Last Respects Paid to Hancher

300 Fill Church For Funeral Rites

By DALLAS MURPHY
 Staff Writer

Dignified simplicity marked the funeral services held Thursday afternoon for Virgil M. Hancher, president emeritus of the University of Iowa.

Dr. Hancher, who was president of the University from 1940 till June 30, 1964, died last Saturday following a heart attack in New Delhi, India. He had been a consultant in higher education for the Ford Foundation's Southeast Asia program there.

An estimated 300 representatives of the University, city and state crowded solemnly into the small Trinity Episcopal Church where the service was held.

MANY STUDENTS and faculty members were turned away from the church because of the limited seating capacity. The church rectory, next door to the church, accommodated an additional 300, but it, too, was filled to capacity.

The service was broadcast in the rectory by means of a closed-circuit hookup.

The University will hold a final tribute to Dr. Hancher with a memorial service at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Union.

W. Earl Hall, a life-long friend of Dr. Hancher, will speak at the service. Prayers will be offered by Robert S. Michaelsen, director of the School of Religion, and music will be provided by the University Symphony Orchestra under the direction of James Dixon.

WSUI will broadcast the service.

Another 40 people listened to the services piped into Machride Auditorium which has an estimated seating capacity of 900.

THE BRIEF, FORMAL church rites contained no sermon or eulogy according to the tradition of the Episcopal funeral service. The service was taken from the Book of Common Prayer of the Episcopal Church and included responsive psalm reading and Scripture reading. The Scripture text was Romans 8:14.

"Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," a Bach chorale, was sung by the church choir. The congregation also sang two hymns, selected by the family as being among Dr. Hancher's favorites — "He Who Would Valiant Be," and "Abide With Me."

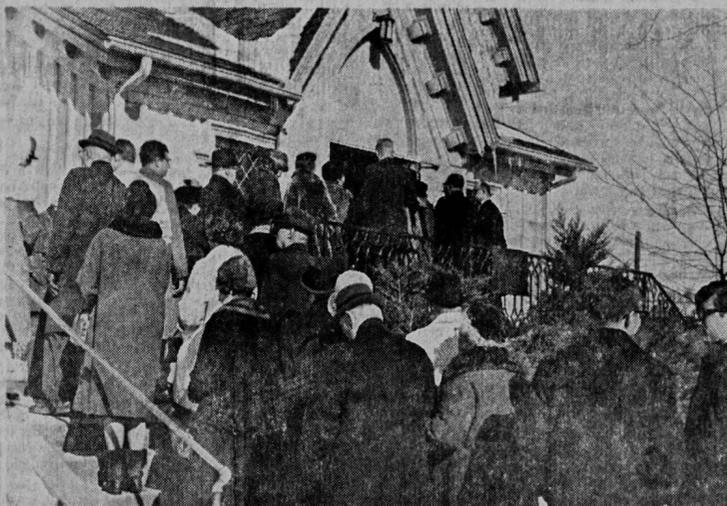

THE RT. REV. Gordon V. Smith, Episcopal bishop of Iowa, officiated. He was assisted by the Rev. Robert E. Holzhammer, rector of Trinity Church, and the Rt. Rev. Frederick W. Putnam, suffragan bishop of Oklahoma. The Rt. Rev. Putnam was rector of the church here from 1942 to 1947.

Mrs. Hancher was escorted at the services by her daughter, Mrs. Richard Hockmuth, and her son, Virgil Jr.

Injunction Called 'Victory'—

Selma Registration Board Gets Ruling to 'Speed Up'

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge Thursday night ordered the Dallas County Voter Registration Board to speed up registration of Negroes and prohibited the board from using a disputed literacy test.

The injunction issued by District Court Judge Daniel H. Thomas in Mobile opened the way for a possible end of racial demonstrations, which have sent hundreds of Negroes marching through the streets in Selma day after day the past three weeks.

The injunction prohibited the three-member board from:

—Failing or refusing to receive and "process expeditiously" applications from prospective voters.

—Processing fewer than 100 applications each registration day, provided that many applicants show up.

—Failing to provide enough personnel and facilities so that at least eight applicants can apply for registration at a time.

—Administering the lengthy literacy test, which is based on knowledge of government and the U.S. Constitution.

THE COURT found that the board has deprived Negroes of the right to vote and that the board members have followed "an extremely slow registration process."

In New York, the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, which asked for the injunction, issued a statement from chief counsel Jack Greenberg calling the order "a great victory."

From his jail cell, Dr. Martin Luther-King Jr., spread the word to several hundred Negroes assembled in a church to keep things quiet for the time being.

There was no delay in demonstrations at Marion, 30 miles to the west, where Negroes marched toward the courthouse the second day in a row and 200 demonstrators went to jail. They joined more than 500 arrested there Wednesday.

MALCOLM X, a former Black Muslim leader, spoke to a cheering throng of Negroes at the Selma church where the civil rights campaign has its headquarters.

The tall, bearded exponent of black supremacy told the gathering — including many high school pupils — that unless King and other civil rights leaders are successful in getting equal rights through non-violence, Negroes will turn to other leaders who do not advocate non-violence.

Book Store Pickets Quit, 'Uncertain' About Success

By DAVID HOYT
 Staff Writer

Picketing of three Iowa City book stores by University students has ended, but the results of the effort seem uncertain.

Merle Wood, A4, Cedar Rapids, president of the Young Democrats, and organizer of the demonstration, said it was difficult to determine the success of the picketing.

"The picketing was simply to demonstrate our position to the University. We want a cooperative book store like the ones at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Chicago," Wood said.

NONE OF THE managers of the three bookstores which were picketed appeared concerned about the demonstration.

"It didn't affect our business," Dick Lindsay, manager of Hawkeye Bookstore said. "I can sympathize with them (the picketers). Books are high, but everything else is high too, due to general inflation. There is nothing a bookstore operator can do about it."

BOB SUTHERLIN, manager of Iowa Book and Supply, also said there had been little effect on business. Sutherland estimated only 1 customer in 30 who mentioned the pickets had any complaints. The rest joked about the demonstration, he said.

"One lady commented on how polite the pickets were. One of them even held the door open for her," Sutherland said.

THE MANAGEMENT at University Bookstore agreed that business hadn't been hurt and stated that there was little profit in the sale of new books.

According to Wood, the price of new books was not the issue behind the pickets.

"We don't have information about the pricing of new books," Wood said. "We are more concerned with the mark-up on used books. We would like to have a cooperative bookstore such as the one at Ames."

"There you can sell your used texts to the store for 60 per cent of the price you paid for them, and the bookstore only marks the book up 5 per cent before reselling it."

"If Ames can have a cooperative bookstore," Wood said, "there is no reason why we can't."

Iowa House Nears Accord On Abolishing Death Penalty

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa House neared final passage Thursday of a bill to abolish the death penalty, after resisting efforts to retain capital punishment in certain cases.

After a full morning of debate on the measure, the lawmakers put over final disposition until Friday.

Abolishing the death penalty was a plank in the Democratic party platform and is strongly favored by Democratic Gov. Harold Hughes.

THE BILL, sponsored by Rep. Charles Korn (D-Logan) originally would have substituted a penalty of from 30 years to life imprisonment for the crimes in which capital punishment now may be imposed. These are first degree murder and kidnapping for ransom.

The House, however, adopted an amendment by Rep. Carroll Redfern (D-Donnellson) to leave life imprisonment as the only penalty for these crimes.

Redfern said he did not want to create a situation in which a convicted murderer could be paroled after a few years. He said a life term prisoner should have to obtain from the governor a commutation of his sentence to a term of years, as he does now, to be eligible for parole.

STILL TO BE acted upon before the bill can come to a final vote Friday is an amendment by Rep. Carroll Bailey (D-Clarion) to allow a judge or jury which imposes a life sentence to decree that the convicted person could never be recommended for commutation and parole.

Democratic leaders said they believe Bailey's amendment will be defeated and that the bill will be passed by the House.

Rep. Korn and other backers of the bill argued that the death penalty is morally wrong and does not serve as a deterrent to murder. Much of the debate resulted from a clash between two schools of thought on the deterrent value of capital punishment.

Rep. Donald Doyle (D-Sioux City) proposed an amendment to permit imposing the death penalty on a life term prisoner who kills either another prison inmate or a guard or police officer.

THE AMENDMENT was voted down 67-48, after Rep. Will Glanton (D-Des Moines) pleaded: "If we're going to do away with the death penalty, let's do away with it entirely."

Another amendment by Rep. Lee Gaudineer (D-Des Moines) to allow the death penalty to be imposed not only in cases of slayings by persons serving life terms, but for murders committed in the course of kidnaping for ransom, rape, robbery with aggravation and burglary with aggravation, was defeated 33-27.

Firemen Fighting ATO Blaze Hindered by Frigid Weather

By DAVE CRIPPEN
 Staff Writer

Frigid weather and steep terrain were major hindrances to firemen fighting the Alpha Tau Omega house fire Tuesday.

Sub-zero temperatures caused the spray from fire hoses to cover both the ground and fire fighters with sheets of ice, according to Iowa City Fire Chief A. Rittenmeyer.

Rittenmeyer said that the frozen and extremely steep terrain around the ATO house made it virtually impossible to use ladders.

"WE COULD use a short ladder only in the back of the house," Rittenmeyer said. "Other than that, we used the aerial ladder on the truck to some degree."

The aerial ladder broke down during the fire fighting operations.

Rittenmeyer noted, "The ground was so slick that the men on the hoses couldn't hold their ground. When the hoses were turned on, the

The University and the state

By KENNETH MacDONALD
(From the Inaugural Symposium on campus Dec. 5)

My premise is that this state is greatly in need of intellectual leadership — the type of leadership which can come from a great university, which in fact in this state may very well come from no other source.

It was about 40 years ago this fall that I first came to this campus as a student. That's a long time in the life of an individual, but it is not long in the life of an institution, and it is only a moment in history. Not the changes in our manner of living and habits of thinking in that short period are vast.

I grew up thinking Iowa was the greatest state in the union, because that's what my family and my friends and neighbors thought. I was sure we possessed more natural resources than any other place on earth. I knew our people were intelligent, with the highest literacy rating in the world. I thought our climate was superb, perhaps a little extreme at times, but all the more invigorating for that.

And I was convinced, too, that Iowa was a beautiful place, probably unsurpassed by any other area. I had heard and read wonderful descriptions of the mountains and the sea, and I had a great desire to see both, but I suspected that those spectacular places would be less satisfactory as a steady diet than the wide, handsome sweep of the prairie.

I WAS subjected to a considerable amount of oratory as a child, in the school auditorium, in the courthouse square, in the Chautauqua tent. Much of this oratory had to do with the fearful problems confronting our state and our nation, but there never seemed to be much real fear in the hearts of either the orators or the audience. The speakers were full of confidence and so were the listeners. There was nothing we Iowans couldn't do, if we set our minds to it.

Such an insular view would be childishly chauvinistic today. The Midwest was isolationist then in a broader sense than just foreign policy. Now we are grown up. We know today that there is just one world. We know that one place is much like another, that the similarities are more numerous than the differences, that there is no special habitat for beauty or intellect or material well-being.

But I sometimes wonder whether in putting away our childish illusions we may not have gone further than we need in uprooting ourselves.

WE HAVE become a mobile society. Travel has become easy and communication fast. Distinctions between one region and another blur and then disappear. Our Federal Government, necessarily and inevitably, grows larger and more powerful, and the state as a political unit often seems less important to us. Much of our entertainment is mass produced on a national scale. In many ways we are becoming comfortable nomads, people without roots.

We are, I think, in danger of losing sight of our regional individualities, our peculiar strengths and weaknesses, the qualities that set us apart. We are in danger of losing our identity with our environment. And in losing that, we lose more than our childish pride; we lose the ability to see our problems in perspective, the ability to adapt ourselves to changing conditions.

We can not long have a healthy national government if we do not have a vigorous, working democracy at the local level. I don't think we can have a national culture if we do not have individuality and creativity in the communities where we live. And I don't think we can have economic well-being unless we focus our attention on the problems that are peculiarly our own. If we need proof that national affluence, we can look at the hills of West Virginia and the other areas of Appalachia.

We do have in this region characteristics that are uniquely our own, which, to some extent at least, set us apart from every other area.

HOWEVER much we may have in common — and we do have very much in common — Iowa is not Massachusetts, nor California, nor Mississippi. If we recognize and study the differences as well as the similarities, if we are aware of our own special needs, our own inherent strengths, we can have an effective political unit; we can have a thriving economy, we can have a healthy cultural climate. Through such an awareness we can both serve our own needs and better contribute to the general welfare.

We have in this state many problems. Some of them are not solving very rapidly. We all know that Iowa's population is not growing as rapidly as the national average.

Iowa's per capita income is well below the national average. In fact, with one exception, it is the lowest per capita income among middle western states.

IOWA'S YOUNG people have been leaving the state in startling numbers. And the important point to remember is that this decline in relation to the national average has not ended; it is continuing.

We tell ourselves that the reason for this is that Iowa is not attracting enough industry, but of course this is no answer because the question remains, why isn't Iowa growing industrially? Industrial growth no longer has much to do with natural resources. It has much more to do with brains and knowledge and technical skills, and Iowa has no deficiency in these.

We are told that industry congregates around the centers of education, particularly science education. This is true, but this is no explanation, for Iowa is not trailing in education. With only two exceptions, more doctorate degrees are awarded on a per capita basis in Iowa than in any other state in the union.

We are told that climate is now the major factor in population growth, because people want to live in warm areas. It is true that Florida and Arizona and California have had phenomenal population growth, but so has Alaska, which is not noted for its beaches. Wisconsin, Utah, Indiana and Ohio have had three times Iowa's rate of population growth in recent years.

THE CONCLUSION I draw from this is that we do not know enough about our problems to seek the right solutions. I suspect we aren't getting the right answers because we aren't asking the right questions.

We are frequently told that change is the most important factor in our lives. I think we have been told it so often that we no longer listen. It is important, and it isn't new. Life has always been changing. The pace may be accelerating now, but only the rate of change is different, not the fact of change.

The people who settled this state and founded this University understood change. That is why they were here. They wanted more material comforts and they wanted more cultural opportunities, and they sensed what to do about those wants. They realized that education was their best instrument, and the proof of this is that their first priority, after insuring their physical security, was to establish schools and colleges.

This state made great strides in its first half century. And it did it through education, applied education. The growth was based primarily on agriculture. Of course, Iowa was blessed with good soil and ample rainfall, but other areas of the world with similar resources did not make the same progress. This state progressed because it learned what to do with its resources. And the leadership came from the educational institutions.

Probably there is more resistance to change now than there was during the early days of this state, because our problems then were more tangible. The revolution in agriculture involved physical resources.

I DO NOT imply that we live in a wasteland; on the contrary, I think life here is very good indeed, and I have little patience with those pessimists who enjoy picturing the Midwest as the country's backward area. But my conviction is that we have a far greater potential than many of us realize if we will marshal our resources and organize our efforts.

We need better public schools, good as our schools are. We need more utilization of the students we are training in our colleges.

We need more creative business enterprises.

We need a faster face-lifting of our cities and towns.

We need an expansion of our public services — highways, parks, mental hospitals.

We need to be more articulate in our politics.

We need, in short, greater opportunity for every individual to live the life he is capable of living.

And there is no reason why we can not have these things. All we need is the vision. THAT IS what excites me about the role which a great university can play in a state like this. The University is the one institution which can provide the stimulus for political and economic and cultural thinking which will equip us to use effectively all the resources we have.

I do not suggest that the University itself can organize the efforts of a state, or dictate to the people of a state. I realize the University cannot dictate to the Legislature nor to the business community nor to anyone else. The University can only lead.

I have no blueprint in mind. I am convinced only that there are ways to provide this intellectual leadership. This University has thousands of students from all sections of the state; it has great numbers of alumni who are active in all of the professions and all phases of business throughout the state.

It has on its faculties trained minds in all of the disciplines of the arts and sciences. It has vast facilities for research. It has laboratories in both the physical and social sciences. It has relationships with the entire apparatus of higher education in the state. It has publications that reach thousands of people.

I suggest that the impact of all this on the community welfare can be enormous. I suggest, too, that the times are right for an expanded role of leadership. There is in our society a new respect for scholarship. Before the industrial revolution when only the privileged few were exposed to education there was great respect for the teacher and the philosopher, a respect which was eclipsed for awhile in the glitter of our materialistic society. Now I think there is a growing realization that affluence can not be maintained and enjoyed in an intellectually sterile world.

I DO NOT want to imply here that this University has not already done — that it is not right now doing — many services for this state — more than the state has, at times, seemed willing to appreciate.

Iowa has been by no means inattentive to the needs of her institutions, but several of the surrounding states give their universities better support than we do here.

If this University is to grow and perform the functions it was intended to perform, then obviously it must have generous support. This means not only larger appropriations from the Legislature; it means time and energy and money in other ways from the residents of this state.

To illustrate the latter point with one specific example, the University has plans now for a handsome expansion of the fine art facilities on this campus, one part of which will be a new gallery to house the fine Elliott art collection. This seems to me not only a proper project for the University to undertake, but actually a necessary one, worthy of support by all residents of Iowa who seek more out of life than physical existence.

THIS UNIVERSITY has long had a record for excellence in the arts, matching its excellence in law and medicine and science and commerce. In this prairie area where the population is still thin by metropolitan standards but where travel is easy and convenient, we look to the University as the cultural center.

Here we expect to find available broad collections of art and a wide range of experience in music and drama and literature. If we as Iowa residents do our part, we will not be disappointed. In fact, most of us in Iowa may be too close to this campus to realize that it is fast becoming one of the great cultural centers of the nation.

"You Sure I Can Get ALL Of You In My Tank?"

Care to lose weight? Go to Nonomura

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The news from South Nonomura this week has been very encouraging. Gen. Ah So has overthrown the civilian government of Premier Hu Cares and is not in charge of the country again. Gen. Ah So has vowed to continue the fight against the guerrillas from North Nonomura.

Premier Hu Cares' downfall took place when students and religious leaders of the powerful Butane sect marched on the government palace and vowed to tear the place apart. Police forced the demonstrators back towards the USIA library building in the BUCHWALD center of the town. The students and demonstrators took the hint and before sundown wrecked the library.

The United States sent a strong protest to the minister of the interior, Hu Mi, who said he not only planned to reject the protest, but he was going on a hunger strike.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of Hu Mi's hunger strike enraged the Butane sect leaders, who said that they were the only ones who could go on a hunger strike. Unless Hu Mi stopped his hunger strike, they said, the Butanists would call for a mass drowning of all its members in the Won Ton River.

In the meantime the American ambassador in South Nonomura warned the military that the United States would take a dim view of them overthrowing Hu Cares' government. He said in no uncertain terms that if the military did anything to rock the civilian government the United States would have to reconsider its entire Southeast Asia policy.

The next day the military overthrew Hu Cares, and Gen. Ah So told the United States to stop interfering in the affairs of his government.

It is no secret that Gen. Ah So and the American Ambassador don't see eye to eye on political and military matters in South Nonomura and this has put the United States in an embarrassing position.

On the surface the U.S. has to support the American ambassador, but at the same time it realizes that nothing can be accomplished as long as Ah So is in power. If the State Department recalls the American ambassador it will be a sign of weakness on our part.

THEFORE, the only solution seems to be for the CIA to stage a coup d'etat against the American ambassador so he will be forced out. This the State Department has been reluctant to do for fear of hurting morale among its other ambassadors around the world.

Another reason the State Department is hesitating to do something this drastic is that they have been assured by the leaders of the Butane sect that Gen. Ah So won't be in power for more than a month if they have anything to say about it.

So the State Department has ordered the American ambassador to stand fast. But if things get tougher they have told him to go out on a hunger strike.

The American ambassador is now eating four meals a day to prepare for this eventuality.

A reporter in Washington asked a State Department spokesman if he thought the hunger strike might work.

The spokesman replied, "Why not? We've tried everything else."

Hypnosis May Help Grow Hair

Hypnosis may be the new hope for the bald or balding, according to the Insider's Newsletter.

Dr. William J. Bryan Jr. of the American Institute of Hypnosis claims that in some cases where loss of hair results from psychological disturbances, hypnotic therapy may help make it grow back.

Dr. Bryan cites the case of a bald physician who undertook hypnotic treatments to correct the psychological cause of his sinus trouble, proved that if hair follicles are still alive, the pituitary gland can send hair-growing hormones to the scalp and other parts of the body.

Four similar cases have been brought to the Institute's attention, but it flatly states that its "5,000 physician members are not in the hair restoring business."

Nevertheless, the Newsletter said, its researchers are working on the problem of hair loss and believe that if the cause can be found in the subconscious mind, it is possible to remove it under hypnosis administered by a qualified physician.

Other events planned for Saturday are: a discussion of the Mississippi Democratic Party's progress and aims by a member of that group; a discussion on "New Politics of Youth" by representatives of numerous civil rights and socialist groups; a speech on the Harlem riots of last summer by Conrad Lynn, defense attorney for the Harlem Defense Council and founder of the Freedom Now Party, and Mae Mallory, a leader of the Afro-American liberation movement.

On Sunday, there will be a discussion of "The Student Revolution," which will deal with student social and political movements on other campuses.

Nixon will deliver the closing speech of the conference on "The Task Before Us."

Careers Meet Is Scheduled For Feb. 16-17

"Where will I get a job?" "How much money will I make?" "What kind of work will I be doing?" These questions, uppermost in the minds of college students, will be discussed at the 20th annual Business Careers Conference to be held at the University of Iowa Feb. 16-17.

Under the sponsorship of the U of I Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, leaders from 14 fields of business and industry will participate in the two-day conference — many of them U of I graduates and former Iowans.

THE TWO LUNCHEON speakers will be Leonard S. Silk, senior editor and economist for Business Week, and Murray Joslin, vice president of Commonwealth Edison Company, Chicago electrical utility firm.

Ben Baack, B3, Thornton, president of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, announced that the conference program is designed to help upper classmen decide which areas of business they would like to enter and the opportunities in these fields, and to help freshmen and sophomores decide on courses which would interest them the most.

STUDENTS WILL hear what employers expect of college graduates and also what they can expect in the way of salaries, opportunities for advancement, variety and social usefulness of their jobs.

The conference is open to all students, including those from other campuses who are interested in business careers.

SESSIONS HAVE been scheduled on federal employment, public accounting, production management, commercial banking, insurance, retailing, armed services, data processing, industrial relations and personnel, managerial accounting, business education and secretarial science, marketing research and investments.

Three new panel discussions will be included this year — "Job Opportunities for Women," "Opportunities in Small Business," and "Graduate Education."

All sessions will be held in Old Capitol or the Union beginning at 3:30 a.m. daily. Tickets for the noon luncheons will be sold at several ticket booths in the Union and University Hall.

Dr. Hancher held several offices in the laity of the Episcopal Church. He was a member of the Vestry and senior warden of the Iowa City parish.

He had been a lay member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Iowa. In 1963 he was one of two persons from the diocese to attend the Anglican Congress at Toronto, Canada.

buried on a high knoll in Oakland Cemetery here. About 150 persons stood silently in the biting mid-afternoon cold as the graveside rites were read.

THE SILVER LAID casket, covered with a white tapestry overlaid with a cross of gold tapestry, was borne to the grave as portions of Scripture were read. Brief prayers followed.

Appropriately, the golden dome of Old Capitol, symbolic of Dr. Hancher's long association with the University of Iowa which began when he came as a student in 1914, is visible in the distance from the grave site.

Among those attending the services were University resident Howard Bowen; James Hilton, president of Iowa State University; J. W. Maucker, president of the State College of Iowa; five members from each house of the State Legislature; and present and past members of the Board of Regents.

PALLBEARERS were: Phil Connell, assistant to the President; Charles Davidson, professor of law; Robert Hardin, dean of the College of Medicine; Loren Hickerson, executive director of the Alumni Association; Clark Houghton, president of the First National Bank; Elwin Joffine, University vice president for business and finance; John Oberhausen, member of the Board of Regents; and W. W. Sumnerwill, president of Iowa State Bank and Trust.

Club Maps Plans For More Variety In Political Topics

The Political Science Discussion Club met Thursday night in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol to plan the club's format for the coming semester.

The club, which meets twice a month, holds discussions and debates on political issues, and arranges for various political figures to speak to the group. Its members include students from all campus political groups, and its chairman, Dick Pundt, A3, Homestead, said he feels the organization provides a means for "students of varied political backgrounds to debate among themselves issues and ideas that they would otherwise be unable to discuss."

Past speakers have included Sen. Jack Miller (R-Iowa), C. H. DeFord of the FBI, and David Bane of the U.S. State Department.

Paul Fiala, A2, Cedar Rapids, chairman of the format committee, said plans are being made to establish an even more diversified speaker format.

pressure would send the men sliding backwards.

FROZEN firefighters were allowed to return to the station to change clothes and warm up, but only when men could be spared. Usually two at a time returned to the station.

One fireman said the men had to crack the ice off their jacket buckles to get the icy garments off.

Other difficulties were encountered from the broken gas line which fed the blaze in the southeast corner of the building, Rittenmeyer reported.

THE GAS valve was located in the back of the house under the driveway and could not be turned off until the gas company broke through the pavement and frozen ground.

RITTENMEYER also said fire in hidden spaces of the building often could not be reached with water hoses. These spaces, such as one between the basement ceiling and the main floor, permitted the fire to spread to other areas of the building.

RITTENMEYER thought the fire spread vertically from the basement and later extended horizontally throughout the building.

All of Iowa City's 24 firemen were called to the blaze. The Coralville Volunteer Fire Department sent 12 men when requested at approximately 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, according to Coralville Fire Chief Bryce Wolford.

RITTENMEYER said several men equipped with special breathing apparatus went into the building when they first arrived on the scene but were forced out by flames. From that time on, the fire had to be fought from the outside.

Funds for Art Center Part of Greek Week

Projects to raise funds for the proposed new University of Iowa fine arts center will be features of the 1965 Greek Week Feb. 14 to 19.

Other activities will include a Leadership Banquet Monday, Feb. 16, at which the Outstanding Greek Man and Woman will be named, the selection of an Inter-fraternity Council Queen, a concert and a dance.

PROJECTS TO raise money during Greek Week will include contests to name the "Ugliest Man" among fraternity members and the sorority member with the "prettiest legs." Non-"Greeks" as well as "Greeks" will be eligible to vote as many times as they like at five cents a vote in both contests.

Names of the contest winners will be announced at an auction of services the evening of Feb. 17 in the Union River Room. Each fraternity and sorority will "sell" a car wash, party, skit, valuable object or other service. Proceeds from the auction and both contests will be contributed to funds for the proposed fine arts center.

The Leadership Banquet Feb. 15 in the Union Main Lounge will honor fraternity and sorority leaders. Each group will be represented by its president and a representative from each of the four classes. The senior class representative will be the house's candidate for Outstanding Greek Man or Woman.

GUESTS WILL include housemothers, faculty members and administrative officials. Loren Hickerson, executive director of the U of I Alumni Association, will speak on "The Greeks' Dilemma."

Busy Weekend Schedule Faces 4 Iowa Teams

Track, swimming and fencing teams of the University of Iowa will be in action in the Hawkeye Field House Friday and Saturday, along with the basketball team, in the first of the big February weekend schedules of home meets.

FIRST HOME fencing meets will occur Saturday afternoon. Beginning at 1 p.m., the Hawkeyes will meet Notre Dame and Indiana, and those two opponents also will fence each other.

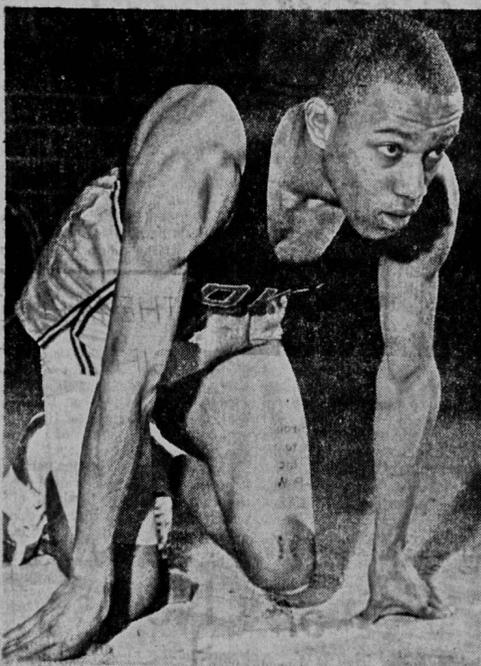

Swimmers will get into the sports act at 2 p.m. when they meet Illinois in an effort to rise above the 200 mark, Iowa has defeated Kansas and Nebraska and has lost to Minnesota and Michigan State, two of the Big Ten powers.

Iowa will meet Northwestern on the Field House hard court at 7:30 Saturday night. A large crowd is expected to be on hand, as all of the reserve seats have been sold out. Students are urged to support the Hawks, who will be fighting to hold on to second place in the Big Ten race. They now have a 4-1 record and are tied with Minnesota, while Michigan leads the league with a 5-0 slate. The Hawks play the Wolverines in Ann Arbor Monday night beginning at 7 (CST).

TRACK
Young athletes will be prominent in the Iowa scoring, for the 1965 team has at least 10 sophomores who are counted on by Coach Francis Cretzmeier. Only six major lettermen are on the squad.

THE HAWKEYES hope to score well in the sprints and middle distance races, as well as the hurdles. The distance runners, high jumpers and broad jumpers have yet to prove themselves.

Steve Goldston, one of the leading Big Ten sprinters, is a fast 60-yard man and also runs a good

Veteran Sprinter

Steve Goldston, a senior from Chicago, is Iowa's top sprinter this year. Coach Francis Cretzmeier believes Goldston will be one of the fastest men in the Big Ten this year in the 60-yard run. The coach said Goldston is capable of running the distance in :06.1. Iowa meets Bradley in their first indoor meet of the season tonight in the Field House. ## 10 Sophomores Will Be Key To Iowa's Winning Chances Bradley University of Peoria, Ill., visits Iowa tonight for the Hawkeyes' first dual track meet of the season. Field events will begin at 7 and running events at 7:30 in the Field House.

THIS WILL BE the third dual meet for the Bradley team and the first for the Hawkeyes. Iowa has competed only in the Illinois Open at Champaign, Ill. on January 30. Coach F. X. Cretzmeier said he was encouraged by the team's efforts there. He said the team had a real good workout and that was the purpose of the meet.

Cretzmeier praised junior Al Randolph for doing a tremendous job in the meet. Randolph competed in seven events. Other men Cretzmeier lauded were Steve Goldston, Steve Tiernan and Fred Ferree. He said the mile relay team also ran well.

This sophomore-heavy team, which has only six major lettermen returning, will try to show

Ralph Bextine, sprinter; Ron Berry, holder of the Iowa record for the 200-yard breaststroke; Paul Monohon, butterfly swimmer; Jim Cook, backstroke; and Michel Le-Vis, diver.

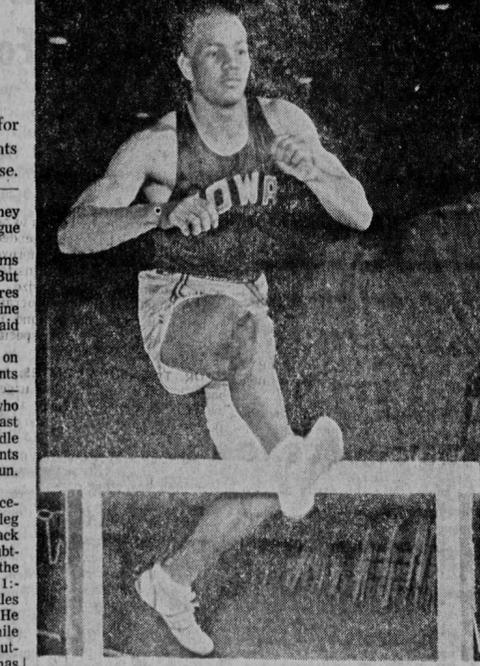

Only three lettermen are present on the Illini squad, headed by Captain John Olin, backstroke. The sophomore group boasts Dave Florio, sprinter, holder of the Illinois 50-yard freestyle record of :22.4. Bob Bachman, another rookie, broke the Illini 200-yard freestyle mark with a 1:52 clocking.

FENCING
The early season objective of Iowa's new fencing coach, Richard Marks, is to see his Iowa team defeat Notre Dame here Saturday. It was only a year ago that Marks was a star of the Irish team.

In addition to the Notre Dame meet, Iowa also will take on Indiana. The Irish and Hoosiers will stage a dual meet of their own to finish the afternoon's program.

Iowa was off to a fast start last weekend by beating University of Illinois at Chicago, 19-8; and Indiana Tech, 20-7. Notre Dame has a 5-0 mark, with wins over Case, Penn (2), Oberlin and Buffalo.

BEST OF the Iowans include Mike Kinsinger, Big Ten foil champion; Orville Townsend, foil; Bill Tucker, epee; and Butch Ryan and Dick Adams Jr., sabre. Notre Dame has strong fencers in Joe McQuade, foil; Tom Buhl and Frank Hajnik, epee; and Mike Dwyer, sabre.

Top Hurdler

Al Randolph, a junior from East St. Louis, Ill., was Iowa's top performer last year in both hurdle events besides competing in the high jump. Randolph also lettered in football last fall and started as a halfback on the defensive unit. He is not the only football player participating with the indoor track team. Sophomore halfbacks Tom Knutson and Dick Gibbs will compete in the shot put and broad jump while senior tackle Jack Price will enter the shot put event.

Jon Reimer, George, hurdles and broad jump. The coach believes that Goldston, a senior, will be one of the league's fastest 60-yard men, capable of close to :06.1; and that Al Randolph, the football defensive man, will be among the league leaders on both hurdle races. Steve Tiernan, Mason City, last week ran 9:34, his personal best, in the two mile.

Minor letter veterans are Jack Price, Milbank, S.D., shot put; Ed Troughton, Joliet, Ill., pole vault and 600; Dale Thompson, Ft. Madison, 440 and 600; and Derrick Williams, Mt. Vernon, N.Y., 880 and 1,000.

THE SCHEDULE of events and the probable competitors are listed below:
All field events begin at 7 p.m. Tom Knutson and Jack Price will put the shot. Bill Burnette, John Middlebrook and Dan Wolfe are the pole vaulters. Broad-jumpers are Dick Gibbs, Ken Ziegler and Jon Reimer. In the high jump are Dick Cummins and Larry Leonard. 7:30—mile run — Ken Messer and Ken Koester.

7:40—440 yard dash — Fred Ferree, Scott Rocker, Dale Thompson.

Iowa's Pervall Is Big Ten's 2nd Best Scorer

CHICAGO (AP) — Pace-setting Michigan's Cazzie Russell has a fair margin as the Big Ten's top basketball scorer, but a free-for-all has developed for the runnerup spot.

Official league statistics Thursday credited Russell with a 28.4 average in top-ranked Michigan's five conference victories.

Second best scorer is Iowa's Chris Pervall with 23 for five games.

In the important rebounding department, the league leader is angular Skip Thoren of Illinois with a four-game average of 18.

In team play, Michigan leads offensively with a 96.6 scoring average and is tops in rebounding with 52.6 per game. Illinois 3-1 has the best defensive record, a 64.5-point yield.

Indiana Smashes Loyola of Chicago

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Indiana revised its line-up midway in the first half Thursday night and spurned ahead of Loyola for a 109-82 basketball victory.

With the seventh ranked Hoosiers down 25-20, Coach Branch McCracken substituted Al Harden, Larry Cooper and Gary Grieger, who combined for 12 straight points in 2½ minutes. The visiting Ramblers were held scoreless in that stretch.

The half ended with Indiana in front 50-42, and Loyola never got closer than six points thereafter.

Greyhound, Famed Race Horse, Dies at 33

MAPLE PARK, Ill. (AP) — Greyhound, famed snow-white gelding who was the Man O' War of harness racing, died in his sleep Thursday at the age of 33, comparable to 132 for a human being.

The fastest trotter in harness racing history, Greyhound succumbed to infirmities of his age in his luxurious stable at the R. C. Flanery farm, 50 miles west of Chicago.

His caretaker, Vernor Dooley Putnam, said the majestic animal "just deteriorated from old age and went to sleep and died very peacefully."

Chris Pervall Is Key Man In Iowa's Drive To Second Place in League Race

By JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

After having played basketball in New Jersey school yards since he was 10, Iowa junior forward Chris Pervall, of Newark, has developed into one of the top playmakers and scorers in Hawkeye history and has been a key man in Iowa's drive to second place in the Big Ten.

CHRIS, who stands at 6-2 and weighs 186, was an All-State player for Weequahic High School in Newark, scoring 550 points his senior year.

Pervall entered Iowa last fall after two years at Coffeyville (Kan.) Junior College and is now the leading scorer for Coach Ralph Miller's quintet with a 21-point average. He has 321 points, a field goal percentage of .482 and a free throw percentage of .670. He has topped Iowa scorers in seven games and tied for honors in three others.

While at Coffeyville under Coach Buddy Ball, Pervall had a 16-point average in 25 games during his freshman year and a 17-point average in 31 games in his sophomore year.

PERVALL said he was first approached by Lanny Van Eman, now freshman coach under Ralph Miller at Iowa, after Coffeyville had played the Wichita freshman team.

"Lanny told me I had a real good chance to play under Ralph at Wichita after spending two years at Coffeyville. This is something I was looking forward to, because I like the fast break and felt I could adapt to Ralph's offensive style of basketball," he said.

Pervall has fitted Ralph's 1964-65 Hawkeye picture perfectly and has been the key man in moving the ball on the fast break. He paced the Hawks against UCLA last Friday, leading all scorers with 28.

Miller agreed that he always thought Chris would adapt to his style of play from the minute he saw him work out.

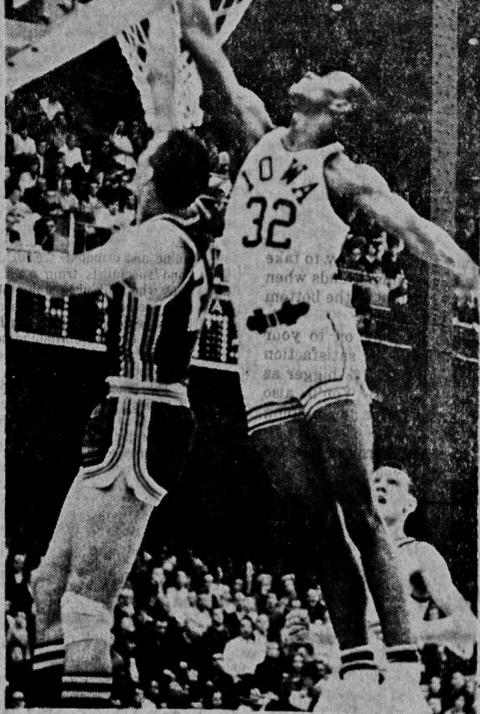

Chris said his freshman playing days at Coffeyville provided him with valuable experience, since his team played a regular schedule against tough opponents.

"HE HAS QUICK MOVES and is the best jumper for a man 6-2 that I have ever seen," said Miller.

Miller asked Pervall to come to Iowa last March, one week after accepting the job as new Hawkeye cage coach.

"It took me two months to make up my mind, but right before going home for summer vacation, I finally told Ralph that I would like to

Doctors Want Him Excused—

Jenkins Doesn't Show For Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two psychiatrists and a lawyer showed up Thursday in place of Walter Jenkins at the Senate's Bobby Baker hearing.

The hearing was closed and newsmen got only second-hand accounts of what happened, but the psychiatrists were reported to have urged that Jenkins, a former top aide to President Johnson, be excused from testifying.

JENKINS RESIGNED from his White House job at Johnson's request last October after it was disclosed that he had twice been arrested on morals charges, and has since been under treatment for what was described as "a depressive reaction."

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said no decision was reached at the Senate Rules Committee meeting on whether to insist that Jenkins put in a personal appearance.

Jenkins was under subpoena to appear before the committee Thursday morning and produce certain records. He did neither.

REPUBLICAN members of the committee have been demanding that Jenkins be questioned about an insurance agent's charge that Jenkins pressured him into buying $1,203 worth of advertising time on

LBJ Outlines Farm Plan To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sketched for Congress Thursday the broad outlines of a farm program he said is designed to enable rural Americans to share equitably in the national prosperity.

His special message, containing glimpses of the "Great Society" Johnson envisions, said farm policy must be geared to "an overall effort to serve our national interest, at home and abroad."

Leaving many of the details to be filled in later, he recommended that Congress continue and improve present price-support programs for major commodities, authorize a vast cropland retirement program to bring supplies and demand in better balance, and give special attention to small farmers.

FOR TWO COMMODITIES, tobacco and rice, the President urged two-price systems to make them more competitive in world markets.

And he said he will recommend later specific legislation to make cotton more competitive with other fibers in world markets and to reduce the cost of the program to the government and reduce the level of surplus stocks.

Johnson said the present wheat and feed grain programs should be extended and improved, and the wool law extended.

ADMINISTRATION officials estimate the long-range cropland retirement program he recommended might cost about $100 million annually, or billion dollars over a 10-year period. This would supplement the annual acreage diversion and acreage allotment programs now in effect, under which farmers receive payments for taking land out of surplus crops.

Officials said as much as 50 million to 80 million acres of good land ultimately might be taken out of crops and diverted to recreation, forestry, highway beautification, and similar non-agricultural uses.

FARMERS WOULD sign up to take land out of crops for 5 to 10 years, with the program flexible enough that the time could be extended should farm supplies still run ahead of demand.

At a news conference Thursday, Johnson said his message is for all farmers, large and small, and, indeed, for all Americans.

He said continued price supports for major commodities are necessary to prevent a catastrophic decline in farm income.

To help little farmers expand their operations and to assist their neighbors no longer interested in farming, Johnson proposed legislation to permit transfers of crop acreage allotments in the same state. Those no longer interested in farming could add to their income by selling or leasing their allotments.

Bundy Visits S. Viet Nam Amid Cry of Soviet Deal

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy began a round of fact-finding conferences with U.S. officials Thursday amid speculation in some Vietnamese quarters that a U.S.-Soviet deal on Viet Nam was in the making.

Bundy's arrival happened to coincide with the departure of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin for talks in Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam. Bundy denied his trip was related in any way to the Kosygin visit.

BUNDY'S ARRIVAL statement reiterated American pledges to continue support for Viet Nam's anti-Communist struggle. But the statement contained the diplomatic hint that Viet Nam was expected to do its part.

"The record of the last 25 years all around the world," Bundy said, "shows that those who stand firm for their own freedom can be confident of the strong and untiring support of the United States of America."

The phrase was greeted with a certain amount of cynicism from some Vietnamese officials.

"This could be a hook by which America could disengage itself, on grounds that our government is torn by divisions and upheavals, and therefore not able to stand firm for its own freedom," one Vietnamese official said.

SEVERAL Vietnamese took particular notice of friendly overtures from the White House proposing a trip this year by President Johnson to Moscow and a return trip to the United States by Soviet leaders.

"How can we interpret this?" a Vietnamese said. "Johnson is trying to make friends with Kosygin at the very time when Kosygin and one of his generals are visiting Hanoi, our enemy to the death. American policy is sometimes very difficult to understand, unless a deal is being made."

"The Americans and Russians made a deal on Laos which is still in effect. Would it be that they have something like that in mind for Viet Nam?"

Drive Launched For Medical Fund

A $3-million campaign to help provide medical treatment and training in nine countries where health conditions are critical was launched recently by MEDICO, a service of CARE.

In addition to conducting hospital and clinic services for the sick, the blind and crippled, MEDICO teams and specialists train local personnel who will ultimately take over the projects. Last summer a 5-year orthopedic project in Jordan was turned over to Jordanian surgeons trained by American orthopedists who rotated assignments.

The medical aid supplements CARE's food and self-help programs, in a three-pronged effort to help fight world hunger, poverty and disease.

Tidal Wave Danger Passes For Pacific Coast Residents

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Fear gave way to relief Thursday for thousands of coastal residents on both sides of the Pacific, who spent much of Wednesday night in apprehensive waiting for tidal waves that never came.

Seismic wave warnings were flashed around the northern Pacific rim and in Hawaii after a severe earthquake rocked the end of Alaska's Aleutian Islands chain.

BUT THE tidal waves never materialized, and alerts were called off after several hours. In Hawaii the waves were only a foot high. Along the U.S. West Coast they were a ripple.

The warning network was triggered with the memory still fresh of Alaska's devastating earthquake last March 27, which left a trail of death from here to Crescent City. More than 130 died, many in giant waves churned by the earth's convulsion.

AND THE ocean bottom did not writhe, as it did 10 months ago when huge waves raced across the Pacific and pounded the continent's West Coast.

State Solons Plan Bus Bill, Opinion Split

DES MOINES (AP) — Five Democratic Senators introduced a bill Thursday to allow private school pupils to ride public school buses. Although the measure is endorsed by Democratic Gov. Harold Hughes and his party's platform, it is expected to produce a major debate in the Democratic controlled legislature.

THE BILL would apply to private school pupils the same limitations on bus service as now are in effect for public school pupils. For example, elementary pupils living in municipalities of less than 20,000 population where the school is located would have to live more than two miles from the school to be eligible for transportation. High school students living in and attending school in municipalities of less than 20,000 population would not be eligible or transportation.

High school students in a district with a city of 20,000 or more would be eligible for transportation only if they lived more than three miles from school.

Sponsors of the measure are Sens. Peter F. Hansen, Manning; John Kibbee, Emmetsburg; George J. Malley, Des Moines; Andrew Frommelt, Dubuque, and Donald W. Murray, Bancroft.

THE SENATE Government Subdivisions Committee recommended passage of a bill to tie pensions or policemen and firemen to current salaries in those fields rather than to their pay at the time of retirement.

Hansen also was chief sponsor of a bill filed Thursday to give the state control over billboards within 300 feet of an interstate highway right-of-way. He said its adoption would bring Iowa a federal road money bonus of about $1.7 million.

ALSO RECOMMENDED for passage by the Government Subdivisions Committee was a bill to define drag racing and make drag racing on streets or highways punishable by a fine of up to $100 or up to 30 days in jail.

The committee amended the measure to require revocation of the drivers license of a person convicted of drag racing.

The Senate debated a bill to allow the Board of Regents to grant leave with pay to staff members at institutions it supervises, and continued debate on a bill to require state registration of interstate truckers operating in Iowa. No vote was reached on either measure.

Senate Committee Passes Presidential Disability Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved unanimously Thursday a constitutional amendment to establish procedures dealing with presidential disability and keeping the office of vice president filled.

Only minor changes were made in the proposal authored by Sen. Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), who called them clarifying and said the basic provisions of his original version were preserved.

Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), chairman of the committee said some members who favored sending the proposal to the Senate floor for action reserved the right to support amendments during the debate.

BAYH SAID he understands the Senate will not act until after the

Dividend Day For Employes Set Saturday

Procter & Gamble (P&G) employees in Iowa City last year shared in a record $18,534,000 paid or credited in profit-sharing benefits to company employes across the country.

Robert D. Marsden, plant manager, revealed this figure as he announced plans for Procter & Gamble's semi-annual "Dividend Day" to be held Saturday.

The occasion marks the 78th year of P&G's profit-sharing plan. A dinner-dance will be held at the Union, where some 75 persons are expected to attend.

Charles M. Fullgraf of Cincinnati, manager of the company's International Division for Asia and Latin America, will speak.

Marsden said total benefits accumulated by participants in the company's profit-sharing plan have increased far beyond the profit-sharing dollars set aside by the company. He said the funds have been invested in P&G common stock, which over the years has risen in value and never has failed to pay a dividend.

SOLD RESERVES DROP — NEW YORK — The Federal Reserve System reported Thursday that U.S. gold reserves dropped $100 million during the week ended Wednesday to $15,088 billion.

TRADITIONAL LINCOLN DAY BREAK at the end of next week.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), of the House Judiciary Committee plans to have his group work on a similar proposal next Tuesday.

The Senate passed substantially the same proposal last year 65 to 0 but the House did not act on it.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON has asked Congress to approve the proposal quickly and send it to the states for ratification.

The proposed constitutional change specifies that the vice president could become acting president either after a declaration by the chief executive that he was unable to perform his duties, or by majority action of the Cabinet if no such declaration is forthcoming.
