Engineering's Melloh Offers Resignation

Bowen Tells Regents Unable To Work Out Differences in Policy

Dr. Arthur W. Melloh, dean of the College of Engineering, has resigned at the request of Pres. Howard R. Bowen.

Bowen made the announcement to the education policy committee of the Board of Regents Thursday and recommended that the resignation be accepted. The Regents will act on the matter today.

Melloh also has resigned as professor of electrical engineering. Melloh asked that the resignations become effective May 31.

Bowen told the Regents that during Melloh's term "there have been some long-standing issues relating both to educational policy and to administrative procedures." "Efforts to resolve these issues have broken down," Bowen stated, "and hence I recently urged Melloh to relinquish his administrative responsibility at the end of the year and to continue helping the college's development as a member of the teaching faculty."

Melloh said Thursday that he had no comment.

Willard L. Boyd, dean of the faculties, will become acting dean of the Engineering College, Bowen said. Boyd will work with the Engineering Faculty Council and department heads in administering the college until a successor to Melloh is found.

The nine-member council was elected at a special meeting of the engineering faculty Tuesday.

The council will recommend procedures for faculty participation in college affairs and will canvass candidates for dean, Bowen said.

Melloh has been dean since July 1, 1960. He previously was a professor of electrical engineering at the University of New Mexico and had worked in private industry.

Ike Urges Interest In Public Affairs

By JOHN CEGIELSKI
Staff Writer

GRINNELL — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower told a capacity crowd here Thursday night that the role of the citizen in political life is achieved through education and an active participation in governmental affairs within the two party system.

Earlier in the day, Eisenhower discussed the Viet Nam and Dominican Republic situations at a press conference.

In his speech "Politics is too important to be left to the politician," he asked the audience to remember that a senseless enemy could trigger an assault aimed at annihilation. But education, he pointed out, would prepare us in advance to act sanely and effectively in the event of such an attack.

"SUCH ADVANCE preparation requires, from government and private citizens, reflection and contemplation of the lessons of history," he said.

He stated that far more will be required than emotional loyalty or instinctive response to defeat whatever threatens our way of life. But he added that loyalty and instinctive response are important qualities.

Even though younger persons cannot vote, they can help to elect farsighted and conscientious officers of government, he said.

"I might say," Eisenhower added, "that even though some of you cannot vote, the Republican party will welcome you into its ranks as the sort of volunteers who will put new life and new spirit into all of us."

At the press conference he said he supported President Johnson's current policy in Viet Nam.

Police Warn Hitchhikers About Law

Iowa City police have been ordered to begin enforcement of an Iowa City ordinance which prohibits persons standing on the street while hitchhiking.

The police have sent letters to many of the University housing units in an attempt to stop illegal hitchhiking, but have not obtained satisfactory results, police said Thursday.

All patrolmen have been ordered to warn violators of the ordinance until May 17. After then charges will be filed against the violators. Hitchhikers will not be violating the law if they stay on the curbing, police said.

Bill Would Double Poverty War Cash

Measure Gets Speedy Okay In House Unit

Republicans Protest $1.5 Billion Request Loudly, But in Vain

WASHINGTON — A bill that would nearly double the money for the administration's antipoverty program was approved swiftly Thursday by the House Education and Labor Committee.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) rammed the $1.5-billion request through both a subcommittee and the full committee in three hours with Republicans protesting loudly but vainly.

A VOICE VOTE completed committee action on the authorization bill, which would continue the program until June 30, 1967, as well as increase its present authorization of $800 million. One Republican, Rep. Ogden R. Reid of New York, said he voted for it.

Actual funds must be provided later in an appropriations bill.

The committee approved one key change in the law, which was enacted last year. It removed a provision that gives governors a veto power over some of the projects.

POWELL had promised just such speedy action at a "summit meeting" Tuesday with Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Harlem congressman had been critical of the program, charging that local politicians were monopolizing it, blocking independent agencies from the funds, and shutting out the poor in the planning of projects.

After his meeting with Shriver and his aides, however, Powell dropped several amendments he had prepared and promised to rush the bill through without change.

IN RETURN, Shriver sent him a letter pledging administrative procedures guaranteeing direct access to federal funds by independent agencies and adequate representation for the poor on planning boards.

Rep. William H. Ayres (R-Ohio) ranking committee member accused Powell of adopting "steamroller tactics" and also criticized Shriver for making an agreement with Powell.

Fine Arts Auditorium Size Is Defended by Committee

By DANNY CHEEKS
Staff Writer

The Field House could be used to accommodate an audience too large to be handled in the proposed auditorium in the Fine Arts Center, former director of the Union Earl Harper told a group of student leaders Thursday afternoon.

The committee that recommended the auditorium be built to seat 2,200-2,500 people met with the students to explain the reasons for the recommendation. The meeting was held in the office of Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and chairman of the committee.

Several of the students said they thought the auditorium would be too small, especially since a University enrollment of 25,000 is expected in 10 years.

SOME OF THE STUDENTS present were William E. Parisi, A3, Chicago Heights, Student Senate president; Kathleen S. Varney, A3, Kewanee, Ill., president of North Currier; Richard E. Davis, A3, Fort Dodge, president of Union Board; Thomas F. Stone, A4, Keokuk, member of Student Publications, Inc.; and Robert D. Baren, B4, Smithville, Tex., past president of Inter-Fraternity Council.

Committee member Arnold Gillette, professor of dramatic arts, said, "The cardinal requirements for an auditorium are that the au-

Viet Nam Fighting—

Government Force Claims Big Victory

SAIGON, Viet Nam — Government forces claimed a decisive victory Friday over elements of two Viet Cong battalions after sharp fighting in the Mekong Delta, 120 miles southwest of Saigon.

The two-phased operation began early Thursday in the Bac Lieu area. Contact was broken off late Thursday night and no further fighting had been reported Friday morning although government troops were still in the area.

An American military spokesman said a total of 178 Viet Cong were confirmed killed by body count. Government losses were put at 18 killed and 77 wounded.

Four Americans were wounded — two on the ground and two in helicopters — but it was not immediately known if they were included in the 77 total.

The spokesman said 53 Viet Cong were captured during the day along with a sizable number of weapons.

No other major actions were reported under way Friday morning although there were indications of continuing minor action in the Song Be area northeast of Saigon where major fighting took place earlier in the week.

Student Injured

A University student escaped with minor injuries Thursday afternoon when the motor scooter he was riding collided with a car on Highway 6 West in Coralville.

The student, Dewayne Townsend, G, Broton, Minn., was said to be in good condition with head lacerations at the University Hospital Thursday night.

The car was driven by Francis K. Weaver, 705 Fifth Ave., Coralville, police said. No charges were filed. The accident happened in front of Randall's Super Valu.

McCormack Backs Plan On Poll Tax

WASHINGTON — House Speaker John W. McCormack was enlisted Thursday in the drive to ban poll taxes. At the same time the Senate rejected a Vermontor's effort to make sure the levy in his state is not challenged by the government.

For a while, the Senate was a swirl of confusion with attendance bells ringing while lawmakers huddled in hurried conferences on a new round of revisions in the bill.

The measure already has been rewritten three times since President Johnson proposed it. The Senate leaders, Democrat Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, proposed the new changes, and sought Senate agreement to adopt them.

They didn't get it. Southern foes and liberal sponsors of the voting measure joined in protesting they had no idea what the proposals would do to the bill.

After half an hour of confusion, Mansfield dropped his call for agreement.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty (R-Vt.), sought to amend the bill to safeguard the poll taxes required of town meeting voters in Vermont. His move was turned down 44-34.

A compromise plan endorsed by the Senate would send the government into court to challenge state and local poll taxes armed with a declaration that there is evidence that the levies are used to abridge voting rights.

The latest revision suggested by Mansfield would have altered that declaration to say poll taxes may have been used to keep people from voting.

Senate liberals insist the bill should go further — and say flatly that the taxes are being used for that purpose.

In the House, the Judiciary Committee had recommended legislation which would outlaw poll taxes as a state voting requirement and declare they had been used to discriminate against Negroes and the poor.

"I favor the provision put in the House bill," McCormack told newsmen.

Mansfield was a leader in the Senate fight against an outright ban. It ended Tuesday with a 49-45 endorsement of a congressional order to launch court action against the levy.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach has labeled an outright ban a constitutional risk. He contends the compromise version will deal with poll taxes more swiftly and surely.

A ban would affect not only the four Southern states, but the poll tax payments required of voters in Vermont's town meetings.

The Senate, on a 66-19 roll-call vote, rejected an amendment which one senator said would have kept in force the literacy tests suspended by the Johnson bill.

Speaker Says HUAC Illegal '65 Hawkeye Distribution Starts Today

The House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) should be abolished because it is in direct violation of the First Amendment of the Constitution, according to Frank Wilkinson, director of the National Committee to Abolish HUAC.

Wilkinson spoke Thursday night at a lecture sponsored by the Friends of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the Iowa Socialist League.

The only power HUAC has, said Wilkinson, is the power to investigate un-American propaganda.

"But what is Un-American to them," Wilkinson said, "may or may not be un-American to you."

He said that we have every right to engage in any type of propaganda if we don't commit an overt act of violence.

Concerning the upcoming HUAC hearings in Chicago, Wilkinson said, "You should attend the hearings in Chicago to learn exactly what a witch hunt is."

He said that if the FBI can't catch a person on anything else, they use HUAC to punish him.

Students may claim their reserved copies by presenting their I.D. cards between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. today at the distribution center on the first floor of the Communications Center.

Saturday's hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m.

The Hawkeyes will be distributed between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday of next week.

After Monday, May 24, the Hawkeyes will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in 201 Communications Center.

LBJ Assails Peking's Role in War

PRESIDENT JOHNSON ACCUSED Red China Thursday of pushing the Viet Nam war for Peking's own goal — "domination over all Asia" — at whatever cost to her allies. He held out the prospect of U.S. aid to Communist North Viet Nam if Hanoi turns to peace.

Johnson moved publicly to persuade Hanoi that its own best interests differ from Communist China's, in a speech devoted mainly to the continuing massive U.S. economic aid program for South Viet Nam.

"The third face of war in Viet Nam" — to build a better economic life for the Vietnamese — "is the most important battle of all," the President said in a nationally broadcast talk to editorial cartoonists meeting him at the White House.

Reds Kill 5 in Sneak Attack

A RED RUSE INVOLVING THE USE OF Vietnamese marine uniforms brought the war back to Saigon's doorstep Thursday.

A platoon of about 30 Viet Cong guerrillas, garbed as marines, got past the guard at a suburban textile plant without challenge and then opened fire.

A U.S. spokesman said the guerrillas killed five militiamen assigned to the plant, in a recently developed industrial area north of town on the Saigon-Bien Hoa highway. Another regional soldier and three civilian employees were wounded.

Dominican Rebel Radio Blasted

U.S.-MADE DOMINICAN PLANES BLASTED the rebel radio off the air Thursday and made a strafing run so close to the U.S. Embassy that Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. took cover under his desk.

As the Dominican conflict flared up again and peace negotiations stalled, two U.S. soldiers were killed in a skirmish deep inside the 20-block maze of streets held by the rebels in Santo Domingo.

Space Flight Rehearsal

ASTRONAUTS JAMES A. McDIVITT and Edward H. White II and their launch team Thursday conducted a countdown rehearsal at Cape Kennedy for America's longest projected manned space flight — a four-day mission scheduled for June 3.

The astronauts made a dry run on everything they are to do launch day — down to the moments of blastoff. They donned their silver space suits and spent the final 100 minutes of the five-hour count in their capsule perched 100 feet atop a Titan II rocket.

Striking Teachers May Be Fired

PUBLIC SCHOOL OFFICIALS IN SOUTH BEND, Ind., announced Thursday 360 members of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers would be fired if they do not return to duty Friday morning. They have been in a continuous meeting since Tuesday morning in a salary dispute.

Superintendent Alex Jadrine sent telegrams to the absent teachers ordering them back to work. The teachers already had been told they won't be paid for the lost time.

The teachers were avoiding any appearance of being on strike, although that's what the school board called their action. South Bend has 1,400 public school teachers.

Year in review

YEAR-END REVIEWS tend to be either sentimental or cynical, but a retiring editor can afford to be neither, for his own sake and that of the newspaper.

As of Monday, The Daily Iowan will be under the direction of the new staff, which will include many familiar bylines. One of the privileges of the retiring editor is to comment on the past year, not so much for the sake of reminiscence as for future thought.

There are several standard issues concerning the University, which are never resolved in any one year. Sometimes significant improvements are made; sometimes the issues are only further complicated.

The most reliable student issue is student government. There are the avid fans of student government, and avid opponents and the vast majority of unconcerned. For a while, it looked as though the impasse regarding the discussion of student government's role would be broken. A student-faculty-administration committee formulated a report on reorganization of student government which regardless of the merit of individual suggestions, was a constructive addition to the discussion.

Although the report was submitted to the Committee on Student Life this spring, it has gone no further. From all indication, the report is quite dead. The issue is not. The enrollment increase that is predicted for this campus will necessitate some sort of reform to provide effective channels for student opinions and suggestions.

Since the University is predicted to double its enrollment by 1970, it would be to the advantage of both the Administration and the student body to enact reforms before they are demanded. That is only one of the lessons to be learned from Berkeley.

The expansion of the University has come to be regarded as inevitable as death and taxes, judging from the silent acceptance it receives. But there is a lot of room for discussion of some of the implications of a university of 80,000 students.

Whatever sentiments or recommendations might come out of such discussion, it seems imperative that the discussion occur, not only in small committee meetings, but in open gatherings of students, faculty members and administrators. The multiversity brings with it many problems which could be either eliminated or modified through anticipation.

One of the most refreshing aspects of the past year has been the extensive exchange of political views by differing groups on campus. The Presidential election and certain aspects of foreign policy were working for this, as was the Union Board Soapbox Sound-off.

The involvement of the faculty in discussions and "causes" has noticeably increased, to the benefit of the exchange of intellectual ideas "always attributed to the university atmosphere.

The student activity in "causes" reflects the national interest of student organizations, which in itself is commendable. But the complaint that these groups might pay more attention to some comparable problems is not unfounded. The local scene at least deserves more attention than the cursory survey usually made by student groups.

A less sweeping observation of the past year than the above is that this campus could stand a better lecture series. It seems that those who plan the series believe that we are so far out of the way that the big ones stay away. But as a Big Ten university, the University of Iowa, with the proper salesmanship, could attract speakers who are involved in current events.

Analysis and academia are fine, but we already have that right here. What we lack is the first-hand impressions of people who are in the middle of political and social frays.

There is no pretense of presenting any solutions through this column. As always, the year ends, not with answers, but with questions.

— Linda Weiner

Letters to the editor — Editorial called reprehensible

To the Editor:
Your editorial "Who's telling whom?" fails to achieve a new low for The Daily Iowan since several of your pulp lectures have far exceeded it for lack of thought and originality. Your guiding policy seems to be that when slick journalism and hard thought collide, as they must do in a university newspaper, the slick wins out. Yes, it is easy to mouth the pious incantations of the columnists, far easier than trying to say something relevant to our immediate situation.

For those who missed your performance of Wednesday, a review might serve to make them more attentive of future shows. Your concluding encore puts you in the tradition of smiling optimists when you say this nation "can survive mistakes . . . but only with honest incantations, not spoon fed propaganda that no one cares to swallow."

I WOULD remind you that many people in this world thrive on propaganda and do not find it hard to swallow at all. You sound a bit like you yourself have had too large a dose of liberal idealism and that it has gone to your head.

The dose has given you courage, however, to chasten the group from the State Department as spokesmen for some kind of inferior and harmful product. They are guilty, it seems, if misrepresentation in pushing their products.

You indicate that if the government "would make clear its objectives initially, within the framework of national security, then it would not have to spend time running around the country to convince the dissenters . . ."

NOW, DO YOU actually imagine that our foreign policy could be run — given the contingencies of the present world situation — on a day to day basis, in terms you would be able to understand? And do you suppose that criticism would cease once our objectives were spelled out in bold letters and run up the flagpole for all to take aim at?

National Security, Miss Weiner, is a phrase that can be used to justify the most enormous of crimes. But in case your memory does not serve you well, I would remind you that nations in the habit of committing large-scale genocide and other distasteful acts, do not bother to discuss their policies on university campuses.

Yet it is difficult from the drift of your editorial to determine whether you believe that our policies are fundamentally flawed or whether you are concerned only with the seeming difficulty of communication between the Department of State and the "academic world." Do you believe that our policy once defined would be worthy of support? Perhaps then an honest H-bomb attack on China would be justified, supposing it were done in interests of national security.

But it is more likely that you believe that the State Department delegation was a calculated fraud, an effort by the Administration to blur the facts and talk down to the intelligentsia (which we know it has had no respect for since the death of John Kennedy) while perpetrating acts of international brigandage.

YOU ANNOUNCE that the delegation's effort was not particularly convincing. To whom, we might ask. The Iowa Socialist League Newsletter of April 6th (their date) (Number 11) in an article called "Brainwashing the Campuses on Vietnam" states, "The insulting and nauseating behavior of the official government agencies and their assorted acolytes and hacks render them unfit and incompetent to participate in such a dialogue."

Don't they use splendid prose in denouncing those stooges of imperialism? And I would remind you that these venomous words follow a sentence appealing for "intellectual honesty!"

No, Miss Weiner, you see there are some people who refuse to be convinced of anything. No one could ever convince the followers of the late beloved Senator McCarthy that these same government agencies were not filled with card-carrying Communists and their dupes.

A UNIVERSITY newspaper, is obligated, it seems, to offer on its editorial page opinions more clearly and precisely thought out than those proffered by much of the commercial press. But instead of using your editorial to discuss the merits and demerits of the State Department lackies, weighing in for relevance and logic, you chose to quote from the New York Times, the holy of holies: "describing the team's first stop . . . it came up with a 'no sale' from the professors."

The professors? It is interesting, perhaps regrettable, that we have not heard more from informed members of the academic community on our campus. I do not mean the intellectual's version of the revival meeting; the signing of petitions and manifestos and demonstrating with placards while an impassioned speech appeals to their outraged sense of morality — but these are not usually the tactics of faculty members.

YES, MISS WEINER, if the dissenters came from the faculty, their opinions are certainly worth listening to. If the State Department envoys to our academic community were not interested in what these people thought, then there is a serious problem of communication. In any case you could have made clear in your editorial the source of the misunderstanding.

Perhaps you did not wish to say that much of the outrage was coming from professional belly-achers, unwilling as you were to slight those misunderstood members of our academic community, fearing they would call you a dupe of the Pentagon or a Wall Street lackey. Nonetheless, intellectual honesty demands that you say who it was who was displeased by the State Department performance.

IT IS unfortunate that certain elements on our community ruled out intelligent discussion of our foreign policy by disputing the integrity of the men sent here for the discussion. Perhaps you agree that this is an act of arrogance, befitting street-brawlers, night-riders and members of private armies. Certainly there can be no discussion when bitter and vocal groups associated with the intellectual life of a large university set themselves up as arbiters of truth and rule out all possibilities except the absolutes of their own logic.

Yes, Miss Weiner, "thinking people" are wary of absolute statements whether they come from the lumpenproletariat or from the higher echelons of government. Thinking people also think twice before offering libelous criticism. "That such a team of 'explainers' is even necessary is (sic) indication that something is wrong somewhere." That "somewhere" is near the college campuses as well as in the State Department, if you would care to look for it.

THE PROBLEM of communication between the government and "its people" is not so great as the gap in communications between the government and its self-proclaimed thinking people. It might be that if the thinking people refrained from excessive bitterness and used their suspicion as a tool rather than as a way of life, we could have a genuine discussion of American involvement in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. In the meantime, Miss Weiner, editorials which display only a vague sense of irritation and a coy despair fail to clarify matters. On the campus of an important university, this lack of critical thinking is reprehensible.

Persecuted drinkers go underground locally

By JON VAN Roving Agitator

As we were strolling home from work the other night, there was a rustling in some of the bushes growing by the Pentacrest. A voice whispered something barely audible; we a p p o a c h e d to investigate.

"Sssst," came the sound, "hey, sport, you dedicated? You a true defender of American individual freedoms?"

"Sure; why not?" we replied.

"Look there's gonna be a big demonstration here startin' Friday noon. Bring a blanket, sweetie, six pack, and come on over," came the voice; still with no sign of a body.

"What are you talking about?" said we, unknowing of The Movement.

"Man, aren't you with it?" we were rebuffed.

"Afraid not, what's the deal?"

"I'm gonna start from the first, Clyde, now follow me. See, the past few weeks the cops been raidin' man, really raidin'. The woodies is fuzzier, than fuzzy wuzzy. Anyhow, there just ain't no quite place a talla can go drink within 40 miles of Iowa City."

"THEN COMES the next blow — they closed the Hawk. Man, this is the age of The Drinking Society; things are gettin' serious. Anyway — now hear me speak — we ain't fer takin' this lyn' down. No!"

"Friday noon we gonna strike back, man. A nonviolent demonstration — that's what we need. We gonna stage a DRINK-IN right out in front of Old Capitol. We'll get 4,000 students and have one of the biggest woodies you ever done seen — all over the Pentacrest."

"What kind of a deal are you trying to pull?" said we, amazed.

"Why, why, it's preposterous."

"No man, don't you get it?" answered the voice. "We get enough guys and sweeties there, and they won't be able to check everyone's id or arrest us for havin' beer. Jails ain't big enough."

"How long is this thing going to last," we asked.

"How ever long it takes," came the reply. "We ain't gonna leave till they promise to quit raidin' — we'll camp out day and night. Live on nothin' but beer."

"SOUNDS fascinating," we said.

"We'll keep it up for a few days anyway," the voice was getting louder, "then we'll organize a march — a Drinkers' March. From Iowa City to the reservoir — everyone wavin' beer cans and singin' drinkin' songs. Oh, what a glorious sight. They'll have to quit raidin' us. Brother, will you join us?"

"Well, it sounds like fun, but I couldn't think of an excuse. 'Why don't you come out of the bushes, and we'll discuss this some more.'"

"Okay," said the voice as the bushes opened and a nice looking young man wearing Bermuda shorts and carrying two beer cans emerged.

Immediately there was a din of squealing noises as four police cars pulled up — each arriving from a different direction led by packs of bloodhounds with noses for beer.

"YOU'RE BOTH under arrest," announced a gentleman wearing a nicely cleaned uniform and a nicely polished badge.

"What do we do now?" we asked the young man with the beer.

"Go limp on the ground and let them carry us away," he whispered.

We did and they did.

"Now," said our fellow traveler as we were being taken to the paddy wagon, "start singin' 'We Shall Overflow' and look persecuted when we go by the press photographers."

It wasn't difficult.

Pins, rings a symbol of romance

To the Editor:
In your article on May 12, Mr. Elliott, you have unjustly condemned being lavaliered, pinned or chained. Basically, I agree with your article in relation to those who get pinned after three weeks of dating. However, you are unjustified in placing all pinnings into this category of irrationality.

A lot of couples date many months before getting pinned. Contrary to your article, most of these couples did develop their acquaintance into a more personal and romantic relationship before getting pinned.

Furthermore, I see no winning point for your side in your hypothetical conversation between Joe College and Cathy Coed on the phone. Quite the contrary, I see good points for mine. As Joe and Cathy's friendly conversation drew to a standstill, Joe asked her out. If she were pinned she would tell him, but I cannot agree that it is wrong for Joe to go away from the phone knowing that he had been refused not because he wasn't cool, collegiate and handsome, but because Cathy was pinned.

If she weren't and refused Joe because of her love for another, would it be better to have Joe go away from the phone feeling that his character had been insulted? Do you really think Cathy would feel better about losing a friend?

Many pinnings are based not on "sentimental notions," as you regard all pinnings, but on a well cultivated relationship. I scarcely regard this type of pin as insurance or as a social crutch.

I assume, Mike that you shall never get engaged, nor shall your wife-to-be ever receive a wedding ring. After all, that displays outwardly an inner love. I hope she merits! — Merril Nelson, A2 729 N. Dubuque

Reader calls Greek system 'fairly silly'

To the Editor:
It was with ironic delight that I read yesterday's whimpering letters about the big bad editor's "attack" on the "Greek system." Strange that a person should condemn his own little group! In case the boys of Phi Epsilon Pi and the young man from Delta Tau Delta are ignorant of the fact, that editor, Jon VanDusseldorp, is one of the loyal and loving brothers of Sigma Chi. He's as "in" as you are, fellows. The editorial was not really an attack on the "Greek system," but on a form of juvenile delinquency. If such is an essential part of fraternities, then, I suppose, the editorial was damaging.

Delinquency notwithstanding, however, the "Greek system" seems to be fairly silly anyway. I often wonder that this childish form of organized snobbery and game-playing is considered as no less than an important aspect of university life.

Such carryings-on certainly hinder the purpose of a college: learning about the world and human society, and preparing to better participate in it. (By learning, I do not mean "getting a four-point;" students who study for exams, solely in order to have "A's" to show off, become academic know-nothings.)

Living in a closed society such as a fraternity or sorority shelters persons from the real world outside. The stated purpose of these groups is social function — and then only with other members of the "system." It seems to me that one could pursue a more enjoyable social life free of the imposed conformities and tactics of such organization. Otherwise, fraternities foster many other than noble practices: racial, religious, and economic discrimination; organized debauchery; enforcement of the idea that "independents" are outsiders and are really missing something; and a general retardation of the maturation of its members.

The most valuable outcomes of the "Greek system," in my consideration, are: one, that they help uncrowd our overpopulated dormitories (for people so dependent on each other would be unlikely to live by themselves); and two, that they try to help fill the need for mother-love and protection for unstable, immature, foolish youngsters who are away from home.

Rumors fly in Dominica

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

SANTIAGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Rumors flew thick and fast in this second-largest Dominican city early this week.

Santiago seemed haunted. Under a dawn-to-dusk curfew, imposed after army forces blasted Radio Norte and its violent rebel agitation out of operation, the city anxiously awaited report from the capital, Santo Domingo, where a rebellion has brought bloodshed and massive U.S. intervention.

The reports from numerous sources which could not be checked said:

- There would be mass demonstrations dominated by Castroites and other Communists.
- The United States would send Marines to the north — but all signs indicate it won't.
- There was a heavy traffic in smuggled arms in the north.

One hears all sorts of estimates of Communist-Castroite strength in Santiago and Puerto Plata, the nation's second port city. Some say the extreme left could raise a force of 5,000 young men and would do so if it had the arms for them. Others consider the Communist-Castroite strength relatively small, although all concede it has a potential for mischief.

'L'Atalante' combines comedy, surrealism

By CHAP FREEMAN
for The Iowan

One of the most seductive temptations among film critics, and to some extent among moviegoers themselves, is the desire to make categories. Hollywood has been doing it for years: there are adventure stories and sophisticated comedies and women's pictures and "adult" dramas. And never the twain shall meet.

That these distinctions are largely artificial is something everybody knows, yet even in high-level criticism there is an insistence upon finding schools or groups of directors and on classifying by genre: The so-called "New Wave" in France is a movement invented by the critics rather than by the directors themselves, some of whom are refusing now to admit they ever belonged.

Occasionally, when a director comes along whose work cannot be classified so easily, we have it demonstrated for us again that in serious moviemaking, it is individuality of vision which counts above all else. Jean Vigo is such a director. Before his death he completed only two films, the famous "Zero de Conduite" and "L'Atalante," the story of a barge captain and his bride.

The critics have been hard-pressed to decide where Vigo's work belongs: there was an attempt to label him a surrealist, and "L'Atalante" contains two sequences which might qualify for that category. One is a love scene in which the husband and wife are in different towns, the other an underwater sequence reminiscent of dreams.

But there is comedy too, both high and low, and a lyric quality to the photography that reminds one of Truffaut. Altogether, "L'Atalante" is most engagingly original. The Art Guild is showing it this evening at 7:30 p.m. in MacBride Auditorium, and it is well worth seeing.

To the Editor:
If you have indeed felt that Greek organizations deserve to be satirized, you should not make any further efforts in this direction. The two letters in yesterday's Daily Iowan make more ridicule unnecessary.

You're missing a lot when you own a Volkswagen.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts. There's no bulky drive shaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Our car's engine is in back to start with land to maintain traction with. That's why it doesn't need a drive shaft. And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water. (When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in antifreeze, rust inhibitors, and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.) The haul a Volkswagen doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on). Which is one reason it averages 32 miles per gallon of regular. And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that. Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing. And never miss them.

"YOU HAVE to remember," he said, "that the only thing the Communists understand is force — sheer force. The only way we can stand up to them is to be firm."

Answering a question on this country's role in the recent Dominican Republic revolt, Mr. Eisenhower again said he supported President Johnson's policy. He said the United States had the right to move into the Dominican Republic so it could protect American lives and allow a legitimate government to function there.

He contrasted our policy of swift intervention in the Dominican Republic with the delay in taking action against Fidel Castro. He said that it was difficult to take early action against Castro because "there was a lot of support initially for Castro in this country in the late 50s."

HE SAID that even President Kennedy had once described Castro as another Simon Bolivar.

Mr. Eisenhower said it was not until March of 1960 that he gave the order mobilizing support for Cuban refugees trying to establish a government in exile.

"Had we stepped into the Cuban situation earlier, we would have been called the worst interventionists in the world," Eisenhower said.

ABC Plans Television Satellite

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. (ABC) said Thursday night it is preparing plans for use of a domestic communications satellite to relay network television programs across the country to its affiliated stations.

James C. Hagerty, ABC vice president in charge of corporate relations, said the network notified the Federal Communications Commission of its plans earlier Thursday.

If approved by the FCC, the network hopes to use the satellite in place of existing ground circuits of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

These circuits now are used by the three networks at a total annual cost of about $50 million.

The cost of constructing and launching Early Bird, the international satellite now being used to relay TV between the United States and Europe, has been estimated at about $8 million.

Some communications experts figure that the annual cost of operating a domestic satellite such as that planned by ABC would be well under the $50-million figure.

Board Asks Annexation

The Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission recommended Thursday night that part of a proposed housing development east of Iowa City be annexed to the city.

The land is in Washington Park and Court Hill and would be used for the construction of a supermarket and neighborhood shops in the area.

The Commission also received a request to rezone the area to permit construction of duplex and apartment houses, plus a request to rezone part of the area for the construction of the stores and a gas station.

The area would contain approximately 1,200 families once it was developed.

The Commission also recommended to the City Council that the name of Lincoln Avenue in the east part of Iowa City be changed to Grant Street to avoid confusion with a Lincoln Avenue in western Iowa City.

The Commission unanimously agreed to keep the present officers for another year. Allan Vestal, professor of law, is chairman and Hugh Dunlap, 501 W. Park Rd., is vice-chairman.

Club Elects New Officers

Alpha Psi chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national professional organization for women in home economics, elected 1965-66 officers Wednesday night at a dessert meeting at the home of Dr. Adeline Hoffman.

The new officers are: Judith A. Bentrutt, A3, Lowden, president; Carroll Hanson, A1, Badger, vice president; Juanita F. Holland, A1, Iowa City, secretary; Donna L. Schafer, A3, LaPorte City, treasurer; Helen L. Savage, G, Iowa City, candle reporter; Susan E. O'Brien, A1, Iowa City, historian; and Alvina M. Longstreth, A3, Iowa City, chaplain.

Outgoing president Carolyn J. Mueller, A4, Northwood, was presented a gift for her leadership during the past year.

Band Will Perform Professor's Piece

'Echoes of Old Gold'— University Sounds Recorded

Ever wish you could have a recording of all the things that make University life worthwhile? All the tribulations, joys and important events of the year? Sounds of the slap of a shoeshine, the bells of the pinball machine at Joe's Place, the opening and closing of the Union Music Room door, portions of the late President Virgil Hancher's last commencement address, and the cheering and booming at a basketball game are part of a 50-minute record that will go on sale Saturday.

FRANK PATTON, B4, Wilmette, Ill., began working in the middle of July on the idea of recording University sounds. He described the record, which is called "Echoes of Old Gold," as a portrait of the University in sound.

The record is 33 1/2 speed and will sell for $3.98 at the dorms, the Union, Lubin's and the Campus Record Shop.

Patton said the most amusing, and sometimes trying, part of recording the sounds came from the many questioners who wanted to know why he needed so much technical apparatus.

Patton said he sometimes used two tape recorders, one shotgun microphone, one regular microphone, two microphone stands, 100 feet of extension cord, two spools of tape and one set of headphones. Patton estimated that 250 hours were spent recording and editing the tape.

Other sounds on the record are the Woodburn Sound Service Truck making announcements, the music of dancing at the Hawk, Ross Barnett's speech, the 1 a.m. scramble at Burge Hall Saturday night and whatever noise riverbankers make.

"But the results made any trouble worthwhile," Patton said. "It was a lot of fun and a great experience. I have been told and believe that the record is entertaining; but I think it will be more enjoyable and of greater value in 10 or more years.

"WHEN YOU listen to 'Echoes of Old Gold' then, the past will be very close to the present. It will seem as if the events recorded happened yesterday."

The Russell Recording Co cut the record. Those helping Patton record and edit were Dianne Corson, A3, Rockford, Ill.; Ron Malven, A1, Cedar Rapids; Joe Conwell, A1, Iowa City; Mike Touch, A2, Springfield, Ill.; and Tom Lyon, B4, Coralville.

Kaplan Plays Set for Today In Matinee

Two plays written by Barry Kaplan, G. New York City, will be presented at 3:30 today in the Studio Matinee. The plays are "Orange, Francis?" and "Side Show."

"Orange, Francis?" is the story of two brothers who build a sanctuary from the world after their parents are killed in an auto accident. The young boys move to the basement of their home. Edward the older, leaves the house only to obtain provisions.

The play depicts the brothers' lives years later when they are middle-aged.

Edward has become a paranoiac; his brother, Francis, is crippled. They retreat farther from the world as time passes.

Their sanctuary is invaded, however, when a girl is chased into the house and seeks refuge in the basement.

"Orange, Francis?" is directed by James MacDonald, G, Durant. Cast members are Frank Ireland, G, Marietta, N.Y., as Edward; Michael Shannon, A1, Des Moines, as Francis; and Charlotte Duffendale, G, Otego, N.Y., as the girl.

"Side Show" is directed by Martin Bennis, G, Babylon, N.Y. It is a short play ridiculing the typical side show.

Cast members are Donald Schulte, G, Iowa City; Benjamin Hodge, G, St. Louis; Susan Rex, A1, Letts; Jim Casteel, A1, Lemars; Mary Lee Allen, A1, Iowa City; Mike Sokoloff, A3, North Brunswick, N.J.; Linda Carlson, A1, Edina, Minn.; Cathie Chandler, A2, Knoxville; and James Stenhouse, A3, Oak Lawn, Ill.

There will be a critique session following the plays.

AFPE Awards Fellowships To Two Pharmacy Students

Two graduate students in the College of Pharmacy are among 85 advanced students in colleges across the country awarded fellowships for 1965-66 through the American Foundation for Pharmaceutical Education (AFPE).

Lyle D. Bighley is the recipient of the Henry S. Wallace Memorial Fellowship, and Michael Bornstein was chosen to receive an unnamed AFPE Fellowship. Both are working for Ph.D. Degrees. Bighley, who is married, and has one daughter, Beth, 4, will receive $2,400 for living expenses, and Bornstein, who is single, $1,800. Each will receive an additional $600 for tuition and books.

Bornstein earned a B.S. Degree in pharmacy from Fordham University. He has been selected to participate in the 1965 summer training program for Ph. D. candidates in product development research at Pittman-Moore, pharmaceutical firm in Indianapolis, Ind.

Bornstein's doctoral dissertation will deal with interactions which take place in medications in tablet form, a new field of research. He is president of the U of I chapter of Gamma Alpha, graduate scientific society, and holds a quarter-time teaching assistantship.

Both Bornstein and Bighley are doing their doctoral research under the direction of Professor John L. Lach of the College of Pharmacy.

Bighley earned a B.S. Degree from the University of Minnesota and was awarded an M.S. Degree by the U of I in 1963. Bighley's doctoral dissertation will deal with applications of gas chromatography to pharmaceutical analyses.

Ex-Batting Champ Groat Is in Slump

NEW YORK (AP) — The world champion St. Louis Cardinals are struggling and Dick Groat, a former batting champ, is struggling most of all.

Groat, the most valuable player in the National League when he was with Pittsburgh in 1960, recently was benched for one game for weak hitting. The 34-year-old shortstop was hitting only .224 after Wednesday's 2-1 defeat by the New York Mets.

"It's an old story with me," said Groat. "I had trouble getting untracked last year, too. When we were home I was down below .200 with something like two hits in 27 at bats in one stretch. It was just ridiculous. Even after the hard infield that handcuffs the fielders, I couldn't bounce a hit through."

"They kept saying I couldn't move. I got it in Pittsburgh, too. That was why I was traded to St. Louis. Still, I finished second in St. Louis my first year and won the championship last year. I'm fed up with hearing I can't move."

Boxer Who Once Floored Clay Dies After Fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight Sonny Banks, one of the few fighters ever to floor Cassius Clay, the heavyweight champion, died Thursday of a head injury some 2½ days after he was knocked out in a bout here Monday night.

On Feb. 10, 1962, he knocked Clay off his feet, but lost the bout by a knockout in the fourth round.

Early Game Passes Will Be Mailed

The procedure for obtaining student tickets for the Iowa-Washington State football game on Sept. 18 has been announced by Francis (Buzz) Graham, Athletic Department business manager. This game will be played two days before registration.

The Registrar's Office, through Data Processing, will provide the business office a list of University students eligible to re-enter school for the 1965 Fall semester. They will also provide a list of new students who have paid a $50.00 entrance fee.

This list will be made up in numerical sequence and tickets to the Iowa-Washington State game will be mailed to persons on this list. These tickets will be honored at the stadium for the Iowa-Washington State football game on September 18, 1965, if and when they are presented with a University Student ID Card.

Students may purchase Spouse tickets for the 1965 Football Season at the Athletic Department Ticket Office beginning Monday, May 17. Price is $15.00 each. Application may be filled out and a spouse ticket will be mailed out on the first of September along with the University of Iowa Student Tickets for the first home game against Washington State September 18, 1965.

These spouse tickets will also be on sale this Fall when the students return but in order to get a spouse ticket adjacent to the regular student ticket for the first game, the spouse ticket must be purchased now so that the two student tickets can be filled together.

Five Meets Set For Iowa Teams

Golfers Face Three Foes At Indiana

Iowa's golf team will play the Air Force Academy, Western Illinois, and Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., in dual meets Saturday.

The six men playing for Iowa will be Jim Scheppelle, Joe McEvoy, Tom Chapman, Paul Dlugosch, John Berggren, and Gary Gottschalk.

The golfers will be out to improve on their five-year, seven-loss, and one-tie record. They have beaten Missouri, Wisconsin, Northern Illinois, Cornell, and in a practice meet during Easter vacation, Arizona. The team has lost to Illinois once, and twice each to Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Minnesota. The tie was with Western Illinois.

Coach Chuck Zwienen reports that Notre Dame has one of the best golf teams in the country. They were fourth in the national meet last year and have their entire team back this year. Zwienen said he does not know how good the Air Force team is.

Zwienen commented that the conference teams had been unbelievably tough this year.

"There are going to be a couple of good teams finishing in the second division at the Big Ten meet," he said.

When asked what Iowa's chances would be in the Big Ten meet, Zwienen replied, "We're going to have to have a lot more improvement than we have shown so far to finish in the first division."

ATTENDANCE IS UP—
NEW YORK (AP) — Thanks to the dome in Houston, baseball attendance is up 5.4 per cent over last year.

The Astros, surprising the experts with a winning club, have drawn 288,052 for 11 league dates in their new dome, averaging about 26,000.

SEYMOUR NAMED COACH—
BALTIMORE (AP) — Paul Seymour was named coach Thursday of the Baltimore Bullets, the team he started playing pro basketball with 19 years ago.

Tennis Team To Meet Northwestern, Purdue

Iowa's tennis team will meet Northwestern and Purdue in two dual meets today and Saturday at Lafayette.

The encounter will be the Hawk's last before the Big Ten meet at Indiana the following weekend.

Tennis coach Don Klotz was dismal about the Hawks' chances against Northwestern, but said he thought Iowa had a good chance against Purdue.

"Northwestern is just too tough for us," said Klotz. "If we could win as many as three matches, that would be two more than most teams have been able to get."

Klotz said Northwestern had the top singles player in the conference in Clark Gruebner. Gruebner is ranked among the top ten amateurs in the United States.

"Gruebner is a powerful player. Most of his opponents can only get one or two games a set," said Klotz.

Northwestern also has two or three other strong players behind Gruebner, according to Klotz.

Klotz said there was not too much emphasis on tennis at Purdue and that he thought Iowa could pull that meet out.

He rated Northwestern among the top three teams in the conference this year and had Iowa, Purdue, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio about equal at the bottom of the list.

Varied Exhibits Set For Camping Show

The latest in tents, camping equipment, and boats will be featured at the sixth annual Family Camp Show, to be held Saturday and Sunday at Old Finkbine Golf Course, according to Professor E. A. Scholer of the men's physical education department, camp show director.

Local organizations will also have displays at the show, Scholer said. The Iowa Mountaineers will have a large exhibit. The Iowa Grotto, the state chapter of the National Speleological Society, a group that explores and maps caves, will also have a large exhibit.

Family camping groups from Iowa City, Cedar Rapids and the Ottumwa area will be camping on the grounds with their tents and equipment open for public inspection.

The displays will be on exhibit from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Prof. Scholer said he anticipates this year's show to be bigger than last year's. Last year there were more than 50 exhibitors and a two-day crowd estimated at 30,000.

Spartans To Test 1st Place Michigan

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State, the Big Ten's best hitting team, gets a chance to derail rival Michigan's flourishing title bid in a three-game conference baseball showdown this weekend.

Michigan State, batting .278 and holding third place in the loop race with a 6-3 record, invades Michigan, 8-1, for a single game Friday. The Spartans are host to the pace-setting Wolverines in a Saturday pair.

Ohio State, lagging only one game behind Michigan at 7-2, visits Iowa, 3-4, for a Friday contest and then visits Minneapolis for a Saturday brace with defending champion Minnesota, 3-6.

Friday's single-game round also includes: Indiana, 5-4, at Minnesota; Northwestern, 4-8, at Illinois; 4-5, and Wisconsin, 4-5, at Purdue, 2-5.

Saturday's slate of twin bills sends Indiana to Iowa, Northwestern to Purdue and Wisconsin to Illinois.

Giants 6, Cubs 3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays belted a home run and two doubles in leading an extra-base hit barrage that gave the San Francisco Giants a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday.

Jesus Alou and Tom Haller also contributed home runs, Jim Hart a double in the assault that brought right-hander Jack Sanford his third victory of the year.

Seven of the eight Giant hits went for extra bases.

Mays knocked home McCovey in the first and after Alou homered in the third to put the Giants ahead, Willie belted his 11th of the season, a drive over the left field fence.

White Sox 6, A's 3

CHICAGO (AP) — Lefty Gary Peters, 20-game winner last year, failed to finish for the sixth straight time but the Chicago White Sox profited on a big second inning in a 6-3 victory over the Kansas City A's Thursday. Eddie Fisher bailed out Peters in the ninth.

One of 10 Kansas City hits was a one-on homer and the first major league hit by rookie catcher Rene Lachemann, 20, former Los Angeles Dodger batboy. He also singled in the ninth.

Peters, now owning a 3-2 record, retired the first 13 hitters and held the last-place A's hitless until Nelson Lushpans' one-out single in the fifth.

The Sox jumped on starter Diego Segui for four runs on a wild pitch, error, walk and four hits in the second inning for a 4-0 lead.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Willie Horton clouted his sixth and seventh home runs, added a double and drove in five runs leading the Detroit Tigers to a 13-3 rout of the Washington Senators Thursday night.

It was the Tigers' fourth straight triumph.

Horton, the 22-year-old left fielder, had eight hits in 13 times at bat in the three-game series, hit four home runs, and batted in 10 runs. Before Buster Narum struck him out in the eighth inning, Horton had been on base 10 straight times.

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Willie Smith's infield single drove Jose Cardenal with the winning run in the 10th inning as the Los Angeles Angels edged Minnesota 4-1 Thursday night and knocked the Twins out of the American League lead.

The loss, ending a five-game Minnesota winning streak, dropped the Twins one-half game behind first-place Chicago.

Cardenal led off the 10th with a single, took second on a passed ball, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored when Smith bounced a single over the head of reliever Bill Pleis.

The Angels had tied the score 1-3 in the seventh, chasing Camilo Pascual on Coston Shockley's two-run homer to right. It came after Pascual had walked Bob Rodgers.

Boston 4, Yanks 1

BOSTON (AP) — Felix Mantilla lashed a bases-loaded triple off Whitey Ford, enabling Boston to defeat the skidding New York Yankees 4-1 Thursday night.

The blow capped a four-run uprising against the veteran southpaw in the third innings and helped Red Sox right-hander Dave Morehead tame a weakened Yankee club which fell below the 400 mark and is deep in the second division.

Morehead allowed the Yankees only five hits.

Ford threw only 16 pitches the first two innings but suddenly lost the touch in the third. Bob Tillman singled and the next two batters walked before Carl Yazstrzanski sent a sacrifice fly to left.

After another walk, Mantilla split the outfielders with a liner which rolled to the deepest point of the center field wall.

Orioles 3, Indians 2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Boog Powell laid off an illegal seventh inning pitch from Luis Tiant but then rocketed a good one into the right field bleachers giving the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Thursday night.

Umpire Bill Haller ruled the first pitch to Powell an automatic ball when Tiant took his stride and then threw with a jerky motion on a type of hesitation pitch.

Tiant didn't hesitate on the next pitch, neither did Powell. The Baltimore outfielder's fourth homer snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Orioles a sweep of the three-game series.

Mill Pappas, with two innings of relief help from Stu Miller, won his 100th major league decision. Pappas allowed five hits and struck out six during his seven innings on the mound.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Deron Johnson's wild throw on a bunt by Frank Thomas enabled Dick Stuart to race home from third base with the winning run in the 10th inning, giving the Philadelphia Phillies a 7-6 decision over Cincinnati Thursday night.

Stuart got the Phillies started in the 10th by drawing a leadoff walk off Jim Duffalo and moving to second base on a wild pitch. Stuart took third on a ground out and remained at third as Cookie Rojas walked.

Then, with two out, Thomas went in as a pinch hitter for Jack Baldschun and laid down a bunt that Johnson mishandled.

Hopes for Handicapped—

School Helps Retarded

The development of Pine School reflects the development of special education throughout the United States.

Special education is a public school program that meets the educational needs of handicapped children when these needs cannot be met in the regular classroom.

Informed sources indicate that Iowa is becoming a leading state in the field of special education.

PINE SCHOOL began in 1957 as a joint research project of the College of Education and the Department of Pediatrics.

The project was originally designed to record the growth and development of a group of mentally retarded children for at least five years.

The techniques of special education were used in an effort to alter the unfavorable course of development of the children involved.

THE SCHOOL consisted of only two classrooms at first. Enrollment was limited to 20 children.

It was assumed that these children would benefit from specific training in skills needed for regular school. When they had made sufficient progress the children were transferred to a public school.

THE PROJECT indicated the importance of special education for the development of mentally retarded children.

The present Pine School, now called the Pine School Unit, is only one part of a larger complex known as the University Hospital School.

The unit, which opened Sept. 8, 1964, is greatly expanded from the Pine School Research Project.

The unit now has a triple function. Foremost it provides a service for the community and the state. It also provides classroom training for students majoring in special education and continues its original research function.

THE UNIT CONTAINS six classrooms and occupies an entire new wing of the University Hospital School. The rooms are each equipped with an observation and auditing booth as well as the regular classroom facilities.

The children are arranged according to classes: preschool, ages 3 to 5; kindergarten, ages 5 to 6; primary I, ages 6 to 8; primary II, ages 8 to 10; intermediate I, ages 9 to 11; intermediate II, ages 10 to 11; and advanced, ages 11 to 13.

Each class is not a separate grade. The overlapping of age and achievement in the classes indicates the flexible program of the unit.

When organizing the school program the different rates of growth and development of the children are considered.

At the unit a child is moved from one class to another according to his social and academic development. Children have been transferred during the school year when it was thought necessary.

THE PRESCHOOL and kindergarten children are shown how to recognize the differences between objects. Examples are the difference between an apple, a picture of an apple and the word apple.

Group activities are emphasized to encourage self-responsibility and group concern.

In the primary classes reading symbols and numbers are introduced on an informal and formal basis.

In the intermediate classes simple skills are applied to practical everyday problems of living. Developing good personal qualities and social skills for social adjustment is a major concern.

In the advanced class academic skills continue to be redefined. Occupational and pre-vocational instruction are of major importance.

PINE SCHOOL UNIT shares facilities for physical education, industrial arts and homemaking with the Hospital School. Instruction in these areas is in small classes.

The second prize in painting went to "Opus 18" by Sam Wang, G. Hong Kong.

"Seated Ladies," a print by Nancy Bickford, G. Topeka, Kan., received the best print award.

The best drawing award was won by Donna Walters, A4, Iowa City, for her drawing "Sunday Hat."

A bronze head sculpture entitled "Young Bride," by Don Crouch, G. El Paso, Tex., was judged the best sculpture.

Honorable mention in painting was given to James D. Conaway, G. Davenport, for his "Construction Site."

Honorable mention in drawing was given to Rebecca A. Alley, G. Iowa City, for her drawing, "Annunciation."

Time Mentions U of I Meet

The University has received national mention in a Time Magazine article about the government representatives who were on campus recently to explain the U.S. Viet Nam policy.

The article and a picture of the meeting taken by Bob Strawn, A4, Iowa City, for Time, appeared in the May 4 issue of the magazine.

The government team went to Drake, the University of Iowa, and the University of Wisconsin, according to the article.

Time said, "At Iowa City, where the team met with 200 students and faculty in a campus building that once was the state Capitol, they were picketed, hooted and jeered at by the largely hostile audience."

The magazine used dialogue from the Wisconsin meeting to illustrate the heckling the government team endured.

The caption under the picture of the Iowa students said, "Enjoying the rights the Communists would deny."

ROTC Cadets To Receive Scholarships

Air Force ROTC cadets who are chosen for scholarships for their junior year will be notified by August, 1965.

The scholarships, which are grants authorized by the "ROTC Vialization Act of 1964," will be part of 1,000 to be awarded across the nation.

The Air Force will pay the cost of tuition, books, fees, supplies and equipment, plus a monthly retainer of $50.

Eligible university cadets have already applied for the scholarships. The Air Force Officer Qualifying Test, the grade point average for all academic work and the assessments of a scholarship review board are the main criteria for selecting scholarship recipients.

The scholarship review board consisted of Col. Brooks W. Booker Jr., professor and head of aerospace studies, Air Force officers on the staff of the university detachment and a representative from the faculty.

The names of the cadets selected by the board will be forwarded to Air Force ROTC headquarters at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., for final confirmation.

AFRO-ASIANS MEET—

WINNEBA, Ghana — The 300 delegates to the fourth Afro-Asian people's solidarity organization convention here spent most of a morning denouncing the United States and Britain — among others — as imperialist, colonialist and neo-colonialist. Then they lunched on U.S. frozen chicken, U.S. rice and British canned fruit.

NO TRAVEL—
NAIROBI, Kenya — Foreign diplomats in Kenya have been forbidden to travel more than 10 miles outside Nairobi unless they give 10 days notice and get permission, embassy sources report. They had been restricted to 30 miles around the capital. A government circular said certain unidentified diplomats had been overstepping that.

TELEPHONE TROUBLES—
KAMPALA, Uganda — Kenya's economics planning minister, Tom Mboya, told a 30-nation African conference it's easier to telephone London, 4,000 miles away, than Kigali, capital of Rwanda, 400 miles away. He added it's cheaper for many African areas to import goods from Europe rather than neighbors because African communications are poor.

U of I To Send Representative To Viet Debate

The University will send a representative to a national "teach-in" to be held Saturday in Washington, D.C. Educators from all over the United States will conduct a day-long examination of the U.S. foreign policy position in Southeast Asia.

Christopher Lasch, associate professor of history, will attend the meeting. He will present an endorsement to the group signed by 167 University faculty members urging an immediate full-scale review by Congress of the Administration's Viet Nam policy.

Among spokesmen for the Johnson Administration at the teach-in will be McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs, and Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former special assistant to President Johnson. Academic critics of the government position in Viet Nam will oppose them in the debate and discussion.

RESIDENTS of the Iowa City area will be able to hear a principal part of the teach-in on WSUI. The policy confrontation between Bundy and Professor Kahin of Cornell University will be sent to a telephonic network serving more than 100 educational institutions across the country.

The broadcast will begin at noon (CST) and is expected to run for about three hours. Among other participants scheduled to appear during the broadcast is Prof. Stanley Millet, Briarcliff College, New York, who was a principal speaker in the Iowa City symposium on South Viet Nam earlier this year.

The broadcast of the teach-in will also be piped into the Union River Room Saturday.

THE ENDORSEMENT which Lasch will present to the teach-in was sent to 961 members of the faculty and administration of the University. It was signed by 167 persons and rejected by six. The remaining 788 persons questioned did not reply to the statement.

The proposal reads: "The United States military in Viet Nam is now increasing its tempo and intensity of acts of belligerency. This escalation invites further involvement of North Viet Nam, and also of Chinese troops and Soviet military material. In turn, the U.S. 'response' is stepped up. World War III, if that should come, would help no one.

"The United States is moving closer and closer to a major military confrontation which nobody wants, but seemingly which nobody knows how to avoid.

"THE CONSTITUTION intends the power to declare war to be with the Congress of the United States. Yet, this nation may be on a collision course with World War III without benefit of debate in Congress.

"The undersigned urge the Congress of the United States to set aside its present business, and immediately, by full discussion and argument, develop more acceptable policies than those in operation today."
