

Merchants Wary of Urban Renewal

By MIKE TONER
Staff Writer
(Conclusion of a two-part story on urban renewal in Iowa City.)

Some businessmen are still not convinced of the necessity of urban renewal, much less what the specific plan should be.

Frank Eicher, owner of Eicher Florist, Inc., said he would take an objective position on the urban renewal developments, but he said he was "not entirely convinced of the necessity of urban renewal."

Richard Lindsay, owner of Hawkeye Book Store said, "We may well need urban renewal in certain areas, but not in the prosperous downtown business district."

Iowa City is at present a prosperous area. It's the "at present" qualification that disturbs city officials.

CITY MANAGER Carsten Leikvold said recently, "We have to plan for the future now, because this program will take about five years to complete, and if we wait five years to see what happens we're going to lose ground to the rest of this part of Iowa."

These are some of the developments city officials are concerned about and what they think urban renewal would do to solve them:

- Cedar Rapids now attracts many shoppers from the Iowa City area. When the recently proposed four-lane highway linking Iowa City and Cedar Rapids is completed, it's likely that the number of Iowa City shoppers in Iowa's second largest city will increase. The corollary to that situation is that the number of Iowa City shoppers in Iowa City will decrease. A business district with a new face might hold local shoppers in Iowa City.

- RELATED to this is the Iowa City parking problem. One of the reasons that many local residents now go to Cedar Rapids to shop is the ease with which they can park and shop. As the population of the University and Iowa City grows, the parking problem will increase. Any urban renewal plan for Iowa City would be designed to alleviate the parking congestion.

- By fall there will be the nucleus of a shopping center in south-east Iowa City. The center's convenient shopping is a threat to the prosperity of the downtown area, according to city officials. They feel, in fact, that the greatest boost urban renewal could get would be having the planned Montgomery Ward department store in operation this fall. They feel the drain on the sales of the central business district would be enough to nudge merchants into an urban renewal program.

- THE UNIVERSITY population itself is a major customer of downtown Iowa City. The tentative renewal plan would transfer downtown property now occupied by businesses to the University for construction and development. Such development would bring more students close to downtown Iowa City. The alternative, city officials say, is to have the University expand on the west side of the Iowa River, moving University people farther away from the business district.

- Because the renewed buildings would likely have new apartments above the rehabilitated businesses, more people would probably be attracted to the area to live.

City officials, however, are not the only ones who see the future prosperity of Iowa City's business district depending on a sound renewal program.

Others would have under the urban renewal program.

BERGER SAID the shut down and relocation was difficult, but added, "with a new store, we're now doing more business than we ever were."

Even N. H. Rough, manager of the Iowa City Montgomery Ward department store to be built on the site of the new shopping center, favors urban renewal of the downtown area.

He said, "Anything that attracts attention to the Iowa City retail area, whether it's downtown or at the shopping center, will help Montgomery Ward."

J.C. Penney's local manager, Allan H. Arneson, said Iowa City's decision on urban renewal would make the difference whether Penney's in Iowa City would expand in the downtown area or whether it would expand with another store at the outskirts of the city.

He said, "Downtown Iowa City has to be bigger and better than the shopping center to keep the business downtown."

ARNESON, a former chairman of the Citizen's Advisory Committee said, "With the way the University is growing, it would be a crime to leave the city the way it is — we look like a poor relative of the University."

Arneson added, "Urban renewal affects every business downtown and he ought to be worrying about how to build his future rather than the difference whether Pen-

Ship Sinks In Lake Michigan

The 588-foot limestone carrier Cedarville collided with another ship, turned over and sank in the fog-covered Straits of Mackinac on Friday. The Coast Guard said two men died and eight were missing.

The Coast Guard icebreaker Mackinac put 25 survivors ashore, two seriously injured.

6,000 More U.S. Troops in Viet Nam

The United States hit North Viet Nam with 81 jet planes and poured 6,000 more servicemen into the Vietnamese war Friday, the 11th anniversary of the Communist victory over France at Dien Bien Phu.

For the first time since April 21, American authorities announced the loss of a plane to North Vietnamese fire. One of the F105s was shot down at sea.

The pilot was rescued by an amphibious craft. The announced American losses now are 17 Navy and 15 Air Force planes.

Jury Deadlocked In KKK Trial

A jury of 12 white men reported Friday it was hopelessly deadlocked in the murder trial of Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, a Ku Klux Klansman charged with the slaying of a civil rights demonstrator.

The two holdout jurors who voted for acquittal said they did so because an undercover FBI informer within the Klan violated his oath to the hooded order by turning star witness for the prosecution. Both jurors denied Klan affiliation.

Twisters Kill 13 in Twin Cities

Deadly tornado funnels curled down onto the Minnesota Twin Cities and suburban areas late Thursday, completing a devastating cycle of nature that has raged the area with death and destruction in the past few months.

At least 13 persons were killed by a series of twisters that struck three major areas to the west and north of Minneapolis-St. Paul. Twelve persons died in floods that inundated areas along the southern and eastern fringes of the Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan Area less than a month ago.

The Insurance Information Institute, a public information agency operated by insurance companies, estimated tornado and hail damages at $10 million Friday.

Hundreds were injured by the twisters and property damage will run into millions of dollars.

Pep Club Elects Officers; Committees Are Appointed

New members and officers of Hawk-I Pep Club were selected this week.

Officers are Dave Kyner, A3, Waterloo, president; Pat Smith, A2, Cedar Rapids, vice president; Nancy Laughlin, A3, Freeport, Ill., secretary; and Rick Shepley, A2, Muscatine, treasurer.

The purpose of the Hawk-I Pep Club is to organize and promote school spirit. It does this through various means, such as pep rallies, housing unit skits, a separate cheering block for the Pep Club in the stadium, and sponsoring send-offs for the teams as they leave for out of town games.

Pam Case, A2, Comanche, was selected Cheering Block Committee chairman. This committee handles the printing, sales and distribution of cheering block seats. Committee members are Barb Better, A2, Davenport; Mary Christianson, A2, Harlan; Sally DeBord, A2, Waterloo; and Mary Sue McCimpsey, A1, Davenport.

Publicity Committee chairman is Sharon Dirks, N2, Akron. This committee coordinates publicity for rallies and send-offs through conventional media. Committee members are Beth Nickolsen, A1, Sioux City; Sherri Lundeen, A1, Rock Island, Ill.; Candy Wright, A1, Elgin, Ill.; and Dee Jennings, A1, Council Bluffs.

Pep Rallies Committee plans and executes the rallies and send-offs and provides entertainment at post-rally functions. Phyllis Noecker, A2, Evanston, Ill., will be chairman of the committee.

Special Events Committee chairman are Barb Collins, A1, and Jane Anderson, A1, both of Des Moines. This committee attempts to create spirit in the student body and encourage attendance at the rallies. Committee members are Pam Ellertson, A1, Alton, Minn.; Judy Lewicki, A1, Des Moines.

William Heitmeier, A3, Letts, is chairman of Arrangements Committee, which in conjunction with the Physical Plant and the Union arranges the rallies and send-offs. John Bishop, A1, Davenport, is the committee member.

Post-Season Committee members are Mike Thomas, A3, Midland, Tex.; chairman; Clyde Coggeshall, A1, Des Moines; Sharon Hagar, A1, Davenport. This committee will look into the possibility of an organized section for basketball games and also work to promote better attendance at all University athletic events.

The adviser for the Pep Club this year has been James Rhatigan, housing adviser for the Office of Student Affairs. Adviser next year will be Kenneth E. Cook, also an adviser at the Office of Student Affairs.

Triumvirate Resigns In Santo Domingo

The triumvirate gave way to a new civilian-military junta of five men calling themselves a "government of national reconstruction." It is headed by Gen. Antonio Imbert, one of the military officers opposing Caamaño's leftist rebels.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The three-man military junta opposed to the rebel regime of Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno resigned Friday night in what appeared to be a bid for popular support by the anti-rebel forces.

Leikvold Puts Renewal Tag At $10 Million

The estimated cost of the proposed urban renewal project is $10.5 million. City Manager Carsten Leikvold told Iowa City Council members and citizens Friday afternoon.

In a special city council meeting for reviewing administrative reports, Leikvold said that $8 million of this sum would come from Federal funds and $2.5 million from the city.

CITY PLANNER Earl Stewart estimated that "well over $12 million" would be spent for building construction.

Stewart was the main target of a fusillade of questions aimed by citizens concerned with the urban renewal plans.

In answer to the most frequently expressed fear, he said the city must have an acceptable plan for relocation before carrying out the program.

Stewart reminded the citizens of the legal requirement for a public bidding to resell property affected by urban renewal. He said the sale need not go to the highest bidder, but that the council would decide who the buyer would be. The only requirement would be that the accepted bid must correspond to "fair market value."

Stewart said the city probably could resell the land at no more than a 10 per cent increase of its cost before urban renewal. He explained that surrounding improvements would increase the value of the land.

THE REBUILDING of the 20-block downtown area would take place not in one stage, but in several, Stewart said. He estimated it would take from three to five years to complete the project.

He told tenants who expressed apprehension that "the tenant's rights are going to be considered as much as the land owner's."

Stewart was for eight years the executive director of urban renewal in Fargo, N.D. Leikvold outlined "where we are and where we are going" in city planning. Touching on urban renewal, he said that change in the city was inevitable.

Sandbaggers Are Thanked By Muscatine

Students who recently helped fill sandbags and build dikes during the flood threat in Muscatine have been thanked by that city.

In a letter to the University administration, Glen Bloom, chairman of the Muscatine Flood Manpower Committee, said, "The City of Muscatine is extremely grateful for the fine assistance volunteered by your students during our flood emergency."

"Your students conducted themselves in a manner that certainly reflects favorably on your school," Bloom continued.

Bloom enclosed a list of students who had signed the "flood workers' register" in Muscatine.

M. L. Huit, dean of students, expressed the University's thanks to the students.

"The University has been gratified by the response of our students to appeals from the City of Muscatine for volunteer help during the recent flood emergency," Huit said.

"To the students whose names are listed below and to the many others who volunteered in other areas, may I use this means to express the University's appreciation of their sacrifice of time and energies in a most worthwhile undertaking."

Those who signed the register were: John Lindell, Floyd Heinrich, Stephen Dobyns, Tom Schmittler, Gordon Bousman, Craig DeWitt, Bill Marino, Jerry Zortman, Doug Cook, Peter Smith, Loren McAdam, Joe Lawton, Jeff Hahn, Bill Hicks, Bruce Gehres, Frank Fazio, Mike Noyes, Tom Maron, Bob Dahl.

Asked what effort would be made to gather arms that fell into the hands of civilians, Caamaño said the weapons were turned over first to the Dominican army reserves then to civilians supervised by the Armed Forces Ministry.

For the purpose of keeping tabs on the arms, he added, the city had been divided into sections, then subsections, each under individual commands responsible for the weapons in their area.

University Receives Letter Containing List Of 81 Flood Volunteers

Tornado Sighted

DES MOINES — The Weather Bureau late Friday night issued a tornado warning to five counties in north central Iowa.

The State Highway Patrol reported that a funnel cloud was seen around Rolfe in Pocahontas County and was moving north-eastward in the direction of Humboldt, Palo Alto, Kossuth and Hancock counties.

Tryouts Monday For Cheerleaders

Tryouts for six male yell leader positions this fall will be held May 10-13 in the North Gym of the Field House.

The first meeting will be an orientation and practice at 4 p.m. Monday. The next practice will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Judging will take place at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Those trying out will be judged on gymnastic ability and enthusiasm.

Pep Club Selects 6 Pom-Pon Girls

Six coeds have been selected by the Pep Club to be Pom-Pon Girls for the 1965-66 academic year.

The coeds are: Sue Andelman, A1, Northbrook, Ill.; Kay Christensen, A2, Council Bluffs; Linda Ehlers, A2, Davenport; Connie Henning, Ds, Galesburg, Ill.; Diane Schoenberg, A3, Skokie, Ill.; and Carol Trost, A1, Taylorville, Ill.

Barb Carlson, A1, Mendota, Ill., was named first alternate.

ROTC Cadets To Salute Gov. Hughes

Governor's Day, when ROTC cadets salute Iowa's chief executive, will be held for the 81st time Tuesday.

Gov. Harold E. Hughes will review the 650 Army and Air Force ROTC cadets here and present awards to 23 outstanding members of the corps. Col. Joseph G. May, acting for Maj. Gen. Junior F. Miller, adjutant general of Iowa, will also take part in the ceremonies. General Miller will be in Washington, D.C.

This annual event was begun in 1881, when the battalion and band marched before Gov. John H. Gear and other Iowa officials. In 1886 and 1889 the ceremonies featured skirmish drills and sham battles in which blank ammunition was used.

The ceremonies this year will begin with a reception for Gov. Hughes, in which President Howard R. Bowen and the student ROTC Commander, Col. George Clarke, A4, Elmwood Park, Ill., will participate. The reception will be conducted by a joint Army-Air Force honor guard.

The award and review ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m. at the parade ground west of the armory and are open to the public. On the reviewing stand will be Hughes, Bowen, Iowa City Mayor Richard Burger, Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Col. William N. Holm, professor of military science, and Col. Brooks W. Booker Jr., professor of aerospace studies.

Also on the reviewing stand will be Linda Johnston, A4, Centerville, honorary cadet colonel, and her court of honorary lieutenant colonels.

Music for the review will be provided by the Scottish Highlanders and the University Band.

At 12:15 p.m., cadets and their parents will be received by Gov. and Mrs. Hughes, President and Mrs. Bowen and Cadet Colonels Clarke and Dennis M. Gray, A4, Mapleton, at the Union.

A luncheon will follow the reception and the governor will speak to the cadets and guests at 1:20 p.m.

Senate must use its only lever

LIVING IN A GLASS HOUSE makes anyone a little self-conscious and extra-sensitive to criticism.

The Student Senate, quite naturally, has had its feathers ruffled the wrong way by some recent criticism of a proposal to allow men under 21 to live off-campus.

The criticism, which was levied by John Barrett, was concerned with modification of the bill, which excluded women from the proposal, on the grounds that such a proposal would have a better chance of passing the Committee on Student Life.

The practicality of the Senators is well-placed: women's hours have traditionally been a sticky business on campus and perhaps the bill would have a better chance worded for men only.

But the Senators do the females — and themselves — a disservice by this approach. First of all, it implicitly puts them in the position of agreeing with the current regulations for women. Secondly, the Senate has missed an opportunity to assert itself.

The proposal could have been handled in a way that would have done the females a better service and also a policy which allows women and men under 21 to live off-campus if they have parental approval? Let the parents and not the University be the decisive group.

Such a policy would be more in keeping with the efforts made this year by the AWS judicial committee in paving the way for liberalization of restrictions on women. This group has made substantial progress this year and even more important, has made future progress more feasible.

But aside from this particular issue, the Senate might take a good look at itself in its brief experience in this term and learn how to be more effective.

The Senators are very sensitive to criticism and react quickly to it. Is it not also possible that other elements in the University are also susceptible to constructive criticism?

If no one raises an issue — or if the issues are watered down so that they are ineffective to anyone — little will be done. And the Senate will not really have any reason for its existence.

Criticism without malice and with constructive intent is perhaps the best — and the only — lever that the Senate has. It shouldn't ignore it. Linda Weiner

Letters to the editor

Do you care?

To the Editor: If I remember correctly, there was a lot of sentimental hubbub, prior to the formal initiation of President Bowen, about the possibility of achieving some compromise with the ever increasing tide of impersonality and surface value of college education. To my knowledge there was no organization or movement here on campus whose actions forced that statement or otherwise called the hand of an incoming president.

It was also noted in the DI of May 5 that a program titled, "Issues and Answers" was to convene and discuss. "Do our instructors have time to teach?"

Anyone living here now, who is not wholly dulled by the fate of a policy, the very policy of the American people themselves of "hopelessness, and therefore carelessness," should be actively participating in what movements there are toward fuller education in the problems such as Viet Nam, etc. With the formation of petition groups composed of men from practically every area of University work; Van Allen-Physics, Perret-Medicine, to Michaelson-religion; it seems to me that it is now VOGUE to care and Vogue to take action. People, the fact has moved. If for no other reason than conformity, join in and CARE.

There is little impersonality in the campus groups striving toward an education in political affairs. There is only the guts of knowledge to be learned. No surface busy work is offered.

IF ONLY 2 per cent of the population of this University turn out for meetings such as were held in '61 Cap Tuesday night then I think Issues and Answers should ask, "Do our students have the desire and time to learn?"

For if the education of a person involves only those subjects offered on this campus, then I firmly believe it would be far better to simply set up youth training camps and do away with colleges and universities.

Society would end up with less active dissenters this way. The following humor tragically depicts the situation:

The latest edict from the office of the president of "Humanity Has the Right to Know Club" reads:

If you young members, especially you Americans, really care about surviving under the terms of your membership, then it is your DUTY to care and your DUTY to keep informed on the matters affecting you.

IF HOWEVER, you are resigned to your policy of apathy then you will be forced, under the articles of your birth and aforesaid membership in this club, to turn in all tokens of membership herein, more specifically your bellybuttons!

To put Jon Van's statement of May 5 into another context, 'tis sad but true, the STUDENTS are fast succumbing to a case of galloping lethargy.

I would ask, "Do they not care or do they not realize what they are doing?" Will someone please answer?

Hanson gives reply

According to last Student Senate analysis, the self-appointed head goat John Barrett brought home the sheep or perhaps better the bull to his own "Arena." Mr. Barrett, one of the self-named "Young Turks," criticized myself and Dick Pundt for our "curious Logic" relating to the removal of women from my resolution on the 21 rule.

PERHAPS it is necessary to point out some of the facts of life in student government to Mr. Barrett because it is quite evident that during his short term as a senator (which qualifies him as an analyst) he didn't learn them himself.

According to the Code of Student Life, such resolutions as mine must be passed upon by the Committee on Student Life. This body makes and changes the rules and regulations for students at the University. Generally the CSL has pretty good reasons for its regulations, and ergo it is necessary to have better reasons for changing them.

PERSONALLY, in matters of personal judgement, which may of these are, it is necessary to be, to some extent, pragmatic in trying to change University policy. As far as I'm concerned, amending the resolution to not change the policy on women's housing greatly improved its chance of passing, not only the Student Senate but also the CSL, thus in Bentham's terms giving us "the greatest good for the greatest number."

Mr. Barrett needs to be reminded that women's privileges are a rather sticky subject in this University and state, and that the integration of women's privileges into my resolution would have required considerable research and debate which consideration was over-riden for experience's sake.

MR. BARRETT can't really be serious about the rest of his article — it must be satire. He actually holds up the old Student Senate as an example. He says that there was real leadership among the old Senators — he must have missed more Senate meetings than I thought.

Last year's Senate was one of the most vacillating, equivocal, internally divided organizations that I have ever seen. There were more tabled motions, amendments, studies made, arguments, rhetorical farces, powers grabbed, and generally less action taken that ever before in the history of the Student Senate. (That's a hyperbole, John.)

Mr. Barrett seems to be interested in seeing the Student Senate turned into a real policy-making body on campus. Although this may seem idyllic, I would also like to see this happen; this is, after all, the training ground for democracy and as far as I can see most students here have proved themselves to be an intelligent and capable group.

MR. BARRETT, in his misguided zeal, is doing more harm than good with his destructive criticism. Certainly the Student Senate needs criticism and an occasional constructive kick, but in three meetings the Senate so far this year has done more than the last Senate did all year. (another hyperbole. I would now like to apologize to Mr. Barrett for calling him a goat, but for Mr. Barrett's own good, I hope some of the vultures of truth and wisdom come home to roost on his "Animal Farm". The Student Senate is tired of being the butt of his jokes.

Reader criticizes attack on 'Legend of Margotte'

To the Editor: I agree with many of the criticisms of "The Legend of Margotte" which have appeared in The Daily Iowan, in particular the comment by DI reviewer William Tannis that the work as it stands is in reality a kind of rough draft rather than a completed play. However, I must take issue with the comment of David Fratus that "Mr. Leach is consistently wrong in his portrayal of medieval life, from details of religious ritual to basic social distinctions."

SINCE I AM not familiar with medieval religious ritual, I will not comment on this point, but I thought Mr. Leach's grasp of the medieval milieu was quite good. What I liked was his portrayal of the peasantry as being not so much beneath the contempt of the aristocracy as beneath their notice. Hollywood, at least, shows less understanding.

I read a recent film script in which a medieval lord is depicted as arguing with the father of a serf girl over the master's claim to the droit de seigneur (wedding night privilege).

The tiger roams the jungle

By ART BUCHWALD

The automobile is becoming the No. 1 utility symbol in the United States. Not only are they putting tigers in people's tanks as well as the back seat, but the advertisements keep hinting that you're really not much of a man unless you're driving a Beep Beep or some other fast sports car.

A recent television commercial showed a sickly-looking fellow who was left out of everything until he bought a certain type of car. Suddenly his entire personality changed and girls were beating down the windshield to get close to him.

It was a very compelling commercial and so I decided to try it out. I went down to a Beep Beep dealer and asked him if I could try out the car for the afternoon. If I liked it, I'd buy it. He said okay.

"Where's the safety belt?" I asked. "WHEN YOU DRIVE a Beep Beep," the man said, "you live dangerously."

I drove the car out of the garage and pretty soon my chest started to swell and my muscles started to tremble. I looked in the mirror and could see a sneer on my face and danger in my eyes.

I put it into second. Suddenly I heard a siren behind me. The cop made me pull over.

"You were doing 30 in a 25-mile zone," he said. "Do you have any explanation?"

"I GUESS I'm just a tiger," I replied, chortling. "Well, here you are, tiger," the cop said. "I'll see you down at the jungle."

I took the ticket and drove over to the Georgetown Drugstore, which is usually swinging around three o'clock on a Saturday afternoon, and parked it right by the front door.

Then I sat and waited. A blonde came out and looked at the car. She came over as I expected, but instead of getting in, she said, "Would you mind moving so I can get my car out?"

I PULLED UP, a little and she pulled out. I started back when a brunette in a tight knitted suit came over and said, "Have you seen a little boy of six with red hair?"

Tulane project helps students from 8 states

By TAM DUGGLEBY
Exchange Editor

Students at Tulane University, New Orleans, now have a chance to help capable youngsters reach colleges where they can use their full potential, as part of Project Opportunity, a program planned for select students from eight Southern states.

Conducted by the Southern Region Education Board, with the assistance of Tulane, the project is being carried out to identify areas of culturally and educationally disadvantaged students and to select students with superior ability to help them maximize their advantages.

PLANNED for junior and senior high students, the program will give Tulane students a chance to tutor and encourage the students chosen for the project, as well as arrange visits to concerts, University theater performances and other outlets to University life.

Now in the first stage, that of identifying qualified students, the program is being carried out in a New Orleans junior high, in cooperation with the local school board, to help outstanding students on the seventh grade level.

Members of the experimental groups are to be chosen on the basis of interviews, special tests, and comprehensive surveys of their past achievement and their potential.

THROUGHOUT the project, special effort will be made to provide challenging work which will give the students a firm basis for higher education. When each class leaves the junior high level, members will remain in the project throughout their high school years, and a new group of seventh grade students will be chosen to begin the program.

At their various schools, members of the high school level will take special college preparatory courses and receive accelerated guidance. A summer program for college preparatory boarding classes may be set up for students between their sophomore and junior years.

TEXAS TECH students will be able to enjoy indoor sports all year with the completion of Houston's new domed stadium, Astro-dome, built to let the weather out of sports events for both the spectator and the player.

"It's about the greatest thing that ever happened to sports," states Associated Press sports writer Harold V. Radtiff in a review of the 50,000-seat structure. Among the ideas built into the building is a dome roof 218 feet high, allowing weather protection as well as space for games involving high shots.

Within the massive structure, the atmosphere can be set at any desired temperature, and portals to the dome can be opened when large crowds raise the humidity. Added conveniences to the spectator include stands with plush opera-style seats, rather than conventional benches.

THE NEW Astro-dome has been used mainly for baseball this spring, but can serve as a center for football, basketball, track, rodeos, conventions and other events as well.

Cooperation is the key to a way of life for University of Kentucky coeds in cooperative and semi-cooperative housing units, off-campus residences which allow students to cut expenses by doing their own housework.

"No, lady. I'm just here waiting for somebody to break down my windshield."

She walked off in a huff. I turned up the radio, figuring music never hurt anything, and sure enough, a girl came strutting by with a little French poodle.

The poodle stopped by a white-walled tire and started sniffing. "He wouldn't," I said to the girl. "He's been trained to," she replied. Some of the tiger went out of me.

I started to doubt the commercial when a gorgeous girl in a mink coat came rushing up. "Are you going somewhere?" she said breathlessly. "SURE, HONEY. Where do you want to go?"

Her eyes blazed, and she pointed behind her. "My husband's looking for a parking place." She walked over to her husband and said something to him.

He got out of his car, all six-foot-three of him, and I decided it was time to move on. "I'm pulling out," I shouted. "Just like your wife asked me to do."

I sped off before he could catch me and took the car back to the dealer.

"Well, how did it go, tiger?" the salesman wanted to know. "I walked a hell, but at this rate I'll die before my time."

'King David' Oratorio On Tap Monday at Gloria Dei

The oratorio "King David" will be presented by the Cantata Singers at 8 p.m. Monday at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church.

The oratorio, by French composer Arthur Honegger, has been acclaimed by critics. It is scored for narrator, soprano, alto and tenor solos, chorus and orchestra.

The Cantata Singers are professional and semi-professionals from the Iowa City and Cedar Rapids area. Mrs. Rosella Duerksen is the founder and conductor of the group. Mrs. Duerksen has a Ph.D. of Sacred Music from Union Theological Seminary School of Sacred Music, New York.

Harry E. Barrett, program assistant of WSUI, will narrate the presentation.

Soloists will include local singers Mrs. Diane Buthers, 507 E. College, and Mrs. Alice Carlston, 520 Normandy Dr.

An ensemble of brasses, percussion, and harp from the University Symphony will also participate in the presentation. Instrumentalists are John A. Beer, assistant professor of music, trumpet; Avis Heger, instructor of harp, harp; David S. Glasmiere, G. Bowling Green, Ohio, trombone; Ronald Halverson, G. Conroy, trombone; Douglas W. Van Horne, A3, Council Bluffs, trumpet; Lynn L. Woods, A3, Fort Madison, percussion; Karl E. Overby, G. Northfield, Minn., horn; and Timothy Campbell, A4, Newton, horn.

The instrumental music for the performance is being made possible by a grant from the Trustee of the Recording Industries Trust Funds, New York.

The public is invited to the performance.

Funeral Rites for Miss Okubo To Be Held Sunday in Illinois

Funeral services for Phyllis C. Okubo, A4, Mundelein, Ill., who was found dead in her apartment at 103 N. Clinton St., Thursday, will be in Libertyville, Ill., at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Meanwhile, Johnson County authorities are continuing their investigation of her death.

Dr. Lewis H. Jacques, acting Johnson County medical examiner, said an autopsy Thursday night showed she had died from natural causes.

Robert W. Jansen, assistant Johnson County attorney, said Friday afternoon, the exact cause of Miss Okubo's death had not been determined, however.

He said a check of her medical history was being made.

Miss Okubo's badly decomposed body was found on the floor of her apartment about 12:45 p.m. Thursday. She had been dead for five or six days, Jacques said.

Funeral services will be at St. John's Lutheran Church in Libertyville. A brief visitation period will be held tonight at the Burnett Funeral Home in Libertyville.

Miss Okubo is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rokuro Okubo, of Mundelein, and two married sisters.

'King David' Performers

Mrs. Rosella Duerksen, conductor of the Cantata Singers, leads instrumentalists in a rehearsal for the production of "King David" Monday night. Instrumentalists are, from left: Ronald Halverson, G. Conroy; Miss Avis Heger, instructor of harp; John Beer, assistant professor of music; David S. Glasmiere, G. Bowling Green, Ohio; Robert Keyton, organist; and Mrs. Duerksen.

Panel To Discuss Press, Governmental Relation

Relations between government and the news media will be discussed at a Freedom of Information Clinic at 2 p.m. today in Shambaugh Auditorium.

The clinic is sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

A panel discussion by professional journalists, public employees and a law professor will be featured.

The panel will consist of Carsten Leikvold, Iowa City city manager; Jerry Sharpnack, city editor of the Iowa City Press Citizen; Dwight Jensen, administrative assistant to Gov. Harold Hughes; Drake Mabry, Des Moines Tribune State House reporter; and James Meeks, assistant professor of law at the University.

Martin Jensen, WMT-TV, Cedar Rapids, State House reporter, will moderate the discussion.

Leikvold will discuss the policies of local government in regard to the news media. The problems of covering local governments will be handled by Sharpnack.

Jensen and Mabry will discuss state government-news media relations.

The accuracy of the court reporter, the presence of television cameras in the court-room and press coverage before trial will be discussed by Meeks.

SDX will hold an initiation at 5:30 p.m. in the Communications Center Lounge.

There will be a banquet at 6:30 p.m. at Curt Yocum's Restaurant in Iowa City. Henry Hook, publisher of the Davenport Times-Democrat, will speak on "The Far East Image of the United States."

er than trying to fear the heart out of it by blind opposition to a constructive program.

About the only points on which everyone involved with urban renewal agrees are that the program should represent the desires of the people who own property in the central business district and that the results of the program should benefit every business.

With that as common ground, city officials recognize that they will have to work closely with citizens for the benefit of Iowa City.

It's likely to be a busy summer, and an important one. In Leikvold's words, "All around us there are advances; you either go ahead or you drop behind. If you stop, you drop behind, and we don't want Iowa City to stop."

Sig Pi's Bombard Annex with Water; Police Summoned
What was supposed to be a friendly intra-fraternity water fight may have become a riot in the water with University officials.
Iowa City police were called to the Sigma Pi Annex, 313 Ronalds St., at 12:04 a.m. Friday after a neighbor complained of a disturbance at the annex.
The disturbance was a water balloon attack on the annex by members of the main Sigma Pi house, 707 N. Dubuque St., police said.
The house of Grant Pickering, 313 Ronalds St., was soaked in the fight, police said.
Police turned the names of six Sigma Pi members over to University authorities for disciplinary action.

Children's Art Display Will Open Here Sunday
Art works ranging from life-size self portraits by first graders to water colors and sculpture by high school seniors will be on exhibition in the Main Gallery of the Art Building beginning Sunday and may be seen by the public through May 19.
The opening of the show is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday.
Work by University High School students will be shown on the main floor of the gallery, and that by University Elementary School students, on the mezzanine level. Also included in the high school art will be drawings in pen and ink and pencil, wood cuts and wood carvings.
Some 200 works by elementary school students will include a four-section mural four by 24 feet in size. Done in enamel, it depicts jungle and circus animals. Other works include metal repousse, cut cardboard prints, tempera batik, and celluloid prints. A true batik five by six feet in size, which features geometric designs, was a group project of the sixth grade.
Some of the pieces in the show will be displayed in an exhibition later this year at a conference of the International Society for Education in Art in Tokyo, Japan. Professor Frank Wachowiak, now on leave from his position at the U of I to conduct research in art education practices in Japan, will discuss

Cigarette Warning Label Oked by Senate Group
WASHINGTON — The Senate Commerce Committee approved unanimously Thursday a bill making it illegal to sell cigarette packages in this country that do not carry this warning: "Caution: Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."
The committee tied on an amendment to suspend for three years a Federal Trade Commission order, scheduled to go into effect July 1, requiring such a health warning in cigarette advertising.

Handball Champion

In 100-plus degree court temperatures, Marlin Levison, A2, Forest City, sweated out a 21-17, 21-15 all-University singles handball championship Sunday afternoon. His opponent, claiming runnerup honors, was Al Kessler, A4, Cedar Rapids. The single elimination tournament, which is but one of many University intramural programs, has been in progress since the middle of February. The various male housing units on campus compete internally to qualify one person for all-University competition. These individuals are then pitted against one another until but one remains undefeated. Levison, representing Hillcrest, in 15 tournament games racked up 310 points to 150 for his opponents.

Hawkeyes Split A Pair of Big 10 Tennis Meets

(Special to The Daily Iowan) Champaign, Ill. — Iowa won its second tennis meet of the season here Friday afternoon by defeating Minnesota, 5 to 4. The Hawkeyes then dropped a 9 to 0 decision in a second meet with Indiana University.

The Hawkeyes, who have a season record of 2-6, will meet the University of Illinois in a dual meet here this morning.

Spartans Score 3 Runs in 9th to Nip Hawks

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Pitcher John Krasnan capped a three-run, ninth-inning Michigan State rally with a run-scoring single Friday as the Spartans nipped Iowa 4-3 in a Big Ten baseball game.

Krasnan's hit followed a two-run triple by pinch hitter Dick Kilbourne. MSU's Jerry Walker drove in the other Spartan tally with a double in the seventh.

Clay-Liston Prize Fight Has Location Shifted

BOSTON (AP) — The Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight was transferred Friday from Boston to Lewiston, Maine, and scheduled for the same date, May 25.

The shift was announced after two days of litigation in Suffolk Superior Court where Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne sought an injunction to block the fight in Boston.
