Council Sub-Committee Seeks To Stop Coralville Annexation

By PETIE SARLETTE
Staff Writer

The Iowa City subcommittee working for a mutual boundary agreement with Coralville said Monday it would ask the Iowa City Council to approve a resolution calling for legal action on the nullification of the recent Coralville annexation.

The subcommittee, composed of Mayor Richard Burger and Councilman Max Yocum, told a press conference it would report to the City Council that Coralville "has done nothing to rescind their recent annexation west and south of Iowa City and apparently does not intend to do so."

THE STATEMENT the subcommittee issued to the press said a joint committee from two city councils has met and agreed upon a mutual boundary. Although the Iowa City Council accepted the agreement, the Coralville council did not. Both councils previously had agreed to abide by the decisions of the joint committee.

The statement said the committee proposed the action "with deep regret, but it is apparent that Coralville's action was taken to strangle and block the natural growth and expansion of Iowa City, the University and the entire metropolitan area. This is an impossible situation which we cannot allow."

THE JOINT committee also agreed on a new sewer contract between the two cities which the Coralville council has also failed to accept, according to the statement.

Mayor Burger said the rates prescribed by the sewer contract would have lowered rates in Coralville, and possibly would have made them lower than the rates Iowa Citizens pay.

City Manager Carsten Leikvold said the only expenses Coralville would have had to pay under the new contract would have been maintenance costs.

The statement also said, "We do not believe that the Coralville council started this action on its own initiative or with any thought of malice toward Iowa City. More likely subtle pressures were brought to bear by self-seeking outside interests."

"We sincerely hope the Coralville council will rescind its action and that both cities can grow and prosper side by side as we have for so many years. Until this action is set aside, we will fight it with every means at our disposal."

Mayor Burger presented the statement to town until Wednesday. Burger predicted the Iowa City Council would "definitely" approve the resolution.

Also reported to be out of town was Coralville Mayor Clarence Wilson, who served on the joint committee.

Coralville Councilman Virgil Mortensen, the other representative to the joint committee, said if Iowa City passed the resolution, the subsequent legal action would center on finding a flaw in the Coralville annexation.

"It is possible they will find a flaw," Mortensen said.

Music Prof. Relates Europe Concert Tour

By CHUCK WANNINGER
Staff Writer

Charles Tregler, associate professor of music and world-famed violinist, returned home Monday after completing a three-month concert tour of Europe with the 11-piece Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra.

The tour, sponsored by the U.S. State Department, covered 14 countries in Europe, and the Near and Middle East. Tregler spoke of three highlights of the trip in an interview with The Daily Iowan.

FOR SHEER BEAUTY, Tregler said, his opening concert in Athens, Greece, was a great experience. The concert was held in the open air in the Classic Greek Theatre. Tregler reflected on the combination of the Parthenon in the background, the full moon overhead and the Mozart composition he played.

Tregler's return to Poland, where he played five concerts in five days to sell-out audiences was also a highlight, he said.

On a tour in 1962, Tregler became the first non-European to win the Wieniawski violin competition, named in honor of Polish composer and violinist, Henri Wieniawski.

Tregler's popularity in Poland brought huge crowds to the concert halls, and have since prompted him to plan to return to the country in the fall of 1965 and in May 1966.

For grandeur of performance,

Tregler preferred The Edinburgh Festival in Scotland. Here he played before a formally-attired audience which included Queen Elizabeth of England.

Tregler and William Steinberg, the Pittsburgh Symphony director, were presented to the Queen at the Festival. The Queen asked Tregler about his position at Iowa, he said.

TREGER SAID European audiences were less ready to accept a piece of music than American audiences. They are often "quite snobbish in listening," he said, citing an instance when the audience hissed at a performance in Italy.

The American audience is more conservative in response, while the European audience is often very vocal and demonstrative, he said.

"As a performer, I am international," he said. "I don't play for one town, for one country, or for one people. I play what I want to play."

THE TREGER family has been together a total of eight days since the tour began Aug. 6. Tregler's wife, Deborah, and two daughters, Lisa and Robin, met him for five days in Lucerne, Switzerland and then returned to Iowa City.

Tregler will stay with his family a short time before beginning a series of appearances in the United States, including a performance with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Nov. 13 at Minneapolis.

Record 71 Million Expected To Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater wound up their long, bitter campaign Monday night, each stressing that Tuesday's election offers a fateful choice for Americans and the world.

Then with the sound and fury of thousands of miles and millions of words behind them, they head for home to await the verdict of an estimated 71 million American voters — which would be a record turnout.

Both Johnson and Goldwater know all the national polls point to a victory for the President, many even predicting a landslide. Johnson hopes for a triumph more smashing than Franklin D. Roosevelt's in 1936.

HIS AIDES will concede to Goldwater only the two Deep Southern states of Mississippi and Alabama — and in the latter the President's name isn't even on the ballot.

The Republican Presidential candidate, however, says he doesn't believe the polls and is predicting the "upset of the century" Tuesday. His lieutenants say he has a chance in every state except Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Alaska and Hawaii.

And in a speech prepared for a rally Monday in San Francisco — where he won the GOP Presidential nomination two months and 80,000 miles ago — Goldwater told the audience:

"TOMORROW, it will be up to you. Tomorrow is the day that you can prove that you still run this country — not the politicians, not the pollsters nor the computers, none of these."

Johnson and Goldwater each stressed in his last day of campaigning that he would preserve peace and freedom.

Apparently already tasting victory, Johnson said in a speech in Houston, "Our work after this election will be to heal the wounds of the campaign and to rebuild the unity of people."

THE NATION, he said, "cannot endure in bitterness."

Goldwater said that his speech Monday in San Francisco was the same as his first one. "Every word I have just spoken to you is from the first speech of the Presidential campaign."

"The issues have not changed. I have not changed. The challenge and the choice have not changed."

So thus ends what has been called the most bitter presidential campaign in modern times. And all signs indicate a large vote Tuesday.

AN ASSOCIATED Press survey of election officials and observers in the 50 states and the District of Columbia brought an estimate that 71 million will vote.

And mild weather is in the offing for most of the nation, according to the forecasters.

Beginning at one minute after midnight in some small New England towns, the voters will give the verdict that will decide not only the presidency but will fill all 435 House seats, 35 senatorships and 25 governors' chairs.

Many of the lesser candidates will rise or fall with the fortunes of the No. 1 man on their ticket although widespread ticket-splitting is forecast — by Republicans who don't go along with Goldwater's conservative views and by Southerners and others who reject Johnson's civil rights stand.

BUT EVEN with ticket-splitting, if Johnson wins on the massive scale predicted by some pollsters, many Democrats may ride into Congress and statehouses on the President's coattails.

And some of these seesaw races have won almost as much national attention as the Johnson-Goldwater battle.

Former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is in a tight, tough battle in New York in his effort to oust Republican Kenneth B. Keating from his Senate seat.

And in California Sen. John Salinger, the late President John F. Kennedy's press secretary, is in just as tough a battle to keep his appointive Senate seat against a challenge by former song-and-dance man George Murphy.

Local Results To Aid Iowa Vote 'Profile'

By JON VAN
Managing Editor

Election results from Johnson County will take on added significance this year as part of the Network Election Service system of "profile counties."

To aid communication across the country in processing election results and making "projected predictions" before the final vote is tabulated, the 10 most populous counties in Iowa, including Johnson County, will provide special coverage of the races for President and governor.

SCHOOL TEACHERS in each of the county's precincts will telephone results of the Johnson-Goldwater, Hughes-Hultman contests to the Associated Press in Des Moines on a special "hot line."

Other results will be sent later through regular channels.

The Associated Press itself will not make predictions, but the information it gathers will be combined with other information and fed into computers for "projected results" from television and other media.

IT IS LIKELY that traditionally Democratic Johnson County will register large majorities for President Johnson and Gov. Hughes.

This trend will probably dominate the state. Johnson and Hughes appears to be shoo-ins in Iowa.

Time magazine rates the President as "well ahead" in Iowa. Recent polls by the Des Moines Register and Wallace Farmer magazine reinforce this prediction.

GOV. HUGHES has consistently led his opponent, Evan Hultman, in polls taken by Wallace Farmer of Iowa farmers. This, added to the usual Democratic strength in urban areas, make him appear unbeatable.

Although Johnson County will probably back Democrats out the line, the outcome of other contests is not easily predictable.

Republican Fred Schwengel has 10 years experience as a congressman working for him in the first district race, but his opponent, John Schmidhauser, has been campaigning hard and this looks like a Democratic year. The results will be close, but Schwengel has a slight edge.

STATE OFFICES from lieutenant governor down may be closer than usual, but Republicans are favored. Iowans have a habit of furnishing Democratic governors with all-Republican teams in the State House.

A strong Democratic sweep and some extended coat-tail action courtesy of Gov. Hughes and President Johnson could, however, upset this habit.

Truman Recovers From Injuries; Back at Office

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman was back in his office Monday for the first time since Oct. 13 when he fell in the bathroom of his home and suffered two fractured ribs and a head cut.

The 80-year-old former President spent several hours at his office. He said he plans to be there short periods each day. His staff said he will not be receiving visitors or taking telephone calls.

At his home, Mrs. Truman said the former President would vote Tuesday, but she said she did not know when he planned to go to the polling place several blocks from his home.

A Nation Decides 24,000 Vote Predicted From Johnson County

More than 24,000 Johnson County residents are expected to vote today, according to County Auditor Dolores Rogers.

Some officials have predicted that as many as 15,000 persons will cast ballots in Iowa City.

Polls in the 15 voting precincts in Iowa City will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. In the 24 county voting precincts outside Iowa City, polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Polling places in Iowa City are: Ward 1 Precinct 1 — Court House; Ward 1 Precinct 2 — Roosevelt School; Ward 2 Precinct 1 — Women's Gym; Ward 2 Precinct 2 — Fine Arts Building; Ward 2 Precinct 3 — Lincoln School; and Ward 3 Precinct 1 — C.S.A. Hall.

Also Ward 3 Precinct 2 — Horace Mann School; Ward 4 — Precinct 1 — Junior High Gym; Ward 4 Precinct 2 — Civic Center; Ward 4 Precinct 3 — Iowa City High School; Ward 4 Precinct 4 — Hoover School; Ward 5 Precinct 1 — Welfare Building; Ward 5 Precinct 2 — Longfellow School; Ward 5 Precinct 3 — Mark Twain School; Ward 5 Precinct 4 — Southeast Junior High.

THREE PUBLIC HEARINGS are scheduled to head the Iowa City Council's agenda for tonight. The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center.

The hearings concern rezoning of property on East Market Street to permit multiple family dwellings, rezoning of the Englert tract in north Iowa City to permit commercial construction, and issuing of a special permit to allow mobile homes on Lower Muscatine Avenue.

According to Mayor Richard Burger, Iowa City members of the joint committee of Iowa City and Coralville will also ask the council to pass a resolution asking for legal action which would nullify the recent Coralville annexation.

ATTY. GEN. EVAN HULTMAN, Republican candidate for governor, said Monday that newsmen missed the point of the matter when they reported his disclosure that Gov. Harold Hughes once was arrested for drunken driving.

"The fact that the governor was arrested for driving while intoxicated 10 years ago has no relevance to this election — but his compromise with truth on an official document this year while governor goes to the heart of it," Hultman said in a prepared statement.

CROWN PRINCE FAISAL was proclaimed King of Saudi Arabia in a move Monday that dethroned his brother, ailing King Saud. Faisal, 60, has been virtual ruler of the desert Arab kingdom since Saud failed in an attempt to oust him as prime minister in a power struggle in February.

HIDDEN MICROPHONES were discovered in the U.S. Embassy building in Warsaw, Poland, last month and the United States protested the violation of embassy immunity, the State Department announced Monday.

The Polish authorities "have denied any responsibility and knowledge" of the bugging system, Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said.

DANISH COMMUNIST LEADER Knud Jespersen came home Monday from Moscow saying he understands Nikita Khrushchev is suffering from sclerosis.

He told a news conference that Soviet officials also told him the 70-year-old former Soviet premier was living somewhere outside Moscow.

The officials "did not conceal that a series of Khrushchev's mistakes was due specifically to his disease," Jespersen said.

Democrats Confident As Iowans Vote Today

DES MOINES (AP) — The long and sometimes explosive 1964 election campaign ends Tuesday when an estimated 1,285,000 Iowans go to the polls.

Voters in 42 counties will cast their ballots on voting machines with those in the other 57 counties voting on paper ballots. The polls open at 7 a.m. in cities which require registration, and at 8 a.m. elsewhere. Voting ends at 8 p.m. in all 2,476 precincts.

Area Voters Will Decide Four Issues

Local campaigns will climax today when voters decide the questions of adding land to Iowa City, selling a water system to Coralville, establishing a Johnson County Conservation Board and amending the Iowa Constitution.

Annexation by Iowa City has already been before the voters this year. A proposal to add over nine square miles to the city was defeated June 1.

The current annexation measure, if approved, would increase the city's size by 5.64 square miles. The area surrounds the present city limits and would bring about 114 residences and approximately 10 miles of roads into Iowa City.

CITY VOTERS will also decide whether to sell the water system located in Coralville to that municipality. Iowa City now operates the system and sells water to Coralville.

Voters in Johnson County will vote on establishing a County Conservation Board. If approved, the board would co-ordinate county parks and recreational facilities.

IOWA VOTERS will decide if amendments to the Iowa Constitution recommended by a constitutional convention should be placed before the voters before any such amendments can take effect.

Candidates for whom Johnson County residents will vote are: CONGRESSIONAL: Fred Schwengel, Republican incumbent seeking re-election for a sixth term in the house of representatives. Before being elected to Congress in 1954, Schwengel served five terms in the state house of representatives.

John R. Schmidhauser, Democrat seeking election for the first time. He served as Johnson County Democratic Chairman for three years.

STATE SENATOR: D. C. Nolan, Republican incumbent seeking his fourth term in the state senate.

Robert J. Burns, Democrat, seeking an elective office for the first time. Burns has served as a Johnson County committee man.

STATE REPRESENTATIVES (Vote for Two): Dale Erickson, Republican, making his second bid for a seat in the state house of representatives. He has been a Johnson County committee man.

Samuel B. Whiting, Republican, has served as a member of the Iowa City Council and the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Minnette Doderer, Democratic incumbent seeking re-election. She served in the House of Representatives during the Extraordinary Session.

Bruce E. Mahan, Democratic incumbent seeking re-election, for a second term. Served as legislative consultant for the University for nearly 40 years.

JOHNSON COUNTY SHERIFF: Donald L. Wilson, Republican, chief deputy sheriff for the past 16 years.

Maynard E. Schneider, Democrat, received the party nomination after no candidate received a majority in the primary.

JOHNSON COUNTY ATTORNEY Marion R. Neely, Republican and present Johnson County Republican Chairman.

Daniel W. Boyle, Democrat, served as Iowa City Police Judge in 1963-64.

JOHNSON COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS: Emil Novy, Democrat — for 1965 term.

Ed L. Kessler, Democrat — for 1966 term.

JOHNSON COUNTY AUDITOR: Mrs. Nora Dobbe, Republican seeking first elective office.

Mrs. Dolores Rogers, Democratic incumbent seeking re-election to a second term. She has worked in the Auditor's Office since 1955.

Among those voting will be Democratic Gov. Harold Hughes and Republican Atty. Gen. Evan Hultman, rivals for the governor's office.

HUGHES, 42, will vote in his home town of Ida Grove, where he went Monday afternoon. After casting his ballot about 8 a.m., Hughes plans to return to Des Moines and watch television coverage of the election at the governor's mansion.

Hultman, 39, of Waterloo, will vote there and spend the day with his family before driving to Des Moines to join other Republicans as the returns are counted Tuesday night.

The two gubernatorial candidates could attract the biggest vote in the state, although normally more Iowans cast votes for president than for any other office.

THERE HAS been a fairly strong sentiment among Iowans against both Democratic President Lyndon Johnson and the Republican nominee, Sen. Barry Goldwater, with the possibility some may not vote for President.

As the campaign headed into the final hours Monday, there was speculation about voter reaction to accusations last Friday by Hultman that Hughes had made an emotional appeal for votes through a national magazine about his fight to conquer alcoholism.

HULTMAN'S claim centered around the fact that the story said Hughes quit drinking in 1952. An application for a chauffeur's license showed the governor's license was revoked on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated in 1954.

Hughes, who has made no secret of the fact that he once was an alcoholic, said there apparently was a mixup in dates in the magazine article. He said Hultman was dragging up the past "to blacken my reputation."

Hultman's charge brought quick reaction from some politicians, including Republican Lt. Gov. W. L. Mooty, 58, who is seeking a third term.

Mooty said he did not think Hughes' drinking in years gone by should be a part of the campaign. Several Republican state office holders indicated in private conversations Monday that Hultman's charge could backfire and cost him votes. Some newspaper editorials were sharply critical of Hultman.

DEMOCRATS, saying that most polls show Johnson and Hughes with sizeable leads over their opponents, are hoping that big Democratic margins for the top offices will help sweep Democratic candidates for state office, congress and the legislature into office.

The last time Iowans favored both the Democratic Presidential and gubernatorial candidates was in the 1936 election, and that year the Democrats won all six state offices and five of the nine congressional seats.

The only Iowa Democrat now in Congress is Rep. Neal Smith, 44, of Altoona. Republicans also hold all state offices — except governor — as they have since 1938.

CONSIDERABLE interest has centered around the election of state representatives and senators who will serve in the reapportioned Iowa Legislature.

Also on the ballot will be a constitutional amendment which provides that any changes in the Constitution proposed at future constitutional conventions be ratified by a vote of the people.

And Iowans for the first time also will vote on whether Supreme Court and District Court judges shall be retained in office. Previously judges ran against opponents as do other political candidates.

But this year 5 Supreme Court justices and 60 District Court judges whose terms are expiring will stand on their records. Voters will be retained.

After the shouting

THE CLICHE ENDING to an election campaign is the statement that "it's all over except the shouting." But shouting has been the only thing present throughout the entire campaign.

The voters will go to the polls today and pull levers and mark ballots for the candidate of their choice, or else the candidate they are least opposed to. But the tabulation of all these choices and the victory announcements and concession statements will only resolve who is to sit in the White House for the next four years, not the important issue that has developed because of the nature of the Presidential campaign: responsibility in politics.

This is not to belittle the importance of all the lever-polling. The position of President of the United States has been and will continue to be vitally important in the future of the world. American voters must exercise judicious consideration in deciding who they select to man this important post.

But this is precisely where the campaign has been not only disappointing, but damaging. Neither candidate has aimed his campaign at the rational powers of the voters.

Rather than presenting thoughtful programs on important problems such as the domestic crisis in civil rights and the American Negroes' claim for rightful citizenship, we have seen a superficial debate on individual and states' rights.

Rather than concern over the environments that create and nurture juvenile delinquency and more sophisticated forms of crime, we hear rousing denunciations of the products of these situations.

Rather than offering a practical approach to the moral issues of the present and future (one of the most obvious being how is the American concept of freedom going to be reconciled with our "mass society.") the candidates have given us examples of name-calling and petty politics that we hoped would be absent from such an important contest.

Neither Johnson nor Goldwater has done anything to enhance the office of the Presidency or the name of politics.

In a time when the power structure of the world is in flux, with the possession of nuclear power by the Chinese, this particular fault is a very great disservice.

A political campaign, particularly for the Presidency, should be a time for discussion of important issues, not washroom trivia or glittering generalities. There is an issue to be made of morality in government, but like so many "issues" in the campaign, the real question was not discussed by either candidate, only the superficial.

So here we are. The campaign has been disappointing, even damaging, but we are still left with all those levers at the polling booths. Hopefully, when people vote, they will weigh the constructive benefits that the candidates can offer in office, and try to sift all the irrationality from the promises.

Perhaps the best question the voter can ask himself is which of the candidates will be able to deal with crisis, both domestic and international, in the most realistic, rational manner? Which of the two men will deal with the real problems at stake, rather than spouting the traditional cries of freedom and liberty?

However the big race may go, we can only hope that the voters will be discriminating enough to also elect capable men at the lower levels, regardless of their political affiliation. Straight ticket voting, when it eliminates a good man for the sake of that nebulous thing called "The Party" is a blind sort of loyalty.

And when it is all over, including the shouting, we hope that there will be a rational assessment of the political behavior of both sides in the past six months and that responsible men will see that a Presidential race does not repeat the follies of this one. We also hope that the winner will rise to the dignity of his office.

As for the campaign, all that will be left Wednesday morning will be some determined shouting — and a bitter taste in the mouths of many Americans.

Spanish Lesson To ease post-election ills take a loser to lunch

By WILLIAM ARCHER

A) I want to eat.
B) Quiero comer.
C) Key-AIR-o-co-MARE.
A) I want to go to eat.
B) Quiero ir a comer.
C) Key-AIR-o-ear/ah/co-MARE.
A) I am going.
B) Voy a.
C) Voy/ah.
A) I am going to go to eat.
B) Voy a ir a comer.
C) Voy/ah/ear/ah/co-MARE.
Isn't it easy when you use and reuse the same words in the future tense that you learned in the present? You simply change "keys" ("quiero" to "voy a") and the sentences you have learned in the present tense convert to the future tense.

Copyrighted by The Speed Speech Corporation, 1963. Next, we will show you how you can convert what you already know to the past tense.

Lesson No. 5
Reading time 3 Min.
Study time 5 Min.
You have been given two "keys" — No. 1, "quiero" and No. 2, "voy a" —

No. 1 —
A) I want.
B) Quiero.
C) Key-AIR-o.
No. 2 —
A) I am going.
B) Voy a.
C) Voy/ah.

Now, here is "key" No. 3 — "fui a." It is pronounced in English sound, "foo-EE/ah," and it means, "I went."

No. 3 —
A) I went to eat (I ate).
B) Fui a comer.
C) Foo-EE/ah/co-MARE.
Isn't this simple? You can express yourself in the present, past and future tenses with just three sounds: "quiero" — "voy a" — "fui a."

All you need now are the infinitives of verbs, to which you can attach your "keys," and you are on your way:

- A) to eat
 - B) comer
 - C) Co-MARE
 - A) to drink
 - B) beber
 - C) bay-BEAR
 - A) to sleep
 - B) dormir
 - C) door-MEAR
 - A) to go
 - B) ir
 - C) ear
 - A) to see
 - B) ver
 - C) vair
 - A) to hear
 - B) or
 - C) oh-EAR
- Simply by using your three "keys," you use only three sounds to unlock the present, past, and future tenses.
- 1) I want to eat, drink, sleep, go, see, hear, etc.
 - 2) I am going to go to eat, drink, sleep, etc.
 - 3) I went to eat, drink, sleep, etc. (I ate, drank, slept, etc.)
- Until now, you have been given only the first person singular of the present, past and future tenses. In following lessons, you will be shown how to employ all persons without conjugations. Remember — we promised that you could conquer the present, past and future tenses with just six sounds. You already have three — "quiero," "voy a" and "fui a."

By ART BUCHWALD

In a few days the 1964 election will be over and once again it will be time to mend fences and make up to the people who happened to be on the other side. It behooves each winner to search in his heart and find words of solace for the loser.

In 1960 we made a plea to those who had voted for Richard Nixon not to leave the United States. As you recall, 97 per cent of all Republicans said they would leave the country if Mr. Nixon didn't get in. Most of these people said they would go to Canada, which had the Canadian immigration authorities worried sick.

This year we have heard many Goldwater supporters vow they would not stay in the country if President Johnson got elected, and once again the Canadian government has requested that people reconsider their threats.

"If the polls are right," a Canadian immigration officer told us, "we could wind up with 20 million Republicans moving to Canada this year, and we just can't handle them."

"But most Goldwater supporters have said they can't live in the United States under Johnson and Humphrey."

"We're in sympathy with them, but why don't they go to Argentina?"

In order to help Canada we believe it is up to everyone to persuade the losing side to remain in the United States.

Letter on press bias

To the Editor:

Mr. Stafford's diatribe in the Oct. 28 Daily Iowan against the nation's press for being biased against Sen. Goldwater may be put in context by pointing out the inaccuracy of only one of his statements. He cites the refusal of the New York Times to carry paid political advertisements in support of Sen. Goldwater as a "flagrant example of bias."

If Mr. Stafford would read the New York Times, he would find that this is just not so. For example, the New York Times of Oct. 23 carried a paid political advertisement for Sen. Goldwater on page 47.

The reason why the nation's press seems unfair to Sen. Goldwater is because it accurately reports what he says.

There are many things that could be done.

One would be to proclaim a "Take a Loser to Lunch Week." During this week the winners would take the losers to the restaurant of their choice. While the losers were eating the winners could explain to them where the losers made their biggest mistakes. This would bind the wounds and bring the winners and losers closer together again.

Another way to help would be for a winner's family to pay a call on a loser's family and distribute baskets of food, toys, and clean second-hand clothing. The winner could explain the reason for the charity was that the loser had predicted the country would go to blazes if Johnson got in, and therefore the loser could probably use the gifts.

If they wanted to make a community effort we think the winners could throw a huge post-election barbecue for the losers in the town square. Each winner would be assigned a loser and he would be responsible for making him happy.

He could present the loser with a Texas sombrero and any Johnson-Humphrey buttons he had left over from the campaign.

He could teach the loser the words to "Hello, Lyndon" and read him excerpts from Johnson speeches. The trick would be to make the loser forget all about the election.

Of course there is always the outside chance that Barry Goldwater might win the election. In this case there would be 80 million people wanting to go to Canada. The Canadians seem to have more to lose in this election than anybody.

'A Nation of Immigrants'— Kennedy book introduced

The Daily Iowan will publish "A Nation of Immigrants," by John F. Kennedy beginning Wednesday. This is the book that President Kennedy was completing when he was assassinated.

One chapter from the book will be published each week. Below is the introduction by Robert F. Kennedy.

I know of no cause which President Kennedy championed more warmly than the improvement of our immigration policies. Our attitude toward the immigrant has gradually matured to a full appreciation of the contribution he can make and has made to American life. Much of the story of that development is set forth in this book. But recent years have witnessed a legislative lag.

Every forward step in immigration legislation since World War II bore the John F. Kennedy imprint: the Displaced Persons Act and the Refugee Relief Act, which he sponsored while in Congress; the 1957 bill to bring families together, which he led to passage in the Senate; and the comprehensive reform of our law which he recommended to Congress as President.

In 1958, while the fight for the 1957 amendments was still fresh, he published his first edition of this book. It was deliberately designed to provide those who were unfamiliar with this aspect of our history with an appreciation of the enormous contributions to American life made by immigrants. He felt that this understanding was essential to any future effort to eliminate the discrimination and cruelty of our immigration laws.

When President Kennedy sent his historic message to Congress calling for a complete revision of the law, he decided it was also time to revise the book for use as a weapon of enlightenment in the coming legislative battle.

He was working on the book at the time of the assassination. It was decided that it should be published posthumously. This legacy should not be denied those committed to the battle for immigration reform.

President Kennedy's interest in the immigrant and in the law governing his admission to the United States sprang from many sources. He was himself only two generations removed from an immigrant. On his sentimental visit to Ireland in June of 1963, he stood at the spot from which Patrick Kennedy embarked, and said:

"When my great-grandfather left here to become a cooper in East Boston, he carried nothing with him except a strong religious faith and a strong desire for liberty. If he hadn't left, I would be working at the Albatross Company across the road."

For fourteen years, in the House and in the Senate, he represented Massachusetts, which has the highest percentage of foreign nationality groups of any state in our country. President Kennedy met with them, in their homes and factories, at their picnics and cultural events. He admired their heritage and their determination to succeed. A student of history, President Kennedy understood the fruitful interplay between the immigrants and the nation they adopted. They must be given full credit for changing America from a colony to a leader of the free world, from a predominantly agricultural economy to a highly diversified, highly skilled industrial complex.

Our attitude toward immigration reflects our faith in the American idea. We have always believed it possible for men and women who start at the bottom to rise as far as their talent and energy allow. Neither race nor creed nor place of birth should affect their chances.

There is no reason to believe that anything has happened to change the relation between America and its immigrants. The number of people who wish to come here today is much smaller than it was in the nineteenth century. But their aspirations are the same. Their need is as great. The contribution they can make is, if anything, even greater.

In this book, President Kennedy tells us that immigrants have done for America, and what America has done for its immigrants. It is one of the dramatic success stories of world history. I am very happy that this book is being reissued now, so it can stand as a testament to a cause President Kennedy cherished, and which we should carry on.

Poll choices enumerated

By BISWANATH SHAW
Staff Writer

The Gallup Poll's final national survey completed Friday evening on the 1964 presidential race predicts 64 per cent of popular votes for Lyndon Johnson and 36 per cent for Barry Goldwater.

George Gallup comments, "An interesting aspect of the present race is that it ends almost exactly where it began. Johnson holds virtually the same lead with which he started the race after the G.O.P. convention."

The following table shows the trend of Gallup Polls:

Year	Johnson	Goldwater	Undecided
1928	41%	41%
1932	59	60
1936	62	64
1940	55	55
1944	54	54
1948	55	55
1952	45	44
1956	42	42
1960	50	51

The following table shows the trend of Gallup Polls:

Time of Poll	Johnson	Goldwater	Undecided
Late July	59%	31%	10%
Early August	63	29	6
Late September	62	32	6
Oct. 18 (semifinal)	61	29	7
Oct. 30 (final)	61	32	7

On the basis of business trends and past voting habits, the U.S. News & World Report of Nov. 2, 1964 reports — Johnson will carry 35 states including the District of Columbia and will get 428 electoral votes. The presidential candidate needs 270 electoral votes to win.

But the past voting habits will not be a reliable basis for forecast this year since in many states the pattern is going to be changed. Political analysts and the pollsters agree that the normally Democratic South is leaning towards Goldwater. According to the political experts by the end of last month, 23 states were leaning to Johnson with 862 electoral votes. Seven states were leaning to Goldwater with 48 electoral votes and 15 states with 128 electoral votes were listed as uncertain states.

The fourth and final presidential survey conducted by the Christian Science Monitor indicates Johnson has a commanding lead over his Republican opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater. A state-by-state assessment shows Sen. Goldwater ahead in only four states with 94 electoral votes.

An analysis of the polls in the 13 big-city states (California, Illinois, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wisconsin) shows that the Democratic percentage of the total vote for major party nominees has been almost parallel to the percentage of national average since 1928.

The following table shows a comparative picture of the Democratic percentage of the total vote for major party nominees in the entire country and in the 13-big-city States:

Year	U.S.	13 Big-City States
1928	41%	41%
1932	59	60
1936	62	64
1940	55	55
1944	54	54
1948	55	55
1952	45	44
1956	42	42
1960	50	51

In 1964 presidential elections it is estimated to be 61 per cent for the entire country as against 60.6 per cent for the 13 big-city states according to the latest available national and statewide poll results.

Louis H. Bean devised a new check method of election predictions. According to him the political temperature in certain key states rises and falls in almost exact parallel with the nation's. Since 1928, for instance, Ohio has followed the national trend, going up and down in unison but always giving the Democrats a lower percentage of the total than the nation.

In 1960 Kennedy received about 47 per cent of the popular vote in Ohio, about 3 per cent less than he got in the nation at large. In 1956, Adlai Stevenson received 39 per cent in Ohio, as against 42 per cent in the country. This indicates that a Democratic candidate must poll 47 per cent of the Ohio vote to carry the nation.

According to the latest available poll results Johnson will get 61 per cent in the entire country as against 55 per cent in Ohio. The difference indicates 6 per cent between the national votes and Ohio percentage. The polls are, however, usually accurate within 5 per cent.

The Christian Science Monitor reports almost unanimity among all pollsters across the country, nationwide, and local — that President Johnson will win and that he will win very heavily.

The nationwide Gallup Poll shows 61 per cent for Johnson, 32 per cent for Goldwater and 7 per cent undecided while Louis H. Bean's poll predicts 60 per cent for Johnson, 34 per cent for Goldwater and 6 per cent undecided. Several other statewide and local polls also show almost similar results.

A survey of the opinion of the leading political analysts in all 50 states, made in the closing days of the campaign, forecasts a victory for Lyndon Johnson and the Democrats over Barry Goldwater, the Republican candidate, according to the U.S. News & World Report of November 2, 1964.

AWS Co-ordinates Events

(Sixth in a series on Campus Organizations)
(First Part)

Most University women find themselves a part of Associated Women Students (AWS) at the University of Iowa, whether it is through committee participation, attending Mother's Day activities, or appearing before the Judiciary boards in their living units for a rule infraction. All undergraduate women are automatically members of AWS, which has existed as an organization on campus since 1916.

The Women's League was formed during World War I to knit scarves for soldiers. It also held teas at this time.

In 1923, the organization changed its name to the Women's Association, and in 1935 changed its name again to the University Women's Association (UWA). UWA kept its name for more than 20 years as it began to participate in all areas of campus activities and initiate traditions such as Spinsters' Spree.

UWA also initiated student participation in and regulation of women's judiciary activities in 1953. Before this time all the work had been done by the Dean of Women's office on reports from housing units.

In 1954, UWA again had its name changed to AWS, to conform with the name of the national organization. The University of Iowa chapter of AWS is one of eight in Iowa which belong to International AWS, the only organization which represents college women on a national level.

According to Linda Beth Creed, N4, Newton, president of AWS, the purpose of the chapter is "to stimulate the development of an educated woman who is aware of the world around her in the international, social, political and intellectual spheres."

AWS activities on campus follow the same four major activity spheres. More emphasis has been placed on the international political and intellectual spheres in the past two years.

The ORGANIZATIONAL structure of AWS consists of an executive council — president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, a freshman council advisor and the housing representatives — one from each house in Burge Hall, and two from Currier Hall. One representative from Panhellenic council and 16 project chairmen complete the structure.

The project chairmen usually have from one to seven subcommittees working under them for large events such as Profile Previews, Mother's Day Weekend, Orientation and Spinsters' Spree.

A typical arrangement for a large activity was that of Profile Previews, which had a general chairman and seven subcommittee chairmen. These included an arts chairman, a publicity chairman, a hostess chairman, styles chairman, entertainment chairman, and script writer and narrator. Over 400 girls applied to be in the style show which is held annually during Homecoming Week.

The committees drew up the general plans, held "tip sessions" for the selected models on how to walk and pivot, arranged for preliminary and final judges and screened applications.

THE CHAIRMAN for Mother's Day Weekend is usually announced early in the spring semester, and usually has approximately 40 girls working on subcommittees. Events which these committees plan are: selection of the SUI Mother of the Year, the Mother's Day Luncheon tours of the campus, and University Sing.

A faculty committee advises and helps the Mother's Day chairman.

The Profile Previews chairman and subcommittee members, as well as Mother's Day Weekend committee members, are chosen each year by the AWS Personnel Screening Board.

THE SCREENING committee this year, headed by Betty McGowan, A4, Mount Pleasant, interviews all applicants for positions on committees and then informs them if they have been accepted. This committee's work is quite substantial because of the numerous committees and subcommittees under the direction and sponsorship of AWS.

Code for Coeds, a handbook directed mainly at freshmen and transfer students is an AWS project designed to acquaint women with the campus and women's regulations. The handbook is sent out during the summer and has completely original material this year. It was written and edited by Marilee Teegen, A4, Davenport. Code for Coeds has a $600 budget allocated by the AWS General Council and contains information on residence halls, sororities, cultural opportunities, study hints, a campus calendar, honorary fraternities and campus map.

A section of the handbook also discusses fears that may arise when the new student faces campus life at the University of Iowa for the first time.

(Part II tomorrow)

to improve courses and establish new ones, the use of laboratory equipment, student research projects, and library acquisitions.

The program is also designed to stimulate undergraduate science students to go on to graduate school through discussions between visiting scientists and the students on such things as how to pick a graduate school, the availability of fellowships and academic requirements necessary for acceptance.

Billy Graham Won't Make Endorsement

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, who says he will remain neutral in the Presidential election, was bombarded with an estimated 50,000 to 60,000 telegrams Monday urging him to endorse a candidate.

Although no count was available, there were indications that messages asking Graham to back Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater far outnumbered those asking him to publicly support President Johnson.

Sources close to the Graham family said pro-Goldwater telegrams outnumbered pro-Johnson messages about 50-1 when the telegrams first started pouring in. Graham could not be reached for comment.

Graham said Sunday in a statement that he would not take a public stand on the presidential election.

"I have the privilege of being personal, long-time friends with both President Johnson and Sen. Goldwater," Graham said. "Both President Johnson and Richard Nixon have advised me on several occasions to stay out of politics and I intend to follow their advice."

Foreign Students Dine and Dance At Fairgrounds

Some 100 foreign students, representing 34 countries, sampled American food and attempted square dancing at a supper and party Friday night at the 4-H fairgrounds here.

The supper and party were hosted by the Iowa City Womens Club, a local organization with more than 200 members.

Now an annual activity of the club, Iowa City women first began inviting foreign students in 1949. A five-member international party committee is in charge of the program.

The party is one of the main events in the orientation of foreign students. It exposes them for the first time to typical American social gathering.

Marketing Club To Meet

Six marketing professors will participate in a discussion during a meeting of the Student Marketing Club at 7 p.m. today at the North Sun Porch of the Union. Club members are asked to be present at the main lobby of the Union at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday when Hawk-eye pictures will be taken.

WOMEN OF TRINITY — Women of Trinity will meet for a 1 p.m. luncheon Wednesday, at Trinity Episcopal Parish House, 320 E. College St.

Mrs. J. E. Christiansen, president of the Episcopal Church Women of Iowa, and Mrs. Richard Anderson will be guest speakers.

Convicted Slayer Sent to State Pen For 60-year Term

Robert Lee Washington, confessed murderer of John W. Cavanaugh, left Johnson County jail for the state penitentiary at Fort Madison Saturday to begin a 60-year sentence of hard labor.

Washington was sentenced Friday morning in Johnson County District Court after pleading guilty to a charge of second-degree murder.

District Judge James P. Gaffney Friday set appeal bond at $50,000. A. C. Cahill, defense attorney, said Monday he planned no appeal.

Washington, 27, was enrolled as an economics major August 8 when the murder occurred. He lettered in basketball at the University in 1953 and 1954.

Unverferth Spilled

Iowa's Ivory McDowell (11) and Dave Long (88) penetrate the Ohio State backfield to throw quarterback Don Unverferth for a sizeable loss Saturday in Stadium action. Long was outstanding on defense, leading all Iowa defenders with eight tackles and blocking an Ohio State punt late in the fourth quarter, giving Iowa the ball on the Buckeye 12-yard line. McDowell scooped up the ball but lost his balance on the Ohio State 15. Ohio State held off Iowa's two-point conversion attempt with two seconds left in the game to win 21-19.

Gophers Emphasize Rushing the Passer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Gophers, buoyed by their 21-0 victory over Indiana, frolicked through a heavy workout Monday with emphasis on a pass rush for Iowa's Gary Snook next Saturday. Coach Murray Warmath indicated the Gophers will stick with the same offensive and defense lineups against the Hawkeyes with only dim prospects that halfback Bill Crockett will be able to play. Crockett has been out for three games with an ankle injury.

The winning lineup last Saturday had John Hankinson at quarterback, Mike Reid at fullback, Fred Farthing at halfback and Ken Last at flanker.

Riding the Pines

WITH JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

Before the Hawks kicked off to Indiana in Bloomington, they were rated by the Big Ten football writers to finish last in the conference. We need not worry about being the goat since there are currently three teams with worse records than we've got. Thank you Wisconsin, Indiana and Northwestern.

IOWA FOOTBALL FOLLOWERS have no grounds for criticism of Jerry Burns and his young Hawkeyes. Jerry conceded early in the season that his team would not be a title contender this year but promised it would be an explosive, exciting team to watch. He has kept his promise.

This team is one year away from being great. Giacobazzi, Recher, Budzik, Deutsch, Gehrke and Mitchell are the only players to leave the top 22 by graduation.

Against Ohio State, the Hawkeyes gave the fans their five dollars worth and more. The Stadium rocked with standing ovations for the Iowa defensive unit. They deserved every bit of it. The Iowa players fought with all they had until the final gun and have every right to feel proud for their effort against the Buckeyes. The Hawks scored one less than the total points given up by the Ohio State defense in five games.

WE WERE IN THE BALL GAME until the last two seconds, thanks to an outstanding defense, filled with fresh players when needed, the passing of Gary Snook, a tremendous catch by Rich O'Hara and some determined running by Craig Nourse.

Coach Burns called the defense tremendous. That just about describes it. Signs of Iowa's defensive maturity include the presence of Iowa defenders in the Ohio State backfield as soon as the ball was snapped. Another defensive performance like the one against Ohio State will be needed in Minneapolis Saturday when we play the improving Gophers.

Wayne Robinson, Archie Kodros, Bill Happel and Whitey Piro deserve a great deal of credit for their excellent defensive coaching in preparing Iowa for the Ohio State attack. Iowa gained 315 yards and held Ohio State to 189.

GARY SNOOK, running for the first time this year on the rollout option play, was Iowa's leading rusher with 59 yards in 15 attempts. I am sure Gary would never like to meet Dwight Kelley again, especially on the playing field. Kelley was in on Snook all day and stopped the all important two-point play with two seconds left by tackling Snook a foot short of the goal line. Kelley, a hard-nosed junior, will be facing Snook again next year in Columbus. Touche.

Snook Breaks Passing Records

DUNCAN

Snook now holds Iowa's season's passing records after six games, breaking the 1958 passing marks set by Randy Duncan in ten games, which included the Rose Bowl game with California. Duncan completed 106 of 179 attempts for 1,397 yards. He led the team in total offense with 1,462 yards.

SNOOK

Snook, a definite All-American candidate this year, has already completed 112 of 217 passes for 1,506 yards and eight touchdowns. Gary has a total offense of 1,544 yards.

FLANKER KARL NOONAN, another All-American candidate, caught two passes for 56 yards and one touchdown against Ohio State to raise his total to 45 catches for 690 yards and three touchdowns.

Noonan, leading the nation in pass receptions going into the Ohio State game, is now far behind Tulsa end Howard Twilley who caught 15 passes for 217 yards in Tulsa's 61-14 romp over Oklahoma State. Twilley now has 57 catches for 721 yards.

Snook's other two leading receivers are Rich O'Hara with 23 catches for 328 yards and Tony Giacobazzi with 23 catches for 315 yards.

DALTON KIMBLE, the 161-pound sophomore halfback, has the most rushing yards for the Hawks with 275 for a 4.4 per carry average.

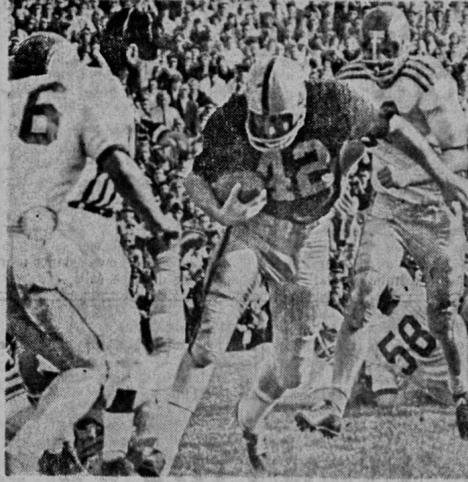

Although pictures of Iowa's last ditch attempt for a tying two-point play against Ohio State show Karl Noonan all alone in the end zone frantically calling for a short pass, Coach Burns said Snook had already committed himself to run the ball across on an end sweep. The Ohio State defenders had left Noonan as soon as Snook put his head down.

LETTERMEN MEET TONIGHT—

George Hery, president of the Iowa Lettermen's Club, Monday announced the club will hold a general meeting tonight at 8 in the cafeteria of the Union. Hawkeye pictures for members of the Lettermen's club will be held Wednesday night at 7 in the River Room of the Union.

I.S.U. PREPARES FOR SOONERS

AMES (AP) — Iowa State held a lively 45-minute drill Monday as the Cyclones sought means of getting out of a six-game losing streak. They have a tough job scheduled Saturday when they play Oklahoma, which is 2-1 in Big Eight competition but 3-3 for the season.

Simpson on the Move

Iowa halfback Gary Simpson (42) cuts over left guard for a 14-yard gain early in the first quarter. Sunday Coach Burns complimented Simpson's running and said he was glad Simpson was finally rounding into shape. Simpson has been hampered by a shoulder injury received earlier in the season.

Football Reserves Beat Frosh; Varsity Prepares for Gophers

Iowa held a light 45-minute drill Monday evening before the reserves battled the improving freshman team and the regulars retired to take a look at Minnesota on film.

In the scrimmage, the reserves scored a 12-6 win and now lead in the weekly series, 2-1.

LEFT HALFBACK Orville Townsend led the reserve attack with a 78-yard gallop the first time the reserves had the ball.

The freshman scored first blood behind the passing of Des Moines Lincoln quarterback Chuck Rolland and the receiving of flanker Guy Bilek, of Hollywood, Ill.

Townsend scored the first touchdown for the reserves and quarterback Dave Bonior sneaked over for the second.

COACH BURNS Monday pointed out that Minnesota not only is a much better team than was forecast in September but the Gophers are gaining momentum each Saturday. They whipped Indiana, 21-0, last week, a team which Iowa beat, 21-20; and Ohio State defeated 17-9.

"It's a typical Minnesota team with passing," said scout Whitey Piro about Iowa's next opponent.

"Minnesota has again come up with an excellent defensive football team. They shut out Indiana Saturday and the defense can hold its own with any in the Big Ten.

"THEY HAVE good senior linebackers in Willie Contanza and Joe Pung, and good ends in Aaron Brown and John Rajala.

"I would rate their pass defense slightly ahead of their rushing defense.

"Offensively they have relied on the passing of John Hankinson. Minnesota has confidence in his throwing ability and he has fine receivers in Brown, Kent Kramer and flanker Ken Last. Their running attack is spotty, but it could be troublesome if halfback Bill Crockett recovers from an ankle injury.

"They are a better football team than Indiana at this stage of the season," concluded Piro.

Mike Reilly Out for Season: 2 Broken Bones

Chicago Bear rookie and Iowa All-American Mike Reilly has been sidelined for the season with two broken bones in his right forearm sustained in Sunday's game with the Dallas Cowboys, it was disclosed by the United Press International Monday.

Playing for the injured Bill George, Reilly saw heavy action for the first time this season with the Bears.

George, Bear linebacker Reilly was playing for, was scheduled to enter Illinois Masonic Hospital Monday for a knee operation.

Reilly, co-captain of the 1963 Hawkeyes with Wally Hilgenberg, was Iowa's first All-American since 1961.

The 6-2 222-pounder from DuBuque was named to the 22-man Look All-American team, was chosen as a second team member of the Associated Press All-American team and was named to the Associated Press All-Big Ten team in 1963.

He was also chosen as the team's most valuable player at the end of the 1963 season.

PUBLISHER QUESTIONS AUDITOR'S PERFORMANCE

The following was a front page editorial in the LONE TREE REPORTER, an official paper for Johnson County and town of Lone Tree, Iowa, date Oct. 29, 1964:

"They have arrived. Finally and only about ten months late. In referring to the official proceedings or minutes of the Johnson County Board of Supervisors. (See publication on page 5 of this issue.) Yes, you are reading them right — there is nothing wrong with your eyesight, those publications are for 1963.

"In Tuesday's mail of last week, some proceedings or minutes of the meetings of the Johnson County Board of Supervisors were received from the Johnson County Auditors Office. Minutes received have dates beginning 18 December 1963 through 23 March 1964. In the same mail, different envelope, claims or bills allowed paid by the Johnson County Board of Supervisors were received. The dates on the bills allowed paid are not quite as delinquent as the minutes, but they are still several months behind. Claims received cover a period from 1 June through 31 August 1964.

"In a later mailing minutes were received starting from the March 23rd meeting through May 25th.

"Minutes and bills allowed paid by the Johnson County Board of Supervisors are to be published, not as the Johnson County Auditor directs or at the convenience of the Auditor, but in accordance with the publishing law of the Code of Iowa, which has been completely ignored and disregarded.

"The minutes and bills allowed paid are to be published in all three County Legal Papers, the SOLON ECONOMIST, IOWA CITY PRESS CITIZEN and the LONE TREE REPORTER. The reason for the required publications is in itself quite obvious, to make available as soon as possible to the public the business carried on by the Board of Supervisors.

"But how far can you stretch 'as soon as possible' or even a 'reasonable length of time' — surely not ten or eleven months. This would appear to be very doubtful.

"Publishers of newspapers are constantly being reminded that legal publications of any kind are vital pieces of information, not only required by law to be published, but also published in the interest of maintaining good government and are not official until they have been published in all three of the legal papers. Publishers are told and are constantly reminded to get legal publications as soon as possible, which has been done in nearly all cases. After all why should publishers even desire to hold the publishing of this material, we are paid a premium for publishing them.

"On several occasions during the last few months people have dropped into this office to inquire why the minutes and bills allowed have not been published. Of course, the only answer forthcoming was, 'Can't publish what you don't have and can't get.'

"On several occasions I personally made special trips to the Court House to pick up these minutes and bills allowed and each time was told I would have a batch of them by the first of the month for sure. But as each first of the month rolled around none was forthcoming.

"I have even been accused of throwing them away and not publishing them. But the fact that they are now being sent out and published discounts the rumors being passed about that the publishers have discarded them or mislaid them some place. Really though how could three publishers have accidentally mislaid or discarded exactly the same thing, approximately the same time. Highly improbable. (Publication began on Thursday, October 22nd and were continued again on October 27th in the IOWA CITY PRESS CITIZEN.)

"In looking over the material recently received from the Johnson County Auditor, there was nothing besides normal business transacted during the period, December 18, 1963 through March 23, 1964, and the second group up to May 25, 1964. There are no big surprises or shady deals taking place. Why all the secrecy? — Why so long over due? — Why did the Johnson County Auditor withhold these minutes and bills allowed paid for so long? — where are the rest of them, up to and including the current meetings? — Why weren't they sent along too? — Your guess is as good as anyone's.

"What about the rest of the business conducted by the Johnson County Auditor. Is it in the same deplorable shape as the typing and presenting of the minutes and bills allowed paid, to the three County Legal Papers, from 6 to 10 months behind? — Is all of the business being conducted in such a negligent manner completely disregarding the regulations which govern the office?

"Never before has your present publisher taken a side to any question outside the boundaries of the Lone Tree area, however this is a situation which definitely needed to be brought to light and to the attention of all eligible voters of Johnson County.

"I surely will go to your office before you vote for this particular office.

"The decision is up to you. Vote in the General Election, November 3rd for Nora Dobbe."

Iowa City To Change Telephone Dial System

Special operators began calling Iowa City telephone customers Monday to explain dial changes scheduled to go into effect at midnight, Dec. 20.

At that time, the use of five numbers to complete local calls will no longer be possible, according to Roy Williams, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company manager.

Seven numbers will have to be dialed. The special operators will also inform customers about changes in reaching long distance, information, time service, and other parties on two and eight-party lines. "Operator 0" will be the new number for long distance. "0" will also be dialed if the operator's assistance is required for any other purpose, Williams said. Information will change to 411 and to get the time, a person will have to dial 844-1212.

All these changes are necessary for proper operation of the new dial equipment which will be installed in Iowa City next year, Williams said. He pointed out that callers will eventually be able to dial their own station-to-station long distance calls.

The Interfraternity Council Scholarship Banquet will be held at 6 p.m. tonight at the Holiday Inn.

Drama Prof On His Way To Hollywood

Howard Stein, instructor in dramatic arts, left Iowa City Sunday for a month's observation of movie and TV film production in Hollywood.

Stein has received a stipend from Music Corporation of America (MCA) for the trip. While in Hollywood, Stein will observe the progress of scripts from the time they are completed by the writers until they reach the final stages of production.

In addition to Universal films, MCA produces 15 television programs, including the Bob Hope show, the Alfred Hitchcock program, and the Kraft Suspense Theatre.

Stein's trip is the outgrowth of a contest last year in which Ralph Arzooonian, a Cranston, R.I., graduate student of Stein's, won a similar trip. Arzooonian, one of 27 students in the country holding playwrighting fellowships from MCA, was one of two students deemed "especially competent" by MCA, and was given the opportunity to watch the creation of a Hollywood TV show last summer.

At that time, a similar opportunity was offered to the instructors of the two young playwrights.

In Hollywood, Stein will maintain an office, attend script conferences, and observe the operations of professional movie and TV script writers. He will also visit with two U of I graduates — Norman Felton, executive producer for MGM-TV, and Richard Maibaum, writer of the James Bond film series.

MORE WHEAT TO U.S.S.R.—

MONTREAL (AP)—Shipments of Canadian wheat and flour to the Soviet Union are expected to resume this month from St. Lawrence River ports. Under the latest contract, Canada has agreed to supply 275,000 tons of wheat and 25,000 tons of flour, worth about $21 million.

New members will be initiated into Phi Alpha Mu, national fraternity for scholastic excellence and participation in campus activities.

Marriage Lecture

"Marriage and the College Student," the first 1964-65 YWCA Major in Marriage lecture, will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Pentacrest Room.

Mrs. Richard Jenkins, author of "Helping Your Children Reach Their Potential," will speak.

Before coming to Iowa City, Mrs. Jenkins was a professor at George Washington University, Washington, D.C. She is currently a member of the YWCA Advisory Board.

Hawkeye Photos

Group and organization photos for the 1965 Hawkeye yearbook will be taken tonight in the Union Main Lounge. The complete photo schedule was printed in the Oct. 29 Daily Iowan. Further details are available from Marilee Teegen, 7-2674 or the Hawkeye Office, x2233.

Election Returns on TV

The Union Main Lounge will be open from 7 to 12 tonight for those wishing to watch the election returns on television. The TV lounge will be open until 2 a.m.

A board will be set up in the Main Lounge to show the totals of all important state returns. Election facilities are sponsored by the Union Board.

Poetry Reading

The first poetry reading of the season will be at 4 p.m. Thursday on the Union Sun Porch. The literary area of Union Board will present Fred Will and George Starbuck, instructors in Writer's Workshop, who will read selections of their own composition.

Bridge League

The Union Board bridge league will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday on the Union Sun Porch. New members are welcome.

Nail Causes Fire At Prof's House

A misdriven nail caused the fire at the home of Prof. William Connor, Route 5, last Wednesday, according to Deputy Sheriff Donald Wilson.

Investigations have shown that when the siding was installed on the porch of the home, a nail was accidentally driven into wiring, Wilson said.

Connor, an associate professor of internal medicine, his wife and three children were uninjured in the blaze which was discovered about 10:30 p.m. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Insurance Agents Attend Workshop

The Iowa Center for Continuation Study is sponsoring a management workshop for the Iowa General Agents and Managers Association today.

The day workshop, which started Monday, is emphasizing recruitment of high quality salesmen, said R. L. Bailey, association president. He said 27 life insurance men from Iowa and Illinois are attending the event.

Moderating the workshop is Francis Merritt, a national authority on recruiting and a professional consultant for employment.

Local Policemen Happy: Good Ghosts Haunt City

It was a generally quiet Halloween weekend, Iowa City Police Chief John Ruppert said Monday. There were unusually few reports of vandalism in Iowa City during the weekend, according to Ruppert.

"Good news for everyone," added the chief.

STATE SENATOR

- ★ Appropriations for the University and Hospitals have more than doubled since he has been in the Legislature;
- ★ $26,288,960.00 have been appropriated for buildings at the University and Hospitals since he has been in the Legislature;
- ★ His committee recommended and the Legislature appropriated nearly $3,500,000.00 more than was recommended by the present Governor for operating the University during the 1963-65 biennium;
- ★ His committee drafted and recommended tax revision which would have provided in excess of $40,000,000.00 for state aid to schools and property tax replacement during the 1963 session.
- ★ Senator Nolan has stated that he feels the recommended "Proportionate Sharing of Public School Support" is a sound approach for state aid to schools and property tax replacement.

SCHWENGL fights for Iowa farmers against Appalachia Bill

FRED SCHWENGL has always opposed bringing more land into production of surplus agricultural products.

FRED SCHWENGL led the fight against Sec. 203 of the proposed Appalachia Bill which would bring 9.5 million acres into the production of more livestock to compete with Iowa producers.

FRED SCHWENGL's opponent is on record in support of the administration's Appalachia proposal.

Yogurt and Jelly—Poor Diet

It's time to take the "nut" out of nutrition, says a University of Iowa physician.

Speaking at a postgraduate conference here Thursday and Friday on "Arthritis and Related Disorders," Dr. Willard A. Krehl encouraged physicians to warn their patients about following self-styled diet experts who promote dietary crazes and fads.

Dr. Krehl is a research professor of internal medicine and director of the Clinical Research Center at the University Medical Center.

Doctors should dispel false notions and teach their patients to be aware of extremists who know little about proper nutrition, Dr. Krehl said.
