

Regents Okay Fall Faculty Appointments

Colleges of Nursing, Liberal Arts To Add Professors To Staff

DES MOINES — Four appointments to The University of Iowa faculty were approved by the State Board of Regents at its meeting here Friday.

The board also approved three leaves of absence and heard the reports of three resignations.

Named to the faculty were Prof. Myrtle K. Aydelotte, Department of Medical Surgical Nursing, College of Nursing; Frank J. Kosier, to be associate professor of mathematics; Sydney V. James, to be associate professor of history, and Joseph Tenenhaus, to be professor of political science. All appointments are effective next September.

Leaves were granted to Walter Krause, professor of economics, for the first semester of 1965-66; Ralph H. Ojemann, professor, Institute of Child Behavior and Development, from July 1, 1965 to June 30, 1966, to assist the Educational Research Council of Cleveland, and Deil S. Wright, associate professor of political science, for the 1965-66 academic year, to join the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley for the year.

Professor Aydelotte will hold a four-fifths time appointment in the College of Nursing, where she served as dean from 1949 to 1957. She has undertaken several part-time assignments for the college in recent years.

Professor Kosier, 30, is an assistant professor at the University of Wisconsin. He earned the B.S., M.S. and Ph. D. Degrees at Michigan State University, and has taught at the University of California, Syracuse University and Wisconsin. He has written several articles published in professional journals.

A native of Chicago, Professor James, 36, has been on the faculty of the University of Oregon for three years. He earned bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees at Harvard University, and has held other teaching posts at Kent State University, Brown University, and Clark University.

Professor Tenenhaus, 41, is now in the department of government and international relations at New York University, where he was also assistant director for institutional research. He earned three degrees, including the Ph.D. at Cornell University.

The resignations are those of Coleman J. Major, professor, chemical engineering, effective Aug. 31, to become head of chemical engineering at the University of Akron; Ted H. McCarrel, executive dean, Division of Student Services, effective June 30, to become president of Cottey College, Nevada, Mo., and Betty van der Smissen, associate professor, physical education for women, effective at the end of the academic year.

Swami Explains Educational Tour

Swami Chinmayananda, a Hindu leader in India, and guest speaker here Thursday night, is touring the world not only to teach, but also to learn.

"I am going around the world for my own education," the Swami said in an interview before his lecture in Gilmore Hall on "What is Hinduism."

The Swami is the leader of a spiritual rebirth movement taking place in India. He started this movement 12 years ago and since then hasn't had even "one Sunday off" he said.

The Swami, who has an M.A. in English and a law degree, said that India has recently come from 200 years of "slavery" to freedom.

He said, "Seeking ideology some Indian youth, though now a minority, are peeping over the Himalayas and drawing their inspiration therefrom."

"To fight this national tendency we are resurrecting and emphasizing the Hindu culture and philosophy," he said.

The Swami noted that the youth are receiving this cultural rebirth very enthusiastically.

"In this background," he said, "I felt the need to see what materialism and technology is going to give to India with regard to cultural break-up."

The Swami said by seeing these undesirable aspects he could more easily forestall their effect on India.

"This is why I have taken this pilgrimage of love," the Swami said.

The Swami has chosen Bombay as the center of his work for "purely economical reasons." He said that there are people and money in Bombay and there his "boys" will never starve.

He added that Bombay is the communication and travel center of India and this aided his many foreign disciples.

Because some youth are "peeping over the Himalayas" there is an air of urgency for change in India, according to the Swami. "The action of today becomes the destiny of tomorrow."

Flood Threat South Bound

FLOODS WHICH LEFT DEVASTATION in northern Iowa aimed a hard blow at Des Moines and points farther south along the Des Moines River Friday.

A Red Cross spokesman in Des Moines described the situation as "kind of touch and go."

Gov. Harold Hughes on a flying survey of the soggy northern part of the state said, "I have never seen Iowa so wet." He said farm land in north central Iowa, dotted with thousands of tiny lakes left by snow and rain, "looks like the land of 10,000 lakes."

The Red Cross estimated that 350 families were affected by the flood in Des Moines by late Friday.

The Weather Bureau said rivers were receding Friday in their upper reaches but high crests were moving downstream.

The Little Sioux at Cherokee had dropped five feet Friday since its 27.1-foot crest Thursday. Damage was estimated at $2 million.

Violence Protested

SOME 550 NEGROES, PROTESTING what they call Ku Klux Klan violence, marched through Bogalusa, La. on Friday protected by energetic police from jeering whites.

The 1 1/2-mile march, under a blazing afternoon sun, took about 40 minutes.

There was no repetition of the melee that forced police to break up a march during the morning, when a handful of angry segregationists burst in with shouts and sticks. Four men, including an FBI agent and a photographer, were struck in the sudden scuffles.

Education Bill Passed

THE SENATE PASSED AND SENT to President Johnson on Friday night the first broad Federal aid for grade and high schools in the nation's history — a $1.3 billion blueprint to help better educate the children of poor parents.

The bill, the most important measure passed by Congress so far this year, was approved by a 73-18 roll-call vote.

Cardinal Meyer, 62, Dies

ALBERT CARDINAL MEYER, 62, a grocer's son who became a prince of the Roman Catholic Church, died Friday of cancer in Chicago.

Patrolman Hurt in Chase

ROBERT L. GRIMM, 27, of Iowa City, central figure in a bullet-punctuated chase that led officers over two counties Thursday was brought here from Tipton Friday for mental tests.

State Highway Patrolman Richard Ward was knocked unconscious when he tried to arrest Grimm at Stanwood during the chase and when the officer came to in a doctor's office he had a broken nose and a fractured cheekbone. Ward was recovering at University Hospitals here.

Cedar County Sheriff Richard Barden said that Grimm was employed as a draftsman at the University of Iowa and apparently was the rejected suitor of a woman at Olin where the episode began.

Grimm was jailed at Tipton on charges of intent to do great bodily injury.

In Regent Action—

Improvement Projects For Utilities Okayed

DES MOINES — Preliminary plans for three utilities improvement projects at the University were approved by the Board of Regents here Friday.

Steam distribution improvements are planned at eight locations throughout the system. The project will consist of replacing inadequately sized high pressure, low pressure and condensate return lines, and will provide a high pressure link between the north ends of the east and west campus lines. A preliminary budget of $301,000 was approved.

4 Contracts Are Awarded By Regents

DES MOINES — Contracts for work on four projects at the University were awarded by the Board of Regents here Friday.

The projects are construction of a Psychology building and a botany greenhouse, installation of electrical services at three new areas on campus, and installation of laboratory equipment in a new medical research facility.

The Psychology Building will be in front of the central section of East Hall, present home of the Department of Psychology. It will be connected with the south end of the east wing on the ground floor and first two floors. Designed primarily for advanced research, the building will be air conditioned. Funds for the project include $775,634 from the Iowa legislature in 1963, and a grant of $612,366 from the National Science Foundation.

With a total budget of $63,500 to come from legislative appropriations, the greenhouse will be atop the Chemistry-Botany Building. The new unit will be south of the present greenhouse, and will measure 18 by 103 feet.

The University was authorized to seek a matching grant of $23,333 under the federal Higher Education Facilities Act; if granted, it will be applied to the greenhouse project, thus freeing a like amount of state funds for other capital improvements.

Renovation of the heating system in the two west wards on the south side of the General Hospital. It includes replacement of piping and replacement of cast-iron radiators with air-handling units. The preliminary budget is $149,084. The University Architect's Office will be architect and inspection supervisor.

Funds for all three projects will come from appropriations by the Iowa Legislature in 1963.

In other actions the Regents: Approved a $5 per person per day rate for conference delegates staying at the Iowa House in the Union five nights or more, with provision that two delegates must share a room.

Ratified the University's action in petitioning the Iowa City council to annex some 360 acres of University-owned land north of the Hawkeye Apartments.

Regents Question Spartan Standards

By JON VAN Staff Writer

DES MOINES — Dormitories — plain and fancy, Spartan and spacious — dominated discussion at Friday morning's Board of Regents meeting here.

President Howard Bowen began discussion by presenting plans for a $680-a-year dorm in compliance with a March request by the Regents for such a report.

Bowen said the proposed buildings, designed to house and feed 1,200 students, must meet basic standards of good construction.

"WE JUST don't need slums or second rate buildings at the University of Iowa at this time," he said.

Standards mentioned by the president include good appearance and good taste to enhance the campus, construction quality comparable to the Quad addition — good partitions, ease of installing air conditioning and not more than two students to a room.

The rooms described in the plan would allow about 70 feet of space per person. Telephones, linen, blankets, cleaning service, parking lots, floor lounges, study rooms and laundries are not included in plans for the cut rate dorms.

Bowen said the rooms could be converted to singles in the future if demand for low cost housing decreases. If more services are desired, a general "commons hall" could be built to service a cluster of dorms.

THE BUILDINGS are expected to last 100 years, the president told the Regents, and they must be adaptable to future as well as present standards.

"In building for the next century, it is necessary to incorporate standards that will not immediately become obsolete," he said.

"For example, it is doubtful economy to build any structure today that isn't air-conditioned or in which air conditioning can't be easily added."

Bowen said he does not think lower rates, more scholarships or more work opportunities are the answer to providing a college education for underprivileged youth.

"The most efficient way to reach these people," he told the Board, "is through an aggressive recruitment program beginning long before they are ready for college. This problem is more a lack of background and interest than always a lack of money."

AFTER HEARING Bowen's outline of the spartan coed dorm, A. W. Noehren, Board president, expressed displeasure with the plan.

"We aren't building a spot at Fort Madison (the state prison)," he said. "They have better rooms there."

Bowen told the Regents he will take a personal interest in the dorm project which now goes to Brooks-Borg, a Des Moines architectural firm, for preliminary design. He said he will work with the architect to see they come up with plans meeting the cost requirements set by the Regents and also his own building requirements.

THE REGENTS ALSO awarded contracts to other Des Moines architects for the design of low cost married student housing apartments and low cost graduate dormitories.

Bowen said these projects were part of his drive for variety in University housing.

Plans for a conventional-cost dormitory for both males and coeds also got the go ahead from the Regents. This unit is the so-called Melrose Dormitory.

The timetable for dorm construction calls for the completion of the Currier addition and Quadrangle remodeling by next fall adding 740 beds to the system.

THE QUADRANGLE addition is scheduled to add 540 beds in 1966; Melrose will add 1,700 in 1967; 1,200 in a low cost coed dorm will be added by 1968; 500 Hawkeye apartment units and 600 low cost married student units are planned by 1968.

Bowen's long range dorm building plans call for a variety of construction providing 2,700 more married student units and 9,250 more single student units by 1975.

THE REGENTS discussed briefly the retirement bill passed by the State Senate Wednesday. Most officials present said they are unhappy with the bill.

After the brief discussion, the Board finished its official business and retired into closed executive session. No statement was issued after the closed session.

Lost Plane Taxicab Into Gas Station, Tanks Up, Departs

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Gayle Ingram, who runs a filling station, will accept whatever business comes his way. Even airplanes.

Ingram was working around the station in a suburban area Thursday when a plane pulled off the busy freeway and to his station. It was piloted by Larry Lilley, a motorcycle dealer in Lancaster, Calif.

Lilley lost his bearings during an early fog and dropped down to the pavement.

Ingram said, "I think we did a pretty good job. We wiped off his windshield real good — it had a lot of bugs on it — and put in about 12 gallons of gas."

Lilley parked the plane at the station and went for breakfast. When the fog lifted, sheriff's officers halted traffic on the freeway while Lilley took off.

Up and Ran?

It looks as though workmen abandoned their work in a hurry as these shovels were found surrounded by flood waters of the Blue Earth River in the LeHillier section of Mankato, Minn. Homes in the background appear to have suffered a fate similar to that of the shovels. Mayor Ray Eckes of North Mankato has ordered 5,000 residents out of that area as a precautionary measure. The local warning has indicated that the dikes along the river banks might break against the swirling waters at any moment. The Minnesota River has already forced 8,000 persons out of their homes Friday night with a higher crest expected today.

Tracking Station To Move, Avoid High Power Line

The University's satellite tracking station 11 miles south of Iowa City will have to be moved to avoid radio interference from a high power line, the Board of Regents was told Friday.

The cost of moving a 28-foot dish antenna and other electronic equipment, estimated at up to $85,000, will be paid by the power companies building the line, according to University officials.

An optical telescope at the tracking site will not have to be moved.

Electromagnetic impulses from the power line would disturb radio astronomy and reception from satellites. The tracking equipment is used to receive data from the University's Injun IV satellite.

The University bought the land for the tracking station, which is near Hills, in September 1963. Officials learned of planned power line in the summer of 1964.

The line would come within a half mile of the tracking station. Rerouting the line would cost the power companies approximately $200,000.

The tracking equipment will be moved before the 345,000-volt power line opens in May 1967. The Macbride Field Campus in the Coralville Reservoir area has been suggested as a possible new site.

Hours Listed For Library

Hours the Main Library will be open during Easter vacation are:

Saturday, April 10, 7:30 a.m.-noon

Sunday, April 11, closed all day

Monday, April 12 through Friday, April 16, 7:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Saturday, April 17, 7:30 a.m.-noon

Sunday, April 18, closed all day

Service desks will open each day at 8 a.m. Departmental libraries will have separate schedules. The Main Library will resume its regular hours on Monday, April 19.

Reservoir Is Filling Rapidly

No Flooding Danger Seen

The Coralville Reservoir is rising rapidly, but there is no flood threat to the Iowa City area, according to John Story, resident manager at Coralville Dam.

The reservoir was at 692.8 feet Friday, up about 2.6 feet from Thursday. Story said the reservoir could hold much more.

Outflow from the dam is being controlled at 9,000 cubic feet per second. This keeps a constant flow in the Iowa River through Iowa City.

Because of the debris in the reservoir and the obstacles hidden by high water, authorities have advised persons not to bring their boats to the reservoir this weekend. An extreme hazard exists for small craft, the authorities said.

Construction at the Mehaffey Bridge site has been stopped by the high water. Two coffer dams and at least one power line at the site are under water.

No Flood Threat... Yet

A good place for looking at the high water Friday was the Coralville power dam, where the water had overflowed the concrete barrier while sweeping through the brush. The level of the water below the dam was only a few feet lower than above. —Photo by Peggy Myers

Senate proposal going against common sense

THE IOWA SENATE passed a bill Wednesday which would require state employees, with a few exceptions, to retire at the age of 65, unless approval for longer employment was made by both the department head and the state executive council.

From the language of the legislation — which refers to "department heads" — it would seem that the Board of Regents institutions would not be included under the act, but a strict legal interpretation shows that the state educational institutions are indeed included.

An amendment to the bill, which would have exempted Regents institutions and several other groups, was defeated.

The current retirement age for employees at the University is now 68. If the Senate bill were enacted into law as is, it would immediately affect 34 faculty and 179 general service staff employees here.

The Senate bill is detrimental to both the welfare of the faculty and the welfare of the University as a whole. Under the bill, if a faculty member were allowed to work after the age of 65, he could only be hired on a year to year basis. We don't know all the ins and outs of the subject, but this would seem to wreak havoc with tenure and retirement plans for the faculty.

Even more generally, most faculty members still have a valuable contribution to make to the field of teaching and research at the University at the age of 65. Three extra years may not seem like a terribly long time, but the contributions that can be made in that time are invaluable.

At a time when competition for teachers is becoming more and more fierce and enrollment increases threaten to create a crisis in the form of a teacher shortage, it seems ludicrous to enact measures which would limit the number of teachers. Faculty members who would be affected by such a measure are also precisely the teachers who have shown their excellence through the years.

The Senate seems to have gone ahead and passed a measure, without careful consideration of all the consequences and without access to a great deal of very pertinent information. Hopefully, when the measure is discussed by the Iowa House, enough time will be taken to hear all the evidence and consult with the state experts in higher education — the Board of Regents.

What the Senate has done is create a lot of extra work through some sloppy work. The House must correct it.

Out-of-date savings

IN THE SEPT. 24, 1964, Nation, Ralph Lee Smith wrote about "America's Poorest Buy" — postal savings. As far as the affluent and knowledgeable middle class is concerned, the postal savings system is as extinct as the dinosaur, although many of the older members remember when they deposited all the law would allow in a postal savings account. That was in the 1930's, when commercial banks were failing right and left — with no Federal insurance for the depositors. But that was long ago.

Apparently Mr. Smith's article served to remind official Washington that it might be time to take an updated look at postal savings. In a recent report, Postmaster General John A. Gronuski has recommended that the postal savings program be eliminated. At two per cent interest, he says, "we're doing the people a disservice when they can go across the street and earn more." There are still a little over a million depositors, with total deposits of $416 million. Whether eliminating postal savings is the best or the only way to help these small depositors, many of whom are concentrated in rural areas of the South, may be debatable; but it is quite clear that they have not been receiving an adequate interest rate on their meager savings for more than a decade. That, after all, was Mr. Smith's main point, and it is good to hear it echoed by the Postmaster himself.

Letters to the editor— In the season's spirit he creates a Ninny award

To the Editor: This seems to be the age of awards. We have the Oscar, the Emmy, the Peabody award, just to name a few. I would like to propose a new one. It will be called the NINNY. It consists of a beautiful handwritten scroll and the knowledge that you have been a complete NINNY. The awards are given for a variety of categories so as to make us all eligible. So here they are, and I hope I haven't let anyone out.

Best War Movie — The Vietnam pickets who were routed by an enraged squirrel during the Battle of Old Capitol.

Best Wardrobe — Goes to Lamar Twink, who, during the Civil Rights March at the Post Office, made all the boys think he was a girl and all the girls think he was a boy. Nice going Lamar.

The Charles de Gaulle award — To the ice cream store that sells ice cream for $5 an ounce.

Best Crime Show — The Iowa City Meter Maids.

The Orville Freeman award — To the City Street Department for trying to enter Dubuque street in the soil bank.

Best Magic Act — Again the Iowa City Street Department for making the street sweepers disappear for 360 days a year.

Literary award — To the girl in the march at the Post Office who carried the sign with Christ spelled Crist.

Best Foreign Language Film — Macbeth.

Best Taste award — Goes to Irving Fudd who enjoys the taste of the water here.

The Bravery award — To Semour Gass who rid his apartment of cockroaches. Semour cooks and eats them.

The Meanest Single Person award — To Semour's landlord, who threw Semour out because there was no cooking privilege clause in his lease.

The Sincerity award — The Vietnam pickets who ran the 440 yard dash in 48 seconds to be to the Civil Rights march at the Post Office on time.

The Best Citizen award — To Elmo Tunk, an Imperial Snake in the K.K.K., currently an unemployed chicken plucker with an IQ of 52, who penned these words: "I am better then color peopl any day becose I am wite."

The Mean Award for a Group — The U.S. in Vietnam for killing all those poor Communists.

Best Athletic Performance — Goes to Melbourne Fonky who tore six muscles, sprained both ankles, and wrenched his back trying to escape when he was dragged from the picket line and exposed to a bar of soap and a razor. Quite a shock, huh Melbourne?

Best Book award — To Mildew Stench who spent three years in her Burge Hall closet writing her hit book on how to catch a husband. Good luck Milly.

Best Use of Logic award — To the Iowa City lawyer who said that the banning of the obnoxious, disturbing sound-trucks would be violating free speech.

The Nice Try award — To Mimsey Fratch for standing in the street outside his business and yelling, "buy from my store." Mimsey was arrested for all of things, disturbing the peace.

Best Bargain award — To Irving, a Jewish squirrel who successfully fought discrimination in his ranks.

Dirty Guy award — To Fester, a socialist squirrel who made Irving share his sandwich with the rest.

Best Crime performance by Two — The Big Ten referees at certain basketball games.

Best Snow Job of the Year — To Ross Barnett.

Best Vocal Group — The swell group of students who screamed Freedom-now, Freedom-now, at Ross as he was leaving in his car.

The Most Ignorant award — To Percy Clodd, who was heard to say, "I can't see how the sit-in at the White House or the lay-in on Pennsylvania Avenue can give the Civil Rights movement dignity." Fie on you Percy!

The Rum Dum award — To me for writing this. That's all for now, it's enough anyway isn't it? Richard A. Herd, G 515 S. Johnson St.

Take it away!— Like LBJ, can't afford tax cut

By ART BUCHWALD

It was very heartening to discover the other day that President Johnson had to borrow money to pay his income taxes for 1964. I wish the President no ill will and my heart goes out to anyone who has to borrow money to pay taxes, particularly myself, but in this case the President started all the trouble, and he has only himself to blame.

As I see it, everyone's troubles began because of the tax cut the President instituted. Before he started talking cuts, most Americans were so numb paying taxes that they didn't even think about it. Every time their wives said they wanted to buy something, the husbands would bark, "You can't. We're in terrible trouble on taxes."

All of us had made up our minds there was no out, and we were getting used to our standard of living, no matter what it was.

Then, with the election coming along, the President in an impassioned plea asked Congress to give the American people tax relief. He said that if taxes were reduced the economy would be given a great impetus. He promised that people would spend more money, the gross national product would soar, jobs would be created, and America would be a better country for 'us all.

CONGRESS RESPONDED, as it usually does when the President speaks, and after only a moderate job of arm-twisting, the President's tax-cut bill was passed.

The President was overjoyed and he signed the bill while cameras turned and photo bulbs flashed.

The ink was hardly dry on the paper when American wives went berserk. They started looking for new homes, new furniture, they ordered new draperies, new automobiles, they took their kids out of public schools and put them in private schools.

Many wives decided to go to Europe, other wives gave large black-tie dinner parties. The economy zoomed as the President predicted. The gross national product increased, employment went up, and everyone at the White House said, "Mr. President, you've done it again."

BUT NO ONE ever bothered to check how much the tax cut would mean to each individual. All we kept reading about was an $11,500,000 tax cut, and so every wife in America thought each husband was entitled to the $11,500,000.

No one bothered to pro-rate it. When they finally did, they discovered their tax cut came to about $18.90.

By this time it was too late. Mortgages had been signed, car financing had been arranged, department stores refused to take back the furniture. Everyone's living standard had risen and no one wanted to go back to the pre-tax-cut days.

So here we are in the midst of the biggest boom in American history and everyone from the President of the United States down is eyeball-to-eyeball with his bank, all because Lyndon Johnson wanted the American people to have a tax cut.

If he had just left us alone, we could have all made our tax payments this year.

WHAT WORRIES me more than anything is that Sheldon Cohen, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has just promised tax relief to those who can't make their payments on time. When my wife read about this, she said, "Well, as long as they don't want the money right away, I think I'll buy a new rug."

Please, Mr. President, don't talk about any more tax relief. None of us can afford it.

Barnett defends his comparison of U.S., Nazi war propaganda

To the Editor: Several D.I. letters have made reference to a comment I made regarding the similarity between the official U.S. line on Vietnam, as revealed in a recent State Department white paper, and Herr Goebbels' Nazi propaganda. I have expressed the view that this analogy was "vicious."

While an analogy such as this might be assessed as to its utility, validity and relevance in scientific explanation and exposition — for the purpose of revealing the objective nature of the phenomenon under investigation — it serves no useful purpose to label it "virtuous" or "vicious."

The proper referent for such terms is the behavior or phenomenon being viewed and examined. In this regard, it might be argued that that propaganda is "vicious" which, among other things, so distorts the objective reality under consideration as to lead its believers to engage in or sanction acts of violence and aggression against other persons, populations or nations.

Using this criterion, I believe the analogy between Nazi war propaganda and current U.S. war propaganda to be useful, valid and relevant. Both have used (and one is still using) distortion in such a manner as to incite, direct and sanction acts of violence which, to the well-informed and humane, stand convicted as unjustifiable and criminal. Both are legitimately and equally condemned by world opinion as "vicious."

While most are aware of the distortions in Nazi propaganda, where they lay the equivalent "big lies" in current U.S. propaganda regarding Vietnam? Big lies, prepared for mass consumption, are generally quite simple in their composition, being reduced for ready digestion often to the level catch phrases and cliches. In the U.S. today, those distortions regarding Vietnam which stand justly accused as being vicious as well as false are as follows.

Big Lie No. 1: "The U.S. is justly defending the interests of the free world by defending South Vietnam against the militant expansionism of Red China."

Big Lie No. 2: "The insurgency in South Vietnam is being directed, manned and supplied by the North Vietnam aggressors."

Big Lie No. 3: "U.S. military actions in Vietnam, both North and South, are designed simply to defend the South Vietnamese people and their free and democratic institutions against Red Viet Cong terror."

Big Lie No. 4: "The U.S. seeks no special privilege, no economic gains, no political dominion in Southeast Asia."

Big Lie No. 5: "The U.S. seeks no wider war; it seeks only peace with honor."

Campus Notes

GRANT AWARDED
Kristi Hervig, A4, Iowa City was awarded a $1,200 grant to study music in Paris next fall.

She received one of the Harriet Hale Wooley grants given to three American music students and two art students, ages 21-35, each year. The stipend will pay for room, board and tuition for an academic year in Paris.

Miss Hervig will live at the Foundation des Etats-Unis, the American unit in an international sítare, which consists of units from "campus" called the Cite Universitaires.

Majoring in violin, Miss Hervig is the daughter of Professor Richard Hervig, head of the Composition Department in the U of I School of Music.

FORENSICS ATTENDED
Three students will attend the Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha forensics conference Sunday through Wednesday at Indiana University.

They are Paul Fiala, A2, and Ronald Marek, A2, both of Cedar Rapids, and Richard Pundt, A3, Homestead.

Representatives from approximately 100 schools will meet at the convention and participate in a debate tournament, student congress, and individual speaking events. The U of I students will participate in the student congress which will consider the topic "Should the Congress of the United States be Internally Reorganized?"

DSR-TKA is a national honorary forensics fraternity.

ENGLISH COLLOQUIUM
S. Frederic Will will lecture on "Flutes and Syntax: Notes on Palamas" April 14 at 3:30 p.m. in the House Chamber of Old Capitol. His lecture is sponsored by the English Colloquium for graduate students.

Iowa Artists Exhibit Prints At Ohio School

Intaglio prints by eleven members of the Iowa Print Group were shown at the Sixth National Exhibition of Prints and Drawings at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio, March 9-April 6.

The show included 151 works by artists in 34 states. Of the 151 people represented in the show, 29 are current or former students in printmaking at the University of Iowa.

Of eleven prizes awarded, six were received by persons who are now at the University or who received their training here. They include:

Ross Johnson, G, Iowa City, represented by "Trees"; Mauricio Lasansky, professor of printmaking, represented by "El Cardenal"; Virginia Myers, instructor in printmaking, represented by "The Secret"; Ivan Schieferdecker, MFA, 1964, Bowling Green, Ky., represented by "View from Riverside"; Lynn Schroeder, MFA, 1959, Tucson, Ariz., represented by "Fallen"; and Alan Weinstein, MFA, 1964, represented by "Young Woman." Weinstein is currently traveling in Europe.

Other printmakers currently studying or teaching here and included in the show are: Keith Achepohl, instructor in printmaking; John Bissell, Kay Cassill, Susan B. Hale, Olympia Ogilvie, Marilyn R. Smith and Jonathan Waite, all Iowa City graduate students, and Victor Femenias, A2, Iowa City.

7 Math Faculty To Attend Meeting

Seven members of the faculty of the Department of Mathematics are attending meetings of the American Mathematical Society in Chicago today.

They are Sterling K. Berberian, professor; Michael A. Geraghty, assistant professor; James F. Jakobsen, associate professor; Harry T. Mully, department chairman; Robert H. Oehmke, professor; Rolando E. Peinado, assistant professor; and Drury W. Wall, professor.

U of I Coed Spends 'Week in Washington'

Julie A. Walters, A2, Iowa City, was the guest of Rep. John R. Schmidhauser (D-Iowa) for the "Week in Washington" program. Those attending the program were instructed on legislative procedures, visited the State Department and Congress in session and toured the White House and the Russian Embassy.

JAMAICA CUTS TRADE—
KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Jamaica's trade with Japan is to be restricted because of adverse balance. Official figures show Jamaica in 1963 imported about $11.4 million in goods from Japan and exported only about $442,000 worth to Japan.

Startled Starlings

It's for the birds. At least that's what the birds thought about trees in the Iowa City area. Flocks of starlings have passed over Iowa City for several weeks, pausing only long enough to roost in the trees and irritate city residents.

Symphony Concerts Slated

As a result of its great popularity with Iowa City audiences, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra will present three concerts at The University of Iowa this year, rather than its traditional two programs.

Included in this year's concerts, to be presented April 27-28, are works ranging from Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony to Bartok's 1943 "Concerto for Orchestra."

Ticket distribution to University students and staff members will begin April 21 at the east information desk of the Iowa Memorial Union. Any tickets remaining for the April 27 program will be on sale to the public on April 24 at $2 each. Tickets remaining for the April 28 programs by April 26 will also be available to the public.

At 8 p.m. April 27, Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, will direct Bartok's "Concerto for Orchestra" and Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 "Eroica."

The next afternoon at 2:30 p.m., Skrowaczewski will conduct Hindemith's "Concert Music for Strings and Brass Instruments," Berlioz' "Symphonie Fantastique," and "Oiseaux Exotiques," by the contemporary French composer and organist Messiaen.

At 8 p.m. April 28, James Dixon, director of the University Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the Minneapolis Symphony in Debussy's "La Mer," Sibelius, "The Swan of Tuonela," and Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 5." Dixon was assistant conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra in 1961-62.

This year's concert, a presentation of the U of I Concert Course, is an annual event for the Minneapolis Symphony, which has given concerts at the University for more than 20 years.

Theft Reported At Field House

Robert W. Peters, A2, Carroll, told Campus Police that his billfold containing $12 in cash and $45 in checks was stolen from his trousers Wednesday.

Peters said he was weighting himself in the locker room of the Field House and had left his trousers for a short while when the theft occurred. He estimated that the billfold had been taken between 3:30 and 3:40 p.m.

Another theft from a locker in the Parklawn Apartments was reported to Campus Police. Edward A. Koe, G, Phoenix, said his locker in the basement of the apartments was entered sometime between January 2 and April 6.

He said a piece of luggage filled with summer clothes and a small tent were taken. He valued the items at $125. Entry was apparently gained by removing the door of the locker, police said.

Car Owners Say Windows Broken By Pop Bottles

At least three car windows were broken by vandals Thursday night or Friday morning in Iowa City.

Douglas Kock, 1125 E. Church St., told police a pop bottle was thrown through the left front window of his car during the night while it was parked in front of his home.

Richard J. Sweeney, 130 E. Jefferson St., told police a pop bottle was thrown through the same window of his car after 9 p.m. Thursday. He said the car was parked south of the Medical Laboratories.

Mrs. Douglas Cushing, 1821 Rochester Ct., reported that the windshield of her car was smashed during the night by what appeared to have been a ball bat. She said damage was $90 to $100.

LOANS INCREASE—
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Loans to government workers planning Holy Week vacations are three times normal, officials report, and pawnshop and bank business has increased. The Institute of Security and Social Services for State Workers reports loans amount to about $240,000 a day.

Cadets Slate Base Visit April 12-14

Seventeen Air Force ROTC cadets will visit Andrews Air Force Base, Baltimore, Md., next week. The cadets are scheduled to leave Iowa City Sunday morning and return Wednesday.

Besides touring the base, the cadets will participate in the 17th Annual National Arnold Air Society Conclave in Washington, D.C., April 12-14.

Escort officer for the group is Maj. Norris W. Overton, associate professor of Air Science.

The cadets making the trip are Lynn A. Carroll, A1, Wheatland; George E. Cleppe, E1, Belle Plaine; Charles E. Collins, E1, Cedar Rapids; Michael D. Farrier, A1, Columbus Junction; Michael L. Hogan, A1, Lansing; William G. Hones, A1, McLean, Va.; Charles Houdesheldt, E2, Keosauqua; Norman L. Hytchecker, A1, Wheatland.

Other cadets are Douglas V. Johnson, A3, Cedar Rapids; Richard P. Matzen, A2, Arlington Heights, Ill.; Jan M. Maly, A1, Cedar Rapids; Robert L. Mantz, A1, Marengo; Patrick Mason, A1, Austin, Minn.; Donald L. McCaw, E1, Marengo; Melvin G. Paisley, A1, Independence, Iowa; John A. Rihard, A1, Belle Plaine; and David Tom, A1, Wahiawa, Hawaii.

Also attending the Air Society conclave will be twelve cadets and members of Angel Flight; Col. Brooks W. Booker Jr., professor and head of Air Science; and Capt. Allen G. Lincoln, assistant professor of Air Science.

Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity Gives Award to Stinard

Roger D. Stinard, A4, Glenwood, has been selected by the members of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity to receive the Summerfield Scholarship of the Year award. The $100 award is given annually in each of the 63 chapters of the fraternity to the member who has a good scholarship record and has demonstrated leadership qualities.

Musicals Slated For ISU Pageant

"Great Adventurers" will be the general theme of Veishea '65 on the Iowa State University campus, Ames, May 6-8.

Special events will include the Iowa State Players production "The Pursuit of Happiness" (evening performances May 5, 6, and 7 and matinee performances May 7 and 8); the Veishea Dance featuring Tony Martier's band May 7; and the Stars Over Veishea presentation of Meredith Willson's Broadway musical "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," May 5, 6, and 7; and Cyclone Review, a student produced show, May 7 and 8.

The televised Veishea Parade will be held May 8.

Originated in 1922, Veishea derived its name from the first letters of the five college divisions of the University at that time: Veterinary Medicine, Engineering, Industrial Science, Home Economics, and Agriculture.

Courses Open To Freshmen

Summer Program Expanded

More than 1,000 courses and institutes covering nearly every field of interest will be offered this summer at the University.

An estimated 6,000 persons are expected to enroll for the summer session. The session will run from June 8 through Aug. 25.

This year's summer program is from June 8 through Aug. 4 and the most extensive ever offered to U of I students. Approximately 950 courses will be offered during the eight-week session and 34 during the 12-week session.

For the first time, the 12-week session will include a full offering of classes for entering freshmen. Intermediate courses also will be offered in mathematics, chemistry and foreign languages.

The extended session is designed to permit students to earn a bachelor's degree in three calendar years. It also enables students in professional schools to complete prerequisite courses sooner.

Workshops and special programs for the 1965 summer session will include a number of off-campus conferences. Institutes on campus include workshops in teaching fields, — Latin, geography, social studies, mathematics, English, journalism, speech, sports and music. Programs also will be held for outstanding high school science, journalism, speech and music students.

The 27th annual Fine Arts Festival will be presented on campus June 8-Aug. 4. The festival will include four repertory plays, concerts, a major opera production, art exhibitions and lectures. The usual academic program for the 12-week session is 12 semester hours of credit. Tuition fees for Iowa residents in the College of Liberal Arts will be $120 for 10 or more semester hours.

Persons planning to register for admission to a program leading to a graduate degree should file an application by May 1. The final application date is May 27.

Further information may be obtained by writing Donald H. Rhoades, director of admission and registrar, The University of Iowa, Iowa City.

U-Heights Builders Consider Protests

The developers of a 72-unit apartment building in Melrose Park west of University Heights said Thursday night they were doing all they could to meet the protests of nearby homeowners.

Joseph Morrissey, St. Louis, representative of the Muscatine Development Co., told town residents his firm would spend $10,000 to $15,000 to screen the apartment building from the houses to the east.

Homeowners in the area have protested the building plans during the past year, though there was no opposition when the area was rezoned to allow apartments in August 1962.

University Heights has almost completed single-family residential zoning.

Morrissey said that trees will be planted screening the apartments from the homes and that the building would be about 150 feet from the nearest house. A 25-foot roadway will be built for access to the apartments, Morrissey said.

Construction on the building will begin in several weeks, according to the developers. Morrissey said the apartments would not open before the area is officially annexed to Iowa City.

Morrissey said that the apartments were definitely going to be built. He said he has already paid more than $50,000 for the property and more than $4,000 in fees to support the case in court.

Funerals Decrease In Past 25 Years

The Iowa State Department of Social Welfare reports a downward trend in the number of funeral claims and in the ratio of funeral claims to death over the past 25 years.

W. F. Rauscher, director of the Division of Research and Statistics, said the decreasing per cent of funeral claims is the result of a larger proportion of recipients having burial contracts. The increase in the number of deaths per thousand, he said, is accounted for by the fact that the average age of recipients is older than in 1938-39.
