

Number Two Pencils — Secret of Passing Exams

Students taking examinations that are to be machine-scored should always take at least two number 2 pencils to the test, according to Charles R. Statler, director of University Examinations Service.

Statler said number 2 pencils were the only kind that could be used for tests scored on the new grading machines. He said ball-point pens, liquid lead pencils and fountain pens would not register. The new scoring machines work on a reflected light principle, he explained. The machines measure the intensity of light reflected from the answer sheet and only number 2 pencil marks reflect the necessary amount of light.

Statler also requested that students make it a point to return special pencils that are furnished for some tests. He said that about 500 pencils had been lost since the fall semester tests.

Any students possessing both University pencils and conscience pangs, Statler said, might return the pencils to 114 University Hall without being asked any questions.

Bolivians Agree to Cease-Fire

LEADERS OF THE CENTRAL Bolivian Workers Union formally signed an agreement Tuesday to end the eight-day-old civil warfare that killed 70 persons, according to government estimates.

There was still some question whether individual leaders of the leftist tin miners union, part of the COB, will honor the pact signed Monday night by a government representative.

Former Wife of FDR Jr. Found Dead

ETHEL DU PONT ROOSEVELT WARREN, 49, heiress to the Du Pont family millions and former wife of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., was found dead at her home in Grosse Pointe, Mich., Tuesday, apparently from her own hand.

Police said Mrs. Warren's body was found hanging from her dressing room belt attached to a shower fixture in her bathroom.

U.S. Admits Dominica Solution Far Off

MCGEORGE BUNDY, PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S special envoy, will return to Washington today from Santo Domingo after 10 days of intensive negotiations to bring the Dominican rebels and the rival military-civilian junta together in a coalition government. U.S. officials admitted a political solution was still far off.

Union Shop Plan Gets Pats, Pans

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S LABOR-BACKED proposal to legalize the union shop in all states won bipartisan applause in a congressional hearing Tuesday.

But Johnson was criticized by fellow Democrats at another hearing for not going far enough in recommending an increase in the $1.25 minimum wage.

Johnson left it to Congress to decide when and how much to raise the minimum, saying the effect on wages, prices and unemployment should be carefully considered.

House Unit Backs $62 Million Outlay for Regents Schools

DES MOINES (AP) — Bills to appropriate $62 million a year for operating State Board of Regents institutions in the next biennium and $21,150,000 for capital improvements at the institutions in the next two years were recommended for passage by the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday.

The figure for operating the institutions is $2 million a year above the amount recommended by Gov. Harold Hughes, but $7 million annually less than had been requested by the Regents.

The committee voted to include $150,000 for a fireman's training unit at Iowa State University in the capital improvements bill, boosting the total that much above the $21 million recommended by the governor.

The appropriation for operations compares with $50,009,700 a year appropriated by the 1963 legislature for operating the institutions during the biennium which ends on June 30.

The appropriation for capital improvements is $5 million higher than the amount provided for the present biennium.

The various Board of Regents institutions would receive these annual amounts in operating funds:

University of Iowa $20,953,613; Lakeside Laboratory $7,997; University Hospital $7,620,664; Psychopathic Hospital $1,652,516; Bacteriological Laboratory $519,504; Hospital School $1,010,155.

Iowa State University $16,278,886; Agricultural Experiment Station $2,916,364; Extension Services $2,047,940.

State College of Iowa $6,170,719; Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School $593,956; Iowa School for the Deaf $1,009,029; and Oakdale Sanatorium $1,248,786.

The capital improvements funds would break down this way:

University of Iowa $9,817,000; Iowa State University $8,531,000 plus $150,000 appropriated earlier for the Stange Road Bridge over Squaw Creek; State College of Iowa $2,009,000; Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School $93,300; Iowa School for the Deaf $493,000; and Oakdale Sanatorium $56,700.

SEN. RUSSELL IS BACK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., returned to the Senate Monday after a long illness. He said he assumes "the die is cast" on President Johnson's voting rights bill and he will not attempt to take command of the Southern opposition at the 11th hour.

Campus Custodian Injured in Plunge From 2-Story Roof

A University custodian fell off a two-story house at 125 N. Gilbert St. Tuesday while painting the roof. The custodian, Ron Conner, 517 Eighth Ave., was taken to Mercy Hospital where, according to a hospital official, "his condition is as good as can be expected." The official could not say what injuries Conner had suffered.

Four-Plane Viet Attack Poses Enigma

U.S. Officials Disagree Whether AF Jets, Or MIGs Strafed Outpost

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A four-plane raid on a South Vietnamese outpost near Communist North Viet Nam's frontier took top billing in the air war over stronger strikes above the 17th Parallel as a whodunit Tuesday.

U.S. spokesmen disagreed among themselves as to whether the jets that strafed the outpost, at Gia Linh, were enemy MIGs making an initial strike across the border or U.S. fighters that strayed off course on another mission.

Officials in Saigon, closest to Gen. William C. Westmoreland's American headquarters, said they were 99 per cent sure that U.S. pilots shot up the outpost by mistake.

A U.S. spokesman at the DaNang air base, 380 miles closer to the scene of the incident, said the planes presumably were MIGs. He added, however, that base intelligence officers still were checking.

Though the Soviet-built warplanes have figured in three incidents north of the border in the last three months, U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots have not encountered any recently and none is known to have intruded into the South.

Elsewhere there were broader-gauged developments.

Pentagon figures showed the combat death toll of U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam has reached 385 — equalling American battle deaths in the Spanish-American war. The toll of wounded in Viet Nam as of May 17 is even greater than that in the 1898 hostilities — 2,176 to 1,662.

U.S. Marines killed five Viet Cong during three separate skirmishes on patrols southwest of the Da Nang air base. One Marine was wounded slightly.

Red guerrillas staged an ambush Monday night north of Da Nang, hitting a Vietnamese government platoon that moved into an area where Viet Cong saboteurs recently blew up six railroad bridges. Six soldiers were killed, one wounded and seven were listed as missing.

Four dozen or more American planes knifed into North Viet Nam.

Five Men Die In Tennessee Mine Blast

Two Bodies Recovered; Rescue Workers Slowed By Escaping Gas Fumes

ROBBINS, Tenn. (AP) — The bodies of all five miners killed by a gas explosion and entombed in an eastern Tennessee coal mine were located Tuesday.

Two were recovered and identified at an emergency morgue at a hospital at nearby Oneida, Tenn., as Arthur Norris, 45, and Lawrence Griffith, 45.

Still inside the shattered shaft were the bodies of Russell Webb, 45, Clayton Griffith, 20, and Phillip Davis, 55. Webb's body was pinned under a mine car at a loading point where he operated machinery. The other two bodies were located even deeper inside, about 3,000 feet from the entrance.

Authorities said they had abandoned hope that the two missing men would be found alive.

Officials said none of the bodies will be removed until all are found. Then they will be taken to Scott County Hospital at Oneida for identification.

Gas fumes, caused by a mixture of methane gas and coal dust, overcame at least six men and hindered recovery operations.

After a five-hour delay during which two large fans sucked gas from the eastern Tennessee mountainside shaft, rescue work was resumed.

Authorities identified the first dead miner found as Russell Webb, 45. His body was found beneath a loaded coal car about 1,800 feet inside the Cumberland plateau mine.

The explosion occurred about noon Monday. It was so strong it shattered timbers in the mine and seared grass and weeds outside the pit's mouth up to a distance of 25 feet.

Everett Griffith, 54, father of one of the trapped men, Clayton Griffith, said the miners were working about 3,000 feet inside the shaft.

"I would have been with them; if I hadn't laid off yesterday to plow," Griffith said.

U.S. Gives Area Families $46,348 Worth of Free Food

Surplus foods weighing 148,044 pounds and valued at $46,348 were distributed in Johnson County during 1964, the State Department of Social Welfare recently announced.

The annual figures show that the U.S. Department of Agriculture donated 15,607,622 pounds of foods worth $4,818,960 to needy persons in 75 Iowa counties that participated in the program.

The foods were donated to each county free of charge. The counties paid the cost of transporting the food from the central warehouse in Des Moines and the cost of storage and distribution.

Bringing the food to Johnson County and distributing it cost about $5,000 in 1964, welfare officials said. The transportation cost was $1,447.

Chopped meat, dried milk, cornmeal, flour and butter were the most widely distributed local commodities. Almost 16,000 pounds of chopped meat were given in the year.

The donated foods were designed to help low-income families have more nutritious diets without cost.

The State Welfare Board said the families were able to use their regular grocery funds for fresh fruits, meats, dairy products and vegetables.

I.C. Youth Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department Tuesday announced a special summer Youth Corps project for Iowa City, Iowa, to provide summer work for 40 persons at a cost of $31,100.

The project was among 51 in 23 states to cost $4.5 million and to provide job opportunities for youths 16 to 21 years of age.

Of those approved Tuesday, 47 are special projects to help combat expected peak youth unemployment this summer.

The federal government would put up all except $4,000 of the Iowa City project.

Swift Passage of LBJ 'Must' Measure Is Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — With three votes to spare, the Senate decided Tuesday to stop talking about President Johnson's voting-rights bill and clear the way for swift passage.

For the seventh time in its history — and only the second time on civil rights legislation — the Senate voted to invoke its debate-curbing cloture rule.

The roll call was 70-30, three votes over the required two-thirds. The action limits each senator to one more hour of talk on the bill that Johnson 10 weeks ago labeled No. 1 on his congressional priority list.

THE VOTE came on the 24th day of debate about Johnson's call for legislation that would suspend state literacy and similar tests and send federal officials to register Negroes in much of the South.

And it came with no last-minute outcry from the Southern senators who insist the bill is unconstitutional. There was no debate about the cloture move — and in the minutes before the show-down vote, nobody had anything to say. So the Senate passed its time calling the roll to take attendance.

With the debate curb in effect, the Senate moved on to a series of rapid-fire roll calls on amendments to the bill.

Southerners proposed most of them.

DIRKSEN and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana both predicted the bill will be passed by Wednesday.

During the long debate, the average floor turnout has been but a handful of senators.

All but a few were at their desks before the cloture vote began. The galleries were crowded — although not full — and Senate

French Police Arrest Six SAO Plotters

PARIS (AP) — Police announced Tuesday the arrest of six Secret Army Organization plotters and said they had planned to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle on his tour of the provinces last week by placing a bomb in a statue where he laid a wreath.

The police said the six also were involved in a plot aimed at blowing up the president eight months ago. That attempt failed because explosives placed in a flower pot near a spot where De Gaulle was to take part in World War II ceremonies failed to go off.

The Secret Army Organization was formed in Algeria by French military men and civilians in an attempt to block De Gaulle's government from granting independence to that North African colony.

Although a half-dozen persons are under arrest, leaders of the deadly schemes are said by police to be still at large and probably across France's borders.

Those arrested are unknown to the general public — a student agricultural engineer, a grocer, a doctor, a school executive, an insurance agent and a farmer, from scattered parts of France.

aides ringed the rear of the chamber.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey put the question: "Is it the sense of the Senate that debate on S1564, to enforce the 15th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, should be brought to a close?"

FORTY SEVEN Democrats and 23 Republicans said yes. Twenty one Democrats and nine Republicans said no.

"The motion to bring the debate to a close is agreed to," Humphrey said.

Johnson's bill would impose new voting-rights guarantees in states or counties which have populations that are 20 per cent Negro, use literacy tests, and where voter turnouts fell below 50 per cent last November.

That means Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina and parts of North Carolina and Virginia.

In addition, the Senate version would authorize voter registration in any county where less than 25 per cent of the adult Negroes are registered to vote.

FOUR SENATORS who were on hand for the 1964 cloture vote shifted their stands this time.

Sens. Howard W. Cannon (D-Nev.), Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), and Jack Miller (R-Iowa), all voted against cloture this time. They favored it on the 1964 bill.

Sens. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) voted for cloture this year. He had voted no in 1964.

For Satyagraha—

Truth through non-violence

This article is the first part of a research essay written by Pravin Kambhraj, G. Bombay, India. The essay is entitled "In Defense of Dr. King — for the sake of Satyagraha."

This is a research essay based on the writings of numerous authors. My purpose is neither to prove anything as "right" or "wrong," nor is it to "convince" anyone of my individual opinion. Instead this is written with the concern expressed by the American philosopher Choueney Wright: "One must seek truth with an open and free mind rather than dogmatically conclude about the truth."

This essay is in part a reply to a letter to the editor of March 17, 1965 — "Negotiations are Out." And so with the help and inspiration of Tacitus, who said "Truth is established by investigation and delay." I would like to present a few words on the other side. "Negotiations are In."

AS MULFORD Sibley pointed out, American culture, at times, has been peculiarly violent, both in outlook and practice. It has exalted physical force, praised rough action, and placed in the forefront such cynical statements as "fear God and keep your powder dry," or "speak softly but carry a big stick."

Violence has been associated with the frontier spirit, the Westward movement, the treatment of the American Indian, the rise of business corporations and the development of labor organizations. Violent crimes are more numerous proportionately than in most other nations of the world.

Now all this is in some measure true. Yet there is another side. It should be emphasized that explicit doctrines and practice of non-violence were reflected during the 17th century when Menonites and Quakers settled in the colony of Pennsylvania. In their early Pennsylvania communities Menonites had an influence on American life far out of proportion to their numbers. Their personal example of inoffensiveness was without a doubt very important. Although Quakers have been criticized for their inconsistencies in conduct, their great experiment in nonviolence still stands out as one of the noblest efforts of man.

NON-VIOLENT action has a long history, much of which has unfortunately been lost through the preoccupation of historians with wars and kings. It has been practiced in significant degrees in most, if not all, parts of the world in a variety of political, cultural and historical conditions. Some of these were "successful," others "failures" and still others somewhere in between.

W. R. Miller in his article "Notes on the Theory of Nonviolence" clearly warns that there is a temptation to think of non-violence as a panacea which, if applied to any situation, is sure to bring the desired solution or "success." But it is possible, and also important and necessary, to reject this view in wishful thinking, without rejecting nonviolence as a commitment.

Nonviolence is not a mechanical thing. You do not become non-violent by merely saying "I shall not use force." Gandhi himself admitted that "perfect nonviolence is impossible so long as we exist physically, for we would want some space at least to occupy. Perfect nonviolence whilst you are inhabiting the body is only a theory like Euclid's point or straight line, but we have to endeavor every moment of our lives."

THE WORD "Satyagraha" seems as foreign to Americans as the idea underlying it. It literally means "insistence on truth."

This idea and practice was at the center of Gandhi's life. If one doesn't understand this, he has missed the meaning of Gandhi's life and death.

Gandhi defined Satyagraha as follows: "Satyagraha, then, is literally holding on to truth and it means therefore, truth-force. It excludes the use of violence because man is not capable of knowing the absolute truth and, therefore, not competent to punish.

"The word was coined in South Africa to distinguish the non-violent resistance of the Indians of South Africa from the contemporary 'passive resistance' of the suffragettes and others. It is not conceived as a weapon of the weak.

"Civil disobedience is civil breach of umbral statutory enactments. The expression was, so far as I am aware, coined by Thoreau to signify his own resistance to the laws of the slave state. He has left a masterly treatise on the duty of civil disobedience. Noncooperation too, like Civil Disobedience, is a branch of Satyagraha which includes all non-violent resistance for the vindication of truth."

IT SHOULD be remembered what Gandhi himself thought of as Satyagraha. "I have never claimed to be the one original Satyagrahi. What I have claimed is the application of that doctrine on an almost universal scale, and yet it remains to be seen and demonstrated that it is a doctrine capable of assimilation by thousands upon thousands of peoples in all ages and climes."

J. B. Boudurant points out, despite Gandhi's own clarifications regarding non-violence and Satyagraha, the common readiness with which Gandhi's name is invoked and the self-satisfaction with which people make references to Gandhian methods is not always backed by the awareness of its subtleties. For non-violence alone is weak, non-cooperation in itself could lead to defeat, and civil disobedience without creative action may end in alienation.

In other words, the reality is not so easily treated as words. Certainly, I think, it is not like the practice in the skills of snake-charming or rope-dancing.

The other America

These are bad times for Americans who wish to be proud of their country, not just reflexively, but for sound moral and intellectual reasons. American soldiers fight on two continents in support of regimes with little or no popular support. American aircraft have been used in an attempt to bomb into submission Dominican rebels against an American-supported military junta, while in Southeast Asia, American pilots destroy life and property with little opposition.

The President of the United States, a man of peace during the electoral campaign, becomes more warlike than his political opponent as soon as he is safely returned to office. Only a few courageous legislators resist the alacrity with which Congress, like the Reichstag of Wilhelm II or Adolf Hitler, rubber-stamps the President's demands for military appropriations and unconditional support of future ventures known only to him.

On the domestic front, the Ku Klux Klan marches under the Confederate flag in a Southern city and three of its members, indicted for the murder of a woman civil rights worker, are cheered as heroes.

But there is another America and it shows its face in the Dominican Republic beside the grisly visage of the American occupation. A Peace Corps delegation had been in the country for some time. There were about 108 of them, a trivial number by comparison with the tens of thousands of military personnel that Mr. Johnson moved in, ostensibly to avert a Castro-type take-over. Yet, in the Dominican Republic and all over Latin America, that handful may offset some of the damage that American intervention has done and threatens still to do.

The Peace Corps people were teaching Dominican fishermen to increase their catches, helping farmers with modern techniques, and conducting teacher-training programs. Some were nurses. When the fighting began, they turned from peace to war, but their mission remained the same — to bring American help to others less fortunate.

Since they were already among the people, they worked mainly in hospitals in the rebel quarter of Santo Domingo. The Dominican referred to them as "those other types of Americans," and while this may mean simply that they are not soldiers, it is a particularly apt phrase.

Some of the American soldiers, with the astigmatism, inseparable from their indoctrination, resented the Peace Corps services to the rebels. Giving help without asking the politics of those who needed help — wasn't that communism? "Many of the soldiers don't understand that for the Peace Corps to be effective after the revolution it cannot take sides now," said Roberta Warren, 25 years old, from Windom, Minn.

Mr. Johnson's official advisers have brought him with terrible speed to a terrible brink. The advice of Miss Warren could even now show him a way back.

It takes courage to criticize

In order to understand the recent visit of the three State Department representatives, it must be placed in its proper perspective. Prior to their arrival, various newspapers had carried statements to the effect that those who criticize our present policy are misleading Hanoi about America's determination in Viet Nam.

Dean Rusk had previously accused professors of being gullible and having a stubborn disregard for plain facts. The day the "truth team" arrived, columnist Evans and Novak stated in their syndicated column that "Administrative officials are finally convinced that despite all the speeches and explanations in the past, many Americans — specifically including those on college campuses — still don't know why the United States is fighting in Viet Nam."

The implication here was that opposition was based upon ignorance, not upon a thorough evaluation of the situation. During the Viet Nam forum the State Department representatives intimated that university people are not qualified to judge U.S. policy in Viet Nam since they have not been there.

IT IS NO wonder that with this climate of anti-intellectualism and Presidential efforts to silence or minimize criticism that such hostility was shown. The letters in Thursday's Daily Iowan are apparently based upon a May 14 Time article which contained a photograph and one paragraph concerning the U of I which stated "they (the truth team) were picketed, hooted and jeered at by the largely hostile audience."

IT'S TRUE! The audience did hoot and jeer — when the team insulted them or said something demonstrably false.

The actions of some members of the audience were no doubt unjustifiable, but much of the action was in response to actual or perceived provocation from the officials. Contrary to any charges, the audience was most attentive, if only because they hoped to catch an error in the officials' reasoning.

The letter from the Air Force cadet is a cause for shame for the state of Iowa. That someone from Iowa could draw so many conclusions from eight sentences in a magazine is incredible. Having spent over four years in the Air Force, I feel qualified to reply to his charge of cowardice.

It takes no courage to support the Administration's Viet Nam policy when you are surrounded by thousands of like-minded unquestioning individuals.

TO THOSE WHO have listened only to the Government's side of the question it sounds very convincing, but how many Air Force Academy personnel have ever looked into the other side of the question?

The true essence of courage is not the willingness to follow blindly in the footsteps of the leader, but rather to have the courage to attempt to set him again on the path from which he strayed. It takes infinitely more courage to pit yourself against the unquestioning masses knowing that you'll be called a coward, a traitor, or a Communist dupe.

Atten-shun! (please?)

By ART BUCHWALD

The Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Harold K. Johnson, has just circulated an order telling Army drill sergeants to clean up their language. In other words, no more swearing at recruits. The order came as a shock to most Army NCO's whose vocabulary of four-letter words has been their only source of communication. Some sergeants were so thrown by the order that they haven't been able to utter a sound since.

But the military can adapt to any situation and many drill sergeants have gotten into the spirit of the new regulation.

Just the other day I attended a training camp where the drill sergeant had just gone into effect.

The drill sergeant came into the barracks at six in the morning and shouted, "Wakeup, wakeup, everyone! It's a glorious morning and you're all invited out on the verandah to join me for exercise."

"Say, sarge," one of the privates said, "I'm tired. Do you mind if I sleep this morning?"

"Why not, Wozinski? It's your Army. Could you meet us at the rifle range when you're in the mood?"

"I'll try," the private said, "but I'm not making any promises."

"That's a good boy, Wozinski. Now, everybody out on the verandah."

Only half the platoon was dressed. The other half had stayed in their sacks. I have a suspicion for you men. We're going to march.

The sergeant seemed pleased. "Well, we have more than enough to start with. I have a surprise for you men. We're going to march over to the mess hall together and I'm going to count cadence."

The platoon started calling and booing.

"Now, come on, fellows. That's not nice. After all, I'm your drill sergeant. Why don't we try it? If you don't like it, we won't do it again."

The men shrugged their shoulders and started marching towards the mess hall.

"Smith and O'Malley," the sergeant said, "you're out of step."

"Out of step with what?" O'Malley wanted to know.

"The rest of the platoon."

In the afternoon the sergeant announced the platoon would go on a hike. He ordered full packs, rifles, and cartridge belts.

Three of the recruits drove up in station wagons.

"What are you fellows doing?" the sergeant asked.

"What's the matter," one of the recruits said, "you never heard of Hertz rent-a-car?"

"Oh, damn," the sergeant said.

Just then an officer walked by. "Sergeant, did I hear you curse?"

"I was just muttering."

"It came out loud and clear. Let's go over and talk to the C.O. about this."

'Intellectual' reaction like pot calling kettle black

To the Editor: For some time it has seemed to me and many others that apropos of Viet Nam, the reactions of a handful of self-anointed "intellectuals" has been disappointingly like "pot call the kettle black."

Likewise, though some of them were in a "rage" (the word I heard over their "treatment" by government spokesmen on the campus, some of their colleagues found their "belligerent," "Far Right-type" (the words I heard) behavior equally reprehensible. A third account considered the faculty meeting "very good all around." How one emerges from a meeting evidently has much to do with how one goes in — even in the hallowed halls of academia.

We have seen the supposed "myths," "cliches," "a priori assumptions," melodrama, simplistic moralizing and self-righteousness of the government met merely with more of the same.

Academics who agree with the critics' positions are called "scholars," but scholars who disagree are called "brainwashed" — by the "establishment." The United States is criticized for wanting to "have its way," but we see "intellectuals" on the verge of temper tantrums when they don't have "their way."

I suggest that "intellectuals," like the rest of us, are subject first to all their creativeness — and all that implies, including subjectivity of perception and interpretation. They, too, can carry chips on the shoulder. They, too, can choose which facts, what history or historian, what psychology to play up or down. One can make a mystique about the "academic mind" as well as the "military mind."

One can be mesmerized by the fear of nuclear war as well as by the fear of another Munich. One can be glued in a corner by anti-Communism as well as by anti-Communism.

There has not been on this campus a genuine debate or dispassionate discussion of possible alternatives feasible at this time, on this planet, among these creatures. That would be a breath of fresh air indeed.

As for myself, comes the revolution, and I'll go out in the arms of the General (like any good Vietnamese!).

Khrushchev View of Battle Printed

MOSCOW (AP) — A rewritten history of the battle of Stalingrad, which former Premier Khrushchev claimed to have master-minded, has been published, the newspaper Red Star reported Tuesday.

The military newspaper said the new book, entitled "The Great Victory on the Volga," "eliminates mistakes which were made previously in the evaluation of plans of the two opposing sides."

must have junior standing by next fall.

The committee is a policy determining body, setting the Code of Student Life. It includes the president of the Student Senate and one member of the Student Senate and one male and one female student representative are chosen each year.

The male representative will be selected by Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary men's leadership fraternity.

Applications may be picked up at the new Union Information Desk. Completed forms must be returned there by Friday noon.

Education Bill Starts House, Senate Fight

DES MOINES (AP) — The House voted 69-52 Tuesday to insist on its amendments to a Senate bill to establish minimum standards for schools.

The action forces the bill into a Conference committee to resolve the differences between the House and Senate versions.

House Speaker Vince Steffen, (D-New Hampton) appointed as the House conferees Riley Gillette (D-Spencer) Carroll Wright (D-Davenport) James Gallagher (D-Cedar Falls) and Conrad Ossian (R-Red Oak).

The House action came on a motion by Rep. James Resnick (D-Davenport) that the House recede from about 20 amendments it attached to the Senate measure.

Rep. Paul Kemper (D-Belle-veue) objected to Resnick's motion, saying it was asking the House to concede that "our judgment was faulty" in amending the bill.

He contended that the course requirements in the bill would make Iowa schools offer two more units of study than are required by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and that the library facilities required in the bill are identical with those of the association.

Resnick said one thing that was wrong with the bill was an amendment attached by Rep. William Reichardt, (D-Des Moines) reading: "The state superintendent with the approval of the state board, shall adopt such rules and regulations governing private organizations and associations in Iowa which organize, sponsor, sanction or schedule extracurricular activities in which students attending school affected by this act participate."

Resnick said this amendment "would give the state superintendent power to control the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls."

A TEMPERANT PROPOSAL—
WASHINGTON (AP) — Aviation-minded industrialist Harry F. Guggenheim proposed Monday that airport managements be given authority to prevent airplane takeoffs by pilots who have been drinking.

Shortest Title Fight in History—

Clay KO's Liston in First Round

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Cassius Clay knocked out Sonny Liston with a short right hand punch to the jaw in one minute of the first round Tuesday night, the shortest heavyweight title fight in history.

Clay dropped the ex-champ on his back with a solid short right. Sonny tumbled over and tried to get up but fell on his back again.

Referee Jersey Joe Walcott, the former heavyweight champion, apparently could not hear the knock-down time keeper's count. When Sonny got up Jersey Joe let them continue while he checked with officials of the Maine State Boxing Commission.

Informed that the count of 10 had been reached, Walcott immediately rushed over and stopped the fight.

A chorus of boos rolled from the gathering of some 4,500 fans at the tiny high school hockey arena in this textile city. Nobody knew for several confusing moments whether the fight was over or not.

It was the same sort of ending that Rocky Marciano and Walcott had in their rematch in Chicago after a furious first fight. Walcott went out quickly in the very first round.

The quickest previous knockout in a heavy title match was the 1:28 first round knockout scored by Tommy Burns over Jem Roche in Dublin, March 17, 1908. In all there had been 11 previous first round endings in the heavyweight class.

One quick punch and it was all over. Liston went on his back, rolled over, got to his right knee and then fell on his back.

After the sudden ending, Clay toured the ringside yelling, "I want Floyd Patterson."

A chorus of fans yelled "fake, fake, fake" and boomed for several minutes as photographers and others swarmed into the ring.

The pattern of the fight was apparent from the opening seconds. Clay immediately moved in and threw a right hand to the head and a hook to the jaw, quickly establishing that he was in command. Then he danced away, circling while Liston plodded after him flat-footed.

Liston managed a short right but missed with a jab as Clay moved in, dancing with his hands down at his side. Clay landed a right and then brought up a short right to the jaw and it was all over.

If possible, this was an even more bizarre ending than their previous match Feb. 25, 1964, when Liston quit in his corner at the seventh bell, claiming he had damaged his left shoulder.

Earlier Clay had tried to quit, claiming he couldn't see.

"I said my prayers regularly and Muhammad was with me."

"I kept telling the bum to get up," he went on, "but I was a little too fast for him. His punches hit my arm."

Pressed for a description of the punch that ended the fight, Clay seemed uncertain.

"A left hook, and a right cross," he said at first.

When he was asked again, however, he said:

"I'll have to see the video tape."

The slow motion television camera, however, showed the decisive punch as being a right to the head that just seemed to reach Liston's face.

Asked about his next fight, Clay said:

"We have got the bear, now we will get the hare."

That was a reference to former champion Floyd Patterson, who Clay has been calling a rabbit.

Maine's first heavyweight title bout, chased out of Boston by the authorities and not recognized by the World Boxing Association, ended in complete chaos. The few fans who had paid the prices ranging from $100 to $25, crowded around the ring side and yelled "fix" and "fake."

Francis McDonough, the knock-down timekeeper, said he had actually counted up to 12 before the 31-year-old Liston finally got up.

The elaborate security precautions to guard Clay against any average attempts by black nationalist supporters of the slain Malcolm X, were hardly needed. The irate ringside fans, yelling "fake" were the only security threat.

The once-postponed fight was beamed to Europe by the Early Bird satellite. Millions of Europeans had stayed up until nearly 4 a.m. to see it.

The closed circuit television people had one million seats available at 258 locations.

Tourney Changed To New Course

INDIANAPOLIS — Jim Ferrier, who set a one-round record of 61 in the Speedway Festival Golf Tournament two years ago, said Tuesday a new course is three to four strokes tougher than the Speedway layout where he fired his brilliant card.

Because of unfinished improvements, the $87,500 tourney which opens Thursday has been shifted from the Speedway's 6,467 yards, to suburban Greentree Country Club, which measures 7,037 yards.

The tourney record for the full route of 72 holes is 264 by Billy Casper, the 1962 winner.

English Lotus Has Fastest Race Chassis

INDIANAPOLIS — Race car builder Ted Halibrand of Torrance, Calif., who will have five of his Shrikes in the 500-mile line-up next Monday, conceded Tuesday that the English Lotus chassis probably is about two miles per hour faster than anything else in the race.

The Shrikes, better known as Halibrand-Fords or Halibrand Offys, depending on the power plant, will be driven by Lloyd Ruby, starting in ninth place; Johnny Rutherford, 11th; Roger McCluskey, 23rd; rookie Joey Leonard, 27th, and Chuck Rodee, 30th.

Lotus creations by Colin Chapman of London, powered by special Ford engines, will start in the first three spots and five of the first seven. They have such chargers of the wheel as A. J. Foyt, four-time USAC national champion; Scot Jimmy Clark; international racer Don Gurney; former winner Parnelli Jones and durable 41-year-old Al Miller.

"I'm positive we haven't reached anywhere close to our peak yet with these new rear-engine cars," Halibrand said.

STP Specials
The radical Ferguson-designed four-wheel-drive car, STP-Nowi No. 9, has been teamed with a conventional Novi-powered roadster, No. 59, to make up the STP entry for Indianapolis this year. Bobby Unser, who drove the four-wheel-drive car in 1964, has qualified the same machine in the middle of the third row for the 1965 Indianapolis 500-mile classic.

Heart Victim Charlie Dressen Gets Advice From Tebbetts

By JOE REICHLER
A.P. Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Listen to your doctor. Do whatever he tells you. And learn to walk away from whatever you're doing the moment you get tired.

This advice was passed on Tuesday by Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cleveland Indians, to Charlie Dressen, a recent heart attack victim who is slated to resume as manager of the Detroit Tigers next week.

Tebbetts should know. He suffered a heart attack a year ago last April. Like Dressen, he returned to action three months later.

"I took it easy at first," Tebbetts recalled during a lull period before Tuesday's Indians-New York Yankee game. "I was what you might call a four-five inning manager. At the first sign of fatigue, I'd call it quits and spend the rest of the game in the clubhouse."

Reminded that Dressen is a tense, explosive individual Tebbetts grinned.

"I'm not exactly a Mr. Milk-toast myself," he said. "As a matter of fact, my doctor told me I was the most difficult patient he'd ever encountered. It took me a while to accept the fact I was a heart victim."

"The sudden realization that you're not impregnable is the biggest jolt. But, in due time, sanity returns and you realize you cannot live the same kind of life you've lived before. That is, if you want to continue to live."

IKE TO MISS MATCH— PHILADELPHIA — A sore arm will prevent former President Dwight D. Eisenhower from competing Wednesday in a special benefit golf match sponsored by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Heart Association.

Contributions to MSP To Help Rebuild Church

Student contributions collected by the Mississippi Support Program (MSP) will be used to help rebuild a burned-out church in Holly Springs, Miss., this summer. John Huntley, assistant professor of English and coordinator of MSP, said Tuesday.

The St. Joseph Baptist Church, the one to be rebuilt, was destroyed by fire on the night of March 22. The cause of the fire was officially listed as accidental.

The church had been used for regular Sunday services and for twice-weekly freedom meetings concerned with the voter registration drive in Marshall County, Miss.

In a letter sent to Huntley soon after the fire, Mrs. Bernice Tatten, a former schoolteacher who had been a leader in the registration drive, said the meetings had been, drawing about 75 Negro sharecroppers and farmers before the fire.

The fire had badly frightened them and demoralized the whole program, her letter continued.

Mrs. Tatten wrote that her group planned to build the new church of brick. It might be burned out, she said, but it couldn't be burned down again.

Huntley said MSP has sent a check for $50 to Holly Springs to aid in reconstruction of the church. He described MSP, an independent local group composed of faculty, students and townspeople of Iowa City, as a community-to-community program.

COMMITTEE APPROVES DST— WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill declaring that areas which adopt Daylight Saving Time must make it effective on the last Sunday in April and end it on the last Sunday in October won the Senate Commerce Committee's approval Monday.

Two Dancers Get Summer Scholarships

Two dance students have received scholarships for further work in dance this summer. They are Linda Cox, A3, Iowa City, and Judith Strait, A3, Colorado Springs.

Miss Cox has received a scholarship from the Connecticut School of Dance, where she will study with such well-known modern dancers as Martha Graham, Jose Limon, and Lucas Hoving.

The scholarship is given annually. Part of the funds for the cooperative grant were raised by the University's Dance Theatre through its concert programs.

Miss Strait is majoring in music and minoring in dance. She will study dance with Hanya Holm, one of the leading dance teachers and choreographers in America. Miss Strait is a dance major.

600-800 Demonstrate— Pickets Plague Opening Session Of HUAC Hearings In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Pickets opposing hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities blocked a police patrol wagon Tuesday by lying beneath its wheels.

The incident occurred during a luncheon break in the hearings that started Tuesday in the former U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals building on Lake Shore Drive, in Chicago's Gold Coast neighborhood.

A Negro youth attempted a one-man sit-in in the lobby of the building and was hauled out by police. When the patrol wagon arrived, nine pickets from between 600 and 800 marching around the building crawled under the car and kept it from starting.

Police got down on their hands and knees to pull the demonstrators out and put six of them in the wagon. As the car moved along a woman threw herself in its path. Police carried her into the wagon. Farther along a man did the same and he was seized.

While the Congressional committee was taking testimony from one witness, demonstrators against and for the committee proceedings paraded about the former courthouse. Some were in costume, many carried signs and there was singing and shouting. A group of folk-singers carried an amplifier for their voices and guitars.

A woman who said she spied for the FBI told the committee a Communist party worker who introduced herself as a Negro civil rights campaigner led her into the party.

Miss Lola Bell Holmes, who described herself as once "a darling of the Communist party," gave the testimony as the first witness at the three-day hearing.

Inside the hot, crowded hearing room lawyers and committee members shouted at one another while a small gallery of spectators contributed to the noise.

Miss Holmes, a Negro with graying hair, said she joined the Communists while working in the garment industry. She said she had spied as an FBI undercover agent from August, 1957, until August, 1963, when she testified for the FBI against Claude Lightfoot, former head of the party in Illinois.

Now a staff assistant for the Chicago Urban League, Miss Holmes said she was recruited into the party by Rose Topceker whom she first met in the garment industry in 1941.

She did not know Rose Topceker as a Communist then, she said, but as a fighter for Negro civil rights. Miss Topceker to recruit her into the party for a career concentrated in the garment industry.

Senate-House Unit Backs School Bill

DES MOINES (AP)—Senate-House Conference Committee recommended Tuesday that the Legislature pass what essentially is the Senate version of a bill to create a system of area colleges and vocational schools in Iowa.

The Senate first passed the bill, limiting the number of schools to a maximum of 20 and allowing collection of up to one mill of taxes within the area to operate them and, with approval of 60 per cent of the area voters, another mill to erect buildings for the schools.

The House eliminated the local tax proposal and removed the limit on the number of schools. It also would take control of them from the State Board of Public Instruction and put them under a new board of governors which would be created.

FROM SURPLUS TO SCRAP— WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Charles S. Joelson, D-N.J., said Monday the Defense Department and the General Services Administration informed him that surplus firearms will no longer be sold to the public except as scrap metal.

PE Honors Ten Coeds At Banquet

The Department of Physical Education for Women presented awards for academic excellence to eight coeds and scholarships to two coeds at the annual major banquet given by the junior class in honor of the graduating seniors. Professor M. Gladys Scott, chairman of the department, presented the awards.

Recipients of awards given to the two students with the highest grade averages in each class include Barbara Hertz, A1, Iowa City and Judith Burling, A1, Park Ridge Ill.; Mary Stoll, A2, LaCrosse, Wis., and Pamela Case, A2, Comanche.

Sue Blackmer, A3, Holstein and Edith Anderson, A3, Gowrie, and Carolyn Cramer, A4, Des Moines and Sandra Gleazer, A4, Bethesda Md.

Mary Pamela Devine, A1, Coralville, was awarded the Elizabeth Halsey Scholarship, and Beverly Brown, A3, West Branch, was the recipient of the Jean Homewood Scholarship. Both scholarships are awarded on the basis of leadership, scholarship and potential.

One hundred students and faculty members attended the banquet. The speaker was Namiki Ikeda of Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Kirksville. Mr. Dr. Ikeda, an alumna of the University of Iowa, was an interpreter at the 1964 Olympic Games.

French Rank LBJ As Peace Danger

PARIS (AP)—A public opinion poll published Thursday indicated that Frenchmen consider President Johnson just behind Mao Tse-tung of Red China as a danger for peace. The poll was taken in early May.

The poll, conducted by the French Institute of Public Opinion, included this question: "In your opinion who are the two chiefs of state who constitute the greatest menace for peace?"

The world around us is always changing, and so are we. It's the only way we can progress. That basically is what "repent" means — to change our thinking, for the better. At the deepest level, it's a spiritual liberating process, impelling man towards his divine destiny. Hear this public lecture, "Why Not Change Your Thinking?" by ROY J. LINNIG, a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Head of Christ House Says —

Reality Puzzles Students

By DOUG HIRSCH
Staff Writer

The American college student of today is searching for a new morality, and changing his beliefs in God; he is an "unsolved riddle," an enigma, or some reports indicate.

But, the Rev. Duane L. Addison, Lutheran campus pastor and head of Christ House, does not think these are the main problems bothering students. Students who talk with him are more concerned with the big questions of life than with any "new morality," he says.

Addison assumed his campus duties in the fall of 1963. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1953. After a term in the Navy, he completed ministerial studies at Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minn., and graduate work at Yale University.

The Christ House, 124 E. Church St. accepts 30-40 college students, regardless of their faith, for residential program of worship, study and life together. Members live in approved housing near Christ House, share common meals and participate in a program of Lutheran-orientated worship and study.

Sponsored by the Foundation for Lutheran Students and responsible to the National Lutheran Council, Christ House embraces students of both the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church of America. Lutheran churches in Iowa provide most of the money to maintain the house.

"Frankly," said Addison, "the students whom I see are not so much concerned with sex and morality as they are with religious questions of the meaning and purpose of life and the reality of God."

Shifting to the controversial subject of the "new morality," The Rev. Addison said he and other Iowa campus pastors would like to know exactly what that term means. However, he said, today there is much more tolerance in attitudes toward morality.

Religious confusion usually begins with courses that introduce new philosophic thoughts, Addison said.

"This is a very common thing," he continued, "and usually strikes the student who comes from a somewhat sheltered home life.

"This university situation surely involves parents. Parents have the biggest part in shaping a student's college life. My contacts with students with a fundamentalist religious background have shown that such students are good material for this confusion.

"I have found that most all the militant agnostics are usually fundamentalists, as such. That is, they have come from fundamentalist homes, rebelled against that life, but have actually retained the style of expression," he added.

The confused student, most often questions the reality of God.

"This has been accepted all along until the college challenge comes," he said. "Then any specific Christian term, such as Jesus Christ, comes into question. For years the student has been saying these terms . . . now there's doubt."

"You cannot rely on any particular authority any more. This is just part of the process of growing up. It provides a good atmosphere for discussion."
