McNamara Discloses U.S. Plan To Close 95 Military Bases

Military Strength Won't Be Hurt: Defense Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon will disclose today 95 more military bases which will be closed. Included will be the long-awaited selection of some shipyards to be eliminated.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told a news conference Wednesday the bases—Army and Air Force as well as the Navy shipyards — will be closed gradually over a period of years, as were 574 others ordered reduced or eliminated since 1961. Some overseas bases will be included.

McNamara said they can all be eliminated "without in any way reducing our military strength or combat readiness." His words obviously were couched to forestall expected protests, especially in the case of the shipyards.

McNAMARA WOULD not identify the bases. He said he wanted to allow time for notifying "those who should receive" the information, including members of Congress in the 33 states affected. But he added that even they will not be informed before Thursday.

McNamara provided figures, however, which indicate the closings will include some of the largest bases shut so far. He estimated the total savings at $500 million a year and said this would bring the figure for all bases closed since 1961 to over a billion saved annually.

He said 63,000 job positions, both military and civilian, will be wiped out by the new closings. This approaches the 85,834 job positions affected by the 574 previous bases shut downs.

McNAMARA promised to guarantee a job opportunity for every career employee whose job is eliminated and to protect individual workers affected. And he pledged that the Federal Government will help the committee find new and better use for the facilities.

He said the 95 bases will turn back to private, state and local government use 377,000 acres — almost 600 square miles.

The loss of jobs and purchasing power involved, McNamara acknowledged, will be regarded as "bad news" in some communities.

"YET," HE SAID, "I suggested that there is also good news in these announcements, not only for the taxpayers and the citizens who are concerned about efficiency and economy in government, but specifically for the citizens of the many affected communities."

The facilities being closed, McNamara said, "will now be made available to be put to their best use" and under private ownership "they will make a substantial contribution to local tax rolls."

'Cave Dwellers' Opens 4-Day Run At Fair Grounds

William Saroyan's "The Cave Dwellers" opened a four-day run Wednesday evening to an almost capacity house in Montgomery Hall at the 4-H fairgrounds.

About 120 persons attended the Iowa City Community Theater presentation.

The play is the thesis project of David Hundhausen, G. Milwaukee, who is directing under the supervision of Dr. Jean Scharfenberg, assistant professor of speech.

The scene is an abandoned New York City theater which is next on the list for dynamiting as part of a slum clearance project. The stage of that theater is the home of what the director describes as "four typical Saroyanesque characters," an actress who was once famous, an ex-actor who was a great clown, a young girl and an ex-prize fighter.

The cast includes Ron Van Lieu as King; Josephine Gillette, Queen; Jim Spigener, A3, Lambert, Miss., Father; Kate Vachon, A4, Manchester, N.H., Mother and John Fink, A2, Cedar Falls, Corky. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Rights Drive Needs 200 Volunteers

Two hundred volunteers will be needed to help make Iowa City's food and clothing drive for the Mississippi Support Project a success Dec. 11 to 12, according to Larry Wright, A3, Chicago, spokesman for the Friends of SNCC.

The campus group met Wednesday night at the Union.

Ed Spannaus, A4, Elmhurst, Ill., who presided over the meeting, announced that Alan Spitzer, professor of history, John Huntley, assistant professor of English, Kenneth Cooper of the physical therapy department, and Harold Malm, A4, Massapequa Park, N.Y., will leave for Holly Springs, Miss., today.

The purpose of their visit is to work on the establishing of a cooperative food store chain, according to Spannaus. They will also confer with the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO) on the reaction there to Iowa City's Mississippi Support Project.

In other action at the meeting, Steve Smith, E2, Marion, presented a case against 16 of the 37 anti-civil rights laws that were passed this summer by the Mississippi State Legislature. Smith, who did civil rights work in Mississippi over the summer, said that, in essence, 16 of the laws could be interpreted to mean segregation and the denial of rights to the Negro.

Also during the meeting, the organization's name was changed from SARE — Friends of SNCC to just Friends of SNCC.

Coed Hospitalized After Bike Mishap

A University of Iowa coed from St. Paul, Minn., was injured in a bicycle accident Wednesday night.

Hospitalized at University Hospital with severe cuts of her right leg was Celia Starks, A3, 628 N. Linn St.

According to a witness to the accident, Miss Starks came down the Jefferson Street hill by the Women's Gym, tried to turn the corner, and hit the curb. As she overturned she landed on a metal stake. She was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Meeting Today at Cedar Falls —

Regents Face Finance Decisions

By JON VAN Staff Writer

A docket of largely routine University business will be considered by the Board of Regents today and Friday when it convenes on the State College of Iowa campus in Cedar Falls.

The scheduled business this month includes requests for approval of catalogue changes, reports on construction progress, fuel cost studies and equipment purchases.

UNDER GENERAL business, the Board is scheduled to consider the perennial problem of long-range financing for badly needed construction at state schools.

When the Board met in Iowa City last month, it spent an extra afternoon discussing problems of finding money to build facilities to accommodate the increased en-

Viet Red Terror Bomb Injures 18 Americans

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Communist terror bomb, planted in what was supposed to be a military security area at Saigon Airport, exploded Wednesday, wounding 18 Americans and several Vietnamese.

TIGHT SECURITY was in force at the airport after a Viet Cong mortar attack Nov. 1 on the supposedly militarily secure base at Biet Hoa, 15 miles northeast of Saigon. That attack from inside the security zone killed four U.S. servicemen and destroyed or damaged 27 U.S. combat planes.

The bomb blew up in a restaurant behind the airport's passenger terminal. A high barbed wire fence closes off the restaurant from the public, but this did not stop the Viet Cong or its sympathizers.

The bomb was placed on a concrete beam. If it was a plastic charge — so-called because the explosive is plastic and can be stuck to a wall — it had to have a fuse. This would mean that despite security precautions, the terrorists had worked freely.

THE BLAST smashed the interior of the restaurant, sending tables, chairs and masonry across the airport parking lot. A U.S. Air Force officer was seriously injured when the bus he was sitting in outside the restaurant got a volley of concrete debris through its windows. Ten Americans were hospitalized.

Eleven other U.S. Air Force men were wounded along with three U.S. Army enlisted men and three U.S. civilians. The injured Vietnamese worked in the restaurant.

MOST OF the Americans were standing around the restaurant waiting transport to their messes for lunch. The restaurant is inside the military security area of the airport only two buildings from where at least a dozen U.S. air force jet planes are parked. An Australian plane 60 yards away had just landed with supplies for victims of the floods that ravaged central Viet Nam last week.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor visited the bombing scene later. More security men were rushed to the airport.

On the fighting front, 115 U.S. helicopters supported by Vietnamese bombers moved at least two battalions of elite troops into the Communist badlands northwest of Saigon. It was believed to be the largest U.S. helicopter operation in South Viet Nam.

rollments expected in the coming decade. At that meeting, President Howard Bowen said consideration only of the needs of the next 10 years would be insufficient. Bowen and the presidents of ISU and SCI reported plans to study projected enrollments and other factors bearing on campus construction needs for the next 15 to 20 years. MOST DISCUSSION of long-range financing at October's Regents meeting was conducted in executive session, but a 1960 report by the Board's Finance Committee lists a number of financing methods considered in the past. It is probable that these methods and variations of them have been the basis of recent reports to the Regents. Direct appropriation is the first method listed in the 1960

U of I Plans For Expansion Aired at Meet

Increase in Students Cited as Main Cause For Enlarged Facilities

University of Iowa expansion plans for the next 10 years were discussed by the metropolitan planning commission Wednesday night.

Ray B. Mossman, University business manager, outlined tentative plans to cope with the University's growing need for additional land and physical facilities. Mossman said the plans arose out of the need to keep pace with the anticipated growth in University enrollment.

"INCREASE in student population results directly in the need for additional physical facilities, teaching and other staff," Mossman said. "Final enrollment figures for this fall are 14,400, and the estimates for the fall of 1965 and 1966 are 15,850 and 17,000, respectively."

The expansion plans incorporate five general categories of University facilities, Mossman said.

The first is concerned with facilities now under construction. These include a new Physics Building, Observatory Building, College of Business Administration, and additions to the Zoology Building, Library, and Currier Hall.

THE SECOND includes those facilities not under construction, but for which funds are available and locations have been chosen. These are additions to East Hall, Quadrangle, and classroom-office buildings.

The third covers facilities in various stages of planning and financing and for which locations have been reasonably well determined. Such facilities are: additions to the Fine Arts Building and an art gallery, a music building and an auditorium.

A fourth category of structures is those for which requests are being made from the first General Assembly. Among the facilities under consideration are: a basic science building, a plant physiology building and a physics-mathematics-computer center.

THE FIFTH category deals with University housing. According to Mossman, if student housing is to keep pace with anticipated growth, it will be necessary to construct four new dormitories.

Mossman said that to meet the housing requirements it would be necessary to utilize the land on the west side of the river.

IN ADDITION to the growth in physical facilities, there will be substantial growth in the area of research, according to Mossman.

U of I Symphony Presents Concert

The University Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Prof. James Dixon, presented its second concert of the season before a near capacity audience Wednesday night in the Union.

The program included "Masonic Funeral Music," K. 479a by Mozart, "Three Places in New England" by Charles Ives, and "Piano Concerto No. 2 in B-Flat, Op. 83" by Brahms.

William Doppman, associate professor of music, was solo pianist for the Brahms concerto. The concerto is done in four movements, "Allegro non Troppo," "Allegro Appassionato (Scherzo)," "Andante," and "Allegretto Grazioso."

To Aid Negroes —

U of I To Participate In 'Fast for Freedom'

Today, on college campuses throughout the United States, a nationwide Fast for Freedom campaign will be carried out, with the proceeds to be used to buy food for needy Mississippi Negroes.

Students at the U of I will be participating in the project along with students of most other major colleges and universities.

Concerning the Fast for Freedom, University President Howard R. Bowen said Wednesday:

"I AM PLEASED to see the Student Senate and other student organizations take the initiative in designating Thursday, Nov. 19, as the day for the Thanksgiving Fast for Freedom, on this campus.

"It is my hope that University of Iowa students will join students all over the nation in contributing the equivalent of the cost of a meal for food to be distributed in Mississippi."

The "fast" is an all-campus effort expected to draw support from the students, faculty, and administration.

Seven donation stations have been set up across the campus with volunteer workers at each booth to answer questions and take donations.

THE LOCATIONS for the booths are University Book Store, Pen-crest, Schnaeffer Hall, Old Armory, Union Gold Feather Room, Burge Hall lobby, and Gilmore Hall. All donation booths will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Ed Spannaus, A4, Elmhurst, Ill., who is coordinating the project, said he "hopes that the donations will represent the cost of a substantial meal and not just the price of a sandwich."

The proceeds of the project will go to the Mississippi Delta area where they will supply food for needy Negroes during the winter months.

Many Negroes have lost their jobs by their work in voter registration and the freedom movement, according to Spannaus.

THE NATIONWIDE "fast" is sponsored by the National Student Association and the United States Youth Council.

Many organizations have already committed themselves to a collection quota. The Lutheran Student Center, Christus House, will serve bread and bread in place of its evening meal. The difference in cost will be donated to the project.

Other organizations, giving up their evening meals, are Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Sigma Delta Tau, Zeta Tau Alpha, Phi Epsilon Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Epsilon Pi, Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Chi.

250 Persons Watch Guard Lower Flag

The nation's official 30-day period of mourning for the late Herbert H. Hoover ended Wednesday afternoon in the small town where he was born and buried, West Branch.

President Johnson proclaimed the mourning period the day of Mr. Hoover's death, Oct. 20. For the last 30 days, flags have flown at halfstaff as the country has paid special tribute to its 31st President.

A SPECIAL HONOR guard from the Iowa National Guard performed the brief ceremony Wednesday at the gravesite in the Hoover Memorial Park just before the late afternoon sunset. More than 250 persons circled the gravesite to watch the ceremony.

Six park guards entered the circular area where Hoover is buried and stood to the side as the honor guard marched to the flag staff in front of the grave. Fresh flowers surrounded the site.

The honor guard and park guards snapped to attention when Sgt. Charles Danielson, 34th Army Band bugler, sounded "Retreat." The flag was raised to full staff and then lowered slowly.

AFTER THE FLAG was lowered and folded, it was presented to a park guard. The two Iowa National Guardsmen stationed at the grave joined the honor guard and all marched from the area down the hill. While the crowd began to drift off, two park guards assumed positions beside the grave.

This was the last time the half staff flag, which has flown above the grave site during the official mourning period, would be lowered. The flag will be placed in the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library along with the flag that covered the coffin during the burial services last month.

TODAY FLAGS will fly at full staff. Official mourning has ended.

Execution Of Missionary Is Postponed

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The execution of U.S. missionary Dr. Paul Carlson was postponed until Monday pending further negotiations with the United States, rebel leader Christophe Gbenye announced Wednesday in Stanleyville.

A broadcast from the leftist rebel city in the northeast Congo, heard in Nairobi, Kenya, said that it was up to Washington to find a suitable basis for negotiations over the 60 Americans in rebel hands.

THE DOCTOR, 36, from Rolling Hills, Calif., was due to die last Monday for spying, a charge vehemently denied by the United States.

Gbenye addressed his message to Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, who on Tuesday, at the request of the United States, urged Gbenye to spare Carlson for humanitarian reasons.

Kenyatta is chairman of a special commission set up by the Organization of African Unity to try to end the civil conflict in the Congo.

Gbenye said that in view of Kenyatta's message, Carlson's execution had been postponed.

President Maurice Yameogo of Upper Volta added his voice to the appeal for mercy for Carlson. His office sent a message to Kenyatta saying Carlson was a civilian who had rendered important service in caring for sick Congolese. It said his execution would only complicate a settlement of the Congo problem.

Stanleyville broadcasts have said negotiations are being carried on between Gbenye and the U.S. consul there, Michael Hoyt, who had been held a virtual prisoner for weeks.

U.S. AMBASSADOR G. McMurtree Godley sent a second message of warning to Stanleyville by an undisclosed route.

"My government has now instructed me to inform you again that it holds the authorities at Stanleyville directly and personally responsible for the safety of Dr. Carlson and of all American citizens in areas under your control," the message said.

Iowans should consider Conant's interstate plan

Publication of James B. Conant's new study on education has caused a stir among some legislators in America's more populous states and should be considered by Iowa's dispensers of educational funds.

The former president of Harvard points out in his report, "Shaping Educational Policy," that legislators are being subjected to steadily increasing demands to support communities in their quest for two-year colleges, to support junior college requests to become four-year institutions and to further the desires of colleges to create graduate centers.

Dr. Conant deplors the "disarray" he has observed in secondary and higher education and the more or less "haphazard interaction" of public and private groups regarding education in many of our states. He suggests the separate states sign a nation-wide interstate compact, with the approval of Congress, to promote a "cooperative exploration of educational problems between the states and the federal government."

The University of Iowa community is quite conscious of the coming legislative session and the challenges facing the great number of legislators who will take their seats in the Legislature for the first time. When they go to Des Moines in January, the legislators will be confronted by many problems in higher education.

Although these problems are of great magnitude, members of the Legislature should not ignore the educational problems in bordering and nearby states. They should consider what further impact college crowding in states like Illinois will have on Iowa's institutions of higher learning. It might not be amiss for Iowa's educators and legislators to consider the merits of Dr. Conant's interstate compact during their study of intrastate education needs.

A positive step

THE FIRST IMPACT of the changed political composition in the Iowa Legislature was felt Tuesday when state Democratic leaders took steps to streamline the committee structure of both houses.

The leaders announced a tentative cut in the Senate from 31 to 15 committees and from 43 to 15 in the House. This type of severe overhaul has not been made by an incoming party for several decades.

If adopted by the legislators, which seems likely because of the overwhelming Democratic majority elected Nov. 3, the streamlined committee system would mean more efficient action upon legislation. Each bill is referred to a committee before it is presented to the legislators as a whole.

A smaller number of committees will mean that the legislators will be able to devote more time and attention to the committees they are assigned to. In the past legislators have belonged on so many committees that their efficiency on any of them was limited. With more time for deliberation and study, bills should be of a higher quality when they are presented before either house.

The cut in committees will also limit the number of positions the House speakers and lieutenant governors will be able to award as political favors.

Another step toward a more harmonious and smooth functioning of the Legislature was provided for by establishing the same committees in both the Senate and House, which will make any joint study or conferences easier to locate in the scheme of things.

Because of the large Democratic majority elected in the recent balloting, there has been some concern about the possible irresponsibility a dominant party may practice because of its power.

The rearrangements that the Democrats are making are aimed at efficiency and smoothness in the legislative process, which can only be regarded as a very positive step toward improvement.

Educator urges nationwide commission

Faced with new and revolutionary demands on our total educational system, the individual states in America must get together and create a truly nationwide educational policy, or we will lose the battle for better schools and colleges.

This is the warning sounded today by James B. Conant, noted educator and former president of Harvard University, in a new book "Shaping Educational Policy," published by McGraw-Hill Book Company. The book is a product of a special inquiry financed by a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York and administered by Educational Testing Service.

Dr. Conant charges that neither local school boards, state departments of education nor the Federal Government has developed a policy which fits the needs of "the new and awesome age in which we live." As a result we are suffering a critical loss of talent at all levels, a loss which "endangers a nation's industrial capacity and may endanger even its military security."

The way out of this educational crisis, he says, is for the states, first, to recognize their departments of education; second, to develop a master plan for higher education, as has been done in California; third, to form a nationwide interstate commission with "working parties" to study major problems. He believes firmly that the United States should not consider importing any foreign pattern of federal control, but should use a distinctly American approach, namely, state-initiated action.

Commenting on the urgency of the problem, Dr. Conant says "there can be no doubt that the introduction of new methods of teaching has already introduced complications into the American public school picture. It is my belief that there will be more radical changes in the future and this in turn means that our old methods of determining educational policy need drastic revision to meet the impact of the educational revolutions."

Among the most critical problems which our public schools and colleges now face he lists:

- "the reform of instructional methods and materials including the new developments in foreign language instruction in the lower grades and the new courses in physics, chemistry, mathematics, and biology"
- "the introduction of new techniques including TV and programmed instruction"
- "the challenge to higher education posed by the increasing number of high school seniors who are doing freshman college work through the advanced placement program"
- "the urgency for 'improvement in the instruction in English composition'"
- "the recruiting of more intellectually able young people into the teaching profession"
- "the education of students of limited ability in the high schools," including more appropriate vocational education
- segregated schools — "state by state certain basic issues should be faced, state by state a policy should be hammered out, and lay opinion here would be far more important than the views of educators."

That the individual states so far have not met the challenges of these basic problems is a main contention of the book. Dr. Conant illustrates this by a lengthy discussion of public higher education, which traditionally has been a function of the state. With the vast increase in college enrollments and over 700 million dollars of Federal funds flowing annually to the colleges, he points out that our present "jumble of influential private and public bodies does not correspond to the needs of the nation in the 1960s."

He is particularly critical of the "disarray" in public higher education in certain large populous states. The disarray results from session by session decisions of the state legislature as to where and how colleges are to be located. Members of one legislative body told him that virtually every member was under pressure to allow junior colleges to become four-year institutions and "when this happens education becomes a pork barrel."

Dr. Conant urges that each state follow the example of California and adopt a master plan for the expansion of facilities for higher education. He warns that "the politics of education in some states is rapidly becoming the politics of frustration. In the long run decisions based on local or personal influence distribution will lower the quality of an educational program."

As to how the new Interstate Commission would work he says:

"Let the fifty states, or at least fifteen to twenty of the more populous states, enter into a compact for the creation of an Interstate Commission for Planning a Nationwide Educational Policy."

"The compact would have to be drawn up by the states and approved by Congress. The document would provide for the membership of the commission and provide the guidelines for its operation. Each state would be represented, though a group of less populous states might decide to be represented by one person. Each state would be ready to listen to any conclusions of the commission, but, of course, would not be bound to follow its recommendations."

"The matter of finances might raise issues. It might be difficult to get any considerable number of state legislatures to appropriate the money; but I hope not, for if it were proposed that the Congress of the United States do so, certainly the

UN officials relieved at Clay, Liston fight delay

By ART BUCHWALD

The news that Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston have postponed their fight for at least six months was greeted at the United Nations with great relief. The fear that the two men would actually get into a fight has been hanging over this body for weeks. Our strategy, a U.N. official said, "has been to see if we could work out a peaceful solution to a very sticky situation. With a six-month breather, we're hoping to get the two principals to sit around a table and discuss their differences. We don't think anything can be gained by a fight."

"Why has the UN taken an interest in the dispute?"

"If you will recall, a few months ago Mr. Clay said that he expected some sort of skulduggery and he was going to invite members of the United Nations to witness the fight. As soon as he requested UN assistance, it became an international matter and we were asked to step in."

"But how can you avoid a fight between the two?"

"By keeping them talking. When people are talking, they won't fight. Perhaps eventually they'll realize it is to their best interest as well as their country's not to fight at all."

"It sounds like a big order."

"It would be if we weren't dealing with reasonable men. But both Mr. Clay and Mr. Liston have shown in the past that they only want to fight as a last resort."

"They prefer to call each other names, and we naturally want to encourage this. After all, both sides have so much more to lose than to gain by engaging in combat."

"But both men have said things about the other that would certainly indicate there was no other way out than to fight."

"We believe most of these statements were for the benefit of the press. The feeling here is that they have to put on a show of belligerence to please their supporters. Neither party wants it to come to blows."

"How, do you propose, to prevent some sort of accident in which there would be no turning back for either side?"

"First, we would call a meeting of the UN Security Council, where they could present their cases. The Security Council could censure either one or both of them. If they still insist on fighting after appearing in front of the UN, then we would advocate a United Nations peace force headed by a Swedish general to patrol the prize fight ring in Boston."

"Do you think it will come to that?"

"Not as long as it's possible for one or the other to get a hernia."

"Isn't there a question of money as well as prestige involved?"

"Yes, but we think we can solve that. We plan to put the Security Council meeting on closed theater television and sell tickets. We believe people would be far more interested in seeing the fight than they would in

Open letter On drive

To the Faculty and Student Body:

We need your support for the forthcoming Food, Clothing and Cash Drive sponsored by the Mississippi Support Program. Three hundred volunteers are needed to canvass Iowa City and Coralville on 11 and 12 December seeking food, clothing, toys, household goods and recreational equipment, as well as cash, for poverty-stricken Negroes of Marshall County, Mississippi and surrounding areas. No Iowa City or Coralville residence should be ignored.

The Mississippi Support Program is an association of Iowa City residents and University students who intend to aid Negroes in economically depressed northern Mississippi as they continue their struggle for political and economic equality. Per capita income of residents of this area is the lowest in the nation. Negroes suffer most of all, thanks to segregation and discrimination. Those engaged in civil rights activities are exceptionally vulnerable to economic retaliation.

The goods collected will be sent to Rev. Merlin D. Conaway in Holly Springs, Mississippi. He and workers of SNCC will distribute them in time for Christmas.

To volunteer, contact, by mail, Sara Jacobson, 5703 Kate Dumm Dormitory by 5 p.m., Nov. 24. Include your name, address, phone number, when you can work and whether you have a car. Thank you.

Today's Spanish Lesson

By WILLIAM ARCHER
Lesson No. 21
Reading time 5 Min.
Study time 5 Min.

Your first verb "key" was 'quiere' (key-AIR-o), 'I want.' By changing the 'o' sound of 'key-AIR-o' to 'ray,' you will be able to say, 'he wants':

- A) I want to go.
- B) Quiero ir.
- C) key-AIR-o/ear.
- A) He wants to go.
- B) El quiere ir.
- C) I/key-AIR-ray/ear.

In Spanish, the same as in English, you must employ the personal pronouns in the third person singular and plural to designate the person speaking. In Spanish, in the singular, 'quiere' (key-AIR-ray) could mean 'he wants,' 'she wants,' 'you want'; 'He = el (L)'; 'She = ella (A-yah)'; 'You = usted (oo-STEAD)'; 'In the plural, 'quieren' (key-AIR-rain) could mean 'you (a group) want,' or 'they want':

- You (pl.) = ustedes (oo-STEAD-es)
- They (m.) = ellos (A-yose)
- They (f.) = ellas (A-yahs)

Here are some examples:

- A) I want to go.
- B) Quiero ir.
- C) key-AIR-o/ear
- A) They want to go.
- B) Ellos (as) quieren ir
- C) A/yose (ahs) key-AIR-rain/ear.

A) He wants to go.- B) El quiere ir.
- C) I/key-AIR-ray/ear
- A) You (pl.) want to go.
- B) Ustedes quieren ir.
- C) oo-STEAD-es/key-AIR-rain/ear.

Spanish nouns have a gender — some are masculine and some are feminine. A good rule to follow for this is: "If the noun ends in 'o', use the masculine pronoun 'el'; if the noun ends in 'a', use the feminine pronoun 'la'."

la casa = the house
las casas = the houses
el libro = the book
los libros = the books

As you can see, the article 'el' in Spanish is masculine and feminine as well as singular and plural. Too much attention to this phase of grammar is not important at this point, because, even if you use the incorrect article, you will be understood. As you become more fluent in Spanish this phase of the language will fall into place.

There are exceptions to the above rule, but they are not of sufficient magnitude to mention at this time.

German Who Aided Jews Will Speak Here Today

A German social worker, whose efforts to create a better understanding between Jews and Christians led to her arrest by the Nazis during World War II, will speak here today.

Gertrud Luckner of Freiburg, Germany, will speak on "A Catholic Discovers Israel," at 8 p.m. in the House Chamber of Old Capitol.

Active in the German Caritas Association—a branch of the National Catholic Welfare Association—since 1938, Dr. Luckner was arrested by the Gestapo in 1943 for her attempts to help the Jews escape Germany. Following her arrest she was interrogated for nine weeks, then sent to the Women's Concentration Camp at Ravensbrück where she was a prisoner until 1945.

Since the end of the war, she has helped to rehabilitate persecuted persons and to establish better relations between Catholics and Jews.

Dr. Luckner received her Ph.D. degree in social work from Freiburg University and did postgraduate work in social work and religion at the Quaker College in Woodbrook, England. She is now on a lecture tour of the United States.

Her talk here is being sponsored by the School of Religion, the graduate chapter of the Newman Club, the Hillel Foundation and the local Jewish congregation.

Allis-Chalmers, UAW Ratify New 3-Year Agreement

CEDAR RAPIDS — Members of Local 1316 of the United Auto Workers Union Wednesday ratified a new three-year agreement with the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

Donald Harris of Waterloo, UAW international representative, said 450 union members attended a meeting, and only nine cast dissenting votes.

Harris said the night shift would report for work Wednesday. A strike against Allis-Chalmers plants in four states idled 10,700 workers for 10 days.

UAW members at plants in La Crosse and West Allis, Wis., and La Porte, Ind., ratified the agreement Tuesday.

The central agreement, covering all plants, provides for a wage increase of 2.5 per cent.

CHRISTMAS SEAL DRIVE—WASHINGTON — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson helped launch the 1964 Christmas Seal drive to raise funds for the National Tuberculosis Association by accepting Wednesday the first sheets of colorful seals.

She posed for photographs with actress Betsy Palmer, honorary chairman of the drive. The association hopes to raise more than $27 million for its work in stamping out tuberculosis and fighting respiratory diseases.

Universities Exchange Ideas

Representatives from the Big Ten Universities and the University of Chicago are meeting here this week to learn about institutional research projects being conducted here.

The 14 representatives are members of the Institutional Research Council of Eleven (IRCE)—a branch of the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (CIC). Operating in a manner similar to the CIC approach in higher education, the IRCE is a cooperative approach to institutional research.

Twice a year, members of the IRCE meet at a participating university to learn about its facilities and the type of research being conducted there. In many instances the projects are cooperative ventures, such as the ones on faculty fringe benefits and freshman migration patterns.

During their visit to the Iowa campus, the representatives will learn about the University Computer Center, the Iowa Center for Educational Information and the Iowa Measurement Center.

Speakers will include Ted McCarrell, executive dean for student services; John H. Uthoff, director of financial analysis from the Business Office; E. F. Lindquist, director of the Iowa Testing Programs; Gerard P. Weeg, director of the University Computer Center, and Richard Braddock, coordinator of the Rhetoric Program.

Also participating in the conference are Dean Robert F. Ray, Richard S. Lewis, and Bjorne R. Ullsvik, all from the Division of Extension and University Services.

Lewis is Iowa's representative to the IRCE and coordinator of the local conference.

Prof Will Lecture Tonight on Music From Shakespeare

Robert Donington, a visiting professor of music, will discuss "Shakespearean Music and Our Times" in a lecture at 8 p.m. today in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

The lecture, open to the public, is a feature of the Humanities Society Lecture Series.

Donington is an author, violin and viola player, lecturer, and interpreter of early music.

Donington was born in Leeds, England. He attended Oxford University and received his B.A. degree in 1930 and a B.Litt. degree in 1946.

Film Talks Scheduled For Sunday

Skiing and mountain climbing adventures will be featured in two film-lectures to be presented Sunday in Shambaugh Auditorium at the University of Iowa.

"Great Solo Mountaineering Adventures" will be the subject of a program by Fritz Stammberger, mountaineer from Munich, Germany, at 7:30 p.m., and the "skiers' paradise" in the Bugaboo Mountains of British Columbia will be shown in a film to be presented at 7:30 p.m. by Hans Smoser, Canadian lecturer, ski expert and mountaineer.

Tickets for the lectures may be purchased at Lind's Photo and Art Supply, Inc., 9 S. Dubuque St., Iowa City. Tickets may also be reserved by mail to be picked up at the door Sunday by writing to the Iowa Mountaineers, Box 163, Iowa City. Tickets for each lecture are 90 cents apiece.

Southerner Predicts End to Race Problems

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A onetime Southern governor predicted Wednesday that Americans soon will cease to think of race problems.

Instead, Florida's LeRoy Collins said, "we will think of human problems."

"We will stop worrying about integration of the races and will concern ourselves instead with the integration of programs to meet our common needs."

COLLINS, NOW HEAD of the Community Relations Service, spoke at the 31st annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Earlier, the news executives were told during a panel discussion on opinion-taking that the so-called backlash vote against those who favor integration is fading.

Collins said the landslide election of President Johnson made it clear that the "issue of race will never again be a determining factor in national politics."

"The anticipated white backlash," he said, "had relatively little impact on the election." At the same time, Collins cautioned: "The great issue of civil rights is no longer in courts and Congress. It has come home to roost day in and day out. It is your hottest and most perplexing problem."

Socialpaths stormed the citadel with good intent, strewn mums for the I love you, I love you note, while eunuchs emerged raping Kleenex carnations, spilling seeds out of which clean houses grow, for little boys are homecoming floats and mock elections with metermaids for mothers — beware of pre-pubescent Town Men in fraternity clothes chirping, 'usurpation in the defense of rights is no virtue.'"

State Demos To Retain GOP Clerk

DES MOINES (AP) — The Democratic leaders of the Iowa House said Wednesday they planned to retain William Kendrick, a Republican, as chief clerk.
Kendrick, 51, has been chief clerk in the last three regular sessions of the legislature, and also during last spring's special session.
He previously served as assistant to the chief clerk for six legislative sessions.
Republicans controlled the Iowa House and Senate during those sessions, but Democrats won control for the first time in 30 years in the Nov. 3 general election.
Announcement that Kendrick would be retained came from Rep. Vince Steffen of New Hampton, recently chosen speaker of the House; Rep. Elroy Maule of Onawa, majority floor leader; and Rep. Charles Miller of Burlington.
They said they would recommend to the House Democratic patronage committee and to the full House that Kendrick be retained.

Bid-Opening Date Set December 22

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Bids for construction of the Interstate bridge between Omaha and Council Bluffs will be opened Dec. 22, Nebraska State Engineer John Hossack said Wednesday.
The first phase of the building job, the foundation work, is nearly complete. Hossack said the December contract will involve the bridge proper and will not include approaches.
Construction will begin sometime next spring, Hossack said.

Negroes, Without Violence, Integrate Mississippi Town

McCOMB, Miss. (AP) — Twenty Negroes broke century-old customs by eating without incident Wednesday at previously all-white restaurants in this racially torn southwest Mississippi town.
They went almost unnoticed when they entered the Continental Restaurant across the street from the police station in mid-afternoon. Two white patrons left. One elderly white man remained.
A sullen gathering of whites watched silently later as the Negroes fanned through the business area in the first test here of the public accommodations section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.
The desegregation of the restaurants, motels and a theater came a day after 600 McComb residents signed a statement calling for re-establishment of order and respect for law.
The Medical Society of the District of Columbia, whose members are all members of the AMA, called on the national organization to ask Congress to develop "a realistic senior citizens health care program," patterned on the federal employes health benefits program already in existence.
The federal employes program allows government workers to select a Blue Cross-type insurance or commercial insurance, or to participate in a cooperative health insurance program — with the federal government paying a part of the cost.

Washington Doctors Urge Health Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized physicians of the nation's capital Wednesday urged the American Medical Association to modify its opposition to proposed federal health aid to the aged under a tax-supported program.
The Medical Society of the District of Columbia, whose members are all members of the AMA, called on the national organization to ask Congress to develop "a realistic senior citizens health care program," patterned on the federal employes health benefits program already in existence.
The federal employes program allows government workers to select a Blue Cross-type insurance or commercial insurance, or to participate in a cooperative health insurance program — with the federal government paying a part of the cost.

Commerce Commission Plans Changes in Iowa Truck Fees

DES MOINES (AP) — A change in the method of collecting fees to pay for the regulation of the trucking industry in Iowa is being studied by the State Commerce Commission.
Commission Chairman Waldo Wheeler said Wednesday a proposal to eliminate the present $6 annual fee charged for the operation in Iowa of many truck trailers is under consideration.
Elimination of the fee, Wheeler told Gov. Harold Hughes, probably would require a boost in the charge to operators of other types of trucks. The proposal also would make the tractor on semitrailer rigs subject to the charge.
The tractors now do not pay a fee since the trailer is assessed, Wheeler said.
WHEELER told the governor charge of $10 for all trucks and tractors would provide sufficient funds to replace the money lost by the elimination of the fee on trailers.
The money is used by the Commerce Commission to pay for enforcement of state laws on services and rates.
Hughes was given the proposal during a hearing on the annual financial askings.
Wheeler said one of the reasons operators of semitrailer rigs favor the change is that many trailers are shipped into Iowa on piggy-back railroad cars.
"WHEN A DRIVER takes a tractor to pick up a trailer, he doesn't know whether the Iowa fee has been paid," Wheeler said. "If it hasn't, he can't move the trailer until it is paid."
Wheeler said that operators of semitrailers approve of the proposal, but he said he believes that operators of smaller trucks and farm vehicles might oppose the change.
Wheeler said the Commerce Commission needs a total of $827,710 to operate annually. Presently the commission is receiving a yearly appropriation of $601,330.
The commission was one of six state departments to appear before the governor and make budget requests.
The Department of History and Archives asked for an increase from $114,920 to $116,262; the Industrial Commission asked for a boost from $71,200 to $127,198; the State Printing Board asked for $140,596 compared with its present $99,000; the Bureau of Labor requested an increase from $105,480 to $179,078, and Iowa State Libraries sought $115,118, compared with the $91,120 it now receives.
HUGHES SAID he is considering the possibility of combining three small agencies to promote greater efficiency, but he apparently does not plan to push for the transfer of the Warehouse Division of the Commerce Commission to the State Department of Agriculture.
The three departments the governor said might be combined are the Labor Bureau, the Industrial Commissioner's office, and the Mining Inspector's office.
Hughes said there had been suggestions that since the Warehouse Division of the Commerce Commission deals with grain storage it would be logical to place it under the Department of Agriculture.
But he said that since the Commerce Commission already is equipped to handle the division problems, it probably would be wise not to make the move at this time.

Tax Protest Closes Most Rome Shops

ROME (AP) — The thousands of shops, bars, restaurants and cafes of Rome closed Wednesday to protest taxes. Getting a cup of coffee was like getting a drink in prohibition days.
Boys guided hungry Romans into coffee bars and restaurants by back doors.
But on the whole, the shop and restaurant owners maintained a compact front that made much of the Italian capital a ghost city.
They staged the 24-hour shutdown to dramatize demands for total reform of business taxes. They complain that these are too many, too high and too unreasonable — driving operation costs up.
Barbers and bankers did not join the strike. The relatively few department stores and supermarkets in the city ignored it.
These cracks in the strike front were not enough to ease life for Romans and tourists. Many businessmen carried lunch to work in their briefcases. Hawkers visited offices selling homemade pizzas. Shoppers generally remained at home.
Sidewalk cafes on famed Dolce Vita Street, the Via Veneto, were closed.
Most Romans had stocked up on food supplies in advance.

Peterson Considering Recount

WATERLOO (AP) — Democrat Stephen M. Peterson said Wednesday he has not decided yet whether to seek a recount of votes in Iowa's 3rd Congressional District.
Republican incumbent H. R. Gross, backing a strong Democratic tide, won re-election by a margin of only 419 votes.
Peterson, the only Democratic congressional candidate to lose in Iowa Nov. 3, said he probably would make a decision on a recount Monday.
He said a number of mistakes were made in the 16-county district which "cast a cloud over the results."
He cited failure to seal tally sheets, misreading of voting machines and apparent solicitation of absentee ballots as among the alleged irregularities.

Brooks Robinson Named AL Most Valuable Player

BOSTON (AP) — Baltimore third baseman Brooks Robinson, main driving force behind an Orioles' pennant bid which just missed, was named Wednesday the 1964 American League Most Valuable Player by an overwhelming margin.

The man with the golden glove and 118 runs batted in was the lone player to be named on all 20 ballots cast by the special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. BBWAA Secretary Hy Hurwitz announced the results.

On the basis of 14 points for first, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc. Robinson drew 269 of a possible 280 points, with 18 first-place ballots.

Mickey Mantle, who sparked the late New York Yankee spurt to another flag on aching legs, received the other two first-place votes and 171 points.

Yankee catcher Elston Howard, last year's winner, was third with 124 points, followed by rookie Tony Oliva of Minnesota, the league batting champion, with 99 and Dean Chance of Los Angeles, the Cy Young Award winner is the major's top pitcher, with 97.

Mantle and Howard each were left off one ballot as Robinson broke a four-year Yankee monopoly on the award.

"I'm very happy," said Robinson when notified he was only the second third baseman ever so honored. Al Rosen of Cleveland was a unanimous selection in 1953.

"I felt that I had a pretty good chance but I never thought I'd win," Robinson said from his Baltimore home. "This is an award every player would like to win but few ever do."

Bill's Take Gilchrist Off Waivers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills changed their minds and pulled Cookie Gilchrist off the American Football League waiver list Wednesday.

Coach Lou Saban met with Gilchrist at the Bills' office and the controversial fullback apologized for incidents that led to his discharge Tuesday, it was reported.

It was also reported that Gilchrist, the league's top ground-gainer, apologized to fellow teammates earlier Wednesday.

Gilchrist, the 1962 AFL player of the year, appeared headed for Oakland for the $100 waiver price when the Bills recalled him.

Oakland, New York and Boston had put in claims for his services, but the Raiders had the inside track because of their poorer record.

The club put the 250-pound, 10-year veteran on the block because Saban said no one player was more important than his team. "His only concern is himself and how much yardage he can gain," Saban said.

Lineman of Week Honor For Carroll

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Jim Carroll, Notre Dame's linebacking football captain, was as happy over being named Associated Press Lineman of the Week Wednesday as he was over the whipping the Irish handed Michigan State Saturday.

Carroll, soft-speaking, hard-hitting 215-pounder from Atlanta, got the accolade after contributing 15 tackles and a pass interception in Notre Dame's 34-7 smashing of an eight-season Spartan jinx which made the unbeaten, top-ranked team's record 9-0.

"I feel very honored," said the 21-year-old defensive star. "But you could have done just as well picking any of our defensive unit against Michigan State."

Coach Ara Parseghian thought otherwise. "Jim deserved it," he said. "I've talked before about Carroll's outstanding football ability, but more important, he is an outstanding leader. This is a quality sometimes underrated, but extremely important to a winning team."

Notre Dame publicity man Charles Callahan, observing that Carroll now has played under three coaches — Joe Kuharich, Hugh Devore and Parseghian — said: "Jim is practically another coach on the field. He deserves to be rated among Notre Dame's great ones."

Carroll, a senior in Communication Arts, has pro football aspirations before a possible career in television-radio.

Intramural Tennis Nears Completion

The Fall Tennis Intramural Tournaments are drawing to a close as the cold winds of winter moved in on this outdoor, warm-weather sport.

Jim Park of Higbee House won the Hillcrest division of Fall Tennis. He defeated Ken Aagaard of Bush House in the finals by the score of 5 to 2.

Fred Friedrichsen of Stadium Park defeated Bob McDonald of Finkbine, 6-1, for the Married Students crown.

In the Social Fraternity division, Randy Hoff of Pi Kappa Alpha will meet John Pelton of Delta Upsilon for the championship this weekend.

Herb Knudsen of Phi Delta Phi won by forfeit his match from Ron Rehmann of Nu Sigma Nu, in the Professional Fraternity League.

Snook Second in Offense; Notre Dame's Huarte Third

Iowa's Gary Snook will be battling Notre Dame's John Huarte for honors as the nation's second best offensive leader when the Hawks play the Irish in South Bend Saturday.

SNOOK IS currently second in national total offense and third in passing, it was announced by the NCAA Wednesday.

Tulsa's Jerry Rhome has an eight-game offense total of 2,541 yards, followed by Snook with 1,991 and Huarte with 1,704.

In passing, Rhome has 185 completions in 262 attempts for 2,330 yards by passing and 27 touchdowns, California's Craig Morton is second with 165 completions while Snook is third with 143.

Huarte is 13th in national passing with 92 completions in 166 attempts for 1,623 yards and 14 touchdowns.

THE NOTRE DAME tilt will also feature stiff competition between two of the nation's top receivers, Iowa's Karl Noonan and end Jack Snow for the Irish.

Noonan, who almost attended Notre Dame, is the nation's second best receiver with 57 catches for 910 yards and four touchdowns.

Tulsa's Howard Twilley leads the pack with 74 catches for 920 yards and four touchdowns.

Snow is ranked fourth in the nation with 49 catches for 890 yards and seven touchdowns.

SNOOK WILL HAVE trouble with the Irish defensive secondary which contains defensive right halfback Tony Gasey, one of the nation's leaders in pass interceptions.

Gasey has stolen eight passes and has returned them 121 yards, the farthest of any back in the country.

Notre Dame is the national leader in rushing defense, allowing foes only 63.3 yards per game on the ground. The Irish also rank second in total offense behind Tulsa while the Hawks are eighth on the national scale.

Coach Burns called Wednesday's

Hawkeye workout another "spirited" session.

WHEN ASKED how he thought Iowa's ground game will fare against Notre Dame's rushing defense, he said, "We are working on our running game, but as you know, our strength lies in passing."

"Our passing will have to work to perfection Saturday if we are going to beat Notre Dame," he said.

When asked how many passes his team will have to throw to win on Saturday, he smiled and said, "At least four — all of them touchdowns."

Going back to the serious side, Burns said, "We will have to come through with our best offensive and defensive efforts of the season if we are going to win Saturday. But our spirit and confidence are high and we expect a good ball game, with no trouble about being up."

Meanwhile, in South Bend, Notre Dame, joined by limping star halfback Bill Wolski, continued to avoid rough work Wednesday in preparation for Iowa's air-borne Hawkeyes.

Wolski, leading Irish rusher, missed Notre Dame's 34-7 conquest of Michigan State last Saturday because of a pulled leg muscle.

He alternated at left half with Bob Merkle in another session concentrating on defense against the hurling of Iowa's quarterback Gary Snook, the nation's No. 2 passer.

THERE WAS NO contact work for regulars as Coach Ara Parseghian sought to prevent further additions to an injury toll marked by loss of linebacker Jim Lynch and John Meyer for the final two Irish games.

Parseghian told his squad the Hawkeyes have averaged three touchdowns a game and are "only five touchdowns away from an unbeaten season."

Princeton Fullback Is "Back of Week"

NEW YORK (AP) — A young man with the unlikely name of Cosmo Iacavazzi, who is busily leading Ivy League champion Princeton to its first perfect season since the days of Dick Kazmaier, is the Associated Press' Back of the Week.

The 5-foot-11, 200-pound senior fullback gained the honor of his brilliant exhibition in Princeton's 35-14 victory over Yale, the Tigers' eighth without loss and the one that clinched the Ivy League title for them.

"Cosmo is the greatest, period," Princeton Coach Dick Colman said. "In all, Iacavazzi picked up 115 yards on 20 carries, the most yardage any Princeton player ever gained on the ground in a single game."

Iacavazzi, 21 and the Princeton captain, was selected over a number of outstanding nominations, including Michigan quarterback Bob Timberlake, Navy quarterback Roger Staubach, and Tulsa's Jerry Rhome.

Winter Teams Await Season Openers

By BILL PIERROT, Assistant Sports Editor

While football and basketball are receiving most of the attention locally, members of Iowa's four winter sports' squads are actively preparing for the opening of their seasons.

Wrestlers, gymnasts, fencers, and swimmers and divers have been working out for from three weeks to three months. The wrestling team opens first with a quadrangular meet at Minneapolis on Nov. 28, then has four meets in December.

SIX LETTERMEN form the nucleus for the wrestling squad coached by Dave McCuskey. They are seniors Bill Fuller, in the 123 or 130 pound class; Joe Greenlee, 157; and Robert Schilling, heavyweight; and juniors Wilbur Devine, 147; Mel Weiland, 177; and Tom Bowman, 123.

Welland was Big 10 champion in his weight class last year. Greenlee was second in his class, and Schilling, third. Fuller was third in his class in the Big 10 and the NCAA meets.

McCuskey reports he has a number of promising sophomores including Robert Rausenberger, 130; Ray Davis, 137; Kenneth Shaner, 137; Terry Smothers, 147; Dennis Wegner, 157; Thomas Gennelly, 167; and Steve Moss, 177.

The chief loss from last year's team, which was second in the Big 10 behind Michigan, was 137 pounder Norm Parker. In addition to winning his weight class, he was named outstanding wrestler of the Big 10 meet.

THE GYMNASTIC team opens its season Dec. 5 in the Midwest Open meet at Chicago.

Coach Dick Halzaepfel reports that the squad has been working out since school started and has been having intrasquad meets on Fridays. The team is led by Glenn Gailis, one of the nation's outstanding gymnasts who was second all-around in the Big 10 meet last year.

Other returnees on a squad which Halzaepfel terms as excellent are seniors Bill Sayre, Barry Keeley, Pete Drozdowicz, and juniors Rick Feby and Elliot Pearl.

Sophomores expected to see much action are Charles Menschling, Rich Anderson, Bob Singerman, Tom Goldsborough, Kenneth Gordon, Dan Price, Tom Beamish, Ike Heller, Jeff Stein, Terry Northway and Richard Liebenow.

Tulsa finished second behind Michigan in the Big 10 meet last year and was fifth in the National tournament. Halzaepfel said that there will be no conference meet this year, rather that the champion will be determined on the basis of dual meet records.

THE SWIMMING team has a tentative opening date of Jan. 9 against Nebraska at Lincoln.

Men returning from last year's team which finished eighth in the Big 10 are Hal Bigger, Mike Peterson, Ralph Bextine, Ron Berry, Gary Grey, Jim Cook and Bill Sjostrom. Promising sophomores include Paul Monahan, and Tom Throckmorton.

Leading divers are Michel LeVois, Bill Kanter and Randy Miller.

Head swimming coach is Bob Allen; diving coach is Estel Mills.

THE FENCING team, which was second in the Big 10 behind Illinois last year, opens the season Jan. 30 under new coach Richard Marks.

Indiana Tech and Culver Military Academy provide the opposition in two dual meets on Jan. 30 in Chicago.

Returning lettermen include Mike Kinsinger who won first place in the foil division in the Big 10 meet last year, and took ninth in that division in the NCAA meet.

Other lettermen are Bill Tucher, Dick Adams and Al Hostetter. Expected to join the team at the end of the football season are lettermen Karl Ryan, Ivory McDowell, and Orville Townsend.

Statue Theft Brings Arrest Of 4 Students

Four University students were arrested Tuesday by Coralville police in connection with the theft a week-and-a-half ago of "Poncho" a 400-pound statue of a Mexican boy.

The statue was stolen from the Pine Edge Motel in Coralville.

Arrested and charged with larceny were William C. Douglas, A2, Kensett; Rodney Jiruska, A2, Cedar Rapids; Stephen Johns, A4, Wilmette, Ill.; and Patrick Hazell, A1, Burlington.

"Poncho" was found in an attic storeroom of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, 316 N. Dubuque, by Coralville police investigating the incident in cooperation with Iowa City and University police.

No decision on possible disciplinary action by the University is to be made until the cases are heard in court, school officials said.

All four were released from custody, Douglas and Jiruska on $100 bond, and Johns and Hazell on signature bond.

plan would involve selling bonds to pay for necessary building. Financing for the bonds would come from some state tax such as a tax on cigarettes or a sales tax.

A disadvantage of this plan is getting enough revenue to support building needs.

• A combination of general obligation and revenue bonds is a proposal which puts both types of bonds together.

Bonds are sold for construction financing and repaid from a specific source, such as student fees. The obligation is reinforced by a pledge from the state to stand behind the fee pledge.

THIS HAS the advantage of lower interest rates on the bonds since the state's credit is quite good. It would require a constitutional amendment to use this method, however, and such bonding might bring a tendency to use more and more student fees for revenue pledging.

The Iowa constitution puts a debt limit of $250,000 on state bonds and requires them to be paid within 20 years. In order to use bonding for extensive building, the constitutional requirements should be brought up to date, according to the 1960 Regent report.

Another suggestion in the report calls for using a portion of state sales tax for financing capital improvements.

Formal Opening Set For Kate Daum House

More than 100 coeds will lead tours through Kate Daum House from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday as part of the formal opening of the University's newest residence hall. Students, families, staff and Iowa Citizens are invited to visit the $7.4 million structure.

1967 Occupancy Tentatively Slated For Coed Dorm

The dormitory expansion program, of which Kate Daum is the first step, also includes a possible coeducational residence hall for 800 men and 800 women.

The building is tentatively slated for occupancy in 1967 according to Ted Rehder, director of dormitories and dining services.

Preliminary studies for the hall have been authorized by the Board of Regents, and an architect is working on the plans, which have not received final approval, Rehder said.

Also included in the program is a $2,525,000 addition to Currier Hall which involves remodeling the kitchen and the lounge on the south side of the building. The addition is under construction and should be completed by fall, 1965. It will house 563 coeds.

The 1966 phase of the expansion plan calls for a 521-bed addition to Quadrangle.

Visitors will be guided by hostesses through one of the eight floors. They will be shown a room and other facilities on the floor. Visitors will then go to the basement to see the recreation, typing, study and television rooms used by the 474 girls living in the dorm.

The tours will continue through a tunnel under Bloomington Street which connects Kate Daum with Burge Hall. Girls from both dormitories use the dining halls, store and main lounge in Burge. Kate Daum residents also receive visitors in a small lounge on the main floor.

Visitors will tour the Burge kitchen and then will be served refreshments in the dining hall.

Kate Daum has its own post office and vending machines, but for more substantial snacks girls are expected to use the Carnival Room in Burge.

Arrangements for the tours were made by Margaret Scott, A1, Carbondale, Ill., vice president of Kate Daum, and Mary Brauer, A2, Clinton, a floor chairman, working with Charlene A. Ressler, house manager, and Susan H. Faunce, head counselor.

Kate Daum House

KATE DAUM HOUSE, the newest residence hall at the University of Iowa, a $1.7 million structure, was occupied for the first time, this fall by 474 coeds. Official open house will be held Sunday from 2-5 p.m.
