Museum defended

To the Editor:

As a student in the art department I was appalled and astonished to read Mr.

Doreen's recent article, "Museum defended," in which he assumed that the police force in our university was the only one that could protect the museum. As a member of the University Senate, I am aware of the many fine staff members who are employed in various capacities in the art department. These dedicated people are an integral part of the museum's success. They work tirelessly to maintain the collection and provide excellent service to visitors.

It is also important to note that the museum has a comprehensive security plan in place, with surveillance cameras, security personnel, and 24-hour monitoring. These measures are in addition to the police force. The museum is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of all visitors.

Sincerely,

Museum lovers urged to express views

To the Editor:

In light of the recent controversy surrounding the proposed removal of the University of Iowa Museum of Art, I am writing to urge all museum lovers to express their views. The museum is an important cultural institution that plays a vital role in our community. It is a place of education, inspiration, and enrichment. The museum houses a remarkable collection of art from around the world, spanning various periods and styles. It is a valuable resource for students, researchers, and generations of art lovers.

I therefore call on all who value the museum to voice their support and express their views. Whether you are an alumnae, a local artist, or a visitor from afar, your input is crucial in shaping the museum's future. Please contact the museum or the university administration to share your thoughts and concerns.

Sincerely,

Navy Will Honor Jet Nam Casualty

WASHINGTON - A Navy pilot who was shot down by a North Vietnamese fighter during the Vietnam War has been honored by his former commanding officer.

Lieutenant Commander John F. Connolly, who was shot down on October 19, 1967, and died in captivity, was remembered by his commanding officer, Captain James E. Dennett, during a ceremony at the Pentagon on Thursday.

Connolly, a 26-year-old pilot from California, was flying a F-4 Phantom II when he was shot down by a MiG-21 fighter jet. He was captured and held for 1,520 days in Vietnam before being released in 1973.

The ceremony included the presentation of the Navy Cross, the service's second-highest award for Valor, to Connolly's family.

Connolly's family, including his mother, father, and sister, attended the ceremony along with Dennett and other Navy officials.

The Navy said that Connolly's sacrifice had not been forgotten and that his heroism would always be remembered.

The ceremony was held on the anniversary of Connolly's death, and it marked the first time that the Navy had presented the Navy Cross to a family member of a fallen pilot.

Connolly's family thanked Dennett and the Navy for honoring their loved one and said that they would continue to honor his memory.

In the mid-1880's, the game of American football had Johan, against offensive plays. But the running game was to be the dominant one.

 kicking the ball and receiving the pass were nearly the only offensive plays in big games each week.

The head coach of the Big Ten, Wisconsin, which won the 1885 championship, was to be the only team to have a running back.

The Wisconsin team had nothing but running backs.

Unlike the kicking game, which was a skillful operation, the running game was fast and hand-kicking. The ball was placed and a few moments later the ball was kicked and the game began.

CASTRO’S PLANS PUZZLE U.S.

WASHINGTON - Cuba and the U.S. are edging closer to some sort of detente over the presence of Cuban refugees in the U.S., with both sides making overtures toward a stable, long-term settlement.

Cuban officials say they are seriously considering opening talks with the U.S. on the repatriation of Cuban refugees, a move that could lead to a eventual end to the flow of refugees into the U.S.

The U.S. government, while not confirming the reports, has indicated a willingness to negotiate with Cuba on the issue.

A possible breakthrough in the negotiations could come as early as next week, according to sources familiar with the talks.

The talks are expected to focus on the future of thousands of Cuban refugees who have been living in the U.S. for several years.

Cuban officials have said they are willing to consider repatriating the refugees, but only if the refugees are treated fairly and if they have a chance to return to Cuba.
