Directors Say New College To Open in Fall

Midwestern College will open for classes in Denison, in October, 1965, following recent action by the board of directors.

The action followed two days of discussion which were attended by 23 of the 27 directors of the new college.

The first building on the campus proper will be an administration building. The building will contain two 60-student classrooms, a 198-seat lecture theatre, temporary library and offices for administration, staff and faculty. The building will cost an estimated $375,000.

The resolution adopted by the directors calls for a trimester academic year, coeducational opportunities, and the granting of a four-year degree.

Kyner Named Homecoming Co-Chairman

David Kyner, Waterloo junior in pre-medicine, has been named co-chairman of the 1965 Homecoming Committee.

Kyner was appointed by President Howard R. Bowen to serve with Royce E. Beckett, professor of mechanics and hydraulics, in directing plans and preparations for next fall's event. Iowa's Homecoming celebration will be held Oct. 8-9 with Purdue as opponent in the traditional football clash. The co-chairman of Homecoming publicity in 1964, Kyner is president of the Pep Club and publicity chairman for the Spring Festival. He is treasurer of Sigma Pi social fraternity and has been active in the orientation program for new students.

Application forms were distributed by mail Friday as the committee co-chairmen began the process to select student co-chairmen and members for several Homecoming subcommittees. The forms were mailed to presidents of housing units and are available also in the Office of Student Affairs and the Union. Deadline for submitting applications to the Office of Student Affairs is 5 p.m. Feb. 15.

Nominations will be received also for a student general secretary for the committee.

Iowa Citian Gets 5 Years

Richard McCaffery, a 39-year-old Iowa City man living at 119 South Clinton St., Friday afternoon was sentenced to five years in the Anamosa Men's Reformatory on charges of being armed with intent to kill.

McCaffery pleaded guilty to the charge handed down by the grand jury in Johnson County District Court. A charge of resisting arrest was dropped.

The grand jury also indicted 26-year-old graduate student Joseph Merz, who is attending U of I. The charges against Merz were arson and larceny of a motor vehicle.

He is charged with setting fire to the Whipple House warehouse on South Van Buren St. and with the theft of an insurance company's car on New Year's Day. Merz is from Chicago and has been living at 11 East Burlington.

Senate Authorizes Regents to Grant Leaves with Pay

DES MOINES (AP) — The Senate voted 42-3 Friday to authorize the State Board of Regents to grant leave with pay to staff members, but did not grant the blanket authority the board asked.

The bill passed Friday and sent to the House authorizes the paid leave, but requires that a person accepting it must agree to either return for at least two years of work or forfeit the pay received while on leave.

The board has said it needs such authority in bargaining for faculty members at the University of Iowa, Iowa State University and State College of Iowa. It said lack of a program of paid leave for research and study puts it at a disadvantage in competition for faculty with institutions which do have such a program.

Professor Caught Out on Limbs

NEW YORK (AP) — No doubt the bachelor professor from England was only trying to be helpful when he warned women of the danger of exposing bare limbs to the elements. But his advice was received with undiluted scorn on this side of the Atlantic.

Prof. Alexander Boyd, 59, head of Manchester University's department of surgery, speaking at a news conference Thursday, advised women to wear thick stockings, boots, even bloomers — anything to keep their legs warm.

"GIRLS WHO dress scantily in cold weather," said Boyd, "run the risk of getting fat calves and blotchy skins by the time they're 30." The result of exposure to cold is a condition called erythromelanosis crurum pelluans frigidum.

"Hideous legs," he concluded "can ruin a girl's life. The only answer is to keep them warm." The professor's theory and advice left Americans, from designer Rudi Gernreich to actress Jill St. John, almost unanimously unimpressed.

Miss St. John said she had no intention of wearing thick stockings or heavy bloomers.

"IF HE'S a bachelor," she said "I'm sure he's going to stay that way. The whole world doesn't live in Goose Bay, Labrador, or Thule, Greenland. I think the doctor would be doing more of a service if he devoted his search elsewhere — like finding a cure for the common cold."

"The professor is all wet," said Miss Carol Nashe, who is head of Boston's Carol Nashe Fashion Model Agency, one of the largest in New England.

"He's been a bachelor too long. I deal with lovely girls practically all of whom are natives of New England, which has extreme cold weather in the winter. None wears heavy stockings or even galoshes — and you should see their legs. They're perfectly curvaceous and lovely."

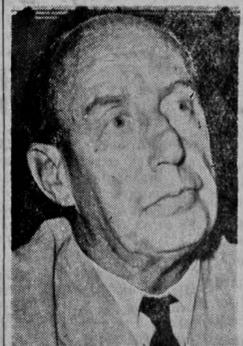

"WEAR BLOOMERS and heavy stockings? Not on your life. Our flimsy underthings will do just fine, thank you."

Gernreich, designer of the topless swimsuit and no-bra-bra, refrained from criticizing the Boyd ideas only because they don't conflict with current styles.

"The doctor won't have to worry about fashionable women," he said. "Thick stockings and high boots are fashionable this year. I wouldn't approve if they weren't in fashion."

Adlai Says U.S. Will Win U.N. Face-Off

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, summing up his views for his 65th birthday Friday, said some nations "don't even perceive what's involved" in the U.N. financial crisis and some don't care.

But he expressed confidence the United States can muster the needed two-thirds vote in the General Assembly in any showdown with the Soviet Union on the matter of money and the right to vote.

IN A FAR-RANGING interview with the Associated Press, the chief U.S. delegate said the organization can't stand still. He said Red China is trying to break up the United Nations; expressed belief U.N. troops pulled out of the Congo too soon; and declared he has no present intention of leaving the United Nations although he finds his job more of executing policy than making it.

Stevenson said the dispute over paying U.N. peacekeeping dues is between "those who want to preserve the organization intact and those who don't, or don't care, or who don't even perceive what's involved."

Realism Mock U.N.'s Aim

By KATHY TURNER
Staff Writer

Authenticity will be the goal of the mock United Nations General Assembly, according to Steve Teichner, A3, Amherst, Mass., assistant regional director of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations (CCUN).

The mock U.N., sponsored by CCUN, will be held on campus next Wednesday through Saturday. Fifty countries will be represented.

"WE ARE ATTEMPTING to duplicate the United Nations in every way possible," Teichner said, "even to the extent of trying to acquire a flag for each nation represented in the General Assembly."

The physical plan of the U.N. will be duplicated as much as the Senate Chamber in Old Capitol will allow, he said.

Authenticity, Teichner said, is needed for the educational purpose of the mock U.N. By making it as realistic as possible, the CCUN

Negro Leader Eyes Meeting With Johnson

Rev. King Leaves Jail
In Alabama, Will Seek Help for Voter Drive

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Friday that he left his jail cell to seek a meeting Monday with President Johnson for help in the Negro voter drive in Alabama.

King announced his plan a few hours after several hundred more Negroes were arrested here in protest against refusal of county officials to speed up registration.

While King held a news conference, 15 congressmen from Northern and Western states met at the courthouse with several Alabama Republican congressmen to discuss the racial situation.

"I feel the need for new legislation on the right to vote," King said. "I feel the need for a constitutional amendment, one that probably will set up federal registrars and set the same standards for both federal and state registration."

King said that one of his aides already had contacted a presidential assistant about a meeting with Johnson. He said that continued demonstrations in Selma were "a real possibility."

He said the drive here would be successful if the registrars would agree to operate on a daily basis and if authorities would stop arresting Negroes for walking to the courthouse.

"We plan to be in Selma until the victory for the right to vote is won," he said. But he said he would return to Atlanta on Saturday and then resume his Alabama campaign during the next few days, going into some adjoining counties.

Strives for Victory

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. vowed to continue the voter registration drive "until victory is won" at a news conference Friday. He also cited a need for new legislation on the right to vote.

More Books Slated For Burge Library

Additional books for the new branch of the University Reserve Library in Burge Hall will arrive as soon as possible, according to Douglas Hieber, head of circulation at University Libraries.

There are now 154 books on reserve in the library; about 600 are expected to be on reserve within approximately six weeks. These books primarily will be for courses numbered under 100. Areas to be included are nursing, geography, sociology and psychology.

Hieber said response to the new plan has been overwhelmingly favorable. Even graduate students who would never use the library have commented to him on the "imaginative thinking of the library."

The plans for the new reserve section were approved last Friday Hieber said. By Monday, new lights, shelves and other facilities were being set up.

Funds for the new book station come out of the regular library funds. Hieber said that there were plans to ask the next Legislature to appropriate money specifically for this purpose.

Mrs. Connie Easter who is in charge of the Burge branch, commented that many girls had stopped in to ask questions and to look at the books which are now there.

Another Boy, Also Student, Hospitalized

Victims Receive Aid
From Army Captain
At Scene of Accident

A University of Iowa student was fatally injured Friday when the car he was driving struck a tree on Kirkwood Boulevard in Davenport.

The student, Lee John Carr, 18, of Iowa City, died in St. Luke's Hospital, Davenport, shortly after the accident which occurred about 4 p.m.

He was a freshman at Iowa.

FUNERAL SERVICES are scheduled for 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, Davenport, of which Carr was a member.

Burial will be in National Cemetery on the Rock Island Arsenal.

Carr was the son of Mrs. Marion Odell Carr, 905 W. Benton St., and Dr. Jack Carr of Eureka Springs, Ark. Mrs. Carr is a graduate student at the University and a teaching assistant at University High School.

ANOTHER STUDENT, Thomas Cannon, 18, of Coralville, was a passenger in the vehicle. He also was injured in the accident and was listed in satisfactory condition at St. Luke's hospital Friday night.

Cannon is a freshman.

Hospital sources said they expected Cannon to be transferred to an Iowa City hospital today.

Davenport police said Carr unsuccessfully attempted to follow a curve in the street and hit a tree on the median strip of Kirkwood Boulevard. He was pinned in the auto.

Frank Javorka, Davenport, an Army captain stationed at the Rock Island Arsenal, administered first aid until police arrived.

CARR WAS born Feb. 26, 1946. Before enrolling at the U of I, he attended St. Andrews School in Middletown, Del., where he was a member of the football and sculling teams. He received much of his earlier education in Arkansas schools.

Survivors include the parents; a sister, Chandra, who is a student at St. Catherine's School in Davenport; a brother, Marius, who lives with his mother; and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Odell of Moline, Ill.

He was preceded in death by a brother, Floyd, who died in infancy.

Friends and relatives may call at the Runge Mortuary, Davenport, from noon until 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Symphony Ready For Fourth Concert
The University Symphony Orchestra will present its fourth concert of the year at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Union. The concert, to be conducted by James Dixon, professor of music, will feature Dorothea Brown, soprano soloist, and Joel Kronick, cello soloist. Both soloists are members of the music department faculty.

CORRECTION
The Daily Iowan incorrectly reported in Friday's issue that the "Summer Job Directory" is available at the office of student financial aid. No such booklet has been received at that office.

Who Says Fat Legs?

"The professor is all wet," says Carol Nashe, a native New Englander who runs a modeling agency. She scoffed at the warning by Prof. Alexander Boyd that women who expose thinly clad legs to cold weather will get fat calves and blotchy skin.

After Poetic Debate —

Death Penalty Bill Passed by House

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill to abolish the death penalty was passed by the Iowa House Friday after more than an hour and a half of debate sprinkled with Biblical quotations and recitation of a Eugene Field poem.

The House sent the bill to the Senate by a vote of 89-29, thus clearing the way for House debate next week on another highly controversial measure to repeal the state's right to work law.

BEFORE FINAL passage the House defeated proposed amendments which would have retained the death penalty for certain crimes.

It also beat down an amendment to allow a jury or judge, at the time a life sentence was imposed, to prohibit the State Parole Board from ever recommending commutation of the sentence by the governor to a term of years.

The debate basically was a clash between two schools of thought about whether the death penalty serves as a deterrent to the crimes of murder and kidnapping for ransom — the only two in which the death penalty now may be invoked.

REP. CHARLES KORN (D-Logan), sponsor of the bill, said statistics indicate capital punishment does not deter crime. If death were a deterrent, he said, "the death toll on our highways is such that not one of us would drive a car."

Rep. John Duffy, D-Dubuque, recited for the House Eugene Field's poem "Little Boy Blue" during an account of a 1937 murder trial in which he was the prosecutor. He said he had used the poem to "inflame the jury" but after the defendant was convicted and hanged he had come to the conclusion the defendant did not have a fair trial.

Rep. Carroll Redfern, (D-Donnellson), arguing for retaining the death penalty, quoted from the book of Genesis, "Whosoever sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed."

Blaze Said Likely Due To Cigaret

A discarded cigaret or match was cited Friday as the probable cause of the fire which extensively damaged the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house Tuesday, according to Iowa City Fire Chief Adrian F. Rittenmeyer.

Investigation also indicated that damage to the house was not as great as had been previously thought. The southeast corner and the attic areas were the only total losses, Rittenmeyer said.

He said the north portion of the building was not damaged by fire except for the roof and attic. It did receive extensive water and heat damage, however, Rittenmeyer said.

The slow-burning fire began in the basement of the house and burned upwards to the top floor. Firemen fought the blaze, which began about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, for approximately 10 hours.

Hancher Memorial Rite To Be at 3 p.m. Sunday

The University will honor Dr. Virgil M. Hancher, its president for 24 years, in a memorial service at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Union. The service is open to students, staff and faculty.

University president Howard R. Bowen will preside at the service. W. Earl Hall, editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette and Dr. Hancher's former classmate, will speak.

Robert S. Michaelson, director of the school of religion will offer prayers. The University Symphony Orchestra, directed by James Dixon, will play the second movement of Symphony No. 3 (Eroica) by Beethoven, and funeral music by Mozart.

An oil portrait of Dr. Hancher will be shown for the first time at the service. The painting was done by Mrs. James A. Kent, 607 Templin Road. Kent is the head of the University photographic service.

Dr. Hancher commissioned the portrait just before he and Mrs. Hancher left for New Delhi last August. Photographs of progress on the painting were sent to him from time to time for approval. The portrait was completed about four days before Hancher's death Jan. 30.

It depicts Dr. Hancher in academic dress, seated in the massive, carved chair he used at his inauguration in 1941 and in commencement exercises while he was president.

Mrs. Hancher, and her daughter and son-in-law will attend the service. It will be broadcast over WSUI.

Because of the special service, the Iowa Mountaineers film-lecture set for 2:30 p.m. will be postponed to 3:45 p.m. at Macbride Auditorium.

Wash Out
Due to the sudden warm weather, the Iowa Athletic Department has announced all non-paved parking lots behind the Field House will be closed to parking for tonight's game with Northwestern, which begins at 7:30. Fans are encouraged to park near the Union and Library and walk across the river to the Field House. Early fans will be able to use the single paved lot at the south end of the Field House.

Bookers' apathy

THE BOOK PICKETS have finished their protest, and the effects of it appear to be slight.

A number of students had an idea which may well be a good one, but it just didn't catch on. We admire the fortitude and dedication of those pickets who stood outside holding signs in sub-zero weather, but their effort was to no avail.

The bookstore owners claim business is booming as usual. Anyone buying a book in the past few days will have to agree the lines were longer than ever.

There is no doubt but what a co-op bookstore could save students money (that was the point of the picket) — but evidently most students don't really care that much. Since the University is already busy in a number of areas of student services, it seems doubtful that anything but an enthusiastic student response could move University officials to create a co-op. Such a response was certainly lacking during the bookstore picket.

Perhaps there is another issue which is "burning" enough to rally the students in support of a cause. If there is, we hope the same students who manned the picket lines can find it. Their enthusiasm should not go unnoticed.

The big atheists

MUCH OF THE FERMENT in the Soviet Union and the countries of Eastern Europe is due to a dawning recognition of the stifling and asphyxiating effect of clinging to outmoded Communist dogma. Few Communists saw this more clearly than the late Palmiro Togliatti, leader of the party in Italy until his passing last August. The testament which he left is a remarkable document, with outspoken admonitions to Nikita Khrushchev, then still the seemingly unassailable leader of the party in the Soviet Union.

What is more remarkable is that since Mr. Khrushchev was ousted from the Kremlin, the new leaders of the Soviet party have made moves which would seem to be an indirect admission that some of Mr. Togliatti's criticisms were justified.

"... Old atheist propaganda is of no use," wrote Mr. Togliatti. "The very problem of religious conscience, its content and its roots among the masses, how to overcome it, must be presented in a different manner from the past."

Now, it is interesting to note, the Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia has no qualms about announcing that President Mikoyan has received a delegation from the Christian Peace Conference accompanied by a group of Soviet churchmen. And shortly after Mr. Khrushchev's fall from grace, Kommunist — the Soviet party journal — was already writing that much more favorable conditions for cooperation between Communists and Christians has arisen as a result of the changed political and social situation. What a contrast with an article in the same magazine a year ago! The Kommunist was describing atheist propaganda as an "urgent ideological task."

Of course it would be a mistake to see change in the Soviet attitude toward religion as anything but tactical. The doctrine propounded by Soviet party ideologues (or the late Mr. Togliatti) is incompatible with Christian teaching — as indeed is any totalitarian political belief.

But that should not prevent a mild expression of satisfaction at any apparent easing by Communists of religious persecution.

Memorial Sunday

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR Dr. Hancher were quiet, dignified and crowded. The former president was a widely known and greatly liked man. No church or auditorium in Iowa City could have accommodated his numerous friends.

The University is holding a final tribute to Dr. Hancher with a memorial service 3 p.m. Sunday in the air. The service will be broadcast over WSUI which is going on the air especially for that reason.

Sunday's service will allow the many who were unable to attend the funeral itself to pay tribute to one of the state's finest sons.

Buchwald's budget plan

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — My wife always tries to coordinate the presentation of her annual household budget with that of the President's budget on the theory that by the time I see his, I won't be too shocked by hers.

This year in her message to the family she announced proudly that her budget was a fiscal triumph, one of opportunity and sacrifice, that would wipe out waste, meet the needs of the family and move toward the fulfillment of hope in the Great Society. She also said she was going to have the living room done over.

As leader of the opposition in our house, I pointed out that my wife had overestimated revenues and underestimated expenses by $9,000. She retorted "I see you've never heard of the advantages of deficit spending."

"I didn't expect a balanced budget," I said, "but I was hoping to reduce our balance of payments to at least Sears Roebuck, if nobody else."

SHE SAID "I have pruned the budget to the bone. I have made economies in our electric light bill, our laundry bill and our milk bill. We should save at least $15."

"What's this item here 'Boxwood trees $225?'"

"That's a defense expenditure," she said. "Mary Lindsay just planted two and I'm not going to let her get away with it."

"Under education you have listed 'Joel, dancing lessons $50.'" "You don't want him to become a drop-out do you? Besides it's cheaper to teach him to dance now than to try to rehabilitate him later."

"I see where you have listed in the budget that you intend to recover all the furniture in the library."

"YES, IT'S part of my conservation program. I feel we should protect our natural resources, such as slip covers and draperies, to make America beautiful again."

"Under health and welfare you've listed a new television set for Vicki, the cook. Don't you think that's a bit much?"

"I wasn't referring to her health and welfare — I was referring to mine. If Vicki has a new TV set the entire household will benefit by it."

"What's this under 'Space program' $1000?"

"We need more space in the basement. Mr. Golder said he can build us an extra storage room for $1000."

"But that's a luxury item," I protested.

"SPACE IS not a luxury item. The Symingtons are way ahead of us in space, and if we don't have a crash program we'll never catch up with them."

"Why did you take out my request for a pool table in the budget?"

Because it's obviously a pork barrel program designed to please only one member of the family. In making up the budget I've had to think of all the people, and not just the vested interests of a few."

"But I happen to be on the house ways and means committee, and you're going to need me to get your budget through."

She said angrily: "Do you mean to tell me that you would blackmail me into a pool table just so I could get my budget passed?"

"Certainly," I said.

Problems of U.N. peace-keeping

By JOHN MAHER Staff Writer

The financial showstopper most observers feel must finally clinch in the imminent General Assembly of the United Nations has focused itself on the most obvious, the most sensational implication of payment failures — voting rights. There are, however, subtler problems to the overall effectiveness of the U.N. in its peace-keeping role, which will have been solved or multiplied when discussion is ended.

In the Suez emergency the General Assembly created UNEF, a non-belligerent international force which interposed itself between warring opponents to end hostilities without involving the U.N. as an aligned participant. In this way the Assembly hoped to avoid erring its own impartiality in the eyes of belligerent parties, and to maintain a respectable position as a fair arbitrator.

When the Congo crisis erupted in 1960, the Security Council decided in favor of the method adopted by the General Assembly in Suez, and rejected the use of its own coercive powers. The resulting force, ONUC (United Nations operation in the Congo), in spite of all its difficulties was essentially a peace-keeping force.

THESE TWO peace keeping missions have in common a number of important features. Their use requires the consent of the host country. They were quickly composed of voluntary manpower and material contributions by nations not committed to the side of either belligerent. They remained under direct control by the Secretary General of the General Assembly. They were forbidden, once interposed, to take any action other than that of a defensive nature.

Finally, however, they share one more important common denominator. They are pivotal issues in the yet obscure U.N. financial fight.

Political and legal claims are submitted by France, the Soviet bloc and others in their refusal to remit shares of the cost of these operations as imposed by the General Assembly.

The Soviets insist that only the Security Council may apportion collective security costs. The French delegation claims that the Assembly may recommend, but may not compel any action, even financial, on peace-keeping measures.

A request for an advisory opinion from the International Court of Justice drew a statement by the Court that the costs of UNEF and ONUC constitute expenses of the organization in terms of Charter Article 17, that "the expenses of the organization shall be borne by the members as apportioned by the General Assembly."

RECENTLY distributed United Nations literature includes a number of mass-disseminated brochures, scripts and posters. This literature admits that it cannot be proven conclusively that the UN "prevented war" in Suez, in the Congo, or on Cyprus.

"But" asks the script, "who would be crazy enough to want to find out?" Crazy or not, unless the spirit of Article 17 is accepted without reserve by all member nations, it's possible that we may find out. We may just find out, after all.

Living in the barracks is a bargain. We certainly get our $62.50 worth in privacy, room, and relative comfort. We couldn't do as well in town. But it is hard for us to believe the University is losing money on us.

I'm quite sure that our rent defrays all costs of upkeep, utilities, and public school tuition. At this time in our lives, when my husband and I are living on a very limited amount of money, we are not terribly eager to pay an increased rent rate so that next year's undergraduates will have better housing facilities.

We can't complain about the rent as it stands but to increase it and not offer the present occupants any more for their money seems to be putting an unreasonable burden on the average

In Municipal Court— Charges Dismissed In Zoning Case

The Iowa City Municipal Court ruled Friday that Henry M. Black, 422 Brown St., has not violated city zoning laws by maintaining multiple units at 414-416 and 426-428 Brown St.

Police Judge Roger H. Ivie's decision said the ordinance under which the charges against Black were filed prohibited the occupancy of such units, but no evidence of this had been presented.

Congressman Will Lecture Here Friday

Wisconsin Congressman Henry S. Reuss, a former economics professor, will make two appearances at the University Friday.

He will conduct a seminar on opportunities for research applicable to current problems at 2:30 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

Reuss will lecture on "Economic Policy for America and the Free World" at 8 p.m. in Shambaugh Auditorium.

He was formerly on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin. A graduate of Cornell University and Harvard Law School, he is currently on the Banking and Currency Committee of the House of Representatives and is a member of the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

A new group in the college of business administration, the Research Advisory Committee, arranged the two engagements. The six-man committee was set up to stimulate faculty and graduate student research on problems facing the nation today.

Reuss, a Democrat, is the author of "The Critical Decade," in which he advocates closer economic ties with other free nations as a step toward solving our own problems.

Automation and Civil Rights Topics for Labor Conference

Automation and civil rights will be discussed by midwestern businessmen, and industrial and labor leaders here Mar. 15.

Gov. Harold E. Hughes and University President Howard R. Bowen will keynote the opening session of the ninth annual Labor Management Conference conducted by the University's Bureau of Labor and Management.

Hughes will speak on "The Need for Labor-Management Cooperation for Iowa Manpower Development." Bowen, head of the National Commission on Technology, Automation, and Economic Progress, will give the welcoming address.

The influence of automation and civil rights from the viewpoints of both labor and management will be the subject of two panel discussions during the afternoon.

Anthony V. Sinicropi, head of labor services for the Bureau of Labor and Management, will chair the discussion on "Union and Management Cooperation: An Approach to Meeting the Challenges of Technological Changes." Panelists will include Frank W. Braden, general personnel manager, Illinois Bell Telephone Company, Chicago; P. L. Siemiller, general vice president, International Association of Machinists, Chicago; and Professor Harold W. Davey, Iowa State University.

The panel on "Employment Practices in Transition — The Civil Rights Act of 1964," will be conducted by Don R. Sherif, head of the Bureau's management services. Members of this panel will include Walter G. Davis, assistant director, Civil Rights Department, AFL-CIO, Washington, D.C.; H. W. Wittenborn, vice president, Personnel and Industrial Relations, Cook

Electric Company, Morton Grove, Ill., and University of Iowa professor of law, Arthur Bonfield.

B. L. Barnes, dean of the College of Business Administration, will close out the one-day conference which is expected to attract approximately 150 representatives of labor and management.

Jude P. West, head of the Bureau's government services will coordinate the program activities. West, pointing out that the speakers represent both regional, and national organizations, said: "This program promises to be one of the most interesting and informative conferences to be conducted this year at the University. The problems of automation and civil rights are of vital concern not only to labor and management, but to the general public as well."

Persons wishing to attend should send a $15 registration fee to William D. Coder, director of conferences, University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Officials To Plan Kindergarten Roundup Monday

Plans for a kindergarten roundup will be outlined at a meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, in the Board of Education office, 104 S. Linn St.

Roundups are held at the elementary schools in the spring in order to provide information about kindergarten procedures and to obtain an estimate of the number of children expected to enroll in kindergarten in the fall.

Children entering public school kindergarten next fall must be five years of age on or before Sept. 15, 1965. City roundup chairman for the Iowa City area is Mrs. Henry Piro.

Mercy Hospital Damaged by Blaze

A small blaze in the basement of the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing building Thursday morning damaged a telephone relay box and scorched the nearby wires. No other damage and no injuries were reported.

A Fire Department official said the blaze started in a box of trash before 7:30 a.m. Eight firemen and two trucks responded to the alarm.

The blaze was extinguished in less than 17 minutes.

Peeples to Start Against Northwestern Here Tonight

GEORGE PEEPLES
Iowa Center

George Peeples, Iowa center and second highest scorer with a 15-point average is expected to be in the Hawkeye lineup against Northwestern's Wildcats here tonight.

Earlier reports said Coach Ralph Miller was planning to save the 6-8 post man for Iowa's encounter with Michigan next Monday night.

"HE HAS RESPONDED to treatments quicker than expected and was able to participate in workouts for the last two days," Miller said Friday morning.

"There is no reason at all for us to save him. He will play as much as necessary against Northwestern."

Tonight's game is a danger spot for the Hawkeyes and they know it. Iowa shares second place in the conference standing with Minnesota at 4-1 and plays leading Michigan (5-0) at Ann Arbor Monday evening.

NORTHWESTERN, sixth with 2-3, has edged Michigan State twice and lost to Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota, three of the league's best. The Wildcats fell to Minnesota Tuesday, 70-66.

"Northwestern has improved greatly recently and now presents a big threat. Those two close wins over Michigan State, plus the close game with Minnesota has given them confidence," Miller said.

He went on to say that Northwestern is a young team and that when it gets up momentum it is very dangerous. In fact, the Iowa coach compared the Northwestern

Thinclads Beat Bradley, 93-21

The Iowa track team won its first dual meet of the season Friday night, literally running away from Bradley, 93-21, in a meet held at the Field House.

Iowa veteran Steve Goldston won his specialty — the 60-yard dash — in a time of 0:06.2.
