VA Hospital Shutdown Protested

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate hearing on plans to close many veteran's medical facilities across the nation opened Friday in an avalanche of angry protests demanding that President Johnson block the move for further study.

Senator after senator arose to object to any shutdown of Veterans Administration hospitals, particularly those serving his own state. Leading the way were Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

But VA Administrator W. J. Driver vigorously defended the plan, saying that centering the program on large urban hospitals near medical schools is a sound way to provide more and better care for veterans.

This does not mean, he added, that "all our hospitals can or will be located in heavily populated medical centers or affiliated with medical schools."

"I am convinced that on a national basis the decision was sound," the VA chief told the Senate Veterans subcommittee.

"We will do our best to lessen the impact of dislocation on these veterans, communities and employees who are adversely affected," he said.

Driver, a career man with the VA, is serving as administrator under recess appointment while awaiting Senate confirmation. During a recess in the hearing, a Senate vote on confirmation was deferred for the second time this week at the request of Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt.

And Prouty introduced a resolution urging Johnson to call off any actual closings until the Senate subcommittee determines whether they "will decrease or improve service to honorably discharged veterans."

The VA plans to close down, by June 30, 11 hospitals and four domiliary facilities — VA homes — and consolidate 16 regional offices.

Mansfield, in tones ranging from scornful to harsh anger, used such words as "heartless... false economy... outrage... forgotten" veterans. Dirksen argued that the purported economy move "isn't going to be a net saving at all." He said it would cause "pain and misery."

Among congressmen speaking out against the Veterans Administration plans were Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, and Rep. John C. Culver, D-Iowa. They entered protests against closing the Veterans domiciliary at Clinton, Iowa.

Sen. Miller said he is not convinced by the claim that $1.1 million could be saved annually by closing the domiciliary center at Clinton. Also, he said, closing the hospital at Lincoln, Neb., would make it difficult for veterans in western Iowa.

Rep. Culver asked the committee to take action to suspend execution of the VA order until congressional hearings are completed.

"It is particularly urgent that this be done very soon. VA stations included in the order are already being affected," Culver said. "Services are not being extended to new applicants and employees are being asked to file requests for change of employment."

As Gift to U. of Arizona

'Town Tightwad' Gives $30,000

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A miser, says Edgar C. Park proudly, is a man who lives within his income and saves a bit.

That's what Park, 55, has done since 1941.

A big, friendly man, he went to work 24 years ago as a ditch digger in the Arizona copper mines for $3.20 a day. A few months later, he was married.

In the intervening 20 years before Park retired as an electrician for the Phelps Dodge Corp., he invested every penny of his earnings in securities.

He and his wife, Louise, lived entirely on her earnings as a teacher and lived in the same $20 a month company house. They had no children.

"I was known as the town tightwad," Park said.

Their first investment was $1 a share for stock in a razor blade company. In the 1950s they sold it for $50 a share.

All of his free time was spent studying the stock market, calling brokers, and reading business publications. By the time Park retired in 1961 he owned a fortune in diversified securities.

He and his wife now live in a plush Phoenix apartment but otherwise do not live lavishly.

They drove to Tucson in their medium-priced 1961 car this week to present University of Arizona officials with $30,000 worth of securities — the first of an endowment of $100,000 which they have pledged.

A similar endowment was presented to the University of Kansas, Mrs. Parks' alma mater.

Under terms of the Arizona gift, Mr. and Mrs. Park will receive dividends from the stock as long as they live. Park said he and his wife will donate $100,000 over five years and will continue to contribute to the university as long they live.

Britain's Walker Replaced After Losing Race for Seat

MICHAEL STEWART
New Foreign Secretary

LONDON (AP) — Patrick Gordon Walker resigned Friday as Britain's foreign secretary after two humiliating failures to win a seat in Parliament. He was replaced by Michael Stewart, 58, who has been education minister in Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party government.

Gordon Walker's loss of the House of Commons seat from the dreary East London suburb of Leyton — up until Thursday considered safe for the Labor party — was a staggering blow to Wilson's government. British newspapers called it a savage humiliation.

A POLITICAL crisis seemed possible just three months after Labor came back to power after 13 years of Conservative rule.

Jubilant Conservatives predicted Wilson might have to dissolve Parliament, where Gordon Walker's defeat reduced his razor-thin majority to three votes, and call new elections perhaps as early as this spring.

Stewart is a mild-mannered former teacher with an Oxford University background. He has been described as a strong all-around member of the Labor party team and a possible future prime minister.

STEWART has a reputation as a pro-European man and had held minor Cabinet posts as parliamentary secretary at the War Office and the Ministry of Supply when Labor was last in office.

Anthony Crosland, 46, was named to succeed Stewart as education minister. He formerly held the post of economics secretary to the treasury.

A Conservative exulted in the House of Commons that Wilson's government was in power thanks only to the uncertain support of the nine Liberal party votes in Parliament.

Liberal Leader Jo Grimond notified Wilson that his party will support the government only when it agrees with its policy. He specifically said in a radio broadcast that the Liberals will vote against the Labor party on the controversial issue of the nationalization of the steel industry.

Today's News Briefly

WHILE SIR WINSTON CHURCHILL lingered near death Saturday, a new Churchill—a great-grandson—came into the world.

The baby was born to the wife of Sir Winston's grandson and namesake, Winston Spencer Churchill, 24, and his wife Minnie, Friday night shortly after a medical bulletin reported a decline in the 90-year-old statesman's condition.

Like that of Sir Winston himself, the birth of the baby was premature, friends said. A spokesman at Westminster Hospital, not far from the Churchill residence, said that mother and child are thriving.

Barry Blames Self For Election Loss

CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans, following their unity script, elected Ohio's Ray C. Bliss as national chairman Friday. And Barry Goldwater told them he was personally to blame for the landslide election loss that led to their family feud.

Outgoing National Chairman Dean Burch, the man in the middle of the GOP fight, was praised by word and by resolution after he formally stepped aside.

GOLDWATER, who chose Burch for the chairmanship, said Burch has been blamed for decisions Goldwater made himself.

"If mistakes were made, it was my fault," Goldwater told the Republicans National Committee.

"I accept the full responsibility for this. I just want to have people stop blaming the wrong people for this and get going."

Goldwater said he hopes future national chairmen will not be chosen by Presidential nominees. He said the national committee should make its own decisions.

AT THE SAME TIME, the former senator said circumstances were not right for a Republican in 1964, declared he was saddled with "false liabilities" and added, "we were not fighting the Democratic party, we were fighting the Federal Government."

While the change in Republican command signaled the end of the conservative Goldwater's dominance in the GOP, the national committee passed a resolution urging him "to continue his role as an outstanding leader in helping achieve the goals the Republican party seeks for our nation."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said the settlement that led to Bliss' election may have been Goldwater's "greatest service to date."

"We could have continued on a collision course," he said. Nixon said Goldwater has more devoted personal followers than any Republican since Theodore Roosevelt.

In 2 Separate Cases —

2 Area Men Take Own Lives

Two area men took their own lives Thursday and Friday.

Dead are Edward Knebel, 52, of Route 2, Riverside, and Donald James Watt, 43, of 1816 Muscatine Ave.

Mr. Knebel died early Friday morning of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. His death was ruled a suicide by County Medical Examiner George Callahan.

Requiem high mass will be at 9:30 a.m. today at St. Joseph's Church, Hills. Burial will be in St. Stanislaus cemetery. The Knights of Columbus rosary was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday and the parish rosary for 8 p.m.

Mr. Knebel, who was born Feb. 22, 1912, in Sharon Township, was the son of Linus and Adeline Knebel.

Survivors include five brothers, Melvin, John and Andrew, all of Riverside, Wilfred and Guy of Boulder, Colo., and a sister, Mrs. Bernadette Mougou of Fairfield. A brother preceded him in death.

Services for Mr. Watt, whose death was ruled suicide by hanging, are scheduled for 2 p.m. today at Beckman's Funeral Home. The Rev. John Craig will officiate. Burial will be in Memory Gardens.

The son of Albert and Helen Watt, he was born Dec. 21, 1921. He is survived by two brothers, Dale and Richard, both of Iowa City. His parents preceded him in death.

Parking Rules Still in Effect

The rules for reserve and restricted parking areas will remain the same during finals week, according to University Police.

In the past several days, University policemen have experienced an increase in parking violations. Lt. Oscar Graham said many students apparently thought the rules on the lots did not apply during finals.

Johnson May Ask Highway Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Administration may ask for increases in some highway taxes at the same time it requests reduction or elimination of other excise levies.

Authoritative sources said today no decision has been made on taxes which provide revenue for federal-state highway projects, but they said an additional $500 million a year will be needed if the 41,000-mile interstate highway system is to be completed on schedule in 1972.

President Johnson is expected to ask for reduction or elimination of excise taxes which would mean a revenue loss of about $2 billion. Johnson is scheduled to present to Congress Monday his budget for the fiscal year which begins next July 1 but it may not include details of his excise tax proposals.

Coralville Council Outlines Project For City Complex

Plans for a municipal complex were outlined Thursday by members of the Coralville City Council.

An estimated 50 persons, representing several Coralville organizations, attended the meeting.

The proposed project would be financed by general obligation bonds. Councilman Virgil Mortenson said it is hoped a referendum on the issue can be held in early May.

Another councilman, Arnold Bartels, said the structure would be "functional, without frills," to meet the community's basic needs and to allow for the addition of other buildings as funds become available.

The Optimists Club is heading the drive for a community center and has indicated it will allocate funds from its service programs to purchase needed equipment.

Each of the organizations represented at the meeting was asked to appoint a representative and alternate to serve on a citizens committee which would work with the Recreation Commission in planning the complex.

Total Reaches 29 Following Investigation

Study into Classroom Examinations Continues School Officials Say

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — The Air Force Academy announced Friday night that 25 more cadets had submitted resignations in the investigation of reported cheating on classroom examinations.

The resignations brought to 29 the number of cadets who have voluntarily withdrawn from the academy since the investigation began. None were identified.

"WE STILL don't know how much further we've got to go," said the academy's information officer, Col. Richard Haney.

Haney said that "one part" of the investigation still blocked the way to a complete report on the cheating. He did not elaborate.

Earlier, the academy superintendent, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren, said those under investigation "represented a cross-section of the school's more than 2,500 cadets."

"SOME ARE athletes," Warren said, "and some were top-notch students."

Warren emphasized that the great majority of the cadets were not involved.

The academy has said its policy is not to identify any cadets leaving the institution.

"Cadets resign from time to time for a variety of reasons — grades, health, family reasons," the spokesman said. "The academy policy is never to disclose the names of cadets who leave."

"WE INTEND to follow the same policy in this investigation."

All cadets entering the academy are bound by the honor code, the chief tenet of which is, "We will not lie, cheat or steal, nor tolerate among us those who do."

The academy in its first statement Tuesday about the investigation said the alleged violations "were brought to light during the operations of this honor system."

New Motions Filed In Rights Case

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — Five of the eighteen persons arrested in connection with the slaying of three civil rights workers last summer asked U.S. District Court Friday for separate trials.

In one of a series of motions filed, the five contended the indictments returned by a Federal Grand jury at Jackson a week ago, together with previous publicity, would make it impossible for them to have a fair trial if tried together.

Other motions challenged the jurisdiction of the grand jury, asked for a jury trial and demanded that the government's evidence be submitted to the defense.

The Justice Department indicated in advance it would oppose all such motions when arguments are heard next Tuesday before U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox.

The motions stem from indictments returned against 18 men by a federal grand jury that probed the slaying of the young rights workers.

Detroit could alleviate the American massacre

In 1964, individual and family spending in the United States reached $400 billion, giving rise to yelps of joy about the new phenomenon of "consumerism." According to the National Safety Council, about $55 billion, or 21 per cent of the total, was spent for motor vehicle transportation.

This sum, almost as hefty as the Federal budget, includes the purchase and maintenance of cars, road construction, highway law enforcement, etc. — and also something that people would rather not think about: the money cost of death and damage and litigation resulting from highway accidents. The cost in anguish not even the biggest computer can calculate.

"An American massacre," it is termed in the December/January issue of "American Trial Lawyers," a publication of the American Trial Lawyers Association. From the inception of automotive travel at the turn of the century, powerful organizations like Consumers Union, Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Society of Automotive Engineers and the American Automobile Association have tried to cope with slaughter on the highways.

Little progress has been made in the most promising approach — automobile design safety. Detroit has given only token cooperation. Style, comfort, speed, status have been the industry's selling points.

"Consumerism," hypnotized by advertising, acquiescing votes for glamour until the fateful second when happy motoring changes to broken bones, torn flesh, agony and death.

In the same issue of "American Trial Lawyers," Ralph Nader points out that lawyers can help to bring the manufacturers to book by familiarizing themselves with the technical literature on automotive design, in which many a cat is let out of the bag.

He cites a paper delivered by a Ford engineer in 1963 that touted the safety features of the Mustang prototype, not one of which survives in the production model. A General Motors patent application of 1954 points out that a sudden stop "may cause injury to the head, face or steering device" and proposed to obviate this, but collapsible steering wheels are still almost unknown and the General Motors Corvair was subsequently equipped with a steering shaft that protruded beyond the leading surface of the front tires, so that in a left front-end collision the shaft might be driven backward and upward a foot or two, breaking the driver's neck in some instances. Because of the alleged instability of some Corvair models under some conditions, 50 personal-injury suits are pending against General Motors.

An article by Malcolm Kanan, a securities analyst, disposes of the widespread belief that the casualty insurance companies are losing money. On the contrary, most of them present a picture of economic health which, Kanan feels, "justifies investor confidence in the industry as a real growth vehicle." The gimmick is that prepaid premiums generate large amounts of investment income which is not figured in computing underwriting profit or loss.

The casualty companies will flourish in any case, but their volume of business can be reduced to reasonable proportions if the automobile industry is forced to incorporate proved safety features in its product. The Federal Government enforces safety in airplane design, although the 60,000 seats in all the air lines in the country are only a tiny fraction of the seats in automobiles. Congress has recently authorized the General Services Administration to set up design safety standards for the purchase of the government's own passenger cars.

That legislation can avail is shown by New York State Sen. Edward J. Speno's success in finally forcing Detroit to adopt seat-belt anchorages. This is the model for much more extensive advances in safety design.

Federal scholarship plan — Proposed program helped by other big aid measures

WASHINGTON — A Federal scholarship program that would aid up to 140,000 students next year heads the 200 million dollar education program President Johnson has presented to the 89th Congress this year.

Approval by spring of the scholarship program and Johnson's other education measures was predicted by Congressional and educational leaders.

In the House, Adam Clayton Powell (D-New York) the chairman of the Education and Labor Committee is aiming for sub-committee approval by mid-February, and full committee approval by March 1. If the House Rules Committee, which schedules committee-approved bills for floor debate, does not act on the education measure in 21 days, Powell plans to take advantage of the new House rule that will enable him to bypass the committee and call the bill directly to the floor.

IN THE SENATE, Wayne Morse (D-Oregon) chairman of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee, said hearings on the bill would start Jan. 26 and would probably last three weeks. He thought the education measure might come to the floor during the first two weeks of March. The possibility that this year's huge Democratic gains in the House might prove temporary could explain the speed of planned action.

According to Powell, "what we don't pass in Congress we probably won't be able to pass in the next generation."

The scholarship program will be augmented by several other huge aid measures:

- Expansion of the work-study program initiated this year under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. Work-study aid, which is currently restricted to students from low income families, would be extended to greater numbers of students and to students from middle income families.
- Partial federal payment of interest on guaranteed private loans.
- Expanded aid to medical students.

THE LOAN MEASURE was presented as "a more effective, fairer, and far less costly way to provide assistance than the various tax credit devices that have been proposed," Johnson said in his education message to Congress.

A 12 billion-dollar price tag has been put on tax credit proposals.

Tax credits were defeated 40-45 in a bitter Senate battle last February, upon administration promises of support for loans, scholarship and work-study programs. Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana last year introduced an omnibus student aid bill with such programs.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), the main proponent of tax credit measures, will not be giving up without a fight, however. Thirty-four other senators have already joined him in introducing a bill to provide tax credits of up to $325 for anyone who pays the college tuition expenses of a student. Forty senators who supported this measure last year are still in Congress. Four senators who opposed it then, one who didn't vote, and three newly-elected senators are among its sponsors.

ANOTHER PART of President Johnson's higher education program aids smaller colleges. Proposals in this area include:

- Faculty exchanges with other colleges and universities, as suggested last year by Congresswoman Edith Green (D-Oregon).
- Aid to faculty members of small colleges to renew and extend knowledge of their fields.
- Fellowships to encourage graduate students and instructors in large universities to augment the teaching resources of small colleges.
- Development of cooperative programs to make more efficient use of college resources.

President Johnson has also recommended support for the purchase of books and library materials; an urban extension program similar to the land grant colleges agricultural extension program; grants to universities for the training of librarians and the teachers of handicapped children; and increased support for research in a wide variety of scientific, educational, and humanistic fields.

IN ADDITION, Congress may be asked to deal with several other measures affecting students:

- A Cold War GI Bill sponsored by Senator Ralph Yarborough (D-Texas) and 30 other Senators. This would extend educational and other benefits to veterans who served after the GI Bill lapsed in 1955.
- Amendments to the Social Security Act to enable full-time students to receive dependent child insurance benefits to age 21 instead of age 18. Such amendments died last year when controversy over Medicare prevented action over Social Security.
- Moves to modify or end the draft. It will be keyed to a defense department study due in the spring.

The many higher education programs up for consideration this year, however, seem to be taking a back seat to the 1.255 billion dollar elementary-secondary school program.

This program includes $1 billion for aid to children of low income families; $100 million for school library resources and instructional materials; $100 million for supplementary educational services; $45 million for educational research and training; and $10 million for to strengthen state departments of education.

Provisions which would allow parochial school pupils to share public school facilities seem to have dissolved the traditional church opposition to Federal aid to education measures. They also have evoked approval from the powerful National Education Association and a number of Congressmen.

"Man, it's good to get back to the two-platoon system!"

Iowa ACLU surveys religion in schools

In an effort to assess the effect of the Supreme Court decisions barring religious practices in public schools, the Iowa affiliate of the American Civil Liberties Union has completed a survey of religion in Iowa's public schools.

Almost three-quarters of the 453 school superintendents polled responded, and of these 85 per cent denied a key question as to whether there are "organized prayers of any kind said during school hours."

Follow-up questions, furthermore revealed that only in very few cases — one or two per cent — were prayers read or recited in a majority of classes. In many cases where prayers were being said, the superintendent reported that a few teachers — usually in the lower grades or in kindergarten — were responsible, and that prayers were not a school policy. One superintendent commented: "I wouldn't be sure that no prayers are bootlegged into the school."

No superintendent said that in classes where organized prayers were said were all pupils in the class required to participate.

On a series of questions concerning with Bible reading during school hours, only ten per cent

To the Editor:

Time spent in the main library, Mr. Oosten, will, among other things, serve to show the limitations and oversimplifications inherent in the very nature of a dictionary. I am sure that your reading in the main library would also show you that it is an absurd oversimplification to say that "communism is a type of socialism."

One could say with the same accuracy, or lack of it, that monopoly is a type of free enterprise. There is an element of truth in both statements, but this element of truth requires a good deal of qualification and discussion.

Mr. Oosten, you obviously do see that there is a difference, but you do not appear to realize the very great importance of this difference. To ask a person to recognize a difference which "lies not in the end product so much but in the methods used to attain the end" is hardly redundant when the means are as disparate as they are in this case.

A socialist uses words as his means. Even if these words are mere pie-in-the-sky, no one is forced to accept them. The communist achieves his ends by force. This is not to say that a communist does not use words, but where they fail, as even Marx is sure they will, they not only use but welcome physical force. I think that it is perfectly legitimate to require differentiation between democratic and totalitarian methods.

To say that the ends of communism and socialism are the same means either that socialism includes the establishment of a totalitarian state (and it may, but those calling themselves socialists generally do not advocate this), or that the communists actually do intend to let the state wither away once world control is achieved (a somewhat doubtful premise).

Another important difference between communism and socialism is that socialism is primarily an economic system; communism is a theory of history, of sociology, of government, and of economics.

Fascism differs in at least this much from communism and socialism; capital, at least in theory, remains in private hands.

Fuzzy thinking is not a monopoly of the right; it may be found throughout the political spectrum. Because it is so easily recognized in an opponent, it is no excuse for ignoring it in our own thinking. I have tried to avoid it, but a blistering reply will probably soon convince me of my conceit.

Group of Negroes Kept from Entering Selma Courthouse

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A group of Negro school teachers was shoved down the steps of the Dallas County Courthouse by sheriff's deputies Friday when they wanted to register as voters. The Voter Registration Board was not in session at the time. The teachers, numbering about 100, tried three times to get into the courthouse and each time Sheriff James G. Clark and some of his deputies pushed them back down the steps with night sticks. No one was reported struck by the clubs and no one was arrested before the group finally walked away, two by two as it had arrived. Clark told the teachers when they reached the building that, "You can't make a plaything out of this courthouse." He gave one minute to clear the steps, then with the help of deputies began shoving the teachers back. They tried twice again and each time were shoved back. Then they left.

Sponsored by the Book-of-the-Month Club, Saturday Review and the Women's National Book Association, the contest is judged on the basis of knowledge, scope, interest, value and imagination. Entries must consist of at least 35 books.

Winner of last year's award was John Molholm, Ohio State University, for his collection on polar explorers and exploration. Amy Loveman was associate editor of the Saturday Review, judge of the Book-of-the-Month Club, and a member of the Women's National Book Association. The award was established in 1962.

Contest rules may be obtained by writing to the Amy Loveman National Award, 757 Third Ave., Suite 2400, New York.

House Would Pass Health Bill: Poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — As of now, the House would pass some version of President Johnson's legislation for health care of the aged, an Associated Press poll shows. The Senate passed the bill last year and Democrats have increased their strength there. And the party widened its House majority even more, so it appears that a decade of controversy will end in victory for the proponents of health benefits administered under the Social Security system and financed by payroll taxes. The Ways and Means Committee will decide the exact provisions of the bill sent to the House. Associated Press reporters reached 396 of the 435 House members with questions about health-care legislation.

Delegation Will Go to Ames

U of Iowans Plot Model U.N.

Politics, deal-making and prejudice are among the tactics to be used by the University of Iowa delegation to illustrate Communist objectives at the Iowa State University Model United Nations March 12-14.

ISU has been holding a Model U.N. for nine years. It is one of the largest Model U.N.'s in this district.

For the past two years, the U of I has represented the Communist bloc countries.

The other delegations at Ames are composed of foreign students who represent their own countries.

Both the Iowa State and the U of I delegations belong to the Collegiate Council of the United Nations (CCUN), a national student organization. The CCUN is devoted to building student support for the United Nations.

Committee meetings will be held at 6 p.m. Feb. 12 in Senate Chambers of Old Capitol. The General Assembly will meet at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 13 to discuss the issues decided at the committee meetings.

Tony Lema Takes Crosby Golf Lead

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema went to the front Friday in his bid to repeat as champion of the $84,500 Bing Crosby Golf Tournament with a six-under-par 65 and a midway total of 136.

The British Open king took a three-stroke lead with his sizzling round, which set a competitive record for the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's shore course.

CHARLEY SIFFORD, 41-year-old Negro from Los Angeles, and Bill Collins of Purchase, N.Y., moved into second place at 139. Sifford had 68 and Collins a 70 over the Monterey Peninsula course on an overcast, misty day.

Jack Nicklaus, the 1964 leading money winner, made his bid with a 68 to go into a seven-way tie at 140 with Bob Goalby who had a 68; Bill Casper, 70; Don January, 73; Doug Sanders, 71; Bill Ogden, 70, and Dave Ragan, 74.

PGA champion Bobby Nichols and five others were tied at 141. In the Crosby, each golfer plays each of three courses during the first three rounds — Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

FRIDAY PROVED gloomy for the first-round co-leaders, Doug Ford and Dave Ragan. Ford struggled around Pebble Beach in 40-40-80 while Ragan managed to stay in contention with his 74.

Arnold Palmer played Monterey and put a 72 with his opening 73 for a 145 total, well back in the field. The big names, who toured Cypress Point on Thursday, and Monterey on Friday, perform before national television in their third round.

U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi continued to experience more trouble, with a 75 for a 156 total.

Vikings Hire Faulkner As Defensive Coach

ST. PAUL, MINN. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League announced Friday they have hired Jack Faulkner, former head coach of Denver in the American Football League, as defensive backfield coach.

Faulkner replaces Harry Gilmer, who left the Vikings to become head coach of the Detroit Lions of the NFL.

Yale's John Pont Becomes New Indiana Football Coach

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — John Pont made the jump from the Ivy League to the Big Ten Friday and said after accepting the head football coaching at Indiana that "the pressures are the ones you put on yourself."

Pont, a winner at Yale and before that at Miami of Ohio, took the job of trying to lift Indiana out of the depths and started thinking about recruiting, spring practice — and building a house. He made it clear he expects to be around for some time.

"Time is against us," Pont said of the late start on 1965 recruiting. "By the time we get settled we'll have four to six weeks before the April deadline. But the present staff has been working."

He told a news conference in Indianapolis he would be glad to get back to spring practice, which he did not have at Yale.

The 37-year-old Pont accepted a five-year contract as Indiana head coach at undisclosed terms. Campus reports, however, said Pont will get $20,000 a year plus a new automobile every other year and his $3,000 annual contribution to the Indiana pension fund will be paid.

Pont, who compiled a record of 12 victories, five defeats and one tie in two seasons at Yale after putting together a 43-22-2 mark in seven years at Miami, succeeds Phil Dickens. Dickens resigned Dec. 22 when his request for reassignment to another post at the university was approved.

Indiana has not had a winning football season since Dickens' 1958 team put together a 5-3-1 record.

WON THIS TIME— CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Suburban Signal Mountain's 7th grade basketball team was unusually happy about Thursday's 28-26 victory over Saddy-Daisy's 7th grade.

It avenged an earlier 73-9 loss.

Purdue To Start Bob Griese Against Michigan

CHICAGO (AP) — Football star Bob Griese calls his first starting basketball game as Purdue guns for an upset of Michigan in today's key conference game.

It was sophomore quarterback Griese who directed Purdue to a 21-20 upset of Michigan last fall for the only defeat of the football season for the Big Ten and Rose Bowl champion Wolverines.

The Michigan, 2-0, versus Purdue, 1-1, contest, to be televised regionally, is one of three conference games on a Saturday program curtailed by semester examinations at most schools.

Northwestern, 0-2, is at Michigan State, 0-2, in another matinee, while Ohio State, 0-2, visits Minnesota, 1-1, for a night tilt.

Y. A. Tittle Retires; Remains As Scout

NEW YORK (AP) — Y. A. Tittle, the old Bald Eagle quarterback of the New York Giants, retired Friday after 17 years in pro football.

Tittle said he figured it was about time to hang them up at the age of 39 when rookie quarterback Gary Wood of Cornell not only "took my job away, but started to ask permission to date my daughter."

Actually, Tittle's daughter, Diane, is only 15, and he was only kidding about Wood's interest.

Tittle will be retained by the Giants as a public relations man, scout and general maker of friends. He will not coach.

The Giants will retire his number, 14, and turned the jersey and helmet over to Tittle.

"You take with you the affection and esteem of the Mara family, the Giants and all of New York."

University Must Not Ignore Religion Program: Spalding

"A university is falling short if it ignores religion in its teaching and research."

These words by Dr. James C. Spalding, acting director of the School of Religion, express the founding principle of the School.

Spalding pointed out some of the unique features of the SUI School of Religion: "As far as I know, it is the only state supported institution that offers a full program of undergraduate and graduate courses in religion."

The SUI School of Religion is supported by the combined funds of church groups, private foundations and the state of Iowa. The instructors are largely, but not exclusively, from the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths.

Spalding said that an undergraduate who is majoring in religion is required to complete 24 hours in the field of religion and also at least a year's work in Hebrew, Greek and Latin.

Although a recent Supreme Court decision rules out devotional practices in public schools such as saying the Lord's Prayer, Spalding said that religion can be taught in an academic way.

Lawyers of the school's advisory board prepared a brief on the recent Supreme Court ruling which concluded that the high court's decisions uphold the principle that religion courses can be offered by state institutions.

THE SUI school is governed by its advisory board, which "serves as a liaison between the University and the various religious denominations," he said. Each contributing religious group has one lay and one clerical member on the board.

The University representatives, however, have a majority. The board tries to make an estimate of the different religions, so that American sects will be properly represented.

IN SPEAKING of the future of the school, Spalding said, "We have a very stable staff and we plan to expand." He said there are plans to add two new instructors next year.

Zimansky Named Editor Of Journal

Curt Zimansky, professor of English and chairman of Core Literature at SUI, has been appointed editor of the Philological Quarterly. He succeeds Prof. Charles Woods, who wishes to devote more time to private studies but will continue to serve as an associate editor of the Quarterly.

The Philological Quarterly is a journal devoted to scholarly investigations of classical and modern languages and literatures, published by SUI and supported by the Graduate College. Now in its 43rd year of publication, it was founded in 1922 by Hardin Craig, then a member of the English Department.

Publication is in January, April, July and October each year, and circulation is approximately 1,500.

4 Receive Art Awards

Two students from SUI and two people from Iowa City, were among the 12 honorable mention award winners at an Omaha, Neb., art exhibit, it was announced Tuesday, Jan. 21.

Robert Knipschild, assistant professor of art at SUI, received the award for his oil paintings and Don Potts, G. San Francisco, was honored for his sculpturing.

The Eighth Midwest Biennial Exhibition of Paintings, Sculpture, Graphics and Crafts is now showing in Omaha's Joslyn Art Museum.

The two Iowa Citizens, Nan and James McKinnell, 934 Iowa Avenue, were awarded for their stoneware.

Spring Enrollment Expected To Drop

Donald E. Rhoades, registrar, expects that student enrollment for second semester will be less than the 12,923 total of the current semester. He added this was not unusual during the spring semester.

Rhoades also anticipates a possible increase of more than 800 students in the 1964 fall semester.

The SUI student population has been growing at a fast pace, according to Rhoades, stating that the fall 1963 enrollment was 800 over the fall 1962 enrollment.

The new registration procedures were established to facilitate the rapidly increasing number of students he said.

Students will be admitted to the Field House for second semester registration according to the last two digits of their student identification number.

Need Records For Plates

SUI students who live in Iowa but are not residents of Johnson County must have the records of previous automobile license purchases sent to the Johnson County Treasurer's Office before they can be issued a license plate in Johnson County.

Out-of-state students do not need to obtain an Iowa license unless they are earning money in Iowa.

Licenses not purchased by Feb. 1 will cost an extra five per cent a month, although fines for failure to display 1964 license plates will not be levied until after March 1.

The Motor Vehicle Department in the Johnson County Courthouse is open from 8-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8-12 a.m. Saturday.

Economy Base

Industrial advances in Iowa City have brought a needed base to the city's economy according to community leaders. The Procter and Gamble plant's production lines are representative of the light industry attracted by the Iowa City area. —Photo by Bob Nandell

Businessmen Explain Why They Came Here Industry—

it industrial growth would not have been as rapid or as much. "FOR EXAMPLE," Summerwill said, "our deposits in 1953 were $13 million. In 1963 they were $23 million. Even with the devaluation of the dollar the growth is significant."

"For the city, an example such as the Procter and Gamble plant should be given," Summerwill said. "Such a plant pays approximately $100,000 in taxes annually. In a town with an estimated 40 per cent of its property non-taxable, this industry is invaluable although the University remains as the largest economic factor."

"Industry has aided Iowa City because it has brought more and relatively well paying jobs into an area that once had a general labor surplus," said Robert Marsden, manager of the Procter and Gamble plant. "Iowa in general still has a labor surplus available to industry," he noted. "THE SUPPLY of skilled labor plus a favorable geographic location is credited by Marsden for bringing Procter and Gamble to Iowa City. Also, the company wanted 'a place attractive to both the management group and the workers."

"Basically, the modest industrial change in Iowa City has given people more optimism," Marsden said. "It has given the City Council, for example, impetus to go ahead on long range planning and has added one more needed base to the town's economic stability."

"Industrial development is seen as a 'two-way street' by Charles Dohr, manager of Iowa City's Owens Brush plant and past president of the Chamber of Commerce. "Industry has helped Iowa City, but the town has helped industry as well through cooperation in utilities and provision of a adequate labor supply."

"We were looking for the best central location within 300 miles of Chicago," Dohr said. "There was a lack of industry in the Iowa City area, and with mechanization of farms there was a good supply of labor. Moreover, Iowa City provided adequate land, and favorable tax rates.

"LOCATION OF industry," said Dohr, "is a tremendously competitive field. With the industries that have come in, Iowa City's ability to compete with other communities has increased. "In addition to the tax advantages of having industry," Dohr said, "it aids people's awareness of community growth. I think that without industry Iowa City would see fewer ideas develop such as urban renewal, a recreation center, and plans for a southwest by-pass."

"Compared to when I came here in 1945, Iowa City's mood has changed to 'let's move forward,' and I feel industry has aided this," said Fred Doderer, SUUI personnel director and past Mayor of Iowa City. "I wouldn't call Iowa City a sleepy college town anymore."

"HOWEVER, WITH the University remaining as a great stabilizing force we have not become a 'boom and bust' town. "Industry hasn't substantially changed the University's role as an employer," Doderer said. "We have felt competition for labor with industry, although gradual, and have felt it necessary to raise salaries of non-academic personnel to stay abreast. Further expansion within the area will continue to change the picture."

"The University, with approximately 4,300 full-time employees, will continue to dominate the employment market in Iowa City," Doderer predicted.

"The fact that the University expands means a consequent population growth," said Doderer. "These people contribute to the City Government through taxation, but residences just about pay their own way in providing City funds for utilities and services expansion. They don't put surpluses in the treasury."

"If any city expects to grow financially and have expanded services, one of their best hopes is to get industries," said Doderer. "These bring in taxes beyond the city's expense. However, it's worth it to the business to pay the city for services. It's not a case of 'soak the industry' for tax money."

Sen. Williams Raps Stereo Gift to President Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Testimony that Lyndon B. Johnson once accepted a free stereo set brought a critical statement on Wednesday from Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.).

"I see no difference in the acceptance of an expensive stereo than in the acceptance of a mink or vicuna coat, a Deep Freeze or an Oriental rug," Williams said. "I CONDEMNED THE Deep Freezes and the vicuna coats of the preceding administrations, and will not defend the stereo now."

Williams said he believes anyone giving gifts to public officials expects something in return, and "any public official who accepts such gifts is not so naive as to be unable to recognize that point."

Williams issued his statement after the Senate Rules Committee released testimony by Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance man, that in 1959 he gave Johnson a stereophonic record player costing more than $500.

JOHNSON THEN was the Senate Democratic leader, and Reynolds said he acted at the suggestion of Robert G. Baker whose outside business activities while serving as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority are under investigation by the committee.

Reynolds said he ordered the stereo set installed in Johnson's home after selling $100,000 insurance on Johnson's life. The insurance later was increased to $200,000 after Johnson became vice president.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Tuesday that Johnson never had any conversation with Reynolds about the record player and considered it a gift from Baker, "a long-time employe."

Reynolds also testified he was persuaded by Walter Jenkins, who handles Johnson's personal affairs, to buy more than $1,200 worth of advertising time on a Texas radio-television station owned by a Johnson family holding company.

Jenkins denied this in a sworn statement to the committee.

WILLIAMS' statement harked back to investigations of the acceptance of gifts by officials in the Harry Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower administrations.

"Under preceding administrations," Williams said, "the acceptance of lavish entertainment and large gifts by officials of the U.S. Government was strongly condemned, and it cannot be condoned now any more than it was then."

Illinois Bill Nears Vote To Elect At-Large Lawmakers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The stage was set in the Illinois House for passage today of a compromise plan for electing representatives at-large in November but its fate in the Senate was clouded by a new bill there.

Senators received the new bill from a subcommittee seeking a way to guarantee that all areas of the state would be represented by the 177 representatives to be elected.

After House passage today of its bill, it would be compared with the measure passed in a Senate committee of the whole Friday night. An immediate clash was foreseen over how many candidates should be nominated. The House bill calls for nomination of no more than 118 representative candidates by each party. Sen. George Drach of Springfield, Republican majority whip, said 177 candidates should be nominated by each party.

Another difference was that the House plan calls for primary election of delegates to party nominating conventions. The Senate plan provides for delegates chosen through county and township party machinery.

Boyle Seeks County Atty. Nomination

Daniel W. Boyle, 30, a 1960 graduate of the SUI College of Law, Wednesday became the first to announce the intention to seek the Democratic nomination for Johnson County Attorney.

Ralph Neuzil announced Monday he will not seek re-election for the post.

Boyle resigned Tuesday night as Iowa City Police Judge, a post he had held since July 1, 1963. The City Council, accepting his resignation "with regret," named another College of Law graduate, Robert W. Jansen, to replace Boyle.

THE COUNTY attorney's post carries a salary of $5,100 but with percentages on certain criminal proceedings the total pay is estimated to be several thousand more. The Police Judge position pays $4,000 a year.

Boyle is associated with Hart, Shulman, Phelan, Tucker and Ivie, a local law firm. He is a 1951 graduate of Iowa City High School.

IN ANNOUNCING his candidacy, Boyle made the following statement:

"If nominated, and later elected, I shall strive for a closer working relationship between the various law enforcement agencies of the state, the county, and the cities and towns within the County."

"I shall also continue the work which has been done in combating violations among recipients of social welfare payments. It is my belief that violations of the laws of Iowa should be vigorously prosecuted by the office of County Attorney.

Leikvold Outlines Municipal Plans For City Council

Carsten D. Leikvold, Iowa City city manager, in his annual letter to the Iowa City Council outlined important problems that will soon come before the council.

The city manager included in the report such problems as a new system for garbage collection; urban renewal and the hiring of a professional planner, in conjunction with the University; street and parking improvements, and higher sewer and water rates.

Iowa City and the University are working together in attempting to hire a professional planner who will work for both the city and the University, Leikvold said. He noted that this will make the planning more formalized. The annexation of areas bordering the city limits, was suggested by Leikvold.

Special Vote Slated Here For House Post

A special election will be held in Johnson County Feb. 18 to fill the vacancy created in the Iowa House of Representatives by the resignation of Scott Swisher (D-Iowa City).

Gov. Harold Hughes set the date Tuesday after receiving Swisher's resignation. Swisher is serving a six-month prison term in Missouri on Federal income tax charges. County central committees of both parties will nominate candidates for the post, as provided for in the state code.

The Johnson County Democratic committee plans to meet next week to nominate a candidate, according to Chairman John R. Schmidhauser. Schmidhauser is also an SUI political science professor.

The Republican committee will select a candidate the following week, according to its county chairman, Marion R. Neely.

The elected representative will join Bruce E. Mahan (D-Iowa City) as a Johnson County member of the state legislature which will begin a special session Feb. 24.

In his letter of resignation Swisher said that he was giving up the seat he has held since 1955 because this was the only way he could be sure that Johnson County would have its full representation in the special session.

Innocent Plea In Break-In

Arthur Cook, Las Vegas, Nev., arrested in a break-in at Hoag's Fishing & Boating Equipment, 943 So. Riverside Dr., Tuesday night was held in Johnson County jail Wednesday on a charge of breaking and entering.

Cook, 46, also was sentenced to 10 days in jail on a false check charge. Charles H. Snider, detective lieutenant, said the check was written in August 1963 to the Hy Vee Food Store, 227 Kirkwood Ave.

Cook, who was employed by Hoag's until a year ago, entered a plea of innocent on the breaking and entering charge. He was bound over to District Court after waiving preliminary hearing. He is being held in lieu of $1,500 bond.

Trapped inside Hoag's Tuesday night, Cook was wounded by flying glass shattered by a policeman's bullet.
