Applications for Other Student Editorial Posts To Be Accepted in April

Jon Vandusseldorp, A3, Des Moines, was named editor of The Daily Iowan and Doreen Hyde, A4, Iowa City, was named editor of the Hawkeye Friday afternoon by the Board of Student Publications, Inc. Hawkeye business manager will be Paul C. Dagle, A3, Harwarden.

Vandusseldorp said that applications for positions on The Daily Iowan will be available April 1 and due April 9.

"Applicants can put down their job preferences in one, two, three order and their qualifications for those positions," he said. "I will then interview the applicants and make the final assignments."

VAN HYDE

The new Daily Iowan staff will go to work May 17.

"Regarding the future of the paper," Vandusseldorp said, "I look forward to a growing and vitally active Daily Iowan to accommodate the needs of an expanding and great University. We're going to have a new, interesting paper that is truly fun to read. I welcome every student and faculty member to present any comment or criticism of the Iowan to me."

Dagle and Mrs. Hyde said applications for Hawkeye positions would be distributed at a coffee hour following Easter vacation.

Astronauts Feted Friday In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson pinned medals Friday on Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young — the captain and crew of the two-man space ship "Molly Brown."

AIR FORCE MAJ. Grissom and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Young manned the United States' first two-man space capsule during three orbits around the earth last Tuesday.

After the ceremony in the glittering, chandeliered East Room of the White House, the two astronauts were given a parade, greeted by cheering thousands, up Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol.

If nothing else, the parade proved the endurance of hundreds of school children released from school for the occasion. Some raced alongside the astronauts the entire mile and a half, snapping pictures and waving.

In awarding the medals — Grissom got two — Johnson said "the question of whether there would be a role in space for man has been answered. Affirmatively."

THE PRESIDENT also said "we are not concerned with stunts and spectaculars," adding that the real concern of this nation is for an orderly program of space exploration.

Johnson also awarded the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Exceptional Scientific Achievement Medal to Harris M. Schurmeier of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., for his work in directing the Ranger program.

Johnson, in addition, awarded the space agency's Distinguished Service Medal to Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., NASA's general manager.

Grissom was also awarded NASA's Exceptional Service Medal besides his second Distinguished Service Medal. He got his first for his suborbital flight in July 1961. Young received the Exceptional Service Medal.

At the Capitol the astronauts, with Seamans and Schurmeier, lunched with about 60 members of Congress and space agency officials. The party was given by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.) and Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif.).

ANDERSON and Miller head space committees in their respective houses of Congress.

The whole glorious day for Grissom, 39, and Young, 34, and their families began with a flight from Cape Kennedy this morning. They arrived on the south lawn of the White House in a helicopter to be greeted by the President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President Humphrey and Sens. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), and Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), plus NASA Director James E. Webb.

The President led the procession into the East Room with its magnificent painting of George and Martha Washington.

House Passes Historic Education Aid Measure

Vote Is 263-153 On Pet LBJ Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed President Johnson's $1.3 billion school bill Friday night in a historic vote preceded by angry exchanges between Democrats and Republicans.

The roll call vote was 263 to 153.

The vote that sent the bill to the Senate marked the first time in its history the House has passed such a broad program of federal aid for elementary and secondary schools.

Names Learned Of Frats Put On Probation

The Daily Iowan has learned that Phi Delta Theta, Phi Epsilon Pi, and Phi Kappa Psi are the three social fraternities that have been placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the academic year. The action was taken by the University as a result of a melee at a party at the Hawk Ballroom in Coralville March 12. Phi Gamma Delta, another social fraternity, has received a warning as a result of the party.

The names of the fraternities were not released by any official of the University.

M. L. Huit, dean of students, said that the probation has not taken any social privileges away from the fraternities involved.

Although the party March 12 was not sanctioned by any single fraternity, Huit said action was taken against the fraternities "because of association with the enterprise in varying ways."

Bruce Strom, B4, Waterloo, president of Phi Epsilon Pi, Bill Henderson, A3, Council Bluffs, president of Phi Delta Theta and Dick Montgomery, B3, Larrabee, president of Phi Kappa Psi, told the Daily Iowan they had no comment about the matter.

The president of Phi Gamma Delta was unavailable.

The party was sponsored by individual students. Two students connected with the incident have dropped registration and a third student has been placed on social probation. A fourth person, a former student who was not enrolled at the time of the party, cannot re-enter the University without the permission of the Dean of Students.

Library Will Open Reserve Book Unit In Quad Dormitory

Quadrangle residents will soon be able to use reserved library books without leaving their dormitory.

Monday, the circulation department of University Main Library will open a reserved book station in the west hall of the study room opposite the Quadrangle cafeteria. The book station will serve residents of Hillcrest, Quadrangle and South Quad.

The unit will be similar to reserved book station "A" which has the northeast corner of the basement in Burge Hall.

Library officials said they hoped the use of these stations in the dormitories would help alleviate some of the traffic in the reserved section of the Main Library.

Reserved book station "B" will contain all books on reserve for courses numbered under 100.

It will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, and from 2 to 5:30 and 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Assassination Weapon Value Set at $10,000

DALLAS (AP) — The rifle used to assassinate President Kennedy and the pistol with which police officer J. D. Tippit was slain have been valued officially at $10,000.

The weapons, owned by assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, were appraised Friday by three appraisers appointed by county probate court.

Demonstrators Demand Halt To Viet War

ISL Sponsored Group Pickets Old Capitol, Recruiting Stations

Pickers demonstrated in front of Old Capitol Friday from noon to 2:30 p.m., calling for an end to the war in Viet Nam.

The demonstration was sponsored by the Iowa Socialist League (ISL), but only eight or nine of an estimated group of 30 were members, according to ISL member Kirk Stephan, A2, Cedar Rapids.

The demonstrators left their stations once to march through downtown Iowa City and picket briefly in front of the Army and Air Force recruiting stations.

Students crossing the Pentacrest stopped to watch the picketers and read the signs, but few bothered to ask questions, Laird C. Addis, assistant professor of philosophy, said.

The demonstration was organized to call attention to U.S. policy in Viet Nam and to show that there are people who do not agree with it.

Stephan said the demonstration was part of a nationwide protest and would give the Administration an indication of sentiment across the country.

Prof. Donald L. Barnett of the Anthropology Department said, "The United States is on a direct collision course with World War III."

"If Americans sit back and don't express their objection to the war in Viet Nam then worse will happen," he said.

Barnett said he thought one of the goals of the demonstration was accomplished because the people turned out, and they were doing what was consistent with their own principles.

Back Rubs, Kissing At Spring Fest

General admission tickets will go on sale Wednesday for the Spring Festival Campus Carnival April 23. The tickets are 25 cents each.

The Carnival will take place at the armory end of the Field House from 7 to 12 p.m. In the north gym of the Field House there will be a dance with live music, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega.

Twenty-seven student organizations will have games, concessions or kick lines at the Carnival. They will be competing for a 40-inch All-Participation trophy and several smaller trophies.

Organizations can earn two points toward the All-Participation trophy for each advance ticket they sell. The group that sells the most tickets earns 50 bonus points.

Each publicity stunt for the Carnival is worth 50 points, with a maximum of 200 points. The night of the Carnival, faculty members will judge the booths for quality, originality, design and personal appearance. Up to 500 points can be won this way.

The organization with the most points will win the All-Participation trophy for a year. The first group to win it three times will keep it.

According to plans, students can find plenty of activity at the Carnival. There will be pastry throwing, coin pitching and garter tossing. For those who prefer to relax, back rubs and a kissing booth are planned.

All booths at the Carnival will accept only 10-cent tickets bought at the door.

Fair, Warmer

Mostly fair and warmer today, becoming cloudy and warmer tonight. Highs 32 northeast to upper 40s extreme southwest.

Protest Policy... Again?

The Iowa Socialist League resumed picketing in front of the Old Capitol Friday afternoon in opposition to the war in Viet Nam. Included in the program was a petition booth in the Union during the week.

Bond Set at $50,000 On Accused Klansmen

LOWNESBORO, Ala. (AP) — Four Alabamians the FBI described as Ku Klux Klansmen were arrested Friday on charges of conspiracy in the highway ambush slaying of a vivacious civil rights worker near Big Swamp.

They were brought before a U.S. commissioner in Birmingham and ordered held in lieu of $50,000 bond each. Their attorney said the bond was exorbitant.

PRESIDENT Johnson announced the arrests in Washington and immediately declared he was stepping up his personal war against the Klan.

The four Klan members were charged under a federal statute with violating the civil rights of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39-year-old Detroit mother of five.

Maximum penalty is 10 years in prison, a $5,000 fine or both.

Mrs. Liuzzo was shot in the head as she drove along a dark, lonely stretch of U.S. 30 between Montgomery and Selma, Ala., Thursday night.

IN WASHINGTON, Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach was asked if he expected any further arrests in the case and he replied:

"I think we have got the men we want."

He declined to discuss the case further.

The President telephoned Mrs. Liuzzo's husband, Anthony James Liuzzo, in Detroit to express sympathy on the part of Mrs. Johnson and himself.

Liuzzo said Johnson agreed with him when he said, "I don't think she died in vain."

A TEAMSTERS Union airplane was sent to Alabama and brought Mrs. Liuzzo's body back to Detroit. Liuzzo said private funeral services would be held there and that the family would not be involved in any "public demonstrations" on her behalf.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A blue and white transport plane left Montgomery Friday night, carrying the body of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo home to Detroit.

The twin-engine plane was sent here by the Teamsters Union of which the slain civil rights worker's husband is a Detroit officer.

Mrs. Liuzzo's husband, Anthony, a Teamster business agent, said in Detroit that the funeral for his 38-year-old wife would be private — that his family would not be involved in any "public demonstration" on her behalf.

Johnson said Liuzzo had seen the statement of the arrest of the four men "and thought we had acted with dispatch and efficiency."

The President said he was calling

Bader's Wife Is Seeking Annulment

OMAHA (AP) — Nancy Johnson filed a petition in Douglas County District Court Friday asking annulment of her marriage to John F. (Fritz) Johnson, the long-missing Lawrence Bader of Akron, Ohio.

The petition was filed by James McBride, attorney for the woman who married Johnson in Omaha April 11, 1962.

McBride said that under Nebraska law Johnson's marriage with Nancy is automatically void because of his previous marriage with Mary Lou Bader of Akron, Ohio.

Lawrence Bader disappeared in May, 1957, leaving his wife and four children in Akron.

Johnson's doctors have said they can find no evidence the Omaha man remembers life as Lawrence Bader.

Johnson, an Omaha television announcer has been undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Since his identification as the missing Ohio man, Johnson and his Omaha wife have been living apart. Harry Farnham, Johnson's attorney, said there were no plans for Mrs. Bader to meet Nancy while she is in Omaha.

A splashy showing in Selma and space

IT WAS QUITE A WEEK, with several individuals making outstanding splashes in the news. Some special attention is due the following:

A medal for UNCALCULATED BRAVERY goes to the students who waged a hunger strike to raise funds for a Selma Freedom Fund outside the Post Office for eight days. They hadn't planned on snowstorms in March to accompany their hunger pangs. The weather made their protest all the more admirable.

On the same subject, the students and faculty who were not moved enough by the scenes of brutality in Selma to contribute even the price of a beer to the strikers — and we doubt to any other fund — a citation for GALLOPING SHORTSIGHTEDNESS.

From Lyndon Johnson to Gov. Wallace of Alabama, an invitation for dinner, where Wallace is invited to eat crow — Jim Crow.

Wallace received the special GRETA CARBO HOSPITABLE AWARD: after 4,000 people travel 50 miles just to visit him, he "wasn't home."

The JUMPING GEMINI AWARD to astronauts Gus Grissom and John Young for their jaunt around the world. Grissom blew his opportunity to win the ONEUPMANSHIP trophy: when President Johnson called Grissom shortly after the splash-down, he said, "Hello, Gus, this is Lyndon Johnson."

Grissom could have outdone himself by querying, "Lyndon who?"

The PALACE INSURRECTION citation goes to the Kutmus-Wilson-Barber-Fuller ensemble for their coup d'etat at the Soapbox Soundoff this week.

To the unwitting white racists who make the civil rights movement more pressing through their insane acts of violence, no tribute — only astonishment at their stupidity.

The NON SEQUITUR (?) of the week:

At one point in the entertainment of the civil rights marchers in Montgomery, singer Harry Belafonte kissed Shelley Winters on the cheek and said, "If Wallace could have seen that."

Miss Winters replied, "It will be a wonderful world when the Negro votes."

The most objectional feature of the past week, at least for those located in Iowa City, was the weather.

Unpopularity contest

THE SELMA TO MONTGOMERY civil rights march ended on a bitterly tragic note with the death of Mrs. Viola Gregg Luizzo of Detroit.

The tragedy was great for many reasons. It was another instance of ignorance dominating reason, bad overwhelming good, etc. It brings grief to civil rights sympathizers and shame to decent Alabamians.

There are other, less obvious, aspects of Alabama violence which are no less real for their obscurity.

The state of Alabama can never again be the same. Within a month two out-of-state visitors have been murdered. Many others have been beaten and abused.

There are thousands of people in the United States who are relatively apathetic about civil rights — it is unfortunate but true. Alabama violence has served to awaken many of these people to the hatred involved in Alabama race relations.

Many have been converted to the integration movement through their revulsion at fanatic segregationists. Others may take a "plague on both your houses" attitude.

One thing everybody shares, however, is a feeling that Alabama is not a good place to be. People don't want to visit there; they don't want to vacation there — they don't want to be there.

Alabama is the voice of the past crying out in anguish. It doesn't project the "image" of a modern state. Above all, it's dangerous. The last few weeks have seen Alabama take first place as the nation's most unpopular state.

Chinese, Russian rumblings seen as hollow threats

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China says it is "ready" to send men to fight in Viet Nam. The Soviet leadership hints that Russians are clamoring to volunteer for battle there. All of this would raise the specter of another Korea — except that this time the threats have a hollow sound.

From what has gone on between the Soviet and Chinese leaders in recent days, it seems likely Peking and Moscow are trying to bluff one another just as much as they are trying to impress the Americans and the rest of the world.

Peking has been prudent all along about its role in the Indochina war. The Peking tone has indicated suspicion that Red Chinese involvement is just what the Americans would want to provide an excuse for destroying China's new nuclear potential.

Peking's suspicions extend to the Soviet Union. It was clear a few days ago, from an editorial in the chief Red Chinese theoretical journal, Red Flag, that Peking believes itself isolated by the Soviet Union.

THAT EDITORIAL was a fiery attack on the Soviet Communist party for going through with an international party meeting this month over Chinese objections. Time and again, the editorial accused the Soviet leadership of intending to cooperate with the United States for "two-power domination of the world."

Soviet talk of unified Communist action in Indochina, it said, was nothing but "a swindle," and in reality the Soviet Communists adhere to a policy "of Soviet-U.S. cooperation for domination of the world."

The Chinese have several kinds of propaganda. There is the sort directed at world Communists and the Soviet Union, the sort directed at their own people at home, and the sort intended for consumption in the West.

THE LATTER is typified by a statement of Chinese Premier Chou En-lai that if Viet Nam leads to war among the major powers, the Red Chinese and the U.S.S.R. would stand together. This is unlikely to be given much prominence inside China itself. It is extremely doubtful that the Chinese leadership believes it.

The Soviet threat of involvement by means of volunteers in Viet Nam was little more than a hint, dropped almost casually by party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev in his speech extolling the U.S.S.R.'s latest astronaut heroes. Significantly, the hint was not pushed, and in an editorial recapitulation of what Brezhnev said the Communist party organ Pravda made no reference to it.

But because North Viet Nam is a Communist-ruled country, and because it is being attacked by U.S. bombers, the Soviet Communist leadership evidently feels impelled to make some gesture of this sort if only for appearances. It has been mercilessly taunted by the Chinese with the accusation of betrayal of a revolutionary cause.

THE RUSSIANS, however, have displayed restraint on the whole in their approach to the crisis in Viet Nam. They have given every indication that they want to avoid becoming directly involved in a clash with the United States at this time.

It is true that in the case of Korea, the Chinese telegraphed their intention to intervene with "volunteers." The threat was circulated first through the agency of diplomats before the action was taken. But there were other circumstances at that time.

The Soviet Union already was involved. There was an implied threat to the Chinese mainland. And there was, even then, a budding contest between the Russians and the Chinese for domination in Asia.

THE CHINESE saw an opportunity of pushing both the Americans and the Russians out of that corner of the continent.

This time the Russians are not yet directly involved. This time, too, the Chinese seem to be aware that the risk to themselves is far greater than it was at the time of the Korean intervention.

Hollywood 'horror' film surprising

By TED HICK
Iowan Reviewer

Innocently enough I was walking by the Englert theater with no intentions of going in. Then the posters caught my eye. "Two on a Guillotine," or "Dementia 13." Just another slipshod psychological "thriller." And the cast: Connie Stevens? Dean Jones? My God! I thought. Can such things be?

Then I noticed that William Conrad, one time voice of Matt Dillon on the old radio "Gunsmoke," was producer-director. This was, obviously, a joke. I paid my seventy-five cents mainly to see how badly this mess would turn out.

I WAS SURPRISED. In its own element this was a good film. It entertained, which I assume is what it set out to do. The fact that it does entertain, in spite of its hack plot, is a credit to Conrad and the rest of the production crew. A synopsis of the story reads like one of those pseudo thriller-comedy pictures that were spawned in the thirties and forties.

A great magician, the Great Dusque, dies. His daughter is left the entire estate on the stipulation that she spend a minimum of seven days in the illusionist's home; otherwise his former press agent and his housekeeper will divide the sum. Enter the undying reporter in the guise of Dean Jones, remnants of his television "Ensign O'Toole" role still visible.

Does all this sound familiar? A mad magician or doctor, scientist, what have you? A haunted house? The madman's innocent daughter? The reporter who saves the day and wins the girl? What has happened is that it has been made interesting, due to some well done, if sometimes pretentious, direction and editing. It supersedes the limits of a third rate story and emerges as a sufficiently enjoyable motion picture.

TO BE SURE, this is no minor masterpiece in relation to "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," or even James Whale's "Frankenstein."

It does, however, make practical use of the Panavision screen. It also displays an important relation between audio and visual. It could not be sustained by pictorial content alone. Perhaps this is a serious criticism; but it shows the importance, and the range of effects, of a sound track being intelligently merged with the camera in creating, in this case, fairly well sustained tension.

THE FILM nearly comes off. It has low spots; spaces where the tempo threatens to be abandoned completely. There are other glaring deficiencies; specifically an overt and ill timed attempt at humor via a hack caricature of a housekeeper. But on the whole the film works as an instrument to entertain.

There are several exceptional scenes. Most notable is at the beginning, where the Great Dusque, played by a sincere Caesar Romero, is being laid to rest. Reporters flash cameras at this gaudy coffin and then leap ridiculously over tombstones and grave mounds after his daughter in pursuit of a story. The scene has a satiric bite that is felt in several other sequences.

Nevertheless, this is not great cinema. Perhaps it is not even true cinema, but it is good Hollywood. And if we are to mourn the lack of true horror thrillers in the almost forgotten vein of "Frankenstein" and "Dracula," we can only be content with pictures such as this one that don't claim to be anything more than rather light thrillers. Just ignore the inane blurb "laff hit" the Englert has displayed, and go see it.

Ladies boost labor force

WASHINGTON — Nearly half the nation's working families have more than one wage earner, a Labor Department survey shows.

Working wives make up the bulk of the additional job holders in the more than 35 million families in which the husband is employed.

Married men, who make up about half the labor force, are regarded as the key indicator of the gravity of unemployment and their jobless rate is the lowest of any such group in the labor force.

"The economic effects of unemployment among married men are somewhat less severe if other members of their families are employed," said the report.

"The wives of men with incomes of $3,000 to $7,000," the report said, "were more likely to be in the labor force than the wives of men with lower or higher incomes."

The report showed a markedly lower unemployment rate among married teen-age boys compared with the high jobless rate among youths generally.

Chou En-lai: will join with Russia in Viet Nam

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Chinese views on Indochina and other world problems are emphasized in this interview with the Chinese Premier, Chou En-lai. The writer, now in China, is a former Polish diplomat. He writes for the New Statesman of London and Nouvelle Observateur of Paris. His interview was excerpted and distributed by The Associated Press.)

PEKING — "If the Americans are not content with threatening gestures and really want to provoke a wider conflict, then the Chinese and Russian people will close ranks."

This was Premier Chou En-lai talking about the situation in Viet Nam. Continuing in this vein in a 2 1/2-hour interview, he declared: "That is why Johnson, who is dancing on the tight rope of war and doesn't know how to turn about, is risking some surprises."

Chou emphasized the last phrase, but did not say what he meant by it. "But the American government will never force the South Vietnamese people and the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam into negotiations by intensifying the war. As the old Chinese proverb says, they are trying to go to the north while heading their horses to the south."

"THE MENACE of the United States concerns not only the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam and the other countries of Indochina but also the Chinese People's Republic."

For the second time, I tried to put up the case for negotiations, reminding Chou that in both Indochina and Algeria France had intensified its military operations preceding peace talks. Chou rejected the comparison.

"France has learned the lessons of colonial wars," he said.

"She knows they can't be won. That is why each time I meet my French friends, I ask them: 'Why can't you persuade your American friends to learn from experience?' And each time I speak to my American friends I ask: 'Why aren't you capable of producing a De Gaulle?'"

ASKED ABOUT the ideological dispute with the Soviet Union and China's refusal to attend the March 1 meeting of Communist parties in Moscow, Chou replied: "When Nikita Khrushchev was in power, two such conferences took place. President Mao Tse-tung himself took part in the first at Moscow in 1957 and President Liu Shao-chi in 1960. The declarations published at the end of these two conferences were not at all bad."

"But this did not prevent Khrushchev from going on his old way and treating the declarations with contempt."

Chou was asked what he thought of President Charles de Gaulle's plan for the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Red China, to meet and discuss the reform of the United Nations.

"BUT CHINA has nothing to do with the United Nations," Chou replied. "It is true that China is not at all interested in the United Nations. For 15 years this organization, manipulated by the United States, frustrated China's legitimate rights."

"Why cannot one envisage founding another United Nations that might be as revolutionary? This is what I said recently in Peking at a banquet for Mr. Subandrio, Indonesia's foreign minister. Elsewhere, China has put forward a positive formula — that is; that the United Nations rectify its mistakes and submit to a radical reorganization."

AS FOR PEACEFUL coexistence, Chou said:

"To ask China to coexist peacefully with the United States while the latter maintains military bases around China and occupies the Chinese territory of Formosa, obviously, that is impossible."

Iowa City Unitarian Church Installs New Minister Sunday

The Rev. William Weir will be formally installed as minister of the First Unitarian Church of Iowa City Sunday.

Installation activities will begin at the 11 a.m. service when the Rev. Charles Stephen, Jr., minister of the Unitarian church in Lincoln, Neb., will speak on "Smokescreen Over America."

At 4:30 p.m., members and guests of the church will be invited to homes of the members for receptions. A dinner at the University Athletic Club will follow at 5:30 p.m.

At the dinner, the Rev. Roy Wingate, pastor of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, will welcome the Rev. Mr. Weir and his family on behalf of the Iowa City Area Association of Religious Leaders. State Senator John Ely of Cedar Rapids and Iowa City city councilman William Hubbard also will extend welcomes.

At the installation service at 8:30 p.m. at the church, the Rev. Jack A. Kent, minister of the First Unitarian Society, Chicago, will speak on "Modern Man's Dilemma: Knowledge Without Commitment."

The Rev. John Cyrus of the First Unitarian Society of Milwaukee, Wis., under whom the Rev. Mr. Weir served his internship in 1959 and 1960, will give the charge to the congregation.

The charge to the minister will be given by the Rev. Charles Stephen, Jr., who will be attending the installation as a representative of the Prairie State Unitarian-Universalist Association.

The Rev. V. Emil Gudmundson, Des Moines, will give a welcome from the Prairie Star district and will represent the Unitarian-Universalist Association of Churches and Fellowship in North America.

Dr. Michael Bonfiglio, 711 Twelfth Ave., Coralville, will lead the congregation in the active installation.

The Rev. Mr. Weir was born in Winnipeg, Canada, and has attended schools in Winnipeg, Louisiana, Florida, and Texas. He received his bachelor of divinity degree in 1961. The Weirs have two children, Trintsha, 3 1/2, and Oliver, 1 1/2.

String Quartet Will Present Concert Here

The Iowa String Quartet will give its third concert of the season Wednesday, presenting works by Beethoven, Nemiroff, and Debussy. The program will be in Macbride Auditorium at 8 p.m. No tickets will be required.

Members of the Iowa String Quartet, members of the School of Music faculty, are Allen Ohmes and John Ferrell, violinists; William Preuchl, violist; and Joel Krosnick, cellist.

The opening number, Beethoven's "Quartet in D Major," is the first quartet Beethoven composed, and follows the classical models of Haydn and Mozart in form, tempo and rhythm.

The second selection in the concert, Isaac Nemiroff's "String Quartet," was given its premiere in 1902 by the Carnegie String Quartet, with Professor Ohmes as first violinist. The composition was not performed for nine years after its completion because of what the composer called its "non-symmetrical and seemingly unpredictable rhythmic conditions."

The closing number, Debussy's "Quartet in G Minor," was composed in 1893, a pioneering work in the composer's career. It is a landmark in the history of music, marking the announcement of the new musical style now known as Impressionism.

The Iowa String Quartet will present the same program tonight in the Des Moines Art Center, and Sunday at the Phillips Collection in Washington, D.C.

The concert will be broadcast live by University radio stations.

Reapportionment Passed by Senate, Advances to House

DES MOINES (AP) — A reapportionment plan said to have the virtues of a woman's foundation garment passed the Iowa Senate 34-24 Friday and was sent to the House, which can submit it to the 1967 legislature.

Second legislative approval would put the plan before the voters, who could make it a part of the Iowa Constitution.

The proposal would put into the Constitution a formula calling for a maximum of 100 state representatives and up to half as many senators.

It calls upon the legislature to reapportion itself after each 10-year census. If the legislature fails to act, the Iowa Supreme Court would be required to do the job. Seats in both houses would have to be assigned around the state on a population basis.

Bowen Plans Funds Talk

Pres. Howard R. Bowen will describe the University appropriations request on WMT-TV at 3:30 p.m. Saturday in Cedar Rapids.

Also speaking on the "Decision in Des Moines" will be James H. Hilton, Iowa State University, and J. W. Maucker, State College of Iowa.

Bills to appropriate both operating and capital improvement funds for the two universities and the college for the two-year period beginning July 1, 1965, are now being considered by the 61st General Assembly meeting in Des Moines.

The presidents will describe how growing enrollments, the difficulty in securing and retaining top-quality faculty and the necessity of improving and strengthening programs have led to the need for increased appropriations for operating expenses. They will also explain why funds for expansion of physical plants are being requested.

Campus scenes from each of the institutions will be shown during the program.

U of I Club Takes Second In MSU Marketing Contest

By ANDREA GOES
Staff Writer

The team from the Iowa Marketing Club didn't know what product they had been trying to sell or who their competitors were. All they knew at contest's end was that they had won second place.

This economic ESP was part of a business simulation exercise sponsored by the Michigan State University Marketing Club.

THE EXERCISE in market theory, conducted in two parts Feb. 20 and 27, included six other teams from unidentified universities. Each team represented a different firm which produced the same mythical product.

The purpose was to show that marketing is no longer a purely subjective activity and to emphasize the value of the scientific approach to business.

"The exercise was an attempt to compress two years of business experience into two Saturdays," Robert E. J. Snyder, club advisor, said.

Students on the U of I team were: Dave Virtue, B3, Sterling, Ill.; Jim Van Dyke, G, Boone; Jim McKendrick, B4, Overland Park, Kan.; Dion Markle, B3, Detroit, Mich.; Joseph Skerik, B4, Iowa City; and Bob Connole, G, Butte, Mont.

THE PATTERN of the exercise was based on a series of eight decisions, each of which covered six factors involved in the marketing process. One decision was made for each quarter of two fiscal years.

The factors considered in each decision were marketing, price, research and development, maintenance, production volume schedule, investments in the plant, purchase material and dividends declared.

The teams sent each decision for the quarter year separately by teletype to the contest headquarters at Michigan State, East Lansing.

Senate Adopts Hearing Change

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Senate Friday adopted a resolution designed to protect persons appearing before legislative committees after hearing one such witness referred to on the Senate floor as a thief.

The resolution, approved unanimously and sent to the House, provides that when a person is called before a legislative committee the state must provide for him a lawyer of his choice. It also declares that the civil liberties of committee witnesses must "be protected in the same manner as they are protected in a court of law."

GAX Awards 3 Ad Women

Edna A. Herbst, promotion and publicity director of Cedar Rapids' KCRG-Radio and KCRG-TV, was named outstanding advertising woman of the year at the Gamma Alpha Chi (GAX) Founder's Day dinner Thursday night at the University. GAX is a professional advertising fraternity for women.

Mrs. Herbst graduated from Phi Beta Kappa from the University in 1946 with a double major in speech and journalism. While at the University, she was a member of The Daily Iowan and WSUI staffs. She has been with KCRG since it began operations in October 1947.

Carla Schumann, A4, Davenport, was given the outstanding Gamma Alpha Chi member award, and Jeanne Parker, A4, Guthrie Center, was chosen outstanding senior woman in advertising. Miss Schumann is president of GAX and Theta Sigma Phi, professional fraternity for women in communications. She is also secretary of the journalism senior class and a member of Mademoiselle's College Board. Miss Parker has been active on the DI advertising staff and won a $1000 Murray Scholarship for her work in advertising this year.

Dr. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism, spoke to the group on "Problems of Communications Within a Group."

"Communication takes place within the individual," Moeller said. "The sign or the symbol does not itself communicate. The better the internal communication, the better the function of the organization."

"The communicator needs a clear-cut idea or purpose which he can communicate to the target," Moeller said. "This is even more important in group communications than it is in one-to-one communication."

Actions often bear a different message than the surface interpretation would indicate, Moeller said. He cited the example of a wage demand that really reflects the disdain of the workers for those on the other side of the bargaining table rather than a need for more money.

A final factor of communication is feedback, he noted. "The boss is sometimes the last to find out bad news," Moeller concluded. "The bearers of bad news must be made to feel that there will be a reward for bringing it up early."

Mich. There they were fed into an IBM computer which recorded the results of these decisions on the market.

Within half an hour, balance sheets showing the decisions' effects were teletyped back to the teams. The next decision, based on the balance sheets, was then made and relayed to Michigan State for evaluation.

"OUR TEAM had to make some radical decisions to compensate for a poor one made at the beginning of the exercise," Dave Virtue, president of the Iowa Marketing Club, said.

"There was a misunderstanding between our team and the officials at headquarters," Virtue said.

"We had thought there was to be a trial run, but after we had sent in the first decision we found that it had counted as part of our score," he explained. "The radical steps we took after that were to balance the first."

There will be a conference April 9-10 among the schools that participated in the exercise, Virtue said. The conference will be held at Michigan State and will discuss the program of business simulation as a whole.

This was the third year Michigan State has sponsored such an exercise. The Lansing conference will plan an exercise next year to be conducted on an international scale.

Negro Passenger Relives Terror of Alabama Ambush

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A terrified Negro youth played dead on the seat of a car when highway assassins circled back to check their work after firing a barrage that killed Viola Gregg Liuzzo.

LeRoy Moton, 19, of Selma, told policemen of the stunning ambush Thursday night on U.S. 80 about 26 miles east of Selma.

The slender, six-foot Negro said that he and Mrs. Liuzzo, 39, of Detroit, white and the mother of five, were traveling toward Montgomery to pick up some of the participants in the march to the capital. Mrs. Liuzzo had come to Alabama to join the march.

"The YOUTH, appearing shaken and at times dazed, said he had noticed a car following them. It was a blue Ford — a 1954, '55 or '60 model, Moton said.

Suddenly, the car in pursuit pulled around — at about 60 miles an hour — and bullets splattered the Oldsmobile Mrs. Liuzzo was driving, he recalled.

Moton said he knew there were three shots by the breaking of the glass.

"POLICE SAID six shots were fired.

"She (Mrs. Liuzzo) slumped over to the side and front. I tried to lift her back up," Moton said. He grabbed the steering wheel and guided the car onto the shoulder.

He said he turned off the lights and ignition. He examined Mrs. Liuzzo. She did not respond.

OTHER CARS carrying marchers back to Selma passed, he said, and he honked the horn. No one stopped.

Then he saw another car. Its lights were like those that had passed with a hail of gunfire.

"I lay down in the car when they came back," the youth said, adding that he stretched out on the seat and played dead.

The car stopped. A light flashed. Moton waited. The car roared off. He said he was certain it was the blue Ford.

MOTON GOT OUT and started running. A small red sports car bore down on him.

"The red car tried to hit me and I dived into a gully," he said. "I ran on toward Montgomery because I didn't know which way to go."

He ran for half an hour. Then he saw a truck and recognized it as one carrying civil rights marchers back to Selma. He tagged it.

The truck driver, the Rev. Leon Riley of Richmond, Calif., took up the narrative from there.

"When I came to a stop, he came to the side of the truck and said, 'A woman's been killed. She's been shot.'"

Second Assistant To Leave Iowa Football Staff Within a Week—

Andy MacDonald Takes Job As Arizona State College Head Coach

By JOHN BORNHOLDT Sports Editor

Backfield Coach Andy MacDonald became the second assistant to leave the Iowa football staff within a week Friday when he accepted the head coaching job at Arizona State College in Flagstaff, Ariz. MacDonald has been working for Jerry Burns at Iowa since the 1961 season.

Late Friday afternoon, he said he was very excited and pleased about the appointment. "It's every assistant's dream to become a head coach someday and I guess that ideal was reached for me early this morning when the job at Arizona State became available," MacDonald said.

ALTHOUGH he plans to start his own spring practice on the Arizona State College campus April 19, he said he will return to Iowa City to help Jerry Burns with his annual high school coaches clinic, at the end of Iowa's spring drills, May 14 and 15.

MacDonald is the third assistant to leave the Iowa staff in eight months. Line coach Jerry Hilgenberg resigned last July, and Bill Hapfel's resignation was accepted by the Iowa Athletic Board of Control earlier this week.

The new Arizona State coach said he will keep two assistants from coach Max Spilburg's staff and is looking for two more in the Michigan area to take with him to Flagstaff.

"I want to keep the assistants since they are already familiar with the returning players and with the other teams we will be playing this fall," he said. "I expect the level of competition in the Big Sky conference to be at a pretty good by the time Arizona State joins in 1967," he said.

"I PLAN TO recruit in Arizona, California, New Mexico and Texas," he said. "There's a lot of talent in California alone, especially when so many of the better players are attending junior colleges first. This makes them easier to recruit," he added. The 34-year-old coach said he plans to move to Flagstaff with his wife and three daughters as soon as possible.

The head coaching job at Arizona State became available after Jan. 31 of this year, when Coach Max Spilburg resigned and later admitted having given academic credit over a two-year period to athletes who did not attend classes.

Last Saturday, the Board of Regents ordered Arizona State College to forfeit the 11 football victories it had won over the last two seasons. Some of the six players involved in the incident had played in all of these games.

Arizona State College, not to be confused with Arizona State University at Tempe, has an enrollment of 4,000 students. It's not a member of any specific conference as yet, but will join with Idaho, Idaho State, Montana, Montana State, Portland and Gonzaga of Oregon in forming the Big Sky loop by 1967.

MacDonald said he was sorry to leave the Iowa staff. He has been a close friend of Coach Jerry Burns for many years, but was attracted by the increase in salary and the challenge of being a head coach himself.

The former Iowa backfield specialist was a Little All-America quarterback at Central Michigan College, and was named "High School Coach of the Year" in Michigan after guiding his alma mater, Flint Northern High School, to state championships in 1956 and 1960.

Palmer Expresses Doubt Concerning Masters Win CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Arnold Palmer says his chances of winning the Masters Golf Tournament a fifth time are "not so good unless I get the lead out of my britches and get some work done on my game."

Palmer practiced at the Chattanooga Golf and Country Club Thursday.

"I'm just beginning to sharpen my game for the Masters," he said. "I played at Jacksonville last week and didn't do well at all."

ISU Faces Washington In Gym Final Today BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Big Eight Conference champion Iowa State challenges Washington University in a national gymnastics team championship semifinal dual meet today.

SAARI won his heat of the preliminaries in 1:44.2, then Clark swept through his qualifying heat in 1:43.3, only seven-tenths off the American record.

Saari passed up defense of his 200-yard individual medley title Friday to challenge Clark in the freestyle.

Southern California's Bob Bennett, who will defend his 100-yard backstroke title in Saturday's wrap-up of the three-day meet, was the top qualifier in the 200-yard backstroke. He won his heat in 1:57.4, with favored Gary Dilley of Michigan State qualifying with 1:58.5.

Clark, who set the old collegiate mark of 1:44.4 while winning the 200-yard freestyle a year ago, saw it snapped by Southern California's Roy Saari five minutes before he lowered it again.

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The speed of Jim Hall and his Chaparral sports cars almost overshadows the battle between Ford and Ferrari in the Sebring 12-hour endurance race today.

Yet it will be stamina — of men and machines — which will be decisive when 70 sleek, low-slung cars and twice as many drivers set out on a punishing ride around a 5.2-mile course on an abandoned World War II air base.

70 Sports Cars Prepare For Sebring Test Today

Foremost is a doubt that Hall's Chevrolet-powered sprint champion cars with automatic transmission will endure the pounding of the concrete and asphalt surface the 1,000 miles and more the winner must travel.

If one or both of the Chaparrals finish, it likely will win. In qualifying, Hall drove a lap in the record-beating time of 2:57.6 — a speed of 105 miles an hour.

Two Ford-powered sports cars, a Lotus Ford with Dan Gurney as chief driver and a brand new Lola Ford entered by John Mecum — are next fastest but also of unproven durability.

The lap record, official only when set in a race, is 3:06.2 for 100.539 m.p.h. John Surtees set it in a Ferrari a year ago. Such well-seasoned drivers as Graham Hill of England, Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico, Umberto Maglioli and Giancarlo Baghetti of Italy, David Piper of England, Tony Maggs of South Africa, Willie Mairesse of Belgium and Walt Hansen of Redminister, N.J., will wheel the fastest of nine Ferraris entered.

Ferrari has been the winner here each of the past four years.

Hoosiers Widen Lead Over USC in Swim Meet

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Indiana's Tom Tretheway bettered the 200-yard breaststroke record and Stephen Clark of Yale lowered his 200-yard freestyle mark in Friday afternoon preliminaries of the National Collegiate Swimming Championships.

Tretheway, who finished second in the Big Ten meet to Michigan's Paul Scheerer, won his heat handily in 2:11.4.

That broke the NCAA mark of 2:12.1 set a year ago by Bill Craig of Southern California, who finished eighth this time and failed to qualify for Friday night's finals.

Clark, who set the old collegiate mark of 1:44.4 while winning the 200-yard freestyle a year ago, saw it snapped by Southern California's Roy Saari five minutes before he lowered it again.

SAARI won his heat of the preliminaries in 1:44.2, then Clark swept through his qualifying heat in 1:43.3, only seven-tenths off the American record.

Saari passed up defense of his 200-yard individual medley title Friday to challenge Clark in the freestyle.

Southern California's Bob Bennett, who will defend his 100-yard backstroke title in Saturday's wrap-up of the three-day meet, was the top qualifier in the 200-yard backstroke. He won his heat in 1:57.4, with favored Gary Dilley of Michigan State qualifying with 1:58.5.
