

Registration—Icy Walks, Cold Wind and Closed Sections

Students Flock To Warmth Of Field House to Register

By DALLAS MURPHY
Staff Writer

For the 18th time, University of Iowa students have been confronted with one of the most trying of collegiate experiences — spring semester registration.

A blustery Feb. 1 — complete with penetrating cold, slippery sidewalks and snow granules swept away by the wind — followed the precedent set by spring registrations of yesteryear.

Thousands of students flocked (those who were still capable of walking — the others limped, hobbled or crawled) into the steam-heated Field House pool area Monday where they were to begin the battle of the course schedules.

Registration, however, is not the drawn-out, complicated affair it used to be. Students found few lines at the sign-up tables Monday (once they had figured out the secret of getting into the main area), and the lines there were seemed to move rapidly.

But problems with registering never can be eliminated completely for the student. For some of the biggest problem seemed to be how he possibly could have misplaced that identification card he was so sure he had brought along.

For others, the problems were not so traumatic. Some knew where their I.D.'s were, but had somehow misplaced their advisers.

Some, of course, had to re-calculate their schedules five times because of one required course they could take only at 7:30 or 12:30 (but which they soon will discover is not required at all but only seems that way because of a misprint in their major department's "master plan.")

But all in all, things were looking better at the Field House this spring — the hustling, bustling, jostling mobs were at a minimum. The ordeal of registration perhaps was not as much of an ordeal as the student had feared.

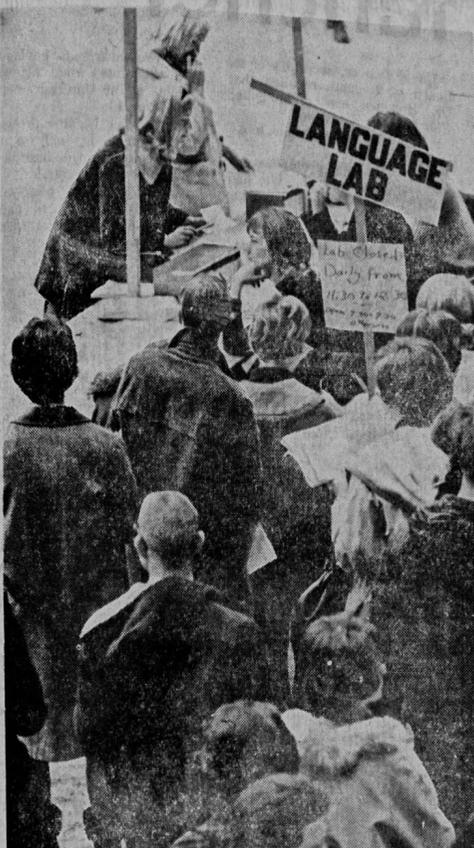

And once outside the door, he breathed a sign of relief. He had successfully met the challenge of another registration. He had escaped unscathed. He had triumphed over all the emotional crises which usually accompany registration. It all lay behind him.

Except the long walk home.

The Line Up

Students were backed up ten deep at the Language Laboratory table Monday at second semester registration. It was one of the few places where students had to wait in line at the Field House, however. Registration, for the most part, went smoothly.

Hancher Memorial Set

Special Rites Planned 3 p.m. Sunday in Union

A memorial service in honor of the late Virgil M. Hancher will be held in the Iowa Memorial Union at the University of Iowa Sunday at 3 p.m.

Hancher, who died following a heart attack Saturday in New Delhi, India, was the 13th regular president of the University, a post which he held from 1940 until his retirement last June 30. He had planned to rejoin the Iowa faculty in 1966 as professor of law and educational consultant after completing an assignment for the Ford Foundation's South and Southeast Asia program in New Delhi.

PLANS FOR Hancher's funeral service are still pending, awaiting Mrs. Hancher's return from India late Tuesday. It is anticipated that the service will be held toward the end of the week.

The University's special memorial service Sunday will be held in the first building for which Hancher had any responsibility — dating back to his student days in 1914-18 — the Iowa Memorial Union, social and cultural center for several generations of Iowa students and staff members. Hancher was a member of the earliest student-alumni committees which raised money to build the Union, and for some years after he left the campus he returned to help launch the annual fund drive among the students.

SPEAKER AT Sunday's campus memorial will be W. Earl Hall, U of I classmate of Hancher and for many years editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette. Prof. Robert Michaelsen, director of the University's School of Religion, will offer prayers, and music will be provided by the University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of James Dixon.

Planned to provide opportunity for the University community to honor Hancher's memory, Sunday's service will be open to all. It was planned by three long-time colleagues of Hancher, Deans Allin W. Dakin, Mason Ladd and Robert C. Hardin, who were appointed as a committee for this purpose by President, Howard R. Bowen.

UNIVERSITY FLAGS will fly at half staff until sundown Sunday. Mrs. Hancher is flying home and was to arrive in Chicago Monday. No funeral arrangements have yet been made, nor are any further details known of Hancher's death at this time.

Besides his wife and daughter, he is survived by a son, Virgil Jr., of Evanston, Ill., and three grandchildren. He was a native Iowan, born in Rolfe on Sept. 4, 1896, and held liberal arts and law degrees from the U of I, and a second arts degree from Oxford University, where he was a Rhodes scholar.

CONGO REBELS ATTACK—LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Congo) rebels Monday launched heavy attacks against the eastern Congo towns of Mahagi and Mwenaga. They held both towns for a counterattacking government troop while then were driven out by counterattacking government troops, army headquarters here announced.

Final Farewell

Virgil M. Hancher left the office of the president of the University of Iowa for the last time June 30, 1964, after serving as president for 24 years. Saturday he died of a heart attack in New Delhi, India. For tribute, see pages 2 and 3. —DI Photo

Won't Post Bond— Rev. King, 256 Others Arrested in Vote March

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was arrested with 256 other Negroes during a right-to-vote protest march Monday, and he refused to post bond when called before a magistrate.

Bond for all 257 arrested on charges of parading without a permit was set at $200 each.

After appearing before City Judge Edgar P. Russell, King told newsmen outside the courtroom that he did not intend to seek release on bond for the time being.

HIS TOP AIDE here, a fellow Negro minister, also declined to post bond.

Unless he does post bond he will remain in jail until his case is heard on Feb. 15. Maximum penalty for the offense under the city is 100 days in jail and a $100 fine.

Before returning to jail, King conferred with members of his staff and then told newsmen he would spend the night in jail and decide Tuesday whether he would seek release on bond.

The Negro residents of Dallas County who were arrested in the lineup march were allowed to sign their own bonds and were released late in the day.

KING WAS ARRESTED by city police while leading a march to the Dallas County Courthouse where other Negroes tried again to register as voters as they have for the past two weeks.

Arrested with the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize winner was one of his top aides, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy. King, Abernathy and their followers were charged with parading without a permit after disregarding a warning from Selma's public safety director, Wilson Baker.

While the integration leader and the others were being booked at the city jail, Negro students by the hundreds began picketing the courthouse where the voter registration board was in session for a one-day term.

APPROXIMATELY 30 Negroes were arrested for contempt of court by sheriff's deputies because, Sheriff James G. Clark said, they were interfering with a session of state court.

Judge James A. Hare, who was presiding over the court, fined the Negroes $50 and sentenced them to five days in jail for contempt after they refused to disperse when the sheriff ordered them to cease the picketing.

Johnson Aide Due Viet Nam Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sending his White House adviser on international security affairs, McGeorge Bundy, to Viet Nam Tuesday for consultations on recent events and conditions.

In announcing the mission for Bundy, the White House disclosed the President held one high-level meeting Monday at which the Vietnam situation was a prime topic, and had scheduled another with the National Security Council for 6:30 p.m. EST.

The White House said the council met for 45 minutes, discussing the Viet Nam situation.

Press secretary George Reedy said the decision to send Bundy to Saigon was not a matter of crisis. Rather, he said, it is to take the place of periodic trips Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor has been making to Washington about every two months.

"In view of the situation," Reedy said, "it is felt that it is preferable for the ambassador to stay there, and for Bundy to fly out and consult him."

Primarily, he said, Bundy will consult with Taylor.

He said he thought Bundy would be back in Washington next week-end.

Reedy said Johnson spent about two hours Monday afternoon in meetings with acting secretary of defense Cyrus Vance; Phillips Talbot, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs; William Bundy, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs; Undersecretary of State George Ball; McGeorge Bundy, and Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Student Picketers Battle Cold in Bookstore Protest

By JON VAN
Staff Writer

A handful of University students braved sub-zero weather Monday to demonstrate their unhappiness with Iowa City's bookstores.

The students, led by John Cheeks, Decatur, Ill., held signs protesting book prices as they shivered in front of Iowa Book & Supply, 8 S. Clinton St. At one point, the management of the store supplied the picketers with hot coffee. Ray Vanderhoef, store manager, explained, "they look pretty cold out there."

A LETTER explaining the purpose of the demonstration was sent to owners of Iowa City's bookstores Monday. Four points outlined in the letter were: 1) the University should establish a full time book co-op; 2) students should support the Student Senate book exchange as much as possible; 3) bookstores should use paperbacks; 4) students should receive more money for used books and-or buy used books at lower prices.

Merle Wood, A4, Cedar Rapids, organizer of the picket and author of the letter, emphasized that the picketers were not trying to force one bookstore to lower its prices through a boycott.

Wood had said earlier the purpose of the picket would be to force one bookstore to lower its prices by channeling all student business to the Senate exchange and the other commercial bookstores.

ORIGINAL PLANS have changed, according to Wood. The purpose of the picket is now to publicize the four points outlined in the letter and to demonstrate student support to the University.

Bob Katz, A2, Chicago, another leader of the picket, stressed they are not concerned with new books, but only used books and paperbacks.

Katz said his group would picket Hawkeye Bookstore from 1 to 4 p.m. today. "An awful lot of students broke out the picket, however we did divert some traffic," Katz said about Monday's demonstration.

$15 Million More for Education—

Legislators Say Hughes Budget Slight Schools

DES MOINES (AP) — Several Republicans and a key Democrat found fault Monday with Gov. Harold Hughes for not asking for more money for education in his record $254.6 million budget.

However, Democrats generally approved of the program in broad terms without committing themselves on details.

The total is about $46 million a year more than the present $208 million annual budget.

The Democratic governor took 44 minutes to read his speech telling the legislature what he wants it to appropriate and how he thinks these things should be financed for the two-year period beginning next

July 1. There was no interruption for applause.

House Speaker Vince Steffen, D-New Hampton, said "a big question is in the field of education. The challenge is to transform those who were needed in the past for menial labor into thinking workers."

"I was gratified to hear the governor recommend $6 million for a vocational-technical school system, but I had thought perhaps it might be more."

Rep. Floyd Edgington, R-Sheffield, the House minority leader, said the $15 million Hughes proposed for additional state aid to schools is the only property tax relief proposal in the budget — and he said this will be gone in two years because of rising school costs.

Sen. David O. Shaff, R-Clinton, said: "For those who feel education should have a priority, there is little room for comfort in the governor's message."

But Hughes drew praise from most legislators of his own party.

Lt. Gov. Robert Fulton, D-Waterloo, said he expects the legislature to enact tax changes to raise about the amount of increased revenue that Hughes requested, though perhaps not in exactly the way he requested. Fulton said the budget "expressed very well the needs of the state."

Sen. Joseph Coleman, D-Clare, Appropriations Committee chairman, disagreed with some of the critics. He said the $15 million asked for additional school aid plus another $3.75 million for agricultural land tax credit to bring this fund to $15 million a year "will be a considerable help to local taxing bodies."

The governor's recommendation for spending $254.6 million in each year of the biennium is matched by anticipated income and $8.2 million to be spent from reserves, estimated to be $28 million at the end of this fiscal year.

He asked for more money for almost all departments of state government, but few would get as much as they asked the governor to recommend. His annual total is $90 million short of what the departments wanted.

Hughes called for stepped-up welfare appropriations especially for aid to dependent children and medical assistance to the aged. He recommended pay increases for most employees and, as a fringe benefit, authority to pay up to 25 per cent of premiums on an employees' health insurance plan.

He set out an increased capital improvements program for most agencies except the Board of Regents, and called for 100 more men in the Highway Patrol.

The governor called for tax changes which he said would add $22.4 million a year to state revenue.

Among these was inauguration of an individual income tax withholding system, much like the federal government's.

He would extend the 2 per cent sales tax to hotel and motel bills, laundry and dry cleaning, barber and beauty shop services, and would repeal the sales tax exemption on trade-ins, such as used cars and farm equipment.

Iowans pay tribute to Dr. Hancher

Dr. Hancher's love: an example for all

PRES. VIRGIL HANCHER was one of the most famous and devoted educators Iowa has ever produced. His life-long love, of course, was the University of Iowa.

When Dr. Hancher retired as president last summer, he said, "I have had a love affair with the University of Iowa for so many years that any affection for it can never die. It is my hope that every student who follows me will have that same rich experience."

Virgil Hancher's love for the University began when he started his education here in 1914. It seems to have increased every year since then. During Dr. Hancher's 24 years as president from 1940 to 1964, he led the University to a tremendous growth in enrollment — from over 6,000 to over 13,000.

President Hancher saw the University confer more than half the degrees of its 114 year history during his term. He saw the University gain prominence in the areas of medical science, space physics, and liberal arts under his administration.

But Dr. Hancher's work was not limited to the University. He had been president of the State Universities Association; the National Association of State Universities and the Association of American Universities. He served as chairman of the American Council of Education and the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association.

His work was of international as well as national significance. He served in 1959 as a member of the U.S. delegation to the 14th General Assembly of the United Nations.

Even after his retirement as president, Dr. Hancher had no intention of retiring as an educator. He was working in India for the Ford Foundation as a consultant in higher education.

Dr. Hancher had planned to return to Iowa City next year to take an appointment as professor of law and educational consultant.

Dr. Hancher's abilities were many and great, but the love he had for his profession is perhaps the greatest of his attributes. That unceasing love which permitted him to work so long, so hard and so well serves as an example to every field of endeavor. It is that love which is the most important factor in making a truly great man.

The Daily Iowan joins the entire University community in extending its sympathies to the Hancher family. We have all experienced a great loss.

—The Editors

Iowans throughout the state joined in expressing sorrow at the death of former University Pres. Virgil Hancher Saturday.

Gov. Harold E. Hughes said he was "shocked and saddened" by the death of Dr. Hancher.

"He devoted the major part of his life to raising the level of education in the state of Iowa and under his administration the University achieved national recognition.

"His contributions to the betterment of our state and its people will long be remembered. My heartfelt sympathies go out to Mrs. Hancher and members of the bereaved family."

PRES. HOWARD BOWEN said, "Virgil Hancher was a warm and friendly man who will be missed by every student and faculty member who knew him during his long tenure at Iowa.

"I am perhaps in a little better position than most to recognize the contribution which he made to the advancement of this University and there is no question but that he performed great work during his 24 years of dedicated service.

"After those years of strenuous service to his state it is regrettable that Dr. Hancher was unable to enjoy the years of new interests and slower tempo which he had anticipated.

"I had particularly looked forward to his return to Iowa City and to having the benefit of his friendly advice.

"The entire University community extends its deepest sympathies to Mrs. Hancher and the Hancher children. The University, the state and the educational world have sustained an irreplaceable loss."

ALFRED W. NOEHRN, chairman of the Board of Regents, called Dr. Hancher "one of the finest men I have ever had a chance to work with.

"He, as president of the University of Iowa, helped build one of the greatest schools within the state.

"His mannerisms in conducting meetings with us were always very helpful. I am personally very much indebted to him for his teaching. The last 3 1/2 years that I have worked with this gentleman has been an educational process to me."

Dr. Bruce Mahan, dean emeritus of the University and representative to the Iowa Legislature from Johnson County, said, "When he became president, those of us who had known him were delighted.

"His 24 years of service saw the University grow and develop into one of the finest in the United States. He became an outstanding leader in the field of education.

"His death will mean a great loss to the field in which he has become so firmly established. His many friends, including myself, are shocked and grieved.

DR. JAMES HILTON, president of Iowa State, said "Virgil Hancher will be remembered as one of the greatest presidents of the University of Iowa.

"He was one of the state's most able and effective educational leaders, for a quarter of a century."

David Dancer, secretary of the Board of Regents recalled that Dr. Hancher was often called "Mr. Higher Education."

"That title certainly fits him," Dancer said.

"His death is a great loss for the work he was in. We had looked forward to his coming back and giving a great deal more of himself."

DANCER SAID he and Dr. Hancher were old friends, having become acquainted while they were students at the University before World War I.

Dr. Hancher became president of the University only a few months before Dancer first joined the staff of the Regents.

"We had worked closely together for many years and I admired him a great deal," Dancer said.

BOARD OF REGENTS ENTRANCE

Virgil M. Hancher

Sept. 4, 1896, to Jan. 30, 1965.

President of the University of Iowa, 1940-1964.

Glory of intelligence praised by Dr. Hancher

(The following are excerpts from the last commencement address Dr. Hancher made as president of UI, June 5, 1964.)

With calculated intent, I address you today as "Fellow Students." This has been your status for the last four years or more, and some of you may be looking forward to release from that bondage. I urge you to give that prospect a second thought.

Although you are to graduate today and in a few moments will have your degrees, you should remain students and learners for the rest of your lives. If this University has not created within you a desire for a lifetime of learning for its own sake, it will have failed in one of its principal obligations.

TODAY the one most certain thing in your lives is that you will not live in the kind of world in which your fathers and grandfathers lived. Indeed very soon you will not be living in the same world in which you are living today — any more than I am living in the primitive world of my own youth.

I am not so much concerned about the environment in which you live as I am about how you will live in your environment. I am not so much concerned about what the environment can do to you as I am about what you can do to the environment.

In other words, I am concerned, about you, about each one of you, as the most precious thing in the world — a vital, intelligent, responsible, purposeful human being. I am not concerned with you as a passive object in the stream of history, but as an actor, a doer, an achiever who helps control and direct the stream of history.

In these days of quantitative thinking, it is very easy to reduce the individual to a statistic. For actuarial purposes this may be a useful device, but it has no value for you or me in the building of your curriculum vitae, in determining what you as a separate and distinctive individual are or may become.

You certainly will have need of a lively and disciplined intelligence. It is one of the teachings of the Church of Latter Day Saints that "the glory of God is intelligence."

What a magnificent conception that is. I can think of churches whose credibility and conduct could be improved by placing these words high in their essential teachings. I hope that these words — the glory of God is intelligence — can be engraved on your memory and become a part of your life.

DO NOT be put off by the occasional lack of vision of those with whom your lot may be cast. You will be saddened, as I have been saddened from time to time, by the sight of small men handling large affairs in a small way.

Be concerned that when opportunities for service come to you, whether they be large or small, you approach them with the habitual vision of greatness.

Today we — both you and I — stand at the threshold of a great adventure. Much of your life is before you; much of mine is past. But I like to believe that the world always beckons to the young in heart.

And if that be true, my heart tells me that I can join with you in hope and courage as we face the uncertain future.

To you who are young in years and I hope, young in heart and spirit, I offer my felicitations.

Service, honors filled Dr. Hancher's life

Pres. Virgil Hancher, who represented the University for nearly a quarter of a century, left a tradition of service and scholarship behind him when he retired last July.

Time magazine said of him in 1957, "he possesses three important assets. They are an innate understanding of what a university is, a deep affection for that which is his own and a native's sense of the Iowa way of doing things."

Born on a farm in Pocahontas County in 1896, Hancher graduated from Rolfe High School in 1914. He enrolled at the University of Iowa that same year.

DURING HIS undergraduate years, Hancher joined Sigma Nu, social fraternity, Delta Sigma Rho, fornication honorary fraternity and the Zetaganian Literary Society.

Dr. Hancher graduated at the top of his class in 1918. He was also president of the senior class and elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary society.

He returned to study law at Iowa a year later after serving in the U.S. Naval Reserve. Hancher was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship in Oxford, England, and received his B.A. in jurisprudence there in 1922.

He returned to Iowa and was graduated from the College of Law in 1924 and went to Chicago where he practiced law for 16 years.

ENROLLMENT at the University in 1940, when Dr. Hancher became its 18th president, was 6,667, about half of what it is now. Since then the University staff has doubled and the payroll has grown by 550 per cent. The campus in 1960 was 350 per cent the size of the 1940 campus.

Research grants to Iowa have multiplied 24 times since Dr. Hancher took over in 1940. The University has grown from a $8.4 million enterprise in 1940 to one of over $100 million now.

In the entire 116-year history of the University, Dr. Hancher conferred more than half the degrees awarded.

Dr. Hancher had had over 40 articles and speeches published in professional journals, and had been awarded the George Washington Honor Medal for outstanding scholarly writing by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge twice.

He had served as an executive committee member and chairman of the American Council on Education; as president of the State Universities Association and as president of the National Association of State Universities.

IN 1949, he was a delegate from the Association of American Universities to a conference on Indian-American affairs in New Delhi, India. He also served as vice president of that organization.

Dr. Hancher also served on the board of electors of the New York University Hall of Fame, and has been a trustee of the Midwest Research Institute.

Dr. Hancher was appointed a member of the U.S.

National Commission for UNESCO in 1952. He also served as a delegate of the Association of Universities of Durham and Cambridge, England, in 1953 and 1956.

He had served on the committee to prepare a history of the U.S. Supreme Court, and was Chairman of the committee on education of the Herbert Hoover Foundation, Inc.

In 1959, Dr. Hancher served as delegate of the United States in the United Nations. He also served on the Economic and Financial Committee while in New York, and worked to modernize the U.N. agency dealing with Israeli refugees as a member of the Special Political Committee.

He had also been a member of the Educational Policies Commission of the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators.

During President Eisenhower's Administration, Pres. Hancher was a member of the five-man committee to choose the site of the U.S. Air Force Academy in 1954 and was named to the Academy's first Board of Visitors.

Also during this period, Pres. Hancher was made a trustee of the Eisenhower Exchange Fellowships, Inc.

Dr. Hancher had served his state and his church during his 24 years at Iowa. He was chairman of the 1953 statewide Boy Scout Fund Drive and also was on the standing committee of the Episcopal diocese of Iowa.

PRES. HANCHER received an honorary doctor of laws degree in a surprise ceremony during graduation exercises last June. The degree citation read in part: "For six student generations while more than 50,000 have graduated from this University, in fair weather and in storm, Virgil Hancher, with tireless devotion and rare dedication, has served this institution and the world-wide cause of higher education, in ways of enduring distinction. How fortunate the University whose leader incarnates the virtues most worthy of emulation by the youth it educates."

"Virgil Hancher's great personal charm, his spotless integrity, his warmly humane regard for colleagues and students, will leave an indelible imprint on Iowa, University and State. The elements so mix in him that no one more deserves the proud designation, scholar and gentleman."

Dr. Hancher arrived in New Delhi, India, Aug. 16. He was working for the Ford Foundation as an education consultant.

Dr. Hancher, who died Saturday while on leave to India, had planned to return to the University in 1966. This two year leave from the Board of Regents was but the second he had been granted in his 24 years of service to Iowa. In 1959 he was given three months leave to serve on the American delegation to the U.N. General Assembly.

24 Years of Service

Some of Virgil M. Hancher's myriad activities and honors he received during his 24 years as President in the University of Iowa are pictured here.

At right he is shown speaking at the traditional fall semester induction ceremony. The challenge to the students and the swearing-in officially opens the school year.

At left is the house Hancher lived in when he was a student at the University. The house is at 403 North Linn.

The June, 1963 Commencement program was the last at which President Hancher presided. He was given an honorary law degree from the University. (bottom right)

In 1964 President Hancher received the Exceptional Service Award from the Air Force in recognition of his "distinguished patriotic service." He was on the commission which selected the site of the U.S. Air Force Academy in Colorado. (bottom left)

Hancher's Views On Education

June 30, 1950

"No one is striving to improve the world as much as the professor. He is preparing youth for an unpredictable world."

"We want good people in our institutions. Two thousand second-rate physicists could not have made the atomic bomb. A few brilliant men could and did."

August 7, 1952

"... we find a pattern for ... the liberal arts and the specialties and the professions. Each can supplement and gain strength from each other, but each — and particularly the specialties and professions — standing alone, is less than the whole of education."

November 11, 1955

"In this country, we want to give the child more time to explore and find out what he can do and what he wants to do. Giving him more time results in more efficiency in our educational system."

"What we need are teachers of professional and specialized subjects who see the subjects matter in relation to the whole field of modern learning and modern civilization."

November 4, 1955

"The role of our colleges and universities is two-fold: "on the one hand they must understand and teach the nature and characteristics of social change; and on the other they must understand and teach those fundamental values and aspirations which give meaning and purpose to the life of man even in the midst of change."

"... the great American educational heresy is that there should be a course for everything and everything in a course."

"Only now are American universities awakening to the possibility of achieving liberal education through the inclusion of liberal elements in specialized and professional curricula, and even in specialized and professional courses, this development, which I believe to be one of the more significant educational developments of our time, will see the American universities, including the state universities, faithful as always to the great liberal traditions."

August 25, 1960

"What we need is a professional and scientific and technological education presented in a liberal way — with those great areas of liberal arts relevant to professional education and science and technology so reorganized and taught that they combine professionalism and specialism on the one hand with a liberal outlook and point of view on the other."

Three functions of universities: "The great value of formal education is that it is designed to foreshorten human experience. It must also assume the function of increasing knowledge through research. The third function is the interpretation of knowledge."

January 3, 1961

"A university looks ahead for solutions to our manifold problems; it looks ahead to the advancement of human welfare. The foreshortening of human knowledge — that vast accumulation of the centuries — and the challenge and excitement of discovering the unknown — these are the life of the university, the life of the mind."

January 27, 1961

"Our institutions are in a highly competitive situation. Their needs are real and they are pressing. Because of potential increases in enrollment, an anticipated shortage of college teachers and the vast increase of knowledge, the efforts we currently are making are not enough."

"We do not make the competition. It has been forced upon us by the enticements of Government and industry in attracting faculty members, as well as by greater opportunities in other institutions of higher learning."

"Iowa can afford this investment. It affords good roads. It affords anything it wants. But it may be required to make some hard and wise decisions in order to do so."

April 13, 1961

"We must keep ourselves and our institutions strong and free in order that we, possessing a sound knowledge and understanding of the past and working in the clamor and confusion of the calamitous present, may achieve for our children and our posterity a society in which justice and freedom shall prevail."

April 20, 1962

"In the days ahead that we need education ... education above all as our first and greatest resource, to supplement the common sense of the common man?"

December 14, 1962

"There is great potential in the Midwest region for new strength and vigor and vitality, and the state universities are willing, indeed anxious, to assume a leading role in realizing this potential."

The University Hancher Remembered

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is adapted from a speech originally given by President Hancher to the Joint Service Clubs of Iowa City and Coralville in the spring of 1964 and presented in the Iowa Alumni Review, June, 1964. It is one of Hancher's last messages to the University.

My arrival on this campus was not a particularly auspicious one. In those days, one traveled to and from Iowa City by train — the Rock Island or the Crantick.

A high school classmate and I left our home town in northwestern Iowa early on a September morning in 1914, bound for Des Moines where we were to transfer to the 4 p.m. Rock Island train for Iowa City. That train was scheduled to arrive in Iowa City at 8 p.m., and here we were to be met by a University medical student from our home town.

At Grinnell, the train, in the unhurried fashion of trains in those days, stopped according to schedule so that the passengers might have a 20-minute interval for supper or sandwiches and coffee, there being no diner on the train.

In the picture at the lower left President Hancher is shown clearing away some last-minute work before leaving office in July.

President Hancher, John Oberhausen — Dubuque regent — and Louis Zapf — dean of the college of pharmacy — are shown at the opening day ceremonies of the Pharmacy building, Burge Hall, Hillcrest and the University Library were among other buildings built during Hancher's administration. (Bottom right)

Before the 20 minutes were over the passengers were driven back by a torrential rain — one of the worst that I have ever seen.

THE TRAIN then moved out of Grinnell and proceeded eastward, very slowly for several miles. Somewhere west of Brooklyn, Iowa, it came to a sudden and unpropitious stop in the middle of nowhere.

We soon found that the track ahead of us had been washed out and that we would stay where we were, until the track had been rebuilt. The needed reconstruction took most of the night.

As a result, we arrived in Iowa City twelve hours late — at 8 a.m. — unshaven, disheveled, tired and hungry, and without anyone at the station to greet us.

MY FRESHMAN teachers were excellent — Clara May Daley in history; Mrs. Aurner in freshman English composition; in freshman German, Edward Henry Lauer, later a dean at the University of Washington in Seattle; and in freshman physics Lee Paul Siegel, later dean of the University of Pittsburgh and President of the "Ohiversity of Washington in Seattle.

One bright spot in that year was my acquaintance with John Ely Briggs, then a Ph.D. candidate in political science, who roomed in the house at 403 North Linn St. where I had a room. John, who spent the rest of his life in our Department of Political Science, was one of the best friends that students of this University ever had.

Out of the goodness of his heart, he, a graduate student, took pity on a frightened freshman from a little country town, and he counseled me and guided me in many different ways into a successful academic year.

Nevertheless, on balance, I was dissatisfied, and at year's end, I had a transcript of my record sent to Northwestern University with the intention of transferring to that institution.

(IT SEEMS ODD that I should have chosen a university from which my wife later graduated and in whose home city, Evanston, I was to make my home for more than a decade and where our three children were born before we returned to Iowa City.)

But as June of 1915 faded into July, and July into August, and August moved toward September, I began to wonder about the few loyal friends I had made in my freshman year — particularly the members of the old Zetagathian Literary Society.

Moreover, my father, who was a stubborn man (and from whom I am alleged to have inherited some characteristics), urged me to return to Iowa City for my sophomore year. And so, when September came I returned — and then began that love affair with the University of Iowa and with Iowa City which has lasted down to the present day!

The Iowa City to which I returned in the fall of 1915 had a population of about 12 thousand, exclusive of its small student enrollment. With that population, it was entitled to have and did have 12 saloons — one for every thousand people. ## Robinson Will Coach On Full-Time Basis

Iowa Athletic Director Forest Evashevski has announced the hiring of defensive coach Wayne Robinson to the Iowa football staff on a full-time basis. The appointment was effective as of Monday.

THE FORMER Minnesota center and Philadelphia Eagle linebacker came to Iowa in July of 1964 as a defensive coach on a part-time basis. He returned to Canada at the end of the football season.

Evashevski and Head Coach Jerry Burns issued a joint statement indicating they were very happy Robinson will move to Iowa City.

"Robinson did a fine job for us last fall when he was here on an interim appointment. We know he'll continue that fine work as a full-time football staff member. He is a shrewd coach and an excellent addition to the staff," Evashevski declared.

Robinson was a University of Minnesota center and linebacker from 1949 through 1951. He was the Gopher's most valuable player in 1950 and captain in 1951.

FOLLOWING graduation, he played pro football for five years as a linebacker for the Philadelphia Eagles. He also played in the Pro all-star game in Los Angeles before retiring from competition in 1957.

After that he went to Canada and became a defensive coach for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers and later was appointed head coach of the British Columbia Lions from 1959 through 1961.

Since 1961 he has been the enrollment director of the Western Canadian Scholarship Trust Foundation.

Iowa Fencers Open With 2 Victories

The Hawkeye fencing team opened its season with two dual meet victories Saturday over Indiana Tech and Pier Illini.

Captain Mike Kinsinger, defending Big Ten champion, and Orville Townsend paced the Hawks as they made the coaching debut of Richard Marks a successful one.

The Hawks defeated Indiana Tech 20-7, and topped the Pier Illini 19-8.

Kinsinger won five matches in the foil competition. This gives him a fine start towards matching or breaking the mark he set last year of 62-17, when he placed 9th in the NCAA Championship Meet.

Townsend, one of the three footballers on the squad, was also undefeated for the two meets. He also competes in the foil event.

Karlin Ryan and Dick Adams posted 3-0 records in the sabre competition in the Indiana Tech meet. Bill Tucker also posted a 3-0 record in epee in the meet.

The Hawkeye fencing team tied for second place in the Big Ten last year. This year the Hawks have the busiest schedule in the history of the sport at Iowa.

The next meet for the Hawks will be against Indiana and Notre Dame Saturday at 1 p.m.

Big George Takes Tumble

Ex-Hawk Connie Hawkins To Appear In Des Moines with Globe Trotters

Connie Hawkins, one of the most widely heralded basketball players ever to enroll at the University of Iowa, will be a member of the Harlem Globe Trotters appearing at the Des Moines Veterans Memorial Auditorium Tuesday night, Feb. 16.

Hawkins, a 6-8 native of Brooklyn, N.Y., enrolled at Iowa after a brief stop at the University of Colorado for a summer session. He played freshman ball here in 1961 before leaving the University in May to become a pro.

As a freshman, he was responsible for bringing large crowds to the Iowa Field House far in advance of the start of varsity games. Even then, he handled the ball with the finesse of a pro and had mastered many of the tricks which have made the Globe Trotters famous.

Braves Acquire O'Dell From S.F. Giants

NEW YORK—The Milwaukee Braves announced Monday they had acquired veteran left-handed pitcher Billy O'Dell in a straight player swap with the San Francisco Giants in return for catcher Ed Bailey.

O'Dell, who has been in the majors since 1954, the last five with San Francisco, will be 32 this month. He had an 8-7 record for the Giants in 36 games last season, primarily as a relief pitcher.

Bailey, 34, has been a major leaguer since 1953. He had a .262 batting average with the Braves in 95 games last season.

Riding the Pines

With JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

This Saturday night will be the time for the student body to get out and give the Hawks the backing they deserve. After knocking off Indiana and upsetting the nation's No. 1 team, Iowa's current quintet has shown sports pollsters they can play and beat the best.

Reserve seats to three of our remaining four games have already been sold out. The only seats that are available are those for the Purdue game, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 20. This indicates there are now many avid Iowa basketball fans around the state willing to drive to Iowa City and pay to see our exciting basketball team in action.

IT IS ABOUT TIME for the student body to pick up some of this spirit and give the team their full support. Students are admitted to the games for free after exposing their ID cards and proof of current registration. With finals out of the way and midterms more than six weeks away, there is no excuse for not going to the remaining four home games.

It was estimated that out of an average crowd of 11,000, only four or five thousand are students. For an institution with a 14,400 enrollment this situation is deplorable, especially since we do have a winning team this year.

Many a fan who has attended an Iowa basketball game this year will agree that he or she didn't leave the Field House with a feeling of disappointment. There has never been a lack of excitement. Basketball games are one of the best outlets for letting off steam that the University has to offer.

The Northwestern game Saturday night will be a test for the student body. Those who didn't get a chance to see the Hawks stun UCLA in the Chicago Stadium Friday night will have the opportunity to express a delayed appreciation for the tremendous work, desire and hustle being displayed by this year's club.

The main factor to Iowa's success has been the ability of the players to adapt quickly to Miller's style of ball. Each man has been assigned a position and has been given a job to do. Everyone is responding with fullest cooperation. Miller is the type of coach who never lets a mistake go unnoticed. He lets his players know he's the boss and they respect him for it.

Iowa's practice sessions have gained the reputation of being among the hardest in the conference. The Hawks will scrimmage under game conditions for at least 60 minutes, taking time out only to shoot free throws when one of the student managers calls a foul.

THIS IS SMART. Most college coaches will have their players shoot free throws all at once after practice. That gives a player time to rest up and take his time in shooting something that seldom ever happens in a game. Miller's philosophy is to have his boys shoot free throws under game conditions. In other words, when they are tired. This has paid off considerably as the team's free throwing during the last three games has improved a great deal compared to early last fall.

Dick Schultz, Ralph Miller's assistant, had this to say about Iowa's victory over UCLA:

"The thing that impressed me about our club was the way everyone of the starting six players came through with at least one big play at a crucial moment. Ed Bastian never ceases to surprise us with his play when the pressure is on him.

"He was on the spot plenty when he went into the game for Peeples with seven minutes to play. We hadn't won the game at that point, by any means. Bastian did a sound job, pulling in two vital rebounds to keep UCLA out of scoring range," he said.

SCHULTZ COMPLIMENTED the fine play of Dennis Pauling, who hit 14 points and drove in for a vital basket to keep the Bruins from tying the game, 82-82. Iowa went on to score five more points while holding UCLA to a bucket in the last 1½ minutes of play.

"Chris Pervall played the best game of his young Iowa career," said Schultz. "His clutch free throw shooting with three minutes to play helped us out tremendously."

"Chris just recently changed his free throw shooting style," said Schultz. "He now balances the ball on his right finger tips, taking the left hand off the ball completely, before he shoots. Pervall made 10 of 15 bonus throws Friday night."

"George Peeples played his best game under the board, getting 12 before having to leave the game with an injury," said Schultz. "Gerry Jones made two key free throws with one minute left to keep them out of range," he said.

AFTER THE GAME, Coach Miller grinned, and said, "We made most of our free throws when the score was close and then missed them after we got safely ahead."

"Jimmy Rodgers splashed in 7 of 13 field goal attempts while Gary Olson played a heady floor game and helped to keep the scoring balanced by tossing in 12 points," said Schultz.

Following his return to Iowa City from Wichita Sunday afternoon Coach Miller said he couldn't have been more pleased with Iowa's showing against UCLA.

"I have often said these are the hardest-working bunch of guys I've ever coached. They really proved themselves against the nation's No. 1 team," he said.

EASTERN TRENDS

On the East Coast, especially in Philadelphia and New York, college basketball is a big thing. There are well-organized student cheering sections on each side of the court who yell their hearts out from the opening tip-off to the final buzzer. This is also the age of the roll-out — a large streamer covering the entire length of the court praising the home coach and players or tantalizing opponents.

Perhaps the lack of student enthusiasm for basketball at Iowa will deplete by Saturday and organized cheering blocks with new ideas will pop up for the last four home games.

Locker Room Logic

By CURT SYLVESTER

The promoters of Friday night's basketball double-header in Chicago can well afford a pause to pat themselves on the back. They drew two of college basketball's powerhouses, top ranked UCLA and Wichita, which was rated third or fifth, depending upon which of the wire services you happen to put your trust in.

Against these giants the promoters threw two upstarts in the basketball world — the Iowa Hawkeyes and the Loyola Ramblers. The results was a double upset in games that even had the old-timers trying to recall better or more exciting basketball.

In the second double-header, of the weekend, played on Saturday night, the favorites got a chance to save face and came through in more accustomed style. UCLA winning 85-72 over Loyola's five and Wichita battering Louisville, 96-76.

Coach Ralph Miller had a word of hope for Hawkeye fans Monday afternoon. George Peoples, injured in Friday night's game, has had more examinations of his ankle and the diagnosis is a severe sprain.

"You can never tell for sure on a thing like this," Miller said Monday. "But percentage-wise he has a chance to play Saturday (against Northwestern). He'll play Monday night against Michigan for sure."

Even if Peoples is able to play against Northwestern, Miller will probably keep him on the bench to avoid seriously reinjuring the ankle before the game with Michigan in which the Hawks will make a bid for the Big Ten lead. Ed Bastian who came into the UCLA game and grabbed a couple vital rebounds will undoubtedly see most of the action Saturday.

What do you do after you've beaten the best? This is a question that would seem to arise after knocking off the top team in the country.

In a lot of cases, the result could be a let down in team spirit, but Miller doesn't see a chance for this on the Hawkeye squad.

"I don't see how they can let down," Miller said. "They've got too much work ahead of them. They've still got the conference race and all of the tough games in the future. Since they've come this far I'm sure they'll be interested in continuing their success."

A game such as the upset of UCLA does a lot in boosting, not only the spirit and confidence of the players involved, but in bolstering the confidence of the fans.

How often have you seen a team take an early lead and then suddenly fade in the closing moments and let a win slip away? The stands in Chicago Stadium contained an enthusiastic Iowa delegation but judging from the moan that went up they were fearful for the worst when the Hawks seemed to be blowing their 7-point lead with five minutes left in the game.

The heralded UCLA defense put the pressure on the Hawks and quickly brought about two Iowa turnovers. Reserve Kenny Washington turned both into easy baskets before Iowa took time out with a 77-74 lead.

Then following the time out, the Bruins took advantage of another Iowa turnover as Washington made his third consecutive goal, cutting Iowa's lead to 77-76.

But to the delight of the Iowa fans, the Hawks didn't let down. Chris Pervall dropped in two free throws and then, after UCLA's Keith Erickson had scored a goal, Pervall came in for a big three point play and the Hawks went on to pull out the win.

After watching most of the Wichita-Loyola game which preceded the Iowa-UCLA encounter, Miller was sure that the Shockers, the team he coached for 13 seasons before coming to Iowa, would have beaten Loyola if they had not been playing without their star center Nate Bowman. Bowman was recently declared scholastically ineligible.

"There's no question about it. With Bowman, they'd have had no trouble winning. They had trouble on the boards and this is, of course, where Bowman helps them the most," Miller said.

Eight Men Enrolled Into National Football Hall

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — One of college football's most celebrated coaches and one of the coach's most celebrated players were among eight men whose names were enrolled in the National Football Hall of Fame Monday.

The coach is Earl Snively, whose 26-year major college coaching career at Bucknell, North Carolina and Cornell produced 147 victories, 77 defeats and 16 ties. The player is Dr. Jerome (Bud) Holland, a two-time All-America end at Cornell when Snively was head coach.

Other new Hall of Famers announced by Chet LaRoche, president of the National Football Foundation, were Jack Cannon, Notre Dame guard, 1927-29; Merle Gulick, Toledo and Hobart quarterback, 1925-29; Thomas J. Hamilton, Navy back, 1923-25; Dr. George (Tank) McLaren, Pittsburgh fullback, 1915-17; Eric (The Red) Tipton, Duke back, 1936-38, and James (Froggy) Williams, Rice end, 1949-51.

Pro Basketball Coaches Fined Following Run-In

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold (Red) Auerbach of the Boston Celtics was fined $500 and Coach Harry Gallatin of the New York Knicks $100 Monday as a result of their run-in during the Celtics-Knicks game at Boston Garden Sunday.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association assessed the fines after receiving official reports on the game from the referees.

During Boston's 123-95 victory Auerbach drew two technical fouls during the game for uncomplimentary remarks about the officiating.

Auerbach became so angry that officials ejected him from the game but not before Gallatin had walked out onto the playing floor and both had made gestures as if inviting each other to fight. They were restrained by police and players.

Royals' Jerry Lucas Injured, But No Fracture

CINCINNATI (AP) — An examination Monday showed no fracture in any of the chest bones of the injured Jerry Lucas, star forward of the Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association, but how long he'll be out of action still is not known.

Lucas had to leave Sunday's game with the Philadelphia 76ers in Philadelphia after only seven minutes because of severe pain in his chest.

Iowa Returns To Loop Race On Saturday

The tense business of fighting to stay in the Big Ten race will prevent any glowing backward glances by Iowa basketball men at the unprecedented feat of upsetting U.S. rated No. 1 and defending National Collegiate champion.

THAT 87-82 WIN over UCLA last Friday on the neutral Chicago Stadium court followed the triumph over fifth-rated Indiana at Bloomington Jan. 18—giving the Hawkeyes two of the most heart-warming victories in years.

As the Iowans continue to improve at a completely unpredictable rapid rate, however, they will need all their varied skills in the nine remaining Big Ten games, five of them on the road.

They have two games each with contenders Illinois and Minnesota, one with current unbeaten leader Michigan, two with Purdue and single contests with Northwestern and Ohio State.

Coming concern is Northwestern, foe here Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Then the vital game with Michigan arrives Monday, Feb. 8 at Ann Arbor. Iowa now has 4-1 for second place but may share that spot if Minnesota beats Northwestern today.

THE STATUS of Center George Peoples, who sprained an ankle, still cannot be determined, because it is not known how the injury will react to treatment. Junior Ed Bastian will get intensive drill as replacement.

Pay-off pressure basketball, as drilled into the players by Coach Ralph Miller, continues to inject the Hawkeyes as the surprise of the Big Ten season. Sharp team play, the most accurate shooting in the league, and a constant-motion hounding defense, second in the conference, are tremendous Iowa assets.

For the first fifteen games, Iowa has a field goal shooting percentage of .475 and has .671 on free throws, as compared with foes' .457 and .653. Point average is 85.8 to 75.7.

Chris Pervall leads scorers with a 21.4 average. Gary Olson has .543 on field goals and Jimmy Rodgers has .861 on free throws, for the high percentages in these individual categories.

NEW PUBLICITY MAN—LAWRENCE, Kan. — Philip A. Dynan, 42, sports information director at West Virginia Tech, Monday was named sports publicity director at the University of Kansas.

Dynan will take over the post held for many years by Don Pierce, who was fatally injured in a car accident.

Patterson Beats Chuvalo in 12 Rounds

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson survived a heavy body bombing by bully boy George Chuvalo of Toronto and moved a giant step toward a third term as heavyweight champion Monday night by whipping the husky Canadian on a unanimous decision in 12 rounds before a standing-room-only crowd of 19,100 at Madison Square Garden.

Patterson, fighting desperately in an attempt to erase the memory of two humiliating knockouts by Sonny Liston, punished Chuvalo with his quick punches to the head but couldn't bring him down.

THE STURDY Chuvalo, a body puncher with a tom-tom beat, kept slamming away at the ex-champion's ribs all through the furiously waged fight.

Judge Joe Armstrong scored it 6-4, judge Tony Castellano 7-5 and referee Zach Clayton 6-5-1, all for the 30-year-old Patterson. The AP card had Patterson on top 9-2-1.

"I'D LIKE a title shot at Cassius Clay, fight Sonny Liston again and then retire," Patterson said in a ring in the ring at the finish.

In the background Clay, who was doing the closed circuit TV commentary, was shouting, "You've got the title shot, Floyd, you've earned it."

Patterson took such a congratulatory pummeling from Clay at the conclusion that the other video announcer, Don Dunphy, asked him if he hadn't had a tougher time with Cassius than Chuvalo.

"CHUVALO GAINED a tremendous amount of fans tonight, perhaps more than myself, as I was unable to cope with his strength," Patterson said.

It was a dramatic victory for the often-bitter Patterson who had not fought in the Garden since 1956. After the decision was announced, Floyd blew kisses to the huge mob that had changed "Let's go Floyd" through the hottest action.

TIME AFTER time Patterson raked Chuvalo's head with crashing left hooks and leaping right hand punches, but Chuvalo kept moving ever onward. The Canadian banged away at the body constantly, seldom bothering to go to the head. When he did land on Patterson's jaw, he found none of the china that had tinkled in so many previous fights.

A series of four programs depicting various points of view on the recent student demonstrations at the University of California in Berkeley, will be broadcast over the University radio station, WSUI, beginning today at 7 p.m.

This evening's program, "Is Freedom Academic?" consists of a documentary produced by radio station KPFA, Berkeley. KPFA is supported by the Pacific Foundation, a non-profit educational organization.

Laos Revolt Snuffed Out By Loyalists

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Loyalists quietly suppressed Monday an uprising by a group of young officers who said they wanted to reform the army high command. Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma called the incident a misundersanding.

Plans of the young officers, headed by Col. Boulert Syssotte, faded under the combined pressure of a government show of force and a two-hour conference at the royal palace with Souvanna and his generals.

It looked like a family tiff within the rightist-neutralist forces fighting as allies against the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, the third faction of this unstable jungle kingdom. Rightists are dominant in the armed forces of Souvanna, who is himself a neutralist.

Rightist Gen. Kouprasith Abhay headed troops, guns and armored cars to recover the capital from a battalion of soldiers supporting the attempted coup.

Though the rebels had set up four roadblocks, they chose not to fight. Wearing blue kerchiefs for identification, they gave way before the loyalists, in orange scarves.

Former University Violin Instructor Will Appear on TV

Prof. Stuart Canin of Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, former head of violin instruction at the University, will appear on Jack Benny's national television show at 8:30 p.m., Feb. 12.

The program, taped in June, is a National Broadcasting Company feature.

Canin was appointed to the U of I faculty in 1953. A member of the Iowa String Quartet, he was also concertmaster of the U of I Symphony Orchestra. Canin resigned his position at Iowa in 1961 to join the faculty of Oberlin College.

AMY DANIELS, FORMER U OF I TEACHER, DIES

Amy Louise Daniels, 89, a University faculty member from 1918 to her retirement in 1941, died Sunday at Mercy hospital here after a short illness. She was a pioneer worker in the field of infant and child nutrition.

Prof. Daniels, a native of Newton Mass., was a research professor of nutrition. She came to Iowa 47 years ago as one of the first staff members of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, and became one of the half dozen most productive researchers of the station. It is now called the Institute for Child Behavior and Development.

Dr. Daniels was the first person to receive the Borden Award. This was a $1,000 award offered by the Borden Company for meritorious research on milk and milk products. Her research paper, "Relation of Ingestion of Milk to Calcium Metabolism in Children," was a primary factor in the committee's selection.

Much of her research was related to the diseases and illnesses of children.

Surviving are two nephews, Robert Daniels, Beverly, Mass., and Richard Daniels, Newtonville, Mass. Services will be held at 11 a.m. today at the Donohue Mortuary with the Rev. Charles Carlston, associate professor of religion, officiating. Burial will be in Arlington, Mass.

Leonid I. Brezhnev paid a secret, three-day visit to Hungary last week and there were hints Monday in Moscow that premier Alexei N. Kosygin would make his trip to North Vietnam in the next few days.

Behind these developments were indications that the two new Krom leaders may be on the verge of making a major Soviet move in the Soviet-Chinese ideological dispute.

Brezhnev, leader of the Soviet Communist party, went to Budapest Friday for talks with the Hungarian party chief, Janos Kadar, on what he Soviet News Agency Tass on Monday called "expressions of interest to both sides."

Brezhnev had met Kadar last month in Poland at a Soviet-bloc summit conference.

The main topic believed on the agenda when he met with Kadar in Budapest was the Kremlin's call for a meeting of Communist officials from 26 nations in Moscow March 1 to prepare for a full Communist meeting later on the dispute with the Red Chinese.

With Brezhnev on the Hungarian side was Nikolai V. Podgorny, a member of the Soviet party Presidium. The Tass announcement of the visit gave no details of the talks and sounding out their allies as to future strategy.

Apart from the Warsaw conference, Brezhnev up to now has had meetings with the Communist leaders of Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary since taking over.

Since Nikita Khrushchev was ousted in October by leaders who were said to have feared that his attitude toward Peking might make the crisis irreparable, Brezhnev and Kosygin have been reported said only that they were held "in a heartfelt and comradely atmosphere."

Kadar has supported the Soviet call for a meeting on the Moscow-Peking split but he has cautioned against any further action that might widen it.

President Seeks Quick End to Dock Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson appealed Monday for a quick end to the 22-day dock strike that has tied up shipping along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts at an estimated cost of $60 million a day.

Relaying his request through Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Johnson asked the 60,000 striking longshoremen to go back to work at all ports where agreements have been reached and for an early settlement at other ports.

Union officials said any back-to-work order must come from Thomas W. Gleason, president of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association in New York. Longshoremen in some major ports have accepted contracts based on a master agreement negotiated in New York, but the union has refused to return to work at any ports until all contracts are settled.

"All ports work with a contract or none does," Gleason said before Johnson's back-to-work appeal.

But IIA vice president William Haile said in Baltimore "I think it is the proper thing to do. We don't intend to disobey the President's order under any circumstances."

However, Wirtz said if clear the government has no legal means to force the longshoremen to go back to work.

Gleason and other union leaders have been urging their members to accept the contract, calling it the best offer negotiated.

Then Reynolds will go to Miami, Fla., and Galveston, Tex., two of the ports where agreement has not been reached.

Boston said the strike is led by a "subversive element."

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds has asked the FBI to investigate possible Communist influences in the strike.

Reynolds, who has been hopping from port to port for weeks in an effort to settle the strike, again was sent by Wirtz to talk with union leaders in New York.

Winter Commencement

Nearly 500 recipients of degrees heard Prof. Frank B. Kennedy of the University of Michigan law faculty speak at Saturday's winter commencement, University President Howard R. Bowen also addressed the graduates. — Photo by Jim Wessels

"Comfortable" niches which educated persons can fill just do not exist, mid-winter graduates were told Saturday during commencement exercises at the Field House.

Frank R. Kennedy, professor of law at the University of Michigan, said in his prepared text that the graduates have a responsibility "to confront with an open mind the profound and painful questions which the future now conceals."

The former University of Iowa faculty member told the 490 graduates that devotion has historically been associated with human tragedy — such as revolution and wars — as well as human achievement.

Kennedy urged the graduates to maintain an open mind.

He emphasized that the long-range view of human activity shows each generation has not felt limited to the discoveries nor bound by the decisions of the previous generation, but has built upon what the previous generation delivered.

"The open mind is indispensable to any contribution to the world," Kennedy said.

Pres. Howard R. Bowen made his traditional charge to the graduates after conferring the degrees. He said, "You have been privileged to share in a rich cultural heritage that has been handed down to you by generations of scholars, scientists, artists and teachers who have sought steadfastly for the truth — often at great personal sacrifice."

Bowen asked each graduate "to carry on your education so long as you live — and to use this education in the service of your fellow men; to do your part, according to your talents, in advancing our cultural heritage. To seek the truth, and defend it, even when the truth is inconvenient or unpopular. And finally, to support the cause of education so that future generations may receive the same benefits you have enjoyed."

Loren Hickerson, executive director of the Iowa Alumni Association, addressed the joint Army-Air Force commissioning ceremony Saturday before commencement exercises began.

Hickerson spoke to an audience of some 60 relatives and friends of the new officers. Dr. James C. Spalding, associate professor of religion, delivered the invocation.

University Dairy Expert Is Named to State Post

DES MOINES (AP)—Gene W. Ronald, Iowa City, will become acting director of the Iowa Milk and Food Laboratory until a permanent director can be found, Secretary of Agriculture Kenneth E. Owen announced late Monday.

Ronald, 33, a dairy bacteriologist at the State Hygienic Laboratory at the University of Iowa since 1959, began work Monday afternoon.

He will be paid the same salary as Mrs. Huda Felland, 35, who quit the post last week because she said an unqualified Democrat was hired to replace a Republican who worked under her.

"This is the type of thing Gov. Hughes said the Democrats would not do," she said in resigning from her $10,200-a-year job.

Nicholas Coad, 43, a LeMars Democrat, has been named northwest Iowa sanitarian, succeeding Republican Richard Dennler, 52.

Rusk, McNamara Slowed by Illness

WASHINGTON (AP)—A substitute filed in Monday for cold-plagued Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and a moderate case of pneumonia caused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to postpone a report on the nation's defenses.

Attorney Says Negroes Refused for Politics

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Attorneys defending Lester G. Maddox in a contempt of court action contended Monday that he has refused to serve Negroes at his restaurant because of political belief, not because of racial origin.

"His policy is not to serve integrationists, regardless of race, color, religion or national origin," argued attorney William G. McRae. "This policy is directed at all persons who hold such political belief."

That was the defense at the opening of a hearing before U.S. Dist. Judge Frank A. Hooper who ordered Maddox to show why he should not be held in contempt for violating an injunction. Hooper was on a three-judge panel that ordered Maddox last July to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Attorneys for Maddox argued that he was not covered by the law because his restaurant refuses to serve interstate travelers or integrationists.

Maddox turned away Negroes last Friday at his cafeteria, opened Sept. 26 at the same place he had operated the Pickrick. The federal court order applied to the Pickrick, which Maddox shut down Aug. 13 to avoid serving Negroes.

Attorney Sidney Schell, representing Maddox, tried to get into the definition of an integrationist during testimony from Charles E. Walls Sr., a Negro who tried to dine at the Maddox place three times.

"Do you personally consider yourself an advocate of integration?" Schell asked the witness. But attorney William Alexander, representing the Negro plaintiffs, objected. The term had not been defined, he said.

"Why should we have this argument?" responded the white-haired judge. "Everybody in this country is on one side or the other."
