News in Brief

New Surgeon General Named

PRESIDENT JOHNSON picked as the new U.S. surgeon general Friday pipe-smoking Dr. William H. Stewart, a Public Health Service official since 1951 and a key figure in the surgeon general's office nearly half that time.

Vatican Favors Common Bible

THE VATICAN ECUMENICAL Council has given official encouragement to the idea of a common Bible for all Christians and praised the work of modern Biblical scholars using new research tools.

In what was hailed as a milestone for Bible scholarship and Christian unity work, the Council's 2,200 prelates voted wide approval of a theological schema on Divine revelation. The ballots were spread over several days earlier this week. Vote results were announced then, but details of the key passages were made known Friday.

Greek Premier Wins Confidence

PREMIER STEPHANOS STEPHANOPOULOS won a vote of confidence in Parliament Friday, ending a government crisis that has gripped Greece for more than two months.

After tumultuous debate, Parliament voted in the 21-member coalition government by 152-148. It was the first government to receive a parliamentary mandate since former Premier George Papandreu lost office July 15 in a dispute with King Constantine over control of this NATO nation's armed forces. Two others tried and failed. The vote gave Stephanopoulos, a dissident member of Papandreu's Center Union Party, the go-ahead for an attempt to restore order and normalcy to the troubled country.

U.S. Wheat for India, Pakistan

THE UNITED STATES is expected to approve early next week a request from India and Pakistan for more than 6.5 million tons of American surplus wheat worth more than $390 million, U.S. officials said Friday.

The requests of India for 5 million tons of wheat and of Pakistan for 1.7 million tons have been under consideration for some time. U.S. authorities said Friday they anticipate an announcement will be forthcoming by early next week on the continuation of the Food-for-Peace program to both nations.

No Weekend Decision Seen in News Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A mediators vice president of the AFL-CIO move toward marathon negotiations sputtered on Friday and prospects quickly dimmed for a weekend settlement of New York's nine-day newspaper blackout.

Negotiations were cut short at 7:30 p.m. EDT, with a resumption scheduled for 11 a.m. today, between the New York Times and a striking employees' union.

City mediator Morris Tarshis reported no real progress and said any weekend breakthrough of the deadlock seemed unlikely. He added:

"I HAVEN'T SEEN the kind of movement I had hoped for. The parties could move faster if they wanted."

Earlier, special mediator Theodore Kheel had said: "I'm hopeful that before the weekend is up there will be a breakthrough. We're pushing for continuous negotiations."

Later, Kheel said his remark was "not to be construed as being in any way more optimistic than any previous statements I've made in the past."

Union Addition and Future Plans Presented During Ribbon Cutting

By JUDY BRUHN
City Editor

The New Union addition and plans for revamping the older building to better serve the students were both officially unveiled at dedication ceremonies Friday night.

A ribbon-cutting at 8 p.m. on the front steps of the Iowa House, a new 112-room guest lodge, and an open house throughout the Union afterwards marked the grand opening of the $4.2 million addition.

Included in the work, which was begun in 1962 and completed in July, are the Iowa House, 25 meeting and conference rooms, a ballroom, a cafeteria and craft and hobby rooms.

THE OPEN HOUSE and tours of the addition will continue today from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Loren V. Kottner, director of the Union, has invited area residents to attend.

With the new Union completed, remodeling of the old Union will begin, Pres. Howard R. Bowen said at the dedication banquet.

Bowen reported that a committee of faculty and students was formed during the summer to study needed renovations.

One of the recommendations, that the old cafeteria become a center for student organizations, is now being implemented. The organization center is scheduled to open in October.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS included expanding the Gold Feather Room, developing lounges in the rooms fronting the river, landscaping the outside area, enclosing the east patio, expanding and improving the browsing room, television room and music listening area and redecorating the Main Lounge, making it a social center and area for informal study.

An architect is working on plans for these changes.

Bowen said that he felt the Union was not only a social meeting place, but was also a group of people organized to advance student extracurricular life.

"The Union, as I see it, is an organization that initiates programs itself, and which also facilitates many programs conducted by others," he said. "It often provides the place, the refreshments, the arrangements for activities sponsored by others. But it cannot wait for others to take the initiative."

EXTRACURRICULAR PROGRAMS on campus, Bowen said, have not kept pace with the enrollment increase and urgently need development.

"I believe strongly that the campus environment should scintillate as a forum for discussion of contemporary issues, as a market place for ideas, as a center for the arts and as a place of social, moral and religious concern."

At the ribbon-cutting later, Stanley Redeker, Boone, president of the Board of Regents, joined Bowen in urging that the student body use the Union as "an opportunity for a real out-of-class education."

The Hawkeye Marching Band and cheerleaders participated in the half-hour warmup to the ribbon-cutting. About 400 persons stood outside for the cutting and then followed the band into the Union.

The addition was financed through a bond issue and student fees. The original Union, a memorial to former Iowa students who died in military service, was founded in 1942. The first addition was completed in 1955.

New Canal Treaty Will Offer Panama Management Voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Friday a decision to scrap the controversial Panama Canal treaty of 1903 and draft a new one offering Panama a share of management and profits of the waterway and other benefits.

The President said successful preliminary negotiations with Panama — which began after anti-U.S. riots in January 1964 brought death to 21 Panamanians and four U.S. soldiers — show nations can solve their differences "honorably and reasonably, without violence and conflict."

In addition to a share of management, Johnson said it has been agreed that "the new treaty will effectively recognize Panama's sovereignty over the area of the present Canal Zone." This has long been a sore point in Panama.

IN ADDITION, the statement hinted strongly that Panama is in a position of preference as the site for a proposed new sea-level canal the United States government proposes to build somewhere in middle America.

Administration officials outside the White House said this interpretation is correct.

As Johnson spoke before television cameras and reporters at the White House, Panama's President Marco A. Robles was making a similar nationwide broadcast to the people of his country.

REP. CARL ALBERT of Oklahoma, the Democratic leader in the House of Representatives, called the agreement "eloquent proof of friendship and good will."

Rep. Leonor K. Sullivan (D-Mo.), chairman of a House sub-committee on Panama Canal affairs, told a reporter the preliminary agreement is "one of the most foolish, unnecessary and saddest things which could be done. I don't want to add fuel to the fire of controversy long surrounding our relations with Panama, but the benefits of such an arrangement will serve only to give prestige to the government in power, and profits to the privileged families which run Panama."

New Battling Flares In Kashmir Dispute

NEW DELHI (AP) — Pakistani and Indian troops battled Friday night in Pakistan's Lahore sector, south of disputed Kashmir, despite the U.N. cease-fire, a Pakistani broadcast said.

The reported flareup in the Lahore area, scene of the stiffest fighting of the undeclared war, occurred as India repeated it would not consider any change in the status of Kashmir.

Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told Parliament a plebiscite to determine the future of Kashmir, as demanded by Pakistan, was out of the question.

The people of Kashmir, he said, "have already exercised the right of self-determination through three general elections on the basis of universal adult franchise."

PAKISTAN HAS repeatedly demanded that the largely Moslem state be allowed to decide in free elections whether it wants to join Pakistan or India or become independent.

Lahore, Pakistan's second-largest city, lies near the southern tip of Kashmir. Indian troops were reported eight miles across the near-by Pakistani-Indian frontier when the U.N. cease-fire took effect early Thursday.

Radio Pakistan said the new shooting broke out at 5 p.m. Friday in the Hareeky Burki area and shots still echoed three hours later. There was no immediate explanation for violation of the cease-fire.

TOUGH PRONOUNCEMENTS from the rival capitals indicated there will be no quick withdrawal of frontline troops to their positions before the start of the fighting—one of the demands of the U.N. Security Council.

Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan's government in Rawalpindi said its troops will stay put until an agreement is reached at the United Nations on means of solving the Kashmir deadlock.

Shastri, besides opposing any change on Kashmir, told Parliament in New Delhi that India would not withdraw its troops until Pakistan pulls back "infiltrators." Pakistan denies it sent any guerrillas into Kashmir but attributes unrest there to local rebels fighting Hindu rule.

PAKISTAN'S STATEMENT on a troop withdrawal was in response to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's prodding about the pull-back that was to have followed the cease-fire.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson announced the designation of Canada's Maj. Gen. Bruce MacDonald as commander of the U.N. India-Pakistan Observation Mission (UNIPOM). MacDonald, 48, headed the Nicosia Zone Headquarters of the U.N. peace force in Cyprus, which includes many Canadian troops.

The Security Council said the units of both sides should return to the positions they occupied Aug. 5. That was before a wave of guerrilla attacks in the Indian-ruled section of Kashmir, and heated words between India and Pakistan led to the shooting war.

DESPITE PAST efforts to attain a settlement, the wrangling over Kashmir has gone on without solution for 18 years.

Viet Cong Repulsed With Heavy Losses

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Artillery and planes repelled a Viet Cong attack staged by 1,000 to 1,500 men about 300 miles north of Saigon on Friday, a U.S. military spokesman reported. He said the Viet Cong suffered heavy losses in the attack, the first big Communist thrust in weeks.

Vietnamese army sources claimed 600 Viet Cong were killed in the fighting, which raged around the district town of Bong Son. Vietnamese losses were described as "moderate."

The only U.S. forces involved in the fighting were planes.

THE VIET CONG launched the attack in regimental strength — normally, 1,000 to 1,500 men — Thursday night in the jungle hills north of Qui Nhon and in early fighting overran government outposts at Phu and Phu My and hit Bong Son and On Phu My with mortars. A Vietnamese unit en route to one of the smashed posts was ambushed by the guerrillas.

A U.S. spokesman said U.S. and Vietnamese planes flew 58 sorties during the action and pilots in spotter planes reported Viet Cong bodies could be seen in the foothills. A U.S. Air Force F100 was shot down north of Bong Son but the pilot ejected and was picked up by helicopter.

The fighting, along a 20-mile front, was in an area about 35 miles northeast of the U.S. Army 1st Cavalry Division, Airmobile, camp at An Khe. U.S. forces there were alerted after the first Red thrusts near Bong Son and paratroopers of the 1st Cavalry, reporting probes against U.S. positions Thursday night, said they killed seven Viet Cong.

ALTHOUGH NO U.S. ground forces were committed in the fighting near Bong Son, American planners said they foresaw the day when the highly mobile "Flying Horsemen," using their helicopters, will react quickly to such large-scale Viet Cong attacks.

The Communist attack was the first guerrilla action in regimental strength since U.S. Marines launched an assault on the Van Tuong peninsula Aug. 18, caught the Viet Cong napping and killed about 600 of them. The new attack repeated a familiar Communist pattern—a lull, then a strong attack.

Pro-Red Guerrillas Sought by Mexico Following Attack

CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — The Mexican Government sent paratroopers and jet fighter planes into the rugged Sierra Madre Friday in pursuit of the remnants of a pro-Communist guerrilla band.

With about half of its original strength of an estimated 15 to 18 men dead as a result of an attack on an army post Thursday, the band was believed in hiding. At least two of the guerrillas were reported seriously wounded.

Five soldiers were killed and 10 hurt in Thursday's clash at Madera, a lumber town of 12,000 in a remote area of the northern state of Chihuahua.

The reinforcements which were sent from Chihuahua City included four E33 jets and 221 paratroopers in two transport planes.

In Mexico City, the Defense Ministry said the killing of the band's leaders is expected to put an end to a long period of agitation and unrest in the area.

Defends Air Raids

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, in an apparent reply to critics who contend the B52 strikes are not effective, said the attacks by the giant bombers "are having a very good effect" and "providing a saturation of Viet Cong strong-points and redoubts which could not be reached in any other way."

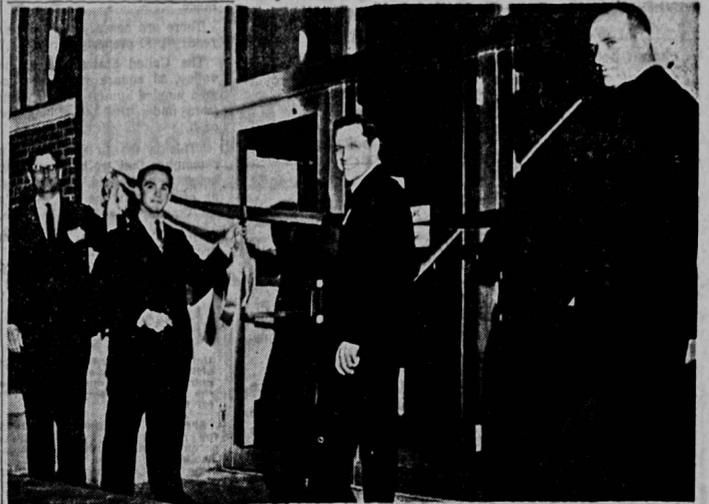

Lodge made his comments in a Mutual Broadcasting System radio interview.

Golly, What a Decision!

For little girls, doggies mean lots of good things: like a pink tongue licking your face, a paw on your lap or a friend to confide in. Little Dorsey Peterson, Albuquerque, N.M., found that doggies also mean decisions. Dorsey had to choose between a big Irish wolfhound and a pug puppy to wear a crown presented by a local pet store in honor of National Dog Week this week.

Iowa Coeds Will Gather In Union Next Saturday

An estimated 75 coeds from Iowa colleges are expected to attend the Associated Women's State Day next Saturday in the Union.

The University AWS chapter will host this year's fall meet. Representatives from 19 schools have been invited.

Loren Hickerson, executive director of alumni records, will speak at the morning session on the workshop's theme, "One Is More than a Number."

Afternoon discussion groups will focus on social atmosphere, programming, internal structure, student attitudes and communication. Delegates will select the group they wish to attend. Each group will be led by members of the University's AWS council.

After a luncheon in the Union ballroom, Ann Howard, past University AWS president and present coordinator of Region II of the Intercollegiate AWS, will report on the national organization.

The United Nations finally brought about a cease-fire in the Indian-Pakistan war this past Wednesday. Now that all is relatively quiet on the front, some little known facts of that conflict can be disclosed.

As with most world conflicts, the Central Intelligence Agency played an integral part. Witness, for example, this conversation on Monday, August 2:

The phone rings in a fifth-floor office of the C.I.A., located in McLean, Va.:

"Tourist Division, Dobadd here," the agent said.

"DOBADD, THIS IS THE Chief. I want you to meet with two representatives from India and Pakistan today. They have a problem, Dobadd. They need the C.I.A."

"Yes SIR," snapped Clarence Dobadd, special agent in charge of tourists. Clarence then buzzed his secretary and indicated she might show the visitors in.

In a matter of minutes, Clarence and the Indian and Pakistani representatives had introduced one another and began discussing the problem at hand. The Indian told the story:

"OUR PROBLEM is most difficult. We're not getting as much tourist trade in Kashmir as we think we should. People just don't want to visit there anymore."

"Yes," added the Pakistani, "people like to live there, but they don't like to visit."

"Let's see," said Clarence, "Kashmir is that Himalayan state, right?"

Before they could answer, Clarence continued: "As I remember, you've been fighting there since ummm, let's see, about 1949. That was when the United Nations first created a cease-fire line, right?"

"YES, THAT IS correct. But the reason we fight is because we felt all the world-wide news coverage might help our tourist trade. Free publicity, and all that," said the gentleman from India.

"But it hasn't been working lately," said the representative from Pakistan.

Clarence looked up at the ceiling for a moment, then at the two men: "Well, as I see your problem, you need to expand, grow, enlarge. What you need to do is really fight. None of this minor skirmish jazz. Go all out. Really capture the front pages. Kill a few people. Threaten a third world war. Raise a real stink. Then quit, and you'll see how fast tourists will flock to Kashmir to see what all the fighting was about."

THE TWO representatives looked at one another, then at Clarence. They had broad smiles on their faces as they stood and applauded the C.I.A. agent for his brilliance.

"That's wonderful, sir," they said in unison.

"Well," Clarence said modestly, "it really wasn't anything. Shall we get down to business now?"

The men nodded.

"For 18 years India and Pakistan have been quarreling. But, as I recall, you have never used air power in a combat role. Also, you have never used armor on a large scale."

"THAT IS correct," said the man from Pakistan.

"Well, now you use all that! Let's see, what's today's date? Aug. 2. Hmmm. Do you think you can mobilize forces by the fifth?"

The man from India expressed some doubt: "It will be most difficult, sir."

"Well then, why not have a guerrilla war until you can mobilize. I'll tell you what. One of you call it. Heads or tails?"

"Heads," said the Indian.

"TAILS IT IS," said Clarence "You, sir," he said pointing to the man from Pakistan, "will be the aggressor. On Aug. 5, Pakistani infiltrators will open a guerrilla type war. As soon as India can mobilize forces, she will retaliate. I think if we can keep the war going for about a month or so, we may be able to solve your problem."

The two visitors smiled and applauded Clarence once again.

"There's just one condition," he added. "Both countries must use United States equipment. We don't want any foreign countries entering into this little skirmish. Now either one of you can make overtures to the Comms, but be sure it's just for show. Are there any questions?"

"Just one," the man from Pakistan said. "How can we ever repay you?"

"Just knowing I've helped the world situation is payment enough for me," said Clarence smiling.

"I Thought I'd Take The Baby Out For A Little Airing"

Surprise halts war

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Strong pressure from abroad and utter astonishment at home over what they had started were among the factors that led India and Pakistan to call off their war after 22 days.

Except for Red China, almost every power of note in the world, plus the United Nations, was calling for a cease-fire.

Neither India nor Pakistan had the diplomatic or economic power to resist.

But, perhaps more important, it was becoming clear in both nations that people can get hurt in a war and this one wasn't going to be a pushover.

As they huffed and puffed at each other throughout the 1950s and early 1960s, they gave conflicting estimates of how an all-out conflict would go.

THE INDIANS, reflecting their conviction that they were morally right, spoke of swamping Pakistan, destroying its armed forces and perhaps even causing such an uproar that Pakistani President Ayub Khan would be tossed out. Not a few Indians had visions of victorious Indian columns whipping into Lahore, Karachi and Rawalpindi.

Pakistan's generals talked of riding their American-made Patton tanks, under a canopy of American-made jets, south through the Punjab plains to knock on Delhi's city gates—just as their Moslem forefathers did periodically for centuries.

None came true.

The Indians did not fold up. The Pakistanis didn't either.

ARMORED OFFENSIVES involving scores—perhaps hundreds—of tanks hit all of five miles into Pakistan and bogged down.

The cost skyrocketed—by New Delhi's count, 3,840 Pakistanis were killed, and 449 captured, along with 1,157 Indians killed. Pakistan says 7,000 Indian troops were killed and more than 800 captured.

This alone made the war pull a bit, but in addition international pressure was getting extremely heavy.

THE UNITED STATES and Britain cut off military aid. Pakistan and India feared that economic aid, seemingly essential to the economics of both, might also be reduced.

The Soviet Union, which New Delhi considered to be a friend, publicly called for a quick peaceful settlement. Then the United Nations Security Council demanded a cease-fire.

Atop all this, Communist China got into the quarrel, backing Pakistan and making menacing gestures at India. Fear of Chinese intervention was a powerful influence on New Delhi's final decision to call off the fighting.

Despite the lessons learned in this conflict, there is no assurance that fighting won't erupt again. The basic hatreds and jealousies underlying it have not been changed.

Or so they say

Girdle manufacturers are definitely a fine example of companies getting by with worrying—they live upon the fat of the land.

Car prices—are they going up?

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A price-conscious nation was trying to figure out Thursday whether new car prices are going up or down.

The answer depended on to whom you talked.

General Motors announced Wednesday an average reduction of $72 a car on its 1966 line, compared with similarly equipped 1965 cars.

This came two days after Chrysler Corp. announced increases on most of its 1966 line.

FORD IS DUE to announce prices next Wednesday, American Motors in the first week of October.

Even the AFL-CIO United Auto

Workers, which was quick to criticize Chrysler for its price boost, admitted it was having more trouble in figuring out GM's price shifts.

The UAW said, "This General Motors announcement obviously is more complicated. We are still studying it and undoubtedly will have a statement, but probably not today."

General Motors' price list also was being studied with interest at Chrysler headquarters, where a spokesman said Chrysler had no intention of altering its price list downward.

THERE HAD BEEN some rumors that pressure from the administration and Congress, in view of GM's announcement of a price reduction, might force Chrysler to take a second look at its price hikes.

A Chrysler spokesman contended that GM's price list reflects price increases too, rather than drops.

Two big factors that clouded the auto price picture were the recent cuts in auto excise taxes and the installation in all 1966 cars of a package of safety items as standard equipment.

The federal excise tax was cut from 10 to 7 per cent last May 15. That meant, for example, that a buyer of a $2,500 auto now pays about $175 in federal taxes, compared with $250 under the old scale.

CRITICS OF THE auto industry said it should not claim credit for the tax cut, but rather this belonged to the Federal Government.

Publicity releases from the auto companies pointed out however that the entire tax cut would be reflected in the price tag on the 1966 cars.

GM's price announcement seemed to make it evident that the buyer would be paying more for a safer car.

THE REASON was that six items—rear seat belts, padded instrument panel, backup lights, outside rear view mirror, dual-speed windshield wipers and washers and padded sun visors, had been wrapped into a mandatory safety package.

GM pointed out that if a buyer had put these on his 1965 car, they could have cost him $56. On the new cars, they are being priced as a package at $50.

It was on the basis of this $50 safety package and the tax savings items that GM came up with its figures showing its overall costs down over comparably outfitted 1965 models.

Some observers, after a preliminary look at GM prices, contended that after allowance was made for the tax cut and the safety package, the actual base price of many GM cars was up—but generally no more than the $50 total for the safety package.

U.S. buys Viet Cong battlefield

By PETER ARNETT

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (AP) — When the first Americans moved into the An Khe Valley a month ago, the signs read: "Viet Cong controlled land. No admittance."

There are new signs up. These read: "U.S. property. Keep out."

The United States bought the valley, 30 square miles of tangled jungled hummocks, right out from under the Viet Cong, for cash.

"This is the first time I can remember that we have actually bought a battlefield," commented an officer from the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division, Airmobile.

The air cavalry's 17,000 men are the current inhabitants.

The Viet Cong, who had occupied the valley since 1954 when the last French units left, so far have not contested seriously the cavalry's occupation. And the Americans have not yet occupied all their domain in the misty An Khe Valley between the coastal city of Qui Nhon and the central plateau capital of Pleiku.

The An Khe base is the first that the United States has bought outright in Viet Nam. The price was about $500,000, according to informed sources.

U.S. Marine units along the coast are renting their base areas from the Vietnamese Government.

The cavalry intends to keep all Vietnamese off its base, unless they are specially authorized.

Tired, run-down? Take a break from the routine

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you tired of walking the same old rut? Would you like to get away from it all, and start all over again?

Well, Albert Lish may be your hero.

Albert is the London construction laborer who has made a career of disliking steady work.

According to his own description, Albert is something of a barnacle on the British ship of state.

AT THE AGE of 32, he accepted an invitation to appear on television and explain why he has avoided regular employment for 15 years.

"I have no conscience at all," he said, "and I'm quite content to live on the taxpayer."

He says he gets $18.34 a week in relief payments when he isn't working, and when the government finds him a job he promptly arranges to get himself fired.

"I don't think I like work of any kind," he remarked.

"WHEN I see men working at some building site, my reaction is — they're working for their money and I'm not working for mine, and I couldn't care less what people think."

At first thought an old-fashioned moralist might be appalled by Albert's sense of economics. It flies in the face of Aesop's ancient fable about the shiftless grasshopper and the thrifty ant.

Well, that was good enough for Aesop, but his fables are out of date. A third fable has intervened. It is called the government.

One of modern government's many functions is to take by decree part of the ant's store to see that the grasshopper doesn't starve. This doesn't do much for the ant, but it does give the government a feeling of social service. It also enables the grasshopper to live so that he can blithely hop away next summer.

Petticoat junction

MERRILL, LYNCH, PIERCE, Fenner & Smith & Courages. The last name is not yet above the door of the big brokerage house.

But who knows what the future may bring?

Now that Merrill, Lynch has begun a series of fashion shows, said to be planned for many parts of the United States, Courages might follow Sylvia de Gay. The latter's "Blue Chip Collection" was shown recently in New York featuring items like the Stock Smock, the Underwriter Skirt, and the Exchange Jacket.

A Merrill, Lynch vice-president pointed out that 10,000,000 women now hold common stock, and probably twice as many will be stockholders a decade from now. He appeared to think that this helped explain financiers in the world of fashion.

Of course, this is a world in which every married man is a bit of a financier. Certainly those whose wives paid $6 for that Merrill, Lynch, fashion luncheon.

But what of women with the problem of having to choose between a dress and a share of Allis Chalmers (closing at $24 on date of transaction)? Could the broker be luring business away from himself by luring women to see the latest Dividend, Dindl, Preferred Petticoat, or Taxpayer's Suit. —From the Christian Science Monitor

Don't go 'way

EVER HAVE THE FEELING you're not wanted? If not, you're lucky, especially if you've been attending the University very long.

It seems a number of professors have a habit of beginning their lectures to overcrowded classes with the question, "Could anyone find another section?"

You can't really blame them; after all, it would be nice to have small enough classes so everyone could sit down. But gee, when you just get into a classroom and don't even know who's in charge and maybe aren't even sure if it's the right room — and then someone asks you to leave, well, it's enough to make you want to leave. But don't leave, stick it out.

Perhaps the professors aren't so anxious to be rid of you as they seem. It may just be their way of weeding out the people who don't really want the course anyway. Who knows? —Jon Van

Art Professor Awarded Guggenheim Fellowship

Prof. Mauricio Lasansky, of the School of Art, has been named to the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fine Arts Jury, effective February, 1966.

Prof. Lasansky is on leave of absence this semester while holding a Guggenheim Fellowship, the fourth Guggenheim grant he has received. A fellowship which he was awarded in 1943 brought him to the United States from his native Argentina. He was also awarded grants in 1944 and 1953.

During the second semester of last year, Prof. Lasansky held University research professorship, studying the original works of Velasquez and Goya as background for the development of a new visual idea for use in his own works.

While working under the Guggenheim grant this semester, Prof. Lasansky will complete projected creative work in printmaking in his studio here and will study in museums and private art collections in Europe. He has made several trips to Mexico since last spring to study works in museums in Mexico City and ruins in Yucatan.

Professor of Journalism Will Address Workshop

Lester G. Benz, assistant professor of journalism and executive secretary of Quill and Scroll, International honorary society for high school journalists, will be a guest speaker today at a publications workshop in Independence, Mo.

DI Prophets Choose Hawks Iowa-Oregon State Game on TV

A couple of upsets spoiled the local football prophets' record last week, but a new state of games warrants another try.

Last week John Cloyd had the best record with a .750 mark, followed by George Kampling, .650, Carla Schumann, .600, and Bill Pierrot, .550.

This week's guest prognosticator is Iowan City Editor, Judy Bruhn.

GEORGE KAMPLING
AP Correspondent

Picking should-be winners has been a hobby with me for quite some time, however, this week the Iowan's honorable sports editor pointed the finger at me and said, "You give the reasons for your choices this time." I never have reasons, just hunches. No matter, I see . . .

Iowa 17 - Oregon State 7 — The Hawks offense is good enough for two TD's at least, and Anderson's too good for one field goal. The defense gave up just one TD last week and I can't see them giving up more than that.

Illinois 14 - Southern Methodist 7 — Like the Hawkeys, the Illini are bouncing back from defeat to a West Coast team.

Indiana 21 - Northwestern 7 — The Hoosiers always seem to win early, and this year with a new coach is no different.

Michigan 35 - California 13 — The Golden Bears will find the Wolverines as hard to handle as Notre Dame. However North Carolina proved the Michigan team could be scored on.

Michigan State 13 - Penn State 0 — Penn State's opener to be spoiled by a pair of Hawaiians.

Minnesota 21 - Washington State 7 — The Cougars didn't show enough in Iowa Stadium to take two in a row from Big 10 teams.

Ohio State 28 - North Carolina 14 — Why not? Woody still has more than his share of fullbacks.

Southern California 21 - Wisconsin 7 — Unable to score against Colorado, the Badgers won't have enough to handle the Trojans.

Iowa State 35 - University of Pacific 10 — Looks like a breather following Drake. Is this the spot on their schedule to put Iowa?

Purdue 28 - Notre Dame 27 — The Boilermakers want all the glory this season and bumping the Irish will be their first big step toward the throne room.

JUDY BRUHN
City Editor

Iowa 14 - Oregon State 7 — The two teams may fight like brothers — Paul, that is — before the television cameras, but Iowa should come out on top. The plays, boys, can't let Playboy down.

Illinois 20 - Southern Methodist 14 — The Methodist Mustangs won't be good enough to trample the Big 10 team's backs.

Indiana 21 - Northwestern 20 — It'll be Coach Pont by a point.

Michigan 28 - California 14 — The Golden Bears barely have a chance to win, but at least they'll show at the place.

Michigan State 24 - Penn State 17 — Penn's supposed to be one of the best in the east, but Spartan-like living will triumph at the ends.

Minnesota 10 - Washington State 7 — Minnesota quarterback John Hankinson will beat them at the pass.

Ohio State 9 - North Carolina 7 — When in doubt, and there are plenty of them here, go with the Big Ten team.

Southern California 27 - Wisconsin 7 — The Californians will bowl over Wisconsin as they strive again for the Rose Bowl that got away last year.

University of the Pacific 18 - Iowa State 10 — The Big 8 between the teams will make all the difference.

Notre Dame 22 - Purdue 13 — Parshegian's Irish luck will hold, and besides, Purdue has to get in the losing habit before they face Iowa at Homecoming.

BILL PIERROT
Sports Editor

The Iowa Hawkeys send a revamped lineup against a tough Oregon State squad before a national television audience today.

The game will be broadcast by NBC at 2 p.m. Iowa time.

Coach Jerry Burns has done considerable juggling of the lineup in an attempt to find an offensive combination that can pick up yards through the middle, as well as around the end and in the air. Farley Lewis and Silas McKinnie will start at halfback and fullback respectively. Dalton Kimble, who started at halfback in last week's 7-0 loss to Washington State, has an injured ankle and did not make the trip to Portland. Gary Simpson has a minor injury, but did make the trip.

Burns hopes that Lewis and McKinnie will provide the extra spark that the Iowa running game needs. Both are big, Lewis standing 6-2 and weighing 200, and McKinnie, 6-1, 195, and both are fast. McKinnie has shown the potential to be a hard running fullback, and according to Burns, should do more hard hitting today.

Burns also hopes to use reserve halfback Jerry O'Donnell today, O'Donnell has looked very impressive in practice this week.

To improve the defense, Burns moved Dick Gibbs and Gary Swain to the first team. Karl Ryan, who started last week "did not make the traveling squad" according to Burns. Gary Larson, who plays flanker as well as defensive back, made the trip Ryan's place.

Another man expected to see plenty of action on the defensive squad is Terry Huff. He quit the squad three weeks ago, and then rejoined it a few days before the Washington State game. Huff, a hard-hitting linebacker, should help stiffen the middle of the Iowa line.

Burns said the defensive secondary will be ready for this game. He said they actually did a good job last week, but had to do double duty because of mistakes made by the linebackers.

"The defensive secondary only made one wrong call all day last Saturday," Burns said. "That was when the TD was scored."

Members of the traveling squad are:

U-High Over Wilton;
West Over City High

University High had a happy Homecoming Friday night, keeping their undefeated record intact as they downed Wilton Jct. 18-12.

City High was not so fortunate, falling to Davenport West 19-8. City High did not score until the fourth quarter. A safety and a TD by Mike Cileck accounted for the eight points. Glen Nichols, Mike House and Phil Smoker scored for West.
