Desegregation Attempt Collapses

ABOUT 500 WHITES GATHERED OUTSIDE a municipal park in Bogalusa, La., Thursday but a scheduled desegregation attempt by Negroes failed to take place.

City officials had ordered Cassidy Park closed as a precautionary measure.

The park was the scene of a clash between whites and Negroes Wednesday. No one was seriously hurt but the encounter put this area, which the Ku Klux Klan claims to dominate, back in a state of tension.

Soviets Reject Johnson Bid

THE SOVIET UNION, IN ONE OF ITS HARDEST attacks on President Johnson, rejected Thursday his bid to ease tensions.

"No one should expect that it is possible to interfere in the internal affairs of independent states, provoke armed conflicts here and there, commit acts of aggression against the socialist countries and at the same time talk about some kind of agreements with the Soviet Union and about 'ending tensions,'" a Soviet statement said.

The statement, attributed to "official Soviet circles," was published by the official news agency Tass.

U.S. Planes Drop Leaflets

U.S. WARPLANES STAGED a propaganda leaflet raid only 55 miles south of Hanoi and bombed the Phouc Loi naval base, 165 miles from that Red capital, in a series of almost continuous strikes Thursday at North Viet Nam.

More than 100 planes were involved in this third day of the resumed attacks north of the 17th Parallel. A military spokesman said that, despite a thunderstorm and light ground fire, all returned safely.

In the ground war, Viet Cong guerrillas used mortars for the first time against U.S. Marines. A brief barrage killed one man and wounded two of a Marine patrol in brush-covered foothills 15 miles southwest of the Da Nang airbase. Shooting back, the Marines believed they killed two Viet Cong.

Rocket To Probe Heat Threat

A PROJECT FIRE SPACECRAFT is to be rocketed from Cape Kennedy over a blistering re-entry path Friday to start a series of space shots which will be climaxed by the second two-man Gemini flight.

An Atlas-Antares rocket is to propel the fire payload skyward during a three-hour favorable launch period starting at 4:22 p.m. The vehicle will be jammed back through the atmosphere at 25,800 miles an hour to study the heat that would sear manned ships returning from the moon.

The shot was postponed twice earlier this month because of technical and weather problems.

Horse Racing Bill Sent to Committee

DES MOINES — The Iowa Senate sent its race betting bill to the Judiciary Committee and possible death Thursday night after two-and-one-half hours of debate.

Twice earlier the Senate had refused to kill the measure but at 9:45 p.m. it voted 30-27 to send it to the committee for more study.

To be passed, the bill now would have to fight its way out of the committee and through another floor debate. This late in the current legislative session, its chances appeared slim.

Sen. Eugene Hill (D-Newton), who had opposed the bill from the start, made the motion which sent it to committee. It earlier had been reported out to the floor by an 8-5 vote of the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

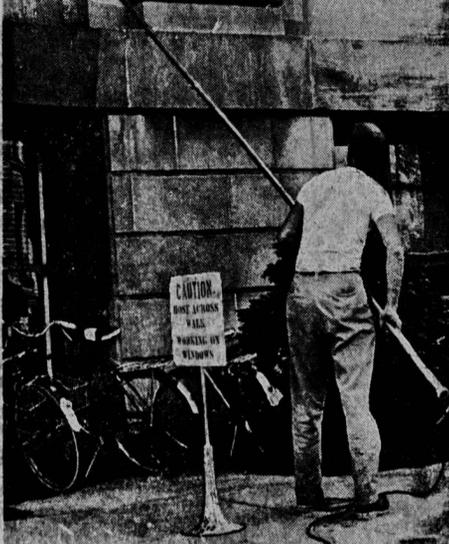

The bill's chief sponsor, Sen. Howard Reppert (D-Des Moines) said he was still optimistic.

He said he still believed he could get the bill out of the Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. George O'Malley (D-Des Moines). "They were just tired of talking about it tonight," Reppert said.

More than 60 amendments still were on file when the Senate dropped the bill and turned to other business in its unusual night session.

The Senate galleries were almost empty. O'Malley said he would assign the bill to a liberal sub-committee composed of Sens. Joseph Coleman (D-Clare); Peter F. Hansen (D-Manning) and Tom Riley (R-Cedar Rapids).

Riley said, however, the race bill stands little chance of passage.

Woody Tries To Tree Forest

By The Associated Press Football Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State and Athletic Director

HAYES EVASHEVSKI Forest Evashevski of Iowa nearly came to blows during the Big Ten's spring business meeting in Iowa City Thursday. The incident, in which the stocky Hayes whipped off his coat, knocked over his chair and headed for Evashevski around a conference table, developed during a discussion on football sideline administration Wednesday.

Evashevski, blocking back for Michigan in college, had asserted Hayes' sideline conduct was a "disgrace to coaching."

EVASHEVSKI remained seated while the fuming Hayes approached him.

Red Mackey of Purdue, chairman of the athletic directors meeting with the coaches, hustled from the head of the table and restrained the two angry men as Hayes stood menacingly over Evashevski.

Immediately after the session on general football problems, Hayes left Iowa City.

Evashevski declined comment except to say "we had a difference of opinion." Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed, who also attended the meeting, said the matter was "a closed incident, something that could have developed in any heated discussion."

The fuss flared shortly after Hayes started a discourse on the need for keeping sidelines cleared and isolating the football bench from the stands.

Evashevski reportedly countered by saying Hayes' own bench conduct was deplorable and agitating.

THE EXCHANGE became more heated when Hayes told Evashevski, former Iowa head coach, that his recruiting practices were something less than admirable.

Evashevski said Hayes' bench conduct was a disgrace to his fellow coaches.

Then Hayes was said to have shouted "I don't take that from anybody," shed his coat and started for Evashevski.

The entire ruckus, involving strong language, lasted about two minutes. After Mackey restored order, the meeting continued. Hayes and Evashevski sat in comparative silence.

Last season, Ohio State brought its band to Iowa for a football game, and the band was seated directly behind the Buckeye bench. Hayes demanded it be moved. Hayes mentioned this in his discussion Wednesday.

Hayes appeared Thursday night at a meeting of the East Central Ohio Heart Association in Canton, Ohio, but declined to comment on the report when questioned by a newsmen.

Illinois Girl Hurt In Car-Cycle Crash

A 16-year-old Evanston, Ill., girl suffered minor injuries in a car-motorcycle accident Thursday night at Dodge and Fairchild streets.

The girl, whom police identified as Phyllis Davis, was treated for minor bruises at University Hospitals and released. She was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Floyd M. Herdrich, A3, Donnellson, police said.

The driver of the car, Melvin J. Vevera, 54, of 1829 F St., said he was driving north on Dodge when a boy on a bicycle rode into the path of his car, forcing him to stop suddenly. The motorcycle then hit the rear of Vevera's car.

No charges were filed. Police said Miss Davis was visiting friends in Iowa City. The accident occurred about 6:30 p.m.

Kennedy Speaks in Favor of Bill To Curb Mail Order Guns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy reminded a Senate hearing Thursday that a mail order gun can cost a man his brother.

He didn't have to remind anybody that he spoke from experience.

There was mute evidence of that on a display board behind him — a 6.5mm Carcano rifle, like the one Lee Harvey Oswald bought by mail and used to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

The New York senator never mentioned the assassination as he urged a Senate Judiciary subcommittee to approve a curb on mail order gun sales. BUT HE DID say this: "It would save hundreds of lives in this country and spare thousands of families all across this land the grief and heartbreak that may come from the loss of a husband, a son, a brother or a friend."

His statement was brief and businesslike, studded with statistics. "Every year," he said, "thousands of Americans are killed by firearms — 9,300 in 1964 alone. The great majority of these deaths would not have occurred if firearms had not been readily available."

Kennedy spoke harshly of a publicity campaign against the bill. "This campaign has distorted the facts of the bill and misled thousands of our citizens," he said.

LATER, SEN. Thomas J. Dodd, (D-Conn.) pointed to a derring advertisement in a firearms catalogue, and said it amounted to a blueprint for assassination.

Dodd, the bill's chief sponsor, said the ad declared that Presidents Abraham Lincoln and William McKinley both were slain with derringers.

"You can imagine what this suggests to the juvenile and to the deranged person," Dodd said. "It practically suggests a means and perhaps a plan for assassination."

Dodd's bill would forbid mail order firearms sales to individuals, stem the importation of surplus military weapons and sharply restrict gun sales to minors.

CALIFORNIA'S Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch spoke out for the measure, and buttressed his case by displaying weapons that ranged from a cut-down carbine to a sub-machine gun.

Signing Negotiated By U.N., Red Cross

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The warring rebel and junta forces signed separate agreements Thursday night for a 24-hour cease-fire beginning at noon Friday. The agreement was negotiated by the Red Cross and the United Nations.

The noon-to-noon truce would end — at least temporarily — the now four-day-old battle between junta units and the rebels in Santo Domingo's battered northern suburbs.

The president of the Dominican Red Cross, Dr. Luis F. Fernandez Martinez, made the cease-fire announcement at a news conference in the Embajador Hotel. He told a newsman afterwards, "I have every hope that this cease-fire will be permanent."

BRIG. GEN. Antonio Imbert Barrera, the junta president, said earlier in the day that an enduring cease-fire is out of the question. He said he intended to press his attack right into the main rebel stronghold in the capital's downtown section.

Because Imbert would not sign the same agreement with Col. Francisco Caamaño Dengo, separate truce agreements were drawn up, Fernandez Martinez said.

Fernandez Martinez said the truce was negotiated particularly to allow Red Cross workers to remove dead and wounded from the northern battle area. Some estimates place the recent death toll at more than 100 — mostly civilians caught in the raging house-to-house fighting of this week.

The truce also will allow hospitals in Santo Domingo — in both the rebel and junta areas — to restock with medicines and foodstuffs.

TWO RED CROSS representatives, Fernandez Martinez and Pierre Jequier, delegate of the International Red Cross Committee, signed each agreement along with Dr. Antonio Delgado, a representative of the Pan American Sanitary Bureau, part of the World Health Organization.

121 Killed in Crash

CAIRO — Reported beset by engine trouble and fire in the landing gear, a Pakistani jet airliner crashed in the desert six miles from the Cairo airport Thursday and 121 persons were killed. Four Americans were listed among the dead. Six persons — all Pakistanis — survived.

The plane was a Boeing 720B, an American medium-range four-engine craft on an inaugural flight from Karachi to London via Cairo for the company, which has previously used Tehran for an intermediate landing.

THE DISASTER was the fifth worst in aviation history.

One of the dead was Donald Love, 45, of Riverside, Conn., an Esso International executive who had been in the Far East on business. The U.S. Embassy reported

Mississippi TV Station Found Guilty

FCC Tells Broadcaster To Stop Discrimination In News Presentation

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission — in its first major decision involving racial discrimination — ordered a Mississippi broadcaster Thursday to stop what it called discriminatory programming.

It also ordered the broadcaster — under penalty of losing his license — to confer with local civil rights leaders to ensure that it meets the needs of Negro listeners. The decision was aimed at television station WLBT and radio station WJDX AM-FM, Jackson, both owned by the Lamar Life Insurance Co.

It came after a lengthy investigation of eight Mississippi stations. The others — in Jackson and Columbus, Miss. — won full three-year license renewals. But the Lamar stations were granted only conditional, one-year renewals, and ordered to meet the standards set by the commission.

TMTW Changes Its Constitution

Town Men-Town Women (TMTW) passed amendments to its constitution regarding membership and dues Thursday night.

TMTW membership, according to the amendments, will be of three classes: dues-paying, general (off-campus students who do not pay dues), and associate (off-campus students who are socially affiliated). Dues were reduced from $2 to $1 per year.

It's Time To Return Your Books

With the approach of the summer vacation and the finals it is time to return books to the library.

Douglas M. Hieber, head of the circulation services of the University Library, said that all books must be returned in time.

For undergraduates the last day is two weeks after the book was checked out, for graduate students June 3.

Hieber said all books that come in after the due date are subject to a fine of 10 cents a day. Graduate students, however, who want to renew their books for the summer can do so, but only by bringing the books to the Library.

A PAKISTANI Airlines spokesman said 109 passengers and all 12 crew members were killed. He said the passengers were 87 Pakistanis, 12 Chinese and 10 of other nationalities — American, Canadian, Lebanese and Egyptian.

The pilot, Capt. Akhtar Aly Khan, had radioed that he had engine trouble and the landing gear was aflame. The crash came at 1:50 a.m.

The dead included Maj. Gen. Hayuddin, chairman of the National Press Trust of Pakistan; A. K. Quereshi, chief administrator of The Associated Press of Pakistan; some foreign travel agency men and at least three children.

Most of those aboard were airline guests.

You grab the tab

"SAY, JOE," said the charming voice, "I've a great idea for next Saturday. My parents are coming to town, so you can take us all out to have fine, expensive steak dinners."

"Sorry, Suzie," came the reply, "I've got to study for finals. I can't make it."

"That's too bad. Well, I'll take them out alone — we'll send you the bill."

That little episode may sound a bit far-fetched when applied to private life, but it's exactly what's happening between 15,000 students and the proponents of our planned Underized Auditorium.

We were delighted to receive Mrs. Magsig's letter (see "letters" column), for it is an excellent example of the thinking behind auditorium planning.

The music and dramatic people would, of course, like to have a new building tailored to their particular needs. By the same token geology students would like a new building with nice, new labs. Dent students would like new chairs and more X-ray machines, religion students might even enjoy having a statue of Buddha to play with — but here is a difference.

These latter groups are not asking everybody in the University to pay extra fees to finance their pet projects.

Until now University policy on building projects has been rather clear. Educational buildings are paid for with across the board state appropriations, grants and gifts.

New dormitories are financed by selling bonds which are paid for out of dorm rent rates. The Union parking ramp was financed with bonds to be paid for from parking meter revenues. Union construction is paid for with bonds financed by student fees.

The theory behind all this high finance and account juggling seems to be one of charging only the users for non-educational buildings. No one expected every student in the University to pay for Kate Daum dormitory, for example, only dorm residents were assessed — through their monthly bills for room and board.

New classroom buildings and laboratories are financed with direct cash payments — most of the cash comes from the state Legislature. No bonds are sold to build these educational structures.

Now, back to that auditorium. It is going to be about a $5 million building. That is, that much will be spent for bricks, cement workers and things like that.

The final bill for the students to pay will be something like $8 million. It's sort of a live-it-up-now, pay later deal on a big, big scale. We may about $8 million for bonds over a 20 or 30 year period — 5 million for principle, 3 million for interest.

Perhaps now we begin to see why the "masses" of students at the University should be given first consideration in this poker game — the culture-first buffs just don't have the lucre to ante up.

Students are paying $20 apiece every year from now until their children come to the University for this fine auditorium to which Mrs. Magsig refers.

We think that since the University will have at least 80,000 enrolled by the time the thing is paid for, it would be nice if it could at least hold about 10 per cent of the projected enrollment.

(It is possible, by the way, to build an auditorium of 3,000 to 3,500 seats and have perfect acoustics. Anything beyond 3,500 gets into the realm of "sound pioneering.")

Part of the new cultural center will include a 750 seat auditorium for the music people. It will not be paid for by student fees. This is the place for Ph.D. recitals, String Quartet concerts, and performances of that nature.

Although the auditorium should be designed to accommodate the needs of the entire student body first and foremost, this certainly doesn't exclude use by the fine arts people.

Last week's Old Gold Singer concert packed the Union. The same concert in a few years would do the same for a good sized auditorium. Concerts by the Chicago Symphony would do the same today.

There is an old saying, "He who pays the piper calls the tune." Perhaps the music folks have never heard that, but if not, they'd never get far in show biz. —Jon Van

Letters to the editor—

Small auditorium is needed here

To the Editor:

May we pluck you from your air conditioned Journalism palace halfway across campus and invite you to a little affair that you suggested be held in "some music professor's basement"?

Let us call it a Ph.D. qualifying recital. The place is the Music Building. Naturally, we will want to get there early because our services may be needed. You see, the recital hall is a classroom, and we may have to help the faculty pile the 300 or so odd chairs against the wall so the piano can be rolled out.

You might want to go around and pick up some of the litter from the six or so previous recitals. The University, it is stated, simply cannot afford a janitor on weekends.

Now, if you'll push the blackboard up against the wall, we can sit down. Are we about to begin? Wait, a string bass player must come and get his instrument first.

You see, they must store them here too! What's that? You'd like to move — your chair has collapsed. They do need replacements.

Well now, isn't that sweet. They just turned off the fans so we'll be able to hear. We're lucky it's not winter. The radiators do marvelous percussive improvisations. Really not worth missing . . . Nice crowd.

For faculty recitals it does get a little crowded, though. They stand in the back then.

Well, it's all over. Care to go back to the reception room to congratulate the performer? You will find him amongst the tubas in the band room.

THAT, my dear fellow is why we need a small auditorium. With the average of six to eight of these small affairs per week, and until ballet is added to the University repertoire the plan should stand as is. In one of these . . .

'Criminals' reply

To the Editor:

Those of you who have had opportunity to run afoul of the law in recent weeks take heart for we believe we have out done you. We sincerely hope that you at least managed to enjoy your misdemeanors for a time. We had no such chance, in fact we hadn't broken any laws when we were permitted to enjoy police's night captain.

This stalwart upholder of justice seems to feel that it is a major crime to be out of the dorm at night. We were walking, two of us with skate boards — the incriminating evidence — tucked securely under our arms, toward an apartment near the Pentacrest. Unfortunately we were curious enough to investigate why three police cars were stopped at the parking ramp.

Now the story unfolds. Apparently someone was raising hell on campus and three prowlers had stopped three kids riding a motorcycle in the parking ramp. Simply by our position, the police officer, a master at out-thinking the criminal mind, deduced that we were a segment of the guilty party.

Guiltily of what, we don't know. Our names were taken to be turned in to the Office of Student Affairs, we were threatened with a night in jail, we were badgered, and never once did our protests

No Barbies here

By CHAP FREEMAN
For The Iowan

When I go to a horror movie I expect to be scared. It takes more than Connie Stevens to do it, too. Her face may belong in the teen movies, but it looks silly at the business end of a guillotine. And it takes more than plastic monsters from Japan. In order to be frightened I have to get the impression that something human is suffering, that behind the grotesque makeup there are feelings a little like mine.

"Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte" was the right sort of thing — plenty of strong characterization from Bette Davis and Agnes Moorehead, and lots of creepy atmosphere. My complaint with the film was that it failed to keep the shock level up; after the hand chopping scene at the beginning I was never really frightened again.

Tastes differ, of course. It's just possible that a lot of people feel strong sympathy for prehistoric monsters or Barbie dolls, and perhaps they scare at different things than I do. But I prefer the sort of horror film that began with Lon Chaney, "The Phantom of the Opera" is full of eerie sets, catacombs and underground lakes and coffins to sleep in, through which Chaney moves with the grace of an evil bird.

He never just gestures; his hand unwinds as if it were going to strike. And nobody has been able to improve on the sort of makeup he invented for himself.

For his part as The Phantom, he concocted a mixture of wires and putty that makes his face look like it had spent the winter underground. Yet it is still a face. When he covers it in shame, after the opera singer has ripped off his mask, the feeling is of deformity, not makeup.

"The Phantom of The Opera" two buildings I'm sure an opera stage will be constructed and they may even have a seat for you, if you think you could bear it.

As far as the big auditorium goes, the point of the whole DI campaign for bigger and better everything is the usual quantity versus quality which hangs over our little collegiate heads constantly. Or does the plan for the suggested 3,500 seater include telescopes, binoculars and earphones for those in the back row. Even the great herd that you propose to enmasse for Peter Paul and Mary might be disappointed — though they may be clutching their ticket stub they can't even catch a glimpse of Mary's dear corn shuck hair.

Let's build auditoriums that will be useful for the needs of the performing arts of this school first — ones that will acoustically and visually enhance any performance, be it Leonard Rose or the Beatles. I wouldn't you pack them in then.

receive as much as a grunt of acknowledgement.

Give the complaining officer a monie, hobnail boots and a swastika armband and he would have put the Gestapo to shame. We'd probably be in a cattle car headed for Auschwitz right now. In all seriousness it is a series of petty acts such as this one that lead to serious student-community problems.

Iowa City relies heavily on the students of this University for its livelihood and ridiculous episodes like the one we endured can generate only ill feelings toward a city that allows such smallness to be the rule rather than the exception.

This is an open letter, written in subversive red ink, to America:

Get off my back, America! "Take Me To My Leader"

Symphony packs house

By DAVE REID
Iowan Reviewer

The largest audience of the season braved the threat of next week's final schedule to hear the final symphony concert of the semester Wednesday evening in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Virtually all seats were filled when the Orchestra opened with the rich dissonances of the Overture to the Opera "Iphigenie en Aulide" by Gluck. Although the overture is not an extremely difficult work, James Dixon, director of the University Symphony, was very effective in pulling the deep feeling from the orchestra.

The overture was greeted warmly by the audience and a wave of late comers who were forced to stand in the aisles to listen to the "Concerto in E Minor for Violin and Orchestra" by Mendelssohn.

The violin soloist Charles Treger, who was promoted to full professor recently by the board of Regents, presented a sensational interpretation of the Concerto.

The light, inquisitive entrance of the solo violin and orchestra was a bit shaky, but the two quickly molded together through the rest of the performance. The remainder of the Concerto with its beautiful melodic sections and technical difficulties served to reveal Treger's mastery of the instrument. The audience was enthusiastic in expressing its approval of the performance.

The final work of the evening was the "Daphnis and Chloe" by Ravel which combined the voices of the Oratorio Chorus and the University Choir with the symphony again conducted by Dixon.

The choral group — a majority of the members are non-music majors — presented a very nice sound, and the intonation was generally quite good.

This selection is the complete music to the ballet by the same name. Ravel's rich orchestration and its dynamic presentation dramatically carried the theme of the work. The fantasy opened with slow moving voices and proceeded through the exciting middle section before concluding with the pleasant ending of the romance. The wordless choral presentation was particularly effective in its volume contrast providing the dynamic ebb and flow in the ocean of sound.

The audience seemed to enjoy the work and expressed their appreciation accordingly.

For three months, U.S. advisers in the abnormally quiet Mekong River Delta were asking each other: "Where did the Viet Cong go?"

Now they know. Dormant since Christmas, Viet Cong battalions are stirring again across the delta and adjacent flatlands. They have launched three regimental-sized attacks in two weeks.

The Viet Cong were at home all the time. Officials are calling the upsurge of activity the monsoon offensive because it coincides with the rainy season in the southern part of Viet Nam.

Rhetoric training fails student needs

A recently concluded study of the rhetoric program at the University has shown that students not taking this basic course in speaking and writing have been short-changed.

These kids scored lower, on the average, than kids who had completed the course when the two groups were matched against each other in speaking contests. Final results aren't in, but it will say that these same kids will also fare worse on competitive writing exams.

The whole experiment leads us to the obvious question: So what? The trouble with the whole rhetoric department is its failure to grasp the true need of the incoming college freshman. Those instructors don't seem to realize that the English language — both written and spoken — is fast becoming irrelevant on the University campus.

Why waste the student's time with teaching him to read, write and speak? What, this campus truly needs is a basic course in teaching the alphabet, integrated with a basic numbers course.

Everyone knows students don't need to write anymore — they mark boxes with letters and numbers.

"The real trouble with our secondary education system in this state," according to P. K. Markham, associated professor of psychology, "is its total failure to give potential college students training in picking the proper foil in a multiple choice test."

"MANY FRESHMEN faced for the first time with a simple eight-foil question with cross checked answers find themselves completely at a loss," Markham told us in a recent interview. "Although they often know the proper answer, they just cannot communicate it to our machines."

"Not only does this hurt the student's grade point at the University, it will haunt him the rest of his life. Imagine how lost he'll be when he gets into the cold, cruel world and he's unable to make the machines understand him."

"I think the entire rhetoric program should be taken away from these fellows in speech and English and put under the statistics department," the associated professor said smiling.

"Not only should the rhetoric people be brought up to date," he went on, "but those nuts giving the American College Tests ought to shape up too."

"BUT AREN'T THE ACT exams given with a multiple choice format?" we asked.

"Sure they are, but they're entirely too simple. Entirely too simple. Why, they don't even begin to give a prospective college student an idea of the complex questions he'll be facing when he gets to college. And there is no cross grid grading system based

Rains Bog Viet War

By MALCOLM M. BROWNE
NEW YORK — Somewhere in South Viet Nam a big Caribou transport plane loaded with ammunition and food is trying to poke through a low cloud cover to land on a muddy strip a few hundred feet long on the side of a mountain.

Perhaps the big plane will make it. Perhaps it will give up and try again in a few hours. It will keep trying until the Americans and Vietnamese in the desolate outpost below get the things they will have to have to fight off the Viet Cong for another few days.

THE MONSOONS are beginning in South Viet Nam for another season, and the war will be uglier than ever for all concerned.

There are some officials who feel that some time between now and October the Viet Cong will try the big push — to smash through the narrow neck of central Viet Nam from Laos to the South China Sea, cutting the little republic in half.

Others think the war will go into a lull, with both sides bogged down in the neck-deep mud. Still others note that in past years, the war has neither slowed down nor speeded up perceptibly during the monsoon season.

THE WEATHER will be kinder to American and South Vietnamese planes over North Viet Nam in the coming months. Because of cyclic weather patterns over the Indochina peninsula, the monsoon seasons in North and South Viet Nam are reversed, and fighter pilots can expect increasingly good weather north of the 17th Parallel.

But in the South, the monsoons are on the side of the enemy, and newly arrived American combat troops can expect to get their baptism of fire soon. SOUTH VIET NAM has few roads, and even fewer open to government supply convoys. Most American and Vietnamese posts depend on planes and helicopters, not only for supplies and reinforcements, but for close-in strikes on attacking Viet Cong.

When these posts are socked in by bad weather, their vulnerability to Viet Cong attack increases manifold. The Viet Cong, of course, know this, and are likely to try to make the most of it.

WHILE HELICOPTERS generally can fight their way through rain squalls, their rotor blades are subject to rapid erosion by rain drops. This means more maintenance time and less combat availability.

Flooded rice fields give guerrilla units a place to hide, even out in the open. A Viet Cong/breathing through a straw can stay hidden under water for hours, evading the sharpest-eyed patrol pilot.

FLOODED PADDIES also force ground units to use the roads more than usual, and roads are easy to mine and ambush.

Most of all, foul weather impedes air strikes. Dive bombers must start their attack runs from several thousand feet. The cloud cover often is only a few hundred feet high, making such runs impossible. Frequent heavy ground fog makes things even worse.

THE VIET CONG on the ground is slowed down, too, of course. But the element of surprise usually is on his side. This means that with careful planning, he is likely to have more troops than the government at the actual point and time of battle.

Presbyterians Elect Lawyer As Moderator

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A Kansas lawyer, William Phelps Thompson, was elected moderator of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Thursday.

He is the fourth layman in the last quarter-century to be named to the highest titular office of the 3,500,000-member denomination.

Thompson, 46, a partner in a Wichita firm and prominent in civic and church affairs, won over two other nominees.

The final vote was 459 for Thompson, 350 for the Rev. W. Sherman Skinner of St. Louis, and 7 for the Rev. E. G. Montag of Beaver, Pa.

The moderator holds the position for a year, presiding over the current assembly, and serving as rotating representative of the church.

Before the election, delegates heard calls for closer ties with Roman Catholics, greater fraternity with Judaism, fuller unity among all Christians and reconciliation among the races.

The challenging task for the church in this age is "healing the tragic divisions into which, in our alienation from God, we have been led," declared the Rev. Dr. Elder Hawkins, the denomination's retiring moderator.

As the more than 2,000 Presbyterians from across the country convened here, they received a report urging occasional joint worship with Roman Catholics.

Briton Turns Fake French To Escape Viet Cong Net

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Peter Williams denounced the United States and paid money to the Viet Cong. He figures both were good investments because he is alive.

Williams, 37, a Briton, had been in many situations in the years he had moved around the world as an engineer for the International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

But his hours with the Viet Cong were the worst, he said in an interview Thursday.

Williams was on a bus Monday riding to the coastal resort of Nhatrang. He carried equipment for a new microwave telephone system for the Saigon government.

The first 50 miles was uneventful. Then his bus drew up sharply at the beckoning of a Vietnamese in a camouflage fatigue uniform. "The Viet Cong," the passengers whispered fearfully.

Ahead of them, over to the tree shaded side of the road, were a dozen other civilian vehicles. There were about 120 Vietnamese caught in the Viet Cong roadblock.

Several Viet Cong with rifles and automatic weapons were moving along the row of vehicles. One of them stopped sharply when he saw the wavy-haired Englishman sitting in the bus.

"Who are you and what are you doing here?" he demanded. Williams understood the Vietnamese but he answered in French "I am a Frenchman and work on telephones."

"The French are all right," the Viet Cong said. "If he was an American we would have to take him with us."

Then the Viet Cong ordered everyone out. The group was ordered by the captors up a steep embankment and into the jungle clearing — about a mile walk. Children began to cry. Women were weeping.

A Viet Cong who appeared to be the senior man began lecturing the group with violent anti-American statements.

Williams said the Viet Cong was a spellbinding speaker. As his rhetoric mounted the excitement of the crowd rose.

"When he called out the question: 'Who is the greatest enemy of Viet Nam?' Everyone including me cried out 'America,'" Williams said.

Then to his relief everyone was ordered back to the buses. Before they got into the buses the Viet Cong asked everyone to contribute to their funds. Williams gave 500 piasters.

"I guess I bought myself freedom from the Viet Cong for $2.75," he said.

Gyrating Cop Loses Award

PITTSBURGH — Vic Cianca's gyrations performed while doing his duty as a Pittsburgh traffic patrolman made him a favorite of viewers of a television show and the program wanted to give him an award. Then his boss stepped in.

Police Superintendent James W. Slusser has forbidden Cianca to fly to New York to accept the award.

Cianca's dramatic traffic directing was shown on "Candid Camera" Dec. 13. The producers said the showing delighted viewers and they voted it the second best performance in the program's history. They offered Cianca an award.

That's when Slusser put his foot down. Cianca, 45, who has been a traffic patrolman for 14 years, took his superior's edict in stride.

"It would have been a good deal for me to go to New York," he said. "But, I'm a policeman and I try to do my duty as well as I can."

WASHINGTON — Ernesto Guevara, minister of industries in the Fidel Castro regime, has been out of sight for a month or more, but U.S. officials said Thursday there is no indication anything has happened to him.

Guevara, they add, is known to have suffered from asthma for some years and it was speculated he might have over-exerted himself in travels to Africa and Red China early in the year. Or, officials said, he could be on some special assignment in Cuba or elsewhere which has kept him out of public notice.

He was absent from two major events in Cuba recently. One was the May Day parade. The other was a trip to Camaguey, a major provincial city, by Castro and other government officials who went into the cane fields of the area to cut cane and dramatize the importance of the sugar crop.

Big Ten Track Starts Here Today

Badgers, Spartans Are Title Favorites

Wisconsin and Michigan State loom as the top choices to take the team title in the 65th Big Ten track and field meet here today and Saturday.

Wisconsin took the indoor title last March, edging out Michigan State, 46 to 45.

Based on pre-meet indoor competition Michigan State would top all other teams if points were assigned on best performances to date. According to this, the meet's results would be: 1. Michigan — 41; Michigan — 37 5/6; Minnesota — 33 1/2; Iowa — 29 5/6; Northwestern — 26; Wisconsin — 25 1/3; Purdue — 14; Illinois — 8 1/2; Ohio State — 8; and Indiana — 7.

As the best performance chart shows, Michigan will also be a top contender. This is especially true in a year when the Wolverines are cleaning up in practically every sport in the conference. They won the football, basketball, gymnastics, swimming and wrestling titles.

PACING the Badger title bid will be senior high jumper Bill Holden, who last week jumped 6 ft. 8 3/4 inches in leading the Badgers past a strong Western Michigan squad 92-49 in a dual meet at Madison. The leap was Holden's best ever outdoors, and equalled the best jump ever in conference competition — 6 ft. 8 3/4 inches by Al Urbanakas of Illinois in 1957's school record. Holden set the conference indoor mark at 6 ft. 10 inches in 1963 as a sophomore.

Pole vaulter Wes Schmidt will bid for a conference title won last season by Wisconsin sophomore Brian Bergemann at 14 ft. 8 1/2 inches. He has a 15 foot vault to his credit at Minneapolis two weeks ago, and during the indoor season vaulted 15 ft. 3 1/2 inches. Teammate Dave Seiberlich has yet to clear 15 feet, but did place third in the indoor meet at 14 ft. 8 inches. Bergemann has been injured all year by a stomach operation last autumn.

Wisconsin is particularly strong in the 880 yard run where indoor titlist Barney Peterson (1000 yards 2:09.2) and Ken Latigolal (880 yards — 1:53.3) will both be entered. Peterson has a best time of 1:51.7 thus far this year outdoors and he defeated Latigolal last Saturday by one-tenth of a second in 1:52.2 in their race against Western Michigan.

High hurdler Tom Dakin was second in the 120 yard race last year while Gerry Beatty placed second in the 330 intermediate hurdles a year ago. And Wisconsin's mile relay team of Reggie Stalling, Tibbs Carpenter, Bill Heuer and Al Montalbano ran 3:15.4 last Saturday.

MICHIGAN STATE has been coming fast this spring, mainly on the wing feet of Jim Garrett, 100-yard dash and 24 3/4 in the broad jump; Daswell Campbell, Big Ten indoor 300-yard winner who a 1965 best: 47.4 in the 440; Gene Washington, whose high hurdle time of :14 and intermediate hurdle mark of :36.8 tops the league and miler Jan Bowen 4:11.6.

The Spartans also have good ones in high hurdler Clinton Jones, 6-7 1/2 high jumper Mike Bowers and two miler Paul McCollam (9:12.3).

Frustrated in the title chase outdoors since 1962, Coach Don Canham will call upon his foreign Olympian Kent Bernard in the 440 or 660 and Dorie Reid, the indoor 60-yard winner; Dan Hughes; 1:51.5 in the half mile; Brian Kelly, mile; Ted Benedict, 9:11.9 in the two mile; Jack Harvey, 54-7 in the shot put; Fred Lambert, 160-10 in the discus; Bob Densham, 6-6 in high jump; and George Canamare, 15-5 3/4 in the pole vault. The Wolverines' time of 3:12.5 in the mile relay is tops in the league this spring.

It is likely that Iowa and Minnesota will battle it out for fourth place, possibly with Northwestern coming in strong with a few stars. Hawkeyes have sprinter Steve

No Seats Reserved

No seats are reserved in the Iowa track stadium for the Big Ten meet Friday and Saturday. The stands seat about 2,500 persons and tickets are $2 per ticket per session for the public and $1 for university staff, students, and children.

Goldston, who can be in the 100 and 220 title chase if a muscle injury of last week clears up; Al Randolph, intermediate hurdler with :37.7, second in the conference; quarter miler or intermediate hurdler Jon Reimer; high jumper Dick Cummins, 6-5 1/2; Ken Messer, 4:13.4 in the mile; and a swift mile relay team with 3:12.9.

The Gophers are depending upon Byron Giger, :11.1 in the high hurdles; Norris Peterson, who holds the indoor two mile record and has 8:58.7 outdoors; Tom Barnes, 56-8 1/4 in the shot and 165-9 in the discus; Mike Gillham, 48 in the 440 and John Shaffer, 15-5 1/4 in the pole vault.

The other teams each have a minimum of good men such as Jim Harris of Northwestern who could win either the 660 or 880; Elwin Sellers, 440 and Mike Cavotta, shot put, Ohio State; Randy Weddle, Indiana, 220; Craig Boydston and Lee Assenheimer, Northwestern distance runners along with 15-6 1/2 pole vaulter Jim Albrecht; and Lou Sims and Al Washington, Purdue sprinters.

Four Big Ten records are in danger; two mile, high and intermediate hurdles and pole vault. The meet will involve 16 athletes who have won 23 league titles.

COACHES LAST MEET

Coach Larry Snyder of Ohio State and Leo Johnson of Illinois will handle their teams for the final time in a Big Ten championship meet on the Iowa track this weekend. Both retire at the end of the season. Snyder has developed world record-holders, winners of ten Olympic gold medals and was head coach of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team.

Big Ten Votes Against Halting Games for TV

Big Ten athletic directors Thursday decided not to allow football games to be stopped for television commercials.

In their annual business meeting here, Commissioner Bill Reed said, they also voted against the use of closed-circuit television for the purpose of studying football action during the course of a game.

They also discussed the problems of keeping sidelines clear during football games. Reed said the action against allowing games to be interrupted for television commercials was taken to prevent telecasts from interfering with the normal conduct of the game.

AS A RESULT, television sponsors will have to show their commercials during the normal jingles of a game. Reed said the new substitution rule will cover the situation next fall, because the clock is stopped on every kick.

"The public has become aware of and sensitive to the guy in the red cap on the sideline," Reed said, referring to television's system of using a signal for officials to call time out for commercials.

Reed said the Big Ten has welcomed and valued television coverage but feels that such coverage should not interfere with the normal conduct of a football game.

"TELEVISION is entitled to coverage on the basis of giving the viewer the best seat in the house," Reed said, "but our conference takes the stand that it will not adapt the game to television, but rather would have television adapt itself to the game."

The directors discussed at length the problems of football sideline administration. Reed said "all we did was firm up the agreements and regulations governing this problem."

He said the directors re-emphasized three points: That the team sideline area, between the 35 yard lines, be limited to game personnel and staff members only.

PLAYERS are to remain seated throughout the game, but can kneel on the five-foot limit lines during kickoffs.

The area between the bench and the five-foot sideline limit must be kept clear of outsiders so coaches can move about.

Although closed-circuit television has not been used by Big Ten coaches as a game aid, Reed indicated the action taken was in anticipation of such a future practice.

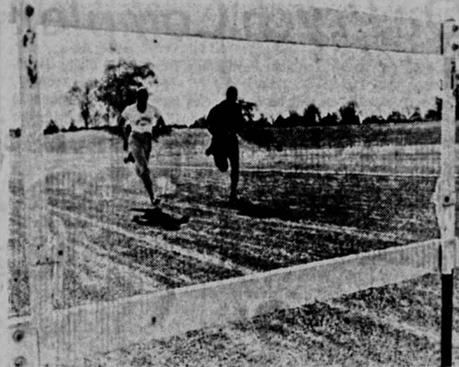

Reed said some athletic directors felt closed-circuit television not only provided excessive technical aid but also was expensive and a hazard to players because of monitors in the bench area.

Hawkeye Times

Seven Iowa trackmen have turned in times or distances this season which are among the best in the Big Ten.

Sprinter Steve Goldston ran a :09.8 and a wind-aided :09.5 hundred yard dash. He ran a :21.5 220-yard dash.

Dennis Kohl ran the hundred in :09.9. Dale Thompson ran a 1:20.8 660-yard run. Ted Brubaker turned in a 1:52.1 time in the 880-yard run. Al Randolph and Jon Reimer have both turned in fast times in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles. Randolph's best time was :37.7 and Reimer's was :36.0.

Luck To Play Big Part In Iowa Tennis Finish

Iowa has a chance to finish at the top of the second division in the Big Ten tennis meet this weekend in Bloomington, Ind.

Tennis coach Don Klotz said earlier this week that Iowa, Minnesota, Purdue, Wisconsin and Ohio were all pretty even, judging from dual meet competition, and that the final rankings would depend on the luck of the draw.

Indiana is favored to repeat as conference champ and Michigan is close behind. Northwestern is not quite as strong, but has a good chance of slipping into the crown, according to Klotz. All three teams have 8-1 dual meet marks.

Michigan State and Illinois are both slightly better than the second division clubs, but probably won't be able to move into any of the top three positions.

Klotz said the seeding arrangement in the tournament guaranteed a fairer tournament for the top teams, but left the lower positions up for grabs.

The final standings in the conference are determined by a combination of dual meet results and the tournament this weekend. Teams go into the tournament with one point for each match they won during the regular season.

To this total are added the points earned in the tournament. A team gets three points for each match it wins in the regular flights and one point for each match in the consolation round.

Indiana leads the pre-tourney standings with 70 points and Michigan has 69. Northwestern drops down to 59 points.

Iowa goes into the tournament in eighth place with 20 points.

Poverty War Will Extend To I.C. Area

President Johnson's "War on Poverty" will extend into Johnson County this summer.

Eighty children from poor families in Johnson County will be given eight weeks of pre-school training under the "Head Start Project," administered by the Johnson County Board of Education.

Funds for the project are being supplied by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal agency coordinating the "War on Poverty."

The program is expected to cost $15,780 with $14,180 coming from the Federal Government.

The goal of the project is to provide children of poor families with a head start in their education so that they may begin regular kindergarten classes on a more equal level with other children.

The children will not only receive classroom work but will go on field trips and excursions and participate in supervised games.

A physical and dental examination will be given to each child. A balanced meal will be provided each day, and there will be a morning milk break.

The program also aims to include parents by involving them in some of the children's activities and in helping them improve the home environment in ways which will also help the youngsters.

STUDENT CHARGED—
A University student was charged with attempting to buy beer as a minor Wednesday night by Iowa City police.

The student, Donald C. Bickley, 21, Ida Grove, attempted to buy beer in the Annex, 26 E. College St., police said.

Construction Starts On Psych Complex

Work on the $1.25 million Psychology Research Building is under way.

The new building will be five stories high and will contain 50 thousand square feet of floor space. It will be connected with the southeast wing of East Hall by a three-story section.

The cost of the building will be partially covered by a National Science Foundation Research Grant. Mercury Builders of Chicago is general contractor. Richard R. Jordison, University architect, said the tentative completion date had been set as Sept. 1, 1966.

The building will be of reinforced concrete. The exterior will be about two-thirds brick and one-third precast concrete, Jordison said.

The building will be windowless on three sides. Rudolph W. Schulz, associate professor of psychology, said that the elimination of windows was vital to behavioral research, the building's purpose.

Schulz said that most kinds of behavioral research required as much environmental control as possible. The present facilities, he said, were only passable and it was very difficult to eliminate sounds and other distracting factors.

The new building will be soundproofed and air conditioned.

No offices or classrooms will be included in the new building. It will contain teaching labs, seminar rooms, animal housing areas, animal surgery areas, data processing rooms and equipment, child research areas and centralized electronic communication.

U.S. Says Red China's Latest Blast Not H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States said Thursday that Red China's latest nuclear test did not involve an H-bomb type device.

It also termed "implausible" any thought that the device exploded last Thursday was missile delivered.

But the government's first announced analysis of the character of the test immediately prompted speculation that the test put the Chinese Communists on the road to developing an H-bomb in two to three years.

This theory came from Dr. Ralph Lapp, a nuclear physicist who worked on the first American A-bomb, but who is not now with the government.

LAPP'S OPINION was expressed after the Atomic Energy Commission reported that the latest test involved detonation of a fission device employing uranium 235. The first test last October also used U235. The AEC also said the latest detonation had a somewhat higher explosive yield than did the first test.

The first blast was generally rated as equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT, much like the early U.S. bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan.

Russell Sees No Opposition For 1966 Re-Election Bid

ATLANTA (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), said Thursday he will be a candidate for re-election next year and does not expect opposition.

The 67-year-old Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces

Committee, told a news conference that two physicians who examined him Friday "said I was not only in good health, but in surprisingly good health."

Taking cognizance of speculation that Gov. Carl E. Sanders will run against him — although he did not mention Sanders by name — Russell said he believes and hopes that he will be unopposed.

Russell held his first news conference since bronchitis and emphysema put him in a Washington hospital Feb. 2. Away from his office since then, Russell will be back at his desk Monday but expects to take it easy for a few days.

After disposing of the political part of the session, Russell said he favored use of the atomic bomb in Viet Nam if Chinese Communists pour into the war-torn Southeast Asia nation to try to conquer it.

"I don't think we should use nuclear weapons unless the Chinese Communists come there in force," he said. "But if they do come in to overrun the country I would use as big a bomb as necessary to keep our American troops stationed over there from being overwhelmed."

Adamson Interview—

Highlanders Have Tradition

William L. Adamson, a man of Scottish descent, directs the all-girl Scottish Highlanders, which originally observed the males-only tradition of authentic Scottish clansmen.

Adamson was directing a band of Scottish pipers in Boston when he received a call from the University to form and direct a similar group here in 1957.

With the help of an Army colonel from the Department of Military Science, he organized 50 students enrolled in the ROTC into a band.

World War II deprived the campus of its males and Adamson of his Highlanders.

In the fall of 1943 he launched a recruiting program designed to fill the Highlanders' depleted ranks with coeds. One month later after countless practice sessions, the Highlanders performed before a stadium of Iowa football fans.

"I had to start them from scratch in marching and playing," Adamson said, "but six hours of practice every day did wonders. We were good."

There are now 77 band members and eight dancers. On occasion they also perform as an a cappella chorus.

"The girls we have now are much more talented than in years before," Adamson said. "They've also developed a tremendous esprit de corps by learning about Scottish culture."

The Highlanders serve a year's apprenticeship before performing. During this period they attend lectures on the history of their instruments and uniforms.

"We want to maintain a purely Scottish tradition in our repertoire," Adamson said. "But we have played selections like 'Donkey Serenade' for kicks and program variety."

The Highlanders practice every afternoon during the football seasons. The band performs at home football games and also accepts three or four invitations each year to perform away from Iowa City.

Adamson has a rigorous schedule in training the girls and supervising the properties.

Roger Smallman, A3, Syracuse, N.Y., has been Adamson's assistant for the past three years. Smallman will quit next year, Adamson said, because he has academic commitments which conflict with the Highlanders' practice schedule.

WHO Can Kick Out South Africa Now

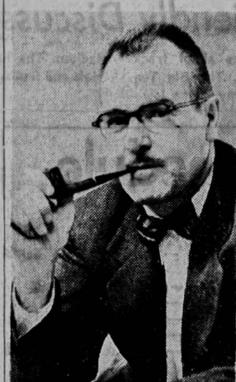

GENEVA (AP)—The African and Asian nations, with solid support from the Communist bloc, achieved Thursday by two votes the necessary two-thirds majority on a resolution enabling the World Health Organization to expel, by simple majority, any member nation it considers guilty of racial discrimination.

The resolution was specifically aimed against the segregation policies of South Africa.

With only a simple majority necessary, the African-Arab-Asian nations will hold absolute sway in future assemblies.

NORTH KOREA PLEDGES AID—

TOKYO (AP)—North Korea officially joined Thursday in the Communist promises of active aid to the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam and said it would send volunteers if they were called for.

Oriental Films To Be Shown By Institute

A series of films and lectures has been scheduled in connection with the Summer Institute on the Far East.

The series, which will run through June and July, will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday nights at Shambaugh Auditorium. The events are free and open to the public.

The first event is June 17 with the film "Kiri" ("To Live"), which has won many film awards. It is directed by Akira Kurosawa, who directed "Rashomon."

June 24, Professor Friedrich Bischoff of Indiana University will lecture on "The Legal Position of the Emperor of China Viewed from Tibet."

"Zen and Christian Love" is the title of the lecture July 1 by Professor Norimoto Iino, visiting professor of Japanese studies for 1965-66. He is on leave from International Christian University in Japan.

"The Balliff" is scheduled July 8. It is a film about 11th-century Japan based on the novel "Sansho Dayu" by Ogai Mori. Films of India are scheduled for July 15. The three films to be shown are "Tagore," "Radha and Krishna," and "Kathakali: Dance Drama of Kerala."

"The Burmese Harp" is the film scheduled for July 29 when "The Martyrs of the 1911 Revolution" will be presented. This Chinese film tells the story of the uprising at Hwang Hua Kang, near Canton, in 1910 that led to the death of 72 martyrs and eventually overthrow of the Manchu empire.

The series is under the auspices of the Department of Chinese and Oriental Studies which is sponsoring the Summer Institute on the Far East.

The institute, now in its seventh year, will offer courses in Chinese civilization, modern Chinese literature, political systems of southeast Asia, Oriental religions, and surveys of specific countries.
