Bowen Poses MSH Needs to Regents; Appointments Set

By JON VAN
Staff Writer

DES MOINES—A complete revision of planning for Married Student Housing was outlined Friday by Pres. Howard Bowen, speaking here before the educational policies committee of the Board of Regents.

Bowen said present University plans call for elimination of barracks by 1972, but they only add 100 units to the present housing capacity. He said needs will far exceed this, and he plans to revise plans to meet needs.

ABOUT 800 UNITS a year are scheduled to be added for single students, according to Bowen, and this will keep pace with needs in that area.

"Our housing plans are not geared in the direction of University growth," Bowen said. "Enrollment is shifting toward more advanced and graduate students—many of them are married." The president told the Regents about 500 families a year are expected to join the University, including both new students and new faculty members.

"In the near future," Bowen said, "private enterprise is not adequate to handle the needs, neither is University housing."

A recent policy decision by the University limits married housing facilities to students over 21 with at least 90 hours of credit. Bowen said even tighter limitations may be necessary in the future. He also said rent increases may be necessary to finance building programs.

"WE NEED a breakthrough, a new approach to the problem of construction," Bowen said, "perhaps lower cost construction, new means of financing or higher rents."

Studies are now under way, the president said, to determine how the University may best approach this problem. He predicted the studies would be completed in the spring and some relief would be felt by the fall of 1967.

Bowen said he would like to see many different types of housing built—everything from low-rent utility units to comfortable "luxury units." He stressed the University is depending upon help from private construction in meeting growing needs for married student housing.

"Orderly development of the University requires a lot more of this housing. If we supply single student housing without supplying adequate married housing, it would unbalance the University's growth. We would have room for students who should be going to junior colleges and not enough room for graduate students," Bowen said.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the Regents approved a new two-year voluntary Air Force and Army training program to be established next fall. The Board also approved a name change for the Department of Air Science, designating it the Department of Aerospace Military Studies.

Willard R. Lane, professor of education, was appointed director of the hitherto unflagging heart seemed affected.

RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, Sir Winston's newspaperman son, had told reporters earlier that so far as he knew his father was suffering only from a cold but any illness at that age must be regarded as serious.

Lady Clementine Churchill, herself 80, was at the bedside. Churchill's daughter, Mary, and her husband, Christopher Soames, spent three hours at the Hyde Park Gate residence. She declined to answer questions.

The Churchill's actress daughter, Sarah, left Rome by plane for London but the plane was forced back to Rome because of malfunction of an instrument panel.

In addition to the strokes, Churchill has had two bouts with pneumonia, fractured a small bone in his back in a fall in November of 1960, and broke his leg in a fall while on a vacation in Monte Carlo in June of 1962. He always bounced back.

IN THE past five years or so, on his birthday he has been able to get to a ground-floor window of the Hyde Park Gate home to give his famous V-for-victory sign to well-wishers outside.

On his birthday last Nov. 30 he appeared pale when he showed up at the window with Lady Churchill. But he slowly made the V sign with two fingers of his right hand.

That was the only time Britons had been able to get a glimpse of Sir Winston since his retirement from the House of Commons last fall.

Both Bowen and Hilton, along with J. W. Maucker, president of SCI, and Robert Parks, who will take over as president of Iowa State this summer, held a conference with Gov. Harold Hughes Friday afternoon.

THE CONFERENCE was closed to the press, but the governor said he wished to ask the presidents about using state educational facilities in solving the problems of state government.

"I want to ask their advice and counsel for problems of programs and personnel," Hughes said.

Christensen, now dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State, will replace Robert Parks, who will replace retiring Pres. James Hilton this summer.

90 Attend Bluegrass Folksinger's Concert

Five bluegrass folksingers, the Dixie Drifters, filled the New Chemistry Auditorium with Grand Ole Opry style music Friday night. The group was sponsored by the U of I Folklore club.

The five played and sang bluegrass country music, a form popularized by men like Jimmy Rogers.

An audience of about 90 waited patiently for a half hour for the bass player to arrive. At 8:30 the other four started the concert without him. He arrived an hour late and later explained that he had had trouble getting to the city and was misdirected when he reached the campus.

Winston Churchill Stricken By Blood Clot, Near Death

Wartime Leader's Illness Stirs Worldwide Prayers, Anxiety

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill lay near death early today after being stricken by a blood clot on the brain.

The 90-year-old wartime leader clung only to a feeble thread of life. His doctors said he was slipping in to "deeper sleep" but was not suffering.

Churchill's grave illness stirred anxiety and prayers throughout the world.

In a message to the great Englishman, President Johnson said: "We are praying for a rapid and complete recovery."

Apprehension for Churchill — Britain's man of the century and history's only honorary American citizen — mounted throughout Friday after doctors disclosed he had suffered a stroke.

A MEDICAL bulletin by Lord

Moran, Sir Winston's personal physician for many years, said, "He is slipping into deeper sleep and is not conscious of pain or discomfort."

When Lord Moran left the Churchill house he told newsmen: "I think he was a little bit drowsier."

A reporter asked Moran whether he thought Churchill might survive. Moran looked and replied: "All I can say is that he is seriously ill."

A member of the family, who was with Sir Winston at Hyde Park Gate, said, "It's pretty grim."

MORAN, himself 82, said earlier that Churchill had suffered a cerebral thrombosis — a clot in the blood vessels of the brain — as well as a blockage in his arterial circulatory system.

The night medical bulletin was issued at outside the Churchill residence, 28 Hyde Park Gate, in the heart of London.

Moran said he would issue a further bulletin at noon — 6 a.m. CST.

He declined to elaborate on his medical bulletin. Asked whether Sir Winston's condition had improved or deteriorated, he said, "I would say little change."

THE FIRST medical bulletin issued on Churchill's illness had said:

"After a cold, Sir Winston has developed a circulatory weakness and there has been a cerebral thrombosis."

For the former prime minister, whose ringing words rallied Britain in the darkest days of World War II, the stroke meant another battle for survival such as those he waged after strokes in 1951 and 1953.

But this time he was older and the hitherto unflagging heart seemed affected.

RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, Sir Winston's newspaperman son, had told reporters earlier that so far as he knew his father was suffering only from a cold but any illness at that age must be regarded as serious.

Harold Wilson Schedules Washington, U.N. Visits

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson will make a brief visit to the United States next month, No. 10 Downing Street announced Friday night. He will address the U.N. Assembly Feb. 11 after paying an informal call on President Johnson in Washington the previous day.

2 U.S. Diplomats Expelled By Tanzanians Government

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — President Julius Nyerere charged two top U.S. diplomats with subversive activities Friday and ordered them to get out of this East African country within 24 hours.

They were the embassy counselor, Robert Gordon — No. 2 man here and believed to be the highest-ranking U.S. diplomat ever ordered out of a post with so little notice — and Frank C. Carlucci III, consul at Zanzibar.

IN WASHINGTON, the State Department categorically rejected the charges.

"The allegation of subversive activity is without any foundation," said Richard I. Phillips, deputy assistant secretary of state for public information.

Phillips said, in response to a question, that he did not know what the Tanzanian authorities meant by subversive activities.

OFFICIALS said they saw no connection between the expulsion of the two diplomats and charges raised by the Tanzanian government last November that the United States was involved in a plot against President Nyerere.

At that time, a newspaper in Dar es Salaam printed what it said were photographic copies of documents indicating that some powers intended to launch raids on Tanzania using white mercenaries.

The United States flatly denied the charge at the time, and called the documents clumsy forgeries.

Gordon's home here was deserted, guarded only by an African watchman armed with a bow and arrow. A note on the door read, "Ice in refrigerator. Keys in cupboard." The watchman said Gordon and his wife had gone away.

GORDON, 44, arrived here at the latter part of last year. Soon after taking up his post he got a virus infection and was away several weeks on sick leave.

Carlucci, 34, took up his post in Zanzibar when the United States was allowed to reopen its mission following its closure shortly after the revolution in January 1964.

Tanzania is a southeast African nation of 10.5 million formed last year in a merger of Tanganyika, a former British colony on the mainland, and Zanzibar, the offshore islands making up a former British-protected sultanate.

U.S., Canada End Car Trade Duties

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — The United States and Canada have reached an agreement to end tariffs on automobiles and parts for production of new motor vehicles.

The agreement was announced simultaneously Friday in Austin, Tex., Ottawa and Washington.

THE AGREEMENTS will be signed at President Johnson's ranch Saturday morning by Johnson and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Technically an executive agreement, President Johnson need not submit it to Congress for approval. He must, however, ask for legislation doing away with the present tariffs. Under present law, the President has authority to reduce tariffs by 50 per cent, but he cannot eliminate them entirely.

Under the agreement Canadian carmakers, chiefly subsidiaries of U.S. companies, agreed to maintain assemblies at least at the rate of the base year, Aug. 1, 1963, to July 31, 1964, and also not to reduce the production rate of parts.

WHILE the agreement is for unlimited duration, each government has the right to terminate it upon 12 months' notice.

The customs-free agreement applies only to automakers in the two countries. A Canadian who crossed the border to buy a car in the United States would have to pay duty on his purchase. And the same applies to an American who bought a car in Canada. Replacement parts are not affected.

U.S. officials predicted the agreement would enable Canadian manufacturers to cut production costs by concentrating on fewer models. Canadian costs now are higher than in this country because of lower volume.

THE U.S. TARIFFS to be abolished are 6 1/2 per cent on vehicles and 8 1/2 per cent on most parts, while Canadian duties range from 17 1/2 per cent on finished vehicles to 25 per cent on parts.

The latest figures, for 1964, show U.S. sales of approximately $600 million in vehicles and parts to Canada, while Canadian exports to this country were about $72 million.

Minor Accidents Follow Snowfall

An Iowa City man suffered minor injuries in an accident on the Dodge Street hill near Washington Street at about 8 a.m. Friday.

George Baculis, 1012 N. Summit St., was treated and released from University Hospitals. He received whiplash injuries, police said.

Baculis was a passenger in an Iowa City truck being driven by Lyle Sanger, 54, 2709 Wayne Ave. According to police reports, the truck was struck from behind by a car being driven by Terrence Toomey, 18, 1409 Keokuk St.

No charges were filed in this accident, but Nancy V. Koehler, 2201 Arizona St., was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead in another accident Friday morning.

According to Police reports, her car hit an Iowa City road grader on North Dubuque Street. The road grader was being driven by Henry Rios, 715 Maiden Lane.

In another accident, a U of I graduate student suffered minor injuries in an accident involving four cars at about 11:10 p.m. Thursday.

The student, Lance S. Nelson, G, Iowa City, was taken to Student Health, treated for minor injuries and released.

His car collided with one driven by Michael H. Corso, 661 S. Governor St. The accident occurred in the 500 block of South Clinton Street, according to Police reports.

Two parked cars were also struck in the collision.

Corso was charged with failure to yield right of way.

84 Indictments Returned by Jury

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A federal grand jury returned 84 indictments Friday and hours later government sources revealed some of them stem from the slaying of three civil rights workers last summer.

Names of those indicted were kept secret pending arrests by U.S. marshals who left the Mississippi capital Friday night armed with warrants.

A U.S. marshal said, "There will be no midnight arrests. We don't intend to go around knocking on doors in the dead of night."

This indicated the arrests could be made in the early morning, as happened last month when the FBI picked up 21 persons in connection with the triple slayings.

Firecracker Damages Engineering Laboratory

An explosion in the third floor men's lavatory in the Engineering Building damaged a marble wall and two marble sinks at about 11:30 a.m. Friday.

Arthur W. Melloh, dean of the College of Engineering, reported the incident to Campus Police.

Campus Police reported they found that a large firecracker, possibly a "cherry bomb," had been placed high on the marble wall and ignited. The explosion ruptured the marble along the wall and pieces falling in the sinks broke both bowls.

The lavatory is located on a third floor landing in the front of the old section of the Engineering Building. No estimate of damages was available Friday, but the sinks were apparently a total loss.

City Streets Slick; Many Accidents

Iowa City streets remained fairly slippery in spots late Friday night following the three-inch snowfall received Thursday.

Police said nine accidents were reported between 5 a.m. and 10 p.m. Friday.

Highways in this area were clear and normal as of late Friday night according to the State Highway Patrol in Cedar Rapids. They reported no snow packed spots on the highways and said there have been no accidents in this district.

Afternoon highs in Iowa ranged from just a few degrees above zero in the northwest to the upper teens in the extreme east on Friday.

The snow moved out of the southeastern counties during the afternoon, leaving as much as six inches at Keosauqua. Elsewhere around the state amounts were generally about three inches.

Forecasters said northerly winds would continue to pump cold arctic air into the state Friday night, and this, along with clear skies and the snow on the ground, set the stage for a very frigid night.

The mercury was expected to plunge to 15 below zero in the north and to zero to 10 below in the south before Saturday morning.

The cold will continue Saturday under generally fair skies. Afternoon highs will range from zero to five above in the north to about 15 in the south.

Local Concern Expressed About Churchill

BY DENNIS BROWN
Staff Writer

Members of the University faculty and student body expressed concern Friday over the grave condition of Sir Winston Churchill.

CHURCHILL, 90, was stricken with a blood clot in the brain as well as blockage in the arterial circulatory system Friday in London. Late Friday, according to his physician, he was slipping into a deep sleep.

On being told of Churchill's condition, Dr. Donald B. Johnson, chairman of the U of I political science department, expressed sorrow and described him as "the man of the half century."

Dr. Hugh Kelso, associate professor of political science, said, "As an author, statesman, and political leader Winston Churchill will have to go down as one of the great men of the mid 20th century."

"He was certainly one of those individuals who appeared upon the world's scene in times of crisis. He provided the spark and the leadership for the free world, particularly in the 1940's."

"ALTHOUGH he made mistakes, particularly in his early career, in terms of leadership during World War II, his early errors will be overshadowed," he said.

Alan Redfern, A2, Purley Surrey, England, said, "I admire the guy. I imagine in England the reaction will be quite emotional, but his death was expected. It was not a surprise as Kennedy's was."

DR. CHARLES GIBSON, chairman of the history department, said, "Churchill embodies the virtues of our era. His internationalism, courage and concern for humanity have made him an inspiration to the world."

Peter Clothier, G, Halifax, N.S., Canada, said of Churchill, "He is certainly one of the major figures of British politics and among the great war leaders of all times."

A right to speak, no right to be listened to

THE MOST INTERESTING aspect of the question period that followed the showing of "Operation Abolition" Thursday night was that, although there were many questions asked, few were answered.

Al Payne of Des Moines, who brought the film to campus at the request of Ron Zobel, did, however, say quite a few interesting things.

Even disregarding his assumptions (that anything Communists are for is bad, that there were no distortions in the film, that it is not possible to falsify a situation through rearrangement of film clips, that there is One Truth), Payne left himself wide-open with some of his remarks.

Payne's definition of a socialist—"anyone who believes in government control over your life and property"—had even the most superficial student of government floored by its inanity. Payne's logic—or lack of it—was amazing.

There were shouts and yells and jeers from the audience, which upset the sponsors of the program, the Iowa Conservatives. The shouts were those of frustration which was compounded by Payne's condescending remarks and insinuations.

Students are conditioned to respect a speaker because most speakers they hear are educators who have earned that respect. But when a speaker shows that he has not earned respect through his argument and manner, students will shout, as they did Thursday night.

Payne claimed that his right to speak was being infringed upon last night. He certainly had the right to speak, but neither he, nor anyone else using such arguments, has the right to be listened to.

Uneducational proposal for schools

DONALD JOHNSON, national commander of the American Legion and a native of West Branch, advocates a ban on Communist speakers at educational institutions. Johnson said that "the recent events at the University of California are new evidence of this need."

The Board of Regents made a formal statement of its speakers policy last fall, which merely made official the operative policy at the three Iowa education institutions. This policy allows any speaker to appear on campus, as long as there is accordance with University procedural rules (such as being sponsored by a recognized group, with proper notification).

Johnson used the argument that young minds are impressionable and that there are many other forums for "Red-oriented" speakers.

The American Legion opposes the appearance of "spokesmen for the Communist conspiracy on tax-supported properties, thus using these facilities for sounding boards for Communist propaganda."

Communists have appeared as speakers on this campus which is a tax-supported institution, but this is primarily an educational institution.

This is the most telling argument against Johnson's proposal. Anything with educational value has a place in an educational institution. Exposure to Communist ideology, whether through the writing of Karl Marx or the words of a contemporary figure, is educational.

Such exposure can only help to give students a better perspective of the world today, which, like it or not, contains many Communists.

But the worst feature of Johnson's argument is that he, like many others, uses the word "Communist" as though it had only one possible meaning. There are Russian, Chinese, Cuban, French, Italian, American Communists and there is no harmonious consensus among their ideas.

Commander Johnson's proposed ban on an undefined type of speaker would be detrimental to the educational process.

On other campuses — New library delights Colo., U. of Mich. evaluates classes

By TAM DUGGLEBY
Staff Writer

After months of anticipation, Colorado State students finally poured through the front doors of the school's new $2.5 million William E. Morgan library last week to find a three-part complex of new features and services that were worth waiting for. With a storage capacity of 600,000 volumes, the building marks the first time in 20 years that CSU's library collection has been under one roof.

To house this material, the building has been divided into three general reference libraries, housing social studies, the humanities and the sciences and technology on separate floors. Students who get lost looking for a book in these areas can call the central information area for the library via direct telephones placed in the stacks to get help in locating it.

Among the other new features in the complex are an audio-visual center, an area devoted to student listening on tapes, seminar classrooms, faculty studies and faculty and student typing rooms. In addition, an art gallery has been located on the upper floor to eventually contain collections from the university art department.

As pre-registration looms ahead at the University of Michigan, students are getting a chance to air their likes and dislikes on courses given this past semester in all schools and colleges there, answering survey questions for a course description booklet being compiled by eight major student organizations.

Due for completion by the middle of February, the booklet will in turn aid the student in choosing his upcoming courses, and will indicate the effect these courses are having on those just completing them. With 10,000 questionnaires, these groups are probing the opinions of both dormitory and off-campus students on the structure of the courses themselves, including whether the subject stuck in the textbook, and information on the preparedness of the instructor, the number and type of papers required and the value of the reading list.

With such an aid, to be printed as a supplement to the university's Michigan Daily, the student will be able to have some conception of a course before he gets into it, an asset in a large school where the student often relies only on what he overhears about good courses and instructors.

Students at the University of Texas will be taking part in a pioneer research effort to gain an all-over picture of the student body as they register for their second semester this year. By filling out questionnaires with 23 basic inquiries on the college student, they will be taking the first step toward the formation of UT's new IBM data processing bank, which will eventually gather and store a description of each student on magnetic tapes.

Designed to answer administrative questions more readily, the project will include information on student housing, jobs, scholarships, degree status and family backgrounds that will serve to give clues to student attitudes, the university's effect on them and the effects of cars and types of housing on grades. In addition, the information will serve as material for studies on dropouts and campus subgroups, as well as campus office work.

In processing the information, the answers to the questionnaire will be fed into the Testing and Counseling Center's new document reading machine, which will punch it into ID cards and identify each student by his social security number. This machine will read through new and existing registration information, together with past grade reports, to come up with an over-all profile on the student.

Texas recently took another step forward, this time broadening the public image of the university as it began broadcasting a new 30-minute public service program entitled "Introspect," now carried over 35 stations throughout Texas. Produced by the University radio-television departments, the program has been designed to clearly define the aspects of education and give the educator a chance to discuss his views outside the classroom.

During these broadcasts, the college instructor can cover informally any questions on past and present students that might be raised by prospective collegiates, their parents, and their teachers. Included in this first informative series will be a study of what the university really is, the relationships among colleges, schools and research units, a professor's obligation in the creative end of an education, and other aspects of today's centers of higher learning.

Many factors overlooked in implicating drinking drivers

(Editor's Note: This is the last in a series of articles on "Iowa's Drinking Driver," based on research done at The University of Iowa.)

While the presence of alcohol in a driver may well be a major contributing factor in some accidents, in others its presence may only be a minor factor or no factor at all, says a University of Iowa researcher.

In his interpretation of the findings of a study of 921 drivers, Harold A. Mulford, director of the U of I Division of Alcoholism Studies, says:

"In our determination to implicate drinking drivers as a cause of accidents, it is often overlooked that there are multiple contributory factors in any accident."

"WHEN numerous contributory factors are present, they may appear in a variety of combinations, he said, and any given factor may not operate to the same degree or even in the same direction.

"Future research should study the possibility that an observed association between accidents and drinking patterns may in part reflect the fact that drinking habits are a good indicator of other behavior and attitudes which operate on the highway to cause accidents," he said.

"It is reasonable to suppose that just as increased driving experience tends to improve driving skill, so greater experience with alcohol and, particularly, experience in driving under the influence, generally improves one's ability to do so.

"IN ANY CASE, greater experience in drinking and driving — especially if the experience is accident-free — probably raises the driver's self-confidence that he can safely handle a car when drunk.

"Since about 85 per cent of the high probability drivers reported no accidents over a three year period preceding our study, it is apparent that many drivers have repeatedly demonstrated to themselves that they can safely drink and drive," Dr. Mulford said.

"The high probability drivers were those who said they had on occasion consumed three or four drinks and then driven within two or three hours."

"It is likely that some drinking drivers have learned to define the drinking-driving situation in such a way that they avoid accident situations and compensate for any impairment there may be in driving ability.

"WE MAY suppose that educational safety campaigns, although they obviously have not eliminated the drinking driver, have in many cases induced him to be extra cautious to avoid accident situations. For example, he reduces his speed, hugs the side of the road, and comes to a complete stop at intersections."

Informal comments from law enforcement officials, said Dr. Mulford, indicate that it is not uncommon to observe such drivers and that they are usually suspected of being "under the influence."

"This is all consistent with the notion that many drinking drivers have convinced themselves that they 'can handle it,' said Dr. Mulford, adding that future studies should probe more deeply into the subject's definitions of himself as a driver, as a drinker, and as a drinking driver.

"It is becoming increasingly clear that drinking behavior and, perhaps, drinking-and-driving behavior is in large part socially determined. A host of social-psychological variables operate on the highway that cannot all be controlled in the laboratory, even if they were known to the experimenter.

"LABORATORY demonstrations of the physical effects of alcohol may have little to do with actual performance on the highway due largely to the subject's definitions of the situation.

"For example, his motivation, his thoughts and reasoning are probably quite different when he is on the highway and when he is in a test situation," Dr. Mulford said.

A similar, but much larger, study needs to be done in Iowa to obtain a more accurate description of the social characteristics of the drinking driver, his exposure to accident situations, and the conditions under which he operates a motor vehicle, Dr. Mulford said.

"WHILE accident rates are undoubtedly closely related to exposure to accident situations, our study did not cover this area. Time, distance, speed and driving conditions are all involved.

"We need to know, for example, who has the greater exposure to accident situations, the driver traveling 90 miles in one hour on a four-lane highway or the driver traveling 80 miles in two hours over a country road?"

"A larger study should also seek to learn more about the types of accidents. While other studies of drinking and driving have usually been concerned with more serious — often fatal — accidents in highly urban areas, our research has covered a wide range of accident types and driving conditions in a relatively rural state.

"THIS FACT dictates caution when comparing our findings in Iowa with drinking-driving studies which have been done in other states.

"While we await more precise studies to discover the exact extent and nature of the effects of alcohol on driving performance, society will undoubtedly continue to wage education and law enforcement campaigns against the 'drunk driver.'

"It is hoped," said Dr. Mulford, "that our study is at least the first step toward identifying the target population."

Music, Singing, Dancing, Lots of Fun Accompany Iowa City Man on the Piano

By STEVE DE WOLF
Staff Writer

"Say, Oggie, when's the piano player get here tonight?" quipped a man sitting at the tavern's dimly-lit piano-bar.

Oggie, a rotund, bespectacled man, turned and grinned. "He should be here pretty soon. Stick around," he said, his voice an amused growl above the noise and the music he was pounding out of the old upright.

THE CROWD around the piano-bar laughed. But they weren't laughing because the piano player had been put down by the man's remark. They were laughing because the man's verbal jab and Oggie's retort were a joke, an absurdity—a bit of the banter and fun which inevitably accompanies Ogden ("Oggie") Frazier every time he plunks his 200 pounds down at a piano key-board.

For 19 years Frazier, 44, has been one of the most popular bar-room musicians in the Iowa City area. His style, which he terms simply "rhythm piano," and his music, tunes of the 1920's and 1930's, have survived other trends and fads.

Frazier's piano work is a sideline, "a night-time profession." After 25 years as a machinist and tool-maker, he recently began working as a medical photographer in the Department of Ophthalmology at University Hospitals.

BORN IN IOWA CITY, Frazier is married and has a son, 22, and a daughter, 16.

Frazier's formal musical training includes six months of piano lessons when he was in eighth grade and instruction in the trumpet and trombone in elementary school and high school.

He began playing in earnest while stationed with the Seabees in New Guinea during World War II.

"Soon after I got out there the Navy brass found out I could play a little piano, so they ordered me to form a group," he recalled. "I tried to protest, but you

"My band is in the rebuilding stage right now," he explained. "All I've got is myself and a guitarist."

In the meantime, Frazier is doing solo stunts at various social clubs in town.

During his 19 years as an entertainer, Frazier has built up a sizeable following, and this following has made him a boon to tavern owners who hire him. One tavern owner estimated that his business increases 65 per cent or more when Frazier plays.

Although his following is composed largely of middle-aged persons, it is not uncommon to see college students gathered around him, singing one of his favorite tunes of the 1930's or perhaps dancing to a gently swinging version of his favorite song, "Moon-glow."

APPARENTLY college students do not consider Frazier's piano styling square. "Oggie's a relief after all this rock stuff," one student remarked. "His music is everything music should be—listenable, danceable and singable."

Frazier attributed his ability to draw crowds wherever he plays to his repertoire of almost 2,000 songs, including some classical pieces, and to his willingness to play requests.

Frazier's performance always includes more than just the "honky-tonk" sound of his music. He also has a gravel-voiced singing style which cuts through the noise of a bar.

The ad-lib nature of a Frazier performance makes it impossible to predict just what will happen when his hands work at a key-board. But one thing is certain—there will be good music, singing, dancing and a lot of fun.

L.B.J. Urges Continued Arms Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson urged Congress Friday to continue the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency another four years to help "intensely our efforts" as the leader in the "purposeful pursuit of peace."

HIS REQUEST for prompt action got a generally warm reception in Capitol Hill, with predictions that his recommendations will be approved in just about the form he asked. There was only a ripple of protest and a comment by Sen. George O. Aiken, R-Vt., that the four years might be cut back to two.

Johnson is expected to ask for $55 million to run the agency over the next four years.

Noting that four years ago the United States became the first nation to establish such an agency, he said its "record of achievement since has refuted the doubts of those who questioned whether there was effective work for such an agency to perform."

"While the journey toward peace remains long," Johnson said, "we have begun to take the first steps—and we have found others of the family of nations willing to walk with us."

JOHNSON SAID while America remains strong, ready and vigilant to defend its own freedom and that of its friends, "we must also be vigilant for opportunities for improving the hopes for peace."

The President stressed the need to halt the spread of nuclear weapons, to lessen the risk of war and to reduce the dangers and costly burden of armaments.

The President's letter to the House and Senate was accompanied by one from the agency director, William C. Foster, saying: "Attempts directed toward arms control and other measures to lessen the threat of war are no longer Utopian dreams."

"THE WORK of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency has become an integral part of our over-all national security. Armaments alone can no longer increase security; the unchecked increase of these weapons of mass destruction can only diminish our safety."

Foster said new authority is needed because the agency does not have funds to continue beyond the end of the present fiscal year, June 30.

Dance Theatre Offers 'Discovery IV' Tonight

"Discovery IV," the first Dance Theatre offering of the year, opened Friday night at the Studio Theatre. The concert will be presented again at 8 tonight. Proceeds from both performances will go to the Art Gallery Fund.

Scheduled program highlights included a dance set to music by three University professors; "The Mad Tea Party," which featured characters from Alice in Wonderland; "Academia," a two-part avant garde dance; "Les Souffles," a satiric comment on ballet; and a dance based on the morality play, "Everyman."

Students in the Dance Theatre group choreographed and handled all aspects of staging their dances, and designed and made their costumes.

University Graduate Promoted at Maytag

John Wickenkamp, a University of Iowa graduate, has been promoted to senior tool design engineer at the Maytag company in Newton.

Malaysia Wants Deeds, Not Words

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Prime Minister Abdul Rahman and other Malaysian leaders challenged President Sukarno of Indonesia Friday to prove he wants peace with Malaysia.

"Sukarno's words are honored more in the breach than in the observance," Rahman said. "His words will not null us into a state of unpreparedness."

The leader of this anti-Communist federation praised support Malaysia has received from Britain, Australia, and New Zealand, its Commonwealth allies, and pledged "we will spare no money, time or energy in strengthening our defenses."

Sukarno told a news conference in Jakarta Thursday he would abide by a United Nations decision to solve the Malaysia question peacefully despite Indonesia's announced withdrawal from the world body.

He also held out the possibility of using an Asian-African commission for peacemaking purposes, and urged Rahman to "come back" to the negotiating table.

Malaysia's Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak, called for Sukarno to pull his troops back from the Borneo frontier with Malaysia and halt his guerrilla campaign inside Malaysian territory. He said Su-karno "must prove he wants peace by deeds, not words alone."

A government statement demanded that Indonesia "cease hostilities and all acts of aggression" if it wants a peaceful settlement.

"After the experience of a series of abortive peace talks with Indonesia," the statement said, "Malaysia naturally would rather see a genuine demonstration of the professed desire rather than hear mere suggestions of it."

Marlboro Trio Appears Today In Macbride

The Marlboro Trio will appear at 8 p.m. today in Macbride Hall under the auspices of the Friends of Music. The trio is composed of Mitchess Andrews, piano; Michael Tree, violin, and David Soyer, cello.

STUDENT tickets are on sale for $2 at Eble Music Co., West Music Co., and Campus Record Shop. Regular admission is $3.

The program consists of "Trio in E Major, K. 542" by Mozart, "Trio" by Kirchner, and "Trio in F Minor, Op. 65" by Dvorak.

"Trio in E Major" is performed in three movements, "allegro," "andante grazioso," and "allegro."

"Trio in F Minor" is performed in four movements, "allegro ma non troppo," "allegretto grazioso," "poco adagio," and "allegro con brio."

THE MARLBORO TRIO was formed in 1961 and takes its name from the Marlboro Festival in Vermont.

Andrews, a native of Iowa City, studied at the U of I, the Philadelphia Conservatory, and the Juilliard School of Music. He received degrees from Juilliard in 1951 and 1953, and has served on its faculty.

Tree has appeared with several major orchestras, including the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. He made his Carnegie Hall debut at the age of 20.

Soyer appeared as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy at 17. He is a former member of the Bach Aria Group, and the Gulet Quartet. He has made solo appearances at Carnegie Hall and Town Hall.

Iowa Sports Spectacular

Wrestling

BY BILL PIERROT
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa wrestlers face one of their stiffest assignments of the season when they meet three tough teams in dual meet competition in the Field House today.

Teams in the meets will be Indiana, Minnesota, and Ohio State. Action is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

"All three teams are tough and well balanced," according to Iowa Coach Dave McCuskey.

"Ohio State beat Illinois, 28-8. We beat Illinois too, but not by that much. (The score was 16-10). Minnesota took third place in a tournament at Northwestern, with only Northwestern and Ohio State finishing ahead of them. Indiana tied Michigan State in an early season meet, and Michigan State beat us last week, 18-10."

Competition will begin at 9 a.m., according to McCuskey. Each team will compete in two meets in the morning on the basketball court, and will resume at 1:30 in the north gym. Two mats will be in use at all times, allowing two matches to be going on simultaneously.

This morning, Iowa will meet Ohio State, and then Minnesota. At the same time, Indiana will meet Minnesota, and then Ohio State.

"This is the first time we've had this type of meet here," McCuskey said. "However, we have participated in them at other Big 10 schools."

Wrestling for Iowa will be Tom Bowman, 123, Bill Fuller, and John McCarthy, 130. Bob Rausenberger, 137, Ray Davis, 147, Wilbur Devine, 157, Dennis Wegner, 167, Tom Finnely, 177, and Roger Schilling or Steve Moss, heavyweight.

Joe Greenlee, who placed third in the conference meet at 147 last year, re-injured his knee at practice Wednesday night. He had injured it early in the last season, and had just returned to action last Saturday.

Mej Weiland, winner of the Big 10 title at 167 last year, quit the team for personal reasons this week, according to McCuskey.

McCuskey said it is too early in the season to accurately judge his men as to possible placings in the Big 10 finals, but did comment on a few of them.

"Roger Schilling is one of the most improved men," he said.

"Bob Rausenberger, a sophomore, looked good at Michigan State last week in beating his opponent," he commented.

"Bill Fuller is always real tough. He met a real outstanding man at Michigan State last week." (Don Behm outpointed Fuller, 6-3).

"Tom Bowman did a nice job at Illinois, and looked good at Michigan State last week," he said.

Gymnastics

By CHUCK WANNINGER
Staff Writer

The Iowa Gymnastics Team will open its home dual-meet competition today when it meets Ohio State and Michigan State in separate dual meets at the Fieldhouse at 11 a.m.

The gymnasts defeated Wisconsin in their first dual meet last weekend at Madison. The Badgers had previously been unbeaten in five non-conference meets. Last week Iowa Glenn Gailis won four of six events and defeated Wisconsin's Fred Roethlisberger for the all-around title.

This year, for the first time, one gymnast for each school in the meet competes for the all-around title. The winner scores four points for his team and the loser scores two.

Also new this year is the ruling that the team with the best dual meet record is the champion of the Big Ten. In previous years, the final Big Ten meet determined the team champions.

Coach Dick Holzapel of the Hawks said that Michigan State was probably one of the best teams in the conference. He said that he did not know much about Ohio State as they have not had any dual meets so far this season.

Michigan State is paced by Jim Curzi, a master on the high horizontal bar, who won the All-around Big Ten title last year by edging Iowa Glenn Gailis.

Captain of the Spartans is Dave Price, who competes on the horizontal and parallel bars. He is the brother of Dan Price of the Hawks. Also outstanding for MSU is Ron Aure, who competes in free exercise.

Of special interest to Hawk fans will be the performance of Glenn Gailis. A member of the U.S. International Gymnastic Team, Gailis will compete for the all-around title for the Hawks. Though seemingly a master in every event, Gailis' best event is the still rings, where he exhibits tremendous form, grace, coordination, and pure strength.

Competing for the Hawks on the high bar will be Gailis, Dan Price, and either Barry Keely or Bob Singerman. Gailis, Keely, and Ke Heller will perform on the still rings. Gailis, Heller, and Ken Gordon will compete on the side horse.

Pete Drozdowicz, Heller, and Gailis will compete on the parallel bars. Gailis, Bill Sayre, and Tom Goldsboro will compete in the free exercise event. Sayre, Rich Feby, and Jeff Stein will compete for the Hawks on the trampoline.

Coach for Michigan State is George Szypula, and coach of the Ohio State Buckeyes is Joe Hewlett.

Basketball

New Iowa's basketball team will attempt to beat Michigan State all over again — just one week since the 85-78 victory at East Lansing.

This time in the home field house, the Hawkeyes will go after the Spartans — and their third Big Ten win — in a 3:30 p.m. game televised as one of the conference's Saturday afternoon series.

Iowa, with 2-1, now is tied for third place with Indiana and Illinois in the current standing. Michigan State has played only Iowa and has a 0-1 mark.

Iowa fans can look forward to another "pressure" basketball game since the Spartans will probably employ a carbon copy of the zone press used by Indiana to counteract the various pressing defenses thrown up by the Hawkeyes, said Coach Ralph Miller.

Miller expects the Spartans to be equally as tough the second time around. "They have had a week to prepare for the game with plenty of time to correct their mistakes and analyze ours. It will be of double importance for them to win on our court."

"We must make a better effort to screen out Michigan State on rebounds. For a rather small team, they have some excellent jumpers who out-rebounded us at East Lansing. They scored 12 points on second shots and Indiana scored 18 which shows that we must improve in taking down defensive rebounds," Miller added.

"Because we weren't able to put the game away after having them on the ropes last Saturday, Michigan State knows that they will have a chance to win since they stayed in the game without making a field goal in the last nine minutes," he said.

For all games, Iowa (7-5) has averaged 84.5 points to opponents' 76.5 and Michigan State (4-6) has 85.8 to foes' 88.2. Iowa has a field goal percentage of .475 and Michigan State is shooting .411.

Best Spartan scorers are Stan Washington, average of 22 points per game; Bill Curtis, 18.6; and Marcus Sanders, 15.7. Iowa will offer Chris Pervall, 20.8; George Peoples, 16.5; and Gerry Jones, 13.8 as the three high men.

As Iowa hit 54 per cent of its field goal attempts in the first Michigan State game, Pervall was Hawkeye high with 24 points. Spartans had Sanders at 27, Washington 25, and Curtis 18.

Other outstanding Spartans include Dick Gretzinger, butterfly and individual medley All-American, and Darryle Kifer, who has swum a :21.8 in the 50 freestyle event.

Walter Richardson, the Big Ten 100-yard butterfly champion, paces the strong Minnesota team. Also outstanding for the Gophers is Mike Stauffer, who competes in the dash events.

ROBUSTELLI RETIRING—STANFORD, Conn. (AP) — Andy Robustelli, 13-year veteran of the National Football League said Friday he was "severing my ties as a player and coach with the New York Giants."

"After careful evaluation of my personal future, I have decided to devote full time to my sports promotion business," Robustelli told the Stamford Advocate.

Swimming

The Iowa swim team will meet Michigan State and Minnesota at individual dual meets today at 1 p.m.

The Hawks open the Big Ten dual meet season with a 2-0 record. They defeated Kansas, 62-32, and Nebraska, 63-32, in meets last weekend.

Last week Hawkeye Ron Berry set a record in the 200-yard breaststroke as he splashed the route in 2:20.3. The Hawks also set a record in the 400-yard medley relay with a time of 3:48.8. In the event were Jim Cook, backstroke, Ron Berry, breaststroke, Paul Monahan, butterfly, and Bill Sjostrom, freestyle.

Iowa divers Michel LaVois and Bill Kanter swept the diving events against Kansas and Nebraska. LaVois will be trying to get a good start toward matching last season's record when he won seven dual meets in a row.

Ralph Bestine will swim in the dash events for the Hawks, the 50 and 100 freestyle. Hal Bigler will compete in the 200 and 500 freestyle.

Michigan State is paced by Gary Dilley, Dilley, a 1964 silver medal winner in the Olympics, may compete in the backstroke, the 50 freestyle, and the 100 freestyle. He has broken the world's record in the 200-meter backstroke event.

Other outstanding Spartans include Dick Gretzinger, butterfly and individual medley All-American, and Darryle Kifer, who has swum a :21.8 in the 50 freestyle event.

Walter Richardson, the Big Ten 100-yard butterfly champion, paces the strong Minnesota team. Also outstanding for the Gophers is Mike Stauffer, who competes in the dash events.

Passing Duel Expected in Transplanted All-star Game

HOUSTON (AP) — A passing duel between Buffalo's Babe Parilli and Kansas City's Lenny Dawson is expected Saturday in the transplanted American Football League All-Star game, possibly the last football game of the season.

Because the game was shifted to Jeppesen Stadium from New Orleans after 21 Negro players walked out, only about 20,000 are expected. About 65,000 were anticipated at the Sugar Bowl. The shrunken gate receipts will result in lower benefits to the player pension fund.

The game will be carried on ABC television, starting at 2 p.m. EST, with the Houston area blacked out. The television sponsors are paying $75,000.

In many respects it will be almost a rematch of the title game in Buffalo Dec. 26 when Lou Saban's Bills beat Sid Gillman's San Diego Chargers 20-7. Saban and Gillman again are the opposing coaches and Buffalo has 10 players on the East's 29-man squad and San Diego 11 on the West team.

Parilli's best target will be Buffalo ends Elbert Dubenion and Ernie Warlock, flanker Charlie Hennigan of Houston and Gino Cappelletti of Boston. It was the Parilli-to-Cappelletti combination and Gino's field goals that kept Boston in the pennant race until the last game.

Lance Alworth, the fleet flanker of the Chargers, has recovered sufficiently from a knee injury to take over the starting role. Alworth, Haynes and Art Powell of Oakland are the West's top receivers.

Little Hawks Win

By MARLIN LEVISON
Staff Writer

Iowa City's Little Hawks came up with the better effort on offense, defense, and board work here last night, and put down a highly rated five from Cedar Rapids Jefferson, 74-62.

The Little Hawks faced a full court press the entire contest, but came through unscathed. Good team passing and fine floor play on the part of Dick Benbot set up many of Iowa City's twenty-nine goals. Bob Martin and Leo Vitosh worked over both boards thoroughly to give the Little Hawks that much needed board advantage.

The J-Hawks jumped off to a quick lead, but were able to hold it for only the first four minutes. From then on the hustling Little Hawks were never on the short end of the point tabulation. The two teams traded buckets evenly after a 16-13 first quarter score, and went into the half-time break with Iowa City holding a 36-33 advantage.

Jefferson came back with a man to man defense in the third quarter, but found no added success. Iowa City had built their lead to seven points by the time the third quarter buzzer sounded, and they still had their best quarter ahead of them.

The final period saw the Little Hawks break the game wide open, establishing a gap as wide as fourteen points with three minutes of playing time left.

Mike Roberts and Leo Vitosh led the balanced Iowa City attack with 18 points apiece, while Al Jenkins and Bob Sample paced Jefferson with 19.

A Versatile Medium—

TV Opens Exciting Vistas For Classroom Use at SUI

This is the first of four articles concerning educational television and its function at SUI. Reporter Neyens will present the history of educational TV and its functions in the College of Dentistry and Medicine in ensuing articles.

By HARRY NEYENS
Staff Writer

Television — a medium whose educational history on the SUI campus goes back over three decades — is presently being used in three colleges at the University, and has only begun to open exciting vistas for future education.

Threatened as are other colleges and universities by growing enrollment, SUI has become a leader in the utilization of the new educational medium in an effort to make the most efficient use of classrooms and faculty.

The University is now employing educational television for instruction in the colleges of Liberal Arts, Dentistry and Medicine.

This semester more than 500 undergraduates are members of the educational television class "Introduction to Geography" taught by Kennard W. Rumsage, associate professor of geography.

Professor Rumsage is being assisted by 10 graduate teaching assistants and the SUI Television Center production staff.

Though this is not the initial use of classroom television in the College of Liberal Arts, it is the first time an entire course has been taped and then transmitted via closed-circuit television to classes. Tapes are usually made by Professor Rumsage a week before presentation.

Professor Rumsage's tapes are on the air "nine times a week — being telecast three times each on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings. The lectures, which run from 15 to 20 minutes, are shown by 18 class sections. The sections range in size from 20 to 45 students.

At the end of the lectures the television sets are turned off and graduate assistants conduct discussion periods for the remainder of the class hour. The discussions are based upon the preceding lectures and frequently upon questions raised during the television lecture by Professor Rumsage.

According to Professor Rumsage these class procedures have resulted in a much more unified class program.

In the past "Introduction to Geography" lectures were given for one hour a week to three sections composed of 150 students each. These sections were broken into smaller groups of 30 to 40 students, which were led by teaching assistants, and which met twice a week for an hour.

"I found that by the time the students were in their discussion sections — sometimes two days later — the point I had been trying to make in my lecture had soured," Professor Rumsage said. "There appeared to be little unity in the program."

All classwork in the television course, such as map exercises, is prepared before hand by Professor Rumsage. Maps and charts used as visual aids in the lectures are frequently mimeographed and distributed during the discussion period or before the lecture begins.

Sometimes Professor Rumsage visits the various class sections. Since his lectures are taped, he is able to observe the teaching assistants during the discussions as well as his own performance in the lectures.

An informal interview conducted by Professor Yaeger with 22 students of the geography course revealed the students in general like the course and are pleased with the quality of the television production.

A few reservations were made by students concerning the use of visual aids and Rumsage's rate of delivery. These two things, however, are now being corrected by Rumsage and the production crew which, except for the engineers and director, is composed of television students.

The television lectures have resulted in its originators taking a second-look at one of education's traditional theories: that a "good" discussion group must be a small discussion group.

"We have found that it is not necessary to break up into small classes," Professor Rumsage said. "A class of 40 to 45 students is just as effective as a class of 15 to 20."

Two television sets are used in one of the larger classrooms. The students like this, Professor Rumsage said, since it permits them to shift their attention from one set to another instead of concentrating on just one screen.

Professor Rumsage said one of the greatest benefits of the program is that he can reach more students in his lectures than ever before.

The greatest problem he is having, Professor Rumsage commented, is getting his scripts prepared in time for taping. He said lately he has been writing up to the deadline.

Comparing his television lectures to ones he has presented in the conventional manner, Professor Rumsage said his television lectures are better prepared in terms of material content and organization.

He noted, however, that because his television lectures are concise, students must take notes at a hurried rate. Next semester, Professor Rumsage said, he intends to prepare abstracts of his lectures to be distributed to the students before the lectures are presented on the television.

"This way the students will have a knowledge of what a particular lecture will cover, and they will not have to take as many notes," Professor Rumsage explained.

"I hope to be able to visit each class section at least once a week next semester," Professor Rumsage said.

He emphasized that his greatest responsibility is to his students. "I must be a living person to them — not a television image," he said.

"The question in education today is how to sufficiently handle the growing number of students and how to do it to the students' advantage," Professor Rumsage stated. "Television appears to be a salvation for education."

John B. Kuiper, acting director of the Television Center, predicts that in the next three to five years there will be a tremendous growth in the use of educational television in the College of Liberal Arts.

"Closed-circuit educational television is growing rapidly," he remarked.

When the new classroom building, which is to be wired for television, is completed, it will greatly augment the present television facilities, Professor Kuiper said. Now the only building in liberal arts with television cables is the Old Armory where the Television Center is located.

It is possible to install television cables in campus buildings which are in use, but it is more expensive than wiring buildings under construction, Professor Kuiper explained.

He noted that several areas in liberal arts had expressed interest in television for instruction. Two he mentioned are the Department of Geology and the School of Religion.

How well a particular course is suited to the use of television depends upon the instructor, the number of students, and the course itself, Professor Kuiper said. Courses which involve the employment of visual material can be adapted to television quite effectively, he commented.

A program to exchange television tapes with the Big Ten universities and the University of Chicago is now under consideration, Professor Kuiper said.

The exchange at first will probably consist of tapes of courses on the graduate level of study. Under the program, SUI will send out tapes of its outstanding lecturers and receive similar tapes from the other institutions, he explained.

Today's News Briefly

KENNEDY TEAM MEMBER BREAKS AWAY — The first break in the John F. Kennedy White House team which President Johnson inherited came Wednesday with the resignation of special counsel Theodore C. Sorensen. The 35-year-old Nebraska lawyer will leave the White House staff at the end of February to write a personal account of his 11 years with the assassinated chief executive.

COURT UPHOLDS ESTES SENTENCE — The eight-year prison sentence given Billie Sol Estes was upheld Wednesday by Texas' highest court. Estes, whose financial bubble burst with millions in losses by leading companies coast to coast, has 15 days in which to seek a rehearing.

SEN. MILLER SAYS — Livestock producers should write President Johnson "by the thousands" and voice their objections to increased imports of foreign meat, Sen. Jack Miller (R-Iowa) said Wednesday. "I gave up on Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman," said Miller.

BUILDING SKELETON COLLAPSES — The 12-story steel and concrete skeleton of an apartment house collapsed in Paris Wednesday, killing at least 15 workmen. Eighteen other workmen were injured. About 10 men are still missing under an estimated 100,000 tons of debris.

TEETH FOR HOUSING LAW — Robert C. Weaver, U.S. housing administrator, announced Wednesday a model agreement with Minnesota designed to put Federal teeth into enforcement of the state's fair housing law. The pact would provide for Federal sanctions for violations of state laws which, in many cases, would permit the Federal Government to act where it now is powerless under the limited provisions of the executive order against racial discrimination in housing. Agreements are expected with 11 other states that have no-discrimination laws.

Robin Hood, Dragons Seen In Dance Concert Tonight

"Discovery III," the Contemporary Dance Club's mid-winter dance concert, opens at 8 tonight in the Art Gallery of the Art Building.

The dances and costumes of the concert are designed by 13 student choreographers, under the supervision of the group's sponsor, Marcia Thayer, instructor in physical education. About 40 students, most of them currently enrolled in dance courses, will participate.

Costumes range from stylized medieval in "Robin Hood" to the entirely fanciful in "Wind Waves of a Paper Dragon." "Robin Hood" is choreographed for a large group by Mary Lynn McRae, N4, Des Moines, while "Wind Waves of a Paper Dragon" is a solo by Richard Palan, A4, University City, Mo.

Mrs. Thayer, the only non-student in the group, will dance in a suite set to Edith Sitwell's poetry; this suite includes duets, trios, and solos. Other dances are to poetry, drums, chamber music and recordings.

Lighting and sound are managed by Louis Bradford, A4, Tucson, Ariz. This is the first time the mid-winter dance concert has run for two nights. It was necessary be-

$7.5 Million in Rice Sold To Russia by United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department authorized Wednesday the first sale of rice — $7.5 million worth — to the Soviet Union since U.S. policy was changed a few months ago to permit large sales of commodities to Iron Curtain countries.

The department also issued a new export license for the sale of an additional $13 million worth of wheat to the U.S.S.R.

Another license was issued for the sale of $2.5 million worth of wheat to Czechoslovakia.

The department first announced that the export license for $2.5 million worth of wheat was to the Soviet Union, but later said this was an error and that Czechoslovakia was the destination.

The new wheat licenses bring the total proposed wheat sales to the U.S.S.R. to about $286 million.

Based on an average price of about $2 a bushel, this figures to about 143 million bushels of wheat. However, about two-thirds of the wheat transactions are on a tentative basis. Certain conditions must be met before final approval will be given by the Commerce Department on the tentative export licenses. These conditions were not announced.

"We have added years to their lives, now let us add life to their years," said Mrs. Harriette Hale, director of the Iowa City nursing home, Greenwood Acres at the Optimist Club Wednesday.

Mrs. Hale described the programs which she hopes to initiate at the nursing home which began operations last fall.

"Trying to find something for the people to do," Mrs. Hale said, "is one of our most immediate objectives. 'What I do not want,' she added, "is a patient sitting around with nothing to do. In such situations, patients tend to become depressed."

Mrs. Hale said local groups and organizations who wish to entertain the residents are welcome.

University graduates in physical education have been invited to work with the patients. "This would not only give the students valuable experience, but supply them with good material for a thesis," Mrs. Hale said.

She refers to this program as "recreational therapy" instead of "occupational therapy," which merely trains the individual for a future job.

Mrs. Hale is a practical nurse and on call for the home 24 hours per day.

Mahan applauded the verdict as "a milestone in Iowa history."

If the special session follows the mandate of the court and brings in re-apportionment along the guidelines the court has set down, we will have fair apportionment in Iowa, he said.

Plans Big Welcome—

Daytona Beach, Fla. Likes Students

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — With spring and semester vacations approaching, this resort community is getting ready to welcome an estimated 60,000 vacationing collegians.

The gathering of the college students to enjoy the Florida beaches and the warm Atlantic surf has been the cause of controversy in the past but Daytona Beach has settled that problem for at least two years. The city last spring re-elected the entire incumbent City Commission for the first time in history. The incumbents took the position of welcoming the collegians to the city and received strong support from both businessmen and residents.

DAYTONA Beach civic groups are expected to follow the example of the Jaycees in promoting "name" entertainers for the spring holidays. The Jaycees last year drew over 7,000 paid admission for their Peter, Paul, and Mary concert. Last year's festivities also found many well-known entertainers roaming the beaches to provide free entertainment for the beach parties in progress.

MOST OF THE motels in the area report advance reservations are already coming in. They are cooperating this year to form a "clearing house" to provide accommodations which will be within the budget range of the collegians.

Bud Asher, owner-manager of the "Unofficial headquarters" for vacationers, the Safari Beach Motel, predicted that his motel will be booked "solid" long before the vacations begin. The Safari caters entirely to collegians during the spring holidays and has been the site of feature articles in the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, and Time Magazine. Chet Huntley's NBC news special "Where The Boys Went" was also filmed at the Safari.

SUI Credit Union Meeting Today

The SUI Employee Credit Union will hold its 26th annual meeting today at 6:30 p.m. in the River Room of the Union.

Al Jordan, Managing Director of the Iowa Credit Union League, will be the speaker for the evening. Committee reports, election of three directors for a three year term, and by-law changes will be the order of business for the meeting.

Entertainment following the business meeting will be coordinated by Louis Loria, a member of the Board of Directors.

SUI Researchers To Study Role of Doctors on Public

The role that a doctor or nurse plays in local community affairs will be investigated by researchers from SUI this summer under a $30,946 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The grant, which has been awarded to the Iowa Urban Community Research Center at SUI, will enable sociologists to visit Fort Dodge and one other Iowa city, to be selected later, to study the influence and contributions of those in the health-related fields to the economic, political and social life of the community.

Among the groups to be studied are physicians, surgeons, dentists, podiatrists, osteopaths, optometrists, nurses, public health workers and hospital administration employees. In addition, ir/rivers also will be conducted with members of the business community and residents for comparative purposes.

Residents will be asked to evaluate the contributions of health professionals and those in the business world, their general social standings, and to what extent they receive and take advice from both groups.

The first part of the study will be conducted in Fort Dodge, which was selected because it serves as a medical and health center for a large area in north central Iowa. Another city in eastern Iowa will be selected later for comparative purposes.

William Erbe, project director and associate director of the Iowa Center, stated as far as he knew this will be the first study to investigate the image of the professional in the eyes of the public and his impact and contributions to the community welfare and economy.

Assisting Erbe in the study will be James H. Parker, research associate in the Center, and students from SUI and Iowa State University in Ames.

Sulowan Given $1800 Scholarship

Carol Ingraham, A4, Clinton, has been awarded an $1,800 scholarship to the School of Applied Social Sciences at Western Reserve University in Ohio, where she will be a graduate student next fall.

The award, offered by the National Institute of Mental Health, pays $1,800 plus tuition. Miss Ingraham, a senior in sociology and a member of Gamma Phi Beta social sorority, presently serves as Panhellenic President and is a member of Mortar Board and AWS General Council. Last year she served as Pageant Board Secretary, editor of "Code for Codes," and Greek Week Dance Chairman.

She has also been house president and scholarship chairman of her sorority.

Migrant Workers Decline—MEXICO CITY (AP)—

The government announced that 185,516 migrant farm workers went into the United States last year, compared with 194,978 in 1962.

SAFETY TIPS FROM IOWA-ILLINOIS

Light For Safety

Make a light safety check of your home now! Start outdoors. Steps and walks leading to the home should be well lighted to protect your family or guests. Also, outside entrance lights should be located at each door to your home and garage.

Indoors — "booby traps" on stairs and in other spots should be eliminated with safety — giving light at your finger-tips. In addition:

- Always have a lamp near your bed.
- Put a low-wattage night light in the children's room.
- Have plenty of light for those dark corners in the basement.

Be sure your home "light up" for safety. Lights cost so little, yet it protects you so well.
