Are You Bugged?

An advance guard for the beetles arrived in town Monday to scout the area in preparation for a mass invasion.

Concealing himself behind an inconspicuous facade, the beetle personally went over every square inch of the proposed landing site. When he was grounded by wing trouble, he had additional time to inspect local housing facilities.

As he made his final departure from the area the beetle told a sharp-eyed, nimble-footed Daily Iowan staff member that he hadn't expected to find so many fans at the University.

"After all, it was only about 80 degrees out," he said.

Two Comic Operas To Be Presented

The Opera Workshop will present "Angelique" and "Die Kluge", two 20th century comic-operas, in Macbride Auditorium July 27, 28, 30, 31.

Both operas, each lasting about an hour, will be presented nightly beginning at 8 p.m.

The two operas, originally written in French and German, will be presented in English, according to Herald Stark, professor of music and director of the Opera Workshop.

"I have felt very strongly about this for some time," said Stark. "Although a little of the meaning of the work is lost in translation, there is a great advantage gained in helping the audience to understand the plot."

The performances will open with Jacques Ibert's "Angelique". The work was his first and most successful opera. Ibert ranked it as one of his most important works.

The comedy tells the story of a young woman, played by Dorothea Brown, instructor in music, who so torments her husband that he resolves to sell her to whoever will buy her. James Fudge, G. Grand Forks, N.D., plays the husband.

After several unsuccessful transactions, including a sale to the devil, the couple find themselves to be compatible. Though the show ends with a happy marriage, Angelique is "still for sale".

Carl Orff's "Die Kluge" (the wise one) will follow a brief intermission. The German composer aims to revive the musical theater by freeing it from all the exaggerated expression found in opera at the beginning of the 20th century.

The plot, taken from one of Grimm's fairy tales, deals with a farmer's daughter, played by Sheila House, G. Clovis, N.M. Through her prudence she marries the king, played by Larry Schenck, G. Esterville, and eventually shows her mastery over him.

Tickets are $2.50 each and are available for all performances at the Union east information desk.

Demos Will Attempt Primary Compromise

DES MOINES — Gov. Harold Hughes and Iowa Democratic Chairman Lex Hawkins announced in a joint statement Monday that they are trying to compromise their difference over party endorsement of candidates in primary elections.

Traditionally, the Iowa Democratic party has officially stayed out of primary election contests, where voters choose the party's general election candidates for office.

Hawkins and the State Democratic Central Committee have endorsed a new party constitution that would have party conventions endorse and support a candidate in each primary contest.

Hughes, opposing the change, said it would take control from the people and return it to "smoke-filled rooms." Hawkins said it would give the people a stronger voice, through their convention delegates.

AN AIDE to Hughes issued a statement for Hughes and Hawkins which said they conferred for about 30 minutes Monday and "mutually agreed to explore all possible avenues of compromise that may exist in an effort to reconcile their differing viewpoints."

The only apparent compromise that has been made public was mentioned last week by Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa).

Smith suggested a plan under which conventions would endorse two candidates in primary elections.

Hughes later said he could go along with such a plan.

He said party money and other backing for a single candidate would virtually prevent any other candidate from winning.

French Charge U.S. Espionage On Bomb Site

Air Force Jet Accused Of Taking 175 Photos Over Nuclear Complex

PARIS — France accused the United States of aerial espionage at its supersecret nuclear complex, where enriched uranium for the French hydrogen bomb is produced. The incident plunged American-French relations to a new low.

French officials said Monday a U.S. Air Force RF101 reconnaissance plane made four passes over the nuclear complex at Pierrelatte last Friday and took 175 photos despite interception by a French fighter plane. A formal protest was lodged with the U.S. Embassy in Paris by the French Foreign Ministry.

American officials in France and in West Germany, where the photographic reconnaissance plane is based, declined all comment after details of the incident were reported in a French Defense Ministry communique.

State Department officials in Washington said only "The investigation is continuing."

After news of the protest was released here Monday, State Department officials in Washington confirmed the embassy's receipt of the protest.

Some hours later, the Defense Department in Washington issued a brief statement saying, "There was no intent to overfly any prohibited area in France."

Earlier, American officials said that on the basis of first reports, the plane had been on a routine training mission. They said a thunderstorm caused the plane to go off course, but expressed belief it had not flown over the Pierrelatte complex.

The French said they determined the American plane's German base and asked for the photos as soon as the plane landed. Development of the film, the French said, showed 175 views centered on the Pierrelatte plant.

Rhee Dies In Hawaii

HONOLULU — Syngman Rhee, 90, founder and first president of the Korean Republic, died in exile Monday in Honolulu, his dream of spending his last days in his own country unfulfilled.

A stroke felled the "Tiger of Korea" at Maunalani Hospital. His 65-year-old Austrian wife, Francesca, and their adopted son, Rhee In-soo, were at his bedside.

He probably didn't know they were there. Dr. Thomas Min, his personal physician, said Rhee was in a coma at death.

In a day or two, Rhee's body will be flown to Seoul, Korea, for burial in the land from which he was exiled five years ago after 12 years as president.

One month after student riots toppled him on April 23, 1960, Rhee went to Hawaii. He tried twice to return to South Korea, the nation he led during its devastating war against North Korea.

Concert To Feature Three Centuries of Music Works

An evening of chamber music will be presented by eight School of Music faculty members at 8 Wednesday in the Union Ballroom.

The concert, another feature of the 27th annual Fine Arts Festival, is open to the public. No tickets are required.

Musical works from three centuries make up the program. The Iowa String Quartet will open the concert with Antonin Dvorak's "Quartet in E-Flat Major." The composition is an example of Dvorak's interpolation of Czech folk music into his compositions.

Iowa String Quartet members are Allen Ohmes and John Ferrell, violins; William Preucil, viola; and Joel Krosnick, cello.

The last two works to be presented use woodwinds as well as strings. Ohmes and Krosnick will be joined by Ayres, clarinet, for the second work, "Concerto a Tre" by the contemporary American composer Ingolf Dahl.

Dahl, who has been a pupil of Stravinsky, was director of the Zurich Opera before he came to the United States in 1935. He has since been an arranger for Hollywood film studios, directed the Hollywood Orchestra and lectured at the University of Southern California.

BEETHOVEN'S "Septet, Op. 20" will conclude the concert. This work, composed in 1799 and dedicated to the Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, was one of Beethoven's last chamber works to include wind instruments.

The "Septet" will be played by Eldon Obrecht, bass; Donald Munsell, bassoon; Paul Anderson, horn; and Ferrell, Preucil, Krosnick, and Ayres.

Krosnick is an assistant professor of music and Munsell is a graduate assistant. The six other faculty members are associate professors of music.

The concert will be broadcast live by University radio stations WSUI-AM (910 kc.) and KSUI-FM (91.7 m.c.).

New Registrar Named

W. A. COX, ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR of admissions and associate registrar at the University since 1961, has been named director and registrar.

He succeeds Donald E. Rhoades, who was recently named dean of admissions and records.

Dean Rhoades also announced the appointment of John E. Moore, formerly principal of South East Junior High School in Iowa City, as director of student financial aids at the University, a position held until July 1 by Charles M. Mason, Jr., who is now assistant dean for administration in the Graduate College.

Dance Issue Considered

FINAL APPROVAL or disapproval will be given to an ordinance which would bring local restrictions on dancing in taverns into conformity with state law by the Iowa City Council at their meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Civic Center.

If the Council approves the new ordinance, dancing would be permitted in certain taverns which meet space requirements.

A second reading will be given to ordinances setting out new requirements for mobile home parks and for regulation of closing-out sales and fire sales in the city.

The Council will consider for approval a contract for work to be done on the overpass of the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Railway Co. tracks at Rocky Shore Drive. The city will pay two-thirds of the cost, a little over $27,000, and the railroad will pay the rest.

Eight zoning ordinances will be given first readings and reports will be given by the city manager and the mayor.

Mariner Goes On

MARINER 4 was radioing Monday what may be some of its most interesting pictures of Mars — electronic images of areas some scientists think could be vegetation — but there was no hint of when they would be released.

William H. Pickering, director of Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said he would report on Mariner 4 at a scientific meeting in San Francisco next week but planned to discuss only the first three pictures. They were released last week.

There's Trouble Ahead

PRIME MINISTER HAROLD WILSON expressed fear Monday that the Viet Nam fighting might spread into a major land war in Asia that could engulf the world in nuclear destruction.

Immediately afterward, Reginald Maundling, speaking for the opposing Conservative party, reported an unqualified warning he had been given recently in Moscow by Prime Minister Alexei N. Kosygin:

"If the Americans extend the Viet Nam war, volunteers will come from Russia and China."

Viet Cong Terrorist Arrested Afterwards

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Police foiled a Viet Cong attempt Tuesday to assassinate U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, police sources reported.

Viet Cong terrorists reportedly had set up a powerful mine of the type used in last month's bombing of the My Canh restaurant, aimed in such a way that it would have killed Taylor 15 minutes later if it had not been discovered, the sources said.

Taylor was with an official party attending a "national unity day for the liberation of North Viet Nam" rally at Saigon's biggest stadium.

The mine had been set up in a cemetery across the street from the stadium entrance and aimed at the entrance, the sources said. The mine contains a shaped charge and shrapnel that is projected in a lethal beam when detonated.

The My Canh floating restaurant was bombed by Viet Cong terrorists June 25. The terrorist blast, the worst ever in Saigon, killed 43 persons, including 12 Americans, and wounded 81 others.

Police reportedly found the mine 15 minutes before Taylor was to have entered the stadium. Police also reportedly arrested one Viet Cong terrorist responsible for setting the mine, and found a grenade on him.

Suit Filed Against Klan In Bogalusa

BOGALUSA, La. — A federal court was asked Monday to hold Bogalusa's top police officials in contempt and enjoin the Ku Klux Klan from interfering with civil rights demonstrations.

John Doar, a Justice Department official sent here as a White House troubleshooter, filed legal actions in federal district court at New Orleans — 65 miles southeast of this troubled papermill town.

He asked that Public Safety

Commissioner Arnold Spiers and Police Chief Claxton Knight be held in civil and criminal contempt.

The legal moves came as civil rights workers pushed ahead with picketing and street demonstrations, actions that have produced racial clashes in recent weeks.

A march Monday was the 17th in a series to test public accommodations. The marchers are demanding equal job opportunities for Negroes and desegregation of public facilities.

In charging Spiers and Knight with contempt, Doar said they failed to provide reasonable protection for civil rights workers under an injunction issued July 10 by Federal Judge Herbert Christenberry of New Orleans.

In a statement to newsmen, Spiers said Bogalusa's 34-man police force, assisted by nearly a hundred state policemen, "can and will uphold and enforce the law to the fullest extent." Knight did not comment.

Senate OKs New GI Bill

WASHINGTON — The Senate passed late Monday a "cold war GI bill of rights" measure providing monthly educational allowances and loan benefits to post-Korean veterans.

The vote was 69-17. The Administration opposed the measure, which drew the support of Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), the majority leader, now goes to the house which failed to act on a similar bill passed by the Senate several years ago.

It was not immediately known whether Taylor was aware of the incident. The ceremony itself went off without a hitch.

The identity of the arrested terrorist was not immediately disclosed.

Republican attempts to limit its application to veterans of service in areas of hostility were rejected.

The Senate rejected 52 to 36 an amendment by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.), which would have restricted benefits to veterans who have served in areas of conflict like Viet Nam.

Then it defeated 53 to 31 a substitute measure from Sen. Peter H. Dominick (R-Colo.), to limit benefits to veterans who had served in Southeast Asia operations.

Proponents of the bill approved by the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee said the committee bill — opposed by the Defense Department and Veterans Administration — is designed primarily not to reward veterans for combat service but to permit young men taken from civilian life to readjust after leaving service.

Stevenson is Buried

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — Adlai E. Stevenson, whose diplomacy, wit and charm made him at home in all the great cities of the world, was buried Monday among his ancestors in a quiet, pleasant country cemetery.

President and Mrs. Johnson, Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren led an impressive list of dignitaries who came to pay their respects to the man who twice made, and twice lost, bids for the presidency.

They heard Stevenson praised as an eloquent, farsighted leader whose fame will grow in the years ahead.

Or, in the words of Dr. Dana McLean Greeley of Boston, president of the Unitarian-Universalist Association:

"Neither ancient Israel nor modern New York could produce a more articulate spokesman for justice and the right. In that distant day when nobody rattles a saber and nobody drags a chain, his name will shine with ever-increasing luster."

Monday's services were a startling change from previous public memorials held for him in the Washington National Cathedral and in the Capitol in Springfield, where Stevenson, a Democrat, was governor from 1949 until 1953. He was his party's unsuccessful nominee for President in 1952 and 1956.

At the end, Stevenson was surrounded only by family and friends. Final rites for this politician-diplomat — he was U.S. ambassador to the United Nations when he died at 65 of a heart attack in London Wednesday — were held in the Bloomington Unitarian church, where only 200 could be accommodated.

President Johnson — an aide stressed he had come at the invitation of the family — sat in the aisle seat in the front pew of the small sanctuary. Mrs. Johnson was on his left next to Mrs. Humphrey and the Vice President.

Stevenson's family — his three sons, Adlai E. Stevenson III, John Fell and Borden, and his sister, Mrs. Ernest Ives — sat on the opposite side in the first two pews.

In front was the casket, with no adornment except the United States flag. A dozen floral pieces were in the sanctuary. One, a display of peonies, gladioli and red roses tied with a red, white and blue ribbon, came from the Johnsons.

In each of the services, there was the haunting memory that no one could write an eulogy more gracefully and uniquely than Stevenson himself, and that the easiest way to recall Stevenson was to quote him.

President Johnson

Final farewell...

Viet Nam a trouble for Soviets

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
The steady U.S. buildup in South Viet Nam appears to be creating new problems for Soviet leadership. It seems eager to break through a Red Chinese wall of opposition blocking any reasonable approach to Communist leader Ho Cho Minh in North Viet Nam.

Something new may be in the wind. Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's long talk with U.S. Acting Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and the London report that Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah has been invited to Hanoi warrant speculation as to the possibility of cautious new approaches to the crisis.

Harriman has made it clear that his mission is to prevent Soviet misunderstanding of the U.S. position, but it is equally clear that the Soviet leadership fears the United States will misunderstand Moscow's difficulties. FOR THE edgy collective leadership in the Kremlin, the search for some means of lessening the Southeast Asia danger may be a matter of desperation. Between the lines in the Soviet press one can detect apprehension that eventually the Viet Nam crisis may lead to a U.S.-Soviet conflict.

In addition, there are indications that the situation threatens to interfere with Moscow's domestic planning and even to provoke new political troubles.

Since early this year, when the escalation process in Viet Nam gathered momentum, Soviet-U.S. relations have noticeably cooled. Now, through the agency of the Harriman visit, at least high-level contact has been re-established.

At the same time, there has been a sudden upsurge in propaganda from Hanoi, repeatedly restating Communist terms for easing the South Viet Nam peril. If anything, these terms are stated even more rigidly than in formal Communist statements of March and April. The terms remain nothing less than U.S. surrender, complete withdrawal from Viet Nam and a decisive voice for the Viet Cong's political front organization in any peace talks.

THIS RESTATEMENT could be preparation for bargaining, particularly if Nkrumah's visit should materialize. Nkrumah, an admirer of Moscow who holds himself to be a leading Asian-African spokesman, conceivably could help restore Moscow Hanoi communications cut by Red Chinese assertion of domination in Asia. An end-run around the Peking stumbling block could be a key to new developments.

The Southeast Asia situation has provided a handle for influential Soviet military elements to push demands for a larger share of the Soviet budget, notably in manpower and conventional forces. This could complicate matters for the collective leadership of Kosygin and party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev. Like Nikita Khrushchev before them, they have been trying to devote more Soviet wealth to the internal economy.

Import fun

Tourists who buy American Indian art curios could very well find a "Made in Japan" label on some of them.

According to The Insider's Newsletter, Gov. Jack Campbell of New Mexico says that his state's curio shops are having to import "Indian" souvenirs from Japan, because native resources can't supply the demand.

In North Carolina, a recent check of gift shops revealed that Japan was the source of much Cherokee art. To make matters worse, the curios were done in Sioux designs.

For shame, girls

To the Editor:

In refutation of the letter submitted by Misses Strong and Brown (DI, Friday 7-16), in which they bemoan the diseased color schemes in the IMU addition — "Salmon-colored stairway, explosive red, hot pink and yellow carpeted lounge area," seasick aquamarine and nauseous, orange Illinois Room, ad disgustum — I feel impelled to say: Shame on you girls!

Don't you know that it's a truly Great Society we're existing in; that in this truly Great Society all is magnificent; that ostentation and superfluity are as essential to it as the very polluted air we breathe; and that, amid such opulence, rationally-determined tuition increases can be no more loathsome than a fart in a breeze?

And as for the $4.2 million IMU construction cost you gasp at, why for Heavens sake, girls, don't you realize that it's self-liquidating, self-liquidating, self-liquidating...

Survey shows Red membership is rising

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON — Red China made deep inroads during 1964 into the Soviet Union's sphere of influence among Communist parties in nations not under Communist rule, a U.S. Government survey reports.

By the end of January this year, outside the Red orbit — Indonesia, India, Japan and New Zealand — showed strong pro-Chinese tendencies, the report said.

In addition, pro-Chinese parties were formed in nine other nations after an open split with the parent Communist organization. This occurred in Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Burma, Ceylon, Columbia, Mexico, Paraguay and Switzerland.

And bitter factional struggles are reported between pro-Soviet and pro-Chinese elements of parties in six other nations — Austria, Ecuador, Nepal, Norway, Peru and Spain.

The survey cautioned, however, that the alignment of Communist parties in the Sino-Soviet dispute is subject to rapid changes and some of the evidence of alignment is ambiguous.

The survey, made available to a reporter, makes it clear that by the end last January Peking could boast of undeniable gains.

The U.S. report is the latest in an annual series of estimates on the strength of the Communist movement throughout the world, excluding the United States. It deals with Communist parties in 90 countries.

In addition to the internal party shifts, with more parties siding with Peking, the survey shows a slight increase in the total Red membership during 1964. It rose from 43 million to 44.5 million, a growth of about 4 per cent during the year.

This growth might be meaning-

Sociologist Art finds it's a real riot

By ART BUCHWALD

The resort towns are having their problems this year. It appears that more and more high school and college students of good families are showing up at resorts, not to rest, but to tear the towns apart.

Sociologists, psychiatrists and anthropologists have been studying the phenomena for some time now to discover why American youth go on rampages every summer.

I decided to do a survey of my own and went to a resort where a riot had just begun.

I asked a student who was about to throw a brick through a glass store window, "Why are you doing that?"

"I guess," he said, "because my parents don't understand me. We have no communication and they give me too much money."

HE HEAVED the brick into the window. "Perhaps now they'll understand."

I stopped a young man who was driving his motorcycle on the sidewalk. "Pardon me, could you please tell me why you're driving your motorcycle on the sidewalk?"

"I want to be noticed. All that kids crave is a little attention. We have anxieties but no one realizes it. All grownups tell you is, 'Don't drive your motorcycle on the sidewalk.' But nobody tells you why."

I went over to the police station where four students were trying to set it on fire.

"Why are you trying to set the police station on fire," I asked them.

ONE OF THEM replied, "I guess it's because my father never beat me when I was a kid. If he had given me a good walloping then I probably wouldn't be doing this now."

"That's funny," the second kid said. "The reason I'm doing it is because my father beat me all the time. This is my way of flouting authority and getting even with him."

The third boy said, "We're trying to find a place in the sun. We're caught between being treated like adults and at the same time they won't let us vote. Burning down a police station is our way of saying, 'We're grown up and should be given more responsibility.'"

I asked the fourth boy why he was doing it. "I wish I knew. I keep searching for an answer but I can't find one."

I wandered over to where a group was trying to overturn a fire truck and I asked one of the boys why he was doing it.

"I MAY BE DRAFTED in two or three years," he said, "and I may never get another chance to overturn a fire truck. I might regret it for the rest of my life."

"Then you don't blame your parents for what you're doing?"

"Well, I wouldn't say they're completely blameless. If they hadn't told me not to play with matches when I was a kid, I might not feel this way about wanting to overturn the truck."

I went down to the beach to interview several couples on the boardwalk who were dancing without any clothes on.

I asked a girl who she felt was responsible for her behavior.

"Society," she said, as she made me do the frug. "We're victims of a materialistic society and we're terribly confused. Our sex mores have disintegrated and we all have a subconscious fear of the bomb."

I TRIED to continue the interview in the paddy wagon, since the police wouldn't believe I was a sociologist.

"What's the charge?" the desk sergeant asked.

The patrolman said, "Dancing on the boardwalk with a nude girl whose parents don't understand her."

Speaker ban an injustice

To the Editor:

In reading your article of July 15 on the North Carolina law banning Communists from speaking at state universities, I notice a statement that (at U. of I.), "We haven't had any communists speaking on campus recently..."

The Department of Chemistry last year, in fact, was host to a member of the Academy of Sciences of the Soviet Union, and he presented a lecture that was open to the public.

I recall that the Institute of Hydraulics and Mechanics has had Soviet visitors in the past, and that some young Soviet journalists visited the School of Journalism within the past year or two.

None of the comments I have seen on the North Carolina law have pointed out the great loss that results when such non-political international contacts as these are prohibited. In addition, I find it hard to believe that the fundamental beliefs of any thinking person, particularly of a university student, could be much affected by a single speech, Communist or otherwise. Clearly, the Legislature of North Carolina has done a great injustice to the people of that state.

What a weekend

WE DON'T LIKE TO complain — honest — but last weekend just didn't amount to much, at least as far as the news was concerned. (It was quite all right for picnics.)

First of all we learn that the canals which should be on Mars aren't. At least the Mariner cameras didn't spot any yet.

Then we learn some Republicans in the Iowa House who shouldn't be on the Democrats' mailing list are. At least two of them received mail containing Democratic strategy for getting reelected in 1966.

It's getting so you just can't be sure of anything any more. Next it could be that Lyndon is staying at the White House over the weekend and missing a barbecue at the Ranch, or Jack Valenti finds a flaw in something the President does.

Who knows? The University might even call off Finals or lower tuition. Well, at least Jack could fall out with Lyndon.

Let's hope things calm down next weekend. Too much of this could shake our faith.

Gebhard Wins as Pro

Bob Gebhard, former Iowa pitcher, is currently burning up the Northern League, according to information received here Monday.

Gebhard is pitching for the St. Cloud, Minn., minor league team, a farm club of the Minnesota Twins. Gebhard has pitched four games, winning all of them.

He has given up only one earned run in 36 innings and has picked up 22 strikeouts. St. Cloud is currently leading the Northern League by four games.

Gebhard's latest victory was a 1-0 decision over Huron, S.D.

At Iowa this spring, Gebhard compiled a 3-4 record. He pitched 52 innings, gave up 45 hits, 16 earned runs, 14 walks, and struck out 57. His earned run average was 2.77. In Big Ten action he was 2-2, pitching 31½ innings. He gave up 13 runs, 8 of them earned, 29 hits, and 7 walks. His E.R.A. was 2.27.

Baseball Roundup

Senators 8, Tigers 0
DETROIT (AP) — Ken Hamlin, who entered the game with only eight runs batted in this season, knocked in four with a pair of home runs to lead the Washington Senators to an 8-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers Monday.

Phil Ortega allowed the Tigers just three hits to become the fourth American League pitcher to win 10 games. He has lost eight.

The Tigers failed to pose a serious scoring threat as Ortega limited them to a scratch single by Norm Cash in the fourth inning, a sixth-inning double by Jerry Lumpe and Don Demeter's pinch-single in the eighth.

Twins 5, Angels 2
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Suspended Minnesota Manager Sam Mele watched from the press-box Monday night as his first-place Twins trimmed the Los Angeles Angels 5-2 behind the four-hit pitching of unbeaten Jim Perry.

Perry survived solo homers by Joe Adcock and Jim Fregosi in the early innings and won his seventh straight this season. It was his second complete game in four starts since coming out of the bullpen July 5.

The Twins beat Dean Chance, 6-5, on Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer in the first inning and Jimmie Hall's two-run single in the seventh.

Los Angeles . . . 010 100 000—2 4 1

Cut by Mets—Giants Sign Spahn

By JACK STEVENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Warren Spahn, the 44-year-old, former pitching star who was cut loose by the last place New York Mets, will join the pennant-contending San Francisco Giants Wednesday.

The Giants announced Monday they had reached an agreement with the veteran who has won more games than any other left-hander in baseball history. The high-salaried hurler was released last Wednesday by the youth-minded Mets.

ALTHOUGH Spahn had lost eight straight for the last-place Mets, both he and the Giants feel he'll help the third-place club in its drive for the National League pennant.

Terms of the contract weren't announced, but it was believed the veteran won't suffer much of a cut from the $73,500 he signed for with the Mets.

Baseball contracts are based on a 5½-month season and the Mets in releasing him were required to pay one month's salary. The Giants are expected to give him about $18,000 for the rest of the campaign.

Manager Herman Franks said he feels the left-hander can help and he has been searching for a portside thrower. The Giants have only two, Bill Henry and Masanori Murakami, neither of them starters.

"I MAY START him," Franks said. "I just don't know yet how he'll be used. We'll talk as soon as he gets here."

In New York, Spahn said he planned to arrive in San Francisco on Wednesday. When he gets here, the Giants must cut one player to stay within the 25-player limit.

Spahn said: "I'm in excellent physical shape and my arm feels good. I feel I can help the Giants win the pennant. I am confident I can still pitch nine innings but I'm ready to do anything Franks wants me to do."

THE SAN FRANCISCO offer was one of three received by the pitcher. The Mets asked waivers on him last Wednesday. When there were no takers for the regular $20,000 waiver price, the club put the veteran up for a nominal $1 waiver fee for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release to make his own deal.

Giants' vice president Charles (Chub) Feeney said the club checked with several baseball men who had seen Spahn pitch recently and "we felt he can help us."

With the Mets this season he was age, and Manager Casey Stengel 4-12 with a 4.43 earned-run-average he was released to give more chance to younger hurlers in the New York building program.

Mele Says Suspension Unfair, Will Protest

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Sam Mele, manager of American League-leading Minnesota, said Monday he considers a five-day suspension imposed by league President Joe Cronin "unfair," and plans to discuss the matter with Cronin.

Coach Hal Naragon will be in charge of the Twins during Mele's absence.

Mele, slapped with a $500 fine in addition to the suspension for his run-in with umpire Bill Valentine in Sunday's Twins-Los Angeles doubleheader here, said:

"I expected the fine, but not the suspension — at least not for that long. I think the length of the suspension is unfair."

"Sure, I was surprised. I didn't think I deserved that much in view of two facts: the way my ball player was treated and because we're in a pennant race."

"The umpires have to have respect, but they've got to respect my ball players, too."

Mele drew the fine and suspension after a jostling fracas with Valentine in the sixth inning of Sunday's first game, won 3-3 by the Angels. He appeared to take a swing at Valentine during the altercation, which wound up with other umpires and players pulling the pair apart.

Mailbox Bombings Continue; 5 More Blown Up Last Weekend

Evidence of a plot by a group of young saboteurs to overthrow the U.S. postal system in the Johnson County area was witnessed again last weekend when five more mailboxes were "blown up to thunder," according to Johnson County Sheriff Maynard Schneider.

Earth Science Institute Draws 64

Sixty four instructors are currently studying in the eight week summer institute in Earth Science for Secondary Teachers at the University.

The institute, which began June 8 and will continue through August 4, includes lectures, discussion groups, laboratories and field trips centering on earth science.

"The program gives the teachers the essential methodology and background in earth science which allows them to teach the course on the high school level," Robert E. Yager, administrator of the institute, said Monday. "The group has been working enthusiastically so we believe the program has convinced them that earth science is a need for high school students as a full course."

Besides heading the institute, Yager is an associate professor at University High School.

Television is being used as a teaching aid by the institute. A high school class in earth science is televised to the group, and adaptations and teacher's methods are then discussed and analyzed.

A field trip into Wisconsin will provide a research experience for the group this weekend.

"The teachers will be observing the varieties of terrain in Wisconsin. They'll be working as geologists," said Yager.

Providing the lecture format for institute members this week is Dr. Redwood Wright, of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute in Woods Hole, Mass.

Eight hours of college credit can be earned in the earth science institute. Six are in earth science course work, and two others in teaching problems.

The trouble seems to be a case of vanishing identity. Each time a mailbox is blown up, all that is left is a crumpled mass of metal and no one fitting the description of a "mad-bomber."

The ruckus all began on the Fourth of July weekend. An oval, half the size of a golf ball, is painted red at the base and has a green time-fuse. This weapon is called a "cherry bomb."

The culprits light a cigarette and place the fuse in the dry end of it. When the ash burns down...

KABOOM! No more mail box. The splintered post that once contained the Saturday Evening Post. Thirteen such mailboxes have gone to the mail graveyard in the past two weeks.

Putting a cherry bomb in a mailbox may get almost as many grins as tipping over outhouses, but the bombings are a Federal offense.

Schneider said that when the offenders were caught, they would be treated accordingly.

Iowa Citian Gets State Safety Post

Richard F. Houston, 1421 Ash St., joined the administrative staff of the Iowa Commissioner of Public Safety, William Suplee, July 16.

Houston, who has been field secretary for the University Alumni Association, will serve as an accountant for the department. He will also take over personnel functions now being handled elsewhere in the department.

Houston received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Iowa City. Houston was past president and member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Elks and a member of the American Legion.

Communist Chief Urges Settlement Of Sino-Soviet Rift

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Romanian Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu called on the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties Monday to make a "sincere and comradely" new effort to settle their long-seething conflict.

The unity of the world's Communist parties is in the vital interest of world peace and must prevail over all disagreements, Ceausescu told 2,000 cheering delegates at the ninth congress of the Romanian Communist party.

"COMMUNIST UNITY can only be achieved, he declared, if every party respects the independence and equal rights of the other. Romania has been steering a course independent of Moscow and Peking."

"Of the greatest importance is the development of relations of confidence, esteem and mutual respect between the parties," Ceausescu said. "Any problem of joint interest should be discussed directly from party to party, from leadership to leadership, in a sincere and comradely way."

His audience included Soviet party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev and Teng Hsiao-ping, general secretary of the Chinese Communist party, as well as delegations from more than 50 Communist parties throughout the world.

ROMANIA has taken a neutral position in the Soviet-Chinese conflict and has made several discreet attempts to mediate — without success. Diplomatic sources said the Romanian leaders expressed hope Brezhnev and Teng might get together behind the scenes of the week-long congress to make a new approach toward patching up their quarrel.

Ceausescu said Romania intends to continue mediation efforts. Ceausescu's three-hour speech contained only a passing reference to "the aggressive acts pursued by American imperialist circles" in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Iowans To Attend Miami Conference

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa National Guard will send 22 delegates to the annual conference of the National Guard Association Sept. 27-30 in Miami Beach, Fla.

The Iowa Executive Council Monday authorized the trip by the guardsmen, who will travel in a military plane.

The trip was approved with little discussion after the council was told that a delegation of 22 went to last year's conference in Detroit.

PTA Conference Ends; Forty-One Were Enrolled

Forty-one teachers, counselors and school administrators have finished a three-week conference on the care and treating of parents.

The conference, the third Parent-Teacher Relationships Conference at the University, began June 28 and ended Friday.

The workshop consisted of lectures and discussions on the problems of reporting to parents, techniques of holding conferences and group discussions, and the roles of parents and teachers in dealing with school children.

Frosh Gets Minor Injury As Car Overturns Here

John T. Shabel, 17, of 521 Holt Ave., was charged with failure to have his vehicle under control after a one-car accident on the corner of Muscatine Avenue and Garden Street Saturday afternoon.

The police reported that the car Shabel was driving was traveling southwest on Muscatine. When Shabel attempted to turn left on Garden Street, the car rolled over, officers said.

Tom Blanchard, 41, Iowa City, a passenger in the car, was treated at Mercy Hospital for a minor cut on his arm. Shabel was not injured.

Bargains Galore To Be Seen At Thieves Market Friday

Thieves Market is a good place to get a good bargain for a small price. The market, held periodically at the Union, offers a chance for art students and hobbyists to sell their work and for the public to see the work the art students are doing.

Thieves Market will be held again from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday in the Union Terrace Lounge. Any student who wants to sell his work should go to the Hostess Office Friday afternoon.

There he will be directed to an area of the lounge to display students' work. The items are tagged with their selling price and the artist's name. A centrally-located cashier receives the money from the buyers.

All the money goes to the students. There is no cut or percentage for the market sponsors.

Small items such as ceramics, jewelry, charcoal sketches and pen and ink sketches generally sell best because of their low price, often 50 cents to $1.

Pottery also sells well at the market, although it usually costs more than the smaller items. Some students display oil paintings. But the paintings, because of their higher prices, are harder to sell.

Thieves Market was first started several years ago, and then discontinued. Last fall the market, sponsored by the Union Board, was resumed and held several times through the year.

Communist Chief Mountaineers Plan Outing For Mid-Aug.

Hiking, climbing and fishing in the spectacular Sawtooth Mountains of Idaho are among the activities planned for those taking part in the Iowa Mountaineers Summer Camp program Aug. 9-20. The camp will be open to non-members as well as to members of the Iowa Mountaineers.

Reservations for the camp may be made by writing to Sawtooth Outing, Iowa Mountaineers, Box 163, Iowa City, Iowa.

This year will mark the group's fourth summer camp in the Sawtooths. Those registered for the camp may travel in their own cars to Big Redfish Lake, about 1,450 miles from Iowa City.

The camp will be located at the far end of Big Redfish Lake, which will be reached by ferrying passengers and equipment across the lake or by hiking on the scenic trails skirting the area's Alpine lakes.

Hikes of varying distance and with different objectives will be scheduled daily during the camp and climbs will be scheduled to meet the needs and qualifications of the registrants. Special emphasis will be placed on basic as well as advanced climbing instruction. Boat service will be available for fishermen.

The camp director and leader will be veteran club member Wilbur Davis of Cedar Falls, who has been on many Mountaineers outings. Joan Cox, Iowa City, and Mrs. Wilbur Davis, Cedar Falls, will be hiking leaders. Heading the advance party will be John F. Ebert, A3, Iowa City, and Clair Brown, A3, Solon.

More than 40 persons from four states have already registered for the expedition.

Zoning Hearing Set For Aug. 9

There will be a public hearing at 10 a.m., Aug. 9, on five zoning applications which have received approval of the County Zoning Commission.

The hearing, conducted by the Johnson County Board of Supervisors, will be held at the Court House.

There were originally six applications brought before the Zoning Commission at a hearing June 29. One application, for the rezoning of 560 acres of land between Lake MacBride and the Coralville Reservoir, was deferred.

The application by Terry B. Bjornsen, involved plans for a multi-million dollar resort community at Lake MacBride.

Bjornsen's plan caused some protest by people from the Lake MacBride area. They feared that low-cost motels would be constructed near the residential area.

Robert C. Hardin, dean of the College of Medicine, is also on the board of directors.

The Advisory Board members are Warren L. Van Eschen, district superintendent of vocational rehabilitation; Donald Harris, project planner of Hospital Schools; Carrol B. Larson, head of the Department of Orthopedic Surgery; Leonard A. Miller, assistant professor of education; John E. Muthard, professor of education; Raymond R. Rembolt, director of Hospital Schools; Mrs. Julia Saxton, supervisor of vocational rehabilitation at Oakdale; Munro Shintani, coordinator of special education; and Jude P. West, program director of the Bureau of Labor and Management.

City Workshop Announces New Directors

The Board of Directors and Advisory Board for the Johnson County Sheltered Workshop were officially announced at a recent meeting.

The Sheltered Workshop is a facility maintained on a non-profit basis. Its purpose is to provide a rehabilitation program for the mentally, physically and socially handicapped persons through paid employment and rehabilitation activities and assistance.

There is now no specialized facility for the training or employment of handicapped adults in Johnson County.

"We feel there is a vital need for a Sheltered Workshop in this county," said Col. Brooks W. Booker, head of air science and member of the Sheltered Workshop Board of Directors.

THE IOWA CITY CITY Council has agreed to find a site for the Sheltered Workshop building and the Iowa Home Builders Association has agreed to provide materials at cost or less than cost for the construction of the building, Booker reported.

Members of the Board of Directors were assigned to various committees to further the Sheltered Workshop program.

Nominating Committee members, who will nominate a president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer, are Robert F. Ray, dean of the University Extension Division; Clark Houghton, president of the First National Bank; and Philip G. Hubbard, professor of mechanics and hydraulics.

THE CONSTITUTION and By-Laws Committee members are Philip A. Leff, attorney; Bernard C. Barber, director of the Iowa Employment Security Commission; Booker; Robert S. Lee, circulation manager of the Press Citizen; Mrs. Cleo Marsolais, director of the Johnson County Social Welfare Department; Mrs. Alma Morse, Special Education; Jay Oehler, attorney; Russell M. Ross, professor of Political Science; John Sissel, Johnson County vocational rehabilitation counselor; and Robert K. Sorenson, principal of Iowa City High School.

Finance Committee members are Allen H. Arneson, manager of the J.C. Penny Co.; Sam Becker, director of television - radio - film; Dale Bentz, associate director of the University Library; George Dane, trust officer of the Iowa State Bank and Trust Company; Charles G. Dore, manager of Owens Brush Company; John L. O'Neill, personnel manager of the Measurement Research Center; Joseph G. Wayner, manager of Wayner's Jewelers; and Roy A. Williams, manager of the North-Western Bell Telephone.

MEMBERS of the Facilities Committee are Earl Yoder, president of the Yoder Construction Company; Warren Buchan, building inspector; Reuben Denning, assistant director of Veterans Hospital; Robert Earnheart, manager of Powers & Associates; and Paul Scott, personnel director of Proctor & Gamble.

The Advisory Board members are Warren L. Van Eschen, district superintendent of vocational rehabilitation; Donald Harris, project planner of Hospital Schools; Carrol B. Larson, head of the Department of Orthopedic Surgery; Leonard A. Miller, assistant professor of education; John E. Muthard, professor of education; Raymond R. Rembolt, director of Hospital Schools; Mrs. Julia Saxton, supervisor of vocational rehabilitation at Oakdale; Munro Shintani, coordinator of special education; and Jude P. West, program director of the Bureau of Labor and Management.

WSUI Aims Program On News Media

The communications process is something every person is involved in, but no one seems to know what it's all about.

Many persons watch Huntley and Brinkley or Cronkite on television, listen to Paul Harvey or Murphy Martin on radio, or read about the latest political faux pas via Art Buchwald and James Reston.

So what? They listen, but they take everything for granted.

At least three men at the University don't take the news process for granted, and they have set out to let the public get an insight on the role of the news media.

Currently being aired on WSUI radio is a series of 13 programs designed to "investigate the role of the news media in modern, American society." Each program is about 15 minutes long.

"Press Profiles" is the name of the programs. About once a week, they are aired following the 5:30 p.m. WSUI newscast.

Executive producer of the profiles is James K. Buckalew, news director of WSUI-KSUI and instructor in radio-television journalism. He was assisted by Thomas Oomen, G. Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, the chief scripter, and Norm Van Tubergen, G. Albuquerque, N.M. Buckalew and Van Tubergen were narrators for the programs, and Van Tubergen produced them.

"Press Profile" programs are available to any broadcasting station that wishes to use them. Copies of each script and accompanying tape recordings are included.

The two graduate students, studying in radio-television journalism, did this work as part of the master's program.

The 13 profiles deal with various aspects of the news media process, from the role of the newsman to the effects of television on a child.

Tapes and scripts of "Press Profiles" are currently being handled through the University Extension Division, and all requests for copies go through the Extension Division.

Politics Avoided When Dancing With President

The safest subject for a Republican to talk about while dancing with President Johnson is his children, Mrs. Jack Miller, wife of Sen. Jack Miller (R-Iowa) said Friday.

She was speaking on "A Glimpse of My Life in Washington" at a luncheon sponsored by the Johnson County Republican Women.

"I like Washington very much," said Mrs. Miller, "not only because it is the capital of the free world, but also because we are serving people whom we respect."

"BEING THE WIFE of a senator is not much different from being the wife of any other busy man," she said. "My life is just different from yours in details."

The Millers have met the Dwight D. Eisenhowers, the John F. Kennedys, and the Lyndon B. Johnsons in the five years they have been in Washington.

Mrs. Miller said the custom had been for the President to invite all congressmen and their wives to a party once a year. As a result, more than 1,200 people had to stand in receiving lines all evening just to meet the President and his wife.

THE KENNEDYS eliminated the receiving line but still invited everyone at one time. The Johnsons now hold three separate parties for Senators, inviting about 35 to each one.

JAPAN STUDY

Judith Vesely, 700 Crest St., Iowa City, is one of 17 students from Carleton College to participate in an eight-week study program in Japan.

The program is part of the college's new Asian Studies Program made possible by a grant from the Hill Family Foundation of St. Paul.

Prerequisites for the study program in Japan were the Asian Studies course offered this past winter, two history courses, and a short language study to develop enough competence in the Japanese language to communicate successfully during the tour of the country.

While in Japan, the students will spend three weeks traveling to places of political, religious and historical interest. During the remaining five weeks they will study at Doshisha University in Kyoto, Japan.

Institute Delegates Study U.S. Economic Problems

Thirty-four employment security managers from Iowa and six other states are attending a two-week Employment Security Managers Institute at the University. The institute began Sunday.

The institute, sponsored by the University Bureau of Labor and Management, will concentrate on teaching and reviewing labor market economics, and on leadership theory in relation to employment security personnel.

Bureau of Labor and Management staff members participating in the institute are Don R. Sheriff, bureau director and head of research services, Jude P. West, head of government and management services, Anthony C. Sincropi, head of labor services, and Duane Thompson, program director.

Other institute staff personnel are Professors Charles E. Marberry, Henry Albers and Norman
