affairs; Joan Fee, A2, Denison; Sue Nelson, A2, Lakehurst; N.J.; Karen Cottrell, A3, Wilmett, Ill.; and Steve Rosenberg, A3, Des Moines.

BANDS: Ken Koopman, public relations director for University Hospitals; Bill Henderson, A3, Council Bluffs, co-chairmen; Fred Doderer, director of the personnel office; Arthur Kracht, trainee in Dentistry; Dave Bennett, A2, Cedar Rapids; Nancy Weaver, A2, Wapello; and Pat Parrott, A4, Danville.

PUBLICITY: Donald McQuillen, director of the News and Information service; David Kyner, A3, Waterloo, co-chairmen; Pamela Emerson, A3, Decorah; Dick Wilson; Jim Gaudineer, A3, Des Moines; Carolyn Dockstader, A4, Des Moines; Dianne Dunn, A4, Iowa City; and Carolyn Murphy, A3, Danville.

LABORATORY technician of speech pathology, chairman; and Gary Grey, A4, Rockford, Ill.

Miss SU: Loren Kottner, director of the Union, chairman.

Special Collections Librarian, said although it is difficult to keep track of the exact volume, there are over 2,000 cards in the social documents card catalog.

Palooka said almost all the material comes through the mail without solicitation. Special Collections personnel do not read or analyze the material; they only file and catalog it. Many of the documents are single sheet broadsides and many are put out by only one person.

Frank Palooka, head of Special Collections, said the chief purpose of this collection is to aid historians, economists and sociologists in pinpointing specific trends of thought in American history.

He said that so far the material has not been used extensively, but he said he expects it to grow more valuable in the future.

The collection was started in 1948, Palooka said SU's collection is "unique" and that within the last year he has received letters from the University of Arizona and the University of Kansas asking about the documents.

"It is probably the most complete collection in the United States," he said.

The documents chosen for the file are of special interest in a particular period in history. "Right now, there are a lot of serials about civil rights," Palooka said. "A couple years ago we had a flood of material about fluoridation. Now that has slowed down."

Serials, books, pamphlets and leaflets make up most of the collection. All in all it is stored in the form in which it is received. Ron-

Isaacs has been under fire for his financial interest in the Cook Envelope and Lithographing Co. while he was director of revenue.

In the statement, Isaacs asked that Gov. Kerner "delegate one or more persons to take over my immediate campaign duties."

"I must devote most of my attention," Isaacs said, "to presenting the facts to the grand jury in Sangamon County, to clearing my name and to correcting the smears and speculation that have been aired about me."

"I shall not resign as Gov. Kerner's campaign manager, nor has he asked me to do so."

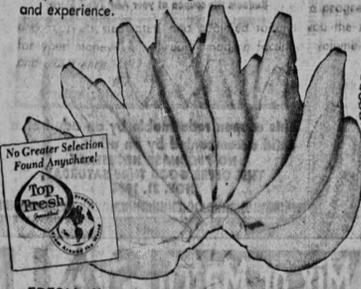

Tuesday, State Finance Director James Roman called for a study of contracts awarded to the envelope firm.

Roman, Democratic state chairman, said he asked the attorney general's office to "take a long, hard look" at contracts awarded in 1961 and 1963.

Sulowan Charged In Auto Accident
An SUI student Thursday was charged with failure to have his car under control following an accident in the 10 block of North Riverside Drive.
James H. Lowber, A4, Morrison, Ill., was charged after his car struck the center island, swerved across two lanes of traffic and went over the east embankment into a path of lilacs.
Lowber escaped injuries, according to investigating officers.

Warmer
Mostly fair and warmer through Friday night. Highs 55 to 60.

Voting Machines To Decide 4 Local Issues
The voting machines first used in Johnson County in the June primary will have "quite a ballot" on them in the November general elections according to Dolores A. Rogers, County Auditor.
Besides listing all the candidates for national, state and county offices, the ballot will have three questions to be decided by the voters. These are: the proposed amendment to the Iowa Constitution, the creation of a Johnson County Conservation Board, and the annexation of 5.64 square miles to Iowa City.
THERE WILL also be another question not printed on the machine ballot, Mrs. Rogers said. The question concerns whether Iowa City should sell its water company to Coralville. This will be on a paper ballot.
Most Johnson County voters are quite well acquainted with paper ballots. From the late 1920's until 1962, most voting in the county was done without the aid
