4-Engine Airliner Crashes Off N.Y. Coast

Carried 78 Passengers And Five Crew Members

NEW YORK (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines propeller-driven airliner exploded and plunged like a fiery comet into the Atlantic Ocean Monday night, minutes after takeoff from Kennedy Airport. All 84 persons aboard vanished in the icy waters of the dark sea.

A mass of orange flames formed a funeral pyre as the four-engine DC7B disappeared, leaving only an oil slick as an immediate mark of disaster off Long Island's south shore. The plane blew up at about 3,500 feet.

No survivors were found. And it was three hours after the crash before surface rescue ships picked up the first bits of wreckage — some cushions and plastic bags from the ill-fated aircraft. The site of the crash was about eight miles off Jones Beach, the famed summer playground about 35 miles from Manhattan. A Coast Guard lookout on the beach, Seaman Dale Bishop, 19, was an eyewitness.

"I heard a thud — no, it was more like a firecracker and then I saw the plane burning," he said. "It was awfully foggy but I could see something burning for about two minutes."

"The flames were orange but I was not sure it was a plane — yet it must have been. The flames flared up for a while and then died down."

Despite the seaman's emphasis on the fog, George Van Eips of the Federal Aeronautics Administration at Kennedy Airport said: "The weather was no factor in the crash."

The plane was EAL's Flight 663 which originated in Boston. After a stop at Kennedy, it took off at 6:20 p.m. EST for Richmond, Va., Raleigh, N.C., Charlotte, N.C., Greenville, S.C., Spartanburg, S.C., and Atlanta, Ga.

It went down at 6:31 p.m., its passing marked by the sudden extinction of a blip on the air traffic radar screen at Kennedy Airport.

ABOARD WERE 78 passengers, 1 non-paying rider, and 5 crew members — a pilot, co-pilot, second officer and two stewardesses.

Final Respects Given Hancher

The University community paid its final respects to Virgil M. Hancher — its President for 24 years — with a solemn memorial service Sunday.

Over 900 students, faculty and staff members gathered in the Union Main Lounge for the service.

Mrs. Hancher, and her daughter and son-in-law Dr. and Mrs. Richard Hockmuth of Marshalltown attended the service.

President Howard R. Bowen spoke of President Emeritus Hancher's enormous and lasting contribution to the University and said "I am in his debt for work superbly done."

Dr. Robert S. Michaelsen, director of the School of Religion, read from the 90th Psalm, and in his prayer said "We thank Thee for Thy servant Virgil Hancher."

W. Earl Hall, former editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette and a close friend of Dr. Hancher's since their student days at the University, talked of Hancher's life as he had seen it.

Following Hall's tribute, the University Symphony Orchestra directed by James Dixon, associate professor of music, played Symphony No. 3 (Eroica) by Beethoven and Masonic Funeral Music by Mozart.

After the service Mrs. Hancher received friends near a recently completed portrait of Dr. Hancher receiving his first public showing that day.

Mortar Board Prepares For Graduate Study Day

Professors and graduate students from 27 academic fields will discuss and answer questions on post-graduate study with interested undergraduates, as part of the second annual Graduate Study Day program, at 10 a.m. Saturday in Schaeffer Hall.

Sponsored by Mortar Board, women's honor society, Graduate Study Day gives students a chance to ask questions about the merits of different graduate schools, possibilities for financial aid, undergraduate preparation and application procedures.

J. Richard Wilmeth, professor of sociology and anthropology will begin the program in 221A Schaeffer Hall with a talk on the general problems of graduate study.

Participants will then divide into interest groups for an hour discussion to problems related to particular areas of graduate study.

"Too often the student doesn't think about preparation for graduate study until his senior year," said Janet Scott, A4, chairman of this year's study program.

"Mortar Board arranged this program with the different departments of the University so that students can better plan their senior year and take advantage of scholarships and fellowships," Miss Scott said.

The following departments will be represented in the program: accounting, botany, business administration, child behavior and development, comparative literature, education, engineering, English, French, German, history, home economics, hospital and health administration, journalism, law, mathematics, nursing, pharmacy, physics and astronomy, political science, psychology, religion, Spanish, speech and dramatic art, social work, sociology, and zoology.

Beer Plus Bike Equals Trouble For College Man

DAVENPORT (AP) — A Chicago college student forfeited $150 in bonds Monday for being tipsy on a stolen bicycle.

Robert J. Morrey, 21, failed to appear in Municipal Court on three charges.

Police said Morrey while riding a bike in an uptown business district. Several autos nearly crashed into parked vehicles in avoiding the cyclist, they said.

Morrey was charged with intoxication, drinking beer on a public highway and stealing the bike, which was owned by John Liljequist of Davenport.

Police said Morrey was holding a bottle of beer in his hand when he was stopped.

Schlesinger Tickets Still Available

Tickets remaining today for the lecture Wednesday evening by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., are available free of charge to the public as well as to University students and staff members. They may be picked up 5:30 p.m. today and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, or until all tickets have been distributed.

"Latin America: Danger or Destiny?" will be the topic of the lecture, the fourth in the 1964-65 Lecture Series. It will be given at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Main Lounge.

Schlesinger, who went to Washington, D.C., in 1961 as a special assistant to the late President John F. Kennedy, left the White House in March, 1964, to write a book on the Kennedy Administration.

A graduate of Harvard University, where he later served as professor of history, Schlesinger won the Pulitzer Prize in 1946 for "The Age of Jackson." He is the author of "The Crisis of the Old Order," "The Coming of the New Deal," "The Politics of Upheaval," "The Age of Roosevelt," and "The Vital Center" and was co-author of "The General and the President," an analysis of foreign policy in terms of issues raised by President Harry Truman's dismissal of General Douglas MacArthur.

Limited Facilities

Better Equipment, More Space—

KWAD Remodeling Continues

By MARILYN LAUDNER Staff Writer

KWAD, the dormitory radio voice broadcasts from two small rooms in the Quadrangle. One room is cluttered with records, album covers, hundreds of radio parts and dozens of pieces of wire.

The other room is bare. Half of the wall is painted pale yellow; the other half is bare cement block. All of it is dirty.

The chaos is due largely to the current remodeling of the station to provide better and more efficient service, according to Tom Sheridan, A3, Bettendorf, general manager.

SINCE 1957 when KWAD moved into its quarters in the Quadrangle recreation area, it has been plagued by lack of funds and space.

Sheridan said before the current remodeling began, the station was operating with a counter top, two turntables, a small area for 45-record storage and eight square feet of other storage space.

With this limited space, KWAD was theoretically serving over 3,000 dormitory residents. Sheridan said, however, service was generally very poor, especially in the Quadrangle.

"We need more space, which we hope to have after we've finished, for new records, business materials, equipment and working," Sheridan said.

At the end of last year, Sheridan said, the network got permission to use the second room, and also bought a new amplifier for the control panel.

"That amplifier is still producing poor quality sound even with new equipment," he said.

LAST WEEK, KWAD staff members began to change everything, according to Sheridan. The new designs call for a studio similar to those in commercial radio stations.

"With the new facilities, students working for KWAD will work with equipment more like what they actually would use. Experience will be more practical," Sheridan said.

Sheridan listed the features of the remodeled station primarily in terms of better equipment and more storage space.

"We will have a new control panel which will be more compact because it runs on transistors. There also will be two wall-to-ceiling record storage racks. One of these racks will be for 45's and about half of the other for albums. The albums will be categorized," Sheridan said.

He said the new storage area will make it easier for disc jockeys to find records. There also will be room for extra power supplies.

"THE TROUBLE with KWAD was that it was not designed to be expanded," Sheridan said.

The new studio would be designed to allow for new equipment and storage space.

Funds for the remodeling are taken from current network funds. All the necessary money is not available now, but Sheridan said

U.S. Jets Participate In 2nd Retaliation

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — More than a score of South Vietnamese Skyraiders, with U.S. Air Force jets flying along, pounded targets Monday in Communist North Viet Nam; in the second strike in retaliation for Red blows against U.S. Army installations Sunday. The Vietnamese air commander reported heavy damage and many casualties at the target; described as three military camps.

The South Vietnamese encountered heavy enemy ground fire near the border and several planes were hit. All got back but one crashed.

U.S. and Vietnamese forces watched the skies for possible Communist air raiders. The Viet Cong promised to step up their guerrilla war "on all battle fronts" and said the ground attacks Sunday on the U.S. Army at Pleiku were only a beginning.

MORE THAN 1,800 wives and children of U.S. government personnel prepared to leave South Viet Nam — many of them with reluctance. President Johnson ordered their withdrawal as a safety measure. The American school in Saigon closed. The first groups of dependents leaves Tuesday.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander of Vietnamese armed forces, was jubilant about the raid by Vietnamese planes and the Sunday attacks on the Gulf of Tonkin coast by carrier-based U.S. Navy planes.

"Personally, yesterday was the happiest day and most important day of my life," he told newsmen in Saigon.

Khanh said the Vietnamese raids on three villages across the border knocked out 70 per cent of the targets hit.

A Communist Chinese radio broadcast claimed three U.S. planes were shot down in the attack and three others were downed later in the afternoon, bringing to 10 the number of American jets the Communists have counted as brought down. Radio Hanoi claimed four American jets were shot down Sunday.

IN WASHINGTON the Defense Department said no U.S. planes were missing after the Monday mission. One U.S. Navy jet was shot down Sunday and the pilot, Lt. Edward A. Dickson of Wyoming, Pa., ejected and parachuted into the sea. He has not been found.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Cao Ky, commander of the Vietnamese air force, flew the lead plane in Monday's raid and was hit in the arm by shrapnel. His wound was not serious.

The Vietnamese had been scheduled to participate in Sunday raids coordinated with the U.S. naval jets attacks but low clouds kept them grounded. Thus a second attack on the North had been expected.

Reporters in Saigon asked Khanh whether the new attack might not bring air raids by the Communists. "IN WAR there's always a risk," Khanh said, but added that he knew "for sure" that the North Vietnamese could not get through Southern air defenses. If the Chinese Communists air force tried, he said, the Americans could knock out most of their planes.

"At the most, 3 to 5 per cent of their planes would get through. Our air defense has been prepared," Khanh said.

U.S. airmen at the Da Nang base said they, too, were confident they could gain air superiority quickly in any classic air war. U.S. jet fighters patrol the frontier daily.

Three U.S. Navy aircraft carriers — the Ranger, Hancock and Coral Sea — are patrolling off the North Vietnamese coast.

The first elements of the U.S. Marine Corps anti aircraft missile battalion arrived in Da Nang from California. The battalion, which mans Hawk missile launchers, was ordered to Viet Nam by President Johnson Sunday.

Soviets Warn U.S. on Raids

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government said Monday night American air raids on North Viet Nam will force it and its allies "to take further measures to safeguard the security and to strengthen the defense capability of the democratic republic of North Viet Nam."

"No one should doubt that the Soviet Union will do this, that the Soviet people will fulfill its international duty to the fraternal socialist country," a government statement said.

It was distributed by the official news agency Tass.

Indians Donate Books In Memory of Nehru

By RITA MITRA Guest Writer

The India Association will present a set of books to the University in memory of India's first prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru at 7 tonight. The presentation will be made to President Bowen in the Union Pentacrest Room.

The more than 100 volumes will deal with all aspects of life in India and are intended to complement the series already on display in the Main Library.

They include writings of poet Rabindranath Tagore, Mahatma

Gandhi, Nehru, and other leaders. There are serious volumes of comment on art, politics, religion, and philosophy as well as tales of olden times depicting heroic deeds of brave warriors.

There is a selection of folk tales from all regions of the country, coupled with a factual account of the "new India," marching ahead in the spheres of industry and technology.

The Association was formed three years ago as increasingly large numbers of Indian students began coming to Iowa. It was felt that a formal organization might be able to project a clearer picture of India to the community.

Each fall, the Association presents a cultural program to celebrate, at long distance, the Festival of Lights. Interest in this had been growing so rapidly that the venue of the show had to be shifted from the Wesley Foundation to Macbride Auditorium in 1964.

Once every semester, an outstanding Indian film is shown. Scheduled for screening in March is Satyajit Ray's "Aparajito," the second of a famous trilogy.

Since its inception, the Association has been guided by Dr. Robert Michaelsen, director of the School of Religion. Dr. Frank Seiberling, director of the School of Art is faculty adviser.

New students are met upon arrival and the Association tries to find suitable accommodations for them and minister to their other needs.

Silence becoming U.N.'s most serious problem

DEBATES CONTINUE over whether the United States should be in Viet Nam, but the headlines leave no doubt as to whether we are there.

The appearance of 49 bombers over North Viet Nam forcefully illustrates that the United States is not only committed to technical advisers, but to bombs as well.

Why the United States is there is an important question, but an equally important question is why the United Nations isn't.

Since the United Nations has as one of its primary objectives the keeping of the peace and the prevention of aggression, why hasn't the world organization acted to put U.N. troops in Viet Nam much the same way they were put into the Congo?

The most obvious answer is that no one in the United Nations has brought the matter up. The other obvious answer is that the organization is having a big enough problem with its peace-keeping forces, which has created the payments crisis.

And perhaps the most obvious answer of all is that the world organization does not contain a large portion of the world, Communist China, which is deeply involved in the Viet Nam situation. In this aspect, the question becomes absurd.

And yet the United Nations does not completely ignore Viet Nam. A month ago, representatives from the United Nations met in Saigon with representatives of the surrounding nations to discuss the future of the Mekong Basin, not militarily, but agriculturally.

It is pathetic that the United Nations is able to deal with the lesser problems, but not the essential problem of war.

It appears to be a problem of non-confrontation. As in the payments crisis, nothing is being done by the organization because no-one is willing to risk having the two dominating powers of the United Nations come toe-to-toe on an issue.

If the United Nations is to become an effective organization and fulfill the noble objectives it outlined for itself in San Francisco 20 years ago, then it must become an arena for discussion, not a solemn, silent meeting place.

The major responsibility for creating this atmosphere lies with the major powers of the United Nations, if they wish to see the organization survive.

Removing the rope

THE HOUSE OF THE STATE Legislature, overwhelmingly went on record Friday against the barbaric death penalty which has long been a part of Iowa's legal system.

The House sent a bill to abolish capital punishment to the Senate by a vote of 89-29.

Since Gov. Hughes has already stated his opposition to the death penalty, the only obstacle facing abolishment of legalized killing in Iowa is the Senate vote.

No one argues that capital punishment should be retained on the grounds of revenge or "an eye for an eye." It is ludicrous to say that the family of a murder victim will be comforted because the killer is in turn killed. The second murder does not bring the victim back to life.

Proponents of capital punishment do argue that having this severe penalty on the books acts as a deterrent to crime. But most criminals do not believe they will be captured — if they did, the threat of life imprisonment would stop them just as surely as the threat of death.

Some crimes are committed not by criminals, but by persons moved with passion. These are often the most violent crimes (and hence the ones eligible for the death sentence). But a death penalty in the Iowa Code will have no effect on someone who commits murder while in a fit of rage.

The House has acted bravely and wisely in voting to strike this anachronistic law from the books. We urge the Senate to do the same.

Doctor in the house? Check your cuffs!

By ART BUCHWALD

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — The Air Force Academy scandal has suddenly turned the spotlight on cheating on examinations in college.

After the scandal broke, it was revealed that at least 55 percent of all college students cheat on exams. This was a pretty shocking figure and makes you wonder what type of doctors, lawyers, and engineers we will soon have in this country.

It's 10 years from today and a patient walks into the doctor's office.

"Doctor, I have a sore throat."

The doctor takes a peek at his shirt cuff and reads, "Aspirin, gargle, and rest."

He pretends to examine the patient and then says, "Take aspirin, gargle, and go to bed."

"BUT DOCTOR, the sore throat is accompanied by nausea."

The doctor begins to perspire. He lifts up his sock, where he has several crib notes pasted against his leg with surgical tape. He reads, "Sore throat accompanied by nausea could lead to complications."

"I'm afraid you have complications," the doctor says.

"What kind of complications?" the patient wants to know.

"I'm not sure. You'll have to return tomorrow after I do some tests."

That night, after all the offices are closed, the doctor sneaks into the office of another doctor on the same floor and breaks into his file cabinet. He finally finds a folder of a patient who has had the same symptoms and he copies down what the other doctor prescribed.

THE NEXT day the patient comes back, but this time he's broken out all over with spots. He asks the doctor what it could be.

"Is this a multiple-choice question or an essay question?" the doctor wants to know.

"What do you mean?"

"Never mind." The doctor then puts on a reflecting mirror over his eye, but what the patient doesn't know is that printed in tiny letters behind the mirror are all the diseases and what they look like. Under "spots" he has (a) measles, (b) chicken pox, (c) scarlet fever, (d) pillow allergy. There is a tiny red circle under (a).

"I think you've got measles,"

"What should I do?" the patient asks.

That night the doctor goes over to the hospital and asks if there are any patients with measles in the ward. He stands next to the bed of a measles patient and when the patient's doctor comes in he looks over his shoulder and watches what the doctor does, and makes notes on his shirt tail while the other doctor isn't looking.

THE NEXT day the doctor treats his patient in a similar manner.

"Thank you so much, doctor," the patient says, "How much is it?"

The doctor studies the palm of his hand.

Printed so only he can see are the words: "Office calls, $5. House calls, $10."

The patient pays and then says, "There's one thing, doctor. I think I have to have a hernia operation."

The doctor looks under his sock again and the crib note says, "To operate, first sterilize both your hands."

Germans study magic

NEW YORK — West Germany, which has become the second biggest Western supplier of arms to the new African nations, will insist that its emissaries to Africa be thoroughly indoctrinated in witchcraft. The Insider's Newsletter reported last week.

Defense Minister Kai Uwe von Hassel, who was born in Tanganyika, explained the action by pointing out that the Red Chinese already have a big witchcraft training center near Nanking, whose graduates have had remarkable success in gaining support of African tribes.

The Red Chinese have also done well by bribing native witch doctors, but the Defense Minister declined to say whether his agents use such methods.

West Germany is expected to send $42 million in arms this year to Ghana, Guinea, Somali, Tanzania, Ethiopia, and the Sudan, a figure exceeded only by that of the United States.

Western intelligence sources say that important men from the Kremlin have been visiting the suburban retreat of Nikita S. Khrushchev with an eye to finding a formula to give him back some of his status.

One of the reasons, according to The Insider's Newsletter, is that the new leaders are continually embarrassed by foreigners' questions about "what happened to Khrushchev."

They would like to have an answer that is not embarrassing before they make expected visits to England and other non-Communist countries.

"I T-T-Think I Want To Come Home," Said The Prodigal

LBJ proud of start

WASHINGTON — At a White House dinner last Tuesday night, President Johnson spent half an hour chatting with one of his guests, Richard Wilson, veteran newsman.

Wilson later wrote as follows in his column syndicated by The Des Moines Register and Tribune Syndicate, Inc.

President Johnson, feeling about 80 per cent of par and impatient with a slowdown caused by a virus infection, gave a state dinner the other night for the Vice President, Speaker and Chief Justice.

After some readings in the White House East Room by Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy, the President began to mingle with the guests. He came across one who is his contemporary of 39 years in Washington. The President had a lot on his mind, wanted a receptive listener and found one who shares many of his points of reference to past and present events without the need of elaborate explanations.

THE PRESIDENT is proud, and justifiably so, that his Administration has gotten off to such a strong start. His first full term is only a couple of weeks old, but he has hopes it will outstrip Franklin D. Roosevelt's famed 100 days of 32 years ago when the foundations of the New Deal were laid.

Johnson will have his part done in the next few weeks, the presentation of a complete and detailed program. Congress has rarely been off to such a fast start, nor has it often had before it so quickly and completely the outlines of a presidential program.

The President is strong in his reaction against the cocktail circuit gossip here that his failure to send Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to the Churchill funeral indicates friction with Humphrey. Johnson didn't pick Humphrey as Vice President to go to funerals; he needs him and is using him to help put through the legislative program.

On other campuses — Colorado freshmen to study independently

By TAM DUGGLEBY

Next fall, while students trudge daily across the nation's campuses, 75 freshmen at Allegheny, Colo., and Lake Forest colleges will be working toward their four-year degrees without ever attending classes, pursuing an education as part of a new experiment backed by the Ford Foundation. Free of the usually required courses, grades, and credits, the chosen students will be taken from registration to graduation in these liberal arts schools in a faculty-guided independent study, rather than a standard classroom situation.

Those participating will do so with a faculty adviser, who serves as perceptor, critic, and guide for the prospective degree candidate in his chosen field. In addition, the student will be able to take advantage of special access to artists, lecturers, and scholars visiting the college.

Technicians at the University of Texas' Linguistics Research Center are now at work on another new step in education as they work out detailed learning plans for a computer that will someday be able to understand any language spoken by man. Financed mainly by the Army, Air Force, and National Science Foundation, the project centers around a machine language translation study being conducted to give a new general-purpose computer language learning abilities.

ALTHOUGH the first attempted language has not been decided, the staff has already developed some aspects of the translation functions, using four different groups on various facets of the project. In the course of the research, mathematicians are developing theories and programmers are applying them to computers, while descriptive linguists specialize in different languages, and a fourth group researches management.

More progress in linguistics was made possible last month as the University of Michigan's new Center for Research on Language and Language Behavior began work to enable students of all ages to learn languages more effectively.

Based on a grant from the U.S. Office of Education, the equipment in the center is being used in a language learning study by university personnel as part of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

Humming with computers, electric typewriters, and vocal speculation machines, the center is employed by professors and grad students studying machine-taught fluency, discrimination, and other areas which will effect sound language training.

For this work, the center offers such equipment as the machine to teach a student correct pronunciation with a computer hook-up comparing what he is saying with what he should be saying.

DURING the student's learning experience, the computer compares for him both his work and that with the right pitch, intensity, and tempo for a foreign word or phrase, treating each of these qualities separately. The machine switches to the next lesson only after he has completed three satisfactory pronunciations according to these categories.

During their free hours, men residents at Ames will have a chance to serve as "father" to boys who have lost their paternal guardians as part of the new Pal Program being set up at Iowa State this year.

Planned by the local YMCA and a guidance committee of student and professional workers, the program will place a male companion in the homes of these boys, aged eight to eleven years, for at least one period a week.

Meeting with the youngster at his home, the college student will plan activities with him for each visit he makes, pledged to devote a minimum of 15 hours a month to the program for one academic year. University Pals will be selected by the committee through written applications and interviews, to be paired with boys recommended by school principals, juvenile court, welfare agencies, and churches.

Possible canal sites under consideration

By JAMES D. BOWMAN

BOGOTA, Colombia — An interpretation of the word "sovereignty" by nations concerned is expected to be a determining factor in the U.S. selection of two routes for sea-level canals.

Such an understanding is said to be motivated by Washington's desire for a truly international waterway that would not be subject to the mercy of political maneuvers by the host country.

The United States, it may be reliably reported, hopes to narrow down the four possible canal routes under consideration to two and have preliminary survey teams at work on the two sites by the end of 1965.

Final selection of the route for the waterway, aimed at replacing the Panama Canal, probably will not be made within five years.

THOMAS C. MANN, U.S. undersecretary of state for Latin American affairs, flew back to Washington from Bogota Tuesday night after visits with leaders of the four nations where proposed routes are located — Panama, Colombia, Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

Colombian leaders are reported to feel that the choice will rest between routes in Panama and the northwestern tip of Colombia. They have stressed that they will ask sovereignty over the canal as the basis of any treaty with the United States.

President Johnson's Administration, however, will demand a firm understanding on U.S. canal management as a condition to any short-term treaties providing for the preliminary surveys, it is believed.

Washington wants to avoid recurrence of the unhappy history in Panama, and does not intend to cave in to demands by prospective host countries for full management. There is the implication that whoever finances the canal must have final voice in its management, or at least until the canal debt is paid off.

The aim of the United States is said to be a great international waterway based on the principles of free access to ships of all nations, reasonable tolls and no discrimination.

LBJ Asks National Effort For a Beautiful America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Monday for a national effort for a beautiful America.

He sent to Congress a special message outlining a many-pronged program to preserve, restore, and enhance the beauty of the country.

He said action is needed to prevent a growing population from swallowing up areas of natural beauty, and to wipe out ugly scars created by surface mining and other causes.

CONGRESSIONAL reaction was along the line, generally, that the principles advocated are sound but cost and other factors must be examined.

The program ranged from tighter federal controls to curb air and water pollution to screening from view auto junkyards along highways.

It requested more parks and recreational facilities, hiking trails, historical sites, and beautification of cities.

An Administration spokesman said the omnibus conservation program would cost several hundred million dollars a year. He added, however, that sufficient funds are included in the budget for the next fiscal year to get the program started.

JOHNSON TOLD Congress modern technology, which has added much to the lives of Americans, also has a dark side, adding:

"Its uncontrolled waste products are menacing the world we live in, our enjoyment and our health."

"The air we breathe, our water, our soil and our wildlife, are being blighted by the poisons and chemicals which are the byproducts of technology and industry. The skeletons of discarded cars litter the countryside. The same society which receives rewards of technology must, as a cooperating whole, take responsibility for control."

"WE MUST restore what has been destroyed and salvage the beauty and charm of our cities."

For the most part, the Federal Government would help states and cities with beautification programs. Many details, however, remain to

DIDN'T TRUST BANKS — The director of the National Bank in this Serbian city reported to police his life savings of $1,268 had been stolen. The banker, Raddojko Rendulic, kept the money at home in a cupboard.

Saying he is hopeful he can summon a national effort, Johnson told Congress "we have not chosen to have an ugly America."

Johnson said he intends to institute discussions with industry officials seeking the elimination or substantial reduction of air pollution from motor vehicles.

Johnson announced that he will call a White House conference on national beauty in mid-May.

Delegates Submit Debate Resolutions

Delegates from 50 "nations" will meet Wednesday evening in Union conference room 203 to submit resolutions for debate in the General Assembly of Model United Nations.

Gerald S. Maryanov, assistant professor of political science, will deliver the keynote speech in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol at 6:15 p.m. Friday. Maryanov, who served two years in the Peace Corps in Southeast Asia, will speak on "The U.S., the U.N., and S.E. Asia."

The political, economic and sectorial committees will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. to rank the resolutions according to their significance. Debate will open in the Senate Chamber at 9:30 dealing with the highest ranked resolutions first. Debate will close at 11 p.m. and will open again at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, running until 5 p.m. with an hour break at noon.

Steve Teichner, A3, Amherst, Mass., assistant regional director of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, said the delegates are to support the views of the nations they represent. This, he thinks, "will illustrate the strong feeling of nationalization in these sovereign nations."

Michigan Bursts Hawkeyes' Bubble

Swimmers Set 3 Marks In Victory Over Illinois

Iowa's tankers had Illinois swimmers eating a lot of wake all afternoon as they trounced the Illini, 68 to 37, for their first Big Ten dual meet swimming victory here Saturday. The Hawks had previously lost to Michigan State and Minnesota. Three Iowa pool records were broken.

The Hawkeyes have a 3-2 dual meet record while Illinois suffered its third defeat in Big Ten competition.

Ralph Bextine was a double winner for the Hawkeyes in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100-yard freestyle. He also anchored the winning 400-yard freestyle relay for Iowa.

Teammate Paul Monohon, was also a double winner, taking the 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard butterfly event.

The only bright spot in Illinois' effort was double winner Bob Bachman, who took first in the 200-yard freestyle and the 500-yard freestyle.

Prove They're No. 1 With 81-66 Victory

By JOHN BORNHOLDT
Sports Editor

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Iowa burst its second set back in seven Big Ten outings with an 81-66 loss to top-ranked Michigan before a sell out crowd of 7,600 in Yost field house here Monday night.

Michigan clung to first place in the Big Ten with a perfect 6-0 record while the Hawkeyes slipped to fourth place with a 5-2 mark. Illinois is second and Minnesota third.

Michigan lived up to its billing as the nation's top college team and adjusted very quickly to Iowa's pressing defense. The Wolverines gave the Hawks a hard time by performance since beginning to play at Iowa.

Jones was all over the court as he chipped in half of Iowa's 34 points in the second half. He ended the game with 26 points, the highest of his young college career.

In the first half George Peeples dunked his first shot and helped propel the Hawkeyes to a surprising 5-0 lead.

Michigan then settled down and applied a pressing zone defense which completely cooled off the Hawks. This defense forced Iowa into 10 turnovers and at one time caused Iowa to lose the ball 5 consecutive times.

During that period, the Hawks saw a 10-4 lead go to a 21-20 Michigan advantage with 9:10 left in the half. The Wolverines then sped on to a 40-32 intermission lead behind 13 point performances by Cazzie Russell and Bill Buntin.

IOWA CAME back strong in the second half hitting most of their shots from the outside, but they were unable to play their usual game.

Unable to get the ball into Peeples and Pervall for the close in shots their field goal percentage dipped to 45 as they hit 27 of 60 shots. Michigan hit 32 of 67 shots for 48 per cent.

Iowa outbounded the Wolverines, 45-42, but was unable to control the offensive boards. Jones led the Hawks with 11 rebounds, while Buntin led Michigan with 12.

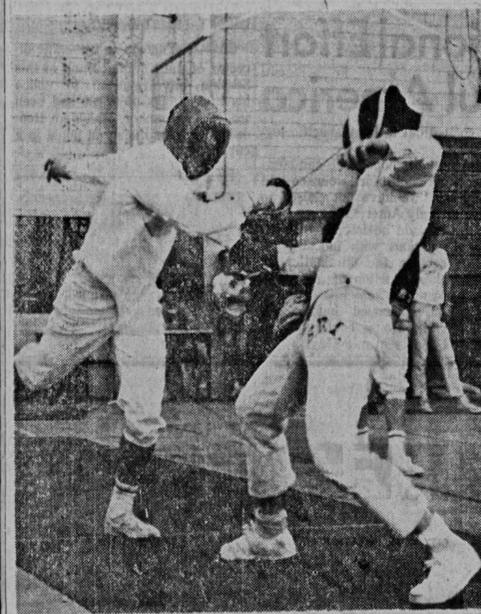

In Saturday's game, Iowa hit 36 of 49 free throws in slipping by Northwestern, 78-72.

The Hawks were ahead at half-time, 37-27. However, the Wildcats closed to within two, 41-39, early in the second half.

Iowa gradually pulled away after this, largely on free throws.

Let's talk about engineering, mathematics and science careers in a dynamic, diversified company

Campus Interviews Thursday and Friday, February 11 and 12

Young men of ability can get to the top fast at Boeing. Today, Boeing's business backlog is just under two billion dollars, of which some 60 per cent is in commercial jetliner and helicopter product areas. The remainder is in military programs and government space flight contracts. This gives the company one of the most stable and diversified business bases in the aerospace industry.

No matter where your career interests lie — in the commercial jet airliners of the future or in space-flight technology — you can find an opening of genuine opportunity at Boeing. The company's world leadership in the jet transport field is an indication of the calibre of people you'd work with at Boeing.

Boeing is now pioneering evolutionary advances in the research, design, development and manufacture of civilian and military aircraft of the future, as well as space programs of such historic importance as America's first moon landing. Gas turbine engines, transport helicopters, marine vehicles and basic research are other areas of Boeing activity.

Whether your career interests lie in basic or applied research, design, test, manufacturing or administration, there's a spot where your talents are needed at Boeing. Engineers, mathematicians and scientists at Boeing work in small groups, so initiative and ability get maximum exposure! Boeing encourages participation in the company-paid Graduate Study Program at leading colleges and universities near company installations.

We're looking forward to meeting engineering, mathematics and science seniors and graduate students during our visit to your campus. Make an appointment now at your placement office.

Area Youths Object of Dental Care Campaign

Brush-Up in Technique Included in Program

Early attention to dental care will be encouraged by faculty members of the Pedodontics Department in the College of Dentistry and seniors in the U of I dental hygiene program in visits to school children during Children's Dental Health Week this week.

The faculty members will conduct an informational program in the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children, explaining dental care and dental hygiene, and 36 seniors in dental hygiene will visit public elementary schools in Iowa City and Coralville to discuss aspects of dental health.

THE DENTAL hygiene students will talk to children in the second, fourth and sixth grades. To second graders they will stress the need to avoid sweet food snacks and will show correct tooth-brushing techniques.

For fourth graders, they will discuss general nutrition needs and review brushing techniques, and for the oldest group, they will explain some of the problems of malocclusion and the need for orthodontic appliances in correcting them and will summarize the part played by fluorides in preventing dental decay.

Children have nothing to fear on their first visit to a dentist, points out Dr. Dale Redig, acting head of the Pedodontics Department, who is president of the Iowa Unit of the American Society of Dentistry for Children. On this initial visit, which could come as early as age 2, the child will make a new friend, have a chance to examine new and interesting objects and learn something about himself, too.

AT THE SAME time, he will enable his dentist to forestall the pain of toothache and the danger of infection, Dr. Redig emphasizes.

Here's what your child may experience when he walks through the door from the dental reception room for the first time. He may:

- hold a dental mirror and see the back of his own teeth for the first time

- examine an oddly-shaped "toothpick" which dentists call a "probe"

- "help" the dentist count his teeth (while the doctor gently touches each tooth with a probe)

- see how soft is the little rubber "toothbrush" with which his teeth are to be polished

- watch while mother learns how to brush his teeth at home the right way

- hold a little square of film in his own mouth while the dentist or his assistant takes a picture of "the inside of" his teeth (the dental X-ray)

- sit in a chair that can be raised and lowered "so the dentist can look at his teeth without bending down."

The dentist will explain instruments and procedures to the child in language he can understand, but he won't use "baby talk," which the child does not respect. His tone of voice will be even, calm and soothing.

"Usually when a child is afraid to come into the dental office for the first time it is because fear has been communicated to him by someone else," say dentists who meet children in their offices every day.

"CHILDREN HAVE a great deal of normal curiosity about everything, including the dental office, and they are not naturally afraid if they are told exactly what is going to be done, in simple language," they add. "What they find hard to forgive is being told an untruth or having their trust betrayed, and they are afraid of the unknown."

Dr. Redig emphasized that in working with children the dentist has learned to tell the child what is going to be done, show him how he is going to do it, and then do it exactly the way he said he would — and never do anything he didn't say he was going to do.

What if the child asks the direct question, "Is it going to hurt?" One dentist says the answer that gets best results for him, in case there will be any discomfort, is, "Yes, a little, but not nearly as much as skinning your knee."

Some dentists whose practice includes both adults and children encourage the small child to come to the dentist's office when his mother is being treated, and satisfy his curiosity about the office and equipment under the supervision of the dental assistant or hygienist. In many cases, says one such dentist, the child looks forward to his turn at sitting in the chair like mother and having his teeth examined.

If cavities are filled while they are tiny, they will never get large enough for repair to be painful. Best of all, the child will never experience toothache, which lasts longer and hurts worse, or dental infection, which can endanger general health.

Like Pulling Teeth!

Prof. Helen Newell, head of the dental hygiene program, demonstrates how to give a dental prophylaxis to Mary Zieg, Dx, Lincoln, Neb. First-year dental students study the anatomy of the face and hand and learn the structure and surfaces of the teeth by drawing them to scale from models and by carving teeth in chalk before they learn to do dental prophylaxes. Students must complete two years of work in liberal arts before admission to the two-year dental hygiene program.

Language Study Awards Available

The U.S. Office of Education has announced a program of awards to about 400 undergraduate students for intensive study of 21 foreign languages during the summer of 1965.

Sixteen U.S. universities will offer special courses in Russian, Portuguese and major languages of Africa, the Middle East, South and Southeast Asia and the Far East. The awards provide for tuition and fees, travel costs and a maintenance allowance of $400.

Students should check with Prof. Vernon Van Dyke, director of the Center of International Studies, for more information.

Aid To School Districts — House Passes Bill To Increase Taxes

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa House moved Monday to extend a helping hand to school districts that are having a hard time building schools fast enough to keep pace with growing enrollments.

It passed 116-4 and sent to the Senate a bill to raise from 7 to 10 mills the amount a school district may levy in property taxes to pay interest and principal on school bonds.

SIMILAR MEASURES have been passed by the House in previous sessions in answer to pleas from growing school districts caught in a squeeze between rising construction costs and burgeoning enrollments on the one hand, and the ceiling on the levy for school bond purposes on the other. They always have died in the Senate.

Rep. Marvin Smith (R-Paulina) told the House Monday the situation now is serious for about 25 school districts in the state, including Cedar Rapids, West Des Moines, Ames and Iowa City.

He said the limitation severely restricts the amount of bonds these school districts may issue to build new buildings, even when they are not up to the constitutional bonding limit of five per cent of the district's total assessed valuation.

REP. MINETTE DODERER (D-Iowa City) also urged passage of the bill, but warned that "we will be back two years from now asking

More 1964 Grads Continue Education

More 1964 Iowa high school graduates continued their education than in any previous year, according to the Iowa State Board of Public Instruction.

Nearly 57 per cent of the 33,044 high school graduates continued their education in some way as compared with 53.2 per cent in 1963; 49.8 per cent in 1962; 48.2 per cent in 1961; and 46.9 per cent in 1960.

Four-year colleges account for 10,934 or 33.09 per cent of the graduates, and junior colleges account for 3,379 or 10.22 per cent. In addition, 3,353 or 10.15 per cent entered business colleges, trade schools or technical schools.

Program Manager Appointed for ACT

Iowan Arrested For Robbery At Sioux City

SIoux CITY (AP) — Donald Wellington Fitzgerald, 39, of Lake City, Iowa, Monday was charged with the $4,918 robbery at the Toy National Bank in Sioux City, Dec. 10.

Fitzgerald was charged by the FBI, which said in its complaint filed with U.S. Commissioner W. M. Forker that the Iowa man admitted the robbery during questioning in an Omaha jail where he has been held in connection with the robbery of an Omaha liquor store, Jan. 29.

The bank, located in the downtown business district, was robbed about 2:30 in the afternoon by an armed man who held up the teller at a walk-in window.

The man then escaped by mixing in with the flow of Christmas shoppers on downtown streets.

Dependents Reluctantly Quit Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Reluctantly but calmly following President Johnson's orders, 1,819 U.S. government dependents in South Viet Nam packed Monday to leave. The first of them — a group of 91 — leave Tuesday on commercial airliners.

Forty head for the United States from Saigon and 51 from Hue for Hong Kong.

JOHNSON ORDERED the withdrawal of wives and children of diplomatic, military and aid mission personnel after U.S. Navy planes launched strikes on Communist North Viet Nam Sunday.

The school for American children in Saigon closed Monday. "Not only do we have to leave school, but we have to leave Daddy behind when we go," said Marilyn Neese, 13, daughter of a U.S. aid mission employee from Indianapolis, Ind. "If Dad can stay, why can't I?"

SOME WIVES talked about organizing "exile colonies" rather than go all the way back to the United States. They want to move to Bangkok, Thailand or Hong Kong.

"A couple of hours away is better than 20 hours away," said one wife. The wives are organizing "baby-sitting cooperatives" so that they can take turns visiting their husbands.

Civilian agency dependents will be given their choice as to where they will go from Viet Nam. But military dependents must return to the United States.

A BREAKDOWN of dependents shows: military 522, civilians on military agencies 206, diplomatic and aid missions 876, dependents of direct contractors to U.S. aid missions 215.

A total of 378 private U.S. civilians in Viet Nam are not affected by the White House decision.

The automatic features of a modern gas clothes dryer make possible the right drying time and temperature for every fabric. You choose the "weather" you want just by setting a dial. Gentle gas heat blows moisture away so clothes come out soft, fluffy, and almost wrinkle-free! Ironing time is cut in half, too!

An automatic gas dryer will help you with many other household tasks, too. Set for tumbling without heat, it can fluff and freshen pillows, slipcovers, draperies... or dry children's boots, rainsoaked clothes, and snowsuits.
