

Expect Snow To Cover All Iowa by Night

Colder Temperature Is Predicted for Today, And On Wednesday

Snow moved into western Iowa Monday night, and the Weather Bureau said all of the state can expect between one and three inches of new snow before the storm moves out tonight.

Snow began falling in northwest sections of the state Monday afternoon as icy winds added to the discomfort brought by a cold wave that kept temperatures at bitter levels throughout the day.

The State Highway Commission said highways in the extreme northwest corner of Iowa were snowpacked in sheltered areas, and up to 50 per cent snow packed in other stretches. Other highways in state were reported normal.

Highs today will vary from five above in the northwest to the 20s in the southeast. Those readings are expected early in the morning, with temperatures dropping during the day.

Looking ahead, the Weather Bureau said Iowa can expect very cold weather on Wednesday.

Last Rites Wednesday for Prof. Woods

Charles B. Woods, 57, professor of English at the University since 1945, died Sunday at University Hospital following a heart attack.

Woods was a specialist in the works of Henry Fielding, and taught 18th century English literature.

He was a native of Indianapolis. He had received three grants from the American Council of Learned Societies for use in editing Fielding's works, and had completed one of three volumes of Fielding's plays at the time of his death.

Woods edited the Philological Quarterly, a journal of language and literary studies published at the University since 1932, from 1955 to 1964.

He also was co-editor of the Annual Bibliography of English Literature 1660-1800 from 1951 to 1957.

Woods was a graduate of Western Reserve University and Harvard University and was a fellow of the Huntington Library at Pasadena, Calif.

Survivors include his widow, and four daughters.

Memorial services will be at the First Methodist Church, Jefferson and Dubuque Streets, at 2 p.m. Wednesday. The Department of English will dismiss classes Wednesday afternoon in tribute to the professor.

Fluoridation Ends; Teeth Decay; Town Re-examines Idea

ANTIGO, Wis. (AP) — The Antigo Common Council has asked its health and welfare committee to come up with a recommendation on what should be done about an increase in youth-fall cavities.

This northern Wisconsin city of about 10,000 fluoridated its water supply from June 1940 until November of 1960, when a majority of residents voted to end the practice.

Since then, the State Board of Health reported in a survey a few weeks ago, tooth decay among kindergarten pupils has risen 92 per cent; among second graders, 183 per cent; and among fourth graders, 100 per cent.

Justice Frankfurter, 82, Dies After Severe Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter died Monday in George Washington University Hospital at the age of 82 as the result of an acute heart attack.

Physicians said he had been in poor health since his retirement in 1962 and had suffered previous heart seizures.

The former justice was taken to the hospital after being stricken at his home late Sunday. Death occurred at 5:05 p.m.

Mrs. Frankfurter was confined to the family home due to poor health and was unable to be at the hospital.

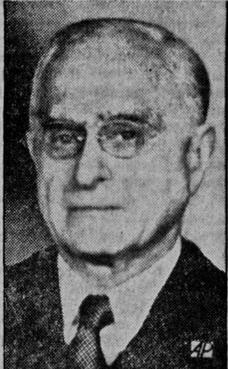

Frankfurter's death was announced by Banning E. (Burt) Whittington, Supreme Court press information man.

Frankfurter suffered a mild stroke at a desk in his court chamber late in the afternoon of April 5, 1962. He received hospital treatment until the following July 14. Failing to regain his health, he retired from the high court on Aug. 29, 1962.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY announced Frankfurter's retirement with an expression of disappointment that his health required the step.

"You have been part of American public life for well over half a century," Kennedy said. "What you have learned of the meaning of our country is reflected, of course, in the many hundreds of opinions, in thousands of your students and in dozens of books and articles."

Chief Justice Earl Warren told Frankfurter that "few men in the life of the Supreme Court have made contributions to its jurised his Secretary of Labor, Arthur J. Goldberg to the vacancy left by Frankfurter.

Born in Vienna, Austria, Nov. 15, 1882, Frankfurter was brought to the United States in 1894. He received a bachelor of arts degree from the College of the City of New York in 1902, a bachelor of laws degree from Harvard Law School in 1906, and then began in his peppy way to work his way to national and international fame.

President Kennedy in July 1963 designated the jurist as one of 31 persons to receive the presidential medal of freedom. This gold medal is the highest honor a president can confer on a civilian in peacetime.

One month later the American Bar Association gave Frankfurter and served 23 years as an associate justice. President Kennedy appointed him equal to your own."

Frankfurter was appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt its highest award, a gold medal for "conspicuous service to the cause of American jurisprudence."

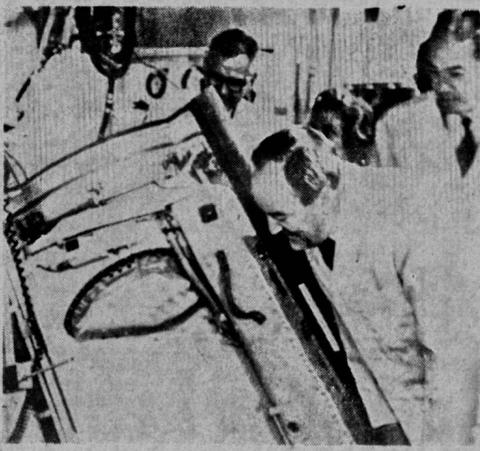

Also in 1963, plans were announced to raise $400,000 to endow a professorship at Harvard Law School in his honor.

THE JURIST was forced to retirement to reduce his activities to a small fraction of what they were in his unusually busy, brisk life. He made several brief visits to the Supreme Court Building, riding in a wheelchair, to be greeted by justices, court officials and employees. Several times in good weather he took wheelchair rides along Hains Point, a picturesque spot along the Potomac River in the District of Columbia.

With the aid of a secretary, Frankfurter at home continued to correspond with persons in many parts of the world. Eventually he sold his house in the historic Georgetown section of Washington. He and Mrs. Frankfurter, who suffers from arthritis, moved into an apartment in northwest Washington where a nurse and other employees assisted them.

In one of his last talks with newsmen, Frankfurter was reminded that the high tribunal was being popularly referred to as "the Warren Court."

In clipped, precise words — typical of his comments while on the bench — Frankfurter fired back: "They say Warren runs the court? Well, nine free men, appointed by the President of the United States, run the court. No one else."

Declines to Fly

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey won't be aboard the Gemini Spacecraft he's checking out at Cape Kennedy although he's been accused on many occasions of using high-flying phrases. "I don't mind flying," said Humphrey, "but I'd rather run."

I.C. - Coralville Fight Continues

A suit filed Saturday by Iowa City asking nullification of a recent land annexation by Coralville and a vote of the Iowa City council Saturday to annex 3.7 square miles are the most recent events in the growing feud between the two cities.

The suit, filed in Johnson County District Court, asks that the "purported annexation" made by Coralville last September be set aside and declared illegal.

Chapman said that even if the court should rule in favor of Coralville in the suit, there was nothing to prevent Iowa City from proceeding with action to annex the remainder of the 3.7 square mile area it is considering.

This would mean that Coralville's "shoeing" of annexed land would be completely surrounded by Iowa City.

City Manager Carsten D. Leikvold said Iowa City had planned to annex the area for some time and that Saturday's action was not simply a retaliatory move against Coralville.

He said the new annexation proposal is a logical extension of the city and necessary to expansion of both Iowa City and the University.

"If we didn't feel this was an area with growth potential, we wouldn't proceed with annexation," Leikvold said.

Coralville Mayor Clarence Wilson flatly denied two of the allegations made by Chapman.

Coralville, Wilson said, contends that the land it annexed is contiguous with the present city limits and that annexation procedures were perfectly in order.

"We solicited no one for annexation. They solicited us to be annexed," Wilson said.

He acknowledged that Coralville had annexed a small strip of land which had been under consideration by Iowa City.

Coralville, Wilson said, had taken the land in with the knowledge that it was taking a chance, but was perfectly willing to abide by a court decision on the matter.

Role of Modern Woman Discussed Before AAUW Senior Coed Group

A three-member panel consisting of a career woman, a housewife, and a housewife with a career, discussed the role of the modern educated woman before an audience of about 60 persons Monday night.

Ann Howard, G. Cresco, panel moderator, started the discussion by asking the panelists their conception of the difference between the role of a woman and the role of an educated woman.

The career woman, June Helm, associate professor of sociology and anthropology, said that education was just an expansion of opportunity for a woman.

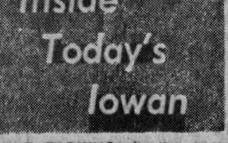

Dr. Jeanne Smith, assistant professor of internal medicine who combines a medical practice with being a wife and raising five children, said that the role of modern woman is unstable. Modern man, she said, "is confused about the role of woman. There is a difference between what men want and what they think they want."

Dr. Smith said that when she was a medical student, she and the other six girls in her class were ignored because if a male student paid any attention to them, he would be teased.

Men, according to Dr. Smith, think they want a homebody, and consider marriage as something they are going to have to put up with but as men get older, they look for companionship, too.

Her husband is a doctor too, and she said his colleagues would tell her that they think it might be fun to be married to someone they could talk to about their work.

Mrs. Richard Vornbrock, 122 Grand Ave. Court, the housewife on the panel said that some women were able to do it, "combine marriage and a career, but I don't have that much energy to spread around." Mrs. Vornbrock is active in her church music department, and worked with music in the AAUW as well as painting, being a housewife and raising three teenagers.

About 30 seniors, scheduled to graduate in June, picked by their department heads to represent all U of I graduating coeds, were invited to join the American Association of University Women, at the meeting.

Any woman who holds a baccalaureate or higher degree from a college or university on the AAUW list is eligible to join any chapter of the group.

The women who attended the meeting were told about the organization which maintains a fellowship program for graduate study as one of its projects.

Senate Group Drops Bill In Squabble

State Senators Claim Voting Rules Violated In Loan Legislation

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill to regulate industrial loan companies was taken out of the Senate Commerce Committee Monday amid protests that the rules were being ignored.

Later, Committee Chairman Peter F. Hansen (D-Manning), said that "I am not going to have them make a butt out of me," and decided to leave the bill in committee.

HANSEN FIRST ruled there were seven votes in favor of reporting the bill out to the Senate floor and three votes against, with two committee members absent. Only seven votes are required to report out a bill, he said, although he first was under the impression that eight votes were necessary.

The bill would spell out a definition for industrial loan companies which are not regulated as such under existing law. It would require that they be regulated by the state auditor, although some legislators contend the state banking superintendent should regulate such companies.

The first roll call showed five votes for the measure, three against, and Sen. Joseph Coleman (D-Clair), not voting.

MAJORITY LEADER Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque), a committee member, then asked Coleman to vote yes and Coleman agreed.

The Committee then went on to other business until someone noted that Hansen had not announced the vote. Hansen said he was waiting while backers of the bill attempted to round up more votes. Sen. John Walker (R-Williams), who opposed the measure, called the delay unusual.

This gave the bill seven votes but Hansen said this was not enough and the meeting broke up.

It then was pointed out that the rule required seven, not eight, votes for approval.

ANOTHER meeting was called, which Hansen and Frommelt said was to clarify the matter and make sure that all committee members knew the bill was reported out.

By this time, Coleman had asked to change his vote again, this time to no.

At this point several members of the committee were on their feet shouting at each other.

The discussion quieted when Hansen declared the second meeting was called merely to clarify the matter. Coleman would be counted as voting for the bill despite his protest and the bill would go to the Senate calendar, Hansen said.

Two Injured In Accident

An automobile accident involving two University students occurred at about 6 p.m. Saturday in the 2000 block of Rochester Avenue.

The car driven by Darrell R. Kinsey, 21, West Branch, crashed into a utility pole after failing to make a curve, police said. Two occupants of the car were injured. Diane Dexter, 21, Holstein is listed in satisfactory condition at student health infirmary, undergoing treatment for a fractured vertebra.

David Kinsey, 20, West Branch, was released Sunday from the University Hospitals after treatment for a fractured collar bone.

Darrell Kinsey, 24, was charged with drunk driving and failure to have control of the auto, police reported. He was released on $500 bond. His hearing was set for March 1 in police court.

Opposition Pickets

A group of students who said they were "from Hillcrest" showed up at the post office shortly after the protest pickets arrived. The second group of students carried signs supporting action of the U.S. government in South Viet Nam.

Poster Picketers 'Walk for Peace'

By MALIN SPOPE
Staff Writer

Recent U.S. air attacks on Viet Cong supply lines in North Viet Nam resulted in a "poster walk for peace" Saturday in front of the Iowa City Post Office.

More than 40 University students, faculty and staff members took part in the picket protest. The Post Office was chosen because it was the only federal building in Iowa City, according to Donald L. Barnett, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology.

"Our main concern is the survival of the human species," Barnett said. Barnett is the sponsor of the Iowa Socialist League (ISL), one of several organizations represented in the protest.

"We are living in a time when the survival of mankind depends upon the decisions of a mere handful of men," Barnett said. "If the United States continues to escalate the war in Viet Nam, a nuclear war could result."

One of the main purposes of Saturday's demonstration, Barnett said, was to "raise the level of awareness of the people in the United States. The mass media have presented a distorted picture of what has been happening in Viet Nam."

Barnett said the United States has no moral or legal right to maintain troops and weapons in Viet Nam.

According to Barnett, the United States is dictating Government policy in South Viet Nam and is doing nothing to encourage free elections, guaranteed by the 1954 Geneva conference.

Barnett said South Viet Nam will never have a popular government until the United States "pulls out."

"The Vietnamese have had nine governments over the past year. Not one has had a shred of claim to popular support."

Others who participated in Saturday's protest felt the United States had no business interfering in Viet Nam's internal affairs.

Richard S. Caldwell, G. St. Paul, Minn., said he joined the protest because he was a pacifist.

"I just don't believe in killing people — for any cause," he said. "I am just as much against our intervention in South Viet Nam as I am against Communists' intervention in other countries."

The ISL, however, was not the only group represented at the Post Office. A group of students who favored U.S. policy in Viet Nam also were present at the demonstration.

George Rompot, 21, a spokesman for the pro-U.S. group, said his group was "just a bunch of students and others who felt we couldn't let people think this other group represents feeling at the University."

A third faction was represented by a lone student, Manny Pollack, G. Skokie, Ill., who carried a sign saying "Go Hawks." Pollack's only comment was "Gosh, Iowa has a good basketball team."

A parking problem?

What's the trouble?

THERE HAS BEEN A LOT of talking about The Traffic Problem and its solutions the past few weeks. At its next meeting the Student Senate will again consider action in this area.

We've read proposals, counter-proposals; heard arguments pro and con; seen figures and have grown progressively more confused.

Campus Police officials tell us that although there are undoubtedly more cars on campus every year, it is impossible to predict how fast the number of cars will rise. They also say there is no pressing problem now.

They say parking spaces are always available just across the river for students with restricted parking stickers. Thus these students may park with no problem and walk fewer steps to the main campus than it takes residents in the men's dorms.

We sent a photographer to two lots across the river at a busy hour Monday to check these statements. This evidence produced on today's page is clear — parking spaces galore.

The students concerned about the parking problem must want a parking space within a block of class. This is impossible, but there are plenty of spaces within easy walking distance.

There is no pressing need at this time for any further restrictions on student autos on this campus.

The recurring theme

GROWTH HAS USUALLY had a positive value in American society. Increased size in group memberships, businesses, cities, any number of things has been regarded as a sign that the organization is a dynamic concern.

The problems of growth have only recently received any meaningful consideration. Higher education is one of the many institutions now greatly concerned with these problems and the boasting of larger statistics has now taken on a cautious tone.

Berkeley, because of the drama of the situation that lasted through most of the first semester, has been a reference point for discussion of growth.

Perhaps the best that will come out of the ensuing discussions on campuses across the country, if there is a need for discussion, is some concrete formulation of the problems, if they exist.

But we face a variation of the theme on this campus. The desperate statement of the Board of Regents regarding appropriations for state-supported educational facilities is more concerned with how to, and implicitly, can we grow.

The enrollment figure for the University of Iowa in 1970 has been predicted at 25,000. Give or take a few hundred, that is an increase of almost 10,000 from the present enrollment.

Perhaps the basic question this university must face is can it handle 25,000 students in five years and at least maintain the current standards of education.

It is not too difficult to outline the areas which would have to be expanded to accommodate 25,000 students — housing, faculty, classroom space, laboratory equipment, etc.

The Board of Regents have outlined two alternatives for the future, if the Legislature does not provide the funds necessary to cope with the projected increase in enrollment. (The current budget proposed does not, in fact, provide the funds.)

The first alternative is to raise the entrance requirements, thus holding down the enrollment in proportion to available facilities. The second alternative is to raise tuition sharply to provide the needed funds.

Perhaps the problem of money for the University has become a tiresome subject, unpleasant to read about. Unfortunately, neither the University nor the Legislature nor the people of Iowa can afford to put it in the back of their minds.

It is not a problem that will wait for attention. Without the proper concern, the problem will become so severe that it will take years to even catch up with.

We won't only be facing the problems of Berkeley, but the malady of stunted growth.

By TED HICKS

The James Bond following is almost a cult. It's frightening. Hundreds of people wait in line to see his latest film. They'll stand in sub-freezing weather for an hour, grumbling, complaining, or laughing that they wouldn't do this for any other movie. But they do wait, and once inside the theatre the grumbling ceases and the muttering turns to eager expectation.

Are they disappointed? No. In "Goldfinger," Bond's cunning and daring have not lessened one particle. If anything, they have increased to ridiculous proportions. There are enough incidents, accidents, and encounters from beginning to end to satisfy the most sadistic Bond fan. As the most popular anti-hero of the day, Sean Connery as Bond (of course), makes an extended lark of the film's 90 or so minutes.

After planting explosives in a building of obviously nefarious design, he slips out of a skin diving suit to reveal a white dinner jacket. Is that enough?

No, he suavely inserts a red carnation in his unwrinkled lapel and casually walks away. The audience roars. Great fun. Bond is given an Aston Martin that claims the wildest options of any assembly line: smoke screen, oil slick, ejector seat, and on and on. And we know Bond will get to use every one of these out-landish devices before all is done.

All in all, this is authentic Ian Fleming, down to the sly little bedroom exchanges calculated to raise snickers all over the house.

It is not, however, as good a film as "From Russia With Love." The tongue-in-cheek atmosphere was more fully realized in "From Russia With Love" than in "Dr. No," but in "Goldfinger" the voluminous flood of events are almost too self consciously played for laughs. But it is still good. Fleming's most ridiculous volume in the Bond series has been faithfully adapted, and for the fantastic Max Sennett auto chases is worth the time it takes. But you were going to stand in line anyway, weren't you?

Letters to the editor —

Reader supports U.S. role in Viet Nam conflict

To the Editor:

In reply to Paul Thompson's letter to the editor on Feb. 19, 1965. After studying his letter carefully I would like to rebut his arguments and attempt to help Mr. Thompson and his friends understand the Viet Nam situation.

First of all, let us understand why and what we are doing in South Viet Nam. We are there as a result of a request by the government of South Viet Nam to aid them in their struggle for freedom from the aggressive Viet Cong from North Viet Nam. We are supplying money, weapons and troops.

What troops we do have in South Viet Nam are advisers to the army units of South Viet Nam. These "advisers" are more or less leaders of combat groups, observers, and combat flyers.

They are there in an advisory capacity and not for combat in that there are not many divisions, support troops, etc. Viet Cong regulars and guerrillas based in North Viet Nam, armed by North Viet Nam, are engaged in the fighting in South Viet Nam. In a sense it is like North Korea invading South Korea, with the North clearly the aggressor. Remember?

MR. THOMPSON said that "following the ill-advised bombings we read of demonstrations by the Vietnamese people against the U.S.-backed Government and many of the civilians shot by Government troops." Does Mr. Thompson realize that these "demonstrators" were Viet Cong agents who were planted to undermine the Government?

You see, Paul, not all battles are fought in the field. Some of these demonstrators were, in all likelihood, Viet Cong agents. What with the Buddhists and Catholics fighting amongst each other, and the musical-chairs government all tend to cloud the issue. But our place in Viet Nam is clear; we are to aid the people so that they may determine who governs them and prevent Peking or Hanoi from determining this for them. We want them to have a better life, pure and simple. You don't live better under Communism. Ask the Hungarian people, the East German people, the Polish people.

Next, Mr. Thompson says "All this followed stories of napalm bombing of native villages and the herding of civilians into stockaded villages, which are essentially concentration camps." If a South Vietnamese patrol spots a group of Viet Cong and calls for an air-strike somebody is going to catch it.

If 10 Viet Cong die and two civilians die this is unfortunate for the civilians. But after all, Paul, they shouldn't be in those villages; they should be in those "concentration camps." Those "concentration camps" you so loosely refer to are what we more informed people care to call "strategic hamlets."

These are fortified villages defended by regular Vietnamese troops. The residents of the area live there and after farming during the day return there for the night.

This is done to prevent the Viet Cong from terrorizing the peasants into aiding them. As you will recall, during the early stages of the war all headmen of the villages were murdered. Leaderless people are easy prey.

NEXT, MR. THOMPSON states that "Most Americans are used to thinking that the United States stands for freedom, democracy and peace — and that if the United States gets involved in a foreign war, it is on the side of the people." Sure, if we pulled out there would be peace, but no freedom or democracy for the South Vietnamese.

Do you, Mr. Thompson, trade freedom and democracy for peace? Would you trade in your Constitution so you could live in a Soviet state in peace?

As far as this bit about negotiation goes, we aren't all so stupid as to forget how Neville Chamberlain negotiated and appeared away the fate of millions in Europe. The souls of six million Jews murdered by Hitler are testimony enough. Was Winston Churchill a pacifist? Did he want peace, did he surrender, did he negotiate?

In Viet Nam I can't see at present what there is to negotiate. If I came to your house, Mr. Thompson, and threw you out and moved in, would you negotiate for my removal? I doubt that even a pacifist would do that. You would demand my ouster.

I demand the ouster of the North Viet Nam from South Viet Nam. There is nothing to negotiate, the issue is clear.

As for Sen. Morse and his statement that there are no Russian or Chinese troops fighting in Viet Nam, I agree. However, who is supplying the weapons, the money, the ideology, the stooges? Does the mere physical absence of Russians and Chinese make the good senator think their influence doesn't exist?

NEXT, MR. THOMPSON, states "we must insist on immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Viet Nam, even though the situation may remain a tragic one." Is he feeling sorry now for the South Vietnamese?

The "tragic situation" would be tragic all right. But it's a better than putting them into "concentration camps" and fire-bombing them isn't it, Paul? On the front page of the D.I. there was a statement by this protest group to the effect that they condemned President Johnson's "rejection of the American people's election mandate for peace and negotiation." I myself along with most of my fellow Americans voted for strength, firmness, and determination in dealing with Communists; we did not vote for appeasement and surrender. I can't remember President Johnson saying he was going to negotiate away the rights of people.

I can't believe anyone so naive as not to see the threat of the Red Chinese. They, as we should know, do not believe in "peaceful co-existence" like the Russians. Tell me how to negotiate with someone who says "it's either you or me."

OK MY PACIFIST, socialist, or what have you, friends. Lets do pull out of Viet Nam; let Laos then fall, and Cambodia, and Thailand; let us negotiate when China invades India again. Lets then negotiate when China and Communism rule half the world or more, and ruthlessly exploit the people.

Will you, Mr. Thompson, will you shed a tear for those people?

I am not a warmonger or a war-lover to be sure, but I trace my ancestors back to men like the pioneers, and western frontiersmen just like you Mr. Thompson. We don't trace ourselves back to men like Neville Chamberlain, Benedict Arnold, and the like. It's like that saying, "Better Red Than Dead" only I'm not so sure that I would like to be red.

Time for fighting

To the Editor:

An open letter to Paul Thompson.

Dear Paul,

When we were little boys, our mothers taught us that it was wrong to fight, our ministers taught us to turn the other cheek, and usually a bully taught us that discretion was the better part of valor.

But life has taught me that if I believe in something, I must stand up and fight for this belief, or the belief is weakened; that my enemies are not impressed with my submission; that discretion encourages bullies.

To look for a fight is wrong, but so is not fighting to support your beliefs.

May I ask you a loaded question? You say you are a pacifist. Would you fight to remain a pacifist? Or so that someone else could become a pacifist?

If I felt that stopping all military aid to South Viet Nam would help South Viet Nam, I would be in favor of stopping that aid.

As long as we are in South Viet Nam, why should we let North Viet Nam send saboteurs into South Viet Nam, to kill and maim, not only U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers but also women and children, without striking at the bases where these saboteurs are trained?

Really, Paul, do you honestly think that peaceful negotiations are going to settle the question? Don't you remember the peaceful negotiations which split French Indochina into four parts? Did those peaceful negotiations lead to peace?

Self-determination is a good thing. I remember all the good that came of the self-determination which occurred in Hungary a few years back.

Yes, Paul, picket the Post Office. I, like you, dream of a world where there is no conflict. But as long as there is conflict, let us do all we can to insure that the world without conflict is a world in which we can still express our minds, do as we see fit, and in which we can picket post offices when we think something is wrong, and not a world where we have no voice in the government, no control over our own lives, and no right to express ourselves.

If I must I will fight, and die for this end. Until that better world arrives, I remain,

Harold E. Shuckhart, G

The ostrich ritual

To the Editor:

Saturday I observed in front of the Post Office a phenomena which looked like a group of ostriches practicing a prairie chicken's mating ritual. It seems that this group was demonstrating against United States intervention in South Viet Nam. When one examines the situation in the aggregate, this seems a rather irrational policy to say the least.

Mr. Paul Thompson's letter, which seemed to expound the views of this group, was filled with many assumptions and misconceptions which I find hard to swallow. It began with a quotation from one of our many idiotic senators in Washington which stated that the only foreign troops in Viet Nam are American. To swallow this little tidbit we must assume that Viet Nam is one country and that conflict is a civil war.

There is no Viet Nam; there is a North Viet Nam and a South Viet Nam — two separate and distinct states. And to go one step further, North Viet Nam is merely a puppet state, moving to the strings pulled of Peking. It takes a great imagination to say that North Viet Nam troops are non-foreign to South Viet Nam.

It is the aim of the North Vietnamese and Red China to gain control of the entire Southeast Asian peninsula. It is the aim of the United States to stop the aggression of the communists into South Viet Nam. To say that the United States is an aggressor would be to imply that the United States wishes to take over South Viet Nam and run it as a commonwealth.

If the United States had the intention of taking over the government of South Viet Nam and installing martial law it would have been done a long time ago.

Mr. Thompson went on to say that it is the duty of the American people to speak out against this policy as it was the duty of the German people to speak out against the atrocities of Hitler. Mr. Thompson's analogy is slightly backwards. Since it is the North Vietnamese and the Red Chinese who wish to control the Asian peninsula, it is the duty of the people of these countries to speak out against their leaders' wanton aggression.

And what would happen if the United States followed a completely isolationist or pacifist policy? If the United States pulled out of South Viet Nam, the communists would immediately take over that country. If we renege our SEATO covenants and withdraw our Seventh Fleet, it would only be a matter of time before Malaysia and Thailand

SPI Board Handles $250,000

Many students dream of the day when they can join the board of directors which runs a large corporation, but few realize the opportunities available for doing just that even before graduating from college.

VA Benefit Checks May Be Sent to Banks

Dr. J. Gordon Spendlove, director of the Iowa City Veterans Administration Hospital, announced that beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration may arrange to have their benefit checks sent directly to their banks for deposit in their accounts.

A special form is available at any VA office to assign the necessary power of attorney to the beneficiaries' bank. Dr. Spendlove said the arrangement is convenient for veterans who have frequent changes of address, making it difficult for them to receive their checks on time.

Chuck Pelton, L3, Clinton, said Monday he is surprised more law and business students have not shown interest in The Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc. (SPI) as a source of practical experience.

Pelton, retiring this spring after a year on the board, said, "SPI is an area where you gain more practical experience than any other campus office open to students. We handle well over $250,000 a year just in operating expenses."

SPI board governs operations of The Daily Iowan, the Hawkeye, and the football program publication.

Students wishing to run in the all-campus elections for positions on the Board of SPI may pick up applications at The Daily Iowan business office, 201 Communications Center.

Applications must be returned to the Iowan business office by 5 p.m. Wednesday with petitions signed by at least 25 students from the college in which the applicant is enrolled.

Applicants must have completed a minimum of 26 semester hours at the University to be eligible.

SPI board is comprised of 9 members. Five students are elected by the student body and four faculty members are appointed by President Bowen. There are three student positions open this year—two 2-year terms and one 1-year term.

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism, will vacate his position as chairman of SPI board when his term expires June 30. A new chairman will be appointed by Bowen.

SPI has made several changes in University publications during the year, including the purchase of a tubular printing press for The Daily Iowan at a cost of $82,000.

The board currently is letting bids to remodel the Sidwell Building, south of the Communications Center, for installation of the new press and other equipment.

The press will be able to print 20 pages at one time. It also will be capable of color reproduction, Pelton said.

The press currently in use has a single run capacity of only eight pages and is not equipped for color printing.

Members whose terms expire at the end of this year are: Pelton; Marilee Teegen, A4, Davenport; and Larry Travis, A4, Clinton.

Hold-over members are: Jay Hamilton, A4, Hampton, and Carol Carpenter, A3, Brooklyn.

Faculty members currently serving are: Moeller; Dale Bentz, director of University Libraries; Orville Hitchcock, associate dean of the Graduate College; and Lane Davis, professor of political science.

Three Hawks Nominated For Big Ten All-Academic Team

Three members of the Iowa basketball squad have been nominated for the Big Ten's second annual All-Academic basketball team. They are: forward Gary Olson and guards Dennis Pauling and Jimmy Rodgers.

Four of this year's nominees are repeaters from last season's first and second team selections. They are: Dick (1st) and Tom (2nd) Van-Arsdale of Indiana; Dave Schellhase (1st) of Purdue; and Jim Pitts (2nd) of Northwestern. Other nominees are:

Indiana: Dan Lee, Illinois; John Martz, Northwestern; Doug Trudeau, Purdue; Mitch Ward, Purdue.

Hawks 7-2 After Defeat of Purdue

The Hawkeye basketball team faces Illinois tonight in a game it must win to keep alive any hopes for a share of the Big Ten conference title.

Iowa and Illinois are tied for third with identical conference records of 7-2. The loser out of contention for the title. League leading Michigan has a 9-0 record.

It will be a tough battle for the visiting Hawks tonight as Illinois has yet to lose a game on their court this season. However the Hawks have proved they can win in places other than the Iowa Field House. They downed fourth-rated Indiana in Bloomington, third-rated Minnesota in Los Angeles, and top-rated UCLA in Chicago.

The game will be broadcast by several area radio stations and will be telecast by KCRG, Channel 9, in Cedar Rapids beginning at 8 p.m.

Illinois' attack might be minus Don Freeman, the team's No. 3 scorer with an 18.2 average. Freeman left for Madison, Ill., Monday morning after learning of his father's death.

Coach Harry Combes said he did not know if Freeman would return in time for the Iowa game.

In Saturday's game, the Hawks downed Purdue, 101-85, behind the 32 point performance of George Peeples.

Dave Schellhase, second leading scorer in the Big Ten, scored 27 points to pace Purdue.

Ahead by only five at halftime, 44-39, the Hawks came roaring back with 57 points to Purdue's 46 in the last period for the victory.

GERRY JONES poured in 14 points during the second half for a total of 22.

Iowa opened up a 10-point lead with 13:38 left in the game as Jones hit a jump shot from 10 feet out. They pulled away to a 24-point margin, 86-62, with six and a half minutes to go.

Purdue tried to clog up the middle of the key with a tight zone defense, attempting to keep Peeples from getting the ball and Chris Pervall from driving.

The Hawkeyes retaliated with some fancy outside shooting by Jimmy Rodgers, Pervall and Jones.

This victory gave the Hawkeyes their 16th straight home victory over the Boiler-makers. Purdue coach Ray Eddy has yet to win on the Iowa court.

Fencers Split Meets

DETROIT, Mich. — Iowa fencers beat Case Institute, 20-7, before losing to Detroit University, 15-12, in dual meet action here Saturday.

Iowa Wrestlers Defeated by Michigan, 23-8

Michigan's undefeated Wolverines made Iowa their ninth straight victim of the season Saturday by handing the Hawks a 23-8 defeat in the Iowa Fieldhouse.

Saturday's victory also marked the 30th straight dual meet win for the Wolverines since 1963.

Michigan had little trouble winning the meet as three of their wrestlers, Bob Fehrs, Rick Bay, and Chris Stowell recorded falls.

The highlight of the meet for Iowa fans was Roger Schilling's victory in the heavyweight division over last year's Big Ten runner-up, Bob Spaly.

The only other winner for Iowa was Wilbur Devine as he won a 5-4 decision over Michigan's Burt Merical. Bob Rausenberger battled to a draw in his bout.

Results were:
123 — Bob Fehrs (M) pinned Tom Bowen (I) 5:35

130 — Doug Horning (M) dec. Bill Fuller (I) 5-1

137 — Bob Rausenberger (I) drew Bill Johannesen (M) 1-1

147 — Rick Bay (M) pinned Dennis Wegner (I) 4:36

177 — Chris Stowell (M) pinned Tom Fennelly (I) 4:30

Thinclads 2nd In Quad Meet

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Iowa battled Illinois to the final event, the mile relay, before finishing second behind the Illini in a quadrangular track meet here Saturday afternoon. Illinois scored 57 points to 54 for Iowa, 32 for Purdue and 31 for Northwestern.

The Hawkeyes trailed the Illini, 53-48, going into the relay, but finished second in that event, gaining only two points. Purdue won the relay, with Illinois placing third to give the Illini enough points to win the meet.

Iowa's lone winner was Al Randolph in the 70-yard high hurdle.

THE BEARD OF AVON

Topic for today is that perennial favorite of English majors, that ever-popular crowd pleaser, that good sport and great American—William Shakespeare (or "The Swedish Nightingale" as he is better known as).

First let us examine the persistent theory that Shakespeare (or "The Pearl of the Pacific" as he is jocularly called) is not the real author of his plays. Advocates of this theory insist the plays are so full of classical allusions and learned references that they couldn't possibly have been written by the son of an illiterate country butcher.

To which I reply "Faugh!" Was not the great Spinoza's father a humble woodcutter? Was not the immortal Isaac Newton's father a simple second baseman? (The elder Newton, incidentally, is one of history's truly pathetic figures. He was, by all accounts, the greatest second baseman of his time, but baseball, alas, had not yet been invented. It used to break young Isaac's heart to see his father get up every morning, put on uniform, spikes, glove, and cap, and stand alertly behind second base, bent forward, eyes narrowed, waiting, waiting, waiting. That's all—waiting. Isaac loyally sat in the bleachers and yelled "Good show, Dad!" and stuff like that, but everyone else in town sniggered derisively, made coarse gestures, and pelted the Newtons with overripe fruit—figs for the elder Newton, apples for the younger. Thus, as we all know, the famous moment came when Isaac Newton, struck in the head with an apple, leapt to his feet, shouted "Europa!" and announced the third law of motion: "For every action there is an opposite and equal reaction!"

(How profoundly true these simple words are! Take, for example, Persona Stainless Steel Razor Blades. Shave with a Persona. That's the action. Now what is the reaction? Pleasure, delight, contentment, cheer, and facial felicity. Why such a happy reaction? Because you have started with the sharpest, most durable blade ever honed—a blade that gives you more shaves, closer shaves, comfortable shaves than any other brand on the market. If, by chance, you don't agree, simply return your unused Personnas to the manufacturer and he will send you absolutely free a package of Beep-Beep or any other blade you think is better.)

But I digress. Back to Shakespeare (or "The Gem of the Ocean" as he was ribaldly appellated).

Shakespeare's most important play is, of course, Hamlet (or, as it is frequently called, Macbeth). This play tells in living color the story of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, who one night sees a ghost upon the battlements. (Possibly it is a goat he sees; I have a first folio that is frankly not too legible.) Anyhow, Hamlet is so upset by seeing this ghost (or goat) that he stabs Polonius and Brer Bodkin. He is thereupon banished to a leather factory by the king, who hollers, "Get thee to a tannery!" Thereupon Ophelia refuses her food until Laertes shouts, "Get thee to a beanery!" Ophelia is so cross that she chases her little dog out of the room, crying, "Out, damned Spot!" She is fined fifty shillings for cussing, but Portia, in an eloquent plea, gets the sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Thereupon King Lear and Queen Mab proclaim a festival—complete with kissing games and a pie-eating contest. Everybody has a perfectly splendid time until Banquo's ghost (or goat) shows up. This so unhinges Richard III that he drowns his cousin, Butt Malmsey. This leads to a lively discussion, during which everyone is killed. The little dog Spot returns to utter the immortal curtain lines:

Our hero now has croaked,
And so's our prima donna.
But be of cheer, my friends,
You'll always have Personna.

Yea and verily. And when next thou buyest Personna buyest also some new Burma Shave? regular or menthol, which soak-eth rings around any other lather. Get thee to a pharmacy!

Church Group To Exhibit Art

An exhibit of the work of contemporary religious artist Gerald Hardy will highlight a series of events planned by the First Baptist Church Saturday and Sunday.

Hardy will preside over the opening of the exhibition which will be on display from Feb. 28 to March 18 in the American Baptist Student Center, 230 N. Clinton St.

First of the events will be the film "Quest," a study of the various subjects in nature that influence contemporary artists. It will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

There will be an opening reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Sunday in the student center, and a talk there by Hardy at 6:30 p.m. on "An Illustrated View of Secular and Religious Art."

Hardy, a 26-year-old painter from Melrose Park, Ill., produces religious paintings using oil and gesso over a gesso ground, often adding sense of activity, rhythm and tension.

Because the student center is planning to buy one of his works, "The Last Supper," Hardy loaned the others to the group for showing within the next three weeks.

A 1960 graduate of the Art Institute of Chicago, the artist has received numerous awards, including one from the Motorola Art Exhibit. He has given 11 one-man art shows in Illinois and Wisconsin, has participated in group shows in several states, and has painted in Mexico and Europe.

March 5 Deadline For DI, Hawkeye Editor Applicants

Application for the positions of Daily Iowan editor and editor and business manager of the Hawkeye will be considered at a board of trustees meeting of Student Publications, Inc., March 28. Applications are due by 5 p.m., March 5, in 201 Communications Center.

65th Annual Iowa Picnic At Long Beach Saturday

The Iowa Association of Southern California will hold its 65th winter picnic at Recreation Park, Long Beach, Calif., Saturday.

Dale Webster, president of the association and a native of Charles City, who attended the University, said the Distinguished Iowan Awards will be presented at the picnic.

The association was organized in 1900 and was incorporated in 1914. Its present two vice-presidents, Kermit J. Morgan and Alfred F. Sammet, are also University of Iowa graduates.

Employees To Meet With City Council

City employees will have a chance to put in a plug for a pay boost and to air any complaints they have about their jobs at an informal meeting of the Iowa City City Council at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Civic Center.

The council is considering the 1966 budget for the city and generally holds such sessions with employees each year before finalizing the budget.

At last year's budget hearings, the most popular employee requests were pay raises, longevity pay and uniforms. Informed sources expect all three proposals to be repeated at this year's session—and a few more.

City Manager Carsten Leikvoid said the meeting is open to any city employee for comment and discussion.

VATICAN STAMPS

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican Post Office will issue a series of six stamps on March 16 to commemorate the canonization of 22 Ugandan martyrs by Pope Paul VI last year. The stamps will show the portraits of the Negro saints who suffered martyrdom.

'Polka Dot' Glider Test Set

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla., (AP) — A "polka dot" space glider is to be rocketed over a searing suborbital course Tuesday to test structures and materials for future manned spacecrafts which will land like conventional airplanes.

The launching, scheduled between 7 a.m. and noon, is the last and most severe planned in the six-shot Project Asset series. The glider, whose surface is speckled with about 2,000 dots of multi-colored heat sensitive paints, is to fly higher and faster than any of its predecessors.

Air Force Lt. Col. Richard Marshall said the Thor-Delta rocket is to boost the stubby-winged craft to an altitude of 39 miles. Then it is to make a fiery dive back through the atmosphere at peak speed of 3,300 miles an hour.

About 30 minutes after launching, the Asset vehicle is to parachute to a landing in the Atlantic Ocean about 2,750 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy. Recovery ships and planes will be stationed there.

The glider is six feet long, has a wing span of five feet and weighs 1,100 pounds.

Its outer surface is made of the same exotic materials as the earlier Assets — among them columbium, molybdenum and zirconium oxide. The previous tests showed these materials are capable of surviving extreme temperatures over long periods of time. The findings are being applied to manned spacecrafts under study that would maneuver and land on regular air strips.

The craft differs from the others in that half the vehicle is covered with a pattern of dots applied with 10 different shades of heat sensitive paint.

"It looks as if it's got the measles," commented Charles Cosenza, project director.

The paint is designed to change color as it ranges through various temperatures — from 1,400 to 2,900 degrees Fahrenheit. Some dots change at lower and others at higher temperatures.

Eight U of I Students To Compete In Annual Forensics Conference

Approximately 23 schools from five Midwestern states will participate in an annual Iowa Forensics conference to be held Friday and Saturday.

The conference, which will feature debate, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and oral interpretation of literature, is expected to draw more than 100 participants. It is being sponsored by the Department of Speech and Dramatic Art under the direction of Michael M. Osborn, assistant professor of speech.

States to be represented at the conference are Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

Eight students from the University of Iowa will compete in the debate section of the conference. They are: Paul Fiala, A2, Cedar Rapids; Ronald Marek, A2, Cedar Rapids; Richard Pundt, A3, Homestead; Kathryn Greer, A1, Iowa City; Norman Elliott, A1, Knoxville; Karl Gleaves, A1, Muscatine; Gordon Greta, A1, Sioux City; and William Wilen, A1, Sioux Falls, S.D.

Remember Saturday?

Saturday was a day for trench coats and ice cream cones, as temperatures hit the sixty mark. Pam Baird, A2, Cedar Rapids, and Mike Moon, A2, Des Moines, celebrated the warm weather at a local ice cream shop. But Monday brought back below freezing temperatures, and U of I students again bundled up for the cold weather. —Photo by Carol Carpenter

Newsman To Talk Here

Howard K. Smith, noted news commentator who has received numerous journalistic awards, will lecture on "The Changing Challenge to America" March 3 at 8 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge.

Smith's talk is one in the 1964-65 University Lecture Series.

FREE TICKETS will be available to U of I students and staff members beginning Friday from noon to 5:30 p.m. Tickets will be distributed Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday of next week from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Any tickets remaining March 3 at 9 a.m. will be available free to the general public.

Smith's awards include four consecutive Overseas Press Club Annual Awards for "best reporting from abroad" from 1951-54 and the DuPont Commentator Award and Sigma Delta Chi Award for news writing, both in 1956.

In 1961 he won an Emmy Award for writing "CBS Reports: The Population Explosion," in which he also served as narrator. The Overseas Press Club cited him in 1963 for "Best Interpretation of Foreign Affairs, Television."

AFTER GRADUATING from Tulane University in 1936, Smith went to the University of Heidelberg, beginning what was later to become an intensive study of Nazism. Expelled from Germany for his denunciation of Hitlerism, Smith went to Oxford, where he studied on a Rhodes Scholarship. After the war he stayed to cover the Nuremberg trials and then became chief European correspondent and European director of the Columbia Broadcasting System in London from 1946-59.

He took over assignments as moderator, commentator or reporter on most of the major CBS news efforts. In March, 1961 he was appointed chief correspondent and manager of the bureau.

Smith joined ABC news in December of 1961. Since then he has won the Paul White Award and has received the DuPont Award for the second time and was nominated for an Emmy Award for "Howard K. Smith: News and Comment," his ABC-TV program that ran for 17 months.
