Wider Combat Roles Defended

White House Issues Viet Nam Statement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Wednesday that discretionary authority for U.S. ground forces to fight alongside Vietnamese troops was given to avoid a situation that easily could enable the Communist Viet Cong to gain great advantage.

In a statement read by the presidential press secretary, George E. Reedy, the White House once again defined the combat mission of U.S. ground units in Viet Nam. Reedy said there has been no change in the role in recent days or weeks.

THERE WAS some difference in emphasis but virtually no difference in substance from previous explanations of the U.S. role in Viet Nam.

Last Friday a military spokesman in Saigon said U.S. forces have a dual role: "To be stationed at important places and add to the defense, and to participate in battle in what we call combat support of the government forces when it becomes necessary."

This statement passed almost unnoticed. On Saturday the State Department, responding to a request, defined the U.S. policy of conducting an aggressive defense of installations. This concept did not tie down U.S. forces to the immediate base area.

THERE WAS NO mention of combat support for Viet Nam forces until Tuesday. State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said this authority had been given to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of the U.S. Military Assistance Command in Saigon. McCloskey said the authority had been granted in recent weeks.

The White House said there have been no new orders given recently to Westmoreland.

"The primary mission of these troops is to secure and safeguard important military installations like the air base at Da Nang. They have the associated mission of active patrolling and securing action in and near the areas thus safeguarded," the statement said.

"IF HELP IS requested by appropriate Vietnamese commanders, Gen. Westmoreland also has authority within the assigned mission to employ these troops in support of Vietnamese forces faced with aggressive attack when other effective reserves are not available and when in his judgment the general military situation urgently requires it."

If the U.S. military commander did not have this discretionary authority, the White House said, "a situation might easily arise in which heavy loss of life might occur and great advantage might be won by the Viet Cong because of delays in communications."

While stressing the danger of communication delays, the White House emphasized that any change of the primary mission would be a matter for decision in Washington. The Viet Cong reacted to the State Department statement by threatening to call for international help if U.S. troops go into combat. This threat drew no comment from the State Department.

August Iowans Will Feature Color Printing

By August, The Daily Iowan will appear in living color. When the installation of its new reconditioned press is completed, The Iowan will feature spot color. This means one color can be printed at a time.

The maximum size of the paper will also increase from the present 8-page spread to 20 pages, or 16 with color.

And papers will be run off at the rate of 15,000 per hour instead of the present 3,000 an hour. The old, colorless, flatbed press will be replaced by a machine five times faster.

The new press will be housed in the Sidwell Building on College Street. However, Close Hall, Iowa Avenue and Dubuque Street, will still be used for setting type and rolling mats. These will be transported to the Sidwell Building.

In the Sidwell Building there will be a press room, a stereo foundry, a mailing room and a newsprint storage room.

The press, which was previously used in Alexandria, La., is a reconstructed model. The press and stereo foundry were purchased for $72,500 from the Inland Newspaper Machinery Corp., Kansas City, Mo.

The money for the new press comes from a reserve fund accumulated from the Daily Iowan operation.

Paul Bird, of Newspaper Erectors, Inc., Islip, N.Y., is in charge of installation.

Car Financing Abuses Alleged—

Federal Services Faces GI Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — A serviceman recently returned from France told Wednesday of buying a $2,650 automobile, having it repossessed after $1,800 in payments, and still being dunned for more than $1,300.

Spec. 4 Allen H. Warner testified as the House Banking Committee opened hearings in its investigation of Federal Services Finance Corp., a Washington-based company specializing in car financing and other loans to servicemen worldwide.

Federal Services circulated at the hearings a statement that "we emphatically and categorically deny Congressman Patman's (Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex.) charges and are confident that our policies and business practices have always been consistent with the highest standards of the finance industry."

The committee also heard testimony that Federal Services got servicemen-customers to sign powers of attorney in blank, that it added on charges of which they were not aware — such as a $30 marine insurance charge on cars being shipped overseas, even under government protection — and that, in fact, much of the employees' time was spent in explaining to borrowers why their balances still due were so large.

This testimony came from Duane J. Sorenson of Columbus, Ga., who said he worked more than three years for Federal Services, but was

1100 Marines Return to U.S. From Dominica

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A cocky young Marine from Nashville, Tenn., his helmet tilted over his eyes, said: "Tell my mom her boy is home from the war."

Pfc. Tommy McKee, 21, was one of the 1,180 Marines who landed at this port city Wednesday after service in the Dominican Republic.

These Marines from the 1st Battalion, 6th Regiment, were some of the first to be sent to the Caribbean island.

Their arrival completed the return of major Marine units deployed from nearby Camp Lejeune, N.C., during the recent Dominican Republic crisis.

Brig. Gen. Ormand R. Simpson, commander of the 2nd Marine Division, was on hand to welcome home his Leathernecks.

A band played the Marine Corps Hymn as the troops waited impatiently to disembark from the USS Chilton. A second ship, the USS Lindenwald, arrived later in the day with a few small detachments which served in the Dominican Republic.

Most of the Marines on the Chilton said they had only two things in mind for this, their first night at home — a hot bath and the sack.

For the civilian, sack is Marine jargon for bed.

Meanwhile, back at the fighting, Three American paratroopers, who had wandered into rebel territory by mistake, were released by the rebel Dominican regime Wednesday.

They were turned over to representatives of the Organization of American States after spending the night in rebel hands. They said they had been well treated.

Members of the 82nd Airborne Division, the three are Lt. Henry LeForce, 24, of Nash, Okla.; Spec. 4 Alton Blakely, 21, of San Pablo, Calif.; and Pfc. Nelson Blengeri, a Peruvian national whose uncle lives in Belleville, Ill.

They were turned over to Enrique Ferrer Vieyra of Argentina on the staff of the OAS by Col. Juan Lora Fernandez, chief of staff of the rebel army.

"They treated us perfectly like gentlemen," Blengeri said. He had enlisted in the Army while studying at Belleville Junior College in St. Louis, Mo.

Blengeri said he was not certain he would become an American citizen after his enlistment ends.

LeForce had told newsmen while still being held at rebel headquarters that he and the two soldiers were on the way to investigate a claim that an American truck had been damaged when they wandered into rebel territory.

The rebels said the three were captured five blocks inside rebel territory. No shooting was involved.

The OAS mediation team, meanwhile, met again Wednesday with the civil-military junta opposing the rebels. There were unofficial reports the junta desires a freer hand in the control of a monthly payroll which, according to informed sources, will require another substantial U.S. contribution if it is to be met late this month.

City Budget Hearing Set

An informal hearing of the tentative Iowa City budget will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Civic Center. The proposed 1966 budget totals $3,186,052.

Budget requests will be explained at the hearing by the heads of city departments. The budget is not final yet and is set for final hearing and approval July 6.

City property owners may attend the meeting to make protests and also to learn the reasons for expenditures are up $374,350 from the tents.

The total proposed taxes in the tentative budget for next year are $1,286,330. The city's tax asking in the budget is up $37,433 from the current budget. Though budget expenditures are up $37,433 from the current year, the majority of those funds do not come from new taxes.

The total average increase of real estate valuations in Iowa City has risen 40 per cent after a reappraisal. New evaluations for the coming year are expected to total about $46,800,000. Current valuations are about $34,300,000.

Emotion-charged Rites Held for Negro Deputy

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Oneal Moore — victim of night-riders' bullets a week ago — was buried Wednesday in the sandy soil of southeast Louisiana.

The first Negro deputy in Washington Parish was put to rest after an emotion-charged funeral.

His widow, who held back her tears during services in the small frame Mount Zion Missionary Baptist Church, mumbled, "My poor darling," as she stood mournfully before his casket.

A half dozen persons screamed in emotional hysteria as the congregation viewed the open casket.

Moore's body lay in a flag draped casket surrounded by floral sprays — including a huge bouquet from Gov. John McKeithen.

Moore, 54, a native of nearby Poplarville, Miss., was killed in a volley of gunfire as he and a squad car partner, Creed Rogers, were on routine patrol at Varnado, seven miles north of Bogalusa.

A pickup truck trailed their patrol car, then swerved, raking it with bullets and shotgun blasts. It happened last Wednesday night. Rogers was seriously wounded.

A Bogalusa white man, Ernest McElveen, 41, has been charged with murder in the slaying. State, federal and local officers working on the case figured at least three men were involved.

The terrorist shooting came after a series of racial clashes in Bogalusa, scene of a Negro drive for desegregation of public facilities and equal job opportunity.

The small church, located on a gravel road west of Varnado, was jammed with more than 400 Negroes. About 200 other persons clustered at entrances.

Dean Sees Bill Signed

Duane C. Spriestersbach, dean of the Graduate College, was a guest at the White House Tuesday for the signing by President Johnson of federal legislation creating a national technical institute for the deaf.

Dean Spriestersbach, who is also a professor in the Departments of Speech Pathology and Otolaryngology and Maxillofacial Surgery, attended in his capacity as president of the American Speech and Hearing Association. Others at the Rose Garden ceremonies included a number of leaders in the field of education of the deaf and speech and hearing, congressmen and senators interested in this area.

Two Advisors Killed in Viet; More Ashore

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — About 2,500 U.S. combat engineers landed Wednesday at a bay northeast of Saigon to build a base capable of handling any massive American commitment to the Vietnamese war.

The landing at Cam Ranh Bay, 180 miles northeast of Saigon, came a day after the State Department declared U.S. troops would enter combat against the Viet Cong when requested.

There was bloody fighting elsewhere as the engineers came ashore. Two U.S. advisers were killed at Gia Ray, 50 miles northeast of Saigon when Communist guerrillas overran a training center. And 158 Vietnamese troops were killed or missing there and in fighting north of Saigon.

A Marine was killed by a sniper in the Da Nang area of the far north as U.S. Air Force and Marine jets hammered at Viet Cong concentrations in Quang Ngai Province, apparently in an attempt to head off a major new Communist offensive in the monsoon season.

U.S. military spokesmen announced government forces suffered their heaviest casualties of the war in the week ended Saturday — 530 killed, 710 wounded and 635 missing or captured. In the same week 10 Americans were killed, 35 were wounded and 6 are missing. Viet Cong casualties in the same period were given as 1,221 killed, 84 captured.

Coralville Shuns MPC

Membership in the Metropolitan Planning Commission for development of the greater Iowa City community has been voted down by the Coralville City Council.

The motion was defeated 3 to 2 at Tuesday night's meeting.

The council also received a petition from 28 businesses on the Coralville "strip" asking it to request the State Highway Commission to delay the proposed southwest bypass.

Mayor Clarence H. Wilson was asked to appoint a committee to study the request.

Astronauts Get Gagarin Wire; They Dock Today

ABOARD THE WASP (AP) — America's two Gemini astronauts received a congratulatory telegram Wednesday from the first man ever in space, Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin.

Gemini command pilot James A. McDivitt, reading the message in translation from the Russian, said, "Isn't that great."

The message was addressed to McDivitt and said:

"We send you our congratulations after the success we witnessed of the space flight in ship Gemini 4."

"We express hope that space flights will be to serve the world and make progress for humanity."

Gagarin's pioneering space flight was one orbit long on April 12, 1961.

The message came as the aircraft carrier Wasp plowed along the Florida coast Wednesday morning.

Newsmen Complete 'Bama Tour, Clash With Wallace

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Newsmen from across the nation relaxed under balmy skies on the Gulf Coast Wednesday after a three-day tour of Alabama, a state whose governor claims distortion in racial coverage.

An expected last-day news conference with Gov. George C. Wallace was called off by the governor. An aide said it had nothing to do with a verbal clash between Wallace and two of the visiting newsmen in Huntsville Tuesday night.

The 47-out-of-state editors and reporters invited to Alabama by Wallace to see for themselves whether the state has been accurately portrayed in news stories about racial unrest, flew to Mobile in an airliner chartered by the state.

En route, they detoured over the sprawling Tennessee Valley industrial centers.

Alabama newsmen covering the tour and members of the governor's staff accompanying the visitors came in another plane.

The state picked up the tab on bus and plane transportation within Alabama. The visitors paid their own lodging and other expenses as well as their travel to and from the state. In addition, news services and some newspapers, at their request, will pay their pro rata share of the transportation costs.

Along the route, the newsmen saw some of Alabama's industrial growth, one of the points the governor has emphasized in calling attention to the "good side of Alabama" which he says has been overlooked in racial stories.

U.S. closes gap in space race

By HOWARD BENEDICT

HOUSTON — With the flight of Gemini 4 the United States took a great stride forward in the quickening man-to-the-moon race with the Soviet Union.

The medical data must still be analyzed on America's longest manned space flight yet, but otherwise officials said that they see no barrier to moving ahead in the Gemini program to a seven-day flight in August.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II spent nearly 98 hours in space, tripling the total time logged by all eight previous U.S. astronauts.

McDivitt and White were pronounced in good physical shape on initial examination. But adverse effects normally don't show up until after a flight, and several weeks may be required to completely analyze the medical data. It will provide the United States with the first handle on how man's physical and mental condition is affected by extended periods in the weightless space environment.

A RUSSIAN COSMONAUT holds the record, 119 hours — just shy of five days. He suffered temporary after-effects, especially in the heart and blood vessel systems, which caused concern among Soviet medicals.

Gemini officials learned a lot from the McDivitt-White flight. Outstanding findings were that man can operate for at least short periods outside the orbiting capsule; that radar and other aids are required for rendezvous in space; that man functions effectively while in the space environment for at least four days, and that most spacecraft systems have a high degree of reliability for the long haul.

The man-in-space programs of both the United States and Russia are now in the second phase of the moon race — a critical time when operational capabilities and techniques are being developed.

The nation which develops the procedures first, and then applies them to the third and final phase will be the winner in the lunar sweepstakes.

Last March 18, U.S. officials acknowledged that the Russians had a clear lead of perhaps two years. That was the day cosmonaut Alexei Leonov became history's first human to step outside an orbiting spacecraft.

AT THAT TIME the Soviets had flown two of the second-generation Voskhod Sunrise spacecraft — one with a crew of three, the other with two. The United States had flown only its first-generation Mercury capsule.

Since March 18, the Soviets have had no manned launchings and the United States has flown two of its two-man Gemini spacecraft.

The first, with astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young at the controls, demonstrated the world's first maneuverable manned spacecraft.

Now astronauts McDivitt and White have circled the globe for an American record of more than four days, and White took a 20-minute excursion into space on the end of a lifeline.

The achievements of Gemini 3 and 4 certainly have narrowed the gap. The Russians still have a lead, however, because of a more powerful rocket they have been using for several years. It has enabled them to lift roomier capsules for longer periods, giving them a head start in the vital department of gathering medical data.

If McDivitt and White have no serious postflight difficulties, astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad are to take a seven-day journey in August. A 14-day Gemini voyage is planned in December.

U.S. troops ready

WASHINGTON — American Marines and Army paratroopers will fight alongside South Vietnamese Government troops in the intensifying war against Communist guerrillas when such combat support is requested, the State Department announced this week.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference the decision "is the result of the best military judgment as to what is required now and as far as we can see ahead."

"In my view it would put Americans shoulder to shoulder with the Vietnamese in combat operations," McCloskey said.

Although reports from Saigon said a U.S. paratroop unit of 150 men had been lifted by helicopter into action 30 miles northeast of this still, McCloskey said that this still was within the defensive perimeter of American air bases and facilities.

No U.S. forces have yet gone into a combat support role, he said.

AT THE same time the State Department spokesman said that Communist North Vietnam still remains unwilling to accept President Johnson's offer for unconditional discussions.

McCloskey said the Canadian Government informed the United States of an approach made to North Vietnam by a Canadian government representative urging that a peace conference be held.

North Vietnam demanded the withdrawal of all U.S. forces before any talks could be held, he said.

The rebuff to the Canadian peace feeler conducted last week was regarded as significant by top American authorities.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor consulted with State and Defense Department officials including Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Taylor will see the President later this week.

The role of American forces in South Vietnam was described by the State Department last weekend as that of protecting and patrolling key installations in an aggressive defense. This permitted search and seizure operations against Viet Cong guerrillas and did not require that the Americans be shot at first before engaging the guerrillas.

THE NEW role for U.S. forces depends upon a request being made first for their services by Vietnamese commanders. The decision then whether to use American forces will be made by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. Military Advisory Command after consultation with U.S. commanders.

McCloskey said that any American forces assigned to a combat support role would be under Vietnamese unit commanders.

The monsoon offensive launched by the Viet Cong in the central highlands appears to have precipitated the need for orders which would permit U.S. forces to go to the aid of South Vietnamese Government troops.

But really, my head didn't itch

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — As everyone knows by now, the biggest story of the year was the bridge-cheating scandal at the 13th annual world contract bridge team tournament in Buenos Aires. Two British players, Terence Reese and Boris Schapiro, were accused of using signals to tell each other how many hearts they were holding. They were said to use finger movements, and the evidence was so convincing that the non-playing British captain defaulted his team's points.

The impact of revelation has made a tremendous impression on the bridge world, not only with professionals but amateurs as well. The other evening I was over at a friend's house where four people who had started a game.

After the first hand was dealt, one friend, whom I'll call George, said to one of the opposing players, Fred, "Why did you do that?"

"Do what?" Fred wanted to know.

"Scratch your head." "Because it itched," Fred said heatedly. "What do you want me to do with my head when it itches?"

"Why didn't you scratch your head before I dealt?" "BECAUSE IT DIDN'T ITCH before you dealt. What are you trying to say, anyway?"

"Never mind. It just seems strange that I never saw you scratch your head before."

"Well, it so happens I scratch my head a lot. Do you want me to tell you before I'm going to scratch my head?"

"Why can't you scratch your head AFTER the bidding?" "I will if it itches after the bidding. But what's the sense of scratching it if it doesn't itch?"

"Come on," Hilda said. "Without somebody bid?"

A few hands later I asked if anyone wanted anything to drink. Everyone said, "Yes," and served them.

George picked up his glass, his hand and held his cards in the other. He said, "Two hearts."

Fred said, "Why did you pick up your glass with four fingers on the outside?"

"How else are you supposed to pick up a glass?" "I USE three fingers."

"You use three. I use four. George said angrily. "It's strange that you would pick up your glass with four fingers and say, 'Two hearts.'"

"What the hell's so strange about it?" "People usually don't take a drink while they're bidding."

"I was thirsty."

"I'm thirsty, too, but I never lift my glass until the bidding is over."

"Are you accusing me of something, Fred?" "I don't know. But I'm interested to see how many hearts you have."

"Well, if you're so interested, why don't you bid?" "I bid three spades."

"You scratched your head again, I saw it," George shouted. "IT ITCHED again."

"How come it only itches when you bid spades?" "It doesn't only itch when I bid spades. The last time it itched I bid diamonds."

"Then you admit you're signaling to your partner," George screamed. "I admit no such thing. And I refuse to play with a cur like you," Fred said, throwing down his hand.

"That goes double for me," George replied. "Any man that uses four fingers to lift his glass and then bids two hearts has to be cheating."

The two couples walked out of the house and haven't talked to each other since. It looks as if bridge will never be the same again.

School daze

A WEST DES MOINES high school teacher has been sacked after several parents and students complained about his methods of teaching.

It seems they do not think it proper for an eleventh grade English teacher to use the word "homosexual" in class. Some folks also complained about the words "urine" and "urinalysis." Even the school superintendent said he advised the teacher that some other terms might have been more appropriate.

There are, of course, other terms which could certainly be considered more colorful, but hardly more appropriate to a class room situation.

Among the other complaints which led to the teacher's dismissal were the usual charges that the words "hell" and "damn" were used freely in class.

We are not acquainted with all the facts behind the firing, but the public charges are not new ones.

For some reason many parents in this country have the opinion that public schools are not the proper place for youngsters to become acquainted with the real world.

Teachers who attempt to introduce a few facts of adult life to their students often run up against pressure from parents and school boards to cool it and get back to the text books.

When these high school students go to college, they're shocked at what they hear there. Some become critical of all they have learned and are told, while others form the opinion that college professors are mainly subversive pinkos, ivory tower eggheads or silly old men.

The students who terminate their formal education with a high school diploma are usually prime targets for political propaganda, television commercials and even newspaper stories. They are fed the popular truths and accept them unquestioningly.

An American history high school teacher once told us of his plight. He can only give the students the "straight and simple" story of American history which sort of culminates in the American Dream come true.

"Anytime I try to get the kids to dig beneath the surface a little, it doesn't work. They're too used to just learning names, dates and events. It's the way they're trained."

About the only classes in an average American high school which avoid the pattern of handing down truths and information are the science courses. In these classes the students must think and question what they are told.

But an English teacher who tries to do the same thing in his class as a chemistry teacher (or the same as a college Rhetoric instructor) finds himself without a job in many school districts.

John Dewey once said a lot of these same things and several folks listened and agreed. But we still have a long way to go before there'll be any significant academic freedom in our public schools.

In the meantime students will learn of reality on their own in libraries, on street corners or in college. Or perhaps not at all.

Viet religion flares

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — The cauldron of religious dissension in South Viet Nam is boiling again, but the sparks which touched off rioting and bloodshed in earlier years seem to have weakened.

It is true that several hundred Roman Catholics clashed with police Saturday night, overturning and burning an official car. And some 700 Catholics held an antigovernment rally Sunday evening.

But several priests were on hand at the rally, apparently to maintain order, and violence was held to a minimum in the streets Saturday. Even government police set up barricades around the trouble area rather than wage it on the demonstrators. They seemed intent on handling the situation with kid gloves.

A delegation of some 300 aging Catholic laymen called on Phan Khac Suu, chief of state, today with a petition that was understood to demand the resignation of Premier Phan Huy Quat.

Catholics and several political parties have been putting pressure on Quat, a Buddhist, accusing him of discriminating against Catholics.

But on all sides, the denunciations have been in comparative mild tones so far. There is a general impression of public apathy in Saigon, a city which has grown tired of coups and riots.

If the Quat government should fall, few observers see a chance of forming any kind of coalition to replace it. They see a seizure of power by the army once again.

While U.S. officials have not openly intervened in the current crisis, they are working around the block to head off trouble.

Catholics are worried about reports that a law will soon be promulgated giving special privileges to Buddhists. The Catholics have been joined in their protest by the other powerful religious groups, the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao sects and by several political parties.

North Vietnam demanded the withdrawal of all U.S. forces before any talks could be held, he said.

The rebuff to the Canadian peace feeler conducted last week was regarded as significant by top American authorities.

U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor consulted with State and Defense Department officials including Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Taylor will see the President later this week.

The role of American forces in South Vietnam was described by the State Department last weekend as that of protecting and patrolling key installations in an aggressive defense. This permitted search and seizure operations against Viet Cong guerrillas and did not require that the Americans be shot at first before engaging the guerrillas.

THE NEW role for U.S. forces depends upon a request being made first for their services by Vietnamese commanders. The decision then whether to use American forces will be made by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. Military Advisory Command after consultation with U.S. commanders.

McCloskey said that any American forces assigned to a combat support role would be under Vietnamese unit commanders.

The monsoon offensive launched by the Viet Cong in the central highlands appears to have precipitated the need for orders which would permit U.S. forces to go to the aid of South Vietnamese Government troops.

New Units Honor Iowa Women

Student government units within two University of Iowa women's residence halls will be named in honor of four outstanding women who served on the faculty for many years, according to T. M. Rehder, director of dormitories and dining services.

Beginning this fall, Currier Hall—a residence hall with capacity for 923 coeds—will be divided into two house units, to be named in honor of Luella M. Wright and Zada Mary Cooper. Carrie Stanley Hall, the previously named 10-story addition to Currier Hall will also be divided into two house units, named in honor of Nellie Slayton Aurner and Amy Louise Daniels.

Division of the residence halls, which will house a total of 1,486 coeds, has been made primarily to facilitate student government and to permit maximum opportunity for student participation in day-to-day governing affairs.

Luella Wright, a member of the English faculty from 1920 until her retirement in 1951, was recognized as one of the outstanding students of Quakerism and of Iowa literature and culture.

She was particularly interested in the rhetoric program and worked with foreign students who were having special problems in the English language. Dr. Wright died in 1963. A native of Cedar Falls, she held a B.Ph. Degree from Iowa and M.A. and Ph.D. Degrees from Columbia University.

Zada Cooper was associated with the College of Pharmacy for 45 years. She was the first woman to become president of Rho Chi, national honorary pharmacy fraternity, of which she was an honorary member. A pharmacy graduate, she organized and developed the first pharmacy departmental library and founded the College of Professor Cooper was instrumental in founding Kappa Epsilon, national pharmaceutical fraternity for women. A graduate of Quasqueton High School, she lived in Villisca after retiring. She died in 1961.

A native of Eldora, Nellie Aurner was a professor of English, with a 40-year association with the University. She was also dean of women for a period.

Mrs. Aurner was the author of a number of studies in English literature and wrote biographies of two longtime Iowa faculty members for the Centennial Memoirs. She held B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. Degrees from here. Mrs. Aurner died in 1961.

A native of Newton, Mass., Amy Daniels was an Iowa City faculty member from 1918 until her retirement in 1941. She was a pioneer worker in the field of infant and child nutrition, and was the first person to receive the Borden Award for meritorious research. She was one of the first staff members of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, now known as the Institute of Child Behavior and Development, and much of her research was related to the diseases and nutrition of children. In 1930, she served as a member of the White House Conference on Child Development.

Dr. Daniels studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where she was one of the first women enrolled, and earned a B.S. Degree from Columbia University and a Ph.D. Degree from Yale. Dr. Daniels died last February in Iowa City.

Project Boss Outlines Aims Of Head Start

Johnson County is approaching Project Head Start like a man about to get married—anticipating it, hoping for the best from it, but still full of questions about it—the Head Start director said Wednesday.

Munro Shintani, who is directing the project for the county in addition to his duties as county director of special education, explained Head Start at a recent regular meeting of the Optimist Club.

The project has been designed to give pre-school children from low-income and culturally deprived families the experience needed to prepare them for kindergarten. It will begin June 28.

"What this program means," Shintani said, "is working with children to give them a head start so that when they start school they'll be up with their peers."

Shintani explained that some children would not know what to do if they were told to join hands and get in a circle. The eight-week summer project, he said, would try to provide varied experiences to be used as a background for later use in school.

About 80 4- and 5-year-olds are expected to participate, the director said. They will come mostly from families in the $3,000 annual income bracket. The children will be divided into four groups, with an experienced kindergarten teacher heading each.

According to Shintani, Head Start will emphasize social development and "abilities of life." Included will be such things as trips to a zoo, museum and airport.

The children will also receive physical and dental checkups and hearing and speech tests.

The Iowa City Council received an invitation to join the project in May. Forty-nine Iowa communities will have similar programs.

Ninety per cent of the cost of the program will come from federal funds. The rest will be paid in kind by the county.

RECORDER NAMED—

BOONE (AP)—Roy J. Coffman of Boone Tuesday was named Boone County recorder by the Board of Supervisors.

Coffman will serve the unexpired term of the late Miss Ethel J. Brown, who died last month. The term ends Jan. 1, 1967.

Tough Fight Ahead For Pro-Union Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Labor subcommittee approved Wednesday the administration's bill to repeal a section of the Taft-Hartley law that permits states to ban union shop agreements.

The 6-3 vote after a bare one-hour discussion marked an easy first step for a bill that is expected to give President Johnson one of his toughest congressional battles of the session when it reaches the House floor.

Another easy preliminary is in prospect Thursday when the full Education and Labor Committee takes up the bill. Democrats hold a 2-1 edge over Republicans and only two come from any of the 19 states that have enacted laws barring union shop contracts.

The bill deals with a highly controversial issue that has been debated in many states. Under the union shop, workers must join the union and pay dues—if management and labor agree on such a contract.

The subcommittee gave only slight consideration to a substitute bill proposed by Rep. Robert F. Griffin (R-Mich.), co-author of the Landrum-Griffin Act. The substitute was rejected by voice vote.

Griffin's proposal which he plans to re-offer would repeal the Taft-Hartley provision, but add new ones making it unlawful for unions to discriminate on account of race, to use unions dues for political purposes, or to infringe upon a member's legal rights. Griffin said he will offer it again in committee, and also on the House floor.

Denver Firm Prints Ex-Student Poems

A volume of poetry by Martin Robbins, a University graduate, has been published by the Alan Swallow Press, Denver, Colo.

Titled "A Refrain of Roses," the collection includes 28 poems, two of which refer directly to Robbins' experiences in Iowa City, while doing graduate study in poetry and dramatics. He earned the M.A. Degree in English in 1959.

Robbins is now on the English faculty at Northeastern University, Boston, Mass., and is working for the Ph.D. Degree at Brandeis University. His poetry has been published in newspapers and magazines, including the New York Times, New York Herald Tribune, Saturday Review of Literature, Chelsea, Prairie Schooner, and Colorado Quarterly.

High School Violinists To Perform

Two 15-year-old high school girls who already have received substantial recognition for their musical talents will present a joint violin recital at the University Saturday at 3:00 p.m. in North Music Hall. The program will be open to the public.

They are Kathleen Coen, who has just finished her sophomore year at University High School and Sarah Johnson, who completed her freshman year at Nevada High School early this month.

Both are students of Prof. John Ferrell of the music faculty. Miss Coen, who has held a scholarship to the Interlochen National Music Camp in Michigan, will study during the summer of 1966 with Ivan Galamian in New York City.

Miss Johnson, who appeared recently as soloist with the Tri Cities Youth Orchestra in Davenport, studies with Galamian every summer. She was a guest soloist with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra in a concert in Minneapolis when she was 11.

The Saturday afternoon recital will open with "Sonata for Two Violins" by Telemann. Miss Coen will play Wieniawski's "Legend," both girls will present six duets by Bela Bartok, and Miss Johnson will play "Caprice Basque" by Sarasate. The program will close with the first movement of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, to be presented by Miss Johnson.

Miss Coen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Coen, 1712 E. Iowa City, and Miss Johnson's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Merton Johnson, Nevada.

$3,000 Scholarship— Music Student Wins Sutherland Scholarship

A composition student at the University has received renewal of the $3,000 Sutherland Dows graduate scholarship in music composition for a second year.

He is William Hibbard, of Newton, Mass., winner of several awards for his works. A recent composition, "Fantasy for Organ, Trumpet, Trombone and Percussion," was praised by Boston music critics after its premiere in March in Boston.

The work was commissioned by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Boston chapter of the American Guild of Organists, with co-sponsorship of radio station WCRB, Boston.

"William Hibbard is clearly a significant compositional talent," noted Michael Steinberg of the Boston Globe after the March concert.

Summerwill Joins Europe Trade Trip

W. W. Summerwill, president of the Iowa State Bank and Trust Co., is one of a group of Iowa businessmen who have left on a trade mission to Europe.

Gov. Harold Hughes is heading the group.

The Iowans met with President Johnson at the White House Wednesday. In Europe they will talk to various businessmen in hopes of increasing European exports from the United States, particularly Iowa.

Mrs. Summerwill is accompanying her husband.

Hibbard's "Variations for Brass, Nonet" was awarded a BMI (Broadcast Music Inc.) Student Composer's Award in 1961 and was later performed in New York by American composer Gunther Schuller.

The Boston Museum of Fine Arts commissioned Hibbard's "Three Movements for Flute and Piano," to be used as the score for a film on Old Kingdom Egyptian portrait sculpture. His "Trio" for violin, clarinet and guitar received a New England Conservatory prize and was performed in Boston and Manhattan.

In addition to composing, Hibbard has been an active performer, particularly in the area of modern music. He plays violin and viola, as well as treble, alto, and tenor viola da gamba, having been a member of the Camerata of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. He came to the University in September after studying in Germany under a Frank Huntington Beebe Fund grant.

The scholarship which was renewed was established in 1961 by Sutherland Dows Sr. of Cedar Rapids, chairman of the board of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company. The scholarship allows Hibbard to devote full time to creative work while earning a Ph.D. Degree.

The scholarship is administered by the U of I Foundation.

Mahan Will Seek Third House Term

Iowa Representative Bruce E. Mahan (D-Iowa City) said Wednesday he will run for re-election when his second term expires. Mahan had previously said his second term would be his last.

Mahan, 74, retired dean of the University Extension Service, is chairman of the House Education Committee.

"He said there was some unfinished business he wanted to take care of in the next legislative session, such as more support for the Board of Regents and a Police Academy at the University."

Mahan, who unsuccessfully tried to get pari-mutuel betting legalized in Iowa, said he would start his campaign for re-election June 23 on the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce's train trip to Omaha and the Ak-Sar-Ben race track.

CHICAGO (AP)—The registration of Robert Thompson of Lakota, Iowa, as a livestock dealer has been suspended for 30 days, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday.

Farmers Get No Crop Aid

Officials of the Rock Island District Army Corps of Engineers have said there is nothing they can do to help owners of farmlands adjoining the Iowa River south of Iowa City to get their crops planted.

A group of farmers sought to have the outflow of water from the Coralville Dam decreased so they could plant their fields. The land adjoining the river at least as far south as Highway 22 was unworkable because it was too wet.

The current outflow of the Coralville Dam has been nearly 6,000 cubic feet per second. Robert E. Clevensline, chief of the Rock Island Corps of Engineers, operations division, said Tuesday that the inflow at the reservoir was slightly more than the outflow at times during the past week.

He said that cutting back the outflow of water from the dam would not make much difference since the water table was so high and the ground in the fields affected was so saturated. He pointed out that the engineers have an operating plan that must be adhered to. The plan went into operation two years ago after public hearings and approval by top authorities.

Clevensline said another change in the operation plan would take months to implement, and by then the situation might be different.

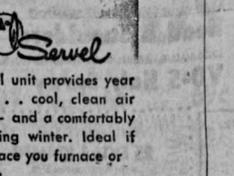

Air Condition Your Home With Gas!

IT'S ECONOMICAL -- CLEAN -- EFFICIENT -- DEPENDABLE

Really enjoy life this summer with Natural Gas Air Conditioning throughout your whole house . . . It'll provide cool, revitalizing comfort for the entire family. A silent gas flame does the work in the cooling cycle. Operating and maintenance costs are surprisingly low because there are no moving parts in the cooling cycle. For the same reason, the "life expectancy" of the equipment is unusually long.

So—cool your home the way you heat it—with economical, efficient natural gas. Two types of equipment make gas air conditioning available to every home.

A special low gas rate is available for summer air conditioning. Also, for your convenience, Iowa-Illinois will service your Natural Gas Air Conditioning equipment.

THE WAR ON POVERTY: a message to the Nation's college students...

Inspiring causes have always fired the imagination of students. Today the United States is committed to the greatest humanitarian cause in its history—a massive counterattack on the causes of poverty, which are robbing 35,000,000 Americans of the opportunities most of us are free to pursue because we had the advantage of a decent start in life. That start has been denied to one-fifth of the nation's people. Thirteen million of them are children.

This is a moment in history for the fortunate to help the least privileged of their fellow citizens. You can help this summer, or for a full year if you choose, as a volunteer in the War on Poverty. In July and August, 30,000 volunteers will be needed in their own communities to assist four- and five-year-old children of the poor through Project Head Start Child Development Centers. Thousands more are needed to live and work among poor families by enlisting in VISTA, the domestic Peace Corps.

In Head Start, volunteers work side-by-side with teachers, social workers, doctors, and other professionals to give pre-school children advantages which can change the patterns of their lives. Many of these children have never held a doll, never scribbled with crayons. Meager environments have blunted their curiosity. Some are spoken to so rarely that they are unable to form sentences. Head Start volunteers will read to children, take them on outings to zoos and parks, organize creative play for them, and help build the security and self-confidence they need to succeed in school. The rewards come when a withdrawn child begins to ask questions or responds to the affection for which he has been starved. Without such help, many of these children would be headed for school failure and the poverty cycle which trapped their parents.

Many young people who are 18 or older and can serve for a year enroll for training in VISTA—both to help others and to enlarge their own capacities for teaching, social work, or careers in sociology, economics, law, and other fields.

Home base for VISTA volunteer groups can be a city tenement row, a struggling farm community, an Indian reservation, a migrant labor camp, or a mental hospital. Volunteers may counsel school dropouts, organize recreation programs, tutor children who are behind in school, explore job opportunities for the poor—in short, do whatever is needed to help people find their way up from poverty. Volunteers become respected members of the communities where they work.

The pay is nominal—living expenses plus $50 a month paid at the end of service. But the opportunities are great; you can help pave the way for an America in which the democratic ideal is big enough to encompass everyone.

Will you lend your abilities to people who live in need? Join the War on Poverty today!

CAMPUS NOTES

FAIR ENTRY BLANKS

Entry blanks for craft and hobby displays at the Iowa State Fair are now available from the fair board office in Des Moines.

Included in the 31 classes are leather, copper tooling, metal engraving and etching, plaster casting and painting, and wood carving. Prizes will total $230.

Only non-professionals or persons not receiving more than 50 per cent of their income from the sale of the articles may enter. Each person is allowed one entry per class.

USUAL PARKING RULES

All reserved and restricted parking lots will operate under the usual rules during the summer, according to the Campus Police. Only cars with the appropriate stickers may park in these lots.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Student volunteers to supervise recreational playgrounds for underprivileged children will be needed this summer. The playground, which will be held five afternoons a week from 1 to 4:30, will start June 14 and last for five weeks.

The playground is located at the old Iowa Mennonite Church on the corner of Clark and Seymour Streets.

Any student who has had some experience working with children and who is willing to donate one or two hours one afternoon a week, is asked to call Dave Moore, 338-6534, or Kitty Porter, 337-7444.

The program is directed by Munro Shintani, Johnson County director of special education.

IMU OPEN HOUSE

Open house and family night at the Union will be held Friday from 6 p.m. until closing. Two children's movies, "Alice in Wonderland" and "Night at the Pet Shop," will be shown. There will be a free dance to the Ravens, free coffee and tours of the Union.

Faculty and students and their families are invited. Bowling, billiards, chess and bridge tournaments will also be held.

YOUTH HIRED

Six youths aged 16 to 21 will be hired for summer work at the Veterans Administration Hospital, according to J. Gordon Spendlove, hospital director.

The jobs will be part of President Johnson's campaign to find summer employment for young people. The program asks businesses and government agencies to hire one extra youth for every 100 employees.

Persons who are interested in the jobs may get further information from the Iowa Employment Office.

ATTENDS AAHP&R MEET

Gene M. Asprey, associate professor of men's physical education, has been attending a national conference of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in Washington, D.C., Monday through today.

Asprey is president-elect of the state association.

The conference featured sessions on new federal legislation affecting recreation, health and physical education. Bud Wilkinson, former physical fitness consultant to the President, spoke to the group Wednesday.

COMPUTER LECTURES

Computer programming lectures for faculty, staff and students will be given Mon. and Thurs. from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in the new Chemistry Auditorium.

The instructor for the lecture series will be Dr. G. P. Weeg, director of the Computer Center. The first lecture will be Mon., the last July 8.

Any instructor who would like his class to attend the course can be provided with grades for the students if he will give the Computer Center a class list.

CHORUS REHEARSAL TONIGHT

The first rehearsal of the University summer chorus will be held tonight at 7:15 in the South Rehearsal Hall of the Music Building.

The summer chorus is open to all students. It will present its summer concert, featuring the Mass of Igor Stravinsky, July 7.

Students who are interested may call Daniel Moe, director of University Chorus, at Ext. 2377. Chorus can be taken for one hour of credit. It will meet Mon., Tues., and Thurs. at 7:15.

A USE FOR SCISSORS—

Handicapped Aid Planned by Kiwanis

A program to help handicapped persons lead a more normal life is being planned by the Iowa City Kiwanis Club. The program, called Opportunity Workshop, would include about 100 mentally and physically impaired persons in Johnson County, and give them the opportunity to become self-sufficient.

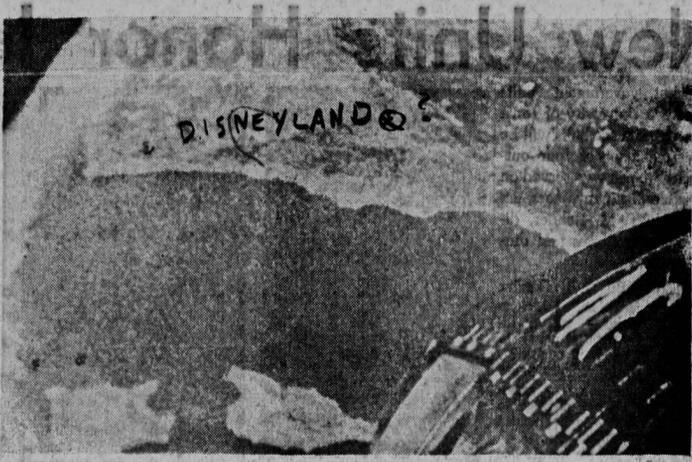

The purpose of the workshop is to provide a rehabilitation facility with a controlled working environment and individualized working goals. Chairman of the workshop planning program, Col. Brooks Booker, professor of Air Science, said there was a possibility that perhaps 45 impaired persons would be ready to join the workshop as soon as it was operational.

Booker also said there was promise of assistance in building the workshop from numerous local contractors, electricians, and plumbers. There was a third possibility that the state may match local funds dollar for dollar in setting up the project, according to Booker.

Though there are no final plans, Kiwanians met this week with George Allen, head of the Iowa State Vocational Rehabilitation Facilities, and other officials to get suggestions on operation of the workshop. A community-wide fund drive will be launched this summer, and by fall, Booker hopes the workshop will be erected and prepared for use.

Booker said an estimated $30,000 in initial funds was being sought. But with the promise of support he has already received, he estimated he could construct the building for about half price.

The workshop is being planned as a normal business, with income received from sub-contracts obtained from the University, local industry and business.

Another Latin Amer. Revolt Seen Possible

An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Colombia, one of the most prosperous and advanced countries in South America, appears to be in danger of a possible revolution.

For months, it has been involved in bitter political strife, coupled with murderous attacks by bandit gangs roving various parts of the country. There has been a wave of kidnappings of wealthy citizens, too, and now the nation is confronted with an acute financial crisis.

Some experts here say that unless Colombians restore order and move quickly to end their political and financial problems, a Dominican-type civil war, or a Communist takeover could occur.

The value of the Colombian peso has been declining. And many people with financial reserves are sending them out of the country to guard against further possible devaluation or revolution.

The Colombian government has made some progress in reducing the attacks by bandit gangs, some of which proclaim sympathy with Cuba's Communist dictator, Fidel Castro.

But the kidnappings are still a problem.

On the financial side, the government is operating in the red, and some officials have predicted the deficit may be 20 per cent of the total budget.

In politics there are signs that a 1957 political truce — aimed at ending the raids which brought death to thousands of Liberal and Conservative party members — may be coming apart.

President Guillermo Leon Valencia's government is having trouble getting economic and fiscal reform measures through a congress that is torn by political bitterness building up in anticipation of the presidential election in May 1966.

U.S. officials decline comment on the situation.

Colombia sells about $400 million worth of coffee abroad each year, and exports many other products. It is recognized as a nation rich in business, industrial and financial leaders.

In addition, the Colombian government recently announced plans to send a high-level mission to Washington to make a start on untangling its financial problems.

Trends in Education To Be Topic

Former Educators To Lecture

Two noted former college presidents will present a symposium on "Trends in Education" here next week, inaugurating the 1965 Summer Session Lecture Series, which will be open to the public free of charge.

Stratford Barr, president of St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., from 1959-1964, will speak Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium, and Harold Taylor, president of Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N.Y., from 1945-1959, will lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Main Lounge of Iowa Memorial Union.

Taylor's lecture was originally scheduled for June 24.

Barr's topic will be "Purely Academic" which is also the title of his best-selling satirical novel. Taylor will discuss "The Transformation of Education." Tickets will not be required for admission to either lecture.

A Rhodes Scholar, Barr was educated at the University of Virginia, the University of Ghent and the Sorbonne, as well as at Oxford University. He has taught at the University of Virginia, the University of Chicago and Rutgers University, where he received the Lindback Award for Distinguished Teaching.

When Barr became president of St. John's College in 1959, he raised a national debate on education by abolishing the elective system, inter-collegiate athletics and all fraternities, and establishing a four-year, all-required course of studies with heavy emphasis on mathematics and science.

Television and radio audiences from coast to coast have heard Barr's pungent discussions. He has lectured in most of the 50 states and has given the Gauss Lectures at Princeton University and the Bricker Lectures at the University of Missouri, the latter being published as "The Three Worlds of Man."

Barr was president of the Foundation for World Government from 1949-1958, traveling widely in its behalf. For several years editor of The Virginia Quarterly Review, Barr has also written for The Atlantic Monthly, The Nation, The New Republic, The Saturday Review and Herald Tribune Book Week. His books include "Let's Join the Human Race" and "Citizens of the World," concerned with U.S. foreign policy, and "Mazzini: Portrait of an Exile," "The Will of Zeus" and "The Pilgrimage of Western Man."

Taylor received a Ph.D. degree from the University of London at 23 and became the youngest college president in the United States when he assumed the presidency of Sarah Lawrence College at the age of 30. After 14 years as a college president, Dr. Taylor traveled in Asia and Russia on a special Ford Foundation grant, conferring with political leaders, writers, artists, students, educators and intellectuals on the problems of Asian countries.

Dr. Taylor has lectured in this country at universities from Columbia, and Yale in the East to Michigan, Wisconsin and California in the Midwest and West. He is the author of "On Education and Freedom," and "Art and the Intellect" and is co-author of "Essays in Teaching." He has written more than 300 articles for books and journals of philosophy and education.

Educational experiments pioneered by Dr. Taylor recently include a pilot project for a World College, at which a student body representing 22 United Nations countries with an international faculty developed a model for a world curriculum.

Dr. Taylor has served as special consultant to Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Foundation.

Dr. Taylor was the keynote speaker at a symposium here in November of 1963. Sponsored by the Associated Women Students, the symposium dealt with "Individualism in a Mass Society."

Harlow Shapley, noted scientist, will close the Summer Session Lecture Series July 15, speaking on "Galaxies and Mankind," according to Dean Orville Hitchcock, chairman of the lecture series. The lectures will be part of the 27th annual Fine Arts Festival.

Professor Scott Honored

Dr. M. Gladys Scott, chairman of the department of physical education for women at the University of Iowa, is shown as she received her alma mater's distinguished alumni citation Saturday, June 5, from Dr. William E. Kerstetter, president of DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind. The citation, presented to Dr. Scott and eight other alumni of the college, read in part: "Awarded in recognition of outstanding achievements and services which reflect honor upon DePauw University." The citation was conferred at the annual alumni luncheon Saturday on the campus. Nearly 1,000 alumni attended the affair. Dr. Scott is a 1927 graduate of the Hoosier university and resides in Iowa City.

Faculty Efforts Help Publish Three Volumes

University of Iowa faculty members helped produce in three new books released this month.

The books include a textbook for college English teachers, a biographical and critical source book on James Joyce, and a poetry encyclopedia.

Prof. John Gerber, head of the Department of English, is the editor of "The College Teaching of English," the last of five books in the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) Curriculum Series. The series was sponsored by NCTE, the Modern Language Association, The College English Association and the American Studies Association.

Other Iowa U. contributors to the volume include Profs. Curt A. Zimansky, an associate editor, Murray Krieger and Richard Lloyd-Jones, of the English department. The text was published by Appleton-Century-Crofts, New York, a division of Meredith Publishing Company. It includes sections on literature, composition, creative writing, linguistics, criticism and departmental administration.

Prof. Robert Scholes, also of the English department, is co-author of the James Joyce volume titled "The Workshop of Daedalus." Designed as a comprehensive study guide to Joyce's novel, "Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man," the volume includes early manuscripts by Joyce, biographical studies by his contemporaries, and literary materials which influenced his conception of poetry. Co-author of the book is Richard M. Kain, University of Louisville, Kentucky. The publisher is the Northwestern University Press, Evanston, Ill.

Four faculty members contributed to a 900-page "Encyclopedia of Poetry and Poetics" dealing with the history, theory, technique and criticism of poetry from earliest times to the present. They are Ralph Freedman, professor of English and chairman of the Program of Comparative Literature; Roger A. Hornsby, associate professor of English; Dr. Krieger, the M. F. Carpenter professor emeritus of literary criticism; and Frederick P. W. McDowell, professor of English. A total of 215 literary scholars throughout the world have contributed to the encyclopedia. The publisher is the Princeton University Press, Princeton, N.J.

Obese Child Is Often Obese Adult

The child that is overweight is likely to become an overweight grownup, says a University of Iowa physician.

Dr. Willard A. Krehl, research professor of internal medicine and director of the Clinical Research Center, said 80 per cent of overweight children turn out to be overweight adults, while only 16 per cent of the children of average weight end up carrying too much weight.

The University physician spoke Tuesday to 150 specialists in internal medicine from 39 states and Canada who are attending a post-graduate conference this week at the Medical Center. The meeting is sponsored by the American College of Physicians and is being conducted by the Department of Internal Medicine.

DR. KREHL stressed the need for "preventive measures to be taken early in childhood to prevent obesity and to reduce the hazard of excessive weight gain as an adult." He cited studies which have shown decreased muscular activity in obese persons.

"It has been demonstrated that the average obese adolescent girl expends far less energy even during scheduled exercise periods than does her nonobese counterpart," he said.

He noted that despite abundant information, few obese persons "thoroughly appreciate the basic principles of nutrition, particularly with respect to calories.

Total and intermittent fasting as a means of losing weight are to be discouraged unless they are done under close medical supervision," Dr. Krehl said. He warned that such fasting can cause metabolic disturbances which are dangerous to health.

IT IS IMPORTANT for the physician to understand the obese patient, Dr. Krehl pointed out. In addition to evaluating his physical condition, he must also have a knowledge of his emotional adjustment. The physician should try to remove any emotional crutch the patient may have, such as believing that his obesity is being caused by a glandular disorder, when in fact the patient is suffering from no such ailment.

Dr. Krehl said the obese patient should be examined at frequent intervals and encouraged to keep a daily record of his weight changes and food consumption. "The role of a dietician is extremely valuable in managing an obese patient," he commented.

New concepts concerning the physiological and biochemical factors concerned with the burning of body fuels is providing new and interesting knowledge in understanding the development of obesity and its control, he said.

'Head Start' Start Set

"Project Head Start," a program designed to give pre-school children with limited resources a broader background in preparation for school, will begin here June 28.

The program, administered by the Johnson County Board of Education, is available to children who will begin kindergarten in the fall of 1965 and whose families receive an income of $3000 or less per year. "Project Head Start" will last eight weeks. "Head Start" teachers will attend a six-day orientation program beginning June 14 at the University.

Activities in the project are planned to broaden a child's experience background, help him to develop his coordination, and encourage his participation in group activities, according to Munro Shintani, Johnson County personnel director for "Project Head Start."

Shintani said that anyone interested in enrolling a child in the program or who knew of a child who would benefit from the program should call the office of the county superintendent of schools.

NOMINATION OKAYED

Baseball Roundup

Pirates 11, Houston 3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vern Law scattered eight hits and four-run uprisings in the fifth and eighth innings carried the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 11-3 victory over Houston Wednesday for their 17th triumph in the last 19 games.

Law, who lost his first five, won his fourth straight game but gave up a run for the first time in 28 innings when the Astros scored in sixth on a single by Bob Lillis, a walk and Donn Clendenon's error.

By that time, however, the Pirates had built their lead to 7-0.

Boston 4, Chicago 2

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Horton, playing his second game since being recalled from Toronto, drove in three runs, leading the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.

The victory was the first for Boston over Chicago this season. Earl Wilson pitched his second complete game of the season, earning his fourth victory in eight decisions. He allowed five hits, struck out seven and was in complete control except in the fourth inning, when Tom McCraw hit his first home run of the season with one man on.

Giants 4, Mets 2

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays socked a two-run homer in the first inning and singled home what proved to be the winning run in the eighth inning to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets Wednesday night.

It was the second straight game Mays' hitting has beaten the Mets. He doubled home in the first inning the two runs that downed the Mets Tuesday night 2-1.

Nats 3, Orioles 2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim King hit reliever Stu Miller's first pitch in the 10th inning over the center field fence, giving the Washington Senators a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

King's eighth homer ended Miller's string of consecutive scoreless innings at 31. He had not been scored on in 17 straight appearances.

Yanks 5, A's 1

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Joe Pepitone and Tom Tresh each hit two-run homers and Mel Stottlemyre pitched a six-hitter as the New York Yankees defeated the Kansas City Athletics, 5-1 Wednesday night for their fifth victory in the last six starts.

Stottlemyre, facing the A's for the first time in his career, struck out 10 and walked only two. The victory was the seventh of the season for the young right-hander, who has lost two.

Phillies 7, L.A. 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tony Taylor slammed a three-run homer in the third inning to spoil Mike Kekich's National League pitching debut Wednesday night and lead Philadelphia to a 7-3 victory over the first place Los Angeles Dodgers.

Chris Short, starting shakily as the Dodgers scored single runs in the first and second, got the victory — his first since May 2 after five losses. He now is 5-6.

Indians 2, Twins 1

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Max Alvis hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning, carrying Cleveland and Ralph Terry to a 2-1 victory over Minnesota and Jim Kaat Wednesday night.

Terry and Kaat were locked in a scoreless duel until the eighth inning when the Twins pushed across a run with the aid of an error. But with one out in the ninth, Rocky Colavito drew a walk and Alvis followed with a drive over the left field pavilion.

Cubs 4, Braves 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Banks, 11th homer with two aboard in the seventh paced the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over second place Milwaukee Wednesday.

$500,000 Offered— Braves Dealing For Early Exit

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The National League Braves, still hoping for an early exit from Milwaukee, offered half a million dollars Wednesday for relief that, if granted, would permit the club to move to Atlanta this summer.

Braves board chairman William Bartholomay said he offered Milwaukee County officials $500,000 and Teams, Inc., another $100,000 to sever contractual ties binding the team to Milwaukee.

But in Milwaukee, it appeared Bartholomay's offer would receive no more favorable reception than it did when he breached it informally last winter to two representatives of Teams, the group of Milwaukee business leaders formed to seek a different, permanent baseball franchise for the city.

AT THAT time, they suggested to the Chicago insurance executive, who heads the syndicate owning the Braves, that the proposal be made formally to Milwaukee County, as owner of County Stadium, not in a public statement.

Bartholomay, in Knoxville for what he described as a promotional visit, said the offer would remain open until midnight, June 21. He asked for a release by July 10.

IF THE OFFER were accepted, the team could become the Atlanta Braves after the All-Star game in Minneapolis-St. Paul July 13, Bartholomay said.

The club had planned to occupy Atlanta's new $18 million stadium for the 1966 season and has signed a 25-year lease beginning Jan. 1, 1966.

The Braves had wanted to come South this season, but an order by the Circuit Court in Milwaukee County prevented the move.

Pro Baseball Drafts 826 Players in Two Days

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional baseball's first free agent draft continued to grind out names of high school boys and college athletes Wednesday as the majors carried their talent search to all corners of the nation.

The draft finally ended at 6:28 p.m., EST, with a total of 826 players named in the two-day session.

"The reaction from the boys and their families has been very pleasant," said Commissioner Ford Frick, who reported most of the clubs had contacted their draftees.

"THERE ARE bound to be some bugs in the machinery because this is the first time we have tried it," said Frick. "We have been working over two years on this plan with the hope of letting the clubs who finish down in the leagues get a better chance at the new talent. I am very hopeful that it will work out."

Warren Giles, president of the National League, who had been less enthusiastic about the idea, said the real test will come in the next six months.

"In six months we will know how many signed and how much this helped in savings," said Giles. Each of the 20 major league teams selected one man Tuesday, and each of the 20 Triple A farms picked two. Each of the Class Double A farms took four. Then the unlimited Class A selections started. They went through three Class A rounds Tuesday, and three more Wednesday morning. When they went back for the afternoon session they had selected a total of 491 players.
