Erickson, Mahan Tell Views on Key Issues

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second part of a four-part series dealing with the opinions expressed by Johnson County and First District Congressional candidates in answer to a prepared questionnaire and stories concerning issues on which Iowa City residents and state residents will vote. Today's story is on Iowa City's proposed annexation, Minnette Doderer, Democratic candidate for state representative, and Samuel Whiting, Republican candidate for state representative presented their views in Wednesday's Daily Iowan.

Erickson Says— Mahan Says—

Dale Erickson, Republican candidate for state representative from Johnson County.

1. What do you feel are the key issues for your campaign, and how do they affect the public locally, nationally, or internationally?

School Finance: I believe in the availability of the best possible educational opportunity for every student in every community. We need to strive for a broader tax base for the public school program, strengthening an informed local control of education policy — within specific educational standards set out in the law of Iowa, and increased state aid to schools, which I favor at least bringing up to the national average (40 per cent).

Reorganization for Efficiency in Government: I believe Iowa's services rendered and the structure of administration of these services should be continuously and prudently reviewed with the following in mind: the elimination of certain three-member administration boards and commissions, to be replaced with single-appointed administrators responsible to the governor (examples are the Tax Commission and Department of Social Welfare); a shorter ballot; the structure of government should be clear, definite and simple; government should have a manageable span of control; related duties should be kept in the same department; the governor's appointments should terminate two weeks after leaving office (rather than six months) and Liquor Control Enforcement Officers).

Rehabilitation: Programs such as those now under way for the blind and the physically handicapped should be accelerated for the chronically unemployed, prisoners, alcoholics, narcotics addicts, and the mentally retarded — specifically to add a four-year high school to the now existing facilities at the University of Iowa.

State programs in the areas of rehabilitation can restore normal family conditions to many of our people and place them on the tax rolls rather than on our welfare rolls.

Progress for Iowa: Much of Iowa's growth depends upon a proper tax climate. An overhaul of our tax structure should include the following: property tax relief (including both real estate and inventory), elimination of the monies and credits tax, elimination of the personal household tax, equalization of the tax burden through equalizing property valuations and the revamping of the exemptions.

Iowa's business, industrial and agricultural expansion depends on the availability of investment capital. We are proud of Iowa's stable economy, but through concerted effort it can be greatly improved.

Iowa Highways: That state government bonds be issued to make available the monies to complete our interstate highway system in the next three years. State funds pay 10 per cent of these bonds, federal funds pay 90 per cent. This is one clear-cut way we can reduce the slaughter of human lives on our highways.

Higher Education: Standing capital improvement appropriations for Board of Regent institu-

Bruce E. Mahan, incumbent state representative from Johnson County, and Democratic candidate for re-election.

1. What do you feel are the key issues of your campaign and how do they affect the public locally, nationally, or internationally?

I feel the key issues are as follows:

Fair Taxes: Property tax equalization and relief will be a big issue in the next session of the Legislature. I will work for a sound, responsible program of fair taxes for all.

Good Schools for our Children: Good schools are a must. I believe that the state should give more direct aid to the schools to provide better education for all and for property tax relief.

Our University: You can count on me to lead the fight for the Board of Regents' requests.

Farm and Labor: I stand for a strong Iowa economy. I believe that the farmer should be rewarded for his productive genius and that the worker's rights should be protected.

Health and Welfare: I favor improved health and welfare programs for Iowa with attention given to the needs of our senior citizens.

State Government: Reorganization of our state government is long overdue. I favor a streamlining of our state government and economy.

Economic Development and Conservation: I favor a positive, expanded program of economic development for Iowa and a long-range progressive program of conservation.

State Government: Reorganization of our state government is long overdue. I favor a streamlining of our state government structure for greater efficiency and economy.

Economic Development and Conservation: I favor a positive, expanded program of economic development for Iowa and a long-range progressive program of conservation.

Home Rule: I believe that a dynamic state-municipal partnership is necessary to meet growing urbanization problems. An amendment to Iowa's constitution is necessary to give Iowa's municipalities more meaningful home rule.

Highways: A safe and efficient highway system is essential to the growth of Iowa's economy and to the well-being of Iowa's people. I favor a vigorous program for a safer highway system.

Reapportionment: The time has come to settle the reapportionment question. I believe that the Iowa General Assembly should adopt a permanent plan of reapportionment to conform with the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court.

2. Has the national campaign of your party brought to light issues you consider important locally?

Yes. Such national issues as the "farm policy" including "beef imports" and the feed-grain program, Medicare, income tax cuts, and reapportionment are important locally.

3. If elected, in which areas of government will you feel most compelled to work?

In all of the areas set forth in my campaign folder — fair taxes,

Local Residents To Vote On Proposed Annexation

The question of enlarging Iowa City will be on the local ballot for the second time this year.

The annexation proposal, if adopted, would increase the city's size by 5.64 square miles and would add approximately 114 residences to Iowa City. The annexation would also bring into the city limits about 10 miles of un-paved roads.

According to City Manager Carsten Leikvold, the cost to Iowa City of adding the area would be about $5,000 annually. The figure, Leikvold said, includes the cost of policing the area and expanding fire, water and sewer services to the land.

The area included in the annexation proposal would encircle Iowa City and would make the municipality of University Heights an island within Iowa City.

Only the voters of Iowa City are eligible to vote on the question since it is a proposal for involuntary annexation. Under this plan, the City Council proposes the question and places it on the ballot. If the voters accept it, the question would still have to be placed before the District Court.

The court then must decide if Iowa City can furnish the area with services sufficient to justify annexation of the land and any increase in taxation.

Only if the court rules that Iowa City is capable of annexing the area does it officially become a portion of the city.

If annexed, the owners of farm land in the area will receive a reduction in taxes. Currently, they pay a county tax of 10 mills. If they become a part of the city, they will pay the city only one and one-quarter mills, which can be used only for road improvement.

Owners of non-agricultural land in the area, if annexed, would pay the city approximately 20 mills more than the 10 mills they now pay the county. This would be equal to the tax on the land already within the city limits.

All of the land would come into Iowa City zoned as R1A (first class residential); however, any conflicting uses would be allowed to continue.

Fire Routs Prof's Family From Sleep

An SUI faculty member and his family escaped injury Wednesday night when fire swept through part of their home, located on Route 5 one mile east of Iowa City.

Coralville and West Branch volunteer fire departments were called to the residence of William Connor, associate professor of internal medicine, at approximately 10:30 p.m. Fire was under control within 30 minutes after the call was received, according to Clarence Briskey, Coralville assistant fire chief.

The fire was reportedly started in the south wing porch of the two-level duplex and spread through the southern portion of the house causing observable damage. Estimate of damage was not available.

Connor said he smelled smoke and then found the porch on the south wing aflame. After conducting his wife and three children outside, Connor called in the alarm.

The Connor family was sleeping in the north wing of the home, not reached by the fire.

Connor said the fire apparently was caused by a faulty electrical circuit in the porch.

Virginia Loses Remap Battle In High Court

WASHINGTON — Virginia lost in the Supreme Court Wednesday an effort to stay a lower court's legislative reapportionment order that would cut the terms of incumbent senators from four to two years.

CHIEF JUSTICE Earl Warren turned down without comment a petition by State Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Button for a stay so the question could be considered by the full Supreme Court on a later appeal.

This lets stand an order by a three-judge federal court in Alexandria, Va., which on Sept. 19 ordered Virginia to reapportion its House of Delegates and Senate by Dec. 15. The tribunal directed that both Senate and House seats be put up for election by January 1966.

THE LOWER court followed up a Supreme Court order of last June that Virginia must reapportion its legislature as nearly as possible on the basis of population in time for the already scheduled November 1965 election.

Current members of the House of Delegates were chosen in 1963 for two-year terms. The lower court said "orderly procedure" would suggest that the members continue until expiration of their terms in January 1966.

But the incumbent senators, also chosen in 1963, were elected to four year terms. The court said there is "no warrantable foundation" for permitting them to serve beyond January 1966.

Annexation Treaty Here Fails Again

A proposed annexation treaty between Iowa City and Coralville has hit a snag.

Officials of both towns failed to reach full agreement Wednesday on rescinding a large part of Coralville's recent annexation.

However, committees appointed by the councils of each city did agree on boundary lines of potential future annexation areas north and west of the two cities.

The boundaries will reserve for Coralville an area to its north bounded on the east by the Iowa River as far as old Highway 218 and following the highway north to River Heights. The area to the east of this line would be reserved for Iowa City annexation, assuming this step is desired and feasible.

The principal point of contention between the two cities is the rescinding of about 60 per cent of Coralville's 760-acre annexation.

Coralville city officials have stated that they will agree to rescind only if those persons in the affected annexed area voluntarily agree to "de-annexation."

Goldwater Charges LBJ With Kidnaping Demos

15,000 Gather For C.R. Speech

By WOODY EARL Staff Writer

A jovial and confident Barry Goldwater charged Lyndon Johnson with "kidnaping the Democratic Party" before an enthusiastic crowd of approximately 15,000 in downtown Cedar Rapids Wednesday.

On this, his fourth trip to Iowa recently, Goldwater said that "in handpicking Hubert Humphrey as his successor," Johnson has "tied the Democratic Party in a neat bundle for eventual delivery to the Americans for Democratic Action."

Goldwater described this group as the "most effective radical socialist organization in the land."

SPEAKING FROM a prepared text, Goldwater said Johnson lacks "grass roots support for his candidacy."

He added, however, that Johnson did have support from "his curious crew in Washington," and "some bureaucrats who dread the day when they may have to open all the closets in their offices to the harsh, cold light of public scrutiny."

He said Johnson also has the support of "many good and honest people," who have been swayed by "the big lies of the Administration," concerning Goldwater's views on Social Security and war.

GOLDWATER described Johnson as a "power-hungry interim President, who is 'afraid to debate the issues,' and 'who prefers to 'frighten rather than convince.'"

Goldwater described his own campaign as the "most obviously tremendous grass roots political movement in our history." He said that if the people vote "without fear, November is going to produce the greatest political upset of this century."

"ALL AMERICANS are going to have an Administration in Washington that will stop the spread of socialism at home and halt the spread of Communism abroad," Goldwater said.

"I charge that the Johnson machine is driven by lust for power, by fear of the exposure of wrongdoing in high places, by fear of punishment and by hope of special privilege," Goldwater said.

GOLDWATER pledged that if elected, "I will be honest with you, I won't hide things under the rug. That rug has so much under it now that it would qualify for the soil bank," he said.

At one point in his speech, Goldwater was interrupted by a failure in the public address system. When the disorder was remedied he quipped: "If you can't fix something electrical in Cedar Rapids, it can't be fixed."

He went on to say that he is reminded of Cedar Rapids often because he owns a ham radio set manufactured by the Collins Company of Cedar Rapids.

AT THE conclusion of his speech Goldwater returned to the Cedar Rapids Airport in his 17-car motorcade and boarded his campaign jet. As he arrived at the plane, he was presented with a pumpkin by James H. Smith, sheriff of Linn County.

According to Smith, Goldwater had mentioned wanting an Iowa pumpkin on the flight to Cedar Rapids and the troopers of Linn County decided to get him one.

According to his itinerary, Goldwater's next stops were Oshkosh, Wis., and Belleville, Ill.

'Town' Group Awaits Final Senate Okay

The president of Town Men and Town Women of SUI announced at a meeting Wednesday night that the club's constitution had been approved by the Office of Student Affairs and the Student Senate Committee on Student Organizations.

Final approval rests with the Student Senate.

Following the announcement by president Judy Kinnamon, A3, Iowa City, the club voted to amend the constitution to allow students living in private homes and not affiliated with social organizations to become club members.

The Student Senate committee in reviewing the TMTW constitution had suggested that those affiliated with professional fraternities be excluded from membership, but the group rejected this.

Despite the recent ruling by the Board of Regents dropping the word "State" from the name of the University, the members defeated a motion to drop the word from the name of the organization.

Steve Schmeiser, A3, Burlington, reported that a recent membership drive signed 615 off-campus students.

TMTW also invited all those eligible for membership to a Hoote-manny to be held Nov. 25, in the River Room of the IMU. The time will be announced later.

Court Won't Hear Equal Time Talk

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court refused Wednesday to hear arguments on Republican Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater's demand for free equal radio-television time to answer President Johnson's Oct. 18 address on world affairs.

Indications were that the decision was six to two but this was not announced. The court only said that Justices Hugo L. Black and Arthur J. Goldberg dissented and Justice Byron R. White took no part.

There was no comment from the majority.

Third in Series

The third article in the series on campus organizations appears today on page three. The series is a study of campus organizations and their relation to student government at the University of Iowa.

Boys Weren't Thrown Into Fire; Admit Hoax

Two 11-year-old boys, one the son of a U of I graduate student, admitted to Iowa City Police Wednesday that their tale about five teenagers throwing them into a fire was a hoax.

Police said the two boys, Daniel O'Neal, and Cris Walsh, Cedar Rapids, admitted they had been playing with matches behind the University Library Saturday when trash in a nearby receptacle caught fire.

Young O'Neal, the son of SUI student Edward O'Neal, suffered second degree burns on his hands and face when his clothing caught fire. He was reported in fair condition in University Hospitals Wednesday.

Young Walsh received only minor burns in the incident.

'Henry IV' Will Open At U-Theatre Tonight

By FRANK BOWERS Staff Writer

If you're a holder of tickets for the first University Theatre production of the year, "Henry IV," you're in for a rare treat, according to observers at the Tuesday night dress rehearsal.

On the other hand, if you failed to get your tickets, here's what you'll be missing.

● John Peakes, G, Houston, is Falstaff. Peakes has worked on the New York off-broadway stage, and in Boston Summer Stock. He has played in TV productions of Henry IV as both Prince Hal and Henry, and as Iago, the villain in "Othello."

Director John Terfloth described the character of Falstaff as interpreted by Peakes as "almost leaping out of the boundaries of the play."

Peakes also has appeared in "Route 66" and "The Naked City" TV serials.

● Rich costumes of the Medieval period.

● Stage setting and lighting by A. F. Gillette, professor of dramatic art.

● Direction by John Terfloth.

● A cast of 42, with Don Schulte, G, Yankton, S.D., as Henry. Schulte has appeared in the Buffalo, N.Y. Civic Theatre with leads in two plays, and in the Black Hills Playhouse, S.D., with the lead in Bald Soprano.

● Prince Hal is played by John O'Keefe, A4, Marshalltown, O'Keefe has played in "Anatole," the "Importance of Being Earnest," and three other productions in the past year.

"Henry IV" is considered one of Shakespeare's best historical plays. With psycho-socio-religious overtones, the development of character in young Prince Hal is traced from the primrose path of a mispent youth to the responsibility of a prince.

Shakespeare deals with the forces at work in human society which demonstrate that the web of cosmic order will remain intact even if temporarily disturbed.

"Henry IV" is faced with rebellion in his state growing out of his ascendancy to the throne through the murder of Richard II (but that's another play).

Major forces in the conflict between the rebels and the king in the SUI production is the intemperate Hotspur, played by Gary Vitale, G, Cleveland, Ohio. Hotspur is slightly paranoid, an extreme idealist who places honor beyond any other consideration.

The growth of Hal provides the central thread of the play, as Shakespeare sets idealism against materialism, with Prince Hal as the character who is able to combine these forces into a whole man.

Princely Training

Sir John Falstaff, John Peakes, G, West Somerville, Mass., counsels Prince Hal, John O'Keefe, A4, Marshalltown, in thieving women, and general knavery at the Boar's Head Tavern in Shakespeare's "Henry IV, Part I," which opens at the University Theatre tonight. —Photo by Peggy Myers

Festival junction

NO ARGUMENTS AGAINST holding a Spring Festival this year were voiced directly at Tuesday's Senate meeting. Senators debated merits of an "over-all committee" to handle the affair as opposed to retaining Senate control of the festival.

No one stood up and said he thought the whole idea should be dropped. This silence, however, does not mean that all student senators favor the festival idea.

Those opposed to the festival did not vocalize their position, but they scored a limited victory nonetheless.

A proposal which would relinquish Senate's control over the festival was introduced by Pres. Wally Snyder. The resolution would put the affair under the control of a committee made up of representatives from 15-20 student organizations.

After senators debated the values of this proposal, an amendment was presented by John Barrett which would create the committee and relinquish Senate authority for this year only.

This amendment was passed by the Senate which went on to suspend its rules and pass the proposal as amended.

Thus a University committee separate from any student organization — but cooperating with all of them — will take charge of this year's festival. The committee will be under the Office of Student Services.

Although no one said it formally, this year will be one of trial for the committee idea and for the festival itself.

Since Tuesday's Senate action dealt only with the festival for this spring, the fate of future festivals will be decided by next year's Senate.

There is a faction on Senate which is opposed to the whole idea of the spring function — whether under a committee or the Senate. This group is waiting for any shortcomings in the festival or the committee idea to appear this spring.

If the 1965 Spring Festival is a flop, or if it is even just mediocre, these persons will be ready to shoot the whole idea down and bury all future festivals.

As Snyder painted the picture of cooperation between student organizations, the festival could not possibly fail. Each student organization represented on the committee (such as Senate, Union Board, IFC, Hillcrest Association, etc.) would be responsible for a major project of the festival.

The idea appears sound, but looks can be deceiving. Success or failure of the plan will be scrutinized by next year's Senate. If the festival is sound, there will be little opposition to making it permanent; if not, the entire program may go under.

Keeping this degree of control was a sound move by the Senate. It may insure a very good Spring Festival this year; if not, then...

Votes, but no choice

REGISTER, VOTE AND THE CHOICE IS YOURS has become a well-known slogan at election time, the one issue where any and all political parties can agree.

In Mississippi, however, a large portion of the population cannot even register, let alone vote. The immediate aim of the summer project volunteers in Mississippi was to attempt to register Negroes to vote. This was by no means successful.

But the Freedom Democratic Party in Mississippi has its own election books, with thousands of names. These people will be voting Nov. 3, along with the rest of the country.

These ballots do not count toward the election of any officials; they cannot even be considered write-in ballots. The only thing voters in the Freedom election hope to accomplish is to destroy by protest the fallacious Southern argument that Negroes are "not interested" in voting.

The turnout of this unofficial election will be one more illustration of the inequities in the Mississippi election results. Hopefully within the next four years, these votes will appear in the election results.

The Freedom balloting will also be worth watching.

Puritan ethic finds male support also

By ART BUCHWALD

There has been a great deal written about an organization called "Mothers for Moral America," which has been working for Barry Goldwater's election. The "Mothers" organization had planned to put a "moral decay" film on television which showed the worst aspects of American life from topless bathing suits to pornographic literature. At the last minute the film was withdrawn.

Another organization has just been started, called "Fathers for Moral America," which is also concerned with moral decay in the United States.

When we visited its headquarters the other day, a spokesman for the organization told us, "The mothers have done so much to point out the decadent aspects of the United States that we felt the fathers should help out, too."

"What do you do?"
"WE HAVE A screening room in the back where we show dirty movies every two hours. We want to alert the fathers of America to the terrible degeneration that is going on in the United States. The response has been heartwarming. Ever since we started the screenings, there hasn't been an empty seat in the house."

BUCHWALD

"What has been the reaction?"
"The majority of them leave shocked that things like this could be happening in this country, and many come back a second time because they can't believe it."

"What else do you do?"
"At luncheon every day we hold a fashion show at which we display the latest topless bathing suits which have been out on the market."

"We want the fathers to know just exactly how far this nation has slipped, and, believe me, once they see the models in the topless bathing suits, they never forget it."

"IT MUST be terrible to see," we said.
"I've seen men so horrified they have refused to eat their lunch."

"What else have you done to show the deterioration in American morals?"
"We have a reading room over there where we display the latest collection of salacious books and magazines. Any indignant father can go in there and see the type of literature that is being peddled around the country."

"The room seems very crowded," we said.
"It is one of the most popular exhibits. Many fathers have requested permission to take the books home, but we're afraid it would have trouble getting them back. Some of the stuff would make your hair stand on end."

We walked into the reading room and noticed many of the fathers' hair standing up straight.

Our guide took us out into the hall. "This is our souvenir counter where we sell photographs and slides of the different burlesque queens. We've been urging fathers to show them at home and at smokers to illustrate what we're up against. We also sell twist records and French postcards as part of our educational program."

"It seems to be doing well," we commented.
"YOU WOULD be surprised how many alarmed fathers have offered to help in this great crusade."

Our guide took us upstairs. "This is our telephone center. We have father volunteers who tell anyone who calls in what to watch for on television or at their local theaters, and what books to read. This is one of the best ways of getting our story over to the American people."

"I'm emotionally impressed with your great work," we said.
"When does the next movie go on?"

The political spectrum—

Hughes' record attacked

By GENE KREKEL

For the Young Republicans
Election year 1964. As an SUI student looks at political affairs on the state level, there appears to be one matter of great importance — financial support for the three state schools.

Such problems as outmoded buildings, "temporaries" which seem permanent, professors leaving for higher salaries elsewhere, and rising tuition, all have one common solution — more money.

The support state officials have demonstrated for higher education in the past would seem to be a fairly good indication of how they will act in the future. For this reason, this support should be taken into consideration when a student is determining his choice for state office.

LET US consider the actions of the present governor with regards to education. The governor has strong influence on state spending for two reasons.

First, he submits the budget which is the starting point for all legislative action on appropriations. Secondly, he has a veto power over any bill passed by the Legislature.

The budget that Gov. Hughes submitted to the legislature for the current biennium called for a 15 per cent increase in spending over the 1961-1963 period. At the same time, he requested a 35 per cent decrease in spending for capital improvements at state educational institutions.

The proposed decrease in spending amounted to 3.7 million a year. This would seem to give some kind of indication as to the priority Hughes assigns to our educational institutions.

Fortunately for the SUI students, the Republican controlled Iowa Legislature realized the inadequacy of the Hughes budget for higher education and appropriated amounts for both capital improvements and operating expenses which were considerably higher than those requested by the governor.

A total of $4.3 million more than had been requested was appropriated.

SUI students are almost unanimously unhappy that higher tuition rates seem necessary for the present academic year. The governor has also expressed concern about increased tuition keeping some students out of college.

WHY DID not this problem concern him when he made out his budget? There only seems to be one answer to this question. The Hughes concern for higher education in Iowa is just not very sincere.

Iowans who have a genuine concern for their state schools should work for a gubernatorial candidate whose concern for education will be translated into action. This man is Evan Hultman. Evan Hultman understands the needs of higher education. His dynamic leadership can provide the needed increased state aid for new buildings and increased teacher's salaries.

As governor he will provide the needed responsible leadership to create the finest possible educational system for the citizens of Iowa.

Democrats sit tight; await November victories

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON — About all that Democrats are trying to do in the closing days of the campaign is to be nice to the customers. A close watch is being kept on Sen. Barry Goldwater and Richard Nixon just as insurance against last-minute surprises. It is believed that Rep. William Miller, the candidate for Vice President selected by Goldwater because "he drives Lyndon crazy," has been completely marked down by the public and is not a problem.

Democrats are frankly awed by the apparent range of their support this year.

They realize it will create problems after the election when programs must be sent to Congress, but they are not quarreling with White House emphasis on the one big, happy family aspect of the campaign.

They expect that it will insure the same or bigger majorities in the next Congress. Republicans hardly argue the prospect. Several notable Republican voters getters who still say they will win add the proviso that a possible Johnson landslide will upset their calculations.

PRESIDENT Johnson's final zealous efforts to carry the South are being widely interpreted as an effort to prove that everybody loves Lyndon at least as much as they distrust Goldwater. It is true that the President's pride is touched by the general feeling that Goldwater is the issue and that it is the senator's critics who are winning the election for Johnson.

But there is much more to it than that. Even the most glowing accounts of Goldwater prospects do not suggest that Southern chairmen of standing Congressional committees or their dominant Southern membership will lose seats this fall.

The President perceives that it is important to lead this group from a position of strength, particularly as the South is in a period of transition from long-held beliefs and a way of life. He not only wants Southern votes in the sessions of Congress immediately ahead; he wants to help shape the Southern transition.

Time is on his side if he can get past the Nov. 3 Goldwater hurdle. The Congressional committee chairmen are getting older; for example, HARRY BYRD of Virginia is 77, A. Willis Robertson of Virginia is 78, Allen Ellender of Louisiana is 74, and John McClellan of Arkansas is 68.

ATTRACTIVE young Southern governors and politicians are aware of this situation and most of them have rallied to Johnson. He embraces them all, but it is noticeable that he pays special attention to the more liberal types. They need him and he needs them. He can, after all, expect a conservative drag, not alone from Govs. George Wallace of Alabama and Paul Johnson of Mississippi but from his old friend and associate, Gov. George Connally of Texas.

Nobody knows better than Johnson the extent of conservative power in Congress and how it gets its effects, for he was once part of it. As President, he cannot afford to give it free rein. It can be no secret to him that if and when Senate whip Hubert Humphrey becomes Vice President, there will be a power struggle for Humphrey's old job. Two Southerners have already hinted they are available, Russell Long of Louisiana and George Smathers of Florida. Long is a party regular. Smathers coasted into the post of assistant whip as an intimate of the late President Kennedy, but his voting record soon led reporters to quip that the last time Smathers stood up for Kennedy was at Kennedy's wedding.

Today's Spanish Lesson

By WILLIAM ARCHER
Lesson No. 2
Reading time 3 Min.
Study time 5 Min.

There are 876 irregular verbs in the Spanish language, with six persons to each tense. This means you must know 5,256 sounds and ending changes in order to employ only the present tense. Also, since there are 10 tenses in Spanish, you must know 52,560 sounds and endings just to use the irregular verbs. This does not include regular verbs, the nouns, the adjectives, the adverbs, the prepositions, conjunctions, participles, gerunds and past participles.

You can speak Spanish in 24 hours of purposeful study! Impossible, you think? Well, SPANISH SPEED SPEECH will show you how to master the present, past and future tenses with just six sounds and endings. That's right! You will be able to unlock the Spanish language with all of its mysteries by learning the six "keys" which are presented in SPANISH SPEED SPEECH.

How many words do you know in Spanish — 10? 20? 50? SPEED

SPEECH will show you that you already have a vocabulary of over 5,000 Spanish words. The simple "keys" of SPEED SPEECH will point them out to you.

Here is the first of the six "keys" that will unlock the Spanish language for you: It is "quero," meaning "I want." "I desire." It is pronounced in English sound, "key-AIR-o." That's all — "key-AIR-o (I want, I desire). What do you use to unlock a door? A key! What do you breathe? Air! Now, just add an 'O,' and you have "key-AIR-o." "I want," "I desire." "Key-AIR-o — "quero."

Tomorrow, we will give you the second magic "key."

Letters to the Editor—

Reader blasts blasts

To the Editor:
Preceding and following Iowa football games, fans are observed cringing from the multitude of crashing explosions occurring in the adjoining atmosphere. The blasts don't cease until you have had time to flee from the stadium, unless of course it is before the game when you must simply hold your ears hoping the ammunition supply will be depleted. The actual purpose of this endeavor is to be questioned. If this "noise" is designed to attract spectators, which is hardly possible, it would seem rather primitive as a means of communication.

If it had any other purpose it would presumably be to signify a victory for the Iowa team, but this is evidently false also, as we sadly admit couldn't have been the case last Saturday.

This lack of purpose is unfortunately complicated by the fact that the ordeal is subsidized by the University which, through paying for the ammunition and the little fellow who detonates it, should have some control in the matter.

I submit that we attempt to invoke some purpose into these atmospheric disturbances by placing our explosives in reserve for victories, even if only to show consideration for birds and squirrels in the proximity.

Passing the buck

To the Editor:
When the Democrats say that they inherited the Cuban problem from the Republicans, it is pertinent to point out that they also inherited a solution.

Eisenhower had an invasion plan which was botched at the Bay of Pigs. Moreover, what we want is solutions, not buck-passing and excuse-making. Democracy becomes a farce if the party in power is not to be held responsible for the things that happen while it is in power.

It is hard to think of a time during the period of the cold war when a new President could have taken over without finding some current problems to deal with. But this should not be used as an excuse for weak handling of those problems.

Students Select Performers—

CPC Attempts To Bring Top Entertainers to SUI

by MIKE ELLIOTT
Staff Writer

(Third in a series on Campus Organizations)

Students at the University of Iowa see top entertainment in Iowa City through the efforts of the Central Party Committee (CPC).

The 12-member committee is appointed each spring by a joint selection board comprised of the executive committees of Union Board, Student Senate and the outgoing CPC.

Loren Kotner, director of the Union, heads the selection board that chooses the committee of six men and six women who will be the CPC for the next year.

THE NEWLY-APPOINTED committee, which this year is composed entirely of fraternity and sorority members, elects its four major officers, who then appoint the other eight members to CPC subcommittees.

Current officers of CPC are Gerry Meester, A3, Mason City, president; Bill Parisi, A4, Chicago Heights, Ill., vice president; Nancy Frederickson, A4, Deerfield, Ill., secretary, and Tom Pardun, A4, Sioux City, treasurer.

AT LEAST ONE CPC member is appointed to each of the four subcommittees — publicity, entertainment, tea and bids, and decorations. Each subcommittee's chairman is a member of CPC.

Additional personnel for the subcommittees is selected from applications submitted by students. Subcommittees range in size from 3 to 15, with a total of approximately 35 positions available. Subcommittee size is determined by the functions of the committee.

Meester said CPC received nearly 350 applications for this year's openings. The list of candidates is first cut by reading of the applications.

THE FIRST REDUCTION in the number of applicants is based partly on how well the applications are completed and the instructions followed, in addition to the contents of the form, Meester said.

Interviews are held with each of the remaining applicants before the final selections are made.

"LAST SPRING many students apparently did not take the applications seriously when writing in the requested information so we cut them without giving them interviews," Meester said.

During second semester registration, students are requested to list attractions they would prefer to see. In the entertainment poll, the students pick three favorites from about 12 names listed in jazz, folk, concert, and dance band music.

CPC USES THE results of the poll as a guideline for selection of entertainment for the following year.

Actual contracting of entertainers is done through the Business Office of the University. CPC acts as an advisory group and participates in contract negotiations, Meester said, but contracts reached with the professional talent agencies are signed by the University. The Business Office also handles all the financial accounts of CPC.

THE ENTERTAINER'S FEE and the estimated cost for publicity are the main determinants for CPC budgets, Pardun said. An average budget would be between $3,000 to $5,000, he said. The general budget is broken down into estimates for the publicity, decorations, and entertainment subcommittees.

"The function of CPC is not to make money. It is to provide good entertainment for all students," Pardun said.

THE SEATING CAPACITY of the Main Lounge of the Union also restricts CPC's selection of entertainers, Meester said. Since the Main Lounge seats about 1800 students, CPC cannot bring in the higher-priced entertainers, who charge over $6,000, unless the concert is held in the Field House.

Pardun estimated that the budget must be confined to about $4,100 if CPC is to break even on a concert.

All revenue is derived from ticket sales. The maximum price CPC can charge for an event is $2.50 a single person and $5.00 for a couple. Any deviation from these prices is allowed only after special permission has been granted by the Subcommittee on Social Policy and Calendar.

THE TREASURY of CPC consists of two funds, the All-University Party Fund and the All-University Entertainment Fund. The All-University Party Fund is used for those events which CPC co-sponsors with another student organization. The Homecoming Dance is planned with Union Board and Spinster's Spree is held with the Associated Women Students.

All other events sponsored by CPC are financed through the All-University Entertainment Fund.

If the balance of the All-University Party Fund exceeds $5,000, the surplus is distributed equally to the organizations that have co-sponsored an event.

WORK ON AN EVENT, after a contract has been signed, begins with the publicity committee. "The work of this committee depends on how well we think they will sell," Meester said. "The bigger the name of the entertainer, the less publicity we need."

The entertainment committee carries on the work of publicity "but in a different way," Meester said. It puts on skits at the social fraternities just before tickets are placed on sale and conducts the entertainment poll at registration.

ALONG WITH ITS preparations of all decorations for the concerts, the decorations committee sets the theme for the Homecoming Dance.

The tea and bids committee produces the concert programs and organizes open houses sponsored by the CPC.

The other eight members of CPC are: Jim Sheerer, A4, Cedar Falls; Helen Goodell, A3, Peoria, Ill.; Cindy Neuwirth, A2, Peoria, Ill.; Larry Crider, A4, Montezuma; Joy Stoker, A4, Des Moines; Lynn Barricks, A3, Des Moines; Jim Carlton, A2, Davenport; Carolyn Dick, A2, Hampton.

Illinois Voters To Face Marathon

By MIKE ELLIOTT
Staff Writer

Illinois voters will have an opportunity to exercise a basic democratic right to the point of physical exhaustion Nov. 3.

The state's election was turned into an endurance test for the split-ticket voter recently when Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner vetoed the state legislature's reapportionment bill and forced an at-large state election.

NOW, VOTERS must decide on 118 state legislative candidates as well as the standard number of state and national candidates. A final ballot over a proposed amendment to the state constitution will conclude the voting marathon.

Voting has been divided into three colorful ballots. A white ballot will present the national and major state executive candidates. A blue ballot will explain the proposed amendment and will require a 'yes' or 'no' vote.

BUT IT'S THE orange ballot that will offer the real test of voting stamina. The Democratic and Republican parties have each placed 118 candidates on this one.

Although voters are to select "only" 118 candidates, 177 representatives will be elected. BOTH PARTIES agreed last spring that most voters would not (or could not) vote for all representatives separately. The parties foresaw voters using the straight ticket mark as the time-saver.

By presenting a slate of 118 candidates for the 177 seats, no party can receive more than a two-thirds majority even if every voter marks a straight ticket. This way party leaders joined together to defend themselves from a possible whitewash.

ASSUMPTIONS of straight ticket voting, however, are weakened by the appearance of two popular names, Eisenhower and Stevenson, in different columns of the orange ballot.

Earl Eisenhower, brother of former President Eisenhower, is running on the Republican slate of state candidates. John Stevenson, son of Adlai Stevenson who was governor of Illinois from 1949-53 and twice Democratic candidate for president, is running on the Democratic ticket.

AND TO ADD to the general bewildering Illinois election picture, public opinion polls call the gubernatorial race between Democratic incumbent Otto Kerner and Republican industrialist Charles Percy a toss-up.

Every election must have losers. This year in Illinois it just could be the voter.

Iowa Band Will Feature 'Cities' Theme

The Hawkeye Marching Band will present a half-time show entitled "Metropolitan Merry-Go-Round" at the Ohio State game Saturday, according to Thomas L. Davis, assistant director of bands.

The show is a travelogue salute to several of America's large cities, Davis said.

San Francisco will be represented by a trolley car climbing a steep hill. Another selection will feature St. Louis, and Mrs. O'Leary's cow will again start the Chicago fire.

The band will conclude the show with a dance routine saluting New York.

The Scottish Highlanders will present a pre-game show, according to W. L. Adamson, Highlanders director.

They will enter the field to the Jensen Drum Beat, and at midfield they will play "Scotland the Brave."

Frederick C. Ebbs, director of bands, said the Ohio State Marching Band also would perform Saturday. Ebbs said the Ohio band uses a style similar to Iowa's.

Their show will feature the percussion section.

The Iowa band will preview its pre-game and half-time music in the Field House beginning at 12:15 p.m. Saturday, and the public is welcome to attend.

Conservation Issue On County Ballot

When Johnson County voters go to the polls next Tuesday, they will decide whether or not to create a county conservation board.

Backers of the proposal say such a board will encourage the orderly development and conservation of natural resources.

The system is also designed to permit counties to acquire and develop county parks, playgrounds, and recreation centers.

Seventy-four of Iowa's 99 counties have already authorized county conservation boards.

Kinnick, Bliss Are Nominated For Silver Anniversary Award

NEW YORK — The late Nile Clarke Kinnick Jr. and Dr. William Bliss of Ames are among 69 cited by their alma maters as candidates for this year's Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary All-America Awards. Nominated on the basis of their success in life in the 25 years since their senior collegiate gridiron days, the candidates from the 1939-40 season comprise a slate which sparkles with exciting football memories as well as an impressive record of career and community service achievement.

A posthumous nomination for Silver Anniversary All-America is unusual. In offering Nile Kinnick's name, the University of Iowa points out that his promise both as an athlete and a scholar were so great as to merit consideration for the award. Kinnick lost his life during World War II.

Dr. Bliss, nominated by Iowa State University, is an eminent surgeon and a member of the Iowa State athletic council. He is chief of staff and chief of surgery at Mary Greeley Hospital, chief of an independent clinic, chairman of the American Association of Medical Clinics research committee and a member of the inspection group to check graduate training facilities of the nation's hospitals for the College of Surgeons, the AMA and the American Hospital Association.

The final selection of the annual roster is made by a panel of distinguished judges, and announcement of the 25 winners will be made by the magazine in late November. This award is unique, however, in that nomination alone is regarded as a special honor, since colleges and universities do not nominate in a year when they do not have a candidate they deem to be of winning caliber.

Eighteen fields of endeavor are represented by the roster of candidates this year, ranging from evangelism to space research. The largest professional groups are in medicine, the armed services, education and business. They dramatically illustrate the purpose of the award, which is "to emphasize the pursuit of rounded human values in which athletics and education are joined."

Buckeyes Chant: 'Ban the Bomb'; Burns Is Annoyed

As Ohio State students were crying "Ban the Bomb" back in Columbus, Iowa Coach Jerry Burns became frustrated in Iowa City.

"This was absolutely my worst practice session during my four years at the University of Iowa," said Burns after a two-hour Hawk-eye workout Wednesday evening.

"I told the squad that unless they have a change in attitude, they would be embarrassed by Ohio State Saturday," he said.

The "Bomb" all the Buckeyes are worried about happens to be Gary Snook, Iowa quarterback who ranks second in total offense and third in national passing completions, according to NCAA statistics.

Snook, who has gained 1,284 yards on 215 plays in five games, is second only to Jerry Rhome of Tulsa in total offense. In passing, Snook has gained 1,285 yards on 95 completions.

Ohio State comes into Iowa City Saturday a well-tested team in the art of pass defense. The Buckeye secondary is headed by safety Arnie Chonko who has six interceptions for the season.

After three conference games, Iowa leads the Big Ten in net yards gained with a 368-yard per game average. They also lead in average numbers of yards per play with 5.6.

Gary Snook leads all Big Ten quarterbacks in passing with 62 completions in 128 attempts for 844 yards and five touchdowns in three games. He also leads in total offense with 833 yards in 141 plays.

Iowa's Dalton Kimble is second to Michigan quarterback Bob Timberlake in total scoring for three conference games with 24 points. Timberlake has 23.

Iowa flanker back Karl Noonan leads all Big Ten receivers with 26 catches for 376 yards and one touchdown, with three more conference games to play.

Jauch Says Fresh Squad Is Full of Good Backs and Ends

"If Iowa's 1964 freshman squad can be used as any indication of things to come, the Hawkeyes have an abundance of good running backs, defensive backs and ends for the next few seasons," said Coach Ray Jauch.

Reluctant to pick out any outstanding squad member so far this fall, Jauch did point to 12 who have impressed his coaching staff during the first four weeks of frosh drills. Seven of them are backs.

Cards, Yanks Divide Series Playing Money

NEW YORK (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals pocketed $3,622.19 each for winning the World Series and the New York Yankees collected $5,309.29 for each losing share.

Last year each Los Angeles Dodger got $12,794.00 and each Yankee $7,874.32. The small size of the St. Louis park made the difference.

Commissioner Ford Frick announced the financial figures Wednesday, pointing out that the fifth place teams — the Los Angeles Angels and Milwaukee Braves — shared in the Series cash for the first time.

Frick estimated the fifth place shares of $218.81 for each Brave and $195.62 for each Angel probably meant a difference of about $100 in the winning and losing shares.

THE BREAKDOWN confirmed he news that the Yankees had voted a full share to Mel Stottlemyre, the rookie pitcher who compiled a 9-3 record after coming up from Richmond in mid-August. Pete Ramos, the relief ace acquired from Cleveland in September, too late to be eligible for the Series, got a half share of $2,654.65.

The Cardinals whacked up 27 full shares, including Manager Johnny Keane and coach Vern Benson, both of whom later left to join the Yankees. Barney Schultz, the 38-year-old relief pitcher who was brought up from the minors in late season, got three-fourths of a share, or $6,466.64.

Reserve infielder Dal Maxvill, who played the entire Series due to injury to second baseman Julian Javier, also drew three-fourths of a share, as did pitchers Gordon Richardson, Bob Humphreys and infielder Phil Gagliano.

THE YANKS DIDN'T spare the horses and dished out 34 full shares, plus half shares to Ramos and Harry Bright, who was with the club only until May 13. They also parceled out a few cash awards. Bud Daley, troubled by a sore arm and shipped to the minors in early season, got a full cut.

The Chicago White Sox full share for second place was $1,466.01 but Cincinnati and Philadelphia, who tied for second in the National League, cut it a bit finer. Each Red got $1,254.76 and each Phil $1,163.63. Third place in the American League was worth $971.85 to each Baltimore Oriole.

Fourth money meant $509.69 for each Detroit Tiger full share and $467.57 for each San Francisco Giants full share.

THE DIFFERENCES in the shares, of course, resulted from the way the teams voted to split the swag.

Official attendance figures for the seven games were 321,807 with net receipts of $2,243,187.96.

The Cardinal and Yankee club management and the National and American Leagues each received $302,547.40 from the receipts.

Deep in the small print department was an award of two-thirds of a share or $130.41 to Bo Belinsky of the Angels, despite his being placed on the disqualified list after refusing to report to the minors following his suspension for allegedly hitting a sports writer.

RUNNERS SEEK FIRST WIN—Iowa's cross country team will make its third try for a victory when it meets Chicago Track Club here Saturday morning. Hawkeyes have lost to Wisconsin and Western Illinois. Lack of experienced runners is hurting the Hawkeyes.

works hard he will have a good chance to break in with the varsity next spring, but there is very little to keep their incentive up now. All they have now to look forward to is the weekly Monday afternoon scrimmages with the reserves who are not on the first two units of the varsity traveling squad. It's very easy for my players to let down," he said.

Jauch, still remembered vividly as a spirited leader and never-say-die halfback in Iowa's championship days in 1958-59, began his new duties as Iowa freshman coach early in September with the beginning of fall football drills.

OF THE 53 freshman football candidates out for drills, 26 are on athletic scholarships as provided by the Big Ten rivalry. Thirty scholarships is the maximum number any conference school can give out in one year for football players. Iowa will be able to "bank" four scholarships for another year under the current plan.

The list of those at Iowa on a football tender includes 11 Iowans and 15 from out-of-state. Here are those on tender, with home town listed, and the position where the coaching staff here at Iowa plans to use them:

Donald Baler, Royal Oak, Mich., tackle; Guy Bielek, Brookfield, Ill., halfback; Tom Brown, Deerfield, Ill., tackle; John Diehl, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, guard; Tom Elder, Huxley, end; Stewart Gaumer, Meadowbrook, Pa., guard and defensive end; Roosevelt Griffin, Dallas, Texas, halfback.

Also included are Roy Halstenberg, Champaign, Ill., end; John Hendricks, Boone, guard; Terry Huff, Davenport, guard; Gary Larsen, Detroit, Mich., halfback; Michael Lavery, Quincy, Ill., tackle; Farley Lewis, Dallas, Texas, quarterback; Larry Lust, Newton, quarterback; Charles Lynch, Cedar Falls, fullback; Phil Malzer, Park Forest, Ill., tackle; William McCutchen, Des Moines, halfback.

Also included are Silas McKinnie, Inkster, Mich., fullback; Donald Ott, Caledonia, Ill., fullback; Cornelius Patterson, Dixon, Ill., halfback; Chuck Roland, Des Moines, quarterback; Phil Schooley, Belle Plaine, quarterback; Don Shurr, Pontiac, Ill., end; David Strub, Merrill, fullback; Paul Usinowicz, Rompton Lakes, N.J., end; and Tony Williams, Davenport, halfback.

U.S. Olympic Boxer Wins with Broken Hand

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Heavyweight Joe Frazier, who won the Olympic gold medal at Tokyo, revealed Wednesday night he won the championship bout fighting with a broken left hand.

Frazier, in a local hospital receiving treatment for the injury, said he broke it in the second round of the semifinal.

Frazier, a Philadelphia slaughterhouse worker, gained a 3-2 decision over Hans Huber in last Friday's final. He didn't favor the hand in the bout, however, as reports of the fight said. He resorted to numerous left hooks throughout.

"It happened when I hit the Russian in the second round of the semifinal," Frazier said from his hospital bed. He won the semifinal by knocking out Vadim Yemelyanov in the second round.

Frazier was asked why he fought another bout, knowing his hand was broken. "Well, I didn't know the hand was that bad at first," he said. "I couldn't get a grip like I wanted to, so I started to soak it."

"It began to feel a little better and I felt I could make it through one more fight."

"Besides I'd gone all that way. I couldn't let one hand pull me back."

Muhammed Ali Predicts Liston To Fall in Nine

BOSTON (AP)—Cassius Clay or Muhammed Ali, the world's heavyweight champion by either name, predicts former champion Sonny Liston "will be mine in nine" when they meet in Boston on Nov. 16. "But I may have to shorten that a bit."

Clay held a full-blown press conference Wednesday when he kicked off his Boston training sessions. Most of the adjectives he used in the room crowded with sports writers, photographers and newsreel cameramen were in praise of his talents.

"There'll be no hurt shoulder," he said, referring to the February fight in which Clay won the title from Liston when Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh round because of an injured shoulder.

"This fight will end with Liston on his back," Clay said. "I'll guarantee that."

"I DIDN'T REALLY want to make a prediction on this fight," he said. "I didn't want to give Liston a chance to get back to his stool in the corner."

"I'm having some Sonny Liston sit-down stools made. You'll be able to buy them at the fight."

But this piece of prophecy was forthcoming nevertheless:

"RIGHT NOW, I'd say he's mine in nine, but I'm in such good shape — the best of my life — I

'Bad News' Barnes Signs with Knicks

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim (Bad News) Barnes, a member of the U.S. Olympic team, was signed Tuesday by the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association.

Barnes, 6-foot-8 and 240 pounds, was the Knicks' No. 1 draft choice last spring. At Texas Western last season he was the nation's sixth leading scorer with a 29.1-point average and fifth in rebounds with an average of 19.2. He scored 68 points in the United States' nine Olympic games.

He'll make his pro debut Friday night at Madison Square Garden against the Philadelphia 76ers, who recently signed Lucius Jackson, also a member of the U.S. Olympic team.

NFL Liberalizes 40-Man Limit

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Football League liberalized its 40-man player limit rule Tuesday to permit any team dropping below the 40-man limit to add one replacement.

This change would permit the Detroit Lions, who are down to one quarterback, Milt Plum, to pick up another quarterback by signing a free agent, activating a player who was placed on the injured reserve list or acquiring a player on waivers.

Under the previous interpretation of the rule, the 40-man rosters were frozen. No new men could be added until three players had been placed on reserve for the season because of injuries.

Stapleton Hopes His Team Will Be Ready for Army

AMES (AP)—Dr. Ralph Mohri, Ames city health commissioner, continued testing Wednesday to determine the cause of an apparent food poisoning outbreak which struck the Iowa State football team Monday.

All 13 players hospitalized with the ailment were playing Wednesday, but Coach Clay Stapleton said, "The players are very weak, and we have no idea if those who were hospitalized will be at 100 per cent strength for Army Saturday."

Quarterback Tim Van Gelder was in full uniform Wednesday, but Stapleton said his availability for the Army game is still doubtful.

Stapleton also indicated he has moved sophomore fullback Jim Lewis to tailback in order "to give us some depth with Eppie Barney and Tony Baker still limping."

The squad worked half an hour on pass offense Wednesday and will hold its last drill today before leaving for West Point.

2. Has the national campaign of your party brought to light issues you consider important locally?

Yes, reapportionment, federal aid to schools, Medicare, conduct of the war in South Viet Nam, farm programs, Appalachian beef industry.

3. If elected, in which areas of government will you feel most compelled to work?

I feel every point in answer to question one is important to work for.

4. Please state your views on the Constitutional Amendment?

If this amendment is adopted it means that the people of Iowa are assured the opportunity to approve or disapprove any amendments adopted by a constitutional convention. This is as it should be. In this way the constitution of Iowa will retain its stability and importance as a document.

5. What previous political experience do you have?

I was a precinct committeeman for four years and on the Johnson County Republican executive committee for two years.

6. How has your campaign been organized, and what is the most effective way of campaigning for you?

My campaign has been organized through the Johnson County Republican party. My campaign, I believe, shows the best results in this order — personal contacts, speaking to groups, radio and newspaper advertising.

DON'T NEED WEAPONS—

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — V. K. Krishna Menon, the acid-tongued ex-defense minister and U.N. delegate, contends it would be folly for India to think it must develop nuclear weapons because Red China has. Menon was sacked by the government for India's failure to prepare or cope with a Red China invasion two years ago.
