

Rent hike protest

MARRIED STUDENTS HIT with increased rents are reacting naturally. Faced with tight budgets and slender incomes, they are talking of letters, petitions and Student Senate action to bring a reverse in the rent hike approved last week by the Regents.

We are sympathetic with their plight. University officials, we are certain, are also sympathetic.

Let us consider a moment the problem and then look at a possible solution.

University enrollment is growing like Iowa corn in June. Finding a place for everyone to stay gets more difficult each year. Programs for dormitory building promise to provide enough rooms for single students for the near future, but married students are really in a bind.

Professional and advanced areas of study are attracting more married students than ever before; the natural growth of the University is bringing many young married faculty members and technicians to Iowa City.

Neither private enterprise nor the University is able to house these people adequately. Both sources must provide more housing to keep up with the growing need.

Here lies the rub. The University dorm system is already bonded up to its neck to pay for more single student dormitories. Money necessary to finance more building for married students must be based on higher revenues.

If the MSH rents are not raised, the dorm system cannot float any more bonds for a while. If the bonds are delayed, the 512-unit addition to Hawkeye Apartments must either be delayed or cut back. A delay will complicate problems; finding housing will be that much harder for married students next year and the year after.

Thus there is no way to attack the housing shortage without raising rents now. As Pres. Bowen told the Regents last week, higher rents in the short run will mean lower rents in the long run.

But what about the students unable to pay an extra $10 or $16 each month?

We suggest these students approach University officials about the possibility of special scholarships or loans to allow them to pay the increased rent. No one in the University wants to see a married student forced to leave Iowa because of the rent hike.

When tuition rates were raised last year, stipends for some graduate assistants were also increased to offset the burden. This same principle could probably be applied to aid financially-strapped students in MSH.

Appeals not to raise the rents or to get the needed money from the Legislature are just not realistic. We hope married students will view the overall problem as well as their own budget difficulties and seek to improve the situation through practical rather than emotional proposals.

Indirect action

OUR GENERATION is rapidly becoming known as the generation of the picket.

Picketing, of course, can be an extremely effective means of protesting a situation. But, like any direct action, its effectiveness is determined by how close the pickets get to the problem.

Saturday there will be a picket line outside the Iowa City Post Office, protesting the activities of the United States in Viet Nam. We understand that the Post Office is the only Federal building in town and that the military recruiting offices are there. But it is difficult to see any clear connection between the Post Office and the U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The protest is not designed to provide a show of force to illustrate to anyone walking down the street just how many people are against the U.S. policy. It is rather designed to activate and change, if necessary, public opinion.

There must be a more direct way to do this besides a picket that will be an indirect variety of direct action.

'Brigadoon' most exciting, enjoyable performance

By SAM BITTMAN
Iowan Reviewer

"Brigadoon" opened on Wednesday night and was the most exciting and enjoyable performance of the year. There was no doubt of its professional veneer, though it was performed on a University stage — a stage for which people seem to feel they must make excuses.

"Educational theatre" has become for many an irksome phrase; one, which, when discussed, they excuse themselves for a quick laugh up their sleeves, saying: "It was a great show, but..."

It seems that there should be no "buts" about it, or none but the normal ones that would go into the critique of a show done anywhere. "Brigadoon" was exciting because it mirrored the genuine work of a great number of talented people, and should not be relegated subordinate to any other production on any stage merely because it was produced at The University of Iowa.

It seems that for too long a time critics of University productions have felt the necessity to tear down educational productions by comparing them to Professional theatre, and then making apologies for the situations they themselves have created.

"Brigadoon" will move and excite close to five thousand people before its runs is over, and that is a test that any performance must meet. Audiences are always professional.

IN DIRECTING the show, Dr. Larry Clark was greatly concerned with setting up stage "pictures," but this in no way proved offensive or artificially posed, as the legendary town of Brigadoon is itself like an old photograph coming unfrozen once in a hundred years, dancing off the man/le-piece into a world of its own, only to return, at the end of the day, to its own hidden corner of a long-forgotten wall.

The pictures merged fluidly one into the next with a great deal of color and warmth. The choreography by Marcia Thayer, the brilliant costuming by Margaret Hall and the tremendous uplifting music of the offstage orchestra, conducted by Larry Cullison, were highly commensurate with the wistful mood of the play itself. Of all the choreography, only the "Come To Me, Bend To Me" dance, danced by Kathryn Anderson, seemed out of keeping with the rest of the show — a ballet was uncalled for.

Robert Boburka, playing the American cynic, Jeff Douglas, gave an hilarious performance. Though for a few moments his bantering with Tommy Albright (Eugene Wilkins) appeared to be a staged comic routine where Mr. Wilkins was the straight man, Mr. Boburka's performance was, in general, raucously delightful.

First Night Review

Catherine Chandler was a constant source of hilarity in the bawdy character of Meg Brockie. Miss Chandler's song "My Mother's Wedding Day" was one of the high points of the evening.

Indeed the night belonged to everyone, but it belonged especially to Eugene Wilkins and Judith Hughes. As singers, both were moving to the point of tears. M. Wilkins provided the most rhapsodic moment of the evening in "There But For You Go I."

There was nothing to do but sit back and be entranced by the tenderness of these two performers. What they lacked as dancers they made up for by a complete absence of self-consciousness.

THE ONLY disagreeable part of their performance was the way in which they were staged for "Almost Like Being In Love." Just why Dr. Clark chose to have Mr. Wilkins and Miss Hughes on opposite sides of the stage at a moment of crescendo seemed oddly out of keeping with a moment when two people realized they were in love.

It is true that the character portrayed by Mr. Wilkins is riddled with doubt concerning his own emotions, but assuredly "Almost Like Being In Love" is a time of certainty. However, this was soon forgotten once the song was over, and the show resumed with the verve that seemed to define it.

In a shower of notable performances were Patrick Jordan, playing the aged Andrew MacLaren; Michael Sokoloff, sensitively handling the role of the despondent Harry Beaton; David Hundhausen as Harry's father; John Peakes, Brigadoon's benevolent sage; Howard Hensel, a fine tenor, doing an excellent job with the character of Charlie Dalrymple; and many others.

Indeed, there was not an unpleasant performance to be found. What flaws there were went unnoticed for the most part, swept away by the great splendor and compelling and tender action of the story itself.

(Editor's note: A separate review of a performance featuring the alternate leads will be published.)

Schools reopened; barely integrated

By BILL JOHNSON

FARMVILLE, Va. (AP) — The words "public schools" have been repainted on the big yellow buses that bounce along the rural roads of Prince Edward County.

Schoolyard swings and sliding boards — untouched for five years — have been repaired and once again the youngsters swarm over them at recess, shrieking and laughing.

But inside the four public schools of this rural south central Virginia county the scene could almost be 1959, the year the county abandoned public education rather than submit to a federal court's desegregation order.

Seven white children sit at public school desks. Their classmates, 1,515 Negroes.

"Truthfully, all I can say is that the public schools have been restored," says the Negro minister who fought 13 years to bring about desegregation. "But it is a start."

The Rev. L. Francis Griffin, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was NAACP local president during the long struggle. He saw the schools close down in June 1959 when Prince Edward became the only locality in the nation to take this step to avoid integration.

LAST SEPTEMBER the public schools opened again, under order of the U.S. Supreme Court. For many of the Negro children, it was — and is — a trying experience.

"Some of them are seriously handicapped. They were arbitrarily pushed up because of their age," said T. J. McIlwaine, the county school superintendent, who stayed on the job during the educational drought.

County officials say there are no racial restrictions either for students or for faculty. There are 10 white teachers among the 62 Negroes.

"Technically, they have a point," says the Rev. Mr. Griffin. "But in actuality, integration doesn't exist."

There is little evidence in this county about 80 miles southwest of Richmond of change in the deeply entrenched social pattern.

Off the main road outside town a sign at a lunchroom pointedly directed: "This side for white only."

The public school shutdown had little effect on the country's white children. They were enrolled in a segregated, private system of schools set up when public education came to an end.

It was different for the Negro children. Except for several attempts at summer "remedial" sessions most went without formal education. At the remedial sessions the college student teachers spent part of their time trying to teach French and Spanish to children who couldn't read English.

THEN IN September 1963 a one-year free school system financed with more than a million dollars in donated funds opened, largely because of the efforts of former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and the backing of his brother, the president.

The free schools brought innovations to Virginia — team-teaching and a nongraded system of classifying pupils. Classes were held in rented public school buildings. The children were transported in rented school buses identified as belonging only to "Prince Edward County."

From his neat, one-story brick home the Rev. Mr. Griffin can look at a public school a block away. He isn't too pleased at everything he sees.

"There's no question that the public schools now aren't offering what the free schools did," he says. "It would also be my considered opinion that the present schools are not as effective as the schools were when they closed in 1959."

"Whether there is a shortage in classes offered, I can't say."

Unions get boost from Legislature

By WILLIAM L. EBERLINE

DES MOINES (AP) — Public bodies would be required to recognize and negotiate with unions or associations of their employees, under a bill recommended for passage by a House committee.

The Industrial and Human Relations Committee sent the bill to the House floor by a vote of 15-3.

The only dissenters were Republican Reps. Floyd Miller of Farmington, LeRoy Miller of Shenandoah and Marvin Smith of Paullina.

Backers of the measure said it would not authorize public employees to strike, although it recognizes the right of public employees to form associations or unions for collective bargaining and to take other concerted action to gain their ends.

It would require public bodies to bargain collectively with their employees, and to submit any disputes to binding arbitrations by a three-member board.

Rep. Charles Varney (D-Clin-ton) said the law now is silent on whether public employees may form unions, and whether public bodies can bargain with them.

"SOME PUBLIC bodies now negotiate with their employees," Varney said. "Others refuse to recognize them, and some even say they cannot negotiate with employe associations because they are not authorized by law to do so."

"This bill would give public employees the same right to act collectively to solve their problems as workers in private employment have, except that they would not be authorized to strike."

The bill only calls for submitting disputes to binding arbitration while the employes go on working.

The committee also unanimously recommended for passage a bill to allow county jail prisoners, under District Court order, to leave the jail to work at their jobs, look for work or attend

U.S. should pull-out of Viet Nam

Letters to the editor—

To the Editor: The headlines for the past week and a half have shouted out the occasion which is taking place in Viet Nam. For many of us it has been a week and a half of rising concern; a concern which was with us before the Feb. 8 bombing of North Viet Nam.

Following the ill-advised bombings we read of demonstrations by the Vietnamese people against the U.S.-backed government and many of the civilians shot by government troops. All this follows stories of napalm bombing of native villages and the herding of civilians into stockaded villages which are essentially concentration camps. And the news still is of military defeats and senseless deaths. Most Americans are used to thinking that the United States stands for freedom, democracy and peace — and that if the United States gets involved in a foreign war, it is on the side of the people.

In respect to this latter point, Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), makes the issue quite clear: "THERE ARE no Chinese soldiers fighting in Viet Nam; there are no Russian soldiers. The only foreign troops are American... the unilateral war being conducted by the United States in Viet Nam must be stopped and the American public opinion."

There are some of us in Iowa City who agree with Sen. Morse's conclusions and feel now is the time to mobilize public opinion. We are organizing a picket in front of the Iowa City Post Office demanding that the United States get out of South Viet Nam.

It is, perhaps, impossible for most Americans to compare their present responsibilities to speak out against the war in Viet Nam with the responsibility of the Germans to speak out in the early days of Hitler.

Everyone knows we have no Hitler here, in power or close to power. But one wonders what limits there are to the atrocities Americans will go along with, so long as they are explained, however falsely, as necessary to the maintenance of democracy.

THE PROSPECTS for the future of mankind are terrifying if those of us who live in the most powerful nation in the world, a nation loaded with money and nuclear kill, fail to do what we say the Germans should have done when atrocities were being committed in their name and with their knowledge.

We must insist on immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Viet Nam, even though the situation may remain a tragic one. Many problems will remain, but withdrawal of U.S. troops will provide the only chance that the people of South Viet Nam can become masters of their own destiny.

Then the way will be open for genuine negotiations about the problems of Southeast Asia, as distinct from manipulation by outside powers, and for friendly aid to the stricken peoples of the region, if they ask for it. This is the only peace with honor that is possible in Viet Nam. Join with us Saturday asking for the end to the war in Viet Nam.

My proposal is that the members of the Philosophy Department should "creatively" build edifices of these men, out of the "proper" material, and burn these "straw men" under the watching eye of Old Capitol. Then they could all join hands and dance back to the Philosophy offices chanting, "We are metaphysicians, so help us... (they could fill in the proper terms), e.g., 'mental awareness'."

Bruce J. Horacek, G
309 Iowa Avenue

I can hear Plato saying, "I see the one in the Philosophy Department, but where is the many?" Occasionally Hegel moans, "I see the thesis, but where is the antithesis? Good heavens! they're calling themselves a synthesis." Or Thomas Aquinas exclaims, "Good grief! Fred Wilson." Martin Heidegger interrupts with, "They're seeking authentic sentences; but truly they are being-unto-death." Last of all, Sartre, with head-in-hands, whispers, "La Nausee, la nausea."

My method is to take the utmost trouble to find the right thing to say, and then to say it with the utmost levity.

Union Food Services Expand with Enrollment

By DAVE CRIPPEN
Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles dealing with the addition to the Iowa Memorial Union now under construction. The articles appear bi-weekly in the Iowan.

For the hundreds of Iowa students who rely on the Gold Feather Room or the Union Cafeteria for daily meals or that between-class cup of coffee, it may be difficult to imagine the Iowa Memorial Union without a food service.

Yet when the Iowa Union, one of the first of its kind in the nation, was completed in 1927, no food or refreshment facilities were available.

Loren V. Kottner, director of the Union, explained that the original purpose of a student union, was to provide a "home-away-from-home." In those early years, a food service was not considered an important function.

As University enrollments increased and campuses began to take the appearance of small cities, students and staff members desired a place on campus where they could buy a good meal.

"Unions had to adjust, to provide these facilities," Kottner said. THE FIRST food service at Iowa was conducted in much the same manner as that of a hotel, Kottner said. Food was prepared in a central kitchen on the main floor and carried by student waiters to various rooms where students or staff groups were dining.

The IMU food service today is a far cry from those early years. It is an elaborate operation requiring extensive planning and a staff of more than 100 employees, 35 of which work full time.

John Zahari, director of the Union food service, explained that four service divisions are provided by the Union — the Gold Feather Room, the Cafeteria, the Triangle Club and the Catering Service.

FOOD SERVICE records showed that on an average day, the Gold Feather Room and Cafeteria serve about 3,500 persons.

Approximately 1,200 cups of coffee, 1,200 cups of soft drink, 450 hamburger patties, 50 pounds of ham, 100 pounds of ground beef, 100 heads of lettuce and 75 bowls of chile are consumed on the average week day, Zahari said.

The Union Catering Service provides food for the frequent banquets at the Union. The most recent innovation in dining is the Smorgasbord, where guests select from a variety of dishes and eat all they want.

THE SMORGASBORD was suggested by Roger Munn, assistant Union director, to provide dining in a stylish and relaxing atmosphere.

Munn and Kottner previously worked together as staff members of the Compton Student Union at Washington State University, where they initiated a similar event.

The smorgasbords will continue as a regular monthly event at the Union. With the increasing University enrollment, the present kitchen and cafeteria facilities have proved inadequate.

The new $4.2 million addition now under construction will solve this problem by providing the Food Service with a new cafeteria, kitchen, salad room and bake shop. The cafeteria will seat about 500 persons, twice the capacity of the present cafeteria.

THE MODERN kitchen will be about three times as large as the old one and will be equipped with the latest cooking facilities. New facilities will include revolving ovens and convection ovens, which operate on the principle of circulating hot air. The convection ovens will reduce cooking time and food loss by one-half, Zahari estimated.

The new kitchen will also be equipped with a 65 gallon coffee maker about 5 feet high and 5 feet in diameter — a mechanical wrench will be required to lift out the coffee grounds.

Zahari said utilities have been installed for Schnell Kutter, a device similar to a blender but capable of chopping large quantities of food. The device can prepare a crate of lettuce for salads in less than two seconds.

"With the new facilities," Zahari said, "we expect to be ready for the great increase in enrollment which the University will experience during the coming years."

FOOD SERVICE office space also will be included in the new addition. According to expectations, the cafeteria should be ready for use by June 1. However, construction may not be completed by this time, and the opening date might be postponed.

Commenting on the new food facilities, Kottner said, "We are taking advantage of the latest technological developments in food preparation. The special dining rooms and specially selected furnishings should enhance the entire Food Service operation."

Five private dining rooms also will be part of the new addition. They will be located on the south side of the building, near the cafeteria.

Pleasant Surroundings

Candlelight and a variety of food set the stage for the Christmas smorgasbord. The successful venture has prompted the Union to have smorgasbords as a monthly event. The most recent one was on Valentine's Day.

Cease-Fire Talk Lashed By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Demands in the Senate that the United States seek to negotiate a cease-fire in Viet Nam brought impassioned replies Thursday that this would amount to a surrender to communism.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois arose to denounce the negotiation proposal. What is proposed, he said, is to "run up the white flag before the world and start running away from communism."

Thursday's speeches were mostly in reply to Sens. Frank Church, (D-Idaho) and George S. McGovern (D-S.D.) who called Wednesday for efforts to bring about a cease-fire.

Late in the day, Church took the floor again to declare that Dirksen's "white flag" charge is not in accord with the facts. Also, he said it "contributed nothing to a rational discussion of the problem" to question the courage of those who say "we should find a political rather than a military solution."

Church said Dirksen "is a fine patriot but no finer than the other" members of the Senate. McGovern told the Senate, "I've never advocated waving the white flag," nor he said had he advocated solving international tensions "by bigger and better wars" or "waving the American flag on the Senate floor."

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.) led off Thursday's rebuttal by deriding what he called "counsels of despair." The United States, he said, must persevere and a time will come "when we will be able to negotiate in honor."

After Dirksen spoke, Sens. Leverett Saltonstall (D-Mass.) and George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) told the Senate they joined in his views.

Viet 'Not Hopeless,' McNamara Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara described the Viet Nam crisis as "grave but by no means hopeless," and expressed doubt the Red Chinese would step in with a major attack.

Despite Peking's militancy, McNamara said in a report Thursday to the House Armed Services Committee, the Red Chinese "have shown great caution when confronted with a determined display of military power."

Both Peking and Moscow, he added, can be expected to stir up as much trouble as they can "whenever and wherever they can do so safely, without a 'head-on' collision with U.S. military power."

And he made clear that he saw no alternative than for the United States to remain in South Viet Nam, supporting the government against Communist guerrillas. He described the war as a key to stemming Communist expansion not only in Asia but in other developing nations.

A RED VICTORY in South Viet Nam, he said, would greatly increase Peking's prestige, would be claimed as proof of the success of its hard-line policy and would strengthen Red China's hand in its leadership battle with the Soviet Union.

Leaving the committee room, McNamara told newsmen that greater efforts will be required of South Viet Nam in the coming year, including a boost in its military force. This may require a small increase in the number of American sent there to help with training, as well as more combat equipment, he said.

Looking into the future, McNamara saw a most disturbing prospect in Peking's determination to produce modern nuclear armaments.

Although it may be a slow road for the Red Chinese, McNamara said, "There is no reason to suppose that the Chinese cannot in time produce medium range and even long-range ballistic missile systems and arm them with their monuclear warheads."

"GIVEN the hostility the regime has shown, this is a most disturbing long-range prospect," he said. Later, without naming the Red Chinese but apparently meaning them, McNamara said, "There is also the possibility in the 1970s of a small nuclear attack on the United States by a nation possessing only a primitive nuclear force."

However, he added, the time necessary for "additional nations to develop and deploy an effective ballistic missile system capable of reaching the United States is greater than we require to deploy the defense."

McNamara's 207-page public statement was a censored, much shorter version of his secret testimony before the House committee, holding its annual hearings on defense posture and procurement.

IN THE STATEMENT, McNamara ranged the trouble-spots of the world, from Asia to Africa, to South America. At practically every stop, he cited a threat from communism, principally from Red China.

McNamara said he believes "there can be no question that our relative position has improved over the last several years" in the critical struggle between "the forces of freedom and the forces of communism."

But he stressed that the road ahead will be difficult "and continuing sacrifices will be required of our people, both in money and lives. But the challenge must be met."

Government Troops Ring Viet Cong Nest on Coast

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Troops, planes and patrol boats closed in Thursday on a strongly defended cove 235 miles northeast of Saigon, hoping to choke off a possibly significant flow of seaborne supplies to the Viet Cong.

Immediate aims were to wipe out guerrilla nests rimming the cove and get a look at a steel-hulled ship — a camouflaged 100-footer — capsized there by Vietnamese aerial bombs Tuesday.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander of the armed forces, assumed personal charge of the operation. Speaking in Nha Trang, a seaside resort 50 miles south of the cove, he said: "I'm pretty sure that boat came from North Viet Nam and it's going to be interesting to find out what was aboard it."

One of Khanh's staff officers explained they suspect the Ho Chi Minh trail through eastern Laos, a target recently of U.S. air attacks, may account for only a small part of the Communist infiltration into South Viet Nam.

"The bulk may actually have been by ship," he said.

16 More Cities Due Youth Help Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department announced Thursday approval of the establishment of youth opportunity centers in 16 cities.

This brings to 60 the number authorized so far to help unemployed, unskilled youths between the ages of 16 and 21 to get training and jobs.

Areas to be served by the centers approved Thursday include Sioux Falls, S.D.

Industrial Expansion, Zoning Topics at Planning Unit Meet

Industrial expansion was the main topic at the Wednesday night meeting of the local Metropolitan Planning Commission.

The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce Industrial Development Committee reported that it felt Iowa City's recent annexation, approved by voters in the Nov. 3 election, would be "sufficient to meet the needs of industrial and residential growth in the next 20 years."

W. W. Summerwill, a member of the committee, told the commission that 240 acres adjacent to the Sheller Manufacturing Corp. should be annexed to the city and zoned for industrial use.

The land is southeast of the city on Highway 6. Summerwill said unless Iowa City, Coralville and the county work together, the result would be a zoning "hodge-podge."

Donald J. Krall, chairman of the Johnson County Board of Supervisors, said the county does not have much territory zoned for industrial development.

Coralville, not a member of the Metropolitan Planning Commission, was represented by Allen Wolfe, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Wolfe said the Coralville Chamber of Commerce wants to promote cooperation between itself and Iowa City. The Coralville chamber plans to survey the community for good industrial sites and to reactivate the Coralville industrial development commission, he said.

Legislative action on placing billboards on Interstate 80 also will be studied by Coralville, according to Wolfe.

The Metropolitan Planning Commission will next meet March 17 in the board room of Old Capitol. Earl Stewart, city planning consultant and associate professor of civil engineering, will meet with the group.

Russell M. Ross, mayor of University Heights and chairman of the Planning Commission, said at attempt will be made to gather zoning maps of local municipalities and the county "to see how they fit together."

Ross is an associate professor of political science.

U.N. Averts Vote Rights Showdown

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — At a drama-packed, tumultuous session of the General Assembly the United States averted Thursday a procedural roll call and thus averted a showdown with the Soviet Union over voting rights.

Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson marched to the rostrum and announced the last minute U.S. decision despite repeated attempts by Ambassador Halim Budo of Albania to interrupt him.

With the threat of confrontation out of the way the assembly approved by acclamation an interim budget and the appointment of a multination committee to study the entire problem of U.N. peacekeeping.

The assembly then adjourned until Sept. 1. The closing moments were marked by a bitter exchange between Stevenson and Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko.

Fedorenko declared that the statement by Stevenson on agreeing to a procedural vote showed that the United States was trying to set itself up as an arbiter on whether the assembly could vote or not.

Stevenson retorted that the Fedorenko statement was "a silly utterance." He said it was unfortunate that the Soviet Union chose to end the assembly by defying the assembly's right to have a say in peacekeeping operations.

But the judge who heard the five days of sometimes sensational testimony awarded custody of 6-year-old Christian Devi to Brando's elder sister, Mrs. Richard Loving — who lives in Illinois, far from the scene of what was one of Hollywood's longest running custody battles.

Miss Kashfi promptly vowed further combat. Brando sought custody on grounds his first wife was an unfit mother.

No 'Sex Furor' Here, Say English Profs

The likelihood of the Iowa English Department being involved in a "sex furor" similar to the recent one at Stanford University is very dim, according to department members.

"The problem has never come up here," according to Curt A. Zimansky, professor of English. He said he did not expect such an occurrence at Iowa.

The incident at Stanford was probably an accidental flare-up," he said.

Stanford's Dean of Women, Lucille Allen, resigned Tuesday after she denied having accused members of the Stanford English staff of "employing the erotic aspects of literature" to "seduce" freshmen women.

Dr. Sven Armens, associate professor of English here, said the furor over sex in literature "doesn't make much sense to me."

He said most people who come to college are relatively mature and should be able to accept the literature taught in core courses.

Harry Oster, associate professor of English, agreed on the unlikelihood of such an incident arising here. By their very nature, classics of literature are controversial since they are critical of established institutions such as religion, education and marriage, he said.

Dr. Clark Griffith, associate professor of English, concurred with the opinions expressed by the other Iowa professors.

Most professors said they thought the incident was due to personal opinions or personalities on the Stanford campus.

Dr. Robert S. Michaelsen, administrative director of the School of Religion, said none of the classics were objectionable to him. He said they must be judged by the standards of literature.

"After all," he said, "parts of the Bible are great literature, and some of them are very realistic."

Zimansky, who leads the core literature program, said all texts used in core literature courses are chosen by professors on the core staff. Texts used in other literature courses, however, may be chosen by individual instructors.

Film Star Patricia Neal Reported Seriously Ill

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two strokes and a brain operation have struck down beautiful Patricia Neal, tragedy-plagued winner of last year's best-actress Oscar as the repressed housekeeper in "Hud."

The 39-year-old blonde was reported in serious condition Thursday at the UCLA Medical Center.

She suffered a stroke Wednesday night after returning home from her first big scene in a film, "Seven Women," which John Ford is directing at MGM.

She was rushed to the big medical center at the University of California at Los Angeles campus and suffered a second stroke there, MGM said.

BRAIN SURGERY was performed by Dr. Charles Carten.

At Miss Neal's bedside was her husband of 12 years, author Roald Dahl, with whom she lives, between pictures, on a small farm at Buckingham, England.

The abrupt affliction and surgery are the latest blows in a distinguished but tragedy-scarred career.

Her misfortunes included an ill-fated romance with the late Gary Cooper, a street accident that damaged her baby son's brain, and a measles attack that killed her first-born daughter.

Surmounting such blows, friends say, toughened the strength and electricity that came through on the screen.

MISS NEAL is tall — 5 feet 8, 135 pounds, with a low, velvet voice that conveys honesty and utter frankness. The gaze from her hazel eyes is steady and unblinking.

She was that rarity — a stage-struck girl who was sure she'd soon make it big — and did.

She was born in a mining camp at Packard, Ky., where her late father was local transportation manager for a coal company.

She studied drama for two years at Northwestern University, then struck out for Broadway.

A summer-theater performance led her into Lillian Hellman's "Another Part of the Forest," which made Miss Neal the toast of Broadway. She won the Antoinette Perry Award and the New York Drama Critics' best-actress award for this 1946 performance.

HOLLYWOOD beckoned and Patricia responded. "It always sounds glamorous when you're young," she said later.

Her first film was "The Fountainhead," with Gary Cooper. She fell in love, but the romance was destined for an unhappy end. Cooper stayed married to his wife.

Some producers claimed she was "not sexy enough," but she made other films. They included "The Hasty Heart," "Bright Leaf," "Three Secrets," "The Breaking Point," "The Day the Earth Stood Still," "Something for the Birds," "Weekend with Father," "Diplomatic Courier," "Washington Story," and, in Italy, "La Tua Donna."

Youths Attack
U.S. Property
In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A mob of Communist-inspired youths attacked the U.S. consulate in Medan Thursday in the fifth such assault on official American properties in Indonesia in the last six months. As in the past, U.S. diplomats protested.

The outburst at Medan, a Sumatran trade and manufacturing center 850 miles northwest of Jakarta, was accompanied by an indication that President Sukarno's government intends to take over supervision of U.S.-owned rubber estates in northern Sumatra.

About 700 demonstrators stormed the consulate grounds.

They ripped the U.S. shield from above the front door of the two-story building, tore down the Stars and Stripes, raised Indonesia's red and white flag and pasted anti-American signs on the walls.

Consul Theodore Heavner reported the demonstrators tried to seize the U.S. information agency library on the ground floor, but finally were evicted by Indonesian police who arrived 45 minutes after he called them.

Hollywood Mourn
Nat King Cole

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Four hundred mourners, including famous names of the entertainment world, sat silently in St. James Episcopal church Thursday and heard singer Nat (King) Cole eulogized by Jack Benny as a man "who gave so much and still had so much more to give."

Three files of quiet spectators lined Wilshire Boulevard to observe the arrival of such figures as Danny Thomas; Peter Lawford and his wife, Patricia Kennedy Lawford; Dorothy Dandridge, Ricardo Montalban and Stan Kenton.

Inside the high-vaulted church mourners heard organ strains of "Nature Boy," "Answer Me, My Love," and other songs identified with Cole's 20-year, hit-studded singing career. He died Monday of cancer.

The altar was unadorned except for two bouquets of white chrysanthemums. Outside the church were dozens of elaborate floral sprays.

The Rev. Samuel D'Amico conducted the Episcopal service. Eulogists were Benny and George Jessel.

EXPENSIVE GEM SOLD—LONDON (AP)—A square-cut diamond, weighing 23.05 carats and mounted in a ring, was sold Thursday for $123,000 at Sotheby's to Messrs. Spink, the London coin, medal and fine art-dealers.

YR-YD Unit Will Push Legislation

A bipartisan committee composed of Young Democrats and Young Republicans is being formed to push action on bills now before the state legislature, according to Gary Malfield, A4, Melbourne.

Malfield, co-chairman of the committee, told about 20 Young Democrats at a meeting Thursday night that the group hoped to support issues backed by the platforms of parties which might have trouble passing in the legislature. Russell M. Ross, a sociology professor and adviser to the committee, spoke at the YD meeting. He said the committee, composed of three Young Democrats and three Young Republicans, hopes to contact students, urging them to write their legislators in support of the bills.

ROSS SAID the group was interested in administrative organizational issues, such as lengthening the terms of state officers and legislators. He also discussed other measures before the state House and Senate. He predicted that a gasoline tax boost will be passed as well as a state income tax rate increase. The gas tax will be raised, he said, "because the legislators have to drive home over Iowa roads every weekend." Revenue from the tax probably would be spent on highway improvement.

ANOTHER PROPOSAL discussed by the YD's was a Mock U.S. Senate being planned by the Political Science Discussion Club. Paula Fiala, A2, Cedar Rapids, outlined the plan and requested that the Young Democrats provide 40 mock senators.

The Mock Senate, which Fiala said was suggested by the recent Mock U.N., is scheduled for some time in April.

YD officer elections are scheduled for March 18.

Peking Official Issues Warning to United States

TOKYO (AP) — Marshal Chen Yi issued another warning to the United States Thursday night that "aggression against the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam means aggression against the People's Republic of Red China."

"The Chinese people absolutely will not stand idly by," the deputy premier of the Peking regime declared at a diplomatic reception staged by Nepal's ambassador to Peking.

BRITISH HOME BOMBED — ADEN (AP) — A grenade exploded Thursday outside the home of a British civil servant in the Khor-makhar area in the fourth terrorist bombing here against British property since Sunday.

Oster Cites Roles Of Song Collector

By BRAD CHURCH Staff Writer

"The most important element in finding and recording good folk songs is the development of a personal and emotional relationship between the collector and the performer," according to Harry Oster, associate professor of English and folk song collector.

Oster, who is also advisor to the newly formed Folklore Club, presented several recordings made in his search for unusual and authentic folk songs to illustrate his humanities lecture on "Trade Secrets of a Folk Music Collector" Thursday night in the Old Senate Chamber.

"THE COLLECTOR must assume many different roles to fit many situations in order to get people to perform," he said. Often his normal role of a college professor on a cultural mission works best when talking to community leaders, he said.

One role he assumed to fit the occasion included participation in singing and dancing among the Cajuns of Louisiana at "just letting the tape recorder go" to capture the spontaneity of the occasion.

"It is best to approach a community through someone who knows the area and the people, since people may be suspicious of a stranger in their midst," Oster said. He has made many contacts through "a friend of a friend of a friend," he said.

Once, while on vacation in New York, Oster said, he met someone who had a relative in Louisiana who knew someone who might know some French songs. After going through several more intermediaries, Oster found an old Negro woman who spoke only French who had an amazing repertoire of songs, 58 of which he recorded.

Oster at one time became interested in recording some group work songs, but found they were very scarce. He decided to try the Angola Prison Farm. After obtaining permission to work with the recreation director at the prison, Oster met several musically-inclined prisoners.

HOWEVER, he found the work song was looked down upon now as connected with slavery and found only a few who would sing for him. One of the recordings he did obtain, "18 Hammers Fall," was recorded while three performers chopped wood, with the microphones nearby picking up their voices and the sound of the axes.

One of his most important discoveries at Angola was Robert Pete Williams, who performed here last week. Another was Roosevelt Charles who had been in prison three times on charges of murder, attempted murder and burglary. When Charles received a parole, he begged to see Oster and record some of his songs. One of the songs he recorded was "Mule Blues."

Oster sold Vanguard Recording Co. an album of Charles' blues, the first ethnic songs the company had recorded.

Although work songs were difficult to find, blues singers were more numerous. Oster especially tries to find a musician who is creative enough to improvise music and lyrics. Both Charles and Williams were very adept at this, he said.

Another blues singer he found was a young man who played for a rock and roll band normally, but knew some blues. Oster played his recording of "The Rock Island Line."

OSTER WAS interested in finding whether "Afro-Protestant" Negro spirituals were similar to songs sung by French Catholic Negroes of Louisiana. He found a group who spoke only French and sang spirituals much like the Afro-Protestant spirituals in form. They used excerpts from French folk songs and the Mass. As an example, Oster played a recording of the group, consisting of men between 69 and 76 years old, singing, "Magdalene at the Tomb."

While in Ireland, Oster recorded folk songs in a pub where farmers had gathered during a horse fair. He also recorded Indian chants at the Mesquakie Indian Reservation near Tama.

Oster has found folk music as close to home as Cedar Rapids, where he recorded the music of a small Czech band which plays in bars.

"If Medicare passes, there is no turning back," he stated.

He said that the AMA's opponents have lost many battles, but the AMA can lose only once. If the Medicare program is passed, he said, the quality of health care will suffer, freedom will be lost, and future tax burdens will be great.

WARD SAID last Nov. 24 he thought the chances for the AMA were slight, but that now he is encouraged. He said support of the Elder care bill, the bill supported by the AMA, had gained wide support in the last two weeks.

The AMA has put forth a great effort in a campaign to educate the people on the values of its bill, Ward said. Speakers, pamphlets, radio and television ads, and newspapers have been used in this educational effort, he said.

He challenged individual doctors to do everything possible to inform people of the Elder care bill. "We believe," he said, "when people know all the facts they will make the right decision."

Trio Seeks To Stimulate Thinking in Campus Groups

By LES BLASER Staff Writer

The Mitchell Trio entertained 1800 Greeks Thursday night for two hours in the Union. Before their appearance, two members of the Trio, Chad Mitchell and Mike Kobluk, discussed their feelings about their music and the future of the Trio.

Even though they feel strongly about what they sing, they don't search for music that expresses what they feel. According to Kobluk, they listen closely to other singing groups, and "most of our political satire comes to us."

"OUR MAIN purpose is to entertain," Kobluk said, "but we see no reason not to express our own opinions in what we sing."

"We're not crusaders," he went on, "we merely hope to get people to think about what we sing."

On the same subject, Mitchell said, "If we have a message for the college age group, it is to wake up and investigate. Don't accept everything at face value. Be inquisitive."

KOBLUK DIDN'T feel that the trio would always be of primary importance to its members.

"We'll stick with the Trio as long as we keep climbing," he said. "At present we still enjoy the traveling."

Committee Fails To Question Hughes' Nominee

DES MOINES (AP) — A Senate committee named to investigate Robert Barry of Danbury for appointment to the Iowa Highway Commission met briefly with him Thursday afternoon but adjourned without questioning the nominee.

Barry, 43, was a key figure in a legislative investigation of the commission in which no wrongdoing was found.

Barry, a Democrat, was appointed to the commission by Democratic Gov. Harold Hughes two years ago but the Senate refused to confirm him. Then Hughes gave Barry an interim appointment to run until 30 days after the start of the present session.

Because that 30-day period has expired, there is some question about whether Barry now is a commission member.

Senate Group Sets Hearing

DES MOINES (AP) — The Senate Schools Committee Thursday scheduled a public hearing for 2 p.m. Tuesday on what school standards the legislature should set for Iowa.

The Iowa Supreme Court last year threw out the law under which the State Department of Public Instruction had been setting standards for schools. The court said the powers delegated to the department were too broad.

Committee Chairman John Kibbe (D-Emmetsburg), said "the hearing is not to approve a proposal setting the standards and it is not to go into the past. We don't want complaints, but a lot of people out in the state do have opinions."

but eventually we would like to make the Trio secondary."

At Gonzaga University in Washington, Kobluk was a mathematics and English major. Eventually he intends to enter one of these fields, but he would like to keep performing with the trio, to a lesser extent.

Joe Frazier, the other member of the Trio, studied music at Lebanon Valley College in Lebanon, Penn., and at the Julius Hart School of Music in Hartford, Conn. According to Kobluk, he would like to enter the legitimate theatre as a singer. He is the only member of the Trio who has had formal voice training.

Mitchell is rather uncertain about his future outside the Trio. He might possibly work in the production of movies.

EACH YEAR the Mitchell Trio travels from eight to nine months, appearing mostly at colleges throughout the country. Usually they appear for one or two months each year at a night club, although Kobluk says that they don't particularly enjoy doing that type of work.

Even though they appear primarily at colleges, they don't sing primarily for that audience.

Mitchell said, "We don't consider ourselves as primarily a college group; it just works out that way. Colleges provide the most receptive audiences for our type of work."

THE TRIO averages about five performances a week and about 150 each year. Tonight they will appear in Atlanta, Ga., Saturday night in the Bronx, N.Y., and Sunday in Chicago, N.Y.

Mitchell is single and lives in Chicago. Frazier is married and lives in New York. Kobluk is also married and lives in Chicago.

The Trio is accompanied by Paul Prestopino on banjo, mandolin, and guitar, and by Jacob Andey on guitar.

Unbeaten Iowa, Michigan To Clash Saturday In Big 10 Gym Title Meet

The Big Ten gymnastics team championship will be squared on the line Saturday at Ann Arbor when unbeaten Iowa and defending champion Michigan collide in dual meet action.

IOWA FOR the season has a 7-0 record and is 4-0 in the conference. Michigan has 6-0 for all meets and has beaten all five league opponents.

The Hawkeyes have won 20 dual meets since their last defeat in 1963 — and the team that beat the Iowans was Michigan, 7-41. In 1964, Iowa defeated the Wolverines, 63-49.

Since 1965 marks the first time the conference crown will be decided on a dual meet record basis.

Coach Dick Holzapfel believes his team has a good chance of wrestling the title away from the Wolves who usually depend on top performers instead of depth to win championships.

In 1965, Iowa has whipped Wisconsin, Ohio State, Michigan State and Indiana and after Michigan has yet to face Illinois and Minnesota. Illinois has beaten Ohio State, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan State and later will finish with Indiana.

THE HAWKEYES and Wolverines are strong favorites over their later foes so, barring any big upsets, the championship will go to the winner of Saturday's Iowa-Michigan meet.

Holzapfel rates the meet a toss-up even though he considers Michigan the favorite because of the home floor advantage and defending champion role. "But they will have to be pretty good to beat us. We have good men in every event and our depth should help compensate for their individual stars," he said.

"The team that hits its routines will win the meet. I feel that our team has been improving every meet and that the men should reach their peak on Saturday. Everyone knows what he has to do and we are in good shape," said Holzapfel.

Holzapfel gives the edge to the Wolverines in the trampoline, calls the parallel bars, still rings and horizontal bar events even, gives the edge in the side horse to Iowa and indicates that the floor exercise and long horse could be the turning point of the meet.

ALTHOUGH the Hawkeyes hope to use their squad depth to the best advantage, the performances by all-American Glenn Gailis assume high importance. Gailis has been outstanding in every meet and has compiled a seven-meet total of 245 points, an average of 35 points per meet.

Against Illinois State and Indiana last Saturday, Gailis scored 37 and 39 points out of a possible 42 against the two foes. His total outscored the entire team total made by the two other schools.

Other leading Hawkeyes include Ken Gordon, a sophomore side horse operator who Holzapfel rates a potential conference champion; veteran floor exercise and trampolinist Bill Sayre and sophomore Ian Heller, who leads his talent to four events.

Additional depth and points must come from Dan Price on the still rings and horizontal bar; Barry Keeley, horizontal bar; Chuck Mensching, who took a first place away from Gordon and Gailis on the side horse last week; Pete Drozdowicz, parallel bars; Rich Febey and Jeff Stein, trampoline; and Tom Goldsborough, floor exercise.

Michigan as usual boasts an array of talent, headed by a trio of trampoline experts who finished at the top of the conference last year. Gary Erwin, Fred Sanders and John Hamilton supply the added bounce to the Wolverine attack.

Fencers Meet Wayne State, Illinois Saturday

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — A marathon week end of activity at Detroit awaits Coach "Mac" Garret's University of Illinois fencing team.

Today, Garret's fencers will take on Wayne State and Iowa in regulation meets, and on Saturday they will meet Case and Detroit.

"If one man fenced all the way without relief, he would be involved in about five hours of competitive fencing," Garret says. "We'll use our first team 100 per cent against Iowa and make substitutions against the other three teams."

The Hawkeyes tied for second in last year's Big Ten Championships, and could be Illinois' chief competition for this year's title. Iowa has back all of its top finishers from last season, including foil champion Mike Kinsinger.

Kinsinger will provide a stiff test for Illinois' top two foil fencers, Roger Garret, Champion (University) junior, and Steve Stoll, Champaign (Peoria Spalding) senior, both of whom have 17-4 season's records.

Best mark on the team is the 20-1 record of N.C.A.A. sabre champion, Craig Bell, Chicago (DeLaSalle) senior.

Garret helps the four-meet week end will help settle Illinois' epee team, which has been erratic. Total victories recorded by each Illini team point out the situation. Sabre fencers have won 57 bouts and lost 15. Foil fencers have a combined 56-16 record, and epee fencers have won only 42 while losing 10.

SIGNS CONTRACT — John Paglio, former guard and tackle at Syracuse, has signed a 1965 contract with the Baltimore Colts, the club announced Thursday.

Hawks Wrestle Strong Team From Michigan

Now it is Iowa's turn to tackle the big task of upsetting Michigan's unbeaten wrestling team and the Hawkeyes try it Saturday at about 4:30 p.m. in the Field House.

THE MEET on the basketball court closely follows the conclusion of the Purdue-Iowa basketball game which starts at 2:30 p.m.

Michigan, the 1963 and 1964 Big Ten team champion, has won 25 straight dual meets since 1963 and has 8-0 in 1965. It has beaten Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio State, Northwestern and Indiana this season, these victories being by an average score of 20-5.

It is likely that no Big Ten wrestling team ever came to Iowa City with a more impressive record, both team and individual. The man which Coach Cliff Kean will send against the Hawkeyes now have a combined bout record of 64 wins, 12 losses and 3 ties, which means they have won about 85 per cent of their matches.

Five placed in the Big Ten meet in 1964, including champion Lee Deitrick, the 147-lb. champion.

AGAINST this super-team, Coach Dave McCluskey will send a determined group of Hawkeyes who have a 4-3 record in Big Ten meets. But only three of them have bout records over the .500 mark and the total record is 31-34-9 for 1965 to date.

Here is the lineup, Iowan listed first, bout record after each name: 123 — Tom Bowman (4-5-1) vs. Bob Fehrs (8-1); 130 — Bill Fuller (5-4-1) vs. Doug Horning (8-1); 137 — Bob Rausenberger (6-3) vs. Bill Johannsen (5-1-2); 147 — Ray Davis (0-4-1) vs. Cai Jenkins (7-2); 157 — Wilbur Devine (3-4-1) vs. Lee Deitrick (11-1-1); 167 — Dennis Wegner (2-5-2) vs. Rick Bay (4-2); 177 — Tom Fennelly (1-6-2) vs. Chris Stowell (9-3); Hwt. — Roger Schilling (6-3-1) vs. Bob Spaly (12-1).

Timberlake To Receive Tribune Award Sunday

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — When All-American Bob Timberlake receives the Chicago Tribune Trophy as the Big Ten's most valuable football player at a half-time ceremony during the Ohio State-Michigan basketball game here Saturday, he will be the sixth Wolverine since 1928 to be so honored.

For three other participants in the event it will be a repeat performance and one to recall memories of the thrilling past. The three are Wilfrid Smith, Tribune sports editor; Athletic Director Fritz Crisler and Coach Bump Elliott.

3 Seattle Players Involved in Point Shaving Scandal

SEATTLE (AP)—Two Seattle University basketball players were arrested Wednesday night and another was implicated Thursday in a point-shaving scandal that reportedly netted one of the athletes a mere $130 and the other two nothing.

A YOUNG CHICAGO tavern owner, a friend of one of the players, also was arrested in the case, involving Seattle's Jan. 22 game here against the University of Idaho.

Charlie Williams, team captain and high scorer who is described by Coach Bob Boyd as the "finest guard I ever had," and Peller Phillips were arrested by the FBI and later expelled from the university. Peller often started at the other guard position.

L. J. Wheeler, a reserve center, was expelled because he allegedly knew of the incident and failed to report it.

Leo Casale, 24, was arrested in Chicago.

Williams and Phillips, both 21-year-old seniors, were released under $1,000 personal recognizance bonds. They were ordered to appear March 1 to enter pleas.

Casale's bond was set at $25,000.

and his hearing was continued until Feb. 23 to await papers. He was released on a recognizance bond.

THE ARRESTS WERE made by the FBI on charges of bribery and conspiracy to affect the outcome of the Idaho game, won by Seattle 89-72. The gambling point spread favored the Chieftans by one more — 18.

They were believed to be the first arrests made under a federal law enacted last June which covers sports gambling offenses.

The FBI refused to disclose how it uncovered the alleged conspiracy and the involved players would not comment.

The Rev. Timothy Cronin, assistant to the university president, said Phillips admitted meeting Casale in Chicago during a road trip by the Seattle team.

IT WAS REPORTED Casale gave Phillips $130, but no money went to the two other players.

Williams, whose average is 20 points, scored 16 against Idaho.

Phillips, starting at the other guard position, tallied eight and Wheeler failed to score in his brief appearance. William was out of the game for the last six minutes, Phillips left with almost 10 minutes left to play.

"I just can't believe this," said Jack Heinrich, who coached Williams at Stadium High School in Tacoma, Wash.

"Charlie is the finest kid I've ever known," Stadium won a state championship and Williams was an all-state selection.

Phillips, whose home is Detroit, transferred to Seattle University from Coalinga, Calif., Junior College. He and Casale were fellow students there.

Wheeler, a junior, transferred from Santa Ana, Calif., Junior College.

Seattle has won its last 10 games and anticipated a bid to the post-season NCAA tournament as an at-large entry. The Chieftans have three regular season games remaining.

Elston Howard Signs $70,000 Baseball Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard, the highest-salaried catcher in baseball history at a reported $70,000 a year, said Thursday he has long-range ambitions to become the first Negro manager in the big leagues with the New York Yankees.

He made his hopes known when he signed his 1965 contract.

"I think I should be able to play for five more years," said Howard, who will be 35 next Tuesday. "When I get to the point where I have lost a little of my reflexes and can't get around on the fast ball, I'd like to stay in the Yankee organization as a coach."

"If some day the manager's job were offered to me, I would accept and try my best to become successful as the first Negro manager."

"But I haven't lost anything yet. I feel I can go on catching as many games as Johnny Keane wants."

The Yankees did not announce any salary for Howard, in contrast to their confirmation of Mickey Mantle's $100,000 pay.

Asked if he was getting $68,000.

Howard said, "A little more." As a result the ceiling became $70,000 — about $10,000 over what he got last year and more than any other catcher ever got. Yogi Berra's top salary was believed around $60,000.

Howard was third among American League hitters at 313 last season, with 15 home runs and 81 runs batted in, and he appeared in 150 games. He led the catchers in fielding at .998.

Dennis started at Western Electric's Hawthorne Works in Chicago as a Staff Trainee in Industrial Relations.

After only a year with the Company and the completion of one of WE's training programs for college graduates, Dennis became a Personnel Placement Analyst. Advancing rapidly, Dennis was recently promoted to Section Chief, Employment and Placement, Systems Equipment Engineering.

Record Set for College Diplomas

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare recently announced that more American students won college and university degrees during the academic year ended last summer than ever before.

The graduates displayed an unprecedented interest in entering the teaching profession according to the department. More B.A. and M.A. degrees were granted in education than in any other field.

Women obtained 43 per cent of the B.A. degrees, 12 per cent of the first professional degrees, and 11 per cent of the doctorates.
