

Parking Problems Getting More Acute

By WOODY EARL
Staff Writer

The student parking problem at SUI is not new to the campus nor is SUI unique in the fact that it has a parking problem.

According to clippings in Daily Iowan files, parking has been a "thorn" in the side of SUI and Iowa City since 1950. That year the University appointed a Committee for the Administration of Parking Facilities to cope with the growing problem.

TODAY'S PARKING committee is a direct descendant of this early group.

According to DI records, this committee instituted a new parking lot system in 1956. This system was similar to the one now in use.

Students living within a zone or area close to the campus were allowed to park only in "open" parking lots. Those living outside this zone could apply for a special car sticker which entitled them to a parking place in an "on campus," "restricted" lot.

IN 1957, THERE were 10,254 students on campus driving approximately 4,852 automobiles. Several experiments aimed at alleviating some of the campus tie-up were suggested the same year.

The most unusual of these experiments was the implementation of a campus shuttle bus service for students and employees of the University. Two city buses were used. They ran simultaneously and at peak traffic periods in the morning and afternoon.

ONE BUS STARTED at the Field House and ended its run across Jefferson Street from East Hall with intermediate stops along the way.

The other started at East Hall and travelled to the Field House. The service was free to students and SUI employees.

In a month-long trial period the shuttle service lost $1,000. It was discontinued because it was "not utilized by a sufficient number of students to keep the cost on a selfliquidating basis," according to a Daily Iowan article.

ALSO IN 1957, A Student Senate committee studied the idea of building a parking ramp. This was deemed impractical because a ramp would have taken 30 to 35 years to pay for itself. Another student committee recommended a ban on freshman cars during the 1957 fall semester and a ban on sophomore cars during the 1958 fall semester.

This plan was shelved because of the difficulty of enforcing such a rule and the adverse feeling of the student body toward it.

Since 1957, the University has used for parking literally all available property it owns on the east side of the Iowa River. This property includes the Library parking lot, located on what used to be Iowa Field, and the newly constructed Union parking ramp.

R. L. Holcomb, chairman of the University Parking Committee and director of the SUI Bureau of Police Science, said the greatest problem connected with creating new parking locations is a "lack of funds." He estimated the cost of building parking facilities on the east side of the river would be at least $1,000 per parking space.

HE ADDED that just finding sites for parking lots is very difficult because of the campus being located in the heart of the Iowa City business district.

Pravda Blasts K For 'Dictatorship'

MOSCOW AP — Pravda, Nikita S. Khrushchev's former mouthpiece, threw the book at him Saturday.

The organ of the Communist party accused its ousted chief of "harebrained scheming, immature conclusions and hasty decisions and actions divorced from reality, bragging and phrase-mongering, commandism and unwillingness to take into account the achievements of science and practical experience."

The front-page editorial nowhere mentioned Khrushchev by name but there was no doubt about who was meant.

It said the Communist party opposed all these things and demanded "collective leadership" — exactly what Khrushchev insisted upon when he ruled the Soviet Union first in partnership with Georgi M. Malenkov and later with Nikita N. Bulganin.

Both those men fell victim to Khrushchev's relentless drive for power.

The editorial, first expression of party opinion since Khrushchev's downfall, said it was "irreconcilably and consistently opposing and continues to oppose the ideology and practice of the personality cult."

This was equivalent of accusing Khrushchev of dictatorship.

Informed sources said Friday that Khrushchev was ousted for nepotism — giving jobs to relatives and bad tactics in the bitter dispute with Red China.

Pravda, again without mentioning Khrushchev by name, said the Soviet Union could not "tolerate armchair methods, personal decisions and disregard for the practical experience of the masses."

Dolphin Tickets On Sale Monday

The life of a Dolphin probate is not always easy. One of the first ordeals he must endure is the traditional head-shaving ceremony prior to the annual Dolphin Homecoming show.

The largest amateur water show in the United States will be presented Oct. 22-24 at the Field House pool by the SUI Dolphin fraternity. Titled "A Grave Affair," the show will revolve around a horror theme.

General admission and reserved seat tickets for any performance will go on sale Monday at the Athletic Ticket Office, Whetstone and at a specially-constructed booth on the Pentacrest. General admission seating will be in the balcony and reserved seating on the lower levels.

First performance, designated as "Children's Night," is scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday. Children will be admitted at a reduced rate.

Friday's show will be held immediately after the Homecoming parade. Two Saturday performances are scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m.

One of the highlights of the exhibition will be a synchronized swimming performance by world champion Beulah Grundling. Other numbers include clown acts, comedy diving, aerial acrobatics, and swimming and diving exhibitions by the Dolphins.

Wilson Becomes Britain's Prime Minister Laborites Control After Narrow Win

LONDON (AP) — Labor Party leader Harold Wilson became Britain's prime minister Friday by virtue of a Laborite election victory so narrow as to jeopardize his chances for a stable administration.

At 48, he is Britain's youngest prime minister of the 20th century.

Wilson's side scraped home with a slim majority of seats in the House of Commons in a photo finish that ended 13 years of Conservative rule.

His edge over the combined opposition in the 630-seat House when all returns are in today apparently will be no more than four.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, 61, a former nobleman who headed the Conservatives, and appointed Wilson to form a new Cabinet from the ranks of the Laborites.

Doubts immediately developed whether Wilson, with his extremely thin edge, could long keep control of the newly elected House in this time of international and domestic ferment.

Wilson quickly began filling places in his cabinet. For the key post of foreign secretary, he named Patrick Gordon Walker, a party stalwart who failed to win election to Commons.

Walker, 57, a former history tutor at Oxford, is expected to run again in a special election in a safe Labor district from which an obliging incumbent would be asked to resign.

AS EXPECTED, Wilson named the deputy party leader, George Brown, 50, once Wilson's rival for power, as first secretary of state and minister for economic affairs. It is the second-ranking Cabinet post, and he will be acting prime minister when Wilson is away.

James Callaghan, 50, another rival to succeed the late Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell last year, became chancellor of the exchequer treasury. Denis Healey, 47, an advocate of an East-West disengagement in Europe, became defense minister.

In a three-minute television talk to the nation from his new office at 10 Downing Street, Wilson tried to dispel any fears his Labor government might be troubled from power because of its thin margin.

"I WANT to make it quite clear that this will not affect our ability to govern," he said. "There are serious problems to be dealt with, and we intend to deal with them."

Some analysts suggested Wilson would risk a quick fall from power if he applies too quickly and too thoroughly his party's policies on such controversial issues as the renationalization of the steel industry and the abandonment of Britain's separate nuclear deterrent.

But close associates advised him to push ahead. THE LABOR VICTORY could hardly have been narrower. With all but four of the 630 districts counted, the standing was:

Labor party — 316 seats, a gain of 56.

Conservative party — 303 seats, a loss of 55.

Liberal party — 7 seats, a gain of 1.

Others — none, a loss of 2.

Of the remaining four seats, two were expected to go to the Conservatives, one to the Labor party and one to the Liberals.

When all the results are recorded, Labor, on this basis, is expected to have 317 seats, against 313 for the Conservative and Liberal members together.

Though British Parliament members are elected for five-year terms, a prime minister and his Cabinet stay in power only so long as they control the House of Commons. Any revolt within the ruling party may give the opposition a chance to topple the government.

Red Chinese Explode First Atomic Bomb

TOKYO AP — Communist China exploded its first atom bomb Friday, and talked of peace. It said it wants all nations to agree to shun such weapons, but will develop its own stockpile.

The explosion of an atomic bomb in the vast tundra land of western China, coupled with and following the ouster of Nikita S. Khrushchev as Soviet premier raised Mao Tse-tung's stature in the Communist world and in the areas of Communist pressure, notably Africa.

IN A BROADCAST by New China News Agency, Peking declared: "China exploded an atom bomb at 15 hours (1 a.m. CST) on Oct. 16, 1964, and thereby conducted successfully its first nuclear test.

"This is a major achievement of the Chinese people in their struggle to increase their national defense capability and oppose the U.S. imperialist policy of nuclear weapons and develop nuclear weapons."

The United States confirmed that Red China had exploded a "low-yield" nuclear test. President Johnson cautioned, "Its military significance should not be overestimated."

He said many years and much difficulty will be required before the Chinese obtain a stockpile of nuclear weapons and a delivery capability.

PEKING'S announcement gave no indication whether the test blast was underground, at the surface, or in the atmosphere.

Candidates' Statements On School Legislation

Two candidates for the State Legislature issued statements Friday clarifying their views on state school legislation.

Robert J. Burns of Cosgrove, a candidate for the Senate, and Mrs. Minnette Doderer of Iowa City, a candidate for reelection to the House of Representatives, acted after publication in Friday's Daily Iowan of statements attributed to them that they said were erroneous.

Burns said: "I advocate removing the 7-mill limitation (on school bond issues) entirely. I do not think it is needed. We are protected enough by the 5 per cent bonded indebtedness provision of the constitution."

Mrs. Doderer said: "Friday's Daily Iowan story entitled 'Candidates Discuss Iowa School Problems' incorrectly stated my views. Without repeating the story, I would like to state my viewpoint on the three matters discussed at the meeting.

• "Iowa Public Employment Retirement Law — The maximum coverage should be increased from the present $4,800 to $5,400 in the next General Assembly. A professional investment staff should have the responsibility of investing the assets of this fund in order that public employees of Iowa (which includes all public school teachers) who pay into the fund can realize a greater return for their money."

This professional staff should also be authorized to invest a larger percentage of the fund in common stocks.

• "The 7-mill tax presently in force to pay principle and interest on school construction bonds should be eliminated. The 5 per cent Iowa constitutional debt limit and the 60 per cent majority vote required to pass all school bond issues are adequate protection for the taxpayers. Without the 7-mill restriction thousands of dollars could be saved in interest payments due to a more advantageous repayment schedule.

Soviets Bid For Friendly U.S. Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new rulers of the Soviet Union made a quick diplomatic bid Friday for friendly relations with the United States. President Johnson responded cordially, and cautiously opened the way for an eventual East-West summit meeting.

Acting on instructions from Moscow, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin called at the White House late Friday morning and told the President that the Soviet foreign policy of "strengthening peace, peaceful coexistence among countries with different social systems, and further relaxation of tensions" will stand unchanged despite the departure of Premier Khrushchev.

Johnson "welcomed this assurance," the President himself later announced in a statement, and said the Soviet government "could rely on the determination of the United States" to serve the cause of peace and international understanding.

Officials subsequently disclosed that Johnson also made clear to Dobrynin what he has said publicly on various occasions: that he is willing to go anywhere at any time and undertake any action which will advance the cause of world peace.

Second Runner-up was Linda Rush, A1, Council Bluffs, chosen from the Semi-Dress section. Janet Erb, A1, Cedar Rapids, the First Runner-up, was entered in the Campuswear division. Judges were Mrs. Maxine Matice and Howard Heathman, both of Cedar Rapids and Steven Richardson of Iowa City.

By Air Force, Pentagon Says

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Six white men the FBI identified as active participants in Ku Klux Klan affairs, were indicted by a Federal grand jury Friday on charges arising from alleged acts of intimidation and violence against Negroes in Georgia. The jury has been investigating the night rider slaying of Lemuel Penn, a Washington, D.C., Negro educator.

FBI AGENTS arrested three of the men in Athens. Two others were out on $25,000 bond each on conspiracy charges in connection with the slaying. The other man was in a Macon jail under federal custody unable to make bond.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified the men taken into custody as Denver Willis Phillips, 24, an Athens garage mechanic; George Hampton Turner, 32, a loom fixer in Athens; and Herbert Guest, 37, an Athens garage operator.

They were brought before U.S. Commissioner Girard W. Hawkins who set bond at $10,000 each for Phillips and Turner.

BOND OF $1,000 was set for Guest on an indictment charging violation of the National Firearms Act. He was free under $25,000 bond on the earlier conspiracy charge.

One of the indictments charged that Phillips, Turner, Guest and three other men arrested previously conspired to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate Negro citizens in the free exercise and enjoyment of the rights and privileges secured to them by the U.S. Constitution.

"It was a part of the plan and purpose of the conspiracy which included shooting, beating and killing Negroes, damaging and destroying property and pursuing Negroes in automobiles and threatening them with guns," the indictment said.

THE SECOND indictment charged Guest with possession of a shotgun less than 26 inches in length which had not been registered with the secretary of the Treasury or his delegate.

The FBI said conviction on this charge could result in a maximum sentence of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine.

Maximum penalty on the conspiracy charge is a $5,000 fine and a 10-year prison sentence.

Joseph Howard Sims, 41, and Cecil William Myers, 25, were cleared of murder charges filed by the state in a Superior Court trial Sept. 4 at nearby Danielsville.

THE STATE STILL is holding James S. Lackey, 28, who has not yet been tried on a charge of murder.

Penn, a lieutenant colonel in the Army Reserve, was returning to Washington with two other Army Reserve officers from Ft. Benning, Ga., where they had attended a two-week training course.

The other two officers were not hurt by the shotgun blasts. The FBI said two blasts were fired into Penn's car on a road about 23 miles northeast of Athens.

DAVENPORT MAN KILLED — DAVENPORT (AP) — William Charles Routsou, 50, of Des Moines, was killed Friday when he was pinned between an earthmoving machine and a truck on Interstate Highway 80 near Davenport.

On matters maritime, Johnson said the President was urging observation of the "Three E's economy, efficiency, and effectiveness — especially economy."

To promote economy in the maritime administration, Johnson said the operation has been geared to an incentive system.

Annexation problem:
no communication

SECOND GUESSING does not often change what has already been done, but it can be helpful for future events.

Because of the recent Coralville annexation of land to the south and west of Iowa City, Iowa City and the University now find themselves in compromised situations.

The annexation itself is not the thing that has rankled the Iowa City city council, civic leaders and the University. The protests are all being levied against the zoning of the annexed land to "heavy industrial" use.

This means that industry of any type, including such unattractive activities as junk yards, can be established in the annexed land.

At an informal meeting Tuesday of Iowa City council members, civic leaders and University representatives, Mayor Richard Burger pointed out to the group that the University would be affected more adversely than other groups. The Mayor advised that he consult with University officials on the matter so that the city and its major "industry" could work together toward a solution.

The University officially committed itself Thursday in a letter to the Coralville city council which strongly protested the annexation.

Ray Mossman, business manager for SUI and signer of the letter listed the reasons for the protest: long range expansion for the University which might involve acquisition of substantial land must be to the west, and the annexation means that SUI must deal with two municipalities concerning services, which would be inefficient, married student housing development is planned for the area near the Coralville annexation, which would be incompatible with heavy industry; and the University has always advocated a by-pass to the south and west of Iowa City, which might now be endangered.

These are all valid complaints on the part of the University, and it is no surprise that the protest is strongly worded. It is surprising, however, that the University statement says that the details of the annexation were learned for the first time at the Tuesday night meeting.

The primary problem is one of communication. Because they are so close, Iowa City, Coralville and the University must coordinate their planning efforts. Coralville is blatantly at fault here — the city has acted without consultation in this instance, and has refused to join the Johnson County Planning and Zoning commission.

Coralville's action is one of the reasons why such a joint commission is necessary, and the council is foolhardy to think that they can operate as an island, rather than a neighbor.

Perhaps the problem of the annexation could have been averted if the University had sought out the information before Tuesday evening. SUI has a strong bargaining position by virtue of its importance to the community in economic respects, as well as others.

The University certainly intends to use this position, as exemplified by the letter to the Coralville council, but earlier use might have prevented the present problem.

Thursday the Coralville mayor, the Iowa City mayor and Mossman met to discuss possible solutions, and a joint meeting of the two councils and perhaps SUI officials is expected soon.

These are the negotiations necessary to the solution of the annexation problem and hopefully Coralville will reconsider the implications of its actions.

General feeling at the Tuesday night meeting was that if Coralville would not cooperate, Iowa City would take whatever legal steps necessary to rescind the action, if any existed.

The long range solution that would prevent a repetition of the problem would be for Coralville to accept the two seats it was offered on the county planning commission.

When all three groups sit down to discuss what to do now, they should also consider preventive measures.

Isolationism as far as a next door neighbor is concerned is hardly a reasonable policy for city government.

Do-it-yourself—

How to run for U.S. President without really trying

By ART BUCHWALD

Every four years we put out a do-it-yourself Presidential Campaign Election Kit, which makes it possible for any person to pretend he is running for the highest office in the land.

This year we present one — one for those who want to run on the Democratic ticket and one for those who want to run on the Republican ticket.

The Democratic do-it-yourself kit comes with a Texas hat, a barbecue grill, a miniature television station, and two toy beagles.

The speech that comes with the kit is as follows:

"Thank you, Governor _____.
"Fellow Americans and citizens of the great state of _____.

"I am so happy to be in the beautiful town of _____. My wife _____ Bird and my daughters _____ Bird and _____ Bird remember with pleasure visiting here only _____ short years ago.

"We recall sharing the platform at that time with my dear friend from the Senate _____ who has done so much to make the _____ Society a reality. I'm also happy to be in the home town of my dear friend from the House of Representatives, good _____." (Wait for applause.)

"I want you to know, my friends, I need Senator _____ and Congressman _____ back in Washington and I know you're going to see that they get back there on election day. (Wait for applause.)

"Unlike my opponent, who is running on a platform of _____, and _____, I am running on my record of _____, and _____.

"The record of this Administration speaks for itself.

"Americans are earning _____ billion dollars more than they have ever earned before.

"Our national growth is now _____ per cent more than it was — year(s) ago.

"Unemployment is down — per cent and per capita income is up — per cent.

"In conclusion, I want to say that, while my opponents preach — and —, I love the — people, and the — people, and — people. Let us — —."

The Republican Presidential Campaign Kit comes complete with a ham radio set, a major-general's uniform and a pair of six-shooters.

"Ladies and gentlemen, —

Reader wonders where Christians were at recent Soapbox Soundoff

To the Editor:

In Wednesday morning's paper (Oct. 14) there was a picture on the upper right hand corner of page three captioned "Town Residents, Unite!"

I was at that meeting and believe me, the caption should have read "Destroyers of the American Ideal Unite!" Here, I am referring to the main context of last Tuesday's "Soap-Box Sound-Off," which was aimed at Conservatism with the ultimate implication that God and religion are reminiscent of little old ladies and "the horse and cart." At this meeting, the very idea of God was ridiculed and stomped upon in every possible way.

Churches serve as the visible means of worship so that the life of God — the concept of God as reflected in charity, justice, morality, etc. — can be actively transformed into our lives.

It was proposed that these churches be taxed which would be unconstitutional (according to Article I of the Bill of Rights, except in corporate cases where a definite profit is involved and in the instances of inheritances) due to the fact that most churches are run on an individual, parish basis which usually implies a very tight budget and often deficit spending.

Space does not allow adequate explanation to be made here, but the point is that Christians must oppose these atheistic, agnostic ideas. Where are the Christians at that meeting? I have been asking myself that question ever since. That is why this letter is necessary.

In parting, I will emphasize the fact that religion is communism's most formidable enemy. Religion implies freedom and human dignity and is the first facet of national life to be suppressed by communist regimes.

The most predominant dramatic quality that is inherently Tennessee Williams' is that vaporous murkiness which suffuses all his plays so that as we see them through fine mosquito netting. Heat is the element he uses to achieve this mood. I know of no Williams' play set in the parish house.

Yet John Huston and his camera crew do nothing to make this heat an important factor in this film. Perhaps the advertisements for this film led me to expect it would be in color, and certainly the tropical colors of the setting could have done more than Burton's sweaty brow in conveying heat to the audience.

Burton's portrayal of Shannon was marred by his constant contact with Sue Lyon, who by never revealing an inkling of motivation for her character and speaking each of her words with equal emphasis, gives the worst job of professional acting I have seen.

But Burton fails to show that Shannon has a compulsive sexual drive which originates with him alone and does not need to be activated by this persistent teenager. If Shannon is solely a victim of his circumstances, then the encouragement given him by Deborah Kerr does not make dramatic sense.

Motorcycle debate

Pro Con

To the Editor:

I was amazed at the level to which Prof. John O'Mara stooped in his attack on motorcycles in Saturday's Daily Iowan. The article was filled with half-truths and misconceptions leading to the ridiculous conclusion that motorcycle riding is like drug addiction. I did not think a college professor would go to this length, even to gain popularity and support for his unaffiliated Iowa City Safety Research Institute.

It is strange, for example, that in O'Mara's "research" he did not look up actuarial statistics. These show that the chances for an accident on a cycle are virtually identical to those for an automobile. Motorcycles are much more maneuverable, have unlimited visibility and superior brakes than the automobile. Their safety potential is limited only by the negligence of car drivers. Careless riders are in a minority, the main cause of the accidents stem from misjudgment and carelessness of car drivers.

Mr. O'Mara's charge for restrictions on motorcycles is unjust. Perhaps he and his group of researchers will next advocate that all sports cars be banned on similar grounds. We might end up only being able to register Ramblers.

Reds' Feat Raises Tension

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China, after traveling a long, rocky road to a nuclear test explosion, now can be expected to mount a diplomatic drive to become the nuclear club spokesman for a third world.

Peking's feat — no matter how long it will take to acquire stockpile and deliveries — is gloomy news for the West and the Soviet Union.

Not only is the development likely to increase tension between Moscow and the Red Chinese, but it also can step up the potential of the Peking regime for trouble-making.

Already, with the explosion of a nuclear device, Red China is in an enhanced position to pursue one of its major policy aims — creation of an "intermediate zone" — a third world — which it envisions as a bloc, regarding the Soviet Union and the United States with equal hostility.

The main direction of this drive is in Asia, Africa and Latin America, the so-called underdeveloped world, where Red Chinese diplomacy already is extremely active — and in some cases highly successful.

IN THE NONWHITE world, the impact of the feat will be heavy.

It is probable that what the Chinese did was accomplished without significant Soviet help. China's do-it-yourself drive toward the nuclear club's door began in earnest in 1958. Since then the drive brought increasing estrangement from Moscow, a widening rift in the world Communist movement and a quiet purge inside Red China involving both the party and the army.

As long ago as 1950, shortly after the revolution enveloped the China mainland, Peking's nuclear aspirations became a problem for Moscow. Though Joseph Stalin — for anti-Soviet propaganda purposes — was a bloc, regarding the Soviet Union and the United States with equal hostility.

In 1958, Soviet dictator seemed leery of the Peking's nuclear ambitions and suspicious of such potential power on the Soviet border.

It is probable that what the Chinese did was accomplished without significant Soviet help. China's do-it-yourself drive toward the nuclear club's door began in earnest in 1958. Since then the drive brought increasing estrangement from Moscow, a widening rift in the world Communist movement and a quiet purge inside Red China involving both the party and the army.

First District Candidate Sets Schedule

The campaign schedule for John R. Schmidhauser, First District candidate for Congress, has been announced for the week of Oct. 12-14.

Sunday, Schmidhauser will campaign in Johnson County and participate in the Junior Chamber of Commerce Candidate's Forum at 2:30 p.m. in the Chemistry Auditorium.

He will campaign in Des Moines County Monday.

Tuesday, Schmidhauser will participate in Candidate's Forum, sponsored by the Farm Bureau, at 8 p.m. in Williamsburg. He will also campaign in Iowa and Johnson counties during the day.

Schmidhauser will campaign in Henry County on Wednesday as a part of Democratic party sponsored "John Schmidhauser Day." He will speak in Keokuk in the evening.

Thursday, Schmidhauser will take part in Candidate's Night in Burlington, sponsored by the Burlington League of Women Voters. Campaigning in Muscatine, Louisa and Des Moines counties is also on Schmidhauser's agenda.

"But what happens?" he asked. "These top minds leave the state as soon as they receive their degrees. Unless we are prepared to compete with the other states, to invest and risk losing, we will never keep these students in Iowa."

"We have to be concerned as a whole state. The greatest wealth we have in Iowa is people and they produce wealth."

Hickerson also pointed out that too often the very people who have the means to help Iowa develop are not interested.

"The job ahead is to consolidate the voices of those who believe in the future of the state," he said.

According to Hickerson, the five keys to Iowa's future are economic diversity, a common concern for cultural resources, investment, vision and education.

"Whatever the importance of agriculture, the key to the future standard of living in Iowa will depend upon a diversity in our economy," he said. "We must also realize that we can't be concerned with just making a living. We have to be concerned with what we are contributing to the cultural aspects of the community."

Hickerson pointed out that vision provided the key to the willingness to invest. But vision is not enough. A question and answer period will follow. The public is invited.

in announcing are then given training in general announcing and interview methods.

In the past as many as 50 students worked part time at WSUI; now less than half that number are at the station. One station official said that it was much easier to work with a small, full-time staff than to have to constantly train a large number of students to professional proficiency.

BESIDES ITS USUAL fare of music and news, WSUI broadcasts two courses for college credit. This semester "History of Latin America" and "The Learner," a course in educational psychology, are offered.

Taped lectures of the history course are presented at 10 a.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday and the psychology lectures at the same time on Tuesday and Thursday. These courses are intended primarily for persons who are not regularly enrolled at SUI.

A recent survey of listening preference in Iowa City by James K. Buckalew, WSUI news director, found that University students generally listen to WSUI rather than to any other radio station. Classical music was the favorite type of program, followed by newscasts. Listeners preferred longer newscasts and indicated that they would like more newscasts than are currently presented.

SENSITIVE TO the needs of its audience, radio at SUI has changed, experimented and expanded.

In 1948 an FM station, KSUI, was initiated. This station presents programs of recorded music from 7-10 p.m. The station is at 91.7 megacycles on the FM band.

Last year a multiplex unit for stereophonic reproduction was installed to increase listening pleasure for owners of FM stereo sets.

Station director Menzer said that he hopes to lengthen WSUI broadcast time from the current schedule of 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday to schedule of 6 a.m. to midnight daily. Such a schedule, said Menzer, would require an additional six or seven staff members.

Menzer said WSUI serves as a public relations arm of the University.

WSUI also serves as a practical training facility for students interested in broadcasting. Any student who is interested in working at the station and who is able to satisfy audition requirements can become a part-time staff member. Persons interested

Freshmen Increase Hikes SUI Tuition

The primary cause of the tuition increase this year is the 1,557 extra freshmen according to Leonard R. Brcka, controller and University secretary.

The non-resident tuition increased $200 and the resident tuition increased $50 this fall.

"Our income," Brcka said, "comes primarily from State appropriations and student fees. If the appropriation does not fulfill our needs, we have to raise the tuition."

Brcka said the extra students required more instructors, more classrooms and facilities which last year's appropriation did not cover.

The student's tuition can be broken down into two principal groups, Brcka said, the general educational fund and the building and activities fund.

The general educational fund includes the budgets for the instructional departments, administration and student services.

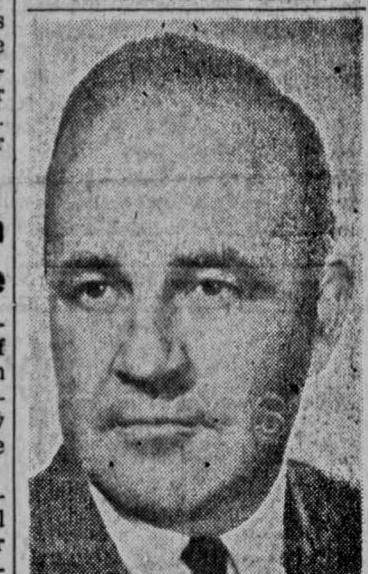

Two hundred seventy-eight dollars, out of the $340 of the resident tuition, and $708, out of the $770 of the non-resident tuition, are used for the general educational fund.

Brcka listed all other funds under the student activities and building fund. Sixty-two dollars is taken from both resident and non-resident fees. Twenty dollars of this fund is used for the building fee, $17 is used for the Union fund, $10 is used for the athletic fund, $5.40 is used for student publications, $2 is used for student hospitalization, and $7.60 is used for miscellaneous services.

Brcka said in comparison to the other Big Ten schools, the University of Illinois is the only school to have a lower non-resident tuition.

The data, Brcka said, is geared for comparison to SUI. He said in some schools the students have to buy athletic tickets or entertainment tickets aside from their tuition bill.

Badgers Have Won 2 in Row Over Iowa

By JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

Iowa ventures into Wisconsin today in an effort to beat the Badgers in Camp Randall Stadium for the first time since 1958.

No player on this year's Iowa team has been in a winning effort against the Badgers, and the seniors want this one badly.

IOWA WILL be trying to avenge a 10-7 loss last year in Iowa City. At the time, Wisconsin was rated the second best team in the nation. Iowa held them to 99 yards rushing behind the linebacking of All-American Mike Reilly.

Today's game has been sold out since mid-September. A crowd of 63,435 is expected to be on hand for the kick-off at 1:30 p.m. (CST).

Wisconsin (1-2) beat Kansas State in their first home game. Since then they have lost to Notre Dame, 31-7, and to Purdue last week, 28-7.

Iowa will be seeking its fourth straight victory after beating Idaho, Washington and Indiana.

THE BADGERS survived the Purdie game with no serious injuries. Various minor injuries were reported, none likely to keep anyone out of action against Iowa.

Wisconsin's running attack, is paced by sophomore left halfback Tom Jankowski, who picked up 54 yards in 16 carries against Purdue.

His top effort was a 14-yard end run in the fourth period, which was the longest by the Badgers this year.

JANKOWSKI'S 54 yards equaled senior right halfback Ron Smith's output in 15 carries against Kansas State on September 19.

During the Purdue game Jankowski might have netted more yardage, but was thrown for losses totaling 10 yards, seven of them on an option pass play.

He also caught one pass for 26 yards that moved the Badgers deep into Purdue territory in the second period, setting up Harold Brandt's 24-yard swerving aerial to end Jimmy Jones, netting Wisconsin's only score of the game.

WISCONSIN'S rushing attack has been held in check the past two games after the Badgers had rushed for 142 yards in 44 carries against Kansas State. They lost a 31 yards in their 31-7 loss to Notre Dame and could only net 48 yards against Purdue.

Lack of a consistent running attack has served to blunt Wisconsin's passing game which has netted 142 yards against Kansas State, 23, against Notre Dame and 99 yards against Purdue.

Today's game will be Iowa's 23rd appearance at Madison since the series began in 1894. The Badgers have won 16 of the previous 22 games played in Camp Randall Stadium since 1917. Iowa won in 1958, behind Randy Duncan by a 20-9 score. The Badgers won in 1959 by a 25-16 score and in 1962, 42-14.

In THE 1959 game, Iowa quarterback Olen Treadway threw 41 passes, completing 26 for 304 yards. The Badgers will face another top passing quarterback today in Gary Snook.

Quarterbacks — Gary Snook, Mickey Moses and Dave Bonior.

Halfbacks — Dalton Kimble, Gary Simpson, Karlin Ryan, Dave Moreland, Bob Sorenson, Craig Nourse, Tom Knutson and Richard Gibbs.

Flankers — Karl Noonan and Curt Vande Walle.

Linebackers — Del Gehrk, Dan Hilsabeck and Richard Hendryx.

Roving backs — Ivory McCowell, Terry Ferry, Russell Ferance and Alvin Randolph.

Team manager — Bill Johnson.

Cross Country Opens Today

By BILL PIERROT
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa's cross country squad will be operating far below full strength when it opens its season at Wisconsin today.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer reports that his three best men are still slowed with injuries and will probably not run. Bill Reyes, Sioux City, has not fully recovered from a knee injury, and Kenneth Messer, Des Moines is out of action because of an infection in his knee. Also slowed with a knee injury is Kenneth Koester, West Union. He received a gash on his knee early in September and just started working out this week.

If Koester doesn't start, Derrick Williams, A3, Mt. Vernon probably will. The other starters on the seven man team will be lettermen Larry Sheets, senior from Grotto, Conn., and Lee Walker, A4, Rose Hill; Steve Tiernan, a junior college transfer from Mason City, and sophomores Pete MacDonald, Kameo, Hawaii, Ted Brubacher, Mt. Vernon, N.Y., and Don Rindenech, Marion.

Cretzmeyer said that MacDonald, Brubacher, and Tiernan had posted the best practice, around 21 minutes for the four mile course.

He added that it is hard to set an exact time on a cross country run because no two courses are exactly the same length.

Wisconsin should provide very tough competition for the Hawks, as they have basically the same team they had last year, according to Cretzmeyer. The Badgers placed second in the Big Ten meet then, behind Michigan State.

In a triple dual meet last Saturday, Wisconsin beat Indiana and was beaten by Michigan State.

City High 33, E. Moline 0

By MARLIN LEVISON
Staff Writer

City High proved worthy of its number three ranking in the state Friday night by running rough shod over East Moline, 33 to 0.

The Little Hawks scored at least one touchdown in every quarter, and never met any noteworthy resistance from the Panther defense.

The Hawkettes first six points came at the end of a 70-yard drive on a six yard pass from Tom Cilek to Nile Williamson.

An intercepted pass and fumble of a kickoff, the Little Hawk eleven set up their two second quarter scores. Dennis Frederick, stole the stray pass on the East Moline 48, and six plays later, Iowa City's fullback, Nile Williamson, plowed over from six yards out for the goal. The extra point was good. On the following kickoff, Jack Mathes fell on the loose ball on the Panther 47. With 2:36 remaining in the quarter, Tom Cilek scored from the one on a quarterback sneak. Bob Martin again completed the extra point attempt giving Iowa City a 20 to 0 half time edge.

After three exchanges of the ball, and with 1:35 remaining in the third quarter, Cilek hit a nine yard pass to left end Allen Stelphus, standing unnoticed in the end zone. The PAT attempt failed.

Tom Barbati, a defensive standout throughout the evening, recovered a fumble in East Moline's end zone, for their final counter. Steve Darling's conversion was good.

M-Prairie 40, U-High 26

Mid Prairie scored 26 points in the second half to easily defeat U-High to 26, Friday night.

John Halvorsen scored two TDs for U-High, a two yard plunge in the first half and on a 33 yard pass from Steve Koser in the last half.

U-High's other TDs were scored on a one yard plunge by Pat Luther and a 33 yard pass from Koser to Joel Michaelson.

U-High picked up 237 yards, 73 rushing and 214 passing. Mid Prairie collected 385 total yards, 367 rushing and 18 passing.

Regina 33, North Scott 6

The Regina Regals snapped a game losing streak by capturing a 33-6 Homecoming game victory from the North Scott Lancers here Friday night.

After a scoreless first quarter, Bill McGuire caught the first of three touchdown passes thrown by Regal quarterback John Wombacker. The play covered 35 yards.

Harry Frantz scored from the one yard line in the third quarter to give Regina a 13-6 lead. Then the Regals exploded for 20 points in the fourth quarter on a one yard toss from Steve Koser and TD strikes of 6 and 18 yards to McGuire and Ron Miller.

The lone North Scott touchdown was a two yard pass caught by John Shannon in the second quarter.

Wombacher completed 18 of 35 passes for 249 yards, giving him 1,248 yards in six games this season, and setting a new school record.

John Hankinson is the gutsy, scrabbler who has had seven receiving. Against Northwestern last week, he threw once on first down on his own 28 for 66 yards and later came back with a 50 yard toss with a 3rd down and nine on his own 11.

Schmidhauser Blasts Foe For Attacks on Integrity

"My opponent is continuing his desperate attempts to escape responsibility for his negative voting record by making personal attacks on my integrity," John R. Schmidhauser, first district Democratic candidate for Congress, said Wednesday.

He said his opponent, Congressman Fred Schwengel, recently denied his opposition to water and air pollution control legislation.

"He tried to villify me by inaccurately asserting that I would be a rubber stamp for the Johnson Administration and at the same time implied that he had always supported the Kennedy water pollution legislation," Schmidhauser charged.

He said Schwengel opposed a water pollution abatement bill in 1959 that would have helped Iowa communities construct waste treatment plants and in 1961 voted against Kennedy's water pollution control legislation.

"In fact," Schmidhauser continued in September, 1964, at the very time that Schwengel was claiming a positive record on water pollution, he cast an additional negative vote against a vitally needed bill to regulate the use of deadly pesticides which have destroyed valuable fish and wild life resources."

The Hawkeye Marching Band show that delighted thousands of spectators at the SUI-Washington football game in Iowa City Oct. 3 will be presented for fans at the Iowa-Wisconsin game today at Madison.

Featuring top trumpet Carl (Doc) Severinsen as guest soloist, the band will furnish both pre-game and half-time entertainments.

An NBC staff musician, Severinsen is known for his frequent solo appearances with Skitch Henderson's orchestra on NBC's "Tonight Show."

Pre-game routines by the Hawkeye band will include a solo twirling number by Bobbie Jean Foulkes, A2, Des Moines.

Congressman Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) said in Davenport Wednesday he feels a day should be set aside each year and adequately reminded of what free enterprise means.

Schwengel said his bill to designate the first Monday in October each year as Free Enterprise Day has gained popular support and he expects Congress to pass it next session.
