200 Arrests in Rights March

MORE THAN 200 DEMONSTRATORS were arrested Tuesday by helmeted police during more civil rights protests in Jackson, capital of Mississippi.

The marchers, including a national civil rights leader, were arrested for parading without a permit as they moved on the domed state Capitol.

With the arrest tally standing at 675 in two days of protests, civil rights forces pledged to continue demonstrations.

U.S. Jet Crashes at Air Show

A U.S. AIR FORCE B58 Hustler, fastest nuclear bomber in the American arsenal, crashed in flames before thousands of stunned visitors to the International Air Show at Le Bourget, France, Tuesday.

The sleek, delta-wing B58, which can fly at speeds up to 1,300 miles an hour, swept over the air show twice, then turned on its final approach for a landing.

Suddenly, oily black smoke and bright orange flame boiled up from the end of the runway as the swift plane slammed into the ground only a few feet short of what would have been a safe landing. Among witnesses was U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen.

Reds Hit by U.S. Bombers

WARPLANES HIT COMMUNIST targets in North and South Viet Nam Tuesday. The U.S. Air Force permitted correspondents for the first time to ride jets on bombing missions within South Viet Nam.

F100 Super Sabres sprayed napalm fire bombs, high explosives and 20mm cannon shells into Viet Cong-held hamlets. The daylight attacks on guerrilla holdings followed up 230 such strikes in the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m.

More than 75 planes — American and South Vietnamese — pursued the campaign north of the border, striking particularly at bridges, barracks and highway and river traffic.

Faith Needed for Good Communication

Liberal Arts Education Criticized by Lecturer

"The problem of American education is the pollution of the English tongue. We've got to help these lads and lassies speak and write the English language. Then we can teach them all the other things."

This was the admonition that Dr. Stringfellow Barr, former president of St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., gave educators in a speech in MacBride Auditorium Tuesday night.

Barr stated that the basic language problem lies in the liberal arts education of the present day. "Americans don't like to admit that they are wrong. That's an ordinary human folly. But law and medical schools will tell you that this is the problem," Barr said.

The three parts of liberal arts that have to do with words, according to Barr, are grammar, rhetoric and logic. "To use the language well, it is essential to know its structure. This is how to make a language accomplish what you want it to."

"Translation is one of the most important things to know for an understanding of language. Translation from one language to another is the start to improvement. And we must put our sights very much higher than we now have them," Barr said.

"It's largely a matter of faith that we can understand each other. This is a faith that's being lost all too rapidly," Barr said. "A college student that fails to understand a book concludes that there is something wrong with the book. This is a lack of faith that we need to re-awaken in the American student."

The gift of faith was lost first by the liberal arts school and must be regained there first, according to Barr.

Barr described America as a "colony of mankind... an elect of nations" with a duty to listen to the rest of the world. "And we're not very habituated to listening to those who don't speak our language."

Grade Reports Now Available

The day of reckoning is at hand. The Registrar's Office has announced that grade reports for the second semester are completed and may be picked up in B1 University Hall.

Grades have been sent to students who submitted self-addressed envelopes to the Registrar's Office. Other students began picking up their grade reports Tuesday morning. The Registrar's Office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

New Freshmen May Register During July

11 Dates Set Aside To Counsel Students, Avoid Fall Confusion

New freshman students for the fall semester may be relieved of the normal scurry and bustle of the normal registration procedure if they participate in summer orientation and registration activities.

Eleven dates throughout July have been set aside for counseling of new freshmen. According to Donald Rhodes, director of admissions, everything concerning registration can be done at pre-registration, with the exception of registering cars.

THE NUMBER of students participating in the sessions on any day will be limited to 300. Students are requested to sign up for three possible dates, in order of preference, when they receive admittance statements.

Program Coordinator Jack F. Demitroff, assistant director of admissions, said Tuesday that 2,281 students have indicated they will participate in the program.

The students will be divided into four groups, and activities will begin with the dissemination of registration materials in the ballroom of the Union. During the day placement examinations in foreign language and rhetoric will be given. Most students will complete the program by 4:30 p.m.

DEMITROFF SAID Tuesday that more than half of the new students' parents have indicated they will accompany them to the campus. They will meet with academic and administrative personnel, visit student housing facilities, and receive a general orientation to the University while the students are registering.

Students who participate in pre-registration will not need to go to the field house this fall. They will have more time for social orientation, Rhodes said, which is necessary for new students.

Rhodes said students will be assigned a counselor to assist them in preparing their class schedules. The counselors will not necessarily be their academic advisers, he said, noting that advisers will be assigned to the students this fall.

AFTER A STUDENT has registered, two forms are mailed to him. On these forms he should place his Iowa City address. One of the forms is to be returned to the Office of the Registrar to complete registration. The student retains the other form to complete his admittance statement.

If the form is not returned to the Registrar's Office by a specified date, all class cards for the student are removed from the files. If he comes to the campus in the fall, he will be required to register again at the field house.

City's Urban Study Nears Completion

City Planner Arthur Westerback told the Iowa City City Council Tuesday night that a special analysis of almost all the buildings in the urban renewal area was nearly completed.

He said that studies were also being made of the parking and traffic problems in Iowa City.

The Council passed a resolution which approved preparation for a Community Renewal Program and allocated $19,332.00 for local costs. Westerback said the funds would be used mainly for neighborhood analysis.

In 30 days, Westerback said, a report should be ready on what could be done by urban renewal and where urban renewal could be most effective. He said subsoil studies were being made to determine building heights possible in Iowa City.

SOVIET COSMOS LAUNCHED—MOSCOW (AP)—The 68th in the Cosmos series of Soviet satellites was launched Tuesday, an official announcement said. It was reported to be functioning normally and radioing back information.

The announced purpose of the Cosmos series is to collect scientific data on space.

Noted Educator To Talk Today

Harold Taylor, well-known educator and author, will speak at 8 p.m. today in the Union Main Lounge. His subject will be "The Transformation of Education."

Taylor's talk is part of a University symposium called "Trends in Education" sponsored by the University Lecture Series.

Taylor, born in Toronto, Canada, in 1914, received his B.A. and M.A. in philosophy and literature from the University of Toronto.

After receiving his Ph.D. from the University of London in 1938, Taylor came to the United States. He became a naturalized American citizen in 1947.

From 1945 to 1959, Taylor was president of Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N.Y. Since then he has traveled widely on a Ford Foundation grant, conferring with political leaders, educators and others.

Taylor is the author of "On Education and Freedom" and "Art and the Intellect." He is the editor and co-author of "Essays in Teachings." He has also contributed to philosophical and educational journals.

Taylor lives in New York and has two daughters.

LADY HAS A SEAT

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill's widow took her seat in the House of Lords Tuesday, an honor refused by her husband throughout his life.

Lady Spencer-Churchill accepted a life peerage from Britain's Labor government last month, just a few weeks after her 80th birthday and four months after her husband's death.

Youth Corps' First

It was pay check time for these members of the neighborhood youth corps Tuesday afternoon. Virgil Swanson, who is directing the young men in construction of a foot bridge for the Court Hill Park, hands out first pay checks for the group. Other young men are working on similar projects throughout the city.

Youth Corps Aims Just High Enough

"The primary concern is to get these kids a job, to get them working and find out what their aspirations are," John Adamson, Project Director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, said Tuesday.

Forty youth corps workers, ranging in age from 16 to 21, have been recruited through the Iowa State Employment Service to improve the physical appearance of Iowa City this summer. They'll gain work experience, vocational counseling and $1.25 an hour in return.

The Youth Corps applicants were chosen from families whose gross incomes are not more than $4,000 or, with families of four, not more than $5,000. The program is part of a nationwide effort to assist needy youths obtain jobs.

THE YOUTH CORPS is divided into five groups, each headed by a project supervisor who is a graduate student at the University. The work they'll be doing varies from building footbridges to clearing forest land.

Work projects include clearing 80 acres of virgin forest land at Cemetery Pasture, east of the Oakland Cemetery.

Another project is the North Dubuque Street entrance to Iowa City, where a mass clean-up operation, topped off by a guard rail along the street, will make way for a park.

There are 36 street right of ways, called "T-intersections," which will be cleared of weeds and undergrowth to enhance surrounding property.

IN A THREE-MONTH project the old city land-fill south of Iowa City will become a 150 foot strip park stretching from the highway 6 bypass bridge toward the City Airport.

A footbridge will be constructed across Ralston Creek near Court Hill Park. This is to provide easier access to the park and the Robert Lucas School.

Adamson said, "We were hampered by lack of equipment in the early stages, but these kids want to

Security Council Meeting Planned

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Violent fighting broke out Tuesday in Santo Domingo between U.S. paratroopers and rebels. The Americans advanced two blocks into insurgent territory.

U.S. sources in Washington blamed the rebels for the outbreak, one of the worst since U.S. forces landed here in April to protect American nationals and prevent a Communist takeover in the Dominican civil war.

At least four persons were killed and 26 wounded on the rebel side as the battle raged all along the perimeter across which the Americans and rebels faced each other.

REPORTS REACHING Washington said 24 American soldiers and one Brazilian were wounded and one rebel apparently was killed. Rebel fire was said to have killed one Dominican woman.

The U.N. Security Council called a meeting for Wednesday on the Dominican situation after word reached New York of the fighting.

The flareup came less than 24 hours after rebel leaders staged a violent anti-American rally. U.S. sources in Washington said the rebels started the shooting and the Americans did not fire back until fired on.

THE REBELS claimed the Americans launched an attack on them. As a result of the battling, U.S. forces extended their lines two blocks deep into rebel territory along the eastern end of the U.S. controlled East-West corridor.

An official military spokesman said the extension of the corridor lines was temporary to liquidate sources of harassment. He said the Americans would pull back to the original boundary.

The clatter of automatic weapons, the deep bark of 50-caliber machine guns, and heavy explosions of either bazookas or 106 recoilless rifles could be heard all over central Santo Domingo.

DURING MOST of the day's action American naval craft steamed close to shore and once appeared to be just outside the breakwater at the mouth of the Ozama River.

This seemed to have given rise to rumors that a Customs House fire was started by shelling from the American ships. However, rebel soldiers in the vicinity told newsmen the fires were ignited by bazooka and mortar fire from Sans Souci Point across the river where the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division is entrenched.

Angry rebel soldiers screamed at American newsmen: "Look at your Yankee democracy."

Rebel presidential minister Hector Aristy told The Associated Press: "I don't know how you people can refer to that force as the inter-American peace force after this. They are invader forces."

THE DEAD MAN was identified as Andre Riviere, a French national who has been fighting with the rebel forces and was one of the closest aides to Col. Ramon Manuel Montes Arache, rebel defense minister. Two children also were killed.

The two dead children were Antonio Ramos, 13, struck in the head by a 50-caliber machinegun bullet, and a 2-year-old child struck in the stomach by shell fragments.

The shooting broke out as Jose A. Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, sped through the U.S.-controlled corridor to the airport. There he took a plane for Washington.

Mora told reporters his trip was of a personal nature and he would return in two or three days.

This left a top-level OAS mediating team here to continue negotiations for a peace formula with the rival factions.

City Council Meets, Acts

A bid totaling $246,426.33 was awarded to Ray Bertelli of Cedar Rapids for the 1965 street paving program at the Iowa City City Council meeting Tuesday night.

Also receiving contracts as low bidders were Manatt's Inc. of Brooklyn for $1,948.25 for improvement of the Washington and Dodge Street intersection and Veri Greenland of Iowa City who bid $4,950.00 for widening North Dubuque Street.

In other action, the Council adopted a resolution establishing city council meetings for the first and third Tuesdays of every month at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center. Special meetings may be called by the Mayor or by two councilmen.

A second resolution was passed calling for the council to hold urban renewal meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of every month at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Councilman J. H. Nesmith opposed the urban renewal meetings but Councilman Max Yocum said, "For the benefit of the public, I think we should have them."

The council asked for a report from the Iowa City Engineer and the Coralville City Engineer on the dispute over the trunk line sewer near the Law Building. A meeting will be held this week between Coralville and Iowa City officials to discuss the sewer problem.

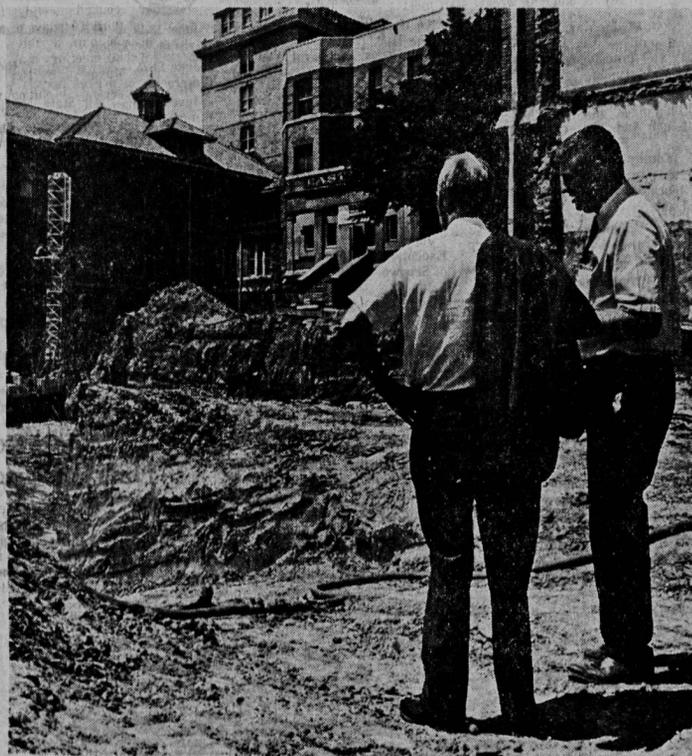

Cassill's Work Now on Display

An exhibit of the correspondence, manuscripts and early printings of stories by R. V. Cassill, lecturer in the Writers' Workshop, is now on display in the Special Collections Department of University Library.

The exhibit is based on the ten short stories in Cassill's "The Father and Other Stories," which was published in the spring by Simon and Schuster.

Included are such prize-winning stories as "The Prize," "Larchmoor is Not the World" and "The Biggest Band."

The Special Collections Department, on the third floor of the library, is open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Hole Today... Whole Tomorrow?

It's just a hole in the ground now, but in a few weeks pilings will begin to grow upward in front of East Hall, and the Psychology annex will be on its way. When finished the new building will cover the old face of the East Hall front on Iowa Ave. —Photo by Mike Toner

Culver cites federal economic 'imbalance'

PAGE 2 WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1965 Iowa City, Iowa

The basic issue

THE PEOPLE RESPONSIBLE for the Mississippi Summer Program are to be congratulated for their work, especially for bringing eighteen Negro college students to Iowa City for a summer of intensive training.

Every volunteer contributing to this program is truly aiding the Negroes in their efforts toward racial equality. No one can question the motives or the effects of this program.

There are no "outside agitators," no demonstrations, no pickets. There are eighteen young men and women visiting a northern community and adding to their education. Education is a strange commodity. Although the students have come from Mississippi to learn something from friends they've never met in Iowa City, the Iowa Citizens will also learn a good deal through the experience.

In the long run education of both white and Negro Americans is the only answer to the racial problems facing the country.

MSP has directed part of its program directly at this basic question of education. It should be supported and expanded.

Text of a statement by Rep. John C. Culver (D-Iowa) before the Employment and Manpower Subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare June 9, 1965

I feel that it is a measure of congressional responsibility that the Senate has recognized that the possibility of a regional economic imbalance resulting from developing patterns of federal research and development expenditures is a national problem.

Rather than ventilating sectional interests, it is realistically investigating the necessity for establishing additional legislative guidelines for the administration of research and development contracts. I have every confidence that the product of this subcommittee's inquiry will be a number of sound recommendations which will serve to strengthen the scientific and technological capability and the economic welfare of the entire country.

First, let me make clear that I do not consider this a grievance hearing for the registration of a complaint that Iowa is not getting enough federal money for research and development, and for an indiscriminate demand that my state be given a bigger slice of the pie. Such an unsophisticated quantitative approach would disregard the fact that certain federal programs are unsuited to the stable economic development of Iowa, and that others are not well matched with its scientific and technological resources.

CERTAINLY, federal research and development is not a proper object for porkbarrel division.

The efficient performance of an R and D contract should never be sacrificed in order to appease sectional interests.

However, it is my earnest belief that Iowa and the other Midwestern states with which its economy is so closely interrelated have not been receiving due consideration for federal research and development awards which their existing facilities are well-qualified to perform.

Moreover, new government sponsored R and D installations have been increasingly concentrated in the coastal areas of the United States — from New England to Texas to California — although industrial and university complexes currently existing in the Midwest are fully adequate to support and complement almost all activities contemplated.

The sociological and economic effects in the Midwest from these two trends in government contracting have been very unhealthy, both for that region and for the country as a whole.

I RECOMMEND that Congress articulate guidelines which would be included in future appropriation legislation for every relevant executive agency requiring that insofar as possible, all regions of the country be allowed to participate equitably in any research and development contracts funded by those appropriations.

Basically, it would be the intent of Congress through such legislation to shift the burden of proof in seeking R and D contracts from the areas which have capabilities but have had few such contracts in the past to regions which have had the preponderance of those awards.

I need not labor before this subcommittee the multitude of statistics which point up the imbalance between Midwest research capabilities and federal awards.

Iowa, which on a per capita basis is perennially near the top of the list of Ph.D. producing states, last year received less than one twentieth of 1 per cent of military R and D funds.

THE SOCIOLOGICAL effect of this imbalance is a strong impetus to the so-called Midwest "brain drain," so well documented by the House Select Committee on Government Research in its reports last year.

Statistics compiled by that committee indicated that although 33 per cent of this country's scientists with doctorate degrees were educated in the Midwest, only 24 per cent were actually employed in those states.

A similar migration of talent brought up and trained in the Midwest has taken place throughout the educational spectrum. I have no doubt that most of these Midwesterners who move to the scientific and technological centers of the coastal states would happily remain in their native regions where the employment and challenge provided by federal research and development contracts are available to them there.

Similarly, in view of the present monopolistic nature of R and D opportunity, those former Midwesterners living in coastal areas who become dissatisfied with their employment for various reasons and wish to return to their native region are discouraged from doing so because the greater opportunities in their profession are centralized in those coastal environments.

THE ECONOMIC legacy of an imbalance in federal R and D contracts, while less easily documented, is equally as depressing to regional development. The injection of federal funds directly through research contracts clearly improves an area's economic picture. But even more significant is what is referred to as the "Spill-over" of research and development awards — the prime contracts for production which generally are given to the facility which made the research breakthrough.

There is also an often overlooked secondary effect which frequently arises from military R and D contracts — the civilian application of military discoveries. One need only look at the extraordinary popularity of the Corning Glass Company's Corningware, which is directly attributable to the discovery of pyroceram by that company in the course of military and space research. Such civilian uses provide a market breadth stability generally lacking in defense contracting.

The Midwest does not need to be reminded that defense contracts can be a two-edged sword. The industrial dislocation which resulted in our area during the reorientation of the national defense posture from conventional to space-age hardware is still vivid in our memories.

There is a new spirit of cooperation arising between Midwest government, education and business leaders in further tailoring the institutions of that region for the pursuit and accomplishment of research and development work.

Now Congress can provide a critical impetus to their success in that important task by guaranteeing that the Midwest, when it has capabilities in the R and D field equal or superior to other regions of the country, will have at least an equal opportunity to see them utilized.

Where did you go?—Out!

By ART BUCHWALD

The announcement that the next American space flight may be for eight days was greeted with mixed reactions by those of us who worry about such things. While astronauts McDivitt and White seemed to get along okay (McDivitt did call White a dirty dog for messing up his windshield) there must come a time when two men in a small capsule are going to start getting on each other's nerves.

I predict it will come around Gemini 11, when two astronauts, Major Alpha and Commander Beta have been in orbit for 12 days.

Suddenly Alpha says to Beta, "You forgot to put the top on the food paste tube."

Beta replies, "Big deal, so I forgot. I'm getting sick and tired of you cleaning and dusting the capsule all day long."

BUCHWALD "I happen to like a neat ship. And I don't enjoy picking up after you, either. You left your socks on the heat shield yesterday."

"My socks were wet and I wanted them to dry. There aren't too many places you can dry socks in this thing, you know. I took this trip so I could get away from all my wife's nagging and you're getting worse than she is."

"Well, I didn't volunteer to be your maid. I've had lots of other things to worry about."

"I'm sick of your bickering. I'm going for a walk."

"Will you be back for dinner?"

"I don't know. You eat when you want to."

"Well, shut the hatch when you go out. I just cleaned the floor. And, by the way, would you mind taking the garbage out?"

"Yes, I would mind. Every time I got out you ask me to take the garbage with me."

A few hours later Commander Beta comes back.

"Where have you been?" Alpha wants to know.

"What do you mean, where have I been? I told you I was taking a walk."

"Well, how do you expect me to sleep when you're out walking in space?"

"Were there any calls for me?" Beta asks.

"Your wife called."

"What did she want?"

"How do I know? I told her you weren't here."

"That was a dumb thing to say. Why didn't you tell her I was taking a walk?"

"Listen, just because we're up here together doesn't mean I have to cover for you every time you leave the space ship."

"Who else called?"

"The President."

"What did he want?"

"He wanted to know if we could go down to the ranch on the week-end."

"Are you going?"

"I thought I might."

"Then I'm not going. When I make my re-entry I'm not going anywhere with you."

"That goes double for me. If I never see you again it will be too soon."

"Who made up my bed?"

"I made it up."

"Listen, Alpha. If I want my bed made up I'll make it up. Do you understand?"

"I think we ought to step outside and settle this once and for all!"

"That suits me fine!"

Fizzled out

ASTRONAUTS McDIVITT AND WHITE received a rousing welcome Monday in Chicago. A planned civil rights demonstration fizzled badly and made news primarily by its absence.

The civil rights movement is better off for the lack of a demonstration Monday. Just as a so-called stall-in designed to tie up traffic around the World's Fair last summer did not aid the movement, so any demonstration messing up the astronaut parade could not do the Negro cause any good.

Sit-ins, picket lines, and other sorts of demonstrations can be very useful in furthering the civil rights movement. But they should make sense.

Lining up to vote in Alabama and being refused shows the entire country what a bad deal the Negro is getting in that state. This sort of demonstration can lead to action such as the voting law.

Lying down in the street to tie up traffic does not prove anything about civil rights. It shows the Negroes are unhappy with their lot, but their unhappiness is misdirected. Such demonstrations have nothing to do with the causes of Negro discontent; they only make folks mad.

Good causes as well as strong feelings is needed to direct the cause for racial justice.

Pleasant dictatorship

THE VIETNAMESE GENERALS have assured their people that a free election will be held there just as soon as the Communist threat has been done away with. In the meantime the military will run the show.

How nice.

The way things are going, the Communist threat may never be done away with. It certainly hasn't been finally fixed in this country — ask any John Birch member.

If there was a free election in South Viet Nam, chances are good that a Communist — or at least someone friendly to those fellows — would be elected.

The long and the short of this "wait til the reds are out" sort of military government amounts to little more than dictatorship a la Latin America. Yet Americans fight on in Viet Nam to repel those nasty old Communists. Why? Because they're dictators and mean and don't like democracies.

Considering the present composition of South Viet Nam's government, we should think it would be difficult for most peasants there to distinguish between what they have now and what they're supposed to fight against.

Many of them probably view the situation similarly.

Tourists still flock to Africa

By LYNN HEINZERLING

NAIROBI, Kenya — It isn't all chaos and tumult in Africa.

Despite political maneuvering, revolts, coups and mutinies, the tourists have never stopped visiting Africa.

Big-game hunters went on shooting and taking pictures throughout army mutinies in Kenya and Tanzania last year. At the height of an army mutiny in the Congo, a party of 18 American tourists arrived in Leopoldville. They made their pictures, looked over the museum, the shops and the local life and continued the tour.

Communist Chinese weapons and ammunition are arriving regularly in Tanzania for a possible showdown with the remaining white rulers in southern Africa. The rate of tourist arrivals in Tanzania is up 30 per cent this year, a government official said.

In Mozambique, where the "freedom fighters" already are at work, hotel rooms at resorts are hard to find.

Where else can you take a taxi, ride 10 minutes and find yourself watching zebras, giraffe and ostriches at play and lions sleeping under a bush? They do it every day in Nairobi.

Colonialism is now a dirty word in Africa, but life hasn't changed much for the visitor.

You can expect almost anything in Africa.

The drinking water in Beira, Mozambique, comes from the Pungwe River. The Pungwe River also is full of crocodiles and hunters are having a field day, since crocodile skin is selling for a dollar a square inch in France.

Acting good, action slow in 'Seance'

By NICK MEYER

Iowan Reviewer

Kim Stanley is perhaps the greatest actress appearing on the stage in the United States, and she has rarely consented to appear in any dramatic presentation on film.

Prior to "Seance on a Wet Afternoon," she had done only one film in which she was the leading role in Paddy Chayefsky's intriguing study of a movie star, "The Goddess," in 1953.

She proved herself in that film quite capable of coming to grips with the difficult celluloid medium, but for some reason has resisted, until now, any other parts on the silver screen.

The very fact that she is appearing in another film should make instant cause to see it.

Brian Forbes, an English writer and director of great worth ("Only Two Can Play" with Sellers), has teamed Miss Stanley with the very talented Richard Attenborough ("The Great Escape"), in a chilling story of a deranged medium and her husband, who carry out a bizarre kidnapping in "Seance on a Wet Afternoon."

Richard Attenborough gives one of his finest performances ever as the poor hen-pecked, loving, and unfortunately (or fortunately, depending on your point of view) sane husband.

MISS STANLEY, who has appeared in only one film in 10 years, is more difficult to criticize. She is certainly in command of the role and plays it to perfection. Whatever else the film is, it is first and foremost a fantastic tour de force by Miss Stanley and Attenborough.

The film is something else, unfortunately, and that is a bit of a bore. The fault seems to lie not with the obviously splendid performances, nor with the ingenious and exciting plot, but rather with the pacing of the film, which includes the writing and directing in a lump since they were both by Brian Forbes. Mr. Forbes, if I understand him, was trying to create a tale of weird horror by using the devices of masters of that form such as Stevenson and Poe.

THE CHIEF elements of the "horror" writing of those masters is the slow, pedantic, but inexorable "prize," building slowly but inevitably to its chilling climax.

Forbes must be given great credit for trying not to recreate this formula in literary terms, but to transfer them to what one guesses ought to be their cinematic equivalents in celluloid.

This is a lot more daring than the dozens of ludicrous attempts made by American-International to make the transference literally. Forbes has an original approach. It fails, unfortunately, for some reason which is at best debatable.

It is too slow, one waits too long. It must be remembered that much of the Victorian writing (Bulwar-Lytton, for example) is not particularly admired today, and gathers dust in attic boxes because it too has taken too much time with its point.

STILL, THERE are basically no excuses for Forbes' failure, other than the commendability of his daring. What's slow is slow, and what's a bore is a bore, and the 20th century, with its faster pace, ought, perhaps, to have been considered.

It's not impossible, after all, to make a slow paced film. Sadajit Ray has done it in his "Apu" trilogy as have others even in Hollywood. Stevenson still sells books and "Jekyll and Hyde" has been made into more than one film.

THEREFORE, we must come to the conclusion that mounting horror is more difficult to achieve in the Victorian sense than merely slowing everything down. There is an art to it, an art mastered by Poe and Stevenson, and missed by Bulwar-Lytton, as it is missed by Brian Forbes.

Happily Mr. Forbes has many pictures yet unmade before him, and with time, he may leave the ranks of Bulwar-Lytton and join those other two on that narrow pedestal.

Meanwhile, there's always Miss Stanley and Attenborough — or Peter Sellers in the Brian Forbes masterpiece, "Only Two Can Play."

An Iowa City 'Le Mans'—Neighborhood Bicycle Race

Always an Enterprising Mind

Wherever there's a crowd there's a thirsty person or two, and wherever there are thirsty people there's someone to take advantage of them. A lemonade and popcorn stand in the middle of the driveway is no exception to that rule.

Off and Running

Starting from the opposite curb, six of the neighborhood bicyclists dash for their two-wheelers across the street in a genuine Le Mans style start of a race.

The Finish

Down went the checkered flag as the winner went by the finish line. The final event of the day for the Rochester, Court bike racers was a fifteen lap stint down the street, up a driveway and back down the street to turn around.

Tension

Youngsters' faces often mirror their feelings, but when they're watching their older brother in a race against someone else's brother, that mirror becomes acutely sharp.

ISU To Sponsor Book Contest

Iowa authors are invited to submit their unpublished book manuscripts in an award program sponsored by the Iowa State University Press.

The Press will present an award of excellence, together with a cash award for $500, to the author whose book manuscript is selected as being the most meritorious. Selection will be from manuscripts submitted to the Press during the calendar year 1965.

Authors must be legal residents of Iowa at the time their manuscripts are submitted. The manuscript must be a complete and hitherto unpublished work in the English language uncommitted for any other publication. Fictional works and poetry are not eligible for consideration. Judging will be by the Manuscript Committee of the Press.

Authors preparing manuscripts for submission in this award program are invited to correspond with Merritt Bailey, director of book publishing at Iowa State, concerning any questions.

18 Soldiers Die in Crash After Helicopters Collide

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Two Army assault helicopters rammed together and crashed Tuesday, killing at least 18 soldiers on a training flight at nearby Ft. Benning, the Army said. Each helicopter could carry up to 10 men.

"We don't know if they were loaded," said Sgt. Maj. Al Spratley of the Ft. Benning Information Office. He said each of the combat-type HUIB helicopters had a capacity of three crewmen and seven infantrymen.

Hours after the collision and crash, searchers probed the wreckage and the surrounding area of the remote, swampy terrain.

Spratley said the helicopters were the same type used by the Army in Viet Nam. He declined to say whether the soldiers were in training for action in Southeast Asia.

The victims were from B and C Companies of the 1st Battalion, 38th Infantry Division. They were on a training mission to a remote area of the sprawling reservation. The helicopters were assigned to the 227th Assault Helicopter Battalion, 11th Air Assault Division.

Names of the dead were withheld until their next of kin were notified.

Four HUIB helicopters were flying in formation when the two collided at low altitude shortly after takeoff. The aircraft crashed into each other about two miles from the airstrip.

A soldier in one of the other helicopters told a newspaper that the skies were overcast and visibility was limited when the lateral collision occurred.

One of the fallen aircraft burned for about three hours before a fire truck could get through the woods to the wreckage.

The helicopters plummeted to the earth about 150 yards apart. The nearest roadway was 600 yards away and a bulldozer was used to clear a path for the fire truck.

Legion Award To Mollenhoff

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Clark Mollenhoff, Washington correspondent for the Cowles Publications, has been awarded the American Legion 1965 Fourth Estate award for top reporter and news writer.

Paul Harvey of the American Broadcasting Company was selected as the top ranking representative of the radio and television industry for 1965. Harvey is a news commentator and analyst.

The Legion chose "The Golden West Broadcaster" as the third award winner for their series of patriotic radio and television programs entitled "Heritage."

Mollenhoff has covered the Washington beat for the Des Moines Register, the Minneapolis Star-Tribune and Look magazine since 1950. He is also a winner of the Pulitzer Prize.

Donald E. Johnson of West Branch, the national commander of The American Legion, said in presenting Mollenhoff's award, "Clark Mollenhoff, by his many feature stories, magazine articles, and straight reportorial efforts symbolizes, we feel, those talents that have made and will continue to make American newspapers a foremost guardian of our democratic freedoms."

Long Hours Spent Studying Repertory Theater's Plays

When the first of the plays in the University Summer Repertory is presented July 2 the cast members will have spent approximately 230 hours rehearsing for the four plays to be presented in nightly rotation.

Since June 3 the repertory company has been rehearsing nine hours every day except Sunday. After the plays begin brush-up rehearsals will be held three hours daily. By the end of the season, the company will have rehearsed 65 hours for each of the shows. Two of the plays, "Under Milkwood" by Dylan Thomas and "The Rehearsal" by Jean Anouilh, will have an extra line rehearsal.

THE OTHER TWO plays are "The Misanthrope" by Moliere and "The Shoemaker's Prodigious Wife" by Federico Garcia Lorca. All four plays are comedies. "The Misanthrope" will be presented July 2, 7, 12, 17, and 22; "The Shoemaker's Prodigious Wife," July 3, 8, 13, 16, and 21; "Under Milkwood," July 5, 9, 15, 20, and 24; and "The Rehearsal," July 6, 10, 14, 19, and 23.

Tickets will go on sale Friday at the East Lobby Desk of the Union. They will be sold from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Tickets are $1.50 each for non-students and are free to University summer session students presenting an I.D. and a certificate of registration.

"THE MISANTHROPE," directed by Aaron Frankel, is the story of Alceste, a man so bitterly opposed to the superficiality of his society that he wishes to withdraw from the world. It is Moliere's ability to provoke laughter and scorn at the same time that makes this play one of the great works in the comic repertoire.

A traditional farce situation in which an old man is married to a young, lively girl forms the plot for "The Shoemaker's Prodigious Wife." But the author, known primarily for his tragedies, never lets his audience forget that this is a situation filled with pathos as well. Larry D. Clark, repertory managing director, will direct this play.

John Peakes, G. Somerville, Mass., will direct "Under Milkwood." An extended series of vignettes linked by a narrator, gives

Beatles Bug 'Other' Heroes

LONDON (AP) — Four more British war heroes returned decorations Tuesday to protest the royal honors for the Beatles.

"There is nothing brave about yapping at a howling mob of teen-agers with a million in the bank," commented Paul Pearson, who was decorated for rescuing downed Allied fliers in the English Channel in World War II.

The mop-haired Beatles were awarded the MBE — Member of the Order of the British Empire — in the queen's birthday honors last Saturday.

The decoration has been given traditionally for long and faithful service to Britain or for excellence in the arts or professions. It entitles the Beatles to attach an "esquire" after their names.

Six veterans have returned decorations since the award to the Liverpool quartet.

Win 4-0— Twins Rock ChiSox

CHICAGO (AP) — Tony Oliva and Bob Allison each hit his 11th homer of the season, backing Jim Grant's five hitter and powering the Minnesota Twins to a 4-0 victory the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night.

In taking their sixth decision in nine games with the Sox, the Twins boosted their American League lead to 1 1/2 games over Chicago.

Grant disposed of the first 12 men he faced, then yielded a single to Pete Ward leading off the fifth. Ward's hit stretched his hitting streak through 14 games.

Grant boosted his season mark to 6-1, including three straight over Chicago. He also was 2-0 against the White Sox last year and now owns a five-game winning string over them.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 5

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain struck out 14 Boston batters, including the first seven he faced, in 6 1/2 innings of relief Tuesday night, and the Detroit Tigers came from behind for a 6-5 victory over the Red Sox on Willie Horton's three-run homer in the eighth.

McLain wasn't around when the Tigers rallied for four runs in the eighth, the last three on Horton's third homer in three games. He left for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning with the Tigers trailing 5-2.

Braves 12, Phils 7

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Felipe Alou drove in six runs with a pair of homers and a single and Eddie Mathews slammed a homer for his 2,000th major league hit Tuesday night as the Milwaukee Braves bombed Philadelphia 12-7.

Alou, a slugging leadoff batter in the Braves' power-packed lineup, touched off a 21-hit assault, high in the majors this season, with his ninth homer in the first inning.

After singling home a pair of tallies in a six-run third, Alou hit another homer with two mates aboard in the sixth. He boosted his RBI total to 37, tying Mathews for the Braves' leadership.

Mathews ignited the second-inning explosion with his 13th homer, a towering blast into the bullpen in right center. He joined 110 other players with 2,000 hits in major league history.

Orioles 2, Yanks 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Adair, who scored the tying run in the eighth, on Russ Snyder's sacrifice fly, doubled in the 10th inning and came home on Snyder's single as the Baltimore Orioles nipped the New York Yankees 2-1 Tuesday night for their fifth straight victory.

Adair, leading off the 10th against right-hander Mel Stottlemyre, 7-3, lined a one-bounce ground rule double into the lower right field stands. He took third on relief pitcher Stu Miller's sacrifice bunt and scored the go-ahead run on Snyder's ground single to center.

Oliva and Allison hit solo homers in the first and second innings, respectively, both off Gary Peters. Peters finally was yanked in the fourth after a single by Harmon Killebrew, a double by Earl Battey and Jerry Kindall's sacrifice fly added another run.

Cubs 5, Astros 0

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Buhl and Ted Abernathy collaborated on a five-hitter and the Chicago Cubs blanked Houston 5-0 Tuesday night, extending the Astros' losing streak to eight games.

Buhl, who pitched the first eight innings and evened his record at 6-6, twice stranded a Houston runner at third base. He and Abernathy, who retired Houston without a hit in the ninth, extended the Astros' string of scoreless innings to 31.

Reds 5, Mets 1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sammy Ellis followed teammate Jim Maloney's 10-inning no-hitter by allowing only four hits — one after the second inning — as the Cincinnati Reds stopped the New York Mets 5-1 Tuesday night.

Ellis, winning his 10th game against two defeats, retired 18 straight batters before Roy McMillan's single in the second and Joe Christopher's pinch single in the eighth.

A's 5, Angeles 0

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Diego Segui blanked Los Angeles on two hits Tuesday night as the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Angels 5-0.

Segui gave up a first-inning single to Jim Fregosi and did not allow another hit until the seventh, when Bob Rodgers singled, while recording his fourth victory in 10 decisions.

Indians 8, Senators 3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rocky Colavito drove in three runs with his 13th homer and Chuck Hinton hit a solo home run, powering the Cleveland Indians to an 8-3 victory over the Washington Senators Tuesday night.

Both blasts were off Steve Rickzik, the second of four Washington pitchers, and climaxed a five-run fifth-inning rally that wiped out the Senators' 2-1 lead.

Thorson Leads in Girls' Golf

GRINNELL (AP) — Suzie Thorson shot a sizzling 77 Tuesday to take a five-stroke lead after the first round of the Iowa Junior Girls golf meet here.

Suzie, an 18-year-old from Cedar Falls, came up with an eagle two on the first hole, then went on to set a women's course record for nine holes with a 37. She had a 40 on the second nine.

Dubuque's Jacque Fladoos, the defending champion, was in second place with a 39-43-82. Carol Cordes

Lema Will Get Shot At Top Golf Money

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tony Lema, who won the World Series of Golf last year, likely will get another shot at the $50,000 top prize this year even if he fails to win one of the world's four major titles.

Under a new qualifying format announced Tuesday, Lema, as the previous year's winner, becomes the first alternate in case one player wins two of the qualifying tournaments.

The Professional Golfers' Association, which gave the World Series official recognition this year, and television producer Walter Schwimmer worked out the system to keep the series a four-player match.

The match will be played Sept. 11-12 at the Firestone Country Club.

Jack Nicklaus already has qualified as winner of the 1965 Masters Tournament. The winners of the U.S. Open, the PGA championship and the British Open will be the other contestants.

The World Series will be televised by NBC from 4 to 5:30 p.m., EST, both days.

of Eldora had an 84, Joan Overton of Indianola an 85, 15-year-old Lynn Sandeman of Creston an 86.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Veteran pro lineman Lou Michaels has signed for the 1965 season with the Baltimore Colts, it was announced Tuesday.

All-Star Domination By Yanks May Be Over

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee domination of the American League All-Star team may be at an end. It is possible that not a single New York player will be in the starting line-up that faces the National League July 13 at Minnesota.

The players, managers and coaches will vote later in the month to pick the starting lineup, with the exception of the pitcher. If they follow the averages, the Yanks will be among the absent.

This is a far cry from the old days when the Yanks had most of their lineup in the ball game. In 1959 Joe McCarthy had nine Yanks on the club. Again in 1958 Casey Stengel had nine of his men on the squad.

The only Yankee starters last year were Bobby Richardson and Elston Howard although Joe Pepitone, Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford were on the squad.

Richardson probably is the best

Nicklaus Talks About National Golf Tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus, fresh, fit and full of confidence, checked in Tuesday with the prediction that finesse — rather than power — would win the 55th National Open Golf Championship this weekend.

"Nobody is going to overpower this course," the 25-year-old Golden Bear said as he prepared for a semifinal tune-up over the 7,191-yard Bellevere layout, where 150 of the game's best tee off Thursday.

"She's a tight course and you have to pamper her rather than beat her with a sledge-hammer. On several holes, I won't use a driver off the tee. I'll use a three-wood or a one-iron."

Because of his awesome power, the beefy Nicklaus has been made a solid 6-1 favorite over the longest course over which the Open ever has been played.

"It's a hitters' course—Nicklaus has five shots on the rest of us," growled Sam Snead, a pretty fair slugger himself, making his 25th try for the big title he's never won.

Nicklaus figures to hit eight-iron approaches to greens where defending champion Ken Venturi, with his bad hand, is hitting three-woods.

Nicklaus scoffed at this suggestion but admitted that he was pleased — rather than shaken — at being installed as the people's and the player's choice.

Maloney Looks To Next Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — "That's all behind me — now I'm looking forward to my next game."

That was the way Jim Maloney said he felt Tuesday about his pitching performance Monday night in which he held the New York Mets hitless through 10 innings, only to lose in the 11th when rookie John Lewis hit a home run.

The 25-year-old Maloney, who struck out 18 during the 11 innings, had fanned Lewis three times before the homer.

Maloney said he had had a full day of answering telephone calls, some of them from as far away as Los Angeles. He is a native of Fresno, Calif. One of his congratulatory telegrams came from National League President Warren C. Giles.

Jim said the only thing he didn't like about the 10-inning no-hitter was getting up Tuesday morning, "and seeing that 'L' after my name in the box score."

That 'L' meant he was the losing pitcher.

Salary Increase

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim (No-Hit) Maloney was informed Tuesday his old contract with the Cincinnati Reds was torn up and a new one issued, giving the right-handed pitcher a $1,000 raise immediately.

Reds' owner William O. DeWitt sent Maloney congratulations and announced the salary increase.

Maloney pitched a 10-inning, no-hitter against the New York Mets Monday night, only to lose the game 1-0 in the 11th on Johnny Lewis' home run. Maloney ended with a two-hitter.

Rick Monday Signs With Kansas City

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics signed Rick Monday, one of the most widely sought college baseball players in the country, for $104,000 Tuesday.

President Charles O. Finley personally flew out to nail down the club's top choice in the recent major league free agent draft and closed the deal after a 2 1/2-hour conference with 19-year-old Rick and his mother, Mrs. Nelda Monday, in their attractive Santa Monica apartment.

The contract really was for $100,000, but it also contained a clause that will pay Monday $1,000 for the four semesters, or the two years remaining, for Rick to continue his studies at Arizona State University.

Actually Monday was signed to the A's Lewiston, Idaho, farm club of the Northwest League.

Russian Historian Views United States

MOSCOW (AP) — A lady historian named Evgenia I. Popova has become the toast of Soviet academic circles by disputing some standard Soviet dogmas on life in the United States. In past years, she would have been fired for holding such views.

Top members of the Soviet academic world gathered in Moscow University's Pedagogical Institute Monday to praise Miss Popova's book, "The U.S.A. and the Washington System."

The book deals with the nine-power conference on disarmament, China and other questions held in Washington in 1921.

She submitted it as a doctoral dissertation and publicly defended it with some tart remarks about standard Soviet views of America.

"SHE REJECTED" as "top schematic and oversimplified" traditional Soviet notions of "Wall Street monopolists" who control the United States," she said.

"The view that the American government is the servant of Wall Street monopolists in many respects hampers an understanding of the important role of public opinion in the United States," she said.

Miss Popova insisted that the U.S. government must take into account domestic public opinion, its allies' wishes, and the contingencies of international politics in its policy-making decisions.

"I FEEL it is not accurate to break American society into two groups — the great mass of workers and the monopolists," Miss Popova said, knocking over another favorite Soviet concept of life in America.

In one of the first attempts of its kind in Soviet scholarship, she drew a picture of the United States with "a great middle stratum" which she said includes highly skilled workers, intellectuals and professional people.

High-ranking and influential colleagues, including Prof. Valentin Zorin and academician Prof. Alexander Mintz, lauded Miss Popova's scholarship as one of the most important events in the field in recent years.

THEY ALL warmly recommended it be published for mass consumption.

Miss Popova, 47, devoted more than 200 pages of her book to the historical setting of the conference, including much material on the domestic American political scene.

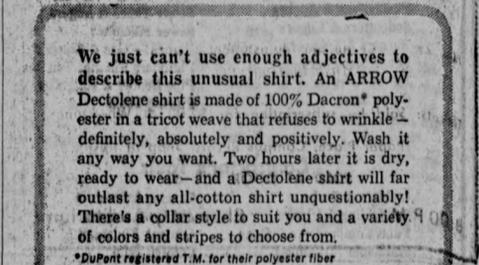

She emphasized that in addition to Lenin and other standard sources for Soviet scholarship, she had read hundreds of American newspapers and foreign sources. They included obscure reports sent from Washington by officials of the then independent Republic of Estonia.

Some university sources said the new mood in academic and artistic circles is directly linked to the downfall of former Premier Khrushchev and his apparatus' ham-fisted control in these fields.

The battered, 18-year-old program would be ended in its present form in 1967.

A special committee would study foreign aid and plan a new program.

It would authorize $130 million less for aid than the $3.37-billion House measure.

stops

tiny particles in gasoline
(before they stop you!)

What does the American FINAL/FILTER® really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER stops harmful contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't), stay out of trouble—fill 'er up filtered® with American, Regular or American, Super-Premium.

You expect more from Standard and you get it!

Investor's guide to U.S. Savings Bonds

[[FREE]]

Are Series E Savings Bonds a good investment? Yes. For several reasons, including some investment advantages unique to Bonds.

For instance, all Series E Savings Bonds carry a 10-year automatic extension privilege. Which means you can hold your Bonds past maturity and cash them when you're in a lower tax bracket — perhaps during retirement. (Or you can trade them in for Series H Bonds for retirement income.)

Also, Savings Bonds offer a guaranteed rate of interest. You have no concern about market fluctuation or a "right" time to buy.

Another thing. Bonds are exempt from state or local income taxes, and federal income tax can be deferred until you cash your Bonds.

You'll find these and more eye-opening investment advantages of Series E Bonds explained fully in this free folder available from the Treasury Department. Use the coupon below to order a copy.

Former Iowa Educator Dies in Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Dr. George M. Wilcox, 75, an educator whose career spanned 53 years, died Tuesday of cancer.

He was born in Poochow, China, where his father, the late Rev. M. C. Wilcox, was in charge of the Methodist missionary school there for 26 years.

The younger Wilcox came to this country when he was 17. He was a 1911 graduate of Cornell College. Following World War I he was director of Near East relief. He taught abroad and at colleges in Iowa and South Dakota before joining the faculty of Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio.

Survivors include the widow; a son, Air Force Col. Churchill Wilcox of Bedford, Mass.; three brothers, Alfred W. Wilcox, of Des Moines; Dr. Myron Wilcox of Iowa City, Iowa; Dr. Charles Wilcox of Columbus, Ohio; and a sister, Mrs. Clifford Ohlson of Aurelia, Iowa. Services will be at 1:30 p.m. today.

Methodists Vary Widely On Church-State Relations

DES MOINES (AP) — Methodists vary widely in their opinions on church and state relations, the Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Albrecht of Springfield, Ill., said Tuesday night.

Dr. Albrecht, chairman of the Central Illinois Methodist Conference Board of Christian Social Concerns, told the South Iowa Methodist Conference meeting here that "this issue of church-state relations is not only a twilight zone.

"It is actually an area where there is a wide difference of opinion, ranging from those who advocate a complete wall of separation to those who see church and government as partners in all areas of health, education and welfare.

"Not only is this an area of great difference of opinion," he said, "but it is also an area of large financial concern.

"The Methodist Church under the present rate of giving of its members would have to abandon many of its enterprises in the health, education and welfare fields if it were not for financial aid received from government through exemptions, gifts and loans."

At the business meeting, delegates attending the annual gathering approved a proposal to establish a group home to provide care for six to eight children with a set of house parents.

The home, which will cost an estimated $25,000 a year to operate, will be located near medical and education facilities and is designed to help "needy juveniles."

The conference also approved a program costing an estimated $12,000 a year designed to boost contributions "and more fully commit" ministers and laymen to the church.

Stock Rises For 5 1/2 Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York stock market made a substantial recovery in very heavy trading Tuesday. At one point, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than six points. But it recovered more than 12 points to register a gain of more than 5 1/2 at the close.

The Associated Press 60-stock average made its largest gain of the year. The volume was the largest since Nov. 26, 1963—the first trading session after the assassination of President Kennedy.

The recovery is credited to word that President Johnson and Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler feel the economy is in good shape.

Sales totaled 8,500,000 shares, compared with 5,900,000 Monday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks closed at 874.57, up 5.86; 20 rails 195.62, up 2.51; 15 utilities 153.33, up .06 and 65 stocks 301.41, up 2.18.

CRUSHED TO DEATH
DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A Keewauke, Ill., man was found dead Monday crushed beneath a load of steel beams in a gondola-type railroad freight car at a Denver suburb.

The car, loaded at Sterling, Ill., arrived at the siding of a steel firm here Saturday.

Post Office Construction Scheduled for Hedrick
WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of a new post office at Hedrick, Iowa, nearly twice the size of the present building, has been approved by the Post Office Department.

Rep. Bert Bandstra (D-Iowa), making the announcement Tuesday, said the new building will have about 2,200 square feet of interior floor space compared to 1,200 square feet in the present building. In addition it will have a platform of 216 square feet and a 5,000-square-foot parking area.

Bandstra said the site selection will be announced later, and the building will be erected for and leased by the government.
