

Full House To Hear Christmas Concert

New Quartet Makes First Appearance

Capacity audiences are expected to hear the University's annual Christmas Concert at 7:15 tonight and at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Union.

According to a Union spokesman, an estimated 1,600 tickets have been distributed. Persons not having tickets will have to wait outside the doors and will be seated if regular ticket holders fail to attend.

Taking part in the program will be the University's choir, oratorio chorus, and symphony orchestra. A new solo quartet will also make its first appearance at the concert.

MEMBERS of the quartet are three faculty members from the School of Music, Miss Dorothea Brown, Robert Eckert, and Albert Gammon. The fourth member is the wife of a member of the University Hospital Staff, Mrs. James Christensen.

The concert will be conducted by Daniel Moe, associate professor of music.

Miss Brown, the soprano member of the quartet, joined the U of I faculty as a voice instructor in September. She received her B.A. degree from Northwestern University in 1957 and her M.A. degree from Indiana University in 1961, where she was a music staff member.

SHE PERFORMED in the Highland Park Music Theater near Chicago in 1956 and 1957, and she received a Rockefeller Grant to study in New York in 1962 and 1963. She has also appeared extensively in Germany, performing such operas as "Riglotto" and "La Boheme."

Mrs. Christensen, whose husband, Dr. James Christensen, is on the internal medicine staff at University Hospitals, sings alto in the quartet. She graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1958, where she sang in operatic productions such as the "Marriage of Figaro" and the "Messiah."

Prof. Gammon, bass, came to Iowa from Louisiana State University in 1963. He has built a repertoire of 72 leading roles in German operas including the "Magic Flute" and "Aida."

He was a Fulbright scholar in Italy in 1961, and he received his B.A. degree from the Juilliard School of Music, his M.A. degree from Columbia University, and a diploma from the Academy of Saint Cecilia in Rome. He has also studied at the University of Southern California. His many appearances as a guest soloist in the United States include one with the Boston Opera.

PROF. ECKERT, tenor, joined the music staff in September. He received an M.F.A. degree from Iowa in 1961 and also a M.A. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1949.

He has performed with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, The Robert Shaw Choral, the Bach Aria Group, and the Concert Opera Society.

Miss Brown and Gammon will perform in "Cantata No. 140" by Bach, and all four soloists will be featured in the "Te Deum" by Kodaly. The other composition on the program, "Mass No. 2 in E Minor" by Bruckner has no soloists.

Supreme Court Backs Civil Rights Bill Section

Applications Up 91%—

In-State Students Get Residence Preference

With applications for admission from prospective freshmen running far ahead of last year's number, the University has announced that it will give preference in single student housing to qualified residents of Iowa who apply for admission before March 1.

Donald E. Rhoades, director of admissions, advised in a letter to Iowa secondary school principals and counselors that:

"Any 12th-grade student who is a resident of Iowa, if he submits an application for admission and official transcript of secondary school course work to our office prior to Mar. 1, and is admissible, will be given preferential treatment for University residence halls for the 1965-66 academic year, if this type of accommodation is desired."

RHOADES said the policy was established because of the possibility that dormitory housing may be filled before fall.

Ted McCarrel, executive dean of the Division of Student Services, said applications for admission from high school seniors are 91 per cent ahead of the number received up to this time a year ago. The University has received 1,479 applications to date, he said, and a year ago the number was 757.

"Each year the potential freshmen file their applications a little earlier. Some of our current increase is due to this, but this can account for only a relatively small proportion of the increase," McCarrel noted.

He estimated that the University's enrollment will climb to 15,850 by next fall, which is 1,370 more than the current enrollment. By 1966, he said, the University should expect 17,000 students. In September the U of I opened with 14,480 students, which is 1,557 more than in 1963.

MCCARREL said it now appears that the projected enrollment for next fall will include approximately 3,200 new freshmen compared with 2,561 this fall. The next freshman class is expected to be made up of some 2,600 resident and as many as 600 non-resident students, approximately the same ratio between residents and non-residents that has occurred for several years.

Union Board Ski Trip Planned for Break

A ski trip to Chestnut Mountain Lodge, Galena, Ill., is being planned by Union Board for semester break. Those interested should contact the Union Board office. Further details will be available at a later date.

COST of the trip is $34.50, which covers lodging, meals, two ski instruction periods and lift fees. Other winter recreation will also be provided.

A $10 down payment must be made before Jan. 15.

dormitory and dining system at Iowa, said the anticipated increase in enrollment may mean that all residence halls will be filled to their expanded capacities, which is somewhat in excess of design capacities.

REHDER said the University expects to house some 3,100 single women students and approximately 2,200 single men students in 1965. This estimate, he said, is based on the availability of more than half of a 563-woman addition to Currier Hall residence for women which is now under construction.

He noted that a 521-man addition to Quadrangle residence hall for men is in the planning stages also, as are 208 more permanent apartments for married students. Next fall, however, the demand for married student apartments will continue to exceed the number of available units, Rehder said.

Accommodations Vote Unanimous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld unanimously Monday the controversial public accommodations section of the new 1964 civil rights law.

The court ruled also that the new law requires dismissal of charges and reversal of convictions against civil rights sit-in demonstrators before the law became law last July. The court divided 5 to 4 in this decision which will close approximately 3,000 cases in various Southern states.

UNDER THE PUBLIC accommodations section, restaurants and motels must serve all races if their customers or food move in interstate commerce.

However, the justices did not pin down how remote from interstate commerce a business must be to escape from this provision.

The split decision declaring the act retroactive against sit-in prosecutions which began before Congress passed the legislation brought an angry dissent from Justice Hugo L. Black.

"THE IDEA that Congress has power to accomplish such a result has no precedent, so far as I know, in the nearly 200 years that Congress has been in existence," he said.

Black and the other dissenters — Justices John M. Harlan, Byron R. White, and Potter Stewart — all wrote opinions saying Congress has been silent on the question.

"HAD CONGRESS intended to ratify massive disobedience to the law, so often attended by violence, I feel sure it would have said so in unmistakable language. The truth is that it is only judicial rhetoric to blame this result on Congress," White said.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had informed the Supreme Court that about 3,000 criminal prosecutions for sit-in demonstrations were still pending. All these cases were wiped out by the decision. They include cases not yet tried and those in which convictions were obtained and appealed. Trespass was charged in most instances.

JUSTICE TOM C. Clark delivered the majority opinion in the sit-in decision as well as in the two separate public accommodations rulings. It was the first Supreme Court test of any part of the new law signed by President Johnson last July 2.

In one case, the court upheld a three-judge District Court ruling against the Heart of Atlanta Motel's challenge to the section outlawing discrimination in such places as hotels, restaurants, motels, and theaters.

Morton Rolleston Jr., Atlanta attorney and official of the motel, filed suit two hours after Johnson signed the law.

HE ARGUED his own case here Oct. 5, and said: "The fact that Negroes are involved in this issue is purely incidental. The fundamental issue is whether Congress has the right to take away from a private business concern the owner's choice of running his firm as he wishes and choosing his customers."

Clark, disagreeing, said on behalf of the court: "The power of Congress to promote interstate commerce also includes the power to regulate the local incidents thereof, including local activities in both the state of origin and destination, which might have a substantial and harmful effect upon that commerce."

'The Coop' Draws Audience of 200

"The Coop," the second Studio Theatre offering of the season, opened Monday night before about 200 persons.

Written by Ralph Arzooanian, G. Iowa City, the play depicts the mental disintegration of five prisoners suddenly granted leisure time.

A prison cell provides the setting for the play. John H. Terfloth, assistant professor of dramatic art, directs the production.

"The Coop" will have three more performances, tonight through Thursday. All starting times are 8 p.m.

Claus in Traction

Some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed — even for Santa Claus. For Santa and his nurse at Ward A of the Children's Hospital, Stanley Sue Frenstess, Christmas seemed all too close. There was no real Yule crisis, though. Santa was a dummy (literally) and he was only in the hospital to cheer up the children who were there for the Christmas season.

U. Hospitals' Santa Claus Needs Help from Elves

Gifts are arriving daily from persons throughout the state, but more are needed if Santa is to present a gift to all patients who must spend the holiday at the University of Iowa Hospitals.

Volunteer workers are gift-wrapping presents as they arrive. Bruce Briggs, chairman of the Hospitals Christmas Committee said, but more gifts are needed, especially for adults.

Toys are still needed. They always bring happiness to the youngsters who are hospitalized, he explained, but the committee sometimes fails to receive a sufficient number of adult gifts to go around.

Examples of gifts which patients welcome are leather kits, billfolds, knitting materials, toilet articles, gloves, books, shawls, stationery with stamps and handkerchiefs.

Larger items such as bedside radios and record players, which will benefit a large number of patients throughout the year, are always appreciated, Briggs said.

Cash gifts are used to buy presents for patients for whom not enough gifts are donated.

Briggs said donors should be reminded not to send gifts of food nor to gift-wrap packages or presents. Diet restrictions make food gifts impractical and all packages must be opened for sorting before being gift-wrapped by hospital volunteers.

Gifts checks or money orders should be mailed to: Christmas Committee, University of Iowa Hospitals, Iowa City, Iowa.

Two New City Parks Proposed to Board

A private engineering firm told Iowa City councilmen and Park and Recreation committee members, "Iowa City's greatest park and recreation needs are for an increased number of small neighborhood parks and the acquisition of a larger park in the southeast quarter of the city."

The president of the firm, J. L. Donoghue of Ralph Burke Inc., discussed a detailed report on the city's recreation needs with city representatives Monday night. Donoghue proposed establishing a park in the vicinity of the new Southeast Junior High School and a park in northeast Iowa to complement the existing facilities at City Park in the northwest quarter of the city.

The proposed parks would house a large swimming pool and an area for development into a winter sports area.

Most of the park and recreation expansion would be slated for completion by 1967. Total cost of the proposed projects would be more than $650,000.

Donoghue recommended that the city apply for federal funds for land acquisition under the Open Space Land Program of the Urban Renewal Administration. Under this program Iowa City would receive thirty per cent of the total cost of the land acquired.

Prof. Zuberi Dies During Univ. Leave

Word was received Monday afternoon of the death of Prof. I. H. Zuberi, University of Iowa visiting professor on leave, who died earlier in the day at Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

Zuberi, a distinguished literary scholar, who was on leave from 1963 to 1965 to the University of Windsor, was believed to be recovering satisfactorily from surgery undergone approximately two weeks ago. It is believed he endured a sudden paralytic attack Monday morning and died shortly thereafter.

NO FUNERAL PLANS or further details of Professor Zuberi's death are yet available. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Moberna, 19, and Nyob, 14; and a son, Javid 18. The two elder children are students in Pakistan.

A native of Pakistan, his special interest was the works of John Donne and other metaphysical poets of the 17th century. He won wide recognition for his studies of them.

In 1961 he was awarded a Folger Fellowship to complete work on Donne's "Pseudo-Martyr" for publication in a definitive edition. He came to the University in 1959 as the only Muslim Fellow of the Royal Society of Literature. His works were published under the name Itrat-Husain.

EDUCATED at Allahabad University in India, at Merton College, Oxford and at Edinburgh University, Zuberi served as professor and head of English at Dacca University in Pakistan. He was president of Rajshahi University, Pakistan, from 1953-1957, and was an educational adviser to the government of Pakistan until he came to Iowa City in 1959.

3 Railroad Unions Promise: No Strike for Holiday Trips

CHICAGO (AP) — Three unions promised the shopping and traveling public Monday their Christmas gift deliveries and holiday trips will not be upset by a railroad strike.

"We have no intention of calling a work stoppage during the holiday season," Joseph Ramsey, vice president of the International Association of Machinists, told newsmen.

Ramsey spoke in the U.S. District Court House where Judge Joseph Sam Perry heard testimony in a suit brought by railroad management to enjoin the machinists, the sheet metal workers and the electrical workers from striking.

"We don't want to inconvenience the public," Ramsey said. He added that the strike-free period would include New Year's Day and possibly a day or two more.

Testimony taken in the hearing indicated the two parties were not far apart on wage demands. As he recessed the hearing, Judge Perry took note of this and said:

"Maybe the railroads and unions could get together in the Christmas spirit and settle the whole kit and kaboodle."

Neither side indicated it would accept the suggestion.

A strike by these three unions would tie up operations of nearly all the nation's railroads at a loss estimated by management of more than $20 million a day.

Three Soviets Told To Leave United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Monday ordered three Russian military attaches to leave the country in obvious retaliation against Soviet restrictions imposed on three American attaches in Moscow.

Officially, the three Soviet officers were declared persona non grata — unwelcome persons — for "activities incompatible with their diplomatic status." It was not disclosed what these activities were.

The diplomatic action came on the same day when Washington, after two months of frustration, decided to withdraw three American attaches from Moscow. The three were virtually confined to the Russian capital since Oct. 6, when the Soviets accused them of spying.

A British attaché was involved with the three Americans in the October incident and he was withdrawn by London. The British Government also asked the Soviets Monday to withdraw a naval attaché from London in a retaliatory gesture.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow announced that Col. George A. Aubrey, Army attaché; Lt. Col. Karl R. Lieber, assistant Army attaché; and Maj. James F. Smith, assistant air attaché, will be withdrawn from their posts. The three, together with Lt. Cmdr. N. N. Laville, British assistant naval attaché, were held for hours in their Khabarovsk hotel rooms while Soviet police searched their effects and confiscated some of their belongings Sept. 28.

Officials said that the United States had to act when it became clear that the Russians would not relent but intended to maintain severe restrictions on the movement of the three Americans.

Married Housing Hearing Today

Rusk, De Gaulle Discuss Allied Nuclear Command

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk told President Charles de Gaulle Monday the door will always be open to France in any allied nuclear command.

In the course of what was called a long "friendly and frank" discussion in the Elysee

Palace presidential offices, Rusk told De Gaulle the United States has no desire to isolate France with proposals for an allied Multilateral Nuclear Force or similar ideas. France opposes such a project and has refused to take part in preliminary studies.

RUSK TOLD NEWSMEN that he had assured De Gaulle — who insists on building his own purely French nuclear arm — that arrangements now under study with Britain, West Germany and other NATO countries are deliberately being kept flexible so that France can join, too, whenever she wants.

City Police Judge Offers Resignation To Councilmen

Police Judge Robert W. Jansen has submitted his resignation to the City Council effective Dec. 31. Jansen is to become an assistant to the county attorney.

The council is expected to accept the resignation and appoint Jansen's successor at tonight's meeting.

Jansen became police judge Jan. 21 when he succeeded Daniel W. Boyle who later was elected county attorney.

Other matters scheduled to come before the council tonight include the receiving of a student-backed petition to ban sound trucks from city streets.

A hearing to amend the current budget also will be held by the council.

Snow Expected Tonight

Winter aimed what might be called half a blast at Iowa Monday. Temperatures dropped to frigid levels. But cloudless, sunny skies covered the state.

Highs in the upper teens and lower 20's were predicted for today, with warmest readings expected in the southwest.

Partly cloudy skies and moderating temperatures were forecast for tonight. Light snow was to begin in northwest counties late today and move across the state Wednesday, with just flurries expected in most southern counties.

Considerable cloudiness and warmer temperatures are forecast Wednesday.

The price we pay to enjoy the best

THE BEST THINGS in life are free, or so the song would have us believe, but life is not a musical comedy and it just isn't so.

Unfortunately a lot of people do not understand this fact of economic life. The current budget considerations facing Gov. Harold Hughes present an excellent example of this fallacy among Iowa voters.

If the governor took budget requests from all state boards, bureaus and agencies and submitted them to the Legislature in January without making any cuts, Iowa's full budget requests would be 67 per cent higher than at present.

Requests from the Board of Regents, for example, are up 30 per cent over last year. These requests include "bare bones" requirements for expanding facilities at the University, Iowa State and SCI.

Asking money for increased salaries to keep Iowa schools competitive in recruiting and retaining faculty members, meeting needs of rapidly increasing enrollments and making long postponed capital improvements.

Only about $5.5 million of the $174 million in Regent askings is earmarked for "program strengthening." This money would go toward providing lower student-faculty classroom ratios and more library staff workers. The rest of the $174 million is necessary to merely "stand still" and provide an education to greater numbers of students without lowering standards.

If Iowa's Regent institutions are to continue providing educational opportunities for the state's youth at today's level, then, there is little room for budget cutting.

Tuition and fee rates for Iowa, Iowa State and State College are already high relative to comparable state schools in the Midwest. This means that money for increased educational needs must come from state funds. And here is where the kicker comes.

The Regents need more money, but so does the Board of Public Instruction, the Board of Control and every other state administrative agency.

But there is just no way the governor can find 67 per cent more money to finance all these askings — without raising state revenues.

When the Regents' budget was explained to the governor Friday, Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, regent from Des Moines, said she thinks the people of Iowa are ready to pay for progress through increased sales taxes for education.

The governor agreed people are willing to pay, "but the question is how much."

Politicians who raise taxes find themselves faced with forced retirement by an unhappy electorate more often than not, as Gov. Hughes pointed out.

John Q. Public will pay $3,500 to replace his 1962 Starfire Belch 8 with a 1965 Whizbang Spider Jet, and he will think himself fortunate to have made such a wise auto purchase.

But when he pays his gasoline taxes, his license plate fees and his sales taxes, he feels pinched by "outrageous taxes in Iowa." He never considers these taxes as the price which buys him a highway to drive his new car on.

As long as voters consider taxes to be just so much money wasted or a "necessary evil," politicians will be most reluctant to take the steps they must in order to finance adequate public goods and services.

If taxpayers (and voters) could bring themselves to think of state services such as those provided by state schools as "products" which are purchased with tax dollars, they might be less opposed to paying taxes.

We intend to expand these remarks in the future by showing some "goods" which Regents appropriations would buy — if Iowans are willing to pay the bill.

These goods are among the biggest bargains available today, we hope one day taxpayers will realize this and take advantage of them. The price of passing up progress for the sake of political expediency is false economy which could one day leave Iowa bankrupt in "the best things in life" which are by no means free. —Jon Van

Letters to the Editor —

Review of Huston Smith's talk elicits readers remarks

To the Editor:

Not attempting to "answer" Mr. Fred Wilson's Dec. 12 article about Dr. Huston Smith's lecture, I would like to make a few incomplete, justifiable value judgments on only three points in the article.

First, Mr. Wilson clearly made a value judgment in assigning truth to the statement: Dr. Smith was saying the West's concentration on nature was bad. I give this statement the value false and explain that Dr. Smith only said that the West did concentrate more on nature.

Similarly, Mr. Wilson assigns the value true to the statement: Dr. Smith used the rhetorical device of appealing to the religious sympathies of the majority of his audience. I would give this statement the value false because I observed nothing to support it.

Third, I don't see how science can be value-free. One is making a value judgment from his personal way of thinking of things when he decides how to accept science. Also, in the science itself value judgments are made as to the truth of data collected and the truth of assumptions made in its collection and use in confirming statements in the body of "scientific laws."

Incidentally, Mr. Wilson's strong belief in science would tend in a small way to justify the high place Dr. Smith gave to nature in Western thought.

Typographic errors cited

To the Editor:

In my article in Saturday's Daily Iowan, "Philosopher Criticizes M.I.T. Prof's Talk on 'Mind of Man,'" there occurred two typographical errors which rendered less than pellucid one of the points when I wished to make.

I had indicated that Mr. Smith offered three things as justification to his value judgment that the West's concentration on nature was bad. Both typographical errors occurred in my discussion of the second of these three things. That discussion ought to read as follows:

(2) A causal connexion was offered as justification. The causal connexion was this: The West's concentration on nature caused its fall from greatness. (Grant for the sake of the argument a rather dubious premise, that to say a civilization is great is not to make a value judgment.) But this could be used as justification only if (assuming the West has in fact fallen from greatness, and (b) the cause of this fall was in fact such concentration.) No attempt was made to establish either (a) or (b).

Fred Wilson, G 437 S. Governor

Outraged reader asks for solution

To the Editor and the Law College:

My sense of justice is outraged by the release of the 21 Mississippians, more so by the acquittal of the proved slayers of Penn and Evers. It is common knowledge now that even the most iniquitous of Southern civil rights crimes are unpunishable.

Common knowledge is commonly false. Could you tell me and other interested and ignorant people if truly a complete legal stalemate has been reached: Could a test case be put before the Supreme Court on the basis that where a regional belief or prejudice is involved an unbiased jury cannot be formed? Could Congress set up a special court with jurisdiction in these cases?

Or could they be assigned to the Supreme Court itself? And finally, is there anything the public can do in support of just rulings in civil rights crimes?

How we could ease the minds of 700,000 frustrated Red Chinese

By ART BUCHWALD

Just about a week ago, 700,000 angry and frustrated Chinese gathered in Peking's Tien An Man Square to demonstrate against American intervention in the Congo. The tragedy was that there was no American embassy to demonstrate against.

This points up as well as anything why the recognition of Red China should be reconsidered. Had we had an American embassy in Peking and a USA library, the Chinese would have probably broken every window in the building and burnt up every book as the Indonesians did in Jakarta. This would have given the United States an opportunity to present a strong protest to the Chinese and demand immediate payment for the damage to our embassy.

The fact that we have no relations with Red China makes it impossible to protest to them about wrecking our embassy and prevents us from collecting money for the damage to USA's books.

FURTHERMORE, the fact that the Chinese had no American embassy to vent their anger against has caused them to hate us more than even our actions in the Congo. It's pretty tough to parade through the streets of Peking for hours on end without any place to march on.

In Moscow, during the same period, the Soviets marched on the American embassy and did as much damage as the Soviet police would let them. The Russians went away happy, with a warm spot in their hearts for Americans, and ever since the demonstrations relations between the United States and Russia have improved.

Criticism of Regents

(From The Waterloo Courier)

The Board of Regents, at the request of the presidents of the three tax-supported colleges, adopted (in October) a policy on controversial speakers on the campus.

The policy statement says the rules are "designed to emphasize that in a democratic society all citizens have not only the right but the obligation to inform themselves on issues of contemporary concern including politics, religion, ethics and morals."

Speakers of any type may speak on the campuses provided they are sponsored by a recognized student, faculty or employee organization. Officials may require that the speaker be subject to questions from the audience and may require that a faculty member be in charge of the meeting.

It will be interesting to see how the policy works out in practice.

The people of Iowa elect a governor who appoints members of the Board of Regents which names the presidents of the three tax-supported colleges. By this indirect method, the people of Iowa have the ultimate power to determine the way in which their children are educated.

Everyone is in favor of free demonstration. No one proposes that the academic environment should involve indoctrination in some narrow ideological philosophy.

But "recognized" student groups should no more receive the right to determine which speakers shall be allowed to use campus halls than they should have a right to employ professors or establish the curriculum.

We oppose any Board of Regents policy in which the presidents of the colleges can evade responsibility for the educational environment of the colleges. Certainly this environment should include exposure to speakers of varied viewpoints in all intellectual fields. But the spectrum of this exposure must be controlled by responsible officials.

The people of Iowa will hold the governor, the Regents and the college presidents responsible for the regulation of campus activities. They will not tolerate, for example, the organization of fascist and Communist clubs on the campus to promote the use of violence. The public will insist that the colleges teach and promote democracy.

COFO worker tells of trial and imaginary statute

By MIKE KENNEY Guest Writer

(EDITOR NOTE: Mike Kenney, a former student here, is the COFO project director in Holmes County, Miss., where he spent last summer as a volunteer worker.)

Hardy C. Kenneth, Negro founder of Tehula, Miss., was found guilty Dec. 11 in Justice of the Peace Court of Tehula of driving "under the influence of" — brown skin or civil right workers or something. He was fined $50 plus court costs.

The trial was something of a minor sensation in this two-street town. The City Hall, which consists of one almost bare room with only a table and some chairs and a little cubby hole the deputy sheriff uses as an office with the Justice of the Peace, was the scene of the trial.

THE TRIAL had been con-

An observer in Cairo reports that the Egyptians have never felt better than they have since they burned up the USA library and wrecked the U.S. Marine barracks.

But Peking is still a mass of seething students and workers whose anger is bottled up inside them.

UNLESS AMERICA does something to release this anger, we could be confronted with a serious international problem which eventually may become insoluble.

Although American policy is still against the recognition of Red China, there are other solutions which could be worked out.

One might be to build an American embassy in Peking without recognizing the Communist government. The building would be designed to withstand the assaults of the largest type of Red Chinese demonstration, but would also have enough windows so the demonstrators could let off steam.

WE WOULDN'T have to staff the embassy with anyone except repairmen and glaziers who could handle the damage.

After two or three demonstrations against the U.S. embassy, the Chinese would be so happy they might start demonstrating against the Peking government, demanding a rapprochement with the United States.

In return for this, the United States would also benefit. If Peking built an embassy in Washington, it would give our students a chance to demonstrate against the Red Chinese over their aid in North Viet Nam.

Before long the two countries would be trying to burn down each other's embassies and you would have normal diplomatic relations between two of the great powers in the world. It's something for Dean Rusk to think about.

(c) 1964, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate

Continued from its original date so Kenneth could retain a lawyer. The word had evidently spread that a Negro was defending himself. After the trial was over the room emptied, but during it, two local constables, the deputy sheriff and six other white men were present. A number of Negroes crept in during the trial, stayed close to the door and scamped out just before the trial ended.

The trial began with the judge, the arresting officer, a prosecution witness, the defendant and his lawyer sitting around the table. The judge asked Kenneth to say something for himself.

THE LAWYER pointed out that the prosecution usually presents its case before the defense. The judge said that it usually wasn't done that way in his court but that it would be all right in this case.

The prosecution attempted to prove that Kenneth had been driving erratically. The prosecution's witness said she had followed Kenneth for a couple of miles but was afraid to pass him because he was weaving back and forth across the center line. She admitted she could not identify either Kenneth or the car she allegedly followed.

The officer stated that he first charged Kenneth with reckless driving but changed the charge to driving under the influence of narcotics. Later he decided he could not prove influence of narcotics so he struck out the word "narcotics" and arrested him on the charge of "driving under the influence of." The officer also admitted that he could not smell whiskey on Kenneth's breath but that he was staggering when he walked.

THE COURT found Kenneth guilty of "driving under the influence of." When the lawyer pointed out that there is no statute in Mississippi making it illegal to "drive under the influence of" and that no proof of violation of any crime had been offered, let alone of the violation of the nebulous crime with which he was charged, the judge replied that Kenneth was guilty of something.

The judge said, "I don't think it's proper to let a man loose when he's out there, regardless of what he is charged with." The judge said that either side could appeal the decision, and found Kenneth guilty, "to teach him a lesson."

There are some lessons to be learned here. The state of Mississippi justice, so-called, is the first. Kenneth claims that nobody followed him except the highway patrolman and that the alleged witness was a plant.

The story does not end here. Earlier this fall Kenneth put in some plumbing at the Holmes County Community Center, a building loosely connected with the civil rights organizations here, but clearly used for civil rights purposes. Shortly after doing this work he was informed, at 3:30 a.m., by the deputy sheriff that the piece work he had been doing for the city of Tehula since 1939 had been discontinued. No explanations were given.

According to the judge, he was "guilty of something."

(This is an actual case, but the defendant's name has been changed for his safety.)

As we proceed, we will give you further "keys" to handle these tenses.

Present tense topic of today's Spanish lesson

By WILLIAM ARCHER Lesson No. 30

Reading time 5 Min. Study time 5 Min.

If you say, "I go to the hotel and John is there," you have spoken in the present tense, but you have implied the past tense. You will be understood even though you have not spoken correctly. You should have said, "I went to the hotel and John was there." (Fui al hotel y Juan fue alla.)

This was done to show you the importance of the present tense. It might amaze you to know that the vast majority of Spanish speaking people use the present tense for 90 per cent of their conversation. Only the more intellectual conjugate verbs beyond a few stock phrases.

In our own language, think how often we hear the present tense used in place of the past. The present tense is the important tense when you are beginning. That is why we give you three verb auxiliaries in the present, and only one in the future, and one in the past.

SPEED SPEECH does not claim to make you a finished student in 24 hours of study; but it does claim to give you a correct basic foundation, upon which you can build a solid knowledge of Spanish. Even more important, you will be able to think in it as readily as you do in your own tongue.

We will now give you the sounds and endings to the verb "tener" (to have to):

- A) I have to eat.
- B) Tengo que comer.
- C) TANG-go/k-co-MARE.
- A) He has to eat.
- B) El tiene que comer.
- C) IA-EN-nay/k-co-MARE
- A) We have to eat.
- B) Tenemos que comer.
- C) tay-NAY-mos/k-co-MARE
- A) They have to eat.
- B) Ellos tienen que comer.
- C) A-yos-t/AN-n/k-co-MARE

These four sounds are very simple, aren't they? — "tengo," like the dance; "tiene," just the English letters "T-N" plus the English sound "ny"; "tenemos," just the sounds "tay," "nay" and "mos"; "tienen," just the three English letters "T-N-N."

You are now equipped with three verbs for the present tense — "to have," "to be able" and "to have to." So now, there is nothing that you desire to say that you cannot express in Spanish verb movement in the present tense.

There is another very valuable feature that you have acquired which you are not even aware of. With the "keys" you have been given, you have also been given the "keys" to the most difficult part of any language, namely, the "imperfect tenses": "I may go," "I could go," "I should go," "I ought to go," etc. The almost insurmountable task of learning the verb endings and sounds of these tenses is unbelievable, but with SPEED SPEECH, you already have the "keys" to surmount them:

- A) I may go.
- B) Es posible que yo vaya.
- C) s/poe-SEE-blay/k/yo/vah-yah
- A) I could go, but I don't want to.
- B) Puedo ir, pero no quiero.
- C) poo-AID-to-ear/PAIR-oh-/no/key-AIR-o

As we proceed, we will give you further "keys" to handle these tenses.

U.N. Contest To Offer Trip As 1st Prize

A college or university undergraduate in Iowa could win a month-long vacation in Europe in an essay contest sponsored by the United Nations Association's Collegiate Council.

Three major prizes are being offered for the best three essays by undergraduates based on a coming television production, "Carol for Another Christmas." The program is to be nationally televised on the ABC network Monday evening, Dec. 28 at 8:30 p.m., Iowa time.

It will tell the story of some of the lesser known activities of the U.N.

Its theme is that today no man can live as an island. The first prize is the month-long expense-paid trip to Europe which includes a special seminar on the United Nations at Geneva, Switzerland.

Second prize is an expense-paid trip to New York to attend intensive briefing sessions on the U.N. at a special summer program. Third prize is an expense-paid trip to San Francisco to participate in the 20th anniversary celebration of the signing of the U.N. charter. There will be other national and regional prizes.

Any college undergraduate may enter the essay competition by first watching the TV program Dec. 28 and by notifying Essay Contest, Collegiate Council for the United Nations, 345 East 46th St., New York, N.Y. by Jan. 15 that he intends to participate.

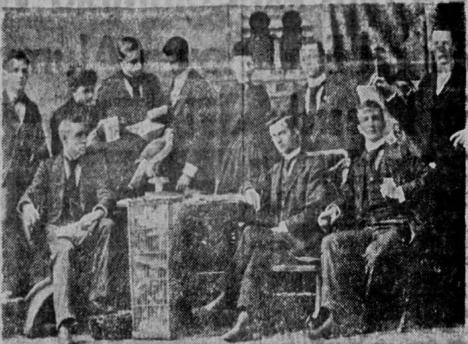

Full details of the contest will be sent. Letters should give name, year of study, college attending and faculty adviser or appropriate faculty member.

All essays must be submitted for judging no later than Feb. 15. The winners will be announced on or before April 15.

William Bendix, 58, TV, Movie Star, Dies of Pneumonia

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor William Bendix, whose rough, gruff manner masked a marshmallow heart, died Monday. He was best known as the harried father in television's "Life of Riley."

The end came at Good Samaritan Hospital, where he had been listed in critical condition for several days with lumbar pneumonia. He was 58. At his bedside were his wife of 37 years, Therese, 58, and daughters, Stephanie, 20, and Loraine, 30.

The Hawkeye Family

The Hawkeye Staff of 1892 highly recommends that you sign for a 1965 Hawkeye at any of the colored boxes on campus before Thursday. If you don't Herky the Hawk, second from left, may come back to haunt you.

1965 Hawkeye Looks Back to 1891 Edition

By CARLA SCHUMANN Staff Writer

Back in 1891 when the U of I was still SUI and the fighting Hawkeyes completed their first undefeated football season, the Hawkeye yearbook was born.

The Hawkeye which spotlighted that year of 1891, was distributed in spring, 1892. Diplomatically enough, the Hawkeye that year ignored a disputed football battle between Iowa and Kansas. Iowa records indicated that SUI won the contest 18-14 for its first undefeated season.

KANSAS, however, also claims to have won by a margin of 14-12 for its first undefeated season. Only two football scores, in fact, were published in the 1891-92 Hawkeye — Iowa College, (now Grinnell) 11-6 and IWU, 0-91. The Hawkeye failed to mention who won which games or what IWU stood for.

One of two photos in the first edition of the Hawkeye featured the 1891 football team — all 17 members. Scrolled, hand-sewn letters graced the uniforms which were laced up the front like corsets.

SORORITIES and fraternities in the 1890's were called "secret societies." Three women's secret societies (Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Gamma) and four men's secret societies (Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Tau Delta and Beta Theta Pi) were functioning on the campus in 1891.

The familiar head shots of each Greek were missing and only the names were listed.

The spirit of the first edition was exhibited in the "University Yell" of 1891 — "HI! HI! SUI! Giddy! Giddy! UNI! SUI!"

Seventy-four editions later, the Hawkeye is celebrating its 75th anniversary. Included in the anniversary edition will be a welcome spread to President Bowen.

HAWKEYE editor Susan Artz, A4, Galveston, Tex., hinted Monday that the 1965 Hawkeye, now in production, will contain special anniversary pages on the history of the Hawkeye.

She said the pages would tell the real story behind the 75th anniversary of the 74-year-old yearbook.

The modern Hawkeye contains most University clubs, activities, sports, academics, queens, housing units and several special categories. From two photos and about 20 woodcuts in the first edition, the picture total stood at 1,091 in the award-winning 1964 Hawkeye, Miss Artz said.

MANY NEW organizations bought pages this year according to Business Manager Don Kellogg, B4, Charles City.

A record number of yearbooks already has been sold this year, Kellogg said.

The final deadline for ordering a 1965 Hawkeye is Thursday. Twenty-two ordering booths have been set up at major campus locations.

$400 Fire Damage Linked to Heater

A fire at Maher Brothers Transfer and Storage Inc., 304 South Gilbert St., caused an estimated $400 damage Sunday afternoon.

According to a company official, the fire was in a converted truck bin which was being used to store freezable goods. The bin is located outside the main storage building. The fire was confined to the bin.

The bin, called a hot room, was heated by an electric heater which apparently ignited the metal and frame structure.

The fire began about 4:50 p.m. Iowa City firemen were at the scene for about an hour.

Lasansky Helps Form Printmaking Standards

Mauricio Lasansky, professor of art, is one of five American printmakers asked to formulate standards of originality for making prints for the Print Council of America.

The standards which the "five set up have been published by the council in "What Is an Original Print?" The second edition of the booklet, just published, contains a definition of an original print, and standards and rules about prints to be adopted by museums, artists, collectors, art dealers and the public.

Debate Team Music, Dance Finishes 2nd Will Honor Bard's Birth In Tourney

The Iowa debate team took second place in competition with 30 colleges and universities at an annual pre-Christmas debate tournament held at Wisconsin State University Friday and Saturday.

Ronald Marek, A2, Cedar Rapids, and Donald Loftus, A1, Gilmore City took the second place honors, winning five of six debates. Loftus received the highest number of speaker's points, among all Iowa debaters participating in the event.

Among the competitors were some of the top debate teams in the Midwest, representing Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Manchester College, Manchester, Ind.; Northern Illinois, DeKalb; and the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

The University's second team also took high honors in the tournament with four wins and two losses in competition. Second team members are Richard Pundt, A3, Homestead, and Paul Fiala, A2, Cedar Rapids.

The Collegium Musicum and the Dance Theatre will present an evening of 17th century drama, readings and music at 8 p.m. Thursday in Macbride Auditorium.

Titled "An Elizabethan Night's Entertainment," the program will celebrate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. The concert will be open to the public free of charge.

Ranging from country dances to a comic playlet, the numbers were adapted by directors Eugene Helm, assistant professor of music, Robert Donington and Marcia Thayer, head of dance instruction. Richard Thomsen, G, Charles City, conceived the idea for the presentation and is in charge of dramatic direction.

The Collegium Musicum is one of about 35 college groups in the United States organized to perform early and unusual music. It has presented public programs on campus for the past four years under the direction of Professor Helm, and now gives two major performances along with other appearances annually.

Holiday Music To Be Aired

Christmas musical programs featuring students and staff will be heard on 66 radio stations in Iowa and surrounding states during the holiday season.

WSUI will present a program of Wednesday's Christmas concert by the University Choir, the Oratorio Chorus and the Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Daniel Moe, associate professor of music.

Among the works that will be presented in a program beginning at 8 p.m. are Bach's cantata "Wake, Awake" by the choir and orchestra and Anton Bruckner's "Mass No. 2 in E Minor" by the chorus and orchestra.

Fifty-six stations will broadcast a tape-recorded program by the Old Gold Singers directed by John Quinn, resident assistant in music, and 40 have requested tapes of the Christmas concert. Twenty-five of these stations are in Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska, Michigan, Missouri, Wisconsin and South Dakota. A group of 35 nonmusic majors, the Old Gold Singers will present a 15-minute presentation of popular and traditional Christmas music on tape.

WMT-TV, Cedar Rapids, plans to air a video-tape of the Old Gold Singers before Christmas. WSUI will broadcast the following programs:

"The Nutcracker Suite," Dec. 22 — 8:30 p.m., radio dramatization of Charles Dickens' "The Goblins Who Stole a Sexton," Dec. 23 — 10 a.m., Redlands University, "The Feast of Lights," 2:35 p.m., Haydn, "The Toy Symphony";

Prokofiev, "Peter and the Wolf," 7 p.m., "The Soldier and the Woman," Dec. 24 — 1 p.m., Cyril Ritchard reading "Alice in Wonderland," Dec. 26 — 1 p.m., Handel's "The Messiah."

WAYNERS

The season's best wishes, accompanied by a short dissertation on the many pitfalls (and pratfalls) of the holidays.

So you're not going to the Rose Bowl Game during the holidays.

And Dad isn't going to come through with the Jaguar convertible you've wanted for so long.

And you get home and find that your kid brother has moved into your room and given away (or traded, or hocked) about half of your "personal" property.

You call your Old Reliable (girl or boy friend) and find that she or he is not only dated up for the two weeks, it's for The Duration. Like it's even a Permanent Arrangement.

And your kindly instructor in Chem II has thrown a 5,000-word term paper at you for delivery into his hot little hands no later than 7:30 a.m. of Monday, January 4.

Your cousin, third, who's going to Upper Ypsilanti State, majoring in Bird-watching, is proudly carrying a solid one-tenth higher grade point average than you are. (This tidy piece of information is proudly divulged by his ador-ing mother, over the Wassail Cup on Christmas Eve in front of The Whole Family.)

And this gives rise to a later Heart-To-Heart talk with the Old Father who admonishes you (again) that you must catch up with Cousin Clyde or your Dear Mother will simply never be able to look Aunt Cynthia in the face again. (Now that's a blow!)

And then there's that "$?&!!" Term Paper.

But, being a staunch and True Man of Iowa, your sturdy constitution will arise to survive all these hidden dangers lurking among the Holiday Pleasantry. And you will have a wonderfully Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Because this is what we wish for you. Have a nice trip. Drive Carefully. We want you back because we like you. See you in January, 5,000 words or no.

Iowa School Enrollment Up 2 Per Cent This Year

Total enrollment in Iowa's public schools at the beginning of the 1964-65 school year represents an increase of more than 2 per cent over the 1963-64 year, according to the Iowa State Board of Public Instruction.

More than a quarter of the United States' population is enrolled in schools and colleges for the current school year, according to estimates of the U. S. Office of Education.

Collections For MSP 'Gratifying'

Response to the Mississippi Support Program (MSP) food and clothing collection last week was 'extremely gratifying' according to Phillip Cummins, assistant professor of philosophy and director of the Iowa City MSP.

Cummins said the goods collected filled the basement of Kelley Cleaners and the basement of the First Christian Church. Preliminary arrangements had allowed for space in the Kelley Cleaners location only.

The goods will be shipped to needy families in Mississippi this week. According to Cummins, the materials collected from Iowa City, Coralville, and University Heights will be combined with those collected from the Waterloo MSP.

More than $2,000 in food and $1,000 in cash had been collected in the Iowa City area.

Bowen's Presidential Emblem On Display at Jewelry Store

The presidential emblem created for the inauguration of President Howard R. Bowen of The University of Iowa Dec. 5 will be on display today through Friday in the east display window of Hands Jewelry Store, 109 E. Washington St.

Designed and cut from a sheet of 14-carat yellow gold by Karen Cantine, graduate student in metal work and jewelry offered in the School of Art, and has made a number of pieces from precious metals on commission.

H. L. Hands, of Hands Jewelry Store, did the engraving on the back of the emblem, which is in Old English, block and script lettering. He also taught Mrs. Cantine how to engrave onto the areas of the emblem which were to be enameled.

The inscription engraved on the back of the emblem notes that it was used for the first time at President Bowen's inauguration Dec. 5, lists his name as the first U of I president to wear it, and leaves space to add the names of succeeding presidents. Mrs. Cantine's name also appears on the back of the emblem as its creator.

Adlai Raps Critics For Aiding Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States declared Monday that many of the countries criticizing U.S. Congo policy are openly engaged in supplying military aid to the Congolese rebels.

The U.S. views were laid before the U.N. Security Council by Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who deplored the injection of "black racism" into the Congo debate and protested against what he called "irrational, irresponsible, insulting and repugnant language" used by some speakers.

Stevenson defended the U.S.-Belgian intervention on behalf of Americans and others held as hostages by the rebel government of Christophe Gbenye as a purely humanitarian operation.

New Gifts Aid Medical Fund For Research

The Parker-McKean Fund for research in internal medicine has been established at the University of Iowa through gifts from Mrs. A. J. Parker of Dover, Mass., and Mrs. Richard McKean of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Dr. William B. Bean, head of the Department of Internal Medicine, said that because of its unrestricted nature, the Parker-McKean Fund can be used for any new or promising work for which other sources of support do not exist.

The gift will supplement two other specific funds which support work in the Department of Internal Medicine. These are the Broud Memorial Fund, established by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Broud of Kansas City, Mo., and the John Foster Memorial Loan Fund, established by Dr. Wayne J. Foster of Cedar Rapids in memory of his son.

The Broud Fund is used primarily to support cardio-vascular research while the Foster Fund is used to support loans for medical residents in the Department.

Dr. Bean observed that private support of research and educational programs of the College of Medicine, such as that provided through the three internal medicine funds, is rapidly increasing in its significance to the College.

"Especially useful are gifts which are not restricted as to use," he said. "The College Administrators can often make the gift reach well beyond the first purpose of the donor if there is latitude to allocate the gift to those areas of greatest need."

As with the Broud Memorial Fund, the Parker-McKean Fund was established through the University of Iowa Foundation.

Columbia Will Honor Iowa Alumni Director

Loren Hickerson, executive director of the Iowa Alumni Association and the U of I Foundation,

LOREN HICKERSON Iowa Alumni Director

will be honored by the Alumni Federation of Columbia University in ceremonies in New York City Dec. 30.

Hickerson is one of a group of 24 alumni executives who will receive the Federation's Medal for Distinguished Service to Education at the closing convocation of the federation's 50th anniversary year, according to an announcement from Columbia University. He also has been selected to represent the honors group on the convocation program.

The group to be honored is composed of professional alumni administrators.

Hickerson is a past-president of the American Alumni Council, national professional organization of alumni administrators. A 1940 graduate of Iowa, he became the University's first full-time alumni director in 1947. He has served as the executive director of the University of Iowa Foundation since its organization in 1957.

Hickerson is one of two alumni executives of Big Ten institutions in the group to be honored. The other is John B. Fullen, alumni director at Ohio State University.

Alumni executives from Dartmouth, Yale, Notre Dame, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, Harvard and McGill University of Canada also are among the group to be cited at the Columbia convocation.

Liz Likes Burton's 'Jungle Essence'

NEW YORK (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor says she married Nicky Hilton for a rose-covered cottage; Michael Wilding for friendship; Mike Todd because he was the pursuing, dominating male, and Eddie Fisher because she thought he needed her.

As for her present and fifth husband, Richard Burton: Miss Taylor says in a Life Magazine interview that he has "jungle essence" but she was first drawn to him because he was pathetic with a hangover.

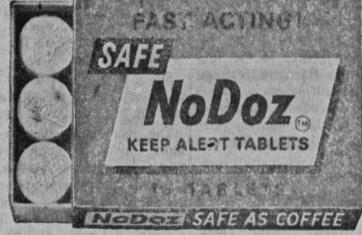

Miss Taylor says Burton is "a very sexy man" whose sexiness "has to do with warmth, a personal givingness. It's not the way he combs his hair, nor the things he wears. It's what he says and thinks."

Mental Health Action Shifts To Local Level

As the emphasis in Iowa mental health programs is gradually shifting to treatment at the local level, an increasingly important role is being played by the state's community mental health centers.

Within the last 15 years, the centers have served 23,563 people. Last year alone, 6,835 patients residing in 44 counties were treated, according to a report of the University's Iowa Mental Health Authority.

THE IOWA Mental Health Authority is directed by Dr. Paul E. Huson, head of psychiatry in the College of Medicine and director of the Psychopathic Hospital.

A mental health center is a psychiatric facility for the early diagnosis and treatment of mental and emotional illness. A center's staff also promotes mental health education in the area, consults with community agencies, and participates in research and in training of social workers and psychologists.

Centers are located at Ames, Burlington, Cedar Rapids, Council Bluffs, Davenport, Decorah, Des Moines, Fort Dodge, Keokuk, Mason City, Marshalltown, Newton, Oskaloosa, Spencer, Waterloo and Waverly.

THE STAFF at a center includes a psychiatrist, serving as medical director of one or more psychiatric social workers and clinical psychologists.

The centers serve people who are emotionally disabled — people whose problems have become so persistent and prolonged that they can no longer function in their jobs, schools, and social environment.

They may exhibit signs of stress such as anxiety, uncontrollable rage, or symptoms of physical illness. A child who is wantonly destructive at school, a man who fears he is becoming an alcoholic, a woman in chronic depression — all might come to a center for help.

AT A CENTER, a social worker compiles the history of the patient's problem and a psychologist administers tests. Both conduct counseling and psychotherapy under supervision of the center's medical director, a psychiatrist who also diagnoses and participates in therapy.

If a patient's needs are non-medical, he may be referred to some other local agency, such as a family counseling service. If his needs are too serious for office care, he is referred to a hospital, preferably within the community.

Community mental health centers are being used increasingly for follow-up care of patients on convalescent leave from state mental institutions. It is some index of a center's value to a community in preventing mental illness that 40 per cent of the patients are children and adolescents with emotional problems or anti-social behavior.

DEVELOPMENT of a mental health center depends to a large extent upon enthusiasm within the communities. In the past, such groups as the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters, the Council of Social Agencies, and the Iowa Association for Mental Health have promoted the centers.

THE BUDGET of a center is almost entirely raised from local sources: county tax funds, community fund programs, board of education funds, gifts, and fees. In 1951 and in 1957, legislation was passed allowing the board of supervisors to earmark a percentage of the County Mental Health Fund for the use of the centers.

Report Proposes Tax Relief To Help Meet College Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Income tax deductions to help meet college costs were proposed Monday in a major research report on the federal income tax.

The recommendation is one of a score of tax changes proposed in the study, financed by the Ford Foundation. Most of the other changes are aimed at eliminating or reducing special tax preferences instead of adding them.

The 367-page report by Richard Goode, senior economist at the Brookings Institution, was published by the institution.

GOODE'S PLAN for easing the cost burden of higher education differs greatly from numerous bills which have been offered unsuccessfully in Congress in recent years.

Instead of permitting parents to deduct a portion of college outlays made for their children, Goode's proposal would allow the student to deduct the educational costs from his own future income over a period of 10 to 20 years.

Goode said this would make it easier for students who borrow money for college to repay loans.

Olympian Rusty Mitchell Edges Iowan Glenn Gailis in Federation Gym Meet

By CHUCK WANNINGER
Staff Writer

"Iowa's Division of the U.S. Gymnastics Federation Individual Championships" was the official title, but the real story was the performances of Olympian Rusty Mitchell and Iowan Glenn Gailis Saturday in the North Gym of the Field House.

Entered were Iowa, Iowa State University, Mankato State, and Southern Illinois University.

Rusty Mitchell, now a graduate student at Southern Illinois University (SIU), won the individual championship with 849.2 points.

Mitchell won the floor exercise and the long horse, and shared first place on the horizontal bar. He also finished second on the side horse, third on the parallel bars, and third on the still rings.

LAST SUMMER Mitchell finished second in the Olympic Trials, and competed for the overall championship at the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

"Not bad for a tumbler," admitted Bill Meade, coach of the SIU team. "And, Mitchell is just now beginning to develop as an overall performer."

Glenn Gailis, of Coach Dick Holzafel's Iowa team, finished second in the overall standings with 803 points.

Gailis was fifth in floor exercise, tied for fifth on long horse, was second on the parallel bars, and tied Mitchell for first on the horizontal bar.

GAILIS ALSO WON the still rings with tremendous exhibition of grace, coordination and pure strength. He scored 96 points in the event.

Iowa sophomore Ken Gordon won the side horse competition, and freshman Mark Slotton tied for third in the event.

Gailis, freshman Neil Schmitt, and Bob Singerman all placed for Iowa on the horizontal bar.

The Heller finished fifth in the overall standings. The Iowa sophomore finished third in the long horse competition.

THE OTHER individual champions were SIU's Frank Schmitz on the trampoline and Jim Crowder of Iowa State on the parallel bars. Jerry Fontana of SIU placed third in the individual overall standings.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY BUILDS A TOUGH ONE

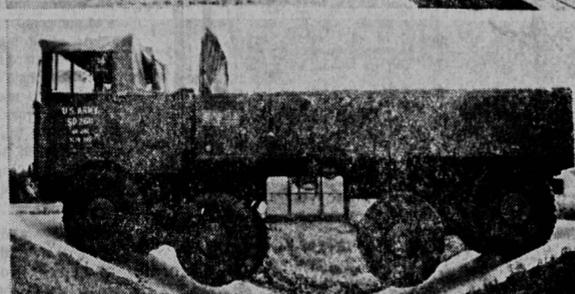

IT SWIMS

Ford Motor Company's new military truck floats. Air-inflated seals and internal air pressure keep the body and mechanical components dry. Its water speed is 2.5 mph.

IT CLIMBS STEPS

Climbing over a 27-inch high step or negotiating a 60% grade when fully loaded is no problem for this Ford vehicle. Proof that it can go over rough cross-country terrain.

IN FACT, THE ARMY'S NEW TRUCK GOES ALMOST ANYWHERE

Early in 1963, Ford Motor Company received a contract from the U.S. Army to design and develop a 5-ton cargo truck for use in tactical military operations. Before the end of that year, the first test unit had been designed and built. This new vehicle, called the XM656 cargo truck, was sent to the Aberdeen Proving Ground for 40,000 miles of testing—twice that required for military acceptance. The vehicle was tested against road conditions that might be found anywhere in the world: swamps... loose sand... hilly back-country... and highways. During the test, the truck carried a 10,000-lb. payload and, half the time, towed a 13,000-lb. load. Outstanding characteristics of the truck's design are its floatability, improved cross-country mobility, light weight, reduced need for maintenance and a multi-fuel power plant that will run on anything from diesel oil to gasoline. This is only one of many exciting new developments at Ford Motor Company. From manufacturing to marketing, we are finding better ways to do things. Career opportunities at Ford Motor Company have never been better. Schedule an interview with our representative to find one just right for you.

Michigan Tops Wichita, 87-85

DETROIT (AP)—A 25-foot jump shot by Cazzie Russell at the buzzer gave Michigan an 87-85 basketball victory Monday night over Wichita, the nation's No. 1 rated collegiate basketball team.

The Wolverines had been ranked in first place until this week after suffering a one-point setback from Nebraska last Saturday.

Russell carried the Michigan team throughout the second half as he scored 23 of his 28 points.

IN ONE SPAN he scored 13 of Michigan's 15 points to carry the Wolverines from a 58-58 tie to a 73-70 lead.

The nip-and-tuck battle before a jam-packed crowd at Detroit's Cobo Arena was tied 16 times.

The biggest advantage enjoyed by either team was a six-point Michigan spread, 55-49, at 14:45 of the second half.

Michigan held the upper hand through the second half until Wichita went ahead again with 4:10 remaining on a jump shot by John Criss. The lead changed hands again with Wichita leading 81-77 with about two minutes to go.

A RUSSELL basket brought the Wolverines to within a point in the last 1 1/2 minutes and another one-hander by Cazzie knotted the score at 85-85 all with 17 seconds remaining.

Russell's 28 points took game scoring honors. Teammate Bill Buntin got 22, with 15 in the first half as Michigan moved to a 44-42 lead.

Wichita's Shockers Take Over 1st Place in AP Basketball Poll

Wichita's tall, talented Shockers, unbeaten in four starts, surged to the top and Michigan, the pre-season favorite, dropped to second Monday in The Associated Press basketball poll that featured wholesale changes from the previous week.

Not one of last week's top ten teams remained in the same position as San Francisco and Minnesota advanced two notches each, to third and fourth, respectively, and Vanderbilt and St. Louis fell six places each, to ninth and tenth.

Wichita gained 23 of the 33 first place votes of the panel of sports writers and broadcasters and wrested first place by 30 points from Michigan, which managed to grab five first place votes despite a 74-73 loss to Nebraska Saturday night.

The shockers, paced by All-American Dave Stallworth, breezed past Brigham Young 81-65 for their fourth straight triumph Saturday. The poll included games through Saturday, Dec. 12.

The Top Ten, with first place votes in parentheses, won't lose records through Saturday night and points on a basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

1. Wichita (23)	4-0 309
2. Michigan (5)	4-1 279
3. San Francisco (2)	4-0 249
4. Minnesota (2)	4-0 211
5. UCLA	2-1 165
6. Duke	3-1 118
7. St. John's, N.Y.	3-0 113
8. Kentucky	3-1 89
9. Vanderbilt	3-1 88
10. St. Louis	3-1 56

Improved Hawks Meet 2 More Foes at Home

Steady improvement as the players become accustomed to the new style of play fills Iowa's basketball picture as the Hawkeyes, now at 2-2, prepare for the two final home non-conference games.

The first opponent is a new one, Providence College of Rhode Island, here Saturday at 2:30 p.m. and the other one is University of North Dakota, not met since 1959, on the Field House court next Monday night at 7:30.

Iowa expects the toughest kind of a game from Providence. The Friars won their first three games and have a winning background. Providence has won 20 or more games each of the past six years, has played in six tournaments and was National Invitation Tournament champion of 1961 and 1963. Coach Joseph Mullaney's teams have a 132-33 record.

Iowa's four-game statistics show Chris Pervall as top scorer, with a 21.2 average on 85 points. Jimmy Rodgers is second with 19.2 on 77 and has the best field goal percentage, .500, and best free throw mark, .950. Other scorers include George Peoples, 15.5; and Gerry Jones, 14.2.

Against Creighton, Iowa's newcomers Chris Pervall and Gerry Jones continued to work the ball in for the close shot and passed off beautifully at times.

The Hawkeyes' fifth starter, guard Dennis Pauling, encouraged Coach Miller with his heady play, despite a low contribution of six points.

"DENNY WAS MORE RELAXED Saturday and he would have done a lot better if he hadn't of run into early foul trouble," said Miller.

Pauling drew three quick fouls in the first four minutes of play and his fourth midway through the last half after sitting out much of the first half action.

The Hawks drew Providence College of Rhode Island in a Saturday afternoon game this week, before meeting a strong North Dakota five here Monday night. Tipoff for Saturday's game will be at 2:30 p.m.

Riding the Pines

With JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

Iowa showed a new look to college basketball circles Saturday night, polishing off Creighton, 98-83, before 10,300 fans in the Field House.

RALPH MILLER's pre-season conditioning program is showing some excellent results as the Hawks literally ran away with the game after 26 minutes of play. Miller was able to give his subs some experience after the starting club piled up a 22-point lead with 3:22 left in the game.

As Coach Miller would say, "You might as well get used to this style of basketball, because we'll play the opposition about even up until the last 10 or 12 minutes of the second period. Then we will pour on the pressure and run, run, run."

"Even when I had my best teams at Wichita," he said, "we seldom had a lead of more than one or two points at the half, even in our one-sided victories."

Miller said he doesn't mind being even or a little bit behind in the first 30 minutes of each game, "as long as the boys are keeping the pressure constant."

"AFTER 30 MINUTES, we'll wear 'em down and their center will get tired, a forward will slow up by half a step, and then the dam breaks as we break the game wide open," he said.

These tactics worked well against Creighton, but fell short at Kentucky and Evansville.

Miller credits this to too many nonsense mistakes. "We turned the ball over to Kentucky 30 times on mistakes. You can't keep the pressure constant when you keep giving the ball away," he said.

Captain Jimmy Rodgers gives some added polish and aggressiveness to the fast break by shooting over his man to score and draw a foul for a bonus point.

JIMMY CONTINUES to be the deadliest Hawkeye from the free throw line, hitting 19 of 20 gift shots in four games so far this season.

This raises his Iowa career total to 106 free throw shots made in 125 attempts for a remarkable 85 per cent.

Center George Peoples, Miller's largest jumping jack at 6-8, showed he is one of Iowa's most improved players this year by dumping in 25 points and leading all rebounders with 15 against Creighton Saturday night. He also went all the way instead of fouling out, as has been his usual custom.

George said his improved play can be credited to Miller's rugged pre-season cross-country program and staying away from pickup basketball games in school yards during the summer months.

"I'D ADMIT that I didn't care too much for the idea of running cross-country, but I'm sure glad now that I went through it, even though it was drudgery."

"I've never been in better condition. I never get tired the way I did at various times last year, even though I have to play most of the way in every game," he said.

He is operating on a pair of sounder ankles than the ones that bothered him last year, when he shared the center job with Cedar Rapids junior Ed Bastian.

"I stayed away from those sandlot basketball games last summer," said George, who lives in Ecorse, Mich., a suburb of Detroit. "That's what almost wrecked me last season."

"THOSE PICK-UP GAMES on the playgrounds can get pretty rough. They're mostly individual affairs where each player wants to make a good showing."

"The fellows in my neighborhood are mostly just out of high school or attend smaller colleges. They try to show up the players from the Big Ten and the other big conferences."

"Both my ankles were pretty banged up a year ago, in those summer games. Last summer I stayed away from them, did some running and practiced shooting on my own," he said.

Kentucky Is 1st School in S.E.C. To Recruit Negro Footballers

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The University of Kentucky has become the first Southeastern Conference school to recruit Negro football players.

The Associated Press learned Monday.

The attempt to integrate major athletic teams at Kentucky is the second this year. The school failed last spring in its bid to sign a Negro basketball player.

Kentucky football Coach Charlie Bradshaw would neither confirm nor deny that he was seeking the services of one or more Negro athletes.

"We are appraising a great number of youngsters on the basis of their ability, character and scholastic work. Our appraisal is not made on the basis of race," Bradshaw said.

Bradshaw did say his plans call for signing of about five more players from Kentucky. It was learned that one of these is Garnett Phelps, a Negro quarterback at Louisville Male High.

Phelps confirmed that he had been contacted several times by Kentucky coaches.

Phelps said he had been approached by several other colleges and at this time leans slightly toward the University of Missouri because his brother, Monroe, is a student there.

Dayton, University of Louisville, Eastern Kentucky and Western Kentucky also have talked with him about playing football, Phelps said.

Bradshaw did say his plans call for signing of about five more players from Kentucky. It was learned that one of these is Garnett Phelps, a Negro quarterback at Louisville Male High.

Phelps confirmed that he had been contacted several times by Kentucky coaches.

Phelps said he had been approached by several other colleges and at this time leans slightly toward the University of Missouri because his brother, Monroe, is a student there.

Dayton, University of Louisville, Eastern Kentucky and Western Kentucky also have talked with him about playing football, Phelps said.

"We are appraising a great number of youngsters on the basis of their ability, character and scholastic work. Our appraisal is not made on the basis of race," Bradshaw said.

Our Company is celebrating its 100th year in the life insurance business. Age alone is no criterion of maturity, of course. But if you check into our experience and examine our reputation, you'll see why we're proud of the record.

We rank in the top 2% of all life companies in the United States in assets, but growth means much more to our company than just being big. Among other things, it means responsibility to our clients and policyowners, providing insurance that can be tailored to their ever-changing needs, and prompt, personal service.

An integral part of the company's growth is its training program, which has the reputation of being one of the finest in the business. For college students, we have a Campus Internship Program to start their training—and income—while they're still at school.

It could pay you to inquire.

2 Iowans Take Second In Wrestling Meet

Iowa placed two wrestlers in the finals at the Great Plains A.A.U. tournament in Lincoln, Neb., last Saturday night, but both lost as wrestlers from Oklahoma State ran away with top honors.

Iowa heavyweight champ Mel Wieland lost to an Oklahoma State man in the 191-pound event while Bill Fuller lost to a Wisconsin graduate student in the 130-pound division.

Ex-Iowa star Norm Parker competed unattached and finished second in the 137-pound event.

Iowa's Dennis Wegner finished third in that event, while Iowa City's Steve Moss finished fourth in the 191-pound division.

Collegians At Mankato Pan Polkas

MANKATO, Minn. — Students at Mankato State College demonstrated on the campus Thursday for "rock 'n' roll, knock 'em down," music at their social functions.

In the process, they hanged the college social affairs committee in effigy and about 15 students turned out with placards pleading their case.

The protesting students claimed the administration is trying to overpower their own student senate in the expenditure of some $22,000 in the activities fund to which each student pays $15 quarterly.

Greg Woods of Estherville, Iowa, active in the movement, said students are protesting the committee's choice of bands for social affairs.

Woods said the committee has been picking semi-polka musical aggregations when what students want are the "rock 'n' roll knock 'em down kind" of bands.

After meeting with two student representatives, Dr. C. L. Crawford, college president, said "apparently some people up here don't like the kind of band music they've been having." He denied charges that the administration is attempting to ride herd on expenditure of the social activities fund.

High Schools Will Join Program Planned To Exempt Freshmen from Composition

Four Iowa colleges and universities, including the University of Iowa, plan to launch a program to qualify outstanding college-bound high school seniors to be excused from some of all of the usual freshman composition requirements at the four schools.

Participating in the plan, called The Advanced Standing Program in English, are Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa State University, Ames, the State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls, and U. of I.

Beginning next fall in a few high schools, the program will provide intensive instruction and practice in composition for college-bound seniors who have the ability and proficiency equal to those in the top 10 per cent of the Iowa "wealth-grade norms on the English and reading sections of the Iowa Tests of Educational Development and who can meet other criteria established by the high schools.

By 1966 all four-year and two-year colleges will be invited to participate in the program. Participation will be voluntary, with each college free to validate the Advanced Standing high school work to the extent it wishes.

Participation by the high schools will be limited for seniors in public and private high schools with enrollments of 750 or more.

The high school teachers who must advanced standing students will be those who have attended a graduate-level summer seminar designed to familiarize teachers with approaches found successful in teaching top college-bound students and college freshmen.

The tentative schedule for Summer Seminars in the immediate future is: 1965 — Iowa State University, 1966 — State College of Iowa, 1967 — Drake University, 1968 — The University of Iowa.

Outside funds will be sought to help finance the teachers selected for the seminars. Enrollment in each seminar will be limited to 40.

Sponsors of the program list three principal benefits to the students: 1) the more intensive instruction should accelerate their development in thinking, writing, reading, and speaking; 2) some students, to their financial or personal advantage, may be assisted in reducing the number of terms spent in college; and 3) some high school students may be aided in adjusting to college studies.

The Advanced Standing Program in English was developed during the past year at a series of conferences and school visitations held at the three state institutions and Iowa high schools. The detailed planning was accomplished in June at a 10-day conference supported in large part through the Cooperative Research Program of the Office of Education, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Participants in the 10-day conference from Iowa City were: Richard S. Hootman, chairman of English, Iowa City High School, and Richard Braddock, coordinator of the Rhetoric Program, University of Iowa.

Consultants for the conference included John W. Bowers, assistant professor of rhetoric, Richard Lloyd-Jones, associate professor of English, and Stanton P. Thalberg, assistant professor of rhetoric.

Other Iowa educators participating in pre-conference planning sessions included G. Robert Carlson, head of the Department of English, University of Iowa high school; Buford W. Garner, superintendent of the Iowa City Community School District; John C. Gerber, chairman of the Department of English, University of Iowa.

Further information about the Advanced Standing Program may be obtained from Braddock, associate professor of rhetoric, U. of I. Information about the 1965 Summer Seminar may be obtained from Prof. Herrnsstadt at Iowa State University.

The Advanced Standing program differs from the Advanced Placement Program in English of the College Entrance Examination Board by placing primary stress on composition rather than on literature, and by giving participating colleges more flexibility in evaluating the work of students.

At the beginning of each Congressional session, members of the House vote to reinstate all standing committees. During the last few sessions, all committees received approval without trouble.

This year, however, a group of 100 constitutional lawyers, named the National Committee to Abolish HUAC, has petitioned the House of Representatives to abolish its committee on un-American activities.

Opponents to the committee charge that it "is irreconcilable with a system of free expression in this country." They hope to influence House members to abolish HUAC when the new House rules are considered on Jan. 4.

HUAC was established 26 years ago and became a standing committee of the House in 1945.

2 Iowa Citizens To Help On State Cancer Crusade

Mrs. J. A. Liercke, director of the Iowa City Visiting Nurses' Association, and Dr. Robert F. Kretschmar, assistant professor of gynecology and obstetrics, have been appointed to membership on the American Cancer Society's Iowa Division State Crusade Committee for 1965.

Mrs. Liercke had previously served as State Chairman of the Division's 1962 Crusade and is currently a member of the American Cancer Society's National Crusade Reference Committee. In 1960, she received the American Cancer Society's Bronze Medal Award for outstanding contributions to cancer control.

Kretschmar was crusade chairman for Johnson County in 1964. He is also past recipient of an American Cancer Society fellowship grant.

Kelso To Review Folk Song Book

Paul Kelso, noted folksinger, will review "The American Folk Song of Protest," by John Greenway at the Union Board Book Reviews Committee meeting in the Union Pentacrest Room at 3:45 p.m. Wednesday.

"The American Folk Song of Protest" is a new book with many songs protesting the civil rights struggle, the atom bomb, and other issues.

Kelso will give a brief history on the background of protest songs in America. He also will sing and play the guitar.

Local Man Nabbed for 50-Shot Shooting Spree

An Iowa City man was in Johnson County jail in lieu of $20,000 bond following a shooting incident early Sunday morning.

Lawrence S. Goodman, 27, was arrested Sunday and charged with assault to commit murder.

ABOUT 1 A.M. Sunday he began firing a .22 caliber rifle at a house at 116 W. Harrison St. where his estranged wife, Donna, and the couple's two children lived.

Goodman's wife called police at 12:55 a.m. and reported she had heard two shots outside. She reported three more shots fired at 1:21 a.m. and five more at 1:23 a.m., police said.

Patrolman R. J. Murphy went to the scene after the first call and was later aided by Patrolman Terrance Berridge and off-duty Patrolman Francis W. Sueppel. More shots were heard, and Murphy radioed for assistance. All available Iowa City policemen, six Highway Patrolmen, and a Johnson County Sheriff's deputy were sent to the scene.

GOODMAN fired about 50 shots, police said, into his former wife's home, the couple's car and a neighbor's home. It was reported there were about 13 bullet holes in the car. One bullet struck a patrol car, police reported.

Because of the darkness and echoes from the firing, it was hard to locate Goodman, but he was finally found after an hour search, police said. He surrendered without a struggle and without any shots being fired by police. No one was injured during the shooting, police said.

Goodman was apprehended near the Central Ready Mixed Concrete plant, according to police. He came out of a shed with the loaded rifle but dropped it when approached by Highway Patrolman Daniel Jahnke of Iowa City. Goodman waived a preliminary hearing Sunday morning, bond was set at $20,000, and he was transferred to the Johnson County jail later Sunday.

Physiologist Gets $10,990 Grant

Dr. Byron A. Schottelius, associate professor of physiology, has been awarded $10,990 by the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America for a research project in its tenth year.

Dr. Schottelius is studying the biophysics of the dystrophic muscle fiber membrane in relation to the role it plays in cell contraction.

The award has been made for the 12-month period beginning January 1. It is one of 50 grants-in-aid and 10 fellowships recently approved by the association for a semi-annual disbursement of $758,447.
