News in Brief

Sculpture Found by Police

An anonymous telephone call to Iowa City police Wednesday night led to the recovery of the sculptured head stolen from the Art Building last week.

Capt. Verne H. McClurg of the Campus Police said the caller told an Iowa City police dispatcher the sculpture could be found in a white paper bag near the railroad overpass on Rocky Shore Drive.

The information was then relayed to Campus Police who recovered the sculpture.

McClurg said the sculpture was not damaged. McClurg also said that two ash trays, stolen from Burge Hall last weekend, had been recovered by Parsons College authorities in a parking lot at that school.

He said the ash trays had not been damaged and that they had been placed so that it appeared the thieves who took them wanted to make sure they were returned unharmed.

The value of the sculpture was about $100, according to McClurg. Police are continuing their investigation of both thefts and of other recent thefts at the Art Building.

Red China Rejects Johnson Offer

WHILE A QUIET, BLOODLESS mutiny was ousting the commander of the Vietnamese Navy, President Johnson was receiving wide applause from around the non-Communist world on his Southeast Asia peace offer. But, as predicted by U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, Red China made a ringing rejection of the U.S. bid.

White House sources said that Johnson, scanning the international horizon for Communist reaction, does not believe the Reds are ready for Viet Nam peace talks now. Soviet leadership continues its denunciation of the U.S. action in Viet Nam, but the government-controlled press published the U.S. offer.

Meanwhile, in South Viet Nam, twenty young officers forced the ouster of Adm. Chung Tan Chang, head of the Navy, and his deputy, Cmdr. Lam Nguon Tanh. Cang, an associate of ex-Viet strong man Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, was called a "thorn in our side" by one of the U.S. officers in Viet Nam.

Houses Passes Medicare

THE HOUSE THURSDAY PASSED the $6 billion bill to provide hospitalization and optional medical benefits for the elderly and boost Social Security retirement payments (Medicare). The bill now goes to the Senate, which may not vote on it until June.

The bill, if it becomes law, would make the greatest single change in the Social Security system since its enactment in 1935, raising payroll taxes for most employers and workers. Republicans backed a bill similar to the Administration's bill, but lacking the element of increased payroll taxes for hospitalization.

The House Judiciary subcommittee balked on another part of President Johnson's Great Society program. The subcommittee rejected a proposal to the right-to-vote bill which would limit its coverage to counties with big Negro populations. The proposal is still included in the revised voting rights legislation accepted by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Public Health Bill Passes House

THE IOWA HOUSE withstood Thursday a determined stand by rural legislators against any increase in property taxes and passed a bill to allow establishment of county or multi-county boards of public health. The vote was 75-37 after nearly five hours of debate. The bill now goes to the Senate.

53 'Spies' Arrested in Cuba

THE CUBAN GOVERNMENT announced Thursday that Fidel Castro's security police had arrested 53 members of a spy ring, including the head of the Baptist Church in Cuba and several other clergymen. The Baptist leader is the Rev. Herbert Caudill, 61, a veteran of 35 years in Cuban missionary work. Caudill's son-in-law, James David Fite, a native of Forth Worth, Tex., also was arrested. Their wives were not arrested.

Before these latest arrests, exile estimates of the number of Protestant preachers behind bars in Cuba ranged from 50 to "incalculable."

At least eight other Baptist ministers are reported to have been arrested within the past three months, and 50 Baptist churches fined for violations. Baptist headquarters report there are 17,888 registered Baptists in Cuba.

Swami Chinmayananda, Bombay, spoke on Hinduism Friday night at 106 Gilmore Hall. The Swami told a crowd of about 100 that the world needs a common goal appreciated by all. He was sponsored by the School of Religion, Department of Chinese and Oriental Studies, and the Indian Student Association.

Iowa River To Crest At Coralville Today

State's Highways, Farmland Flooded

By JOHN CLOYED Staff Writer

Almost 50,000 acres of farm land in the Iowa River basin upstream from the Coralville Dam is under water, according to the special Flood Control Committee of the Army Corps of Engineers District Office in Rock Island, Ill.

Another 35,000 acres in the Cedar River basin between Cedar Rapids and Austin, Minn., is also flooded.

THE CREST of the Iowa River should reach the Coralville Dam today or Saturday, according to Richard Sharp of the Flood Control Committee.

Sharp said the crest passed Marshalltown Thursday and should be nearing Marengo this morning.

At the Coralville Dam the water level is up to 691 feet. The height of the spillway is 712 feet but that height will probably not be reached, according to Sharp.

MUCH OF THE state got more than half an inch of rain Thursday, with the heaviest precipitation reported in southern and southwest Iowa.

Nearly half an inch fell in the Cherokee area, and about a third of an inch was reported in Waterloo. Those cities were hardest hit by flooding earlier in the week, but streams which forced hundreds from their homes were receding.

CEDAR RAPIDS was building dikes with sandbags and earth in preparation for the crest in the Cedar River which should reach there Saturday.

The crest is expected to reach 19½ feet. Flood stage is 13 feet at Cedar Rapids and the last reading there Thursday was 14½ feet.

The Cedar River has already crested at Waterloo and the crest should be about one-half to two-thirds of the way between Waterloo and Cedar Rapids by this morning, according to Sharp.

HE SAID several hundred families had been evacuated along both rivers and a number of local roads and highways had been inundated.

As of 3 p.m. Thursday, the Iowa Highway Commission listed the following highways as closed: Highways 3 and 5 east of Cherokee (both city route and bypass), Highway 14 north of Marshalltown, Highway 17 south of Emmetsburg, Highway 18 west of Emmetsburg, Highway 20 east of Cedar Falls, Highway 31 north and south of Correctionville, Highway 46 southeast of the city limits of Des Moines, Highway 59 south of Cherokee, and Highway 218 north of Cedar Rapids.

The following roads were reported open but water-covered in places: Highway 9 between Swea City and Lakota, Highway 69 north of Belmond, Highway 169 south of Algona, Highway 212 south of Belle Plaine and Highway 18 east of U.S. 169.

WORK IS BEING DONE on the bridge on Highway 101 north of Vinton to try to keep it open, according to the report.

Water was reported over other highways in north and central Iowa but traffic was allowed through.

The rain that swept across the state was heaviest at Council Bluffs, where a mid-morning down-pour dumped 2 inches on the city.

HAIL WAS ALSO reported there

Man Held in L.A. To Be Extradited

An Iowa City man indicted on two counts of arson by a Johnson County grand jury last November is being held in the Los Angeles county jail for defrauding an innkeeper.

Ronald Mavrias, 24, will be turned over to Johnson County law enforcement officers this weekend, according to Johnson County Deputy Sheriff Francis Suetzel Jr. Suetzel, Sheriff Maynard Snyder, and Detective Lt. Charles H. Snider, of the Iowa City Police Department, will drive to Los Angeles today or tomorrow to extradite Mavrias and bring him back to Johnson County to face trial.

County Atty. Daniel W. Boyle said Mavrias was indicted on two counts stemming from fires at the Wikel Typewriter Co., 2 S. Dubuque St., and the Jefferson Hotel, 107 S. Dubuque St. The hotel fire was in the winter of 1962 and the Wikel fire in the spring of 1963.

After his arrest, Mavrias was released on $5,000 bond and committed to the Mt. Pleasant Mental Health Institute for examination and treatment. He was released in the fall of 1964 and had been missing since then.

Regents Ask Information On Plush Student Housing

By JON VAN Staff Writer

DES MOINES — Dormitories were in the limelight at the Board of Regents meeting Thursday almost as much as they were a month ago.

Last month the Regents directed University officials to come up with plans for low-cost single students' housing. This time they requested that officials from Iowa, Iowa State, and State College of Iowa bring information on fancy dorms to next month's meeting.

Members of the Regents Building Committee asked for information on how dorms are built and operated by private contractors. Such dorms are common in Wisconsin, Missouri and several other states.

STANLEY REDEKER, Boone Regent, said that if private contractors would build dorms appealing to relatively affluent students, the university dorm programs would be freer to concentrate on providing housing for poorer students.

Ted Rehder, director of University dorm administration, said that several companies interested in building private dormitories had talked to him.

The University would welcome the building of such dorms, he said, but private firms always want some guarantee that their dorms would be filled.

"We can't make any guarantees," Rehder said, "we've got to keep our dorms filled first to meet our bond payments."

THE DORM director said private dorms are usually found on campuses where state appropriations are used for dorm construction. Iowa's dormitories are all financed by bond issues.

The University favors apartment construction by private firms as well as dorm construction, according to Rehder. Apartments are being built in Iowa City, although private dorms are not, he explained, because investors don't ask for guaranteed occupancy before building apartments.

The Regent request for further information on privately operated dormitories came after a report on dormitory construction plans at Iowa State was presented.

A preliminary report on a low-cost coed dorm, married student housing, and graduate dorms by University officials was postponed by the Regents and will be considered today.

Student Employees Upset Over Easter Work Dictum

More than half of the 25 student employees of the Union's Private Dining Room (PDR) Service may be required to work on Easter Sunday.

As employees of the Union Food Service, which is sponsoring an Easter Smorgasbord on April 13, they have been told to report to work at 8:30 Easter morning. About 14 students are needed to work for the dinner, but an official list for the day's staff has not yet been released.

A MEETING was held Monday night for the PDR staff in an attempt to resolve the question of whether some students should be obligated to return early from vacation to work on Easter day.

John Zahari, director of the Union Food Service, addressed the group. Some student employees said that he had implied and "almost threatened" that if they did not return to work for the event, they would lose their jobs. When Zahari was asked by The Daily Iowan if this was true, he said he had "no comment."

The PDR staff was told less than a month ago that they would be required to work the day of the Smorgasbord. One PDR employee said many students had already made plans for the entire vacation. Some were taking trips, others had interviews for jobs or graduate school, he added.

AT THE MEETING Wednesday night, four students volunteered to work because they will be in Iowa City over the vacation. Suggestions on how to decide who would work were discussed. One idea was to draw lots and another proposal was that the staff be selected on the basis of those who live closest to Iowa City. Both ideas were rejected, however.

At the present time no solution has been reached. One PDR employee said, "Right now, we don't know if they will fire us when we don't show on Easter Sunday. No meeting has been scheduled to inform us of any decision. When I come back Sunday night, I don't know if I will have a job."

Loren Kottner, director of the Union, told The Daily Iowan Thursday night, that he had just returned to Iowa City from a trip and had no knowledge of the controversy.

Swami Lectures On Hindu Thought

Swami Chinmayananda, a Hindu religious leader of India, defined Hinduism as a philosophy appealing to the intellect of man in his speech in Gilmore Hall Thursday night.

The Swami spoke to approximately 100 people on "What is Hinduism" as part of his world-wide lecture tour.

The Swami said that because Hinduism appeals to the scientific intellect of man, it is more appealing to modern man than many other religions.

He said that unlike Christianity, which asks one to believe first, then understand, Hinduism asks one to understand and then believe.

SWAMI DEFINED Hinduism by examining the historical evolution of the philosophy.

He said the history of Hinduism shows three distinct phases. The first came with the ancient philosophers asking, "What is Life?" Swami said this first phase established that life was the ability of man to respond to a stimuli.

The second phase appeared when another generation asked why different people responded differently to the same stimuli. He said that the fact that responses are determined by previous experience was the contribution of the second phase of the development.

THE THIRD phase, he said, came with the establishment of the idea that there must be an unknown truth to manifest the response.

Swami said that only when man can "unplug" himself from the conscious realization can he realize true wisdom. He added that students obtain only knowledge from a university; wisdom must come from within.

Swami said that this intellectual realization can only come with personal contemplation and education. He said this is what makes Hinduism appealing to the modern man's mind which asks why and how.

Those Iowa City residents who fear flooding of the Iowa River, can relax for a while. The Coralville dam controls the water level downriver from the spillway and according to the gauge at the dam, water can still rise more than 40 feet before it goes over the spillway. Gauge is calibrated in feet above sea level. —Photo by Mike Toner

Easter Concert—

Works performed smoothly

By DAVE REID
Iowan Reviewer

A less than capacity audience was present in the Union Main Lounge to hear an inspirational performance of two works by Luigi Cherubini and Francis Poulenc at the traditional Easter Concert Wednesday evening.

The somewhat apathetic applause with which the two works were received could hardly be used to judge the quality of the music or its presentation by the Oratorio Chorus and the Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. Daniel Moe, Director of Choral Music.

Beethoven once commented on Cherubini's work in a letter to him. "I value your dramatic works more highly than those of any other; every time I hear a new work of yours I am enchanted, and I take a greater interest in them than in my own. You will always remain the one of my contemporaries whom I esteem most."

The Cherubini influence is clearly visible in Beethoven's Fidelio, his only opera, with its Palestinian counterpart. Cherubini produced the Requiem Mass in C minor in 1816 in memory of the death of King Louis XVI at the guillotine.

The Italian-born Cherubini is primarily noted for his influence in the development of the French opera before and after the French revolution.

His religious work began in 1808 when he was invited to write a mass for the consecration of a church on the country estate of the Prince de Chimay. During this same time he wrote his Requiem Mass in D minor for male chorus and orchestra.

In 1822 Cherubini was appointed director of the newly founded Paris Conservatory, whose reputation his strict rule did much to establish.

Cherubini's work in opera is evident in the very dramatic

Requiem Mass. The French composer, conductor and critic Berlioz said of his work. "No other production of this grand master can bear any comparison with it, for abundance of idea, fullness of form and sustained sublimity of style."

The work is introduced by a gentle, supplicating motive in the cellos; the choral entry is in quiet affirmation. The Requiem continues through the intensely dramatic Dies Irae concluding with the Agnus Dei declaring that faith has triumphed.

Moe's use of both gradual and abrupt volume variance was quite effective in the coloration of the 45 minute performance.

Berlioz continued in comment of the Requiem saying, "The Agnus Dei in descending surpasses everything that has been written of the kind. The workmanship of this portion, too, has an inestimable value; the vocal style is sharp and clear, the instrumentation colored and powerful, yet ever worthy of its object."

The post-intermission performance presented Poulenc's Stabat Mater with soprano soloist Dorothea Brown, University voice instructor.

This work was written by the French composer in the summer of 1950 in five part harmony having a baritone line in addition to the bass.

Despite some trouble with abrupt tempo changes the performance reached heights of sublime grandeur.

Miss Brown dynamically presented the two lyrical arias.

She received her Bachelor of Music degree at Northwestern and is also now studying for her Master of Music degree at Indiana.

Although the work is composed of a dozen sections of which each has an individual character, it possessed unity and was faithful to Poulenc's initial conception of a prayer of intense and humble fervor.

Political spectrum—

Furor over gas warfare ludicrous, misplaced

By FRAN SEARS
Iowa Socialist League

World-wide outrage over United States use of gas warfare in Viet Nam was farcical, certainly, but it brought the major contradictions of U.S. involvement to the fore once again. The furor caused by our employing "tear" and "nausea" gases was ludicrous. Why are napalm and phosphorus bombs, which kill by suffocating those victims who are lucky enough to escape being turned into human bonfires, considered "fair-play" where incapacitating gases are unfair? Why are "anti-personnel" bombs which spray razor-like fragments over wide areas and bullets especially designed to mangle and tear up human flesh and organs in clever new ways regarded as "American" and the gases as "anti-American"?

Only the war mentality created by the administration's propaganda experts can fathom the logic of Johnson and his military strategists. We are saving them from themselves, the administration argues. And if that means we have to slaughter every last Vietnamese in order to save him, well... what can we do? We are committed to saving, and if we must kill to achieve our goal, then we will kill.

However, even the State Department's spokesmen are beginning to get a little rattled. Apparently the propaganda is not "taking" as well as expected. At a State Department briefing in Washington on March 22, Mr.

McCluskey, the State Department representative, was asked to clarify one of several points puzzling Americans. Mr. McCluskey had explained that the gas (he was confused on just which gases we were using and had to be briefed by one of his examiners) was being used in crowds and villages where the members of the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong) could not be distinguished from the uninvolved natives. Instead of shooting the innocent along with the guilty, he explained, the idea was to gas the innocent along with the guilty. It was more humane.

His logic was crude, but reasonably sound. But, he was questioned, "If you can't tell a healthy peasant from a healthy Viet Cong, how the hell do you tell a sick peasant from a sick Viet Cong?" McCluskey replied, "I simply can't answer."

Criticism from abroad concerning the use of gases was probably something other than humanitarian concern for the Vietnamese. True, the use of gas is regarded as illegal by the world nations, but as long as the gases are "harmless," why all the commotion in relation to the comparatively a pathetic response to the most brutal weapons and bombs we are currently utilizing? The answer is undoubtedly that there has been a good deal of suspicion aroused concerning Johnson's insistence that we have never used poison gas and that we never will.

View from Riverside not too appealing

SPRING IS HERE and, among other things, the river is rising, the students are leaving, the crocuses are blooming and the convertibles are converting. The less pleasant aspects of spring are also here: the water — contrary to official opinion — is worse than usual, the chukholes in the streets and parking lots are expanding and the backyards of the fraternities on Riverside Drive are messier than they are scenic.

The view from Riverside Drive near the Art Building looking east is bad enough. Across the river is a complex of buildings, staggered up the hill, that leave one's sense of aesthetics cold. From the squatting mass that is the back of the Union addition, up to the unique architecture that is Burge and finally the fortress that is called the Currier addition, the general style is big city industrial.

The view looking west can be much more pleasant, with the trees and fraternity houses set up on the hill. If only the lawns were cleaned up. Now that the snow is gone and the dirty linen is visible for all to see, we hope that the fellas who live up that way will take the time to clean up their own back yards.

It's already too late to do much for the view of the other side of the river. —Linda Weiner

Labor law receives more discussion

To the Editor:

I was very pleased to find in Thursday's Iowan that someone had finally decided to enlighten us of the masses on the terribly complicated labor union situation. Unfortunately, however, Mr. Ramey's letter was so subtle that I'm not sure everyone who read it realized it was a satire. For the benefit of those people, I too would like to comment on the problem of labor law.

Most authorities on both sides of the Right-to-Work Law question have long since agreed on one thing: all the emotionalism about higher per capita income, increased hourly wages and lower unemployment, are not relevant to the situation. These phenomena are dependent on too many other factors to be attributed to the Right-to-Work Law. For example, what is the per capita income in Mississippi, a Right-to-Work state?

Mr. Ramey did give a hint of the real problem facing unions. Unions do indeed have a unique legal situation. I can think of no other kind of organization which is legally required to provide a service for non-members and legally prevented from collecting any fee for the service. Unions are required by law to represent both members and non-member employees during collective bargaining. All benefits gained by the unions are enjoyed by non-union employees as well. No hanger-on, parasite or freeloader is going to pay for something he can get for nothing. The stand of the unions is that either the union should have to bargain only for its members, or the union should be able to require non-members to pay for the services they now enjoy for nothing.

Letters to the editor—

Here's what she really meant

To the Editor:

The points made by Frank Lewis (D.I. April 7) relative to the letter "Have You Filled Your Friends' Quota" (D.I. April 1) illustrated two things: first that I misrepresented one of the basic ideas in my original letter and secondly that, as "an analogy is presented" to illustrate a point, I did not make the point I was trying to illustrate.

One of the sentences in the original article was: "It seems obvious that only those who will need to be liked are those who do not possess the quality of being likable." With either "liked" and "likable" or "Hired" and "hirable," this statement, as it stands, is false. Clarification of what I meant, is obviously needed.

Most people "need" friends and jobs. If there were a system in which a man procured that which he needed by earning it by his own effort, then those who have friends and jobs in this system are those who have, by their own effort, earned those friends and jobs.

To avoid possible confusion at this point, may I merely point out that "effort" can in this context in no way be construed to mean by force or violence to other men. Gaining something by initiating force or violence against another man is not earning it by trading value for value, which is the only sense in which I use the concept "earn."

As Mr. Lewis pointed out, my use of "intelligence" as a hypothetical sole criterion of a quality necessary for earning either jobs or friends is a misleading example. The sense of intelligence as an I.Q. which one inherits is definitely not what I intend to convey. Inherited intelligence is an indication of one's potential for the acquisition and retention of knowledge.

My use of the word "intelligence" was meant as one's actually having learned how to reason, understand, acquire knowledge and respond successfully to "problem-solving" situations; and this "actualization" of potential does require one's own effort. Here again, the distinction between what I said and what I meant was not made clear by me.

Gambling man defects

Formosa's chief intelligence officer has detected to the Red Chinese taking with him hundreds of names and code numbers of Chinese Nationalist and American agents, The Insider's Newsletter reported today.

The little-publicized defection of General Chen Li was highly unusual for a top intelligence figure, the Newsletter said. When top agents skip, it is generally to neutral countries in South America or Switzerland with well-filled bank accounts.

Chen Li reportedly went over the line broke. He had lost heavily gambling in Macao with a group of mysterious "millionaires" who turned out to be Communist agents, and was easily persuaded to cross into China, according to NATO intelligence reports reaching Paris.

NATO sources say hundreds of thousands of dollars were lost by Chen Li in Macao gambling dens.

The Newsletter says the real mystery is why the Formosa regime allowed Chen Li to spend so much time in Macao, apparently unsupervised. He was able to take his wife and children along and later slip them across the frontier with him.

Before his return to Washington for consultations, General Maxwell Taylor told the Saigon Lions Club that there was no limit to the potential escalation of the war. It is this position — one which the world nations take quite seriously and do not doubt in the least — that prompted the unusual response to gas warfare. With the use of defoliants, biological warfare has been initiated.

There is no reason to doubt that these forms of warfare will figure in the escalation. Our bombs are growing in number and size, and are being dropped in wider areas. The United States has escalated the war to extremes never believed possible at the outset, and there is currently widespread belief at home and abroad that the United States is using Viet-Nam as a strategic means to open a war with China. The evidence certainly supports this view.

Senator Wayne Morse has stated that "the United States is the single greatest threat to world peace." When a nation will stop at nothing to gain its ends, then every nation — Communist, Neutral and Anti-Communist — is also a potential victim of U.S. imperialist expansion. It is safe to assume, at this point, that international protest of gas warfare is only the beginning of increasing and unifying protests, which will seek to contain the U.S. in its Anti-Communist crusade.

Soapboxers Debate Civil Rights Image

By MARGARET FONES
Staff Writer

Soapbox soundfifers, in good voice after two weeks rest, debated aspects of civil rights Thursday.

The image of some workers in the civil rights movement and the constitutionality of the federal voting bill were hit during the hour-and-a-half Union Board Soapbox Soundoff.

STEVE SCHMEISER, A3, BURLINGTON, read parts of a letter written to the Daily Iowan editor April 6, by K. Thomas Oommen, G. Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, that discussed the image of the Negro community and civil rights workers.

Schmeiser said that in some cases, "the movement is better than the people implementing it."

Bill Hieronymus, A4, Iowa City, pointed out that for the over-all success of the movement, workers should have tried to get the public's acceptance, and not accepted alienation.

ACTIVISTS IN THE MOVEMENT, although they have brought the issue to the public's attention, he said, have driven away non-activists who could help raise the image of the movement through their liberal but more conforming behavior.

Irving Miller, L2, Des Moines, a Negro, said, "The Negro is tied on the railroad track of time. If he sees someone coming to help cut the ropes, he doesn't care if the man washes or what his motives are, he just wants his help."

Bill Perkins, A4, Jersey City, N.J., a Negro, said that the movement was not being corrupted by beards.

Perkins said although he respected Ross Barnett for defending his position, the delivery of the speech Barnett gave at the University last week would not have been good enough to satisfy a rhetoric instructor, and thus did not help the image of segregationists.

SCHMEISER SAID in an interview after the debate that he was commenting on how other people felt about the civil rights movement. He said he felt that persons leading the movement could be selective about who was in the public eye, and help improve its image.

During the lengthy debate on the federal voting bill, Ron Zobel, A2, Oelwein, said the bill was unconstitutional and that he believed in the basic principle that a certain level of intelligence should be attained before a person could vote.

Bill Kutmus, L2, Chicago, said there was a basic presumption in the law that if less than 50 per cent of a state's adults were voting, there was "something fishy."

Hieronymus, entering the debate on literacy tests, asked, "How can states have large masses of illiterate people if the compulsory education laws are being followed?"

Steve Schmeiser, A3, Burlington, read parts of a letter written to the Daily Iowan editor April 6, by K. Thomas Oommen, G. Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, that discussed the image of the Negro community and civil rights workers.

Iowa Medical Center To Host Dental Seminar

Persons from six states are attending a "Cleft Lip - Cleft Palate" seminar today and Saturday at The University of Iowa Medical Center.

Dr. Robert H. Ivy, professor emeritus of plastic surgery at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and chief of the section of cleft palate for the Pennsylvania Department of Health, will speak at the seminar.

Seminar participants are considering surgical, dental, otological, and speech aspects of cleft lip and cleft palate management and will observe an operation for cleft lip repair on closed-circuit television.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new Pentagon compilation of casualties in Viet Nam showed Thursday that 455 U.S. military personnel have lost their lives there.

More Voter Drives Planned

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Civil rights leaders are drawing plans for a South-wide campaign to register Negro voters and a Northern big-city crusade to preach nonviolence.

About 2,000 college students from the North, East and West will be enlisted in the voter campaign outlined Thursday by the Rev. Andrew Young, executive secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC).

"We are planning to see how many we can get registered from Alabama to Virginia and including north Florida," Young said in an interview. He is a key man in the SCLC headed by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

At Selma, County Judge Hugh Mallory jailed two Negroes for contempt when they refused to move from one section of the courtroom to another. One was the Rev. James Bevel of SCLC.

Bevel and James Webb of Selma were sentenced to five days in jail and fined $50. The judge said they refused to move from a section reserved for "white persons, spectators and defendants."

Another SCLC staff member, James Orange, said mobilization would begin for voter registration next week in Perry, Hale, Marengo, Green, Lowndes and Wilcox counties.

At Bogalusa, La., police stood guard for a civil rights rally where James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), was listed as the main speaker. Gunfire was exchanged between Negroes and white night-riders in a flare of violence early Thursday. No injuries were reported.

After Experiment—

'21' Program Adopted

The privileged hours program for women students 21 years of age and over has been permanently adopted by the Committee on Student Life (CSL). The program has been in effect on an experimental basis since Feb. 5, 1964.

Dr. Allan D. Vestal, professor of law and chairman of CSL, said Thursday the committee acted at its Wednesday meeting after the Associated Women's Students (AWS) reported the program has been successful.

Privileged hours allow women to sign out in a "21 Book" when they leave their housing units. They are then not required to return before closing hours.

CSL requested a re-examination of the Student Senate's resolution for further liberalization of women's hours and a report of these findings to be made at the next meeting of the CSL.

The resolution, passed by the Senate Feb. 9, would grant freshmen women four weekend nights a semester with 2:30 a.m. hours. Sophomores would have one weekend night a week with unrestricted hours and juniors two unrestricted weekend nights. Senior women would have no hours. Coeds under 21 would need parental approval to receive the privileged hours.

New Media Directory Published

The third edition of "Organizations, Publications and Directories in the Mass Media of Communications" has been published by the School of Journalism.

Prepared by Wilbur C. Peterson, head of the school's Bureau of Media Service, the directory contains a description of and addresses for 235 organizations and 38 directories; a listing and description of 70 publications; a list of indexes and abstracts that carry mass media material; and the names and addresses of 49 state broadcasting associations and 64 state press associations.

The new enlarged edition sells for $2 a copy and may be purchased from the School of Journalism's Bureau of Media Service.

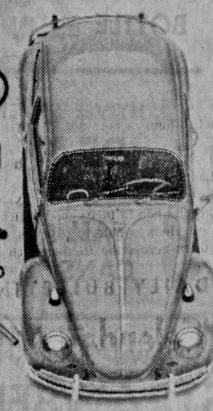

Right To Work Law Backed by Printers

Directors of the Printing Industry of Iowa have unanimously adopted a resolution urging state legislators to retain the right to work law.

According to President Lowell Thalman of Waterloo, the resolution described the 1947 law as one which "safeguards individual freedom by prohibiting the practice of forcing individuals into labor organizations."

You're missing a lot when you own a Volkswagen.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with land to maintain traction with. That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft.

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses: Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

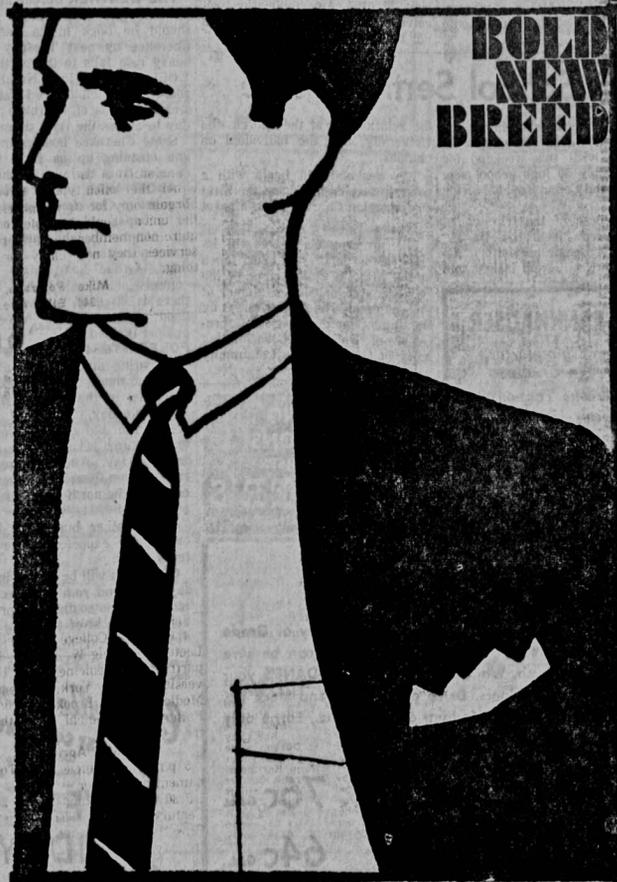

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular.

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

Methodists Will Discuss Ecumenical Council

The significance of the Ecumenical Council in Rome will be discussed by Albert C. Outler, Southern Methodist University professor, and the Rev. John J. Wright, bishop of the Diocese of Pittsburgh — during a talk here April 21 at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

The dialogue, "What Does the Ecumenical Council Mean Back Home?" is part of the 1964-65 University Lecture Series. It is being held at the same time as the ecumenical conference, sponsored by the U of I School of Religion April 20-21.

Free tickets will be available for students and staff Monday, April 19 from 8 a.m. in the East Lobby of the Union. Any tickets remaining after noon Tuesday will be available free of charge to the general public.

Outler and Bishop Wright both participated in the two Vatican ecumenical councils in Rome. Bishop Wright is a member of the theological commission, while Prof. Outler has served as an official observer for World Methodism since 1962.

Professor Outler is a prominent theologian, chairman of the Graduate Council on Humanities and former president of the American Theological Society.

In 1952, he was the Methodist delegate to the third World Council on Faith and Order in Sweden. He is a member of the National Council on Religion in Higher Education, the World Council of Churches and Phi Beta Kappa. He received his A.B. degree from Wofford College, the D.D. and B.D. degrees from Emory University and a Ph.D. degree from Yale University. Before joining the SMU faculty in 1951, he taught at Duke and Yale Universities.

Among his publications are "A Christian Context for Counseling," "Colleges, Faculties and Religion," "Psychotherapy and the Christian Message," and "The Christian Tradition and the Unity We Seek." Bishop Wright is a graduate of Boston College and St. John's Seminary. He holds a S.T.L. degree from Georgian University, Rome; an S.T.D. degree from Boston College, and honorary degrees from 12 other universities and colleges in the United States.

Prior to becoming bishop of the Pittsburgh Diocese, he was auxiliary bishop of Boston and bishop of Worcester, Mass. He is the episcopal director of the Lay Retreat Movement in the United States, a decorated commander, Knights of Holy Sepulchre, an officer in the Legion of Honor (France), Order of Merit (Italy), Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Eire Society, Italian Historical Society and the Harvard Museum Society.

He is the author of "National Patriotism in Papal Teaching," and "The Pope and the War."

Kaleido Show Will Feature Jazz, Comedy

A kaleidoscope of student talent, from jazz and comedy to dancing and singing, will be offered at Kaleido, the Spring Festival variety show.

Kaleido will begin at 7:30 p.m. April 22 in the Field House. Tickets are now on sale at Whetstone's and Campus Records. Balcony seats cost 75 cents. Lower bleacher and floor seats are $1.

There will be 18 acts in the show. Four of the performers were also in last year's show. Others have performed professionally or on campus.

Three performers have written original material for the show. These are a jazz piano number, a folk song and a satire on Student Health.

Another of the acts will be native dances by members of the Hilo Hawaii Club. Included is "The Hawaiian Wedding Song" in its native language.

Tickets for the carnival, which will be on April 23, will be on sale through the participating student organizations until April 21. Then they will go on sale downtown. The tickets are 25 cents each.

Leis for the festival weekend will go on sale April 19 on the Pentacrest for 10 cents each. Later that week hats and canes will be sold.

Protestants Will Hold United Rites

The Protestant churches of the Iowa City area will hold a united Good Friday service at the First Methodist Church, Jefferson and Dubuque Streets, beginning at 12:30 p.m. April 16.

The service will consist of three worship-services, each a half hour long.

The Greenville College a cappella Choir, Greenville, Ill., also will sing in each worship service.

The choir, representing Greenville College, a liberal arts college affiliated with the Free Methodist Church, is on its 38th concert tour, which includes more than 20 concerts in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Indiana.

Speakers at the worship services will be 12:30 p.m. The Rev. James Kok, Trinity Christian Reformed Church, 404 Kenwood Dr.; 1 p.m. The Rev. William Simbro, Coralville Methodist Church, 806 Thirteenth Ave., Coralville; 1:30 p.m. The Rev. John Jensen, Lutheran Church of Christ the King, Route 1.

Scholarships To Be Given

The Iowa Society for Crippled Children announced Thursday that six $350 Easter Seal Scholarships are again available to Iowa college students, and a new $500 E. L. Peterson Memorial Scholarship has also been established.

The scholarships are for sophomore, junior, senior, and graduate students planning a career in physical or psychological rehabilitation.

The requirements for both types of scholarships are the same: above average scholarship; financial need; minimum load of 14 credit hours each term; participation in college activities proportionate with amount of outside employment.

All applicants must be residents of Iowa.

To apply for either scholarship, the student should write for application blanks to Iowa Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., P.O. Box 911, Des Moines, 50304. Application forms must be completed and returned with reference letters by July 16. For students who wish to re-apply the deadline is Nov. 15, 1965. Any applications received after these deadlines will not be considered.

High School Seniors Here

The Presbyterian churches of the Cedar Rapids area are sponsoring a campus visit this weekend for approximately 50 high school seniors from the Cedar Rapids-Marion area.

The purpose of the trip, called "The Church Meets the University," is to provide helpful orientation to college life and insight into the relationship of the church, the University, and the individual on campus.

The weekend will begin with a worship service tonight at the First Presbyterian Church, 26 E. Market St.

The program Saturday will include a tour of the campus, lunch at the Athletic Club, a tour of the religious student centers, dinner at the Jefferson Hotel, a lecture by Dr. James Spalding, associate professor of Religion. A swimming party at the Iowa City Community pool will end the evening.

King To Get Peace Award

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., civil rights leader and winner of the Nobel Peace prize, will receive the Pacem in Terris peace and freedom award from the Davenport Catholic Interracial Council (CIC) April 28, according to a CIC news release.

The award will be presented to King at the CIC banquet, which will be held at 7 p.m. in the Davenport Masonic Temple.

King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) was one of the sponsors of the recent Selma to Montgomery civil rights march.

Charles W. Toney, president of CIC, said that Lt. Gov. Robert Fulton would represent Gov. Harold Hughes at the banquet. Atty. Gen. Lawrence Sealise will also be present, Toney said.

and in other sections of the southwest.

Rainfall records showed Bloomfield had 1.40 inches of rain. Keosauqua 1.20, and Logan and Correctionville 1.17. Many other areas had more than half an inch.

THE WEATHER Bureau at Omaha said the Little Sioux River should be back in its banks at Cherokee by next Tuesday if no heavy rain falls to the north.

Officials of the Iowa Natural Resources Council moved into the stricken areas of Cherokee Thursday to assess the flood damage.

Some Cherokee businessmen began cleaning up as flood waters receded from their establishments. ADDITIONAL typhoid serum was brought to Cherokee Thursday after a two days' supply was used up. Approximately 800 persons were inoculated.

Dr. Arthur Long, state health commissioner, said Thursday there is no need for everyone in flood areas to be vaccinated against typhoid fever.

FORECASTERS said skies would be clearing around the state Friday, but more rain was expected to return to the southern half of Iowa Saturday.

The rain and cloudy skies kept temperatures several degrees cooler Thursday. Afternoon readings ranged from the upper 30s and lower 40s in the north to the lower 60s in the southeast.

The weather bureau said little change is expected in temperatures today.

Cloudiness will be increasing Friday night and rain is expected to move into the southwest, spreading across the rest of the state Saturday.

Iowa Nine Tops Luther for Second Consecutive Win; McAndrew Stars

By CURT SYLVESTER
Staff Writer

Jim McAndrew made his first pitching start in two years a success Thursday, shutting out Luther College in his six innings of work as the Iowa Hawkeyes defeated the Norsemen 11-1, in a game on the Iowa Field. The game was called after seven and one-half innings because of darkness and cold weather.

AFTER GIVING UP A double to Dave Grisvold and a bunt single to Alex Rowell in the first inning, McAndrew kept the Norse well under control. He retired the side in order the next three innings before giving up a walk in the fifth inning and a single to Darrel Meyer in the sixth. Eight times McAndrew's sharp control got Luther hitters on strikes.

Joe Madden relieved McAndrew in the seventh inning, giving up the lone Luther run on consecutive singles to Tim Kiernel and Gary Meyer and Glen Larsen's infield out. Madden struck out two in the two frames he pitched.

In the meantime Iowa hitters were pouring out a barrage of 11 hits. McAndrew helped his own cause with a perfect day at the plate, getting three singles and scoring once in three at bats. Ron Shudes also had a flawless day hitting, with two singles and two runs scored in two trips to the plate.

Sophomore Lee Endsley, whom Coach Dick Schultz hopes to develop into one of the best shortstops in Iowa history, provided the big hit of the day, poking a three-run homer over the left field fence in the sixth inning.

ENDSLEY'S FIRST home run came on his first official time at bat as a Hawkeye and came on the first pitch thrown him. He had walked in his only previous at bat in Wednesday's game. The homer came after Rick Henry had walked and McAndrew had singled.

The Hawks took the lead in the third inning after being held hitless the first two frames by Luther's freshman righthander Alex Rowell. Ron Shudes and McAndrew started the rally with back-to-back singles. Shudes then scored when Harry Ostrander hit into a double play. Larry Rathje then walked, Jay Petersen got on via an error and Ken Banaszek scored them both with a double. Banaszek scored moments later on a single by Mickey Moses.

Iowa added three more in the fourth on another set of singles by Shudes and McAndrew, a walk to Ostrander, a single by Rathje and a two-run sacrifice fly by Petersen.

Iowa's final run came in the seventh inning off Luther's third pitcher, Alan Koehler. Larry Myatt singled sharply into center field, went to second on a passed ball, to third on a wild pitch and scored on another passed ball.

THURSDAY'S GAME was the last for the Hawks before their trip to Arizona. They will face the University of Arizona in a six-game series next week.

Iowa opens the Big Ten season against Illinois in a single game April 23.

Iowa City Will Be A 1966 Regional Basketball Site

KANSAS CITY — The NCAA Executive Committee announced Thursday approval of Chicago Stadium as the site for its national basketball championship tournament.

It also announced that UCLA's defending national champions will be hosts to one of the four regional title tournaments next March.

The other regional sites will be: East, North Carolina State at Raleigh; Midwest, University of Iowa at Iowa City; Midwest, Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Northwestern and Loyola will be co-hosts to the finals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association on March 18-19. The regional meets will be held March 11-12.

The executive group said that ticket sales for the Chicago event will be administered solely by Northwestern and all other tournament arrangements will be handled by Northwestern or Loyola.

Bill Russell Helps Celts Take 2-1 Eastern Lead

BOSTON — Bill Russell spurred ball-hawking, sharp-shooting Boston to a 112-94 National Basketball Association playoff victory over Philadelphia Thursday night.

The Celtics moved into a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven Eastern Division finals, which continue tonight on the 76ers' home floor.

Gary Player Takes Masters Tourney Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga. — South Africa's Gary Player carved out a seven-under-par 65 for the first-round lead in the Masters Golf Tournament Thursday.

Another turn of the ball on two-holes — a putt on the second and a magnificent sand blast on the 12th — and the craftsman from Johannesburg would have bettered the Masters record of 64, set by Lloyd Mangrum in the first round in 1940.

Even so, it was Player — without a bogey and flying every approach at the pin like a rifle shot — who led the mass birdie assault on Bob Jones' 6,980-yard, par 72 course.

Houston's 'Wonder' Opens Tonight with Yanks vs. Astros

HOUSTON — Houston is prepared for a history-making occasion — the first professional baseball game to be played indoors.

The $31.6 million Astrodome — the Harris County domed stadium that has been a conversation piece six years — will be opened for the public's edification tonight.

Appropriately enough the New York Yankees, the most famous name in major league baseball, will help the Houston Astros get the giant stadium on its way toward becoming the status symbol of the national pastime.

The big stadium is air-conditioned, thus removing another reason why so many fans have been stay-

City Applies For Youth Corps Project

The office of the City Manager Thursday sent an application to the Department of Labor in Kansas City for participation in a Neighborhood Youth Corps project.

John Adamson, administrative assistant to the city manager, said the project would cost about $50,000. Pending approval by the Department of Labor, the Federal Government would finance 90 percent of the cost. In addition, the city would contribute $18,000 for capital improvements.

The plans call for eight projects to beautify and conserve Iowa City.

Adamson said he anticipated that 36 youths — all male — would be involved in these summer projects.

The program would be headed by Adamson in cooperation with the Iowa State Employment Service and the Johnson County Department of Social Welfare.

The qualified youths would come from families of one or two children having annual incomes of less than $4,000, and families of three or more children having annual incomes of less than $5,000.

Art Exhibition Set For Easter Recess

An exhibition of art works by art faculty members being shown in the Main Gallery of the Art Building will be open to the public during much of the University's Easter recess.

Gallery hours Saturday and Monday through Friday of next week will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Art Building, as well as the Main Gallery, will be closed Sunday, Apr. 11, and Saturday, Apr. 17. Gallery hours on Easter Sunday will be from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

April 23 New Deadline For ROTC Applications

The Department of the Army has announced that the deadline for receipt of applications for the 2-year Army ROTC program is extended to April 23.

Col. William Holm, professor of military science, has new information about the program, which may be obtained by calling x2487.

The traditional ROTC program requires four years, but this new program makes it possible for a student with two years of college remaining to obtain a commission.
