Burger Re-elected Mayor in 3-2 Vote; Calls for Unity

Iowa City Mayor Richard W. Burger, re-elected for a one-year term last week, forecast a busy year for community government affairs in 1965.

Burger said Monday that 1965 will see a decision on the city's urban renewal proposals, action on expansion of sewage facilities, planning of a by-pass southwest of the city, and improvements in the banks of Ralston Creek to prevent flooding damage. Burger was re-elected mayor recently at a special meeting of the city council. He had resigned as mayor earlier and the meeting was called to elect a successor.

BURGER

Councilman William Maas, long critical of Burger's previous failure to resign, was nominated for the mayor post, but received only two votes of the five cast.

Maas previously had gone on record as favoring opportunity for all councilmen to serve as mayor for a year. Following the special meeting, he said he would continue to work to see that councilmen would have that opportunity.

Burger ended the meeting with a plea to all councilmen to work together in 1965 on all city projects.

Voice of 'Lost Generation'

Poet T.S. Eliot Dies at Age 76

LONDON (AP) — T. S. Eliot, American-born poet, playwright and a voice of the "Lost Generation" of the 1920s, died Monday night. He was 76.

Born in St. Louis, Mo., of a family that had been New Englanders since the 17th century, Eliot spent most of his adult life in Britain and became a British subject in 1927. He won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1948.

HIS POEM "The Waste Land" caught the imagination of the disillusioned generation that survived World War I. It became a classic description of the mood of misery and pessimism of the intellectuals of that time.

His two most successful plays were "Murder in the Cathedral", a dramatization of the murder of Archbishop Thomas Becket in Canterbury Cathedral, and "The Cocktail Party," the story of a psychiatrist who helped people find peace of mind.

Eliot suffered a heart attack aboard the liner Queen Mary in June 1956, but recovered and married his secretary the following January when he was 68.

HIS BRIDE, Valerie Fletcher, 30, was his second wife.

Although he celebrated the loneliness of modern man in his poetry, his critical essays in his later years were more and more concerned with problems of Christianity. He was an outspoken member of the Church of England and one of its leading defenders.

Long ago he gave his three leading ideals in life as: classicism in poetry, Anglo-Catholicism in religion and royalism in politics.

IN PRIVATE LIFE, he was a director of Faber and Faber, one of England's leading publishers. Daily he went to his office, tall, slender, and stooped, in a dark suit that BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A campus rebel leader addressing a rally legalized by the University of California's new Berkeley campus chancellor declared Monday his group would not bait the new chancellor's administration.

Instead, student Mario Savio told a rally crowd of 4,000 to 5,000 the Free Speech Movement he leads will create a committee to investigate the university's Board of Regents. He said the investigation will determine whether the regents' policies "interfere with education, particularly undergraduate education."

Martin Meyerson, who was named by the regents Saturday as acting chancellor, issued temporary regulations Sunday night declaring the steps of Sproul Hall, the administration building, available as "an open discussion area" at the noon hour and between 4 and 6 p.m.

Nearly 800 students and supporters were arrested last Dec. 3 at a sit-in demonstration protesting university regulations restricting campus political activity.

Meyerson, in a statement on taking over from Dr. Edward Strong, 63, declared his expectations were that there would not be and should not be another sit-in. Dr. Strong was given a leave of absence on grounds of ill health.

"Civil disobedience is warranted only when there is no recourse to reasonable deliberation," Meyerson said.

Savio, 22, a Manhattan-born philosophy junior, addressed a noon rally on the first day of classes after Christmas vacation over a loudspeaker provided by the university.

Holiday Death Toll Tops All Records For 3-Day Period

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The nation's worst New Year's holiday observance in point of traffic deaths ended with a record-shattering toll of 474 fatalities for the three-day period.

Not only was the final count a record for a three-day turn-of-the-year celebration, it also far exceeded the record toll for the four-day New Year's weekend of 1955-56 when 409 persons were killed in traffic.

The previous record for a three-day New Year's holiday was 374 in the 1959-60 transition.

The current traffic toll was counted in the 78-hour holiday period that began at 6 p.m. local time Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The council had estimated before the start of the holiday period that 300 or 350 persons might be killed in highway accidents.

made him look like a banker. Eliot was educated in private schools and was graduated from Harvard University in the same class with Walter Lippman, Heywood Brown, John Reed and Stuart Chase. He studied at the Sorbonne in Paris and went to Germany on a fellowship. At the start of World War I, Eliot went to London and thereafter made England his home.

A year after his arrival in England he married Vivienne Haigh, a dancer and daughter of a British painter. She died in 1947 after a long illness. They had no children.

City Landlords Hear Plans For Renewal

More than 100 Iowa City property owners attended an information session at the civic center Monday night to hear City Planner Earl E. Stewart describe plans the city has for reshaping the central business district.

Stewart stressed to the capacity crowd at the city council chambers that the meeting was only to promote the landlords' understanding of urban renewal possibilities.

There will be no definite city action taken until the results of a loan application to the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency are made known. The city applied for the loan to conduct a study on urban renewal several months ago. Stewart said federal funds could be available by mid-February.

The entire program in Iowa City, Stewart said, must be considered unique. He said plans should be made with the cooperation of the University, because of its closeness to the central business district.

Stewart told the property owners that they will have several opportunities to consult with city officials on plans when the project begins. He added that owners would have close control throughout land purchase, resale, and reconstruction.

He said every attempt would be made to see that the original owners of the property would have a chance to buy back their property.

Stewart and the Citizen's Advisory Committee will conduct a similar briefing for tenants in the central business district at 7:30 Friday night.

Britain Flies More Troops To Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysia and Britain put a military build-up here into high gear Monday. Malaysia warned Indonesia that any large-scale attack will be met with a stiff counter-blow.

As British troop reinforcements began flying into Singapore, the government said it is "prepared to take retaliatory action under the rule of hot pursuit when and if forced to do so for our own existence."

The statement was issued by Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, following an emergency cabinet session to discuss Indonesia's decision to withdraw from the United Nations and the implications this move might hold for Malaysia.

The Cabinet statement underlined fear that Indonesia, free from any U.N. restraint, might mount a big offensive against Malaysia's mainland or the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah or both.

Indonesian officials in Jakarta have been quoted as saying 1965 will be a crucial year for their "crush Malaysia" campaign. They contend the federation of Malaysia is a plot to continue British colonialism.

Rahman's statement said the Cabinet also decided that immediate action should be taken to:

- ask Malaysia's Commonwealth allies, chiefly Britain, Australia and New Zealand, to "review the latest position and send reinforcements, if necessary."

- informed the United Nations of "the seriousness of the threat of more intensive Indonesian attacks" and "request the United Nations to assist us in the defense of our nation."

- expand Malaysia's armed forces by establishing more military camps for the training of men to be called up under the National Service Act.

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson met with his top ministers on the crisis, intensified by intelligence reports that an Indonesian regular army division had reached Borneo.

119 Parking Spaces Lost To Construction

Students returning from vacation Monday found 119 fewer spaces in the north end of the Library parking lot than had been there when they left.

The north end of the lot, the old Iowa Field, is the site of the University's newest construction project. Preliminary work is under way there on the $1,960,000 classroom-office building which will house the English, Literature and Creative Writing Departments. The new building will provide 39 classrooms, 156 offices and a variety of special rooms.

According to Campus Police Chief, John Hanna, several parking changes have been made to compensate for the spaces lost to new construction.

The north end of the lot near the Hydraulics Laboratory, which will accommodate 58 cars, has been changed from an open to restricted classification and the paint shop in the quonset hut south of the Library alley, holding 19 cars, from reserved to restricted.

Hanna encouraged students to use the University Theatre lot which has a capacity of 139 cars. This lot will remain restricted.

Johnson Urges Tax Cut On New Congress

Wants To Double Education Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson urged on the new Congress Monday night a hefty excise tax cut this year and massive assaults on ignorance, poverty and deadly disease.

And in a State of the Union Message that actually embraced the world, he voiced hope that the new Soviet leaders can visit this country.

HE PREDICTED a continued "flourishing of the American economy." He said in an address delivered in person to Congress and telecast to the nation that his new budget will be designed to move the economy forward and to move toward a balance between income and spending.

The President did not mention the size of an excise tax reduction but White House officials said the thinking is in terms of $1 billion to $2 billion.

A new education program would cost about double the current year's funds for education.

JOHNSON WANTS to double the funds for fighting poverty, now at the $784 million mark.

Specific, detailed bids for all these and many more items will go into special messages.

Johnson used a special system for reading his message from glass prompters on which the words were visible to him but not to his audience. And for the first time a television camera was permitted on the House floor.

SIXTY BURSTS of applause punctuated the speech as the President, clad in dark business suit and dark tie, delivered it in solemn tones before the heavily Democratic Congress.

Johnson's move to ease cold war tensions by mentioning a possible visit of Soviet leaders is being followed up, White House officials said, by immediate, informal conversations with the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, he indicated he will be repaying visits already paid the United States by leaders of Western European and South American nations.

DECLARING THAT the union is "free, restless, growing and full of hope," Johnson said the budget he will send the Congress will be designed to move the country forward.

At the same time, he suggested that Congress make sure that it can act rapidly to cut income taxes temporarily should this be necessary to meet the threat of any recession.

He was not predicting an economic setback. Rather, he said: "I confidently predict — what every economic sign now tells us — the continued flourishing of the American economy."

THE PRESIDENT pledged that the United States will not break its 10-year-old pledge to help Viet Nam against Communist aggression.

And he announced that he will ask for a $1.5 billion start on a new education program and a doubling of funds for what he calls the war on poverty, a program costing $784 million this year.

He set forth what he called a national agenda. He set a design

LBJ's Plans Too Costly: Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional reaction to President Johnson's State of the Union Message understandably split along party lines and the views could be summed up like this:

Democrats — inspiring and practical.

Republican — utopian and costly.

Republicans bore down on the still largely undefined costs of Johnson's program and some called it a something-for-everyone outline that can't be financed if the budget is to be balanced.

Democratic reaction was not unanimous. Sen. John L. McClellan, Arkansas, said the President's proposals "should be weighed in the light of our ability to operate on a sound fiscal basis."

The new assistant Senate Democratic leader, Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, said several matters Johnson has advocated previously should be enacted without much difficulty. He added: "Some of his suggestions are new and should be explored by the proper legislative committees."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield called the message a plea for attainable goals "which all Americans can appreciate."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the new House Republican leader said: "The ultimate goals set forth in the President's message are the goals of all Americans and have been the goals of America since its beginning."

But, he added: "There are honest questions on the implementation of the programs to achieve these goals."

Leadership Change Made in Congress

Halleck Ousted By House GOP

R. WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Mich.) toppled old political pro Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) from the leadership of House Republicans Monday.

Ford, 51, former Michigan football player, won a 73-67 victory over his 64-year-old rival, who has been a power among House Republicans for 18 years and leader for the past six years.

Ford's supporters put him forward as a man who could bring "energy and a fresh, forceful image" to the job of restoring the fortunes of House Republicans, whose ranks were shattered in the November election. They lost 38 seats and that, as much as anything, led to Halleck's downfall.

"You can't take a shellacking like we took and not be in trouble," Halleck said on a slow walk back from the meeting to the Capitol, where he faces a forlorn future. He'll lose a plush office, a big staff and a limousine, as well as his power and influence.

Ford said that his contest with Halleck had nothing to do with the move to oust Dean Burch, GOP national chairman, because of his close connection with defeated Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

"My election was not a repudiation or an endorsement of Goldwater or anybody else," Ford told newsmen.

Demos Select Long as Whip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats Monday chose Russell B. Long (D-La.) to serve as their assistant leader in the 89th Congress.

Long, 46, who called himself an economic liberal in talking with newsmen after his victory, said he is confident he can support and help win passage for President Johnson's program in the next two years. In the 88th Congress he voted against several key Kennedy-Johnson administration proposals.

Long, a son of the late Sen. Huey Long, fills the leadership vacancy caused by the resignation of Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey who has been assistant leader, or whip, since 1961.

The conference of Democratic senators re-elected without opposition the two holdovers—Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) conference secretary.

Long and Smathers thus give the South two of the three leadership posts.

Long won his fight handily on the second ballot. On the first, he came within one vote of victory, gaining 34 tallies to 20 for Sen. John O. Pastore (D-R.I.) and 14 for Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.).

On the second test with Monroney out, Long had 41 to 25 for Pastore and 2 for Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.).

Iowan reds exposed by Oelwein patriot

89th Cong House

Well, it had to happen and now it has — the Oelwein Daily Reactions has got my number (see article on the right of today's page). I suppose it's time that I came clean and less up. It's true — every word of it. I wrote both editorials mentioned in the Oelwein article and have for some time been a complete dupe.

Many leftist-leaning students (not enrolled, though how students to about being students and "manage to avoid enrolling is a definite puzzle to me) are all the time influencing me.

I presume this is the case since I am enrolled and must not be the real villain in the matter.

As a matter of fact, after the election on the student riots appeared, we received a letter denouncing us for not taking any stand on the matter and being wishy-washy (which only goes to show how much some folks try to dupe us).

But now that the truth is out of the bag, I scarcely know what to do. I had thought that everyone else was being duped right along with me and had never really suspected that one day the truth might leak out.

Since everyone knows about the Communist fraud being pulled off on campus by almost all the professors, several non-enrolled professional students (commonly thought of as bartenders) and the Daily Iowan dupes — I suppose the proper course is for me to mend my ways and to support home, motherhood, flag and J. Edgar Hoover.

In order to pursue our new (and proper) course, in order to turn over a new leaf in the only effective manner, I hereby propose the entire faculty be fired.

Better highways — a good investment

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE RATES for Iowa drivers will probably be higher in 1965 than they were last year. Some companies have already announced their intentions to raise rates, and others are expected to follow suit soon.

The 1964 highway accident and death toll was the highest in years. Insurance companies play the odds; increased auto mishaps means more payments and therefore greater risks for insuring Iowa drivers.

The higher rates are, of course, a small consideration in the tragic story of Iowa's accident record last year. Anyone who was involved in an accident or who had a friend or relative involved knows the immeasurable pain and sorrow which highway accidents cause.

Increased rates will, however, touch the lives and pockets of many who are otherwise untouched by accident statistics.

Safe driving is a major preventative for high accident rates. Devices such as seat belts and padded dashboards also help. Another effective measure to cut Iowa's highway death toll would be an improved, modern highway system.

According to the state highway commissioner, divided four lane highways are 44 per cent safer than conventional two lane highways. These new highways also provide relief for routes now choked with traffic.

There are few opponents to highway improvement programs, but — strangely enough — there are many who do not wish to pay for better highways. They favor building more highways only if it can be done within the present budget which is already strained.

We can only point out that from an economic viewpoint highways are worth a little more money. If a motorist is now paying $120 a year for minimum auto insurance and his company asks a 10 per cent increase to balance off the number of accidents in Iowa, the citizen must pay $12 more in 1965 to drive his auto.

If, on the other hand, the state gasoline taxes were raised one penny a gallon for the purpose of building more highways, the average driver would probably not pay much more than $12 a year in higher taxes.

Lest anyone ponder these cold figures too long, we may remind you that the social benefits of the lower accident rate and the better highways would more than make up for any discrepancies in our monetary suppositions.

We hope others, include Gov. Hughes and members of the Legislature, will seriously consider this proposal.

A little urban renewal for Berkeley campus

A CHANGING OF THE GUARD has occurred at the University of California in Berkeley, where free speech and demonstrations have been recent issues.

Edward W. Strong, chancellor of the university, has been granted a leave of absence by the California Board of Regents, due to a recent illness. His replacement is Martin Meyerson, who is described as an "internationally known city planner."

Meyerson, who first arrived in Berkeley in July to serve as dean of environmental studies, was welcomed by some of the students who held a free speech rally Monday, more or less in his honor.

With his background in city planning — Meyerson spent six years as head of an urban study center at Harvard and MIT — the new chancellor should be able to find an answer to the recent problems at Berkeley.

Perhaps some observers of the Berkeley controversy would say Meyerson should approach the problem as you would air pollution: the solution is to remove the disturbing elements — the students.

A more proper solution would be an extracurricular slum clearance — removing the rickety regulations and replacing them with rules that are more appealing and functional.

Drinking driver studied

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of six articles about Dr. Mulford and data he gathered in 1964. Mulford has been the director of the Division of Alcoholism Studies since 1956.

Singling out "drinking" as a prime cause of traffic accidents is an easy answer to a complex question, says a University of Iowa researcher.

In a revealing study of drinking drivers in Iowa, Donald A. Mulford, director of Alcoholism Studies here, said he failed to find an expected strong and distinct association between drinking behavior and accidents.

"This does not disprove the hypothesis that drinking drivers cause accidents, but it does raise many questions," said Dr. Mulford, who is a research associate professor of psychiatry and sociology.

The study was based on the drinking and driving behavior of 921 Iowa adults, representing a cross-section of Iowa drivers. The research was conducted with the help of the Iowa Police organization of the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Among the many findings of the survey are these:

• It can be estimated that at least 17 per cent, or 218,000, of Iowa's drivers do drive on occasion with a blood alcohol level approximating .10 per cent — a level generally considered sufficient to adversely affect driving ability.

• Drivers in the highest drinking category in the study did have more accidents than other drivers, but they also drove more miles. When mileage driven was the same, drivers in the highest drinking category did not consistently have the highest accident rate, nor did abstainers have the lowest.

• Drivers who drank more than once a week had lower accident rates than some drivers who did not drink so frequently.

• Infrequent but heavy drinkers had the highest accident rates.

Dr. Mulford emphasizes that the picture of Iowa's drinking driver revealed by his study is complex and that careful interpretation of the findings is necessary.

sary to avoid false assumptions. This series of articles will outline the purpose of the survey, the findings concerning the drinking and driving behavior and attitudes of those studied, and Dr. Mulford's interpretations of what these findings mean.

"Although the drinking driver is a deviant who has long been of great concern to society, social scientists have given him scant attention," Dr. Mulford said.

For study purposes, a distinction can be made between the "drinking driver" and the "drunk driver," Dr. Mulford points out.

A "drinking driver" is any driver on the public highways with alcohol in his system, regardless of amount. The term "drunk driver" refers to any drinking driver who has a relatively high blood alcohol level — one of .10 per cent or higher.

Of the 1,213 persons chosen for the study, non-drivers and persons who drove less than 100 miles per year were dropped, leaving a base study population of 921 drivers.

This group was divided into four categories. A total of 322 drivers (35 per cent) indicated they were total abstainers and they made up the "abstaining driver" category.

The remaining 65 per cent were asked: "During the past year, did you have as many as three or four drinks (mixed or straight, or bottles or cans of beer) on at least one occasion?"

At least this many drinks, said Dr. Mulford, are necessary to produce a blood alcohol level of .10 per cent. Although drinking three or four beers will usually produce a blood alcohol level of only about .06 per cent, it is held by some authorities that this level affects driving performance.

Drivers who answered "no" to the question — 262 or 28.4 per cent — were classed as "low probability" drinking drivers. Remaining drivers were then asked if they had driven within two or three hours after having consumed three or four drinks.

A total of 183 drivers (19.9 per cent) who answered "no" were classed as "medium probability" drinking drivers, and the 154 drivers (16.7 per cent) who answered "yes" were classed as "high probability" drinking drivers.

(Reprinted from The Oelwein Daily Register)

Oct. 1 J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation made an astounding prediction, which is coming true this month (December) in action of violence on university campuses.

"This academic year," he said, "will undoubtedly see intensive Communist party efforts to erect its newest facade on the nation's campuses to draw young blood for the vampire which is international communism."

At University of California professional agitators openly led by communists whose names have been published and whose faces have been photographed on the campus created anarchy in the halls of that educational institution. One demonstration resulted in the arrest of 761 persons, 40 per cent of whom were not students.

It is gratifying that Gov. Pat Brown has seen fit to support U.C. Pres. Clark Kerr and that police are giving the administration the help it has so sorely needed. Now two state assemblymen, Republicans from Berkeley and San Diego, are demanding the appointment of a bipartisan Assembly committee to investigate the students' revolt. A full probe of the U.C. disorders by the state Senate fact-finding committee on un-American activities is sought to uncover possible manipulations by subversive elements.

A HARD CORE of Communists, communist sympathizers and other left-wingers including faculty members who have been teaching socialism and worse in university classrooms have infiltrated California University just as many believe is true on the campuses of most American universities including Iowa.

Those who believe we can do business with the communists and would argue that there is no communist infiltration at Berkeley should note such names as these student rebel leaders who have been photographed on campus and seen handing out literature and exhorting the students to sit-in and stage riots: Mortimer Scheer, Albert J. (Mickey) Lima and Attorney Robert E. Truehaft.

Scheer was a functionary of the Communist party of Buffalo, was expelled in 1962 for taking the Mao Tse Tung line rather than Moscow's, Lima is chairman of the Communist party of northern California. Truehaft was identified as a Communist in sworn testimony before House Un-American Activities Committee.

University of Iowa campus is infiltrated with many "professional students," young people with leftist leanings (not enrolled) whose position is made increasingly preposterous by the editorial policy of The Daily Iowan, student newspaper.

An editorial in its Dec. 5 issue attempted to sum up the background of the U.C. riots and it was reasonably apparent that the writer leaned toward the rebels, who, as stated above, receive their leadership from avowed communists.

Meanwhile, in an earlier issue of the Iowan an editorial was captioned "Another Chance to Abolish HUAC" and the writer with total disregard for the growth of international communism expressed hope that the new Congress would take steps in that direction.

"One of the most urgent (proposals) to the preservation of freedom in this country is abolishment of the infamous House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC)," the newspaper said editorially.

NO WORDS could bring more comfort to the communist leadership both within our borders and behind the Kremlin walls.

It is the leftist policy of the student newspaper (editorial adviser is Prof. Arthur M. Sanderson) beating the drums to criticize a committee that seeks to protect our liberties and freedoms, it is the presence of too many socialists within the faculty, it is the ever increasing number of professional students (who associate with students but are not enrolled) that could be setting the stage for something at U. I. like J. Edgar Hoover predicted Oct. 1.

It's happening at Berkeley, it very easily could happen at Iowa City.

For the birds

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — It is probably dangerous to admit, but I have friends who live in Darien, Conn., the upper-class community which has taken such a beating in the news recently over its teen-age drinking scandals.

Most residents have suffered from the publicity, but not everyone. My friends have a young son named Michael, whom they sent off to boarding school. At first he was treated like just another punk kid by his schoolmates and given the typical freshman treatment.

But then when Darien broke into the headlines as a "sin city," BUCHWALD things suddenly picked up for the boy. He became a big man overnight. Many older boys who were giving Mike the cold shoulder tried to become his friends, so they would be invited to Darien for the holidays. His roommate even canceled a trip to Hawaii so he could go home with my friend's son.

Michael was sought after by the best clubs and invited to work on the school newspaper. He wrote his parents:

"I've done my best to uphold Darien's scandalous reputation. I have described the police brutality, the nightly orgies, and the martial law. They believe everything I tell them and insist on hearing more. I would appreciate it if you could send me any information or clippings which could help the legend. If I had two more good scandals, I believe I could make the track team."

MY FRIENDS were very happy their son was getting along so well in school. They sent him clippings and items from the papers, some as far away as Boston, with the datelines cut off, of course. Michael's father added juicy tidbits in letters, most of which he'd culled from old John O'Hara novels.

All in all, things went smashing for Michael. He made the track team and when a Darien boy got picked up on a possession-of-marijuana charge, Michael was asked to join the school theatrical group.

But unfortunately the Christmas vacation rolled around and several of Michael's friends asked if they could come home to Darien with him. He couldn't think of any good reason why they couldn't, and so he wrote his parents warning them that all would be lost unless they rose to the challenge.

MICHAEL'S PARENTS were at a loss as to what they could do. They couldn't risk going to jail to keep up Darien's reputation, and at the same time they had the future of their son to consider.

So they tossed a half-dozen empty whisky bottles around the living room and hoped that would do the trick. But Christmas turned out to be very uneventful in Darien. No teen-age parties were raised, no parents were booked, no marijuana was found, and all of Michael's friends had a very, very dull time. Most of them were bitter and complained things were much more exciting in their own home towns.

Well, the vacation is over and Michael is scheduled to go back to boarding school today. But he isn't very excited about it. Because of Darien's failure to live up to its image he has lost all the good will he built up in the last few months.

"When you get back to school," one of his house guests, who was a junior, warned him, "we're going to treat you like the punk freshman you are. Darien is for the birds."

'Lee' runs to the old days

"Run to the Lee," (Norton — $3.95 — Jan. 4) pays tribute to the good days and the wild adventure of a past era.

There is a nostalgia in these pages for the time when raw courage and strength were man's weapons against uncontrollable elements, weapons that have become less effective in this age of manufactured power.

"Maybe I don't remember it the way it really was," writes the author, "and maybe my thoughts are colored because they are the memories of the thoughts of a small boy, but it seems to me there never has been a time when things seemed so good."

With these words, Kenneth F. Brooks, Jr. takes us back to the last great days of the sailing ships on the Chesapeake and the violence and danger that were everyday facts in the life of his great uncle, John Talbot — the hero of "Run to the Lee."

Uncle John Talbot sailed the Albatross, a two-masted schooner trading on Chesapeake Bay at the turn of the century. Kenneth Brooks' memory most poignantly embraces the voyage of the "Albatross" through the great storm of 1904 . . . a voyage which also marked an exciting peak in his great uncle's growing-up process.

Kenneth F. Brooks, Jr. was born in Washington, D.C. He spent many summers aboard his uncle's boat on the Chesapeake Bay and at his grandmother's farm on the Patuxen River.

89th Congress Meets— House Makes Rules Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 89th Congress — which President Johnson hopes will be an historic "Great Society" parliament — convened Monday, and the House swiftly adopted a major rules change strengthening the Administration's hand.

The change makes Speaker John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) the House chamber's chief legislative traffic cop, with wide power to route bills to the floor for a vote.

THUS the long-time power of the House Rules Committee is greatly diminished. Under the chairmanship of Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.) and with a conservative Democratic-Republican coalition in command, it often has pigeonholed administration bills.

In other major changes:

- Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), who is the son of the late Sen. Huey Long and who has opposed several Kennedy-Johnson bills, was elected to a key post — Democratic whip in the Senate.
- Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) was unseated as House Republican leader by Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Michigan). Ford, 51, who is, if anything, a shade more conservative than Halleck, 64, won 73-67 in a party caucus. He was backed by younger members asking for a "fresh, forceful image" for their party.

proves a bill, the Rules Committee can hold it up only for 21 days. Then McCormack can decide whether it should be brought to the floor for a vote.

THE CHANGE went through on a voice vote.

Another rules change adopted today empowers a majority of the House to send legislation to a Senate-House conference committee for adjustment of differences between the two chambers. Previously, a single objection could prevent such routing, and could send the legislation instead to the Rules Committee.

Meanwhile, President Johnson polished his State of the Union Message to be delivered in person and in precedent-setting fashion at a joint night session of the Congress and broadcast nationally on television and radio. The Congress has received a State of the Union Message from a president at night before, but not with the nation cut in on the sight and sound.

AS A RESULT of the Johnson sweep last November, the Democrats are more dominant than at any time since the Congress of 1937, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was president. The Senate lineup is 68-32, and in the House 295-140.

The November election, bringing in many men classified as liberals, raised the hopes of backers of such bills as health care for the aged under Social Security. A big push for this is planned early in the session, and it was among the first bills introduced Monday.

In the caucusing before the gavels fell at noon, the first contest decided by Rep. Melvin E. Laird (R-Wis.) into the post of chairman of the House GOP conference, made up of all House Republicans.

THERE WAS NO battling at the caucus of Republican senators, who unanimously re-elected their leaders: Sen. Dirksen as floor leader; Sen. Thomas W. Kuchel of California as assistant leader and whip, and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts as chairman of the Republican Conference.

At the caucus of Senate Democrats, the prime question was who should succeed Hubert H. Humphrey, vice president elect, as assistant leader or whip.

Johnson Wants Nation 'Growing, Full of Hope'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 89th Congress convened Monday and heard President Johnson urge a many-faceted program designed, he said, to keep the nation "free, restless, growing and full of hope."

And abroad, he said, the United States should help "strike away the chains of ignorance and misery and tyranny wherever they keep man less than God means him to be."

The President will need all the clear sailing he can get if he is to obtain all the legislation he outlined Monday night.

The crammed package included, to name only a few things:

- Aid to education amounting to $1.5 billion the first year; a doubling of the "war on poverty" which is financed by a $784-million fund this year; a cut in excise taxes; test projects looking toward high speed train travel between cities; health care for the aged under Social Security; a cleanup of polluted air and streams; further steps to convert sea water into fresh water, and a national foundation of the arts.

He did not say just what the costs will be — how big his budget will be — but said "I will present a budget designed to move the economy forward."

Jobs Open In Europe

Students interested in working abroad next summer may apply to the American-European Student Service.

Jobs are available in several European countries and include work in forestry, construction, farming, and child care. Students will receive room and board plus a European-scaled wage for their work.

Further information and application forms can be obtained by writing: American-European Student Service, Via Santorre Santarosa 23, Florence, Italy.

Gross' Move; Must Answer Vote Question

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) sworn in Monday for his ninth House term, has the next move in his contested election as Iowa's only Republican congressman.

An apparent change of plans called off efforts on the part of Democrat Stephen M. Peterson to have Gross stand aside when the oath of office was given to members-elect.

IT WOULD have been an exercise in futility, Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) said. "Obviously, everyone with a certificate of election would be seated."

Peterson had said last week that such a move would be made when the 89th Congress convened. Smith said that the failure to challenge on the House floor "will make not one iota of difference to the contest."

Peterson notified Gross last week of his intention to contest the election. He then filed with the House clerk a 31-page petition detailing his reasons for contesting the election.

Gross, along with Iowa's six Democrats, took the oath from House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts. He has a 30-day period in which to file an answer to Peterson's election contest.

GROSS, an economy advocate, said he was not aware until the session started that no move to ask him to stand aside would be made. He was certified the winner over Peterson by 419 votes.

"Apparently they knew they wouldn't get away with it," Gross said. "This was in recognition of the certificate of election."

After Gross' answer is filed, a total of 90 days is provided for taking of testimony in such election contests. Each side has 40 days with 10 days for rebuttal testimony. Procedures then provide for this to be submitted to the House clerk, who forwards it to the House Administration Committee for action.

McDonald Loses Struggle Over Election Procedure

PITTSBURGH (AP) — David McDonald, fighting to keep control of the United Steelworkers union (USW), got rebuffed Monday in an internal test of strength over union election procedure.

The USW's 33-member executive board torpedoed a McDonald-backed proposal to call in the American Arbitration Association to supervise the union's quadrennial election Feb. 9. It was defeated by a 7-6 ratio.

McDonald readily admitted the defeat was executed by the forces of I. W. Abel, USW secretary-treasurer who is trying to knock McDonald out of the union presidency.

The test of strength was the first reported direct encounter between the two candidates in executive board action.

"Had McDonald been able to carry his own international board, he would have plunged the union into a debacle which could have taken months to straighten out. It was the position of the majority of the board that his proposal clearly violated both the USW constitution and the Landrum-Griffin Act."

McDonald said he wanted the association to oversee voting on the local level, saying that the union at present has no such election safeguards. He said the union makes use of the services of the Honest Ballot Association, but only to check over vote return sheets submitted by the locals.

Each director had one vote for himself, plus one vote for each 1,000 union members in his district.

Iowa Labor Law To Be Discussed At Conference

The Iowa Bureau of Labor will sponsor a one-day conference on the Iowa Protective Labor Law Wednesday at the Hotel Kirkwood in Des Moines.

University officials planning to attend the conference are Jude P. West, head of Government Services, Bureau of Labor and Management, and Anthony V. Sinicropi, head of Labor Services, Bureau of Labor and Management.

West will present the welcome address and moderate the conference and Sinicropi will speak on the minimum wage law.

The morning session will outline the growth of protective legislation throughout the United States, and the Iowa laws will be discussed.

The pros and cons of three areas of legislative consideration, minimum wage, health and safety law, and wage collection, will be discussed at the afternoon session.

DIAL 7-NUMBERS ON ALL LOCAL CALLS

7-Number Calling Comes to Iowa City

Now when you call another telephone in Iowa City, remember to dial all seven numbers of the phone you are calling. It takes seven turns of the dial to complete your call. Your call cannot be completed unless you dial all seven.

Please refer to your new telephone directory before dialing to obtain the complete 7-number phone number. The new directory also contains new numbers for calling Information, Long Distance, Repair Service and Time-of-Day. And destroy your old directory so you won't dial numbers that have been changed — wrong numbers.

If you have a personal directory or number list, now is the time to bring it up to date — show the seven numbers that must be dialed on all local calls.

Introduction of 7-number dialing now is part of an improvement program that next year will bring you faster and more reliable local service, and will make it possible for you to dial your long distance calls. We are happy to bring this to you.

Hawkeyes Overwhelm Wisconsin, 92-62

By JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

After showing off sparkling new warm-up jackets, Iowa's Hawks completely out-classed Wisconsin, 92-62, before 9,600 in their Big Ten basketball opener here Monday night.

It was the Hawkeye's sixth victory in 10 outings, while the Badgers have been set back five times in 10 games and are 0-2 in conference play.

Iowa's pressure defense proved too much for Wisconsin in the first half as the Hawks held the Badgers to 29 points on 12 field goals and five free throws.

Meanwhile the Iowa quintet went wild, stealing the ball and scoring most of their 37 points on easy lay-ups.

Playmaker Chris Pervall came in off the Iowa bench with 15 minutes left in the first half to toss in 25 points, leading all scorers. Teammate Gerry Jones was second with 17.

IOWA'S STRONG defense proved to be the victory key as Wisconsin was forced into numerous second half turnover errors, allowing the Hawkeyes to pile up the score.

With 11:45 left in the game, center George Peoples sank a free throw and Iowa took a commanding 19-point lead, 59-40.

Iowa Coach Ralph Miller then substituted freely, letting most of his reserves obtain some valuable experience in their first conference game of the season.

Late in the game, guards Tom Chapman and Fred Riddle kept the Iowa scoring punch alive, getting 11 points between them. Riddle hit all three of his field goal attempts and was one-for-one from the line.

JONES AND PERVALL brought the crowd to its feet several times with their excellent play making. Offensively, they were the big guns, giving the team its much needed one-two scoring punch.

Defensively, the whole team played well, helping each other out on several occasions to cover holes, double team and come up with the big play.

With Pervall at the point, the three on two fast break was worked to a perfection with Olson and Jones on each wing.

Iowa's 6-8 center, George Peoples, led all rebounders with 10 and was the game's third highest scorer with 14 points.

The Hawks will meet Michigan State in East Lansing this Saturday before playing host to a powerful Indiana quintet here next Monday night.

Indiana held a 9-0 record before losing to Illinois, 86-81, in Champaign Monday night.

Miller, Players Seek To Improve For Further Conference Play

By BILL PIERROT
Assistant Sports Editor

Pleased with their 92-62 victory over Wisconsin here Monday night, Iowa players and Coach Ralph Miller agreed that improvement is necessary to win future games in the Big 10.

"We definitely need more improvement," Miller said.

"We're just beginning to jell into a good ball club."

Miller said the team would have to develop a "killer instinct" to suit his satisfaction.

"When we get ahead we can't let them up for air," he said. "It's all in the mental attitude, we've just got to take only the good shots and control the ball."

Miller said that his team had needed another big win to prove to themselves that they could stay with the best in the Big 10. He also said he was pleased with the consistency of the players.

CHRIS PERVALL, leading scorer with 25 points, said he thought the key to the game was Iowa's pressure which forced Wisconsin into mistakes.

Commenting on the Hawk's slow start, Pervall said, "It just takes time at the beginning of a game to get rolling, and in some games it takes longer than others."

"We'll do a good job in conference play," he said, "and will fool a lot of people."

Dennis Pauling said he wasn't particularly surprised with the high Iowa score.

"WITH OUR offense we're capable of running up 90 points any night," he said.

Pauling said the other Big 10 teams would probably be tougher than Wisconsin.

George Peoples felt Wisconsin was winded in the second half, which had a lot to do with the Hawks' surge to a 30-point victory margin.

"Mark Zubor (30) was good, but we put plenty of pressure and were able to control him," Peoples commented.

PEEPLS AND JONES had the assignment of guarding Zubor, and succeeded in holding him to nine points, well under his season average of 19.7 per game.

Jones thought Zubor was real tough but said, "They couldn't seem to work the ball into him. I don't think I had much to do with that."

"In the last half we played real well," Jones said, "but still we left a few things to be desired."

While You Were Away— Vacation Sports Wrap-Up

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following report on the activities of various Iowa sports squads during the Christmas holidays was prepared by The Daily Iowan Sports Department.)

In basketball action, the Hawks lost to Providence College and defeated North Dakota in Iowa City. They then traveled to the West Coast where they defeated Southern Cal and Minnesota, and lost to Utah.

Two free throws by Providence's Bill Blair with 17 seconds remaining gave the Friars a 71-70 victory on Dec. 19.

George Peoples led Iowa scorers with 21 points, while Chris Pervall had 15.

THE HAWKEYES set a school one game scoring record on Dec. 21 when they defeated North Dakota, 106-65. A clawing, full court press tore the game wide open midway through the first half and allowed the Hawks to score practically at will.

Substitute guard Ken Banaszek had the honor of setting the record, which was 105 points against Arizona set in 1960, when he hit two free throws with :32 remaining.

Peoples and Pervall were the leading scorers with 22 points each.

In the L.A. Classic, the Hawks opened with a defeat of Southern California, 71-65, behind the 20-point scoring performance of Dennis Pauling. Iowa held a 6-point half-time lead, but needed the shooting of Pauling, Pervall, and Gerry Jones in the second half to preserve the victory.

UTAH DOWNED Iowa, 92-88, in the second round of the tourney. The Hawks were ahead, 84-80, with approximately six minutes remaining but couldn't hang on for the victory. Pervall was the leading Hawk scorer with 28 points, while Jones and Peoples chipped in 20 apiece.

In the consolation round of the tourney, two free throws by Gary Olson with three seconds left, gave Iowa a 76-74 victory over Big 10 rival Minnesota. Peoples led the scoring with 27 points, although he fouled out with 6:14 remaining. Jones and Olson each had 14 points.

BURNS COACHES EAST
Jerry Burns, Hawkeye grid boss, was a coach for the East team in the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco on Jan. 2. Also coaching for the East was Dr. Eddie Anderson, former Holy Cross and Iowa coach. No Iowa players participated in this game. However, Tom Vaughn of Iowa State played defensive halfback for the West.

On Dec. 22, the University of Iowa Board in Control of Athletics announced that Burns will remain head coach of the football team here for an "indefinite and continuing" period.

Burns' appointment will continue on the same basis, and will be subject to periodic review, as are all other administrative positions at the University, according to Board Chairman Dr. George S. Easton.

Associate Director Says—

62 Federal Aid Could Help U of I Library

Although the shape and extent of legislation for education to be put before the 89th Congress in January is somewhat of a mystery, it seems likely that one proposal from the Johnson Administration will concern federal assistance for the purchase of library books for colleges and universities.

entirely on state support, federal aid could be a real help to us," Bentz said. "Of course," he added, "it's too early to even speculate about the provisions of such a bill. We'll have to wait and see. It could be that the bill might not include assistance to state-supported universities."

"If the library received $5,000 and used it to buy a thousand books, it would mean a lot more time and work than if the library used the money to buy one or two books," she explained. "Selecting the books, ordering them and preparing them for the shelves are several of the jobs that would necessitate additional staff members, she said."

Both Bentz and Miss Reynolds said they would in general view the passage of a bill for the purchase of library books favorably. Neither cited an area or department in the University Library which is at present in need of extra assistance.

Should such a bill be passed, the University Library might well be interested in accepting assistance, according to Dale M. Bentz, associate director of the library. "Since the library cannot depend

Hughes Wants Cut In Travel Funds

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa's new Democratic administration began looking around Monday for likely candidates for the economy ax, and travel expenses for state employees were at the top of the list.

Gov. Harold Hughes said he hopes the State Executive Council, now all Democratic, will come up with firm policies designed to "cut off a lot of fat."

Hughes mentioned out-of-state travel requests from state employees and employees' automobile useage and vacations.

Last year the Council approved about 1,500 requests for out-of-state travel. State Comptroller Marvin Selden Jr. estimated the costs averaged between $300 and $400 a trip, or from $450,000 to $600,000 a year.

All requests for funds to pay for travel outside Iowa by state employees on state business must be approved by the Executive Council. In the past, most of the requests were handled on a routine basis and approved.

The council now is composed of Hughes, Secretary of State Gary Cameron, Treasurer Paul Franzberg, Auditor Lorne Worthington and Agriculture Secretary Kenneth Owen. They were sworn in Saturday.

In other developments Monday, Hughes told his news conference he would not be surprised if the 1965 legislature lasts more than the 100 days allotted.

He noted that the 1963 regular session consumed a record 127 days and added, "They seem to get longer every year."

Hughes said he would not be critical of a long session "as long as the legislators are working and accomplishing something."

Ill. Freshman Enters Plea Of Innocent

CHICAGO (AP) — A university freshman who police said tried to pull off a perfect crime remained silent Monday in court where he appeared on charges of murdering his parents and sister.

Harrison Crouse, 18, son of well-to-do parents and a promising student at the University of Illinois, remained mute on the instructions of his lawyer, Frank Ferlic, a former assistant state's attorney of Cook County (Chicago).

Ferlic obtained from Judge Daniel Ryan a continuance to Jan. 12. The lawyer said he would enter a plea of innocent to the three charges of murder brought against Crouse.

"I thought I could get away with it," Crouse was quoted by police of Wilmette, a fashionable North Shore suburb of Chicago, "I thought I could commit the perfect crime."

Officers said the youth told them he planned the shootings for two days but when asked why, he replied, "I don't know."

The tragedy occurred shortly before Crouse, a girl friend and another couple were to attend the theater in Chicago with tickets given as a Christmas gift by his father, Morris, 47, partner in an accounting firm.

Police said Crouse declined to sign a statement of the killings but told them:

He walked into the room of his sister, Sally, 16, a high school sophomore, and shot her in the back of the head while she was writing a letter.

The shot brought his mother, Norma, 47, running from the kitchen. He fired at her and missed. She ducked into another bedroom. As his father came running the youth shot him in the face, then his mother as she opened the bedroom door to peek out.

At first Crouse tried to convince police that his mother had gone berserk, killed the others and herself. Under questioning flaws in his story were pointed out, and, police said, he admitted the killings.

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Police reported smashing a kidnaping gang that sold young girls in western India. The gang tried to realize a profit, officers said, by selling some girls into marriage and then kidnaping them again.

Pope Says Christians Need To Cooperate

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI, in a letter made public Monday appealed for closer relations between Christians and Arabs "as sons of the same God."

Although the letter was addressed to Christian patriarchs, its message was primarily aimed at Arabs. It was written in French and released with an Arab translation.

Pope Paul said relations between Christian and Moslem communities were "not always without some difficulties."

"We do not ignore that. In the past Arab people have been opposed to peoples from the West," he added.

But he said Arabs were a hospitable people and praised their culture and spiritual heritage. He noted that they showed hospitality to "pilgrims from all corners of the world" visiting the Holy Land.

The Pope said differences between Arabs and Christians "must be viewed with charity" as a way to improve relations. He said the past can serve the future "by making us forget old conflicts and by aiding us in developing and strengthening the favorable points of our cooperation."

He urged "abandonment of every sterile antagonism" and added, "the present and future confront us with a very high and noble task and aim. They require that we pledge ourselves completely in this immense effort which aims at building a more just, peaceful and brotherly world."

Police Investigate Thetts

Iowa City Police investigated two thefts during the weekend.

Two paper-mache elves used for Christmas decorations were taken from the G. Robert Carlson home at 327 Koser Ave.

The elves, about five feet tall, were valued at $50 by Carlson.

Welfare Unions Strike In Defiance of Courts

NEW YORK (AP) — Unionized welfare workers who service the city's half million relief clients went on strike Monday in defiance of the law and the courts. They are asking more pay for less work.

Little if any immediate hardship resulted from the walkout.

OF THE 12,500 case workers and clerical employees, 7,600 struck, thus making leaders of their two unions liable to contempt of court sentences. The strikers faced possible loss of their jobs under the state's Condon-Wadlin law.

State Supreme Court Justice Irving H. Saypol, whose no-strike ban was defied by the two welfare unions, sought to mediate the dispute amid reports of sabotage by strikers against welfare centers. Unions involved are the AFL-CIO State, County and Municipal Employees Union, and the independent Social Service Employees Union.

The strike had no effect on the general public and little initial affect on relief clients, most of whom receive their semimonthly checks by mail. Welfare Commissioner James R. Dumpson said no family now receiving checks need worry

Rules Given For Conflict In Schedules

The final schedule for the Colleges of Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Nursing, and the Graduate College appears today in The Daily Iowan.

If students have a time conflict or are scheduled to take more than three examinations in one day, they must take the exam in the course with the higher department number when the conflict is within the same department.

Single section courses will have precedence over multi-section courses, regardless of course number.

Any undergraduate student who has two examinations scheduled for the same period or more than three examinations scheduled for the same day, may file a request for a change of schedule at the Registrar's Office.
