Hoover Burial at Birthplace

Today's News Briefly

THE IOWA SUPREME Court Tuesday refused to interfere with the scheduled hanging Nov. 12 of Leon Tice Jr., 23, of Council Bluffs.

The rejection by the court leaves Tice, now on death row at the State Penitentiary, with 30 days in which to petition the Supreme Court.

If he does so, it would be up to Gov. Harold Hughes to set a new execution date. Hughes opposes capital punishment, and by law can commute the death sentence to life imprisonment if he wishes.

MILITARY MEN WILL keep a powerful hand in the Government of South Viet Nam under a provisional constitution released Tuesday as a step toward civilian rule.

The constitution, drafted by the 17-man High National Council, sets up a security council including high brass with broad authority to handle military affairs of this Communist menaced nation.

GOV. HAROLD HUGHES Tuesday proclaimed a month of mourning in Iowa in memory of Iowa-born Herbert Hoover, former President who died at the age of 90.

All Iowans were urged by Hughes to attend memorial services of their choice during this period to "honor the memory of this great leader, humanitarian and statesman."

He said the flag of the State of Iowa will be flown at half-staff during the mourning period.

NATIONALIST CHINA was seated Tuesday in the 13th general conference of the United Nations Education, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) despite stiff opposition from the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries.

After hot debate, a roll call approved the Nationalist delegation, but by a smaller margin than in similar voting at the last meeting.

FORMER PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. Eisenhower says he believes "there is more likelihood that we will feel heavier pressures" as a result of the expulsion of Nikita Khrushchev as head of the Soviet Government.

"We should be more watchful rather than more complacent about what has happened," he added.

Eisenhower said he has not reached any "real conclusions" about the dramatic developments in Moscow. He also stressed that he was not speaking on the basis of any intelligence briefings. "We are just speculating here among ourselves," he said.

NAZI MASS MURDERERS still unknown stand a good chance of getting off free if they can lie low for another six months.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard has said he would find it intolerable if Nazi crimes go unpunished and outside pressure has been exerted to keep the hunt going. But the end may come next spring.

GOP Film To Blast Morals

WASHINGTON — A group backing Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for president has purchased television time for a half-hour film that includes strip tease artists, girls in topless bathing suits and street rioting.

Its aim: "to depict the moral decay which has occurred in this country," Russell Walton, publicity director of Citizens for Goldwater-Miller, said Tuesday.

The film is scheduled for showing Thursday at noon (Iowa City) America is shocking."

Time over the National Broadcasting Co. network. However, Walton said, some segments of the film may be "stamped" by NBC officials — that is, partially obscured by X mark. He said they include the shots of a girl in a topless bathing suit and a strip tease performer in a New Orleans' Mardi Gras celebration.

Walton described the 30-minute film as "shocking, because we believe what is happening today in America is shocking."

Attacks Stop, Khrushchev Under Arrest

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Reports from Moscow Tuesday said Nikita Khrushchev was under house arrest in sight of the Kremlin towers but that the new Soviet rulers had called off their attacks on his performance as premier.

A Communist correspondent for a Danish newspaper said adverse reaction from most European Communist parties had forced the Kremlin leaders to call an abrupt halt to the anti-Khrushchev tirade.

The Communist newsman and a Liberal Copenhagen correspondent quoted informants as having said Khrushchev, whose political downfall was announced Friday, had been moved with his wife, Nina, into a four-room flat near the Kremlin.

Peter Schaeffer, correspondent of the Danish Communist newspaper Land Og Folk, reported that Khrushchev had offered to resign last February when he was voted down on a technical point in the Central Committee.

According to the Communist correspondent, Khrushchev had demanded prompt publication in Pravda of a major address in the committee by Mikhail A. Suslov, party theoretician.

"During the vote Khrushchev was in a minority. A majority wanted first to negotiate with the Chinese leaders," he added. "This was done, through bilateral contacts, and through a Romanian delegation which went to China around that time. As is well known, these negotiations in Peking ended with no result and then Suslov's address was published."

Schaeffer added in the February session Khrushchev reportedly had considered the voting a vote of no confidence in his policy and therefore he said he was willing to resign, offering two alternatives.

ROTC To Assist Rites

Representatives of the Fifth Army Staff in Chicago are scheduled to be in Iowa City today to establish headquarters in the Reserve Center to coordinate arrangements for the burial of former President Herbert Hoover in West Branch Sunday.

Staff officers of the SUI Reserve Officers Training Corps Program have been asked to provide escort services during the services.

West Branch Mourns Silently

WEST BRANCH — While the flag in front of the Herbert Hoover birthplace flew at half staff, people here went about their business, now and then stopping to chat about the loss of their leading citizen.

A sign on one store door read "Closed in respect of Mr. Hoover," but most other businesses were open as usual.

A house mover complained that he was ready to move a house, but that it would mean disrupting power and telephone service at the Hoover Library, so library officials wouldn't let him do it.

In the Hoover Park, where burial will take place on Sunday, preparations were being made. A large double concrete grave was being poured in the "Overlook" area of the park which had been landscaped for use as Mr. Hoover's final resting place.

THE SITE overlooks the park and Hoover Library, dedicated by Mr. Hoover during his last visit to West Branch on Aug. 10, 1962.

Mr. Hoover's wife, the former Miss Lou Henry, who died in 1944, will be interred with him in West Branch.

In a nearby shelter telephone crews worked to provide special telephone facilities for the graveside ceremony.

THE PEOPLE of West Branch were not shocked, but they were sobered by the news.

"We realize that with his age and condition, it had to come,"

Regents Meet To Discuss Expansion

Plans for expanding and financing Iowa's three state institutions of higher education will be discussed today in a special meeting of the Board of Regents at 1 p.m. in the Union.

The Regents will meet with the presidents of SUI, Iowa State, and the State College of Iowa this afternoon before starting their official monthly meeting Thursday.

The three presidents were directed by the Regents to make a study of future needs of their institutions at the September meeting of the board in Des Moines.

At that meeting J. W. Maucker, president of SCI, pointed out that drastic increases in enrollment in the next few years would take special planning and probably new means of financing building programs.

He said it might be possible for the colleges to expand adequately over the next 10 years with only legislative appropriations — if the growth was spread evenly over the decade. Estimates point to a sharp rise in enrollment followed by a leveling off period.

The Regents will take up their monthly agenda Thursday and Friday. They are also expected to conduct some business here Saturday morning.

Included in Leikvold's recommendations was a request that the commission meet twice instead of once a month — on the second and fourth Tuesdays, to alternate with the council meetings.

The City Manager also suggested that the documents for the commission be sent directly to it, bypassing the council, wherever permitted by law.

The Planning and Zoning Commission, if it accepts Leikvold's recommendations, would also refuse to accept any further business from its agenda 24 hours before the next meeting. It would also refrain from sending all petitions to subcommittees and would act immediately upon routine matters.

Ex-President Died Tuesday At Age of 90

Interment Sunday At West Branch Home Near Iowa City

NEW YORK (AP) — Herbert Clark Hoover, the 31st president of the United States, died Tuesday at the age of 90, his magnificent old heart finally overwhelmed by the demands of a body enfeebled by long illness.

The end came quietly at 11:35 a.m. in Mr. Hoover's Waldorf Towers suite high above Manhattan, on a bleak, gray autumn day. He was in a deep coma — a merciful sleep that shielded him from any final agony. A massive internal hemorrhage occurring last Saturday began his final illness.

With his passing, a nation mourned a man who won its respect and admiration anew after having been turned out of the White House in 1932 by an electorate that blamed him for America's great depression.

ONLY ONE other President in this century was refused re-election by the voters. He was William Howard Taft, a Republican like Hoover, who was defeated in 1912 after a single term in office.

Hoover outlived by a little over six months the man who was his Army chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The latter drove the bonus marchers out of Washington in 1932 in one of the most controversial episodes of Mr. Hoover's Administration. An army of unemployed, the marchers had descended on Washington demanding cash bonuses for World War I service.

While in the White House for 1929-33 Mr. Hoover's public image was that of an austere chief executive, sober faced and silk hatted. Those were the grim days of the breadlines, when the nation's mills and forges lay idle and smokeless, when the unemployed sold apples on the street. The theme song of the period was "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"

ACTUALLY, while a shy man in public, Mr. Hoover in private was a buoyant individual, whose conversation sparked with whimsical humor and witty sarcasm.

An associate recalled: "I never heard him say an unkind word about any individual. He would never attack a person as a person. He attacked only principles and policies. His greatest pleasure was in his friendships."

A prodigious worker, Hoover's energy was a constant source of amazement to his aides, even as the years overtook him. They called him "the chief" — an accolade based on his service as chief of operations during America's humanitarian efforts of World War I.

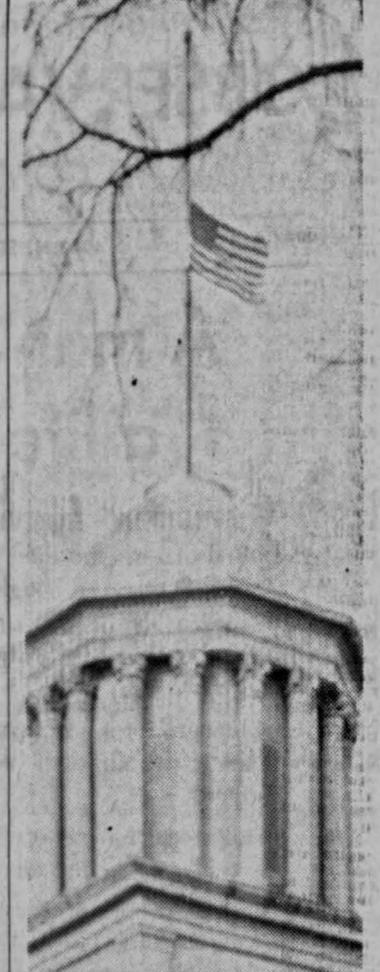

MR. HOOVER'S first paid job in his native Iowa was picking potato bugs at a penny a hundred. Later, as a mining engineer, he amassed a personal fortune estimated at $6 million. In the White House he turned every dollar of his presidential salary over to charity or public service. He did the same with the $25,000 yearly pension voted former Presidents in 1958 by Congress.

Mr. Hoover's death reduced the number of living former presidents to two, Democrat Harry S. Truman and Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower. Hoover served them both as head of commissions for the economical reorganization of the government. Savings estimated at $3 billion a year were the result of his efforts.

Mr. Hoover's body will lie in state for two days at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church on Park Avenue. Then it will be taken to Washington for a service in the rotunda of the Capitol, where another president, the assassinated John F. Kennedy, received funeral honors only 11 months ago.

BURIAL WILL BE in a national park on the site of a small cottage where Mr. Hoover was born in West Branch, Iowa, in 1874 — destined to become the first American president from west of the Mississippi River.

LBJ Announces 30-Day Mourning

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proclaimed today a 30-day period of mourning for former President Herbert Hoover.

He directed that the American flag be flown at half staff at the White House, on all buildings, grounds, and naval vessels of the nation and at embassies and other facilities abroad.

The proclamation was addressed to the people of the United States.

"It becomes my sad duty," the President said, "to announce officially the death of Herbert Hoover, the 31st President of the United States on the twentieth day of October, nineteen hundred and sixty-four at 11 o'clock in the morning."

Mr. Hoover Will Return To Iowa Home

WEST BRANCH (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover will be returned to the land he loved Sunday for a final resting place on a quiet, tree-shrouded slope near his birthplace.

The Iowa orphan who became one of the world's most famous and successful men will be buried in a grave at the grounds on the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library here.

The body of his wife, Lou Henry, will later be placed near Hoover. She died in 1944 and now is buried in California.

Mr. Hoover, who died at the age of 90 Tuesday in New York, was born in a small cottage Aug. 10, 1874.

He last visited his home in August 1962 when he celebrated his 88th birthday and dedicated the Presidential Library.

Graveside services will be held about 2:40 p.m. Sunday in what officials of the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Foundation described as "quiet and simple ceremonies."

Details of the services were worked out more than a year ago by friends and members of his family after he became critically ill in June 1963.

A list of about 365 friends, colleagues, Government leaders and associates was prepared and a telegram was sent to them Tuesday by the Executive Committee of the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Foundation, telling them that Mr. Hoover's family hoped they could attend the final ceremonies.

A military farewell will be given the former Chief Executive, who will also be paid final tributes in New York and Washington before the body is flown to Iowa.

Mr. Hoover had said he wanted to be buried near his birthplace, and plans were already drawn for an Iowa City firm to begin digging the grave when notified of the former President's death.

The pipe-smoking Iowan left his native land for Oregon when he was 10, and he rarely returned until he came back when he was 64 and the Republican presidential nominee in 1928.

After his election, he often visited the state to see friends, make speeches or accept honors.

He was one of the world's best known fishermen in addition to the honors he won as an engineer, humanitarian and Government leader.

In 1963 he published a book entitled "Fish for Fun" and once was quoted as saying that the reasons so many Presidents became fishermen was that ". . . the public only yields privacy to officials of that kind in fishing and prayer — and they can't pray all the time."

Mr. Hoover often was cited as an example of an American boy who came from humble circumstances and went on to win fame and fortune.

A man of service, a life of work 29

HERBERT HOOVER, the 31st President of the United States, who died Tuesday, will be buried in West Branch Sunday. Although Hoover left his Iowa hometown in 1884, when he was 10 years old, West Branch and the former President have always regarded it as home.

For the second time in the past 12 months, the nation will mourn for a president and the riderless horse and flag-draped caisson will ceremoniously lead the funeral cortège.

But the funeral of President Hoover will not contain the tragedy that President Kennedy's did.

The people of West Branch and the nation will be saying a gentle farewell to a man who devoted the major part of his life to serving his country.

Hoover's performance as president was often criticized, but the discussion will now be relegated to the history books. In his lifetime, Hoover maintained a busy work schedule until illness incapacitated him.

He served as Secretary of Commerce, at which time he provided the impetus for aiding the Belgium orphans of World War I. Flour sacks decorated by the Belgium children are displayed in the Hoover museum library in West Branch.

Hoover was the first president born west of the Mississippi, the only Iowan ever to become President, an avid baseball fan and an often critical observer of political affairs.

From the time of Woodrow Wilson to that of Dwight Eisenhower, excluding the years of Franklin Roosevelt's term of office, Hoover served the public and the world, one of his great concerns being world food supplies after both World Wars.

Hoover was not without critics during his life; he will not be without mourners at his death, from the farmers at West Branch to the Belgium orphans.

Hoover's place in history

Herbert Hoover's place in history was the speculative subject of this cartoon by Jay (Ding) Darling, Pulitzer Prize winning cartoonist. Darling, who died in 1962, was the cartoonist for the Des Moines Register from 1906 until his retirement in 1949. Darling designed the panel of cartoons that decorate the front of the SUI Library.

—The World's Praise— Sympathy, Tribute At Hoover's Death

NEW YORK — The sympathies of the nation and the world poured out Tuesday at the death of former President Herbert Hoover.

Words of praise for the accomplishments of his long life and laments at his passing came from heads of state and the man in the street.

President Johnson, who during the weekend had telephoned the hotel-apartment where the 90-year-old former Chief Executive lay dying to inquire about his condition, said:

"WE HAVE lost a wise American, and the world has lost a humanitarian citizen to all mankind."

The hundreds of messages of condolence to the Hoover suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel testified to how he had overcome the blame once laid to him for the depression of the 1930s.

Leaders of both political faiths mourned his passing and praised him for the many had opposed in the political arena.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, described Mr. Hoover as "one of those rare individuals who lived to hear the overwhelmingly favorable verdict of history on his career."

MAYOR ROBERT E. WAGNER of New York pointed to Mr. Hoover's "unwavering dedication" to duty which he said made him "devoted to those principles in which he believed."

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York said the man of our century saved so many human beings from starvation."

suite and she was buried in California. However, with the death of her husband, her body will be brought to West Branch to rest beside his.

With Mr. Hoover when he died were his two sons, Herbert Jr. and Allan Henry.

His life had spanned 90 years and two months. Only one other president lived longer. He was John Adams, the nation's second chief executive, who was 90 years and eight months old when he died.

Presidents Meet

Former Presidents Truman and Hoover found time to chat during the dedication of the Hoover Library on Hoover's 88th birthday. Truman joined his old friend for the ceremonies August 10, 1962.

Receives Honorary Degree

On his 80th birthday, Hoover received an honorary degree from SUI in West Branch, the first degree presented off-campus. SUI President Virgil Ham-cher presented the Doctor of Laws degree to the former President, who earned his degree in engineering from Stanford.

Each Was 'Last Time' —

Former President Appeared At Several GOP Conventions

When Hoover visited his birthplace at West Branch, Iowa, on his 88th birthday in 1962, a crowd of 30,000 hailed him.

"One of America's great men," former President Harry S. Truman called him.

With the kindly humor that characterized his mellow years, Hoover replied to the praise heaped on him:

"Much overstatement has been made here today and it would take too much time to refer to all of it. But I'll simplify it for you by saying it's all true."

A tall, pipe-smoking man, Hoover had remained remarkably robust until a series of recent afflictions. He maintained that a man should not "retire without some occupation."

He served as a director or trustee of 12 educational and scientific institutions, and took part in numerous fund-raising drives.

An enthusiastic fisherman, he published a book in the spring of 1963 entitled "Fish for Fun."

He had been working on a history of the years since 1930. His

"Magnum Opus," he called it. Once, offering his view as to why so many presidents and prime ministers became fishermen, he said:

"I conclude that the reason is that the public only yields privacy to officials of that kind in fishing and in prayer — and they can't pray all the time."

Cries of "No! No!" came from the crowd. The clamor delayed the start of his speech several minutes.

He called for a rebirth of American pride and honor from inroads of cynicism.

Weakened by illness and old age, he sent a message to the 1964 Republican National Convention which was read by U.S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. In it, Hoover said "at recent conventions I have given you assurance that this is my last appearance. But this is really it."

On Aug. 10, 1962, Hoover participated in the dedication of the Hoover Library in his home village of West Branch, Iowa.

Among the special guests were SUI President Virgil Hancher, Admiral Lewis Strauss and Hoover's sons, Herbert Jr. and Allen.

On an earlier visit to West Branch on Aug. 10, 1954, Hancher conferred an honorary doctor of laws degree during ceremonies celebrating the former President's 80th birthday. This was the first SUI degree to be presented off campus.

During the same visit, Hoover dedicated the new Iowa City Herbert Hoover elementary school, the 32nd in the nation to be named in his honor. At that time, Hoover said: "There is no more honor that can come to a man than to have a school named after him."

LATER IN the day, Hoover presented SUI with 175 publications of his addresses, reports and other papers, along with 20 books and pamphlets.

The 175 publications touched on his works as Chairman of the Committee for Relief to Belgium, U.S. Food Administrator during World War I, U.S. Secretary of Commerce and as President.

Hoover's first visit to Iowa after he had moved to California in 1934 was in 1937 when he, a 22-year-old mining engineer, stopped for a day at his birthplace enroute to England.

He returned to West Branch a second time in 1923 and again in 1928 where he staged his Presidential campaign kickoff.

DURING the one-day stop, Hoover ate breakfast in his former home, visited the Old Capitol in Iowa City, toured boyhood sites such as the "old swimming hole" and delivered a nationwide speech.

His next homecoming was on Aug. 10, 1948, where he celebrated his 74th birthday. On that day he gave a nationwide speech in which he described the soul of America as "freedom of mind and spirit in man."

Iowa Native Worked Way To Highest Office in U.S.

Former President Herbert Clark Hoover died at the age of 90 in his New York apartment Tuesday after a long illness.

Hoover's condition took a turn for the worse Saturday when he was stricken with a "sudden and massive internal hemorrhage from the upper gastro-intestinal tract."

A medical bulletin two hours before his death said Hoover had lapsed into a "deep coma" from which he could not be revived.

His condition then was described as "terminal."

Hoover, once a tall, rugged pipe-smoking outdoorsman, displayed indomitable courage in another arena of life as, during the past 26 months, he fought against one serious illness after another.

His ordeal began in the summer of 1962 when he withstood an operation for abdominal cancer. Then came sieges of anemia, internal bleeding, kidney hemorrhages and a respiratory infection.

Not for 17 months had Hoover been able to leave his 31st-floor apartment, which he once described as his "comfortable monastery." His last public appearance was in May 1963, when, against doctors' orders, he spoke at a reception for Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr.

Hoover had been a widower for 20 years. His wife, the former Lou Henry, died of a heart attack in their Waldorf-Astoria apartment in 1944. The Hoovers had been married for 44 years.

On Hoover's 88th birthday, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said in a telegram:

FEW MEN IN our country's history have been privileged to serve the nation in so many important capacities as have you, and certainly none has done so with greater brilliance and devotion.

Hoover was born in West Branch on Aug. 10, 1874. He was the son of a blacksmith, and was orphaned at the age of 10. He worked his way through Stanford University, and became a successful mining engineer.

Hoover went to China after graduation, as a mining engineer, in the employment of the Chinese Government, but he had to leave when the Boxer Rebellion broke out a year later.

In the Presidential election of 1928, Hoover became the first president born west of the Mississippi, the first engineer President, since George Washington, and the first Republican to break the Democrat's legendary hold on the South.

DURING HOOVER'S term of office, the prosperity bubble burst, and the nation was hit by its worst depression. Because of this he became the target of much criticism, but he won widespread respect and admiration in his later years for service to the country.

Every dollar of Hoover's salary for government service was dedicated to charity. He served for eight years as Secretary of Commerce, and for four years as President, and even gave away the $25,000 annual pension voted to former Presidents by Congress.

"I have made it a practice to devote all personal compensation derived from our Government to such purposes," Hoover said, and cited "a great debt to my country."

Long after his term, in 1952, Hoover wrote in an article for Collier's magazine, that World War I, and not the stock market crash, was the primary cause of the Depression.

Hoover went to Europe in 1938, to discuss social and political matters with executives from 14 foreign countries. When he returned he warned of the rise of collectivism, and the impending war. He urged preparedness, but opposed America's entry into a European conflict.

BEFORE THE Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Hoover delivered many addresses in violent opposition to America's entry into the war, but after the attack, he issued a statement calling for full support for President Roosevelt, and for a united nation to fight for victory. "American soil has been treacherously attacked by Japan," he said, "Our decision is clear, it is forced upon us. We must fight with everything we have."

Once when a sixth grader wrote to Hoover, asking how the sixth grade had made his life successful, the lad received a personal answer stating, "The sixth grade made my life successful by preparing me for the seventh grade."

try for the opportunities it has given me."

Hoover received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, from SUI, on the anniversary of his 80th birthday, and in West Branch, a memorial library in his honor was dedicated.

WHEN ASKED what were the chief dangers to the country, Hoover said: "Obviously, the Communist world, inflation, overspending by the government, unbalanced budgets, and the growth of crime."

Keane, Schoendienst Sign Pacts

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Keane completed his stunning switch from World Series winner to loser by signing to manage the New York Yankees Tuesday, five days after he led the St. Louis Cardinals to victory over the Yanks.

Keane, who will be 53 on Nov. 3, was given a one-year contract at a reported $45,000 a year as successor to Yogi Berra, fired last Friday.

KEANE SAID he got more than he did in St. Louis and Ralph Houk, general manager, said he got more than he did in his first year as manager, reportedly $35,000.

Houk went to great lengths at a crowded news conference to insist the Yanks never contacted Keane until Sunday night. However, The Associated Press reported Friday night that Keane would get the job.

Houk also denied reports that some Yankee players complained to him about the way Berra was handling the club during the season.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Popular Red Schoendienst, the National League's premier second baseman for more than a decade, was named manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday, replacing Johnny Keane.

THE MOVE climaxed an amazing reorganization of the Cardinals, who only last Thursday won the World Series from the New York Yankees.

Keane resigned the following day because of "a lot of little things, none of them important," and replaced Yogi Berra as Yankee Manager only two hours before Schoendienst was named manager of the Cards.

Terms of the managerial contract for Schoendienst were not announced immediately.

The club president, August A. Busch Jr., said Schoendienst was the unanimous choice of his six-man administrative committee. Besides Busch, the committee included former Cardinal superstar Stan Musial, now a club vice-president; Executive Vice President Richard A. Meyer; General Manager Bob Housam; and board members Jim Conzelman and Mark Eagleton.

Hawkeyes Hold Scrimmage To Get Set for Purdue Game

A spirited, hard-hitting 15-minute scrimmage capped Iowa's Tuesday afternoon work-out in preparation for Saturday's Homecoming game with Purdue.

The No. 1 offensive unit ripped off a series of running plays against the defensive scout team from the scout's 25-yard line. On the first play, Dalton Kimble raced into the end zone, untouched.

The No. 1 defensive unit held the offensive scout team on several series of plays from their own 25.

IMPRESSIVE was the running of Kimble, Craig Nourse, Gary Simpson, Tom Knutson and Jim Killbreath.

"The offensive backs ran harder than I've seen in recent outings," said Burns after the session. "The scrimmage was average, but some of the hitting was good," he added.

The coaches devised a new set of drills for the defensive units, which were tested for the first time Tuesday.

One of them, called the "hit" drill, received an enthusiastic response from the players. Burns said the coaches noted improvement in the hitting as compared to practice sessions last week and during the Wisconsin game last Saturday.

HOWEVER, Burns noted "greater improvement in the hitting over tonight will be needed if we are going to be able to cope with Purdue."

Karl Ryan, No. 1 offensive right halfback for the first four games, has been switched to defense and should see action as an alternate defensive back this Saturday at least part of the time, said Burns.

He indicated Iowa will be using some of their offensive linemen more in defensive situations against Purdue.

"We are thinking of using Leo Miller, Bob Ziolkowski and John Niland on defense some of the time, in an attempt to hold or to give us good field position, rather than waiting for a critical situation to develop," said Burns.

"WE FEEL Jack Price is coming along as a football player and can be used some as offensive tackle to spell either Miller or Ziolkowski," he said.

Burns said there is a 50-50 chance the senior offensive center Dave Recher will be able to play against Purdue. Recher twisted his right knee late in the game against Wisconsin.

The coaches have been working with reserves Jim Cmejrek and Bill Krill to have them ready to fill in for Recher if he can't play this Saturday.

U.S. Lifts Medal Total to 72

TOKYO (AP) — American medal production is expected to reach its final peak today on the closing day of track and field competition at the Tokyo Olympics after the Russians gained ground in Operation Overhaul and Germany's Willi Holdorf pulled a major upset by winning the decathlon.

THAT WAS NOT unexpected as America's Rafer Johnson, the defending champion had retired, but C. K. Yang of Formosa was an overwhelming favorite. Yang, a teammate of Johnson's at UCLA and the silver medalist in 1960, was virtually conceded the gold medal.

SIX TRACK and field finals — including the high jump test in which John Thomas of Cambridge, Mass., meets his Russian conquerors — should add materially to the U.S. medal total and offset some of the Soviet Union's sizeable medal collection from gymnastics and judo.

Lones Wigger, a 27-year-old sharpshooter from Carter, Mont., won a gold medal for the United States Tuesday — the only medal Americans produced in the 10th day of the 18th Olympiad.

That lifted the U.S. medal total to 72, one more than at the Rome Olympics in 1960. The Russians, however, added nine medals to their total and have 57, including 17 gold, 17 silver and 23 bronze. The United States has 32 gold, 21 silver and 19 bronze.

But the unheralded Holdorf, a 24-year-old physical education student, stole the spotlight from the medal battle of the two titans by winning the grueling, 10-event decathlon and ending 32 years of American domination.

SUI Coed's Suffrage Suffers

Only Male Voting For Miss SUI

By CARLA SCHUMANN
Staff Writer

Women's suffrage will suffer a setback Thursday when the elections are held to select Miss SUI 1964.

"It may set women's suffrage back 50 years, but only males are qualified to vote in this contest," Election Chairman Larry Crider, A4, Montezuma, said Tuesday.

OF COURSE, the women will get the benefit of the vote. One of the five women candidates will be Miss SUI.

Last year, the all-campus male vote selected Miss SUI and her attendants from a field of ten semi-finalists. The queen was announced the following night at the Homecoming Parade, Crider said.

Before the 1960's, Crider said the men voted on all the candidates running for Miss SUI. The number ranged from 24-29 candidates some years, he added.

Since Homecoming procedures were changed this year, however, the men will only vote on the five finalists who were selected Saturday night in the Union Main Lounge.

THE FIVE finalists are Barbara Burry, A4, Council Bluffs; Anne Fitzpatrick, A3, Marblehead, Mass., Nancy Laughlin, A3, Freeport, Ill.; Pamela Petersen, A4, Somers; and Judy Smith, A4, West Des Moines.

Photos of the five finalists will be posted at each election booth to refresh the memories of males "who can't remember names," Crider said.

There will be seven polling booths for the privileged men to vote in full view of the vote-deprived women.

Booths will be set up from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Geology Building, Medical Laboratories, Law Building, Union Gold Feather Room, Schaeffer Hall — second floor, Macbride Hall — south door facing the Pentacrest, and the trestle bridge on Iowa Avenue.

ELIGIBLE VOTERS will need their I.D. cards and current registration slips to be admitted to the polls, Crider said. In addition, their registration certificates will be punched to prevent ballot-stuffing.

"We've tried to place the polls for the student's convenience, and have staggered the election help so someone will always be there," he said.

J-Prof Study News Effect On Iowa City

A statistical study to determine the effect of major news stories on Iowa Cityans was conducted by members of the School of Journalism faculty last week.

The "news diffusion study," under the direction of Richard Budd, assistant to the director of the School, Malcolm S. MacLean, holder of the Gallup Chair in research, and Arthur H. Barnes, professor of journalism, used a random sample of about 450 Iowa City residents.

The purpose of the study was to determine how quickly people become aware of major news events and the main sources of their information, Budd said.

Events covered by the survey were Khrushchev's fall from power, the Jenkins arrest, explosion of the Chinese bomb, the World Series and the British elections.

Analysis of the data is expected to be completed within two weeks. Budd said final results will show which event spread the fastest and the relative importance of the survey participants attached to each.

SUI To Host URW Union

SUI will host Midwest representatives from the United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, AFL-CIO (URW), Nov. 7-8.

More than 50 representatives from Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and Wisconsin, will attend the two-day institute which will feature a talk by URW president George Burdon and workshop sessions conducted by URW national officers.

William Abbott, director of education, and John House, assistant director of education for the URW, will lead workshop sessions on such topics as "Steward's Training," "Union Administration," and "Parliamentary Procedure."

Marguerite Thorberg, western regional director for women's activities of the AFL-CIO will head a session on the role of women in labor and politics.

The URW Institute has been held at SUI for the past seven years because of Iowa's central location and because the state has one of the largest concentrations of rubber workers in the United States.

The events is under the sponsorship of Anthony V. Sincropi, head of labor services for the SUI Bureau of Labor and Management, and Robert Winn, Bureau research assistant.

U.S. Art at Cornell

Featuring a wide range of artistic interpretation, the exhibit includes the works of contemporary artists Robert Beauchamp, Angelo Ippolito, Sigmund Menkes, Carl Morris, and Walter Murch.

New York's Whitney Museum of American Art is devoted entirely to the art of the United States, particularly that of the present day.

Voter Registration Closes This Friday

Have you registered to vote yet?

If not, and you're an Iowa City resident you have three days left to register for the Nov. 3 general election.

The Iowa City Civic Center will be open until 9 p.m. through Friday night for residents not able to register during regular office hours.

Iowa City has a permanent voter registration system, which means that if you have previously voted in Iowa City and have also voted in one election during the past four years, you do not have to register again.

Registered voters who have changed their name or moved to another address must file this change at the city clerk's office.

THE GENERAL residence requirement for voting is six months in Iowa, 60 days in Johnson County and 10 days in the precinct.

Residents who will be 21 by election day may also register to vote.

Iowa City has established the following policy governing University student voter registration:

"All married students residing within the corporate limits of the City of Iowa City are residents for the purpose of voter registration. This includes students living in any University housing facilities such as Finkbine Park or any of the University apartments located within the corporate limits."

"All single students living in University housing including, but not limited to, dormitories, fraternity houses and sorority houses of any type or nature are not residents of Iowa City for the purpose of voter registration."

SINGLE STUDENTS living in off-campus housing which is non-University owned who have employment other than the State University of Iowa and have license plates on their automobiles listing Johnson County as their residences or have drivers licenses showing their residence as Iowa City, or both, are residents of Iowa City for the purposes of voter registration.

"Single students living in off-campus housing which is non-University owned who are employed or have University employment and have neither Johnson County vehicle registration nor drivers licenses showing Iowa City as the residence are not residents of Iowa City for purposes of voter registration."

Accent Expansion In Ag Policy, Says Local Demo

John R. Schmidhauser, Democratic candidate for Congress from the First District, said Monday "National agricultural policy should emphasize the expansion and development of programs which will create new markets for the food and fiber which we produce in abundance."

In an address to the Burlington Machinists' Local, he said, "In the foreign policy area I suggest stepped up efforts to increase American agricultural exports, particularly beef exports to Western Europe and feed grains to new markets opening up in the Far East."

Schmidhauser said his opponent, Republican Fred Schwengel, had fought for restrictive trade policies which would "destroy our efforts to expand American agricultural exports."

Plenty of Tickets Are Available for Purdue Tilt

Iowa Athletic Department Business Manager Francis (Buzz) Graham has announced there are still plenty of tickets left for the Purdue-Iowa Homecoming game Saturday.

However, he said a capacity crowd of 60,000 is expected. Approximately 1,000 tickets are left with a possibility of more being available today after the students have their last opportunity to pick theirs up. Any student who wishes to go to the game should pick up a ticket today, said Graham.

Remap Contract Plan Eyed

The mayors of Iowa City and Coralville announced Tuesday drawing annexation lines beyond which neither would encroach without the consent of the other.

Iowa City Mayor Richard

Burger and Coralville Mayor Clarence H. Wilson announced the plan after an informal joint meeting of the two councils.

Named to the committee at the closed-door meeting were Mayor Burger and Councilman Max Yocom, representing Iowa City, and Councilmen Virgil Mortenson and Arnold Bartels from Coralville.

The committee, which is not empowered to take official action, is expected to report for a decision by the two councils before October 30.

In other action, the Coralville Council agreed to create an agricultural zoning classification and change some of the heavy industry classifications in its newly annexed area to agricultural because of the "concern officially expressed by the State University of Iowa to the Coralville Council."

SU had criticized the planned 700 acre annexation to Coralville as being detrimental to future development of the area.

Both councils agreed to work for a favorable vote on the Coralville water contract and decided to hold informal joint meetings quarterly to discuss mutual problems.

A new sewage treatment rate contract for the City of Coralville will be negotiated by Oct. 30, according to the two mayors.

Egg Thrower Found; She's Sorry

SIOUX CITY — Ann Ellen Christensen of Newell, a 20-year-old business college student, admitted Tuesday that she threw an egg which hit Sen. Barry Goldwater during his visit here last Friday.

Appearing red eyed in Municipal Court, Miss Christensen pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and was sentenced to serve 15 days in the county jail or pay a $50 fine.

Judge John Hutchinson gave the woman until Friday to pay the fine.

She was arrested Tuesday at the Nettleton Business Training College, where she is a student. Police said she admitted throwing the egg from a third-floor window of the NBT Manor.

where she shared an apartment with four other girls.

SHE WROTE a letter of apology to Goldwater, saying, "I wish to extend my sincere apology to you concerning the egg thrown at your car while on your recent visit to Sioux City."

"This was strictly an impulse action and was not meant as a personal reflection to you in any way. On behalf of myself and everyone else in Sioux City I ask that you forgive this impulsive action."

Capt. Jack Risalje of the Sioux City Youth Bureau said the case was broken by Sgt. Robert Johnson, who had been investigating the incident since it happened.

Johnson was aided by pictures taken by Sioux City Journal photographer Lee Jorgensen, and by a Sioux City woman and police Sgt. Noel McKenna, both of whom saw an object come from the window of the girls' apartment.

In a statement, police said, Miss Christensen said, "I just thought it would be different. I wanted some excitement."

LATER SHE said she did not know it was Goldwater, was surprised to see he had gray hair and claimed she did it on impulse.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Christensen of near Newell. She has been taking a secretarial course at NBT since her enrollment last month.

Vatican Council To Debate Modern World Problems

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church, through its Ecumenical Council, came to grips Tuesday with man's everyday problems in the modern world — from birth control and labor disputes to racial struggles and nuclear war.

The long-awaited document — a schema titled "The Church in the Modern World" — was presented to the 2,500 council fathers in St. Peter's. It is expected to draw the most fierce and extended debate of any topic before the two-year-old assembly.

Even before the council began discussion of specific issues, the lines of expected conservative-progressive conflicts were indicated in opening speeches by eight cardinals of three continents.

Italian Cardinal Ernest Ruffini launched an attack on the wording and emphasis in the document. He demanded a complete revision.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, however, declared the schema "gives rise to a new impulse, a new dialogue, a real guiding light to our thoughts and hopes."

"Don't weaken the text," he continued. "We want to listen and to be listened to. We want to help the whole of humanity to face up to its problems."

Albert Gregory Cardinal Meyer of Chicago, while supporting discussion of modern day problems, said the schema gave "the impression the Church fears contagion from the world. We must rid the schema of this."

Other cardinals and council fathers voiced urgent appeals for the Church to come to grips now with the problems troubling man in this age of exploding populations, food shortages, racial struggle, communism and nuclear war.

Never in history has a Catholic general council taken on the complex task of seeking solutions for man's day-to-day world problems.

Herky, Herkette Discover Romance

There is nothing so normal as an SUIowan treating his girl to a Coke in the Union or the Burge Hall Carnival Room.

But when the SUIowan is Herky the Hawk and his girl is Herkette the Hawk, heads may turn and eyebrows may rise an inch or so.

Herky, previously thought of as a Hawk dedicated to his career, met the lovely Herkette (a transfer student) Monday afternoon while selling Homecoming badges on South Clinton Street.

It apparently was "love at first sight" and Herky and Herkette have been a steady duo ever since.

Generally a Hawk of few words, Herky told the Daily Iowan Tuesday he has invited Herkette to the Homecoming parade Friday and the Purdue game Saturday.

Friends of the pair indicated Tuesday Herky was making a serious decision about the relationship. "He will definitely make his decision public at Friday night's rally," one usually reliable source said.

Herky, a lifetime resident of SUIowa, was not available for further comment.

You won't miss them if you see them on the campus this week — they make very striking couple walking down the street holding hands.

And if you see them, don't stare or point or giggle.

After all, a fella needs some privacy.

String Quartet Starts Series At Des Moines Nov. 20

A series of four concerts by the SUI String Quartet will be presented at the Des Moines Art Center this season beginning at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 20.

The program will be varied to include classical, romantic and modern works. The Quartet will be in Des Moines again on Feb. 20, March 26 and May 8 alternating Friday and Saturday evenings.

Members of the Iowa String Quartet are: Allen F. Ohmes and John Ferrell, violins; William Preucil, viola; and Joel Krosnick, cello, all of whom are recognized soloists in the SUI Music Department.

Ohmes is new to SUI and the Quartet this year. He previously was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic and Civic Orchestras and the concert master-soloist with the United States Air Force Symphony.

In reviewing the group the Washington Post critic, Paul Hume wrote: "The State University of Iowa has a resident quartet whose art is extraordinary. We trust that the state and its University are well aware of the stature and quality of this ensemble."

American Motors reported that between 400 and 500 workers had walked out at midday at its Milwaukee body plant, contending that until it was signed, sealed and delivered, there was no new contract.

The company sent home the remainder of the 4,000 day-shift workers there.

GM, UAW Talks Still Bogged Down

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Despite a plea for speed from President Johnson, the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. plodded along in low gear Tuesday toward settlement of a 26-day-old strike that has idled more than 300,000.

At the same time new labor trouble developed in the automotive division of American Motors Corp., where a three-day strike was ended only Monday via top-level verbal agreement on a new three-year, profit-sharing contract.

American Motors reported that between 400 and 500 workers had walked out at midday at its Milwaukee body plant, contending that until it was signed, sealed and delivered, there was no new contract. The company sent home the remainder of the 4,000 day-shift workers there.
