Australia May Enter Viet War

THE AUSTRALIAN GOVERNMENT IS PREPARING to send an Australian army combat unit to South Viet Nam.

The cabinet has discussed the step and Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies may make a statement later Thursday.

The force, which may number up to 800 men, will be available for combat duties with U.S. and South Vietnamese troops, government sources said.

Australia's contribution to aiding South Viet Nam has been confined to providing army jungle fighting advisers, of whom there are presently 100 there.

Flood Crest Pounds Quad-Cities

THE CREST OF THE MOST disastrous Mississippi River flood in history pounded Wednesday at weakened levees protecting the Quad-Cities of Illinois and Iowa from further inundation.

Farther downstream, the surging river continued to rise to record heights, bursting dikes and spreading fresh havoc to farm, industrial and residential areas on both sides of the stream.

SNCC To Launch Vote Drive

NEGRO VOTER REGISTRATION EFFORTS in the South will receive a helping hand during the summer from members of the local Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), according to Edward W. Spannaus, A4, Elmhurst, Ill., president of the campus organization.

In addition to voter registration, organizing efforts will include creation of "freedom schools" and a "Washington lobby" in support of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party (MDFP).

According to Spannaus, some 1,000 students are being recruited to lobby in Washington June 13-23 and June 24 to July 4.

At the same time, Spannaus said, students will be undergoing "orientation" for work in the South.

Spannaus said that booths will be set up on campus next month in an effort to raise money for the FDP and for students who will participate in voter registration in the South this summer.

G.M. Nets Highest Profits Ever

GENERAL MOTORS REPORTED Wednesday in Detroit the biggest first-quarter earnings ever made by an American corporation.

Profits totaled $636 million, far ahead of the old U.S. industry first-quarter high of $536 million which GM set last year. It also marked a new high for any GM quarter, shattering the old mark of $602 million set in the second quarter of 1964.

GM workers around the world earned more than they ever got before. Their number totaled 737,963 and they were paid $1.3 billion in the opening quarter.

To Aid Americans On Island Hotspot

Late Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Wednesday night asked for an emergency meeting of the council of the Organization of American States to discuss the Dominican crisis.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Wednesday night that 400 U.S. Marines had been landed in the Dominican Republic to escort Americans there to safety.

Dominican officials said they could no longer guarantee the safety of the Americans, the President said.

Johnson said the Marines landed without encountering any resistance.

"Gen. Wheeler, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has just reported to me there have been no incidents," Johnson said.

He announced the action on a quickly arranged radio-television broadcast.

THE MARINES landed to serve no cause except to protect Americans, and they will stay as long as necessary for this mission, U.S. officials said later Wednesday night.

Officials said most of the Marines are at a polo ground outside the capital city which is being used as an assembly point for evacuating Americans.

Late Wednesday night, the United States asked for an emergency meeting of the OAS council. The meeting was called for 10 a.m. Thursday to discuss the Dominican situation.

The President said he wanted to repeat his "urgent appeal" for a cease-fire in the Dominican Republic in the interest of all persons there.

He said the Council of the Organization of American States had been advised of the situation by the ambassador of the Dominican Republic and will be kept informed.

JOHNSON SAID, after meeting with congressional leaders of both parties, that they had "expressed their support for these decisions."

He said Dominican authorities had informed the U.S. government that "American lives are in danger" as a result of four days of internal fighting between rival Dominican Republic factions.

Johnson announced the landing of the Marines after an emergency White House conference with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

He said U.S. assistance will be available to nationals of other countries in the Dominican Republic.

THE FIGHTING there started over efforts of followers of former President Juan Bosch to bring him back into office to replace the military junta which ousted him.

Meanwhile, Dominican air force planes renewed strafing attacks on Santo Domingo Wednesday in efforts to crush stubborn resistance by forces loyal to ex-president Juan Bosch.

A broadcast from the San Isidro air base said the attacks, which lasted 45 minutes, were aimed at ammunition depots in the northern part of the capital.

Armed civilians led a fight in the center of the city in what appeared to be a forlorn hope to restore Bosch to the presidency. They sniped from buildings and in the Ciudad Nueva low-cost housing project.

2 Reported Dead In Viet Fighting, Strikes Continue

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Bitter fighting in the Mekong delta left two U.S. Army advisers dead and a third wounded, a U.S. military spokesman reported Thursday.

Government sources claimed a victory in a separate delta battle aimed at smashing a Viet Cong guerrilla training center.

The two engagements left 12 government dead and 39 wounded. The Viet Cong reportedly left 60 dead in the field.

In the continuing air war, U.S. Air Force B57 light jet bombers carried out a midnight attack on North Viet Nam and after raids ended early Thursday reported moderate success in blasting three highways.

Exam Change Deadline Set For May 13

According to the University calendar, regular classes will remain in session through May 24.

No student will be required to take more than three exams in one day. Undergraduates with two exams scheduled for the same period, or more than three exams scheduled for the same day, may request a change at the Registrar's Office.

All such requests must be filed by 4 p.m. May 13.

Graduate students should arrange for necessary adjustments directly with their instructors.

Courses having lower department numbers take precedence over those with higher department numbers in case of conflict. If the conflict is within a department, the course with the lower number takes precedence.

Single section courses take precedence over multi-section courses regardless of course number.

Final examination periods are to begin on the hour and last for one hour and 50 minutes.

The final schedule was prepared by the University Examinations Service and the Division of Student Services.

In compiling the schedule, care was taken to separate multiple and single section courses from each other, according to Charles Stalter, director of the Examinations Service.

The only possible conflicts are those involving courses listed under the heading "All sections of ...", Stalter said.

Trade School Bill Passes Iowa Senate

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill to allow establishment of area vocational-technical schools and colleges in Iowa won 45-12 approval of the Senate Wednesday, with its embattled local property tax provisions intact.

The way for passage was cleared Wednesday afternoon by an apparent deal, exchanging approval of the property tax provisions for an increase in state aid to the schools which would help reduce the need for local tax support.

The bill was essentially unchanged from the version introduced by the Senate Education Committee except for an amendment raising from $1.50 to $2.25 per day the amount of state aid allowed each school for each student in average daily attendance.

Sen. Vern Lisle (R-Clarinda) sponsor of the amendment to boost state aid said the higher figure would approximately match the cost of operating one of the schools.

The bill authorizes creation of up to 20 areas of two or more counties each, each area governed by a board with one board member elected from each county.

The area board could levy one mill of property tax to operate the school and, with approval of 60 per cent of the area's voters, levy one additional mill to finance school buildings.

Gov. Harold Hughes is asking the legislature to appropriate $6 million to be parceled out to four areas setting up the schools. A committee would be created to decide which areas get the money.

Accident Victim In Good Condition

Carolyn McCabe, A3, New London, who was injured in a car-motorcycle accident Tuesday night, was listed in good condition with a head injury Wednesday evening at University Hospitals.

Miss McCabe was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by John K. Howerton, A2, Bettendorf, when it collided with a car driven by Delbert W. Swan, P2, Fairfield, police said. The accident happened in front of Burge Hall about 11 p.m.

Police charged Swan with failure to yield when emerging from an alley.

'Spectra': A Supershow For Mothers

This final week—merciless affair

FINAL WEEK this spring will be sans mercy day. May 25, a Monday, is the last day of classes and May 26 is the first day of finals.

Technically, there was no mercy day last spring either. But Memorial Day, which is a day without finals, an official University holiday, fell closer to the beginning of the examination period.

Memorial Day this year will provide students with a holiday from finals, but it will be observed May 31, a Monday. After the holiday, there will only be two days of finals left.

The absence of a mercy day close to the beginning of finals puts extra pressure on students who have tests in the first few days.

Professors are not expected to slack off for that last day of class and many of them may even be introducing new material.

Technically, we suppose there is really nothing anyone can do about the situation. A certain number of class days are required and the Administration certainly has little control over the date Memorial Day is celebrated on.

Unless the University wanted to act toward Memorial Day the way that some of the eastern Iowa cities are acting toward the Daylight Savings Issue — instead of "summer hours," perhaps there could be "summer Memorial Day" — the situation will remain the same.

And in a few more years, the calendar will come round again so that the respite between classes and finals will be more meaningful.

Perhaps we are wrong in thinking that students are concerned with the matter. Or maybe no one has dared think that far ahead.

At any rate, there is no real constructive suggestion to be made. Just a sort of general protest and fond longing.

Who's informed?

REP. SILVIO CONTE made an interesting comment Monday when he was on campus for the Political Affairs Conference. He said he thinks the Vietnamese war has been one of the best covered pieces of overseas news he can remember.

We'll have to agree that Viet Nam has been getting its full share of coverage, but we're not so sure the coverage has been the best, or even very good.

Great quantities of words do not add up to information and it takes more than statements from the White House to spell out understanding.

Robert Emson, director of Asia services for the Associated Press, has been critical of U.S. policies in Viet Nam which prevent newsmen from talking to military personnel when not in the presence of an "information officer."

Emson and other newsmen have been critical of other U.S. policies which segregate newsmen from military personnel while off duty. Meanwhile Barry Zorthian, head of Saigon's U.S. information center, has been critical of news stories which do not violate security, but which put America in a bad light.

There are a number of official words printed everyday addressed to the Viet Nam question, but getting first hand information into print is another problem. When something goes well for the United States, it is reported very satisfactorily. When things go poorly, well, who knows? Unless it ends in another coup or a bomb being planted, then there's some news and plenty of confusion.

Perhaps the nature of the war requires this secrecy — on the theory that if we don't know what we're doing, the Communists certainly won't — but it does seem unfortunate.

In any event, the overall picture of confusion and contradiction leaves little information to which any objective reader can safely cling.

Of course, we said objective — if you only want to read what you already believe, there's no problem. Just take your pick.

The Charming

First golden age of broadcast media ends with Murrow

By ARTHUR EVERETT

PAWLING, N.Y. — Edward R. Murrow, the CBS radio and television news craftsman and former head of the U.S. Information Agency, died at his farm here Tuesday after 18 months of cancer. He was 57 on Sunday.

Murrow built an international reputation from his World War II broadcasts from London. They were a vivid re-creation for American radio listeners of the courage and tenacity of the British people beneath the lash of Hitler's air blitz.

"This — is London," was the way Murrow began his blizz broadcasts. His was a deep, resonant voice — some compared it to a voice of doom.

ONLY SIX WEEKS ago, Queen Elizabeth made Murrow an honorary knight commander of the Order of the British Empire, in recognition of his services in furthering Anglo-American friendship and understanding. He was in a New York hospital at the time, in the terminal stage of lung cancer.

Murrow's death followed by two months that of his wartime friend, Sir Winston Churchill, architect of victory in Britain's finest hour. During the war, Murrow recruited one of the best news-gathering organizations the radio industry had seen to that time.

AFTER THE WAR, he became the top telecaster for the Columbia Broadcasting System at better than $300,000 a year and served briefly as network vice president in charge of news. He left in 1961 to become President John F. Kennedy's director of the USIA — a job cut short after 18 months by the removal of a cancerous lung.

Murrow was a habitual smoker of three to four packages of cigarettes a day, even after some medical experts claimed to have found a link between smoking and cancer.

"I doubt very much that I could spend a half hour without a cigarette with any comfort or ease," he explained.

The dangling cigarette was an on-the-air Murrow trademark. So too was his appearance of solemnity, punctuated by his furrowed brow. An NBC competitor once quipped:

"Nobody's brow furrows like Edward R. Murrow's."

ALL THREE major television networks joined in eulogizing Murrow. NBC expressed a "sense of deep loss," and ABC said his "imprint on electronic journalism is indelible and will last as long as the medium itself."

Murrow's long-time friend and former network boss, CBS chairman William S. Paley, said in a statement:

"No one will ever be able to fill the unique place Ed Murrow held in broadcasting — as a great journalist, as the originator of an overseas reporting organization unequalled anywhere for its distinction and competence, and during the second semester of the 1964-65 school year.

Viet policy still leaves many unanswered questions

(EDITOR'S NOTE: With special permission of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, The Daily Iowan has been reprinting a series of articles on the war in Viet Nam.)

By RICHARD DUDMAN Staff Correspondent for the Post-Dispatch (LAST IN A SERIES)

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, April 3 — President Johnson's new bomb-until-they-give-up strategy in Viet Nam is a gamble against odds that can only be guessed. These unknown odds will have much to do with whether the United States is heading toward something that can be called a victory or toward obvious and humiliating disaster.

Resort to the new strategy came as this undeclared war was taking an abrupt turn for the worse. It had been a gradual loser from the start, despite official statements expressing standard "cautious optimism."

Then in recent months a big increase in men and arms from Communist North Viet Nam helped the Viet Cong guerrillas attack in larger units and come closer to cutting the country in half. Everyone here is acutely aware that Mr. Johnson's new strategy has made this a new war — a bigger war and to a greater extent, an American war.

That was an obvious result of the air raids against the north (in which Americans pilot their own planes as well as some of the Vietnamese air force planes), the use of American jet bombers against targets in South Viet Nam and sending in of the first big units of American ground combat forces.

The justification is that infiltration from the North to help the Viet Cong has made the conflict more of a North Vietnamese war and less of a civil war.

Little is said here, however, about legal or moral aspects of the new strategy. The United States has expanded its own violation of the Geneva agreements of 1954, which prohibited the introduction into Viet Nam of foreign troops and military personnel as well as of all kinds of arms and ammunition.

BORN EGGERT ROSCOE, a name he found distasteful, Murrow changed it in his teens to Edward R. Murrow. A cousin remembers him as a "fat little boy with a regular fognon voice."

Murrow was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Washington State College, with a degree in speech. He began his career as an arranger of student tours to Europe in 1930. Later he became assistant director of the Institute of International Education, traveling widely and building a reputation as a public speaker while arranging international student exchanges.

In 1935, Murrow joined CBS. "I never intended to go into broadcasting," he once said.

"I've never known where I was going. I've never planned ahead."

OUT OF THE war came friendships between Murrow and the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Allied commander who later was President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Churchill.

Out of it also grew a formidable CBS news staff recruited by Murrow and including William L. Shirer, Eric Sevareid, Larry Leshner, Charles Collingwood, Richard C. Hottelet, David Schoenbaum and Bill Downs.

After the war, Murrow became CBS vice president in charge of news. He threw up the job after 13 months because, "I didn't like budgets, didn't like paper work, and, most of all, I didn't like firing people."

Back before the microphones, Murrow entered television in 1951 with a documentary program, "See It Now." There followed a home interview show, "Person to Person," and his last CBS program, "CBS Reports."

MURROW'S most explosive telecast came in 1954, when he tackled the controversial Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.). Using film clips, Murrow sought to indict the senator with McCarthy's own words.

There are other perhaps more significant signs of moral change in the war.

The American embassy in effect gave its blessing to the recent forced exile to North Viet Nam of three signers of a petition calling for peace negotiations. The embassy is understood to have advised against an original plan to dump the three civilians out of a plane and let them parachute into North Viet Nam. As long as they were merely shoved across the international bridge at the Seventeenth parallel, the United States had no objection.

The predominant view among American officials seemed to be that this was a relatively humane solution, even though there was no trial and it was not clear what Vietnamese law the three men had broken. A Vietnamese government spokesman asked why there was no trial, said, "We didn't have enough proof."

Nor was there any sign of United States objection when Vietnamese bombers attacked a schoolhouse taken over by the Viet Cong. A South Vietnamese report estimated that 20 to 30 children were killed. The pilot was said to have seen either gunfire from the school or a Viet Cong flag on the flag pole. The village was described as Viet Cong infiltrated but not Viet Cong dominated. More and more, the United States is declaring "free strike zones" and warning the innocent to get out before unrestricted bombing begins. The United States tried an attack by forest fire this week in an effort to clear Viet Cong from a 48-mile square forest stronghold.

The United States Military Assistance Command reports meticulously each day how many of the Viet Cong are said to have been killed in the day's air attacks in South Viet Nam. But there is no such reporting system for the men, women and children being killed, burned and maimed by rockets, napalm and white phosphorus from American and Vietnamese planes. Hundreds of civilian hospital in Hue, Da Nang, Qui Nhon and other cities throughout South Viet Nam. Medical teams from the United States and allied nations help treat the patients with makeshift equipment, two or three to the bed.

Success of the new strategy will be determined on a strategic level, however. It will be determined by the composite answer to some questions that are not now answerable.

How painful to the regime in Hanoi are the raids north of the Seventeenth parallel? There is no expectation here that the attacks can come anywhere near stopping the infiltration. There is hope — but only a hope — that they will persuade Hanoi to abandon the war.

Weather sometimes makes targets hard to find and damage hard to photograph. Current estimate of damage may turn out to be too rosy. The Navy has been making return raids on some radar stations hit earlier. Despite all the attacks, on radar stations in recent weeks, the North Vietnamese are always out in trenches and bunkers and manning anti-aircraft guns by the time the high level American jets appear over the target.

How much are the stepped up raids in South Viet Nam hurting the Viet Cong?

Vietnamese who fought with the Viet Minh in the war of independence sometimes say that the French bombs and napalm were effective at first, but became much less so when the Viet Minh learned how to disperse its men and supplies and use jungle cover and camouflage. American officers who have studied the French war here recall that French planes destroyed many bridges each day in an effort to block the flow of arms and supplies from China to the siege of Dien Bien Phu. The Chinese kept a gang of coolies and a supply of timbers beside each bridge. In 24 hours a bombed bridge was generally back in service.

There are offsets to whatever positive effect comes from the increased use of air power. It is making the Vietnamese army overly dependent on air support, which will be less useful when clouds obscure targets for days at a time in the approaching rainy season.

The raids also can make recruits for the enemy as well as inflicting damage on him. Some officials fear that many may be driven into the Viet Cong when American bombs destroy their villages or kill or maim their relatives. Propaganda efforts to blame the Viet Cong for attracting the bombs have only limited success, it is felt.

Even when leaflets and loud-speakers warn that a village has been declared a "free strike zone" to run from American bombs may be to attract a Viet Cong bullet.

How strongly does North Viet Nam want to continue the war that it is sponsoring?

Those people in Hanoi are tough and won't give up easily," says a diplomat who spent two years there. Wishful thinking "sometimes" causes Western officials to exaggerate the effectiveness of bombs or economic pressure to force nations to abandon their cherished plans. The bombing of London and Berlin during World War II are examples.

As the bombing raids against the North continue, as the targets creep farther northward and perhaps shift from military to industrial installations, there must come a time of appraisal of the Communist response.

The response can range from a big increase in terror along the lines of the bombing of the American embassy, through invasion by the North Vietnamese army, the strongest in Southeast Asia, to intervention by China or the Soviet Union or both through supplying of ground to air missiles, air assistance, volunteers or regular troops.

What if the response is the hoped for announcement that Hanoi is closing down the war?

The question then is how it will be ended or whether the Viet Cong is merely going underground, hiding its weapons, and melting into the population to wait for an opportunity to start all over again. That is what the Viet Minh did in 1954.

In either case — whether the Communists step up the pace or whether they make motions to close it down — the likelihood is that American troops must remain here on the ground indefinitely. Their mission would be in one case to defend against new Communist moves, in the other to police whatever agreement is reached. The United States has shown little enthusiasm thus far for the alternative of a United Nations peace keeping force.

The present course is quite different from a State Department plan reported to have been agreed upon last December here and in Washington. That plan called for a small unannounced raid, all south of the Nineteenth parallel and thus well south of Hanoi combined with certain incentives. These would include offers of economic aid to North Viet Nam through the American Food for Peace program and through international development assistance. Broadened diplomatic recognition and expanded foreign trade.

Underlying that plan was the thesis that North Viet Nam could serve its vital interests — avoid domination by Communist China, resume its normal trade with South Viet Nam and continue its industrialization — all by discontinuing an increasingly costly war in the south.

It was intended to follow the classic principle that an adversary should be given a way out. The proposal resembled a suggestion made last summer by Dr. Bernard B. Fall, an authority on North and South Viet Nam. Officials here doubt that the plan ever won Administration approval. In any event, it now has gone out the window. The raids have been big, highly publicized and north as well as south of the Nineteenth parallel that was supposed to be their northern limit.

Indications here are that the United States is thinking entirely in terms of increasing punishment, not at all in terms of positive incentives.

In the embattled northern region of South Viet Nam, two middle grade American advisers had just finished briefing a reporter on their difficulties in trying to break the tightening Viet Cong noose around their provincial capital. The reporter asked: "If you were Ho Chi Minh, would the air raids make you decide to quit the war?" The major replied: "Would I quit when I was winning? Don't be silly!"

Drug Addict: The Man Apart

—Escaping from Fear

By MALIN SWOPE and RUSSELL SWAN Staff Writers

(The use of habit-forming drugs by thousands of Americans has become a problem with wide social, medical and legal implications. This article is the first in a series presenting drug addiction today.)

Drug addiction knows no color, race or class barrier. It penetrates every level of society, thriving on the frustrated, the hopeless, the physically sick, and the maladjusted.

However, it flourishes particularly among persons of low economic and social status. Drug authorities in the United States say these persons are often victims of frustrated dreams and shattered hopes.

FAILING TO REACH their goals, and unable to cope with the pressures and problems of reality, they retreat to a world of fantasy, where anxiety, and frustration temporarily cease.

ACCORDING TO drug authorities these persons often find such a world through misuse of drugs. While under the influence of drugs, authorities state, these persons experience a sense of well-being and freedom from their problems.

This feeling soon wears off, however, and they are thrown back into a world with which they cannot cope. They are no longer able or willing to meet life's challenges and obligations. Reality has become so painful that they lose all desire to remain a part of it.

AFTER CONTINUED misuse of drugs, these persons develop a craving for stronger doses in order to gain the same effect they received from the original dose. Before they realize it, they become "hooked," or addicted, to the drugs.

SOME PERSONS use drugs to seek relief from the boredom of their jobs and their lives, authorities say. Some talented individuals take to drugs to escape the fear of failure or the knowledge that they have not fulfilled their potential.

SOME BECOME "HOOKED" accidentally when they find themselves unable to give up a particular drug after undergoing medical treatment, during which the drug was administered to relieve pain.

A much larger group tries drugs for "kicks," according to authorities. These persons are usually juveniles who often find themselves unable to shake the drug habit.

The Bureau of Narcotics of the U.S. Treasury Department estimates that there are 60,000 heroin addicts in the United States.

ALMOST HALF of the drug addicts are in New York City, Illinois and California each have about 14 per cent of the national total. Half of the addicts are Negroes. Twenty per cent are women. Although heroin remains the most frequently used drug, traffic in cocaine has increased noticeably. Opium, cannabis, marijuana and coca-leaf are also used illegally.

THE PORTS OF THE Far East

Funeral arrangements for a Des Moines truck driver killed Wednesday morning in an accident near Iowa City are pending at Hamilton's Funeral Home in Des Moines. The driver, Delmar E. Webb, 29, was killed when his truck hit a bridge abutment on Interstate 80 about two miles east of the Oxford interchange.

Police said he was driving alone from Des Moines to Iowa City at the time of the accident. The truck hit the abutment head-on and burst into flames around 6:15 a.m. Webb's body was burned in the fire.

Oxford firemen were called to fight the fire. Police said the truck left no skidmarks.

SDX Plans News Clinic For May 8

A Freedom of Information Clinic, presenting the views of public officials and members of the news media on open-meeting and open-record laws, will be held at 2 p.m. May 8 in Shambaugh Auditorium.

The clinic, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, will consist of a panel discussion moderated by Martin Jensen of WMT-TV, Cedar Rapids.

Panelists will be Carsten Leikvold, city manager of Iowa City; Jerry Sharpnack, city editor of the Iowa City Press-Citizen; Dwight Jensen, administrative assistant to Gov. Harold Hughes; Drake Mabrey, reporter for the Des Moines Tribune; and James Meeks, assistant professor of law.

The clinic will be followed by an initiation of about 20 students into the fraternity at 5:30 p.m. in the Communications Center lounge.

are believed to be the outlets for smuggled raw opium from the Chinese mainland. Prepared opium is thought to come from Singapore, Malaysia and Mexico. The principal sources of smuggled heroin are France and Mexico.

THE ADDICT'S daily routine starts with a "wake-up" shot he takes in the morning to get him "straight" for a few hours so he can raise money for another shot.

If his habit costs him $30 a day, he knows he must steal at least $250 to stay supplied because a "fence" will give him only 20 per cent of the value of stolen goods.

When the addict has enough money he looks for a "connection," someone with heroin for sale. The addict wants "dynamite," high quality heroin, and not "garbage." ONCE HE has bought his "fix," "popped" or "scored," the addict injects the heroin into a vein using the "works," which consist of an eyedropper, needle ("spike") and bottle top ("cooker") for warming the "junk."

The addict's greatest fear is that he will get "busted" — arrested — for he knows that withdrawal from heroin in a jail cell will cause him intense physical pain.

Phone Companies Begin Services For Mobile Iowans

Moving across the state no longer means you must go without telephone service for days.

One call to the business office in Iowa City is all that is needed to establish service in your new location, according to R. A. Williams, telephone company manager.

Williams said the service is possible between locations in Iowa served by Northwestern Bell.

Previously, customers had to contact the local business office to disconnect their service, then contact the company in the new location to establish service there.

Grad Student Recital Scheduled

Robert Whaley, G. Stafford, Kan., will present a tuba recital at 2 p.m. Sunday in North Music Hall.

Accompanying him on the piano will be Norma Cross, associate professor of music. Open House, Tours Top Library Week

In recognition of National Library Week, the Iowa City Public Library is planning several special events, including a week-long open house with guided tours.

Library Week is April 25 through May 1. The library has invited interested groups and organizations to call the library to arrange a time for a tour through the many areas recently remodeled and expanded in the old Carnegie Building at 207 E. College St.

Tuesday and Wednesday were declared "mercy days" by the library staff. During these days, readers with overdue books could deposit them in a red wheelbarrow inside the library's front door without fear of penalty.

A panel discussion on "Books and Civil Liberties" will be featured at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the library auditorium. The discussion will center on such books as "Black Like Me" by John H. Griffin, "Nigger" by Dick Gregory, and "Why We Can't Wait" by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Panel members will present view points on the books and apply them to the local civil rights situation.

Panel members are: Mrs. Irma Guthrie, representing the Iowa City Women's Club; Mrs. Carolyn Cannon, of the American Association of University Women; Mrs. A. H. Arneson, of the Book Review Club; Mrs. D. H. Eggers and Mrs. Richard Lloyd-Jones, of the Nineteenth Century Club; and William G. Nusser, Moe Whitehead and Ray Vanderhoef, representing the Iowa City business community.

Vanderhoef also will moderate the panel.

The special events of the week will end with a story hour at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the Story Hour Room of the library.

Mrs. Ellie Pownall Simmons, Iowa City author and illustrator of several children's books, will talk to children about the mural she has recently completed in the Story Hour Room.

Guest House Administrator Is Selected

Ken Murray, 25, fountain manager of the student union at Washington State University, Pullman, Wash. has been named manager of the new guest house addition to the Union.

The 112-room Iowa House, scheduled to open this summer, will provide rooms for parents, student and faculty guests, alumni and other persons visiting the campus for some aspect of University activities.

The guest house, located in the southwest section of the Union, is part of a four-story addition which includes the guest rooms, a lobby and cafeteria.

Murray earned a B.A. degree in hotel and restaurant administration at Washington State University in 1964. As an undergraduate he was night manager of the union. He worked as a desk clerk and night auditor at a motor hotel in Yakima, Wash., before attending WSU.

He is a member of Sigma Iota, professional honorary society for innkeepers. Murray is a native of Yakima, Wash.

Tickets on Sale For U. Theatre's Final Production

Tickets go on sale today for "The Country Wife," the final University Theatre production of the season. The play will be presented from May 6 to 8 and May 10 to 15 in the University Theatre.

Students may obtain tickets for the play upon presentation of a student ID card at the Union East Lobby ticket desk. The general public may purchase tickets there for $1.50.

The ticket desk is open from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"The Country Wife," written by William Wycherly, is directed by David Knaut, assistant professor of dramatic art. It is a bawdy Restoration comedy which ridicules the London society of Wycherly's time.

Community action in urban renewal is necessary to prevent a serious economic and social problem in cities, Arthur Westerback, Iowa City urban renewal director, said Tuesday.

Addressing the local chapter of the National Secretaries Association at the Hotel Jefferson, Westerback said that in its urban renewal program, "Iowa City has embarked upon a challenging and exciting program of improving the downtown area."

Westerback said the basic goals of the program were encouraging a better living environment, improving the community's tax base and reversing the trend toward deterioration.

Emphasizing the cooperation between the community and private enterprise necessary in the program, Westerback said, "The community's role is to persuade property owners to maintain their property, and, if necessary, to acquire the property and remove the deteriorated buildings."

"At this point," he said, "private enterprise comes into the picture by re-improving the land according to modern standards demanded by the market."

Ganz: Novelist Isn't Obsolete

Earl Ganz, G. Iowa City, discusses "Pop Art and the Novel 'V'" at the Union Board Book Review Thursday afternoon. Ganz reviewed the novel by Thomas Pynchon. —Photo by Mike Toner

Earl Ganz, G. Iowa City, appeared half an hour late for his scheduled book review at the Union Pentacrest Room to discuss a novel with a lately emphasized topic — pop art.

Ganz said before the review, "I was blandly walking up and down the streets of Iowa City until I saw a sign that said the book review was at 3:45 p.m." Nearly all of the 50 persons at the Pentacrest Room remained to hear Ganz and his review, "Pop Art and the Novel."

According to Ganz, the recent novel "V" by Thomas Pynchon is an example of "a successful attempt to show the world that contains pop art and the people who live in it."

Ganz interpreted pop art as creative work that appeals to "unified sense perception."

POP ART often utilizes everyday materials and modern communications media to convey an impression. Ganz said the recent trend to this visual art had led some persons to claim books and novelists were becoming obsolete.

Ganz singled out a character of the novel, Benny Profane, as representative of modern generations faced with the same mechanization that is stimulating the pop artist. Benny Profane, Ganz said, lived in the author's world that was described in mechanical terms, and accepted by all of the modern generation.

Ganz portrayed the world described by Pynchon as one in which "machines become an extension of physical or mental characteristics; in which perception of the eye is bulged by the TV tube, the ear is elongated by the radio and the skin becomes, ballooned by polyester fabrics."

Ganz criticized a recent "New Yorker" article on pop art that said, "Art has advanced to the level of oral communication in a pre-literate society."

According to Ganz, Pynchon's book showed an old generation of pre-pop art society dead, a transi-

Nursing Home Officials Due Here Today

"Caring for Elderly Patients or Guests" is the topic of the third session of the course on Nursing and Retirement Home Administration being held today and Friday in the Pentacrest Room of the Union.

It is the third of five two-day sessions, which are part of a three-year demonstration project to provide training for the administration of nursing and retirement homes.

Fifty-two administrators are attending this year's course, which began April 15 and will end May 14. It is directed by the University's Institute of Gerontology.

Among topics to be discussed during the meeting will be understanding the elderly patient; rehabilitation of the elderly patient; admission and discharge policies and procedures; medical and nursing care; and creating a favorable environment.

The victims were identified as Lawrence R. Kochheiser, 48, a bus driver; and Goldie Bickford.

The woman shot Kochheiser in the forehead and chest with an automatic pistol, police said, and then shot herself in the mouth.

Diners heard two quick shots and saw Kochheiser fall to the floor. Moments later, a third shot rang out and the woman slumped over in the booth.

Prof To Keynote Art Parley

Prof. Joshua Kind of the University of Chicago will give two addresses at the 35th Annual Art Conference here Friday and Saturday.

"Relevance of Art in Our Society" will be his topic at 8 p.m. Friday, and he will discuss "Trends in American Art; Their Significance and Meaning" at 2:15 p.m. Saturday. Both talks will be given in the Art Auditorium. Professor Kind is professor of art and humanities at the University of Chicago and is also Chicago correspondent for "Art News" magazine.

The conference will open with the presentation at 4:30 p.m. Friday of "Poetry: The World's Voice," a new film produced by Prof. Paul Engle, director of the Program in Creative Writing, who will introduce the film to the audience.

Films made by Anthony Roland, noted Parisian film maker, on two noted French artists — Delacroix and Degas — and two outstanding English artists — Henry Moore and William Turner — will be shown at 8 p.m. Friday and at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday. All of the films will be shown in the Art Auditorium. Five other films on varied phases of art will also be shown Saturday morning.

Friday sessions of the conference have been planned to interest the general public, as well as the teachers and high school and college students expected primarily for the Saturday sessions, according to Prof. M. J. Kitzman, conference manager. All of the Saturday meetings will be open to the public.

Exhibitions of art produced at all age levels, from elementary school children to professional artists, will be on display during the conference. More than 80 works by U of I faculty members on exhibition in the Main Gallery of the Art Building may be seen through Sunday. Other exhibitions include secondary school art by students in Des Moines schools, to be shown in the Art Faculty Lounge, and work by U of I Elementary School students, now hanging in the Terrace Lounge of Iowa Memorial Union.

Works by University students are being shown in corridors and studios of the Art Building. Current work by ceramic students will be on display in the east foyer.

Suit Against Students Explained by Attorney

An attorney gave two reasons Wednesday why Henry M. Black, apartment owner, filed civil damage suits against 17 persons accused of holding a party in an unfinished house Black owned.

"Black filed charges first because of damage to his property," J. Newman Toomey, Black's attorney, said.

Secondly, said Toomey, neither Black, nor any other private citizen can permit large groups of people to invade his premises without taking retaliatory action or he will face recurrence of the same type of invasion."

Black seeks damages of $90 each from the defendants. He said they held the party early the morning of April 3 in the building he owns in the 400 block of Brown Street.

The defendants, including nine University students, are: Susan Prugh, A4, Des Moines; Robert A. Gillespie, G, Iowa City; Mary Lee Brannock, G, Salt Lake City; David Higley, A3, Cedar Rapids; Stephen Knudson, M4, Albia; Patrick J. Hazell, A1, Burlington; Lawrence Sorenson Jr., A4, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Carole A. Cross, G, Baltimore, Md.; Steven Birenbaum, A3, University City, Mo.

Other defendants are Peter Klepertz; Dan Kelley; Kenneth Oliver Green; David L. Sauter; Antoinette Louise Dailey; Carl Marshall Jublonsky; Joseph Richard McKay, and Betty Murray.

The case will be heard in the court of Justice of the Peace C. J. Hutchinson.

Ralston Says His Punishment Too Strong

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — "Maybe I shouldn't have considered myself first and maybe I shouldn't have done it at all, but I think the punishment is a little strong," says top U.S. amateur tennis player Dennis Ralston.

Ralston, 22, was temporarily suspended from the United States Davis Cup team Tuesday — and ruled out of his hometown match here against Canada June 4-6.

Team captain George MacCall said the suspension was a result of Ralston's defaulting a doubles match last week in the River Oaks tournament in Houston, following a loss in the quarter-final singles to veteran Ham Richardson.

Former Hawkeye Trackman Named Evansville's Coach

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Roger Kerr, former University of Iowa track captain, has been named head track coach and instructor of physical education at Evansville College, it was announced Wednesday by Melvin W. Hyde, president of that school.

Kerr, 24, was born in Burlington, but attended high school in Wapello. He received his bachelor of science degree in physical education from Iowa in 1963 and will receive his master's degree in the same area in June.

Kerr will assume his duties at Evansville on Sept. 1 and will aid in the development of a new track to be constructed there.

While taking graduate work at Iowa, Kerr has been helping Coach Francis Cretzmeyer with the development of Hawkeye trackmen.

Kerr was the captain of the 1963 Iowa track squad which shared the indoor conference title and won an undisputed outdoor championship. He anchored the Iowa mile relay team that season besides winning the 600-yard run in the Big Ten meet. His time of 1:17.4 is still an Iowa record.

Whoa, Charley O!

Kansas City A's infielder Ken Harrelson seems to be hanging on for dear life as he rides the team's mascot, Charley O., the mule, past the A's dugout prior to a game with the Yankees at Yankee Stadium Wednesday afternoon. It was Charley O.'s debut at the Stadium, and he literally jumped at the chance to please the fans. New York won the game, 5-1. —AP Wirephoto

Only 10 Definite Starters Set For Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dapper Delegate, winner of the Louisiana Derby, was withdrawn from the 91st Kentucky Derby Wednesday leaving 10 definite starters and perhaps as many as 12 to battle over 1 1/4 miles at Churchill Downs Saturday.

The son of Porterhouse, owned by Mrs. Joe W. Brown, came down with a head cold Tuesday and by Wednesday he had a mild throat infection with swollen glands.

"Although it isn't too bad, it's still enough to keep out of the big race," said an obviously sad trainer Alcee Richard after Dr. Alex Harthill had examined the colt early in the morning.

Dapper Delegate disappointed Richard in both the Wood Memorial at Aqueduct and last Saturday's Stepping Stone at Churchill Downs, but still was considered one of the top Derby hopefuls.

Don Klotz Has Been Net Coach for 18 Years
THE HIGH SPOT of Don Klotz's Iowa coaching career to date was 1958 when he guided his squad to a Big Ten title, a third place in the National Collegiate tournament, and developed Art Andrews, an all-American in 1957 and 1958 as standout Big Ten singles champion.

Now in his 18th year on the Iowa staff, Klotz is an avid student of the game and an articulate and dedicated coach. Klotz always finds time to work with young tennis neophytes despite his coaching and teaching duties. Art Andrews, who became a pupil of Klotz long before he enrolled in the University, is a prime example.

Tournament of Golf Greats Starts Today

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Victory-flushed Jack Nicklaus, tournament-hungry Arnold Palmer and 24 other professional golfers took final practice swings Wednesday on the eve of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions.

Nicklaus, sensational winner of the recent Masters, is a heavily backed favorite to win the tournament for the third straight spring.

Palmer is the co-favorite for second place honors, and few even expected to think of Arnie as hungry for a first place in golf. But it has been a year since he won a major PGA tournament.

Linked with Palmer on about the same level is Bill Casper Jr., who has come close but has yet to capture the Las Vegas attraction.

In addition to Nicklaus and Palmer, former winners here for a shot at the $14,000 winner's purse are Mike Souchak and Sam Snead.

It is an interesting cast of players in other respects. The international flavor is provided by Bruce Crampton, Bob Charles, George Knudson, Kel Nagle and Chi Chi Rodriguez.

The domestic crowd includes PGA Champion Bobby Nichols, "Champagne Tony" Lema and Doug Sanders, plus 11 others who are here for the first time.

It takes a major PGA victory to qualify for the tournament.

—Cover Dormitory Roofs—

Coeds Find Place in the Sun

Blanket to blanket and side by side, sunbathers cover the sundecks on the roofs of the women's dormitories.

From the time the first burning ray of sun appears until the end of the semester, the sundecks are filled with girls all competing with lobster for redness.

Bathing suit-clad girls, armed only with a bottle of sun tan lotion, race to the decks trying to find "a place in the sun."

Sunbathing is not limited to dormitory sundecks. Bare-chested men can be seen snoozing on the riverbank in the afternoon sun. Those who aren't sleeping are either trying to study or watching the girls taking canoeing classes paddle by.

And courtyards and back lawns get enough sun for a good burn.

The great number of sunbathers has caused an increase in the sale of sun tanning products. As an employee of a local drug store said, "I don't know how much lotion we've sold recently, but boy, they're really buying it!"

Providing a cloud does not suddenly appear, sunbathers can look forward to long afternoons of sun.

Unlike the British Empire, however, the sun does set on Iowa City, leaving a trail of sun-burned bodies behind.

Tax Institute Meets Here This Week

"Income Taxation of Decedents and Estates" will be the subject of the 11th annual Spring Tax Institute to be held Friday and Saturday at the University.

Several hundred lawyers are expected to attend the institute, which is sponsored jointly by the Iowa State Bar Association and the College of Law.

The income tax problems relating to death will be discussed.

The speakers will be Mr. Carr Ferguson, associate professor of law, New York University; John C. Huston, professor of taxation, Syracuse University; Matthew Hartney Jr., a member of the Gibson, Stewart and Garrett firm of Des Moines; and Edward R. Hayes, professor of law, Drake University.

Art Center Complete by 1970—

Fund Goal Reached

By EILEEN GREUFE Staff Writer

Iowa will have a Fine Arts Chapter by 1970 if tentative plans are completed on schedule.

Loren Hickerson, executive director of Alumni Relations, said in a recent interview that about $500,000 in private funds has been collected.

Approximately $340,000 of this amount is from the University campus and the Iowa City community.

A UNIVERSITY campaign committee set a goal of $100,000 to be collected from members of the University staff and faculty. Contributions from this group now total over $171,000, and pledges are still being received for the gallery fund.

Fund raising campaigns in most of the major communities of the state are just getting under way, Hickerson said.

"The gallery campaign is a distinct challenge to the whole state," Hickerson said, "because Iowa's cultural resources are extremely important to the quality of our future economy and cultural life as a state."

The center will be located on the west bank of the Iowa River from the Art Building-Union footbridge north of Park Road.

IT WILL BE built in four phases. The first will be an addition to the Art Building for classrooms and offices and a gallery to house the University's permanent art collection.

A 3,000 to 4,000 seat auditorium, to be built north of the University Theatre, is the second part of the plan. A new music building also will be constructed north of the Theatre.

The final phase of the plan is the University Theatre. A complete date has not yet been set for the Theatre expansion.

The total cost of the project is estimated at $9.15 million. Of this amount, approximately $3.35 million will be financed by public funds.

The expansion of the Art Building, excluding the Art Gallery, will cost about $600,000. That amount was appropriated by the State Legislature two years ago.

A request for the $2.75 million needed for the Music Building has been presented to the present session of the Legislature, but no action has yet been taken on the request.

son and Abramovitz, New York City, are now working on the plans for the art gallery, the Art Building addition, and the auditorium.

The firm was chosen by the Board of Regents on the recommendation of the University.

City Residents May Register For Swimming

Iowa City residents may register for summer swimming lessons starting Monday at the social hall of the Recreation Center, according to Robert A. Lee, recreation director.

Both children and adults may participate in the lesson program, but children must have completed the second grade.

The fee for city residents is $1.50, with non-residents paying $3. Non-residents may not register until Tuesday afternoon.

The program is divided into 11 classes: non-swimmer, beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer, advanced swimmer, junior and senior life saving, swim club prep, diving, swim and stay-fit and scuba class.

Iowa Strings To Present Concert In Union Lounge

The Iowa String Quartet will present its fourth concert of the season at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Main Lounge. No tickets will be distributed for the concert.

The program for the concert will consist of Schubert's "Quartet in F Major, Opus 135."

Members of the quartet are Allen Ohmes, violin; William Preucil, viola; John Ferrell, violin, all associate professors of music, and Joel Krosnick, assistant professor of music, cello.

THE ART GALLERY, to be built at an estimated cost of $1 million, will be financed entirely by private gifts.

A fund raising campaign, sponsored by The University of Iowa Foundation, was organized to obtain the needed funds when Mr. and Mrs. Owen Elliott of Cedar Rapids offered their private art collection to the University.

They stipulated that the collection, valued at nearly $1 million, would be given to the U of I only if adequate facilities for its display were made available by 1967.

If such facilities are not available, the collection will be given to the University of Nebraska.

THE PROPOSED auditorium, to be built at an estimated cost of $4.8 million, will be financed entirely by student funds. These funds are being raised by a special assessment collected as part of the regular student fees, according to Michael Finnegan, assistant business manager of the University Business Office.

No definite plans have been made for the expansion of the University Theatre, but it probably will be built with public funds.

Few Landowners File Appeals

Only 17 of the 296 property owners in Johnson County affected by the Iowa City annexation filed appeals in Johnson County District Court by the Wednesday deadline.

The annexation of 5.6 miles of territory surrounding Iowa City was approved in the general election last fall. Property owners had 60 days after the filing of the city's action to appeal the annexation.

Alston To Lecture On Smell of Success

By JERRY HIGHTSHOE
Staff Writer

At last there has been a breakthrough to meet the demand for a truly effective deodorant. Dr. Patrick L. Alston has made the discovery and is prepared to disclose the secret in a lecture in the Union Main Lounge at 8 p.m. Saturday. Alston, associate professor of history and chairman of the Western Civilization core course, will speak as part of the Union Board's Last Lecture series on "Success Is the Best Deodorant."

ALSTON Board's Last Lecture series on "Success Is the Best Deodorant."

PREVIEWING his lecture in an interview, Alston said he decided on his topic as he listened to Dr. John C. Harlow, professor of Business Administration, speak on "I Haven't Learned Much" in a previous Last Lecture.

Alston said that as he listened to the lecture, "I realized that the one thing I had learned was that success was the best deodorant."

Trying to explain his topic, Alston said that in American society today there has been a breakdown of standards of morality. He said Americans have adopted the standard of success to replace their standards of morality.

"IT IS THE people who should know better — priests, politicians and professors — who are permitting this breakdown to occur," he said.

He noted that in his lecture he plans to survey modern history from 1700 to the present in order to bring out "prospects for rational control of social development."

based on past experiments and present trends."

He added that he thinks America will be forced to reorganize its standards soon to remain a world power.

Alston said standards had slipped so low in America that it no longer mattered how one got money or power as long as he had it.

"As long as you can keep your money long enough," he said, "people will some day justify your having it."

Alston recently completed a book entitled "Education Against Revolution in the Russian Empire," which he said was a study of the development of state education as an instrument of control in Russia.

The book is presently being reviewed by a publisher.

THE LAST LECTURE series was started last semester with the idea of inviting professors to speak as if it were to be their "parting words" to the academic community.

Mother's Day Concert Set

The University Choir, under the direction of Daniel Moe, associate professor of music, will present a concert Saturday night as part of the University's Mother's Day weekend.

The concert will be at 8 p.m. in the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church at Dubuque and Market Streets.

Assisting in the concert will be Gerhard Krupf, associate professor of music, who will be organist.

On the program will be seven numbers by the University Choir and three by Krupf. The choir's numbers include two written by Moe, one each by Di Lasso, Popping, and Buxtehude.

Krupf will play an original composition, one by Bach and one by Buxtehude. He will also assist Moe and the choir in the final number, which was written by Moe.

Objets d'Art Sale Saturday

The Union Terrace Lounge will look like a Macy's Dollar Day sale Saturday during the last Thieve's Market of the year. Original art objects by students and faculty will be sold at "thieve's prices."

Pots, jewelry, paintings, drawings, ceramics and other articles will be on sale from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Market is sponsored by the Union Board Thieves Market Committee as a student service.

More than 50 artists have contributed to previous Thieve's Markets. Each artist sets his own price at the Market.

Artists may bring their objects to the Union Hostess Office from 1 to 5 p.m. Friday, along with itemized lists of their wares.

Sue McEveen, N4, Park Ridge, Ill., chairman of the Thieve's Market Committee, said Tuesday, "In the past, both students and faculty members have enthusiastically contributed to the sales. We hope they will continue to do so next year."

Other committee members are Carol Hogar, A2, Naperville, Ill., and Rosie Timmerman, A1, Cedar Rapids.

BASUTOLAND VOTES—

MASERU, Basutoland — About 250,000 fingers will be dipped into pots of indelible red ink in Basutoland today as tribesmen and women cast their first votes for self government.

After dipping their fingers in the ink — a device to prevent them voting again — the people will vote by a simple system of colored cardboard disks with signs denoting the various parties.

Voters in the British protectorate will vote for 60 parliamentary seats. If everything goes well, Basutoland may be granted independence next year.

Her View of River

Pam Strothman, 4, living in a Davenport church since the Mississippi River forced her and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Strothman, from their apartment, happily drew Wednesday what she thinks the river now looks like. "Isn't that pretty?" she asked as the flood hit its peak in Davenport where it has forced hundreds from homes and caused heavy damage.

Homeless Want To Go Home

DAVENPORT — The raging Mississippi River threw its mudiest blow at Davenport Wednesday, but it made little difference to Mrs. Margaret Strothman.

"We had to get out last Saturday," the 37-year-old housewife said in St. Mark's Lutheran Church, where she, her husband, Joseph, and their daughter, Pam, 4, are being housed.

"I DON'T care a thing about the river's crest," she said. "I just want to know when it goes down so we can go home."

"But, my husband, he doesn't want me to go see our apartment. He's afraid I'll get hysterical." My husband says there's two or three feet of water in our place now," she said. "He wanted us to stay as long as we could, but I wanted out. I told him we should get out because of our baby."

WHILE HER mother's hands twitched nervously, Pam was noisily enjoying herself at a blackboard.

"We just play, and the big girls bring us candy," the little blonde refugee said. "We got television here, and I draw lots on the blackboard."

"This is the river," Pam said, pointing to some lines on the blackboard. "Isn't that pretty?"

The picture was. The river wasn't. It was at its worst, nearly eight feet above flood stage and four feet higher than ever before as it levelled off at a crest of about 22.5 feet.

THE STROTHMAN'S apartment is near the riverfront, which has been covered with water. They are on high ground now, sleeping on canvas cots in a Sunday school room in the church. The church also houses 102 other refugees, including 65 children.

"They take real good care of us here, and we eat good," Mrs. Strothman said, "but I'm just going to pieces. I don't want to, but I can't help it."

Mrs. Strothman said teen-age girls and Catholic nuns have been coming to the church at night to entertain the children.

"I don't know what we'd do without them," she said. "When they are here, we can all relax for a little while."

THE CARETAKER of St.

Mark's, Archie Stanton, has helped set up beds and feeding facilities for the homeless here who are among the hundreds made homeless by the flooding Mississippi.

"We've got them all pretty well taken care of," he said.

"Most of the families have separate rooms, because we've got a lot of Sunday school rooms in the church."

"We haven't had any trouble at all, despite all these children," he said. "Everybody is getting along okay."

Busy Weekend—

Rhythm Will Key Mom's Day Events

"I've Got Rhythm" could be the theme of three events scheduled for this year's Mother's Day Weekend.

"Vivachil" a concert of 21 dances to be presented by the Dance Theatre; "Girls! Girls! Girls! — in Faraway Places," a Seals Club show of synchronized swimming; and the finals of University Sing will each display rhythmic wholesales.

THE PRODUCTION of "Vivachil" will involve 13 choreographers, 37 dancers, several readers, stage personnel and numerous principles of motion. Mrs. Marcia Thayer, director of the Dance Theatre, is in charge of production.

The potpourri contains a dance by a mechanical doll, the destruction of a woman by her mirror image, a light treatment of the age of chivalry, a Spanish dance and four waltzes.

Backgrounds range from a piece by Welsh author Dylan Thomas to a Bach aria by the Swingle Singers, from the prop room sounds of Glasman electronics to the more familiar sounds of a child's world.

The dance concert will begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in Macbride Auditorium. Tickets are $1 and are available at Whetstone's, Campus Records and the Women's Gym.

PART OF THE evening's proceeds will provide scholarships to send University dancers for summer study with major dance artists in the East.

The Seals Club program of synchronized swimming will illustrate a different rhythmic mood. It will begin at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the Field House pool.

THE SEALS AND FIVE members of the Dolphin Club, swimming and gymnastics fraternity, will open the show with a number titled "I Am Woman."

The girls will take the audience on an aquatic world tour that includes Spain, Ireland, Russia and Africa. The finale will bring them back home with a round of American songs and the Iowa Fight Song.

Dorothy Feldman, A2, Itasca, N.Y., will present a solo, "Moss," that won her sixth place in this year's Midwest Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) competition. Miss Feldman is president of Seals Club.

Tickets for the show are $1 and are on sale at Whetstone's and the Women's Gym.

RHYTHM WILL BE only one of the factors included when the judges evaluate the performances of seven groups in University Sing finals.

The program will begin at 2:30

A $5 bracelet or necklace of silver or stainless steel may provide life-long insurance for victims of undiscovered allergies and other medical problems.

ON EACH BRACELET or necklace the emblem "Medic Alert" is engraved. It signifies the Medic Alert Foundation International, a non-profit organization which is helping Americans in the fight against illness.

Mr. M. L. Mosher, Iowa City physician, and James G. Galher, local insurance salesman, presented a program on "Medic Alert" at the Optimist club luncheon Wednesday. The speakers discussed the purposes of Medic Alert and its stress on hidden medical problems.

"THE OBJECT of the program is the dissemination of medical information on hidden illnesses to all people," Galher said.

The program identifies hidden medical problems, he said, so that it will be known (by close relatives and physicians especially) if a person is a diabetic, epileptic or heart patient or is subject to some other illness.

There are millions of medical drugs on the market today, he said, yet many Americans do not even know their own immediate medical problems.

There are 2½ million diabetics and 1½ million epileptics in the United States today. Those allergic to penicillin make up 5 per cent of the nation's population.

THE MEDIC ALERT program aids in uncovering medical problems and their treatment when accidents or other events require immediate action.

The Medic Alert bracelet or necklace has the medical problem, serial number, and emergency telephone number of the person engraved on the reverse side of the emblem.

Medic Alert maintains a central file at its headquarters in Turlock, Calif., where they keep medical information and the addresses of the member's physician and nearest relatives.

Medic Alert is endorsed by medical associations throughout the nation. Locally the program is sponsored by the Johnson County Medical Society and Life's Underwriter Association.

THROUGH THE Medic Alert Foundation, identification, vocation, religion and medical history could be used to find a hidden medical problem, Mosher said, and correct treatment given faster and more effectively.
