

Johnson Asks Farmer's Role Be Appraised

'Penetrating' Analysis Requested By President At Signing Of Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called Thursday for "a penetrating and long-range appraisal" of the role of the farmer in the urban society and the foreign policy.

The new study was announced after Johnson signed a four-year omnibus farm bill in Johnson City, Tex. It comes at a time when there are indications that the Agriculture Department is whittling away at farm surpluses held by the government — thanks to substantial help from the Food for Peace and other foreign aid programs.

ON LAST June 30 the government held agricultural products valued at $6.4 billion. This compares with $7.1 billion on the same date in 1964 and a high of $8.3 billion June 30, 1961.

The new farm bill, signed Thursday night only a few minutes before midnight when it would have died by pocket veto, includes major innovations affecting wheat, cotton and dairy products.

It carries an estimated $4-billion price tag for the 1966 crop year, but may run as high as $20 billion for the four-year period.

In a 1,500-word statement, Johnson hailed the new farm bill as a milestone establishing "a farm policy geared to growth" which he said would open a new chapter "in the miraculous story of American farming."

THEN THE PRESIDENT announced creation of the National Advisory Commission on Food and Fibre headed by Dean Sherwood Berg of the University of Minnesota School of Agriculture.

The new commission, Johnson said, will carry out "the most thorough study ever conducted of the effects of our agricultural policies on the performance of our economy and on our foreign relations."

"I am asking this commission to make a penetrating and long-range appraisal of four agricultural and related foreign trade policies. This commission will undertake this review in terms of the national interest, the welfare of our rural Americans and the well-being of our farmers, the needs of our workers and the interests of our consumers," Johnson added.

JOHNSON instructed the commission to make a report to him within 18 months.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers, briefing newsmen later noted that the President had promised a broad-gauge study of farm policies in a special message to Congress last Feb. 4. Moyers noted too that the new farm law is the first since 1938 to give farm programs a four-year run.

National TV Here Filming Dad's 'Rally'

Iowa has made the national television circuit. Part of tonight's Dad's Day pep rally will be filmed by the American Broadcasting Company (ABC), Dave Kyrner, A4, Waterloo, Pep Club president, said recently.

The pep rally film clips will be used with clips taken of the Old Gold Singers, the "Devil's Disciple," and other campus activities in a special show called "The Surprising Midwest." The show will be narrated by Robert Preston.

THE RALLY will begin at 6:30 this evening on the east side of Old Capitol.

A caravan of cars will leave the Field House at 5:45 p.m. and travel to the men's housing units, then to the women's. The caravan is scheduled to stop at Old Capitol at 6:30 p.m.

Housing units may enter one decorated car in a decoration competition. Any number of cars may participate in the caravan. Points toward the Pep Club's Spirit Trophy will be awarded to units with decorated cars.

WINNERS and entrants in a pie eating contest and a needle-in-the-haystack contest will also receive points.

Immediately following the rally, members of the Pep Club's cheering bloc may pick up their tickets for the game Saturday.

Members will need their IDs, certificates of registration and pep club membership cards. They will need the same identification to be seated in the cheering section at the game.

News in Brief

V.C. Column Ambushed

U.S. CAVALRYMEN'S ambush of a column of North Vietnamese regulars headed for the Cambodian frontier added fresh material Thursday to Saigon's old charge that neutralist Cambodia is a haven for Communist fighters.

The ambush was laid Wednesday night on the final three-mile stretch of a jungle trail running from South Viet Nam's central highlands into Cambodia.

Communist Party Trial Stalls

THE TRIAL of the Communist Party stalled in a maze of legal detail Thursday and was recessed for the weekend.

The party is charged in 23 counts with failure to register as an agent of the Soviet Union as required by the 1950 Internal Security Act. It faces a maximum fine of $230,000 if convicted.

'Frisco Cheers Princess Margaret

BRITAIN'S PRINCESS MARGARET and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, arrived in San Francisco Thursday night for a three-day stay and quickly responded to a lively Western welcome.

The pretty 35-year-old princess, who is making her first trip to the United States, was relaxed and smiling as she deplaned and greeted the cheering crowd of about 100 persons awaiting her arrival at San Francisco International Airport.

Missing Frat Man Located

UNIVERSITY FRESHMAN Thomas O. Carpenter, reported missing Monday, has been found. But his exact location is still something of a mystery.

Iowa City police reported the 18-year-old student in Denver, Colo. Another story said the boy called his father from Colorado Springs a few days ago.

During the alleged telephone call, Carpenter was said to have asked his father's permission to continue to California. His father, a Fairfield resident, reportedly granted permission.

Carpenter had been living in the Delta Chi fraternity house.

Des Moines Finds Fund Shortage

THE DES MOINES CITY COUNCIL was told at a special meeting Thursday afternoon that an audit disclosed a shortage of about $14,000 in the city's urban renewal funds.

The report was made to the council by Wolf & Co., a Des Moines firm which makes annual audits of city financial transactions and has been conducting a special audit ordered by city officials.

The council authorized the city legal department to start a full-scale investigation.

Galbraith's Inflation Policy

AN ECONOMIC ADVISER to the late President Kennedy said Thursday that if inflation threatened the U.S. economy, taxes should be raised.

"The corporation tax would be the right tax to raise," said Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard professor and former ambassador to India in the Kennedy administration.

In a lecture at New York University, Galbraith also proposed these other anti-inflationary moves:

—A boost in stock market margin requirements to 100 per cent eliminating any credit in stock purchases. The present margin is 70 per cent.

—A maintenance of interest rates at present levels.

Iowa To Get $1.5 Million

IOWA WILL RECEIVE $896,792 during the current fiscal year for the federal beautification of highways program. Allocations to states from the $60 million appropriated by Congress were announced Thursday by the Bureau of Public Roads.

Iowa also will get $111,204 for control of outdoor advertising and $67,259 for the control of junkyards along the highways. This money comes from a separate $3 million congressional appropriation.

Relations Group May Invite Panel

PLANS TO BRING a "Know Your Neighbor" panel representing various minority groups to Iowa City in January were discussed at monthly meeting Thursday night of the Iowa City Human Relations Commission.

The panel, according to Commission President Richard R. Sidwell, is composed of six women, "headquartered" in Des Moines, who travel throughout the Midwest, relating their experiences, good and bad, in every area of human rights.

Father Dies; Snook Says He Will Play

University of Iowa's outstanding quarterback Gary Snook, in seclusion because of the death of his father, said Thursday he would play against top-ranked Michigan State here Saturday.

"I am sure my father would have wanted me to make this decision," the 22-year-old senior said in a statement released through a university press representative.

Gary's father, Charles H. Snook, 65, died of cancer Wednesday at a hospital in California. He and his wife had lived the last three years at Seal Beach, Calif., upon his retirement from the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. here.

The elder Snook and another son, George, of Los Angeles, had planned to see Gary play in the Dad's Day football game here.

The father had been undergoing treatment for cancer for some time and entered the hospital only Tuesday.

Gary will fly to California after the game Saturday. Services and burial will be at Westminster Memorial Park at Westminster at 11 a.m. Monday.

The widow and two other sons, Harold of Fullerton, California, and Charles of Davenport, also survive.

Until Gary's decision to play, Coach Jerry Burns said the loss of his record-setting passer "would be tough, but the team will be dedicated to winning for Gary and his father."

Iowa has lost its last 10 Big Ten Conference games and has beaten only Oregon State in seven games this season.

Dissension About Fires: Klan Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators told Thursday about a 1958 convention of the Ku Klux Klan where a proposal to burn schools drove some members out of the hooded order.

The purpose of the Atlanta meeting, investigator Philip Manuel told the House Committee on Un-American Activities, was to consolidate the various Ku Klux Klans.

BUT HE suggested that a proposal "to burn schools in the event integration came to the South" backfired.

"Isn't it true," he asked Georgia Klansman Robert L. Bing, "that as a result of the proposal to burn schools, some persons at this meeting dropped out of the Klan?"

Bing, 39, driver for Central Truck Lines of Atlanta, who was alleged to have attended the 1958 meeting, declined to answer.

A SOURCE said the committee intends later to probe more deeply into the 1958 meeting "to show who was there and who said what."

Bing was identified as the exalted cyclops — president of the Clayton County klavern in Jonesboro which reportedly has given its members training in guerrilla warfare.

He was pictured also by Manuel as a man with higher ambitions in the Klan, having unsuccessfully challenged in an election Georgia Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig and having been defeated in an effort to become a national, or imperial, officer of the United Klans of America.

BING WAS SAID also to be the owner of a farm in neighboring Henry County used for Klan paramilitary training and exercises.

Bing was asked about — but refused to discuss — whether there was a special underground group in his klavern called the "White Band" whose purpose, Manuel said, was "to take action against Negroes and others in Clayton County."

After dismissing Bing, the committee recessed until Tuesday when Craig was told to return for more questioning.

THE COMMITTEE also questioned two other Clayton County Klansmen — J. W. (Jimmy) Wells and Walter Parr, 59. Like Bing, Wells and Parr cited protections against self-incrimination in refusing to answer questions.

Among other things, Manuel asked Parr if contributions were solicited at a Klan meeting for the legal defense of three Klansmen charged with the murder of Lemuel Penn, a Washington Negro educator. Penn, an Army Reserve lieutenant colonel, was shot to death while he was driving in Georgia.

Wells was identified by Manuel as having attended a Klan school on how to make bombs and booby traps on the Bing farm.

Amish Hogs Attached Over School Dispute

INDEPENDENCE (AP) — Sheriff's officers attached five hogs belonging to Amishman Christ Raber Thursday in the first move by the state to force payment of fines assessed against 16 Amish fathers in a school dispute.

Papers to attach the property of the other 15 families in the group were being prepared. Authorities said papers should be ready for service on Aden Yutze Friday.

THE AMISH group has repeatedly been fined since Sept. 9 for failure to have their children taught in schools with state-certified teachers, as required by law.

The Amish have been sending their children to two small schools they operate themselves with teachers educated only through the eighth grade.

The Amish say they cannot afford to hire state-certified teachers for their own parochial schools. They contend the kind of education their children now are getting is adequate for the simple farm life the Amish lead.

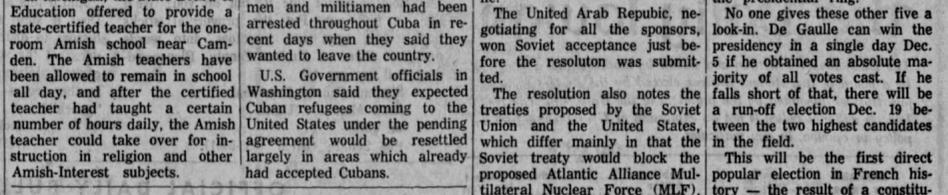

They object to sending their children to the school in Hazelton, as the Oelwein Community School Board wants them to do, because they say they fear the youngsters will be subjected to worldly influences.

THE SCHOOL board offered to take the Amish children to the Hazelton school and teach them in a separate non-graded classroom. The Amish parents rejected the proposal.

In Michigan, the State Board of Education offered to provide a state-certified teacher for the one-room Amish school near Camden. The Amish teachers have been allowed to remain in school all day, and after the certified teacher had taught a certain number of hours daily, the Amish teacher could take over for instruction in religion and other Amish-interest subjects.

At the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami, newly arrived exiles said that hundreds of military men and militiamen had been arrested throughout Cuba in recent days when they said they wanted to leave the country.

U.S. Government officials in Washington said they expected Cuban refugees coming to the United States under the pending agreement would be resettled largely in areas which already had accepted Cubans.

Reelection Is 'Certain'

PARIS (AP) — Eighteen days before his 75th birthday Charles de Gaulle announced Thursday night he was convinced he must continue to serve France and therefore would run for a new seven-year term as president Dec. 5. Few doubt the people of France will give him a vote of confidence.

The United States thus faces the prospect of a long period during which France will continue as its most exacting ally.

THE PRESIDENT said his reelection would assure the future of the French Republic. He warned that if he were defeated the nation could "fall into a confusion even more disastrous than she has known before."

De Gaulle declared that much progress has been made during the past seven years while he has been president, but much remains to be done.

Among the unfinished business he listed "recovery of our independence without renouncing our alliances." This was an obvious reference to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He wants to see NATO reshaped to his own ideas.

THE NATO organization now calls for integrated military forces. De Gaulle feels that is an encroachment on French sovereignty. He has warned he plans to end French participation in this integration by 1969, when the NATO treaty expires.

Ending months of suspense as to his political intentions, De Gaulle made an eight-minute speech carried throughout the nation by radio and television. He appealed for a massive endorsement.

Recalling briefly his wartime services as chief of the Free French movement, and his role in preventing civil conflict in 1958, the president stated:

"Today, I believe I should hold myself ready to continue my task, fully aware of the efforts required, but convinced that at the present time it is the best way to serve France."

DE GAULLE's voice was firm, and he appeared in excellent form, as he hammered the theme that the choice confronting the voters is one of continued progress or a return to partisan quarrels.

Frenchmen huddled over radio sets or stared at television screens to hear the president. The audience undoubtedly included five other Frenchmen who have tossed their hats into the presidential ring.

No one gives these other five a look-in. De Gaulle can win the presidency in a single day Dec. 5 if he obtained an absolute majority of all votes cast. If he falls short of that, there will be a run-off election Dec. 19 between the two highest candidates in the field.

This will be the first direct popular election in French history — the result of a constitutional amendment which De Gaulle sponsored in 1962.

Urban Conference Discusses Problem

By SUZANNE ANDERSON
Assistant City Editor

Urban extension plays many roles in society, according to John E. Bebout, director of the Urban Studies Center at Rutgers University, N.J.

At the second Urban Policy Conference which opened Thursday night, Bebout said the most significant role was the demonstration type of urban extension.

Another important role, he said, was the clearing house role. The university sorts and studies information and knowledge internally and channels it to communities externally, he said.

THE CONFERENCE will continue through Saturday at the Union. Speaking at 10 a.m. today in the Union Ballroom will be Pres. Howard R. Bowen on "The National Commission on Technology, Automation, and Economic Progress."

At 11 a.m., "Fiscal Implications of Urban Development," will be the topic of Harvey E. Brazer, professor of economics and research associate at the Institute of Public Administration, University of Michigan.

Speaking at 1:30 p.m. will be Coleman Woodbury, professor of urban and regional planning, University of Wisconsin, on "Guiding Urban Development."

The director of the Metropolitan Studies Center of Northwestern University, Scott Greer, will speak on "The Politics of Urban Development" at 3 p.m.

CLOSING FRIDAY'S session will be dinner in the Union Ballroom at 6:30 p.m. the speaker will be George Belknap, of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, who will talk on "The Federal Government and Urban Development."

The conference will end Saturday noon.

Building the staff

"BIGGER AND BETTER," a major advertising slogan refers to everything from houses to boxes of soap powder. Now, the phrase may be expanded to include the American educational system. The makers of soap detergents compete to produce superior products. In the same manner, universities compete to produce superior graduates. To do so they must compete most strenuously for distinguished faculties.

At one time in American history a college professor received community respect and limited monetary reward. Today there is a growing trend to reinforce prestige with cash. Hopefully, as the number of college instructors increases, the quality of education rises. Thus, faculty recruitment is an important phase of a university's growth.

Pres. Howard Bowen has suggested that 10 distinguished persons be invited to reside in the University community each year. Five of these persons are to be visiting professors. The other five will become permanent professors. Under the suggested proposal, any department can petition to secure aid in faculty recruiting.

The president's plan for faculty recruitment is not one to be dismissed. In the next 10 years the University will almost double in enrollment. If we are to maintain and accelerate academic standards, the quality and size of the faculty also must increase. Every department must be alert to talented individuals — future faculty members.

Last year the estimated number of faculty members at this University was 1,902. This figure includes teaching and research assistants. The thought of adding 10 outstanding men to this already distinguished total does not seem very impressive. However, on a continuing basis, the plan would strengthen the quality of the faculty.

The duties of the visiting professors would include public lectures and seminars. Visitors would be available to advise undergraduates, graduates and faculty members.

Many of our great professors began their careers here. They grew up with the University. Consequently their students matured with them. And whether the subject is print-making or nuclear research, students are excited to see new techniques developed. When a student has studied with an expert, his own learning becomes more meaningful.

The University's future depends on strengthening the faculty.

Tonight's pep rally

WE SELDOM USE THESE columns to urge students to attend such affairs as pep rallies, but this one is going to be different.

Tonight's rally, on the east steps of Old Capitol, starts at 6:30. The Dad of the Year will be there, which is not unusual since this is Dads Day weekend. In any event there is another added attraction. The whole business is going to be on national television.

It might be interesting to watch first hand how big time television men go about putting their programs together, seeing which parts they leave in and which are left out.

And besides, you can wave at the cameras and maybe even see it and wave back when the show is televised.

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — There have been so many articles and pamphlets written on "How To Avoid the Draft" that it is only right someone should put out instructions on "How to Be Drafted." I know I'll be criticized for this, but under the American system a person has as much right to be drafted as he does to avoid it.

THE FIRST THING TO DO

Notify your draft board that you are ready to go immediately and tell them you want to leave in the next draft call. They will probably turn your case over to the local psychiatrist in your district.

MEETING WITH THE PSYCHIATRIST

Tell the psychiatrist that you are eager to get into uniform and your only hope is that as soon as you've finished basic training they'll send you to Viet Nam. If he asks you why you want to go, tell him you believe it's your patriotic duty to defend your flag and country. You want to protect your home, your mother, and the unborn millions of American children against the spectre of godless communism.

He will undoubtedly declare you 4-F on the grounds that anyone who is so eager to get into the Army is nuts.

YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO APPEAL

Write to Gen. Hershey of the Selective Service in Washington, D.C., and give him the facts. Tell him your draft board has been scheming to prevent you from going into the Army. Imply that the psychiatrist who examined you had it in for you because you wanted to fight for your country.

Insist that Gen. Hershey sign your orders himself which will make it possible for you to go into the service immediately.

He will turn your letter over to the FBI to see if there is any communism mixed up in your psychiatric background.

WHEN THE FBI VISITS YOU

You have a right to answer any question the FBI asks you. They may insist that you take the Fifth Amendment so you can be listed as a security risk. But stand on your Constitutional

Mercy Day calls asked by Senate

By PETE FRANTZ

For the Senate

The central theme of many organizations, as well as individual students on this campus can be mirrored by many epithetical nouns — disident, schismatic, discordant, rcausant, etc. In other words, it seems as if hopeful agreement is always met by emphatic disagreement.

But guess what? Student Senate is actually co-sponsoring something that should not arouse factions of "the other side." The event: A conference, the topic: Alliance for Progress, the central theme: Unity for the Americas. Would you believe it?

The Iowa Commonwealth Conference on THE ALLIANCE FOR PROGRESS: Its Implications for the Americas, is being sponsored by the Division of Extension and University Services, the College of Law, the Center of International Studies, and last but certainly not least, STUDENT SENATE.

The conference will be held on November 11-12 in the Iowa Memorial Union. Discussion will cover the Alliance for Progress, its economic goals and problems, the cultural changes in emerging nations of the Alliance, its social goals and problems, and U.S. policy in Latin America.

On a more controversial measure, Student Senate this week agreed to keep "Mercy Day." Even so, there are still some senators who want to eliminate the day. They propose an extension of the current seven day exam period to "8 days a week," which they say would provide a more even distribution of exams. The Beatles might like it, but do you? We'd like to find out. Put the proverbial sticks and stones, eggs and tomatoes, into words and hurl them at Student Senate. Please address all smears to:

Student Senate President
Iowa Memorial Union or call the Senate Office (353-5461).

grounds and reply to their questions. If they ask you why you want to be drafted, tell them your sick and tired of reading about guys burning up their draft cards and pretending they're homosexuals just to get out of the service.

Show respect to the agents and say "sir" to them. Tell them you have always admired the FBI and ask them if they can get you an autographed picture of J. Edgar Hoover. The more forthright you are, the more suspicious they'll get. When they discover you've never joined any left wing organizations, they'll know something is fishy and from then on they'll keep a close eye on you.

YOU CAN ALWAYS PICKET

When thinks look black, you can picket the Pentagon demanding that Secretary McNamara overrule your local draft board and take you into the service. If he needs to, lie down in front of a troop train taking draftees to camp and urge the troop commander to take you on board.

You will probably be locked up, but at least you will have made your point.

WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS

Announce to the newspapers that you have no intention of being drafted and that you are against the war in Viet Nam. The draft board will take you immediately and the Army will make a soldier of you overnight.

'Truth' speech called nonsense

To the Editor:

I was unfortunately not present when George W. Forell of the School of Religion, delivered his speech on "The Ethical Crisis in the University" (reported in the Nov. 3 DI). However, Forell is reported to have said a number of things which appear to me to be nonsensical. I would therefore like to ask him, if he is so inclined, to clarify certain points about which I have serious questions.

First, what is this nonsense about "ultimate truth with a capital T", and "nobody in the university has the truth which can make man free"?

What do you mean by an "ultimate truth" and about what sort of "freedom" are you talking?

You are said to have indicated that what is considered to be the ultimate truth is not within human reach but "is God's gift obtained by grace alone." Which God is it to which you refer? What is this "grace" business?

Further, if these "Truths" about which you speak are "not within human reach", how is it that "once those in a university realize their efforts must not be directed toward saving man. [To think! In all my college years I missed this aspect of the university's function — whatever this "function" could possibly be,] they are freed to apply their intellect and imagination to the search for truths without capital T's"?

The reason I ask this question is the following. You are using the same word, "truth", in both cases, but if "truth" differs from "truth", what is the difference?

It will not do to say that the one is not "within human reach" while the other is — this would merely be an admission of ignorance on your part of the "subject" about which you speak.

Finally, what is the bearing of the above subject on the fact that "right or wrong and good or bad are no longer clearly discernable to all professors"? Certainly many professors can clearly discern right from wrong, good from bad without access to "grace" or "Truth" (distinguishing from "truth" please!)

And if this is so, where is the "ethical crisis"? Does it stem from the inability of some professors to distinguish right from wrong? If so, does not the solution lie in the home or in the early training of the future professor, and not in the access to your ill-defined and dubious "grace"?

'Knack' filled with zany fun

By DON PASQUELLA

Iowan Reviewer

Director Richard Lester ("Hard Day's Night", "Help!") takes obvious pleasure in visual effects — jump cuts, reverse action, speeded up and slowed down action, superimposed titles, reflection shots, and cinema verite sequences.

Lester, who uses to make advertising films, has a knack of making all of these things work for him so that it appears to be the natural way of making a film.

Screenwriter Charles Wood uses a loose hand in adapting Ann Jellicote's original play to Lester's free-wheeling style.

Purists may wince at this but the movie can be enjoyed on its own merits; it has its own coherence, its own logic and is a very funny film which includes many wild and irrelevant sight gags.

NANCY, a girl from the sticks, arrives in London and begins looking immediately for the safety of the YWCA.

Instead, she finds Tolen, Colin and Tom, three bachelors with varying degrees of prowess with the knack.

Colin, hard up and hung up, sees Tolen as Super-Male; Tolen has girls stacked up the stairs, Tolen has girls stowed away in the bathroom, Tolen plays the drums and rides a motorcycle.

What Colin needs is a bigger bed! Getting the bed from the junk yard to their house is one of the funniest sequences in the movie.

Nancy, Tom and Colin push, pull, float and ride the bed in an impossible journey across the London topography.

Be it moving a bed or having a fantasy about being raped everything is jolly good fun, light-hearted and zany.

Red admission to U.N. opposed

To the Editor:

The member nations of the United Nations are about to begin a debate on whether to admit Red China to their membership. In other words, whether to admit the communists and experience supporters of freedom.

Those who support this move believe that we can reason with the Reds around a conference table. What they fail to realize is that the communists would probably use the machinery of the United Nations to advance their own cause as the Soviets presently do. It would be like admitting a burglar into one's house.

Nationalist China has stated that if the Reds were admitted, it would withdraw. This is understandable since it considers itself the Government of the Chinese people. Even in mainland China, many people still live to hope that eventually they will be freed from their present state of slavery. If we allow the Reds admittance, it would seem to show the Chinese that we prefer to recognize the communists rather than free men. It would appear to other nations that we will not support a free government simply because it is in the minority.

Larry Fennema, A2

To the Editor:

As a committee representative of Student Senate I have just finished a year's work in cooperation with the administration to jointly come up with a feasible and significant proposal for changing the present examination schedule.

This proposal presented by the Senate is meant to reduce examination and make up conflict and confusion which exists in the present schedule.

This revised plan DOES NOT call for a permanent elimination of the existing Mercy Day but proposes that exchange only for this semester and the fall semester of next year.

By sacrificing mercy day there are several benefits to be gained. The calendar committee has planned in its tentative calendar for 1967-68 a Mercy Day and 8 days for exams.

In this new proposal there will be only four regular exam periods, instead of five in any one day in which to have finals. Also, there will be added a fifth period on six of the eight days to assist the professors in scheduling and planning all their make up tests at once, and this in turn would benefit the students.

In addition, it is proposed to increase the time between finals from 10 minutes to at least one half hour allowing sufficient time to get between tests, grab a cup of coffee, relax or browse over notes.

Furthermore, I believe this proposal to exchange Mercy Day for eight days for finals will help to reduce the number of exams any student has on one day.

With the increased student enrollment and the increased number of classes, the existing schedule would present the good possibility, as it has done in the past, for having three finals on one day and having tests in succession.

This new proposal will not allow for the changing of the maximum number of three exams that a student can take in one day but does reduce the possibility of this happening.

To allow for having only two finals on any day the exam period would have to be extended about 10 days and this time is not presently available.

This proposal is much superior to the old plan and it will benefit everyone. Extra testing space will be made available, the faculty will have fewer conflicts which in turn reduces the need for more make up tests and reduces the conflict involving the students' exam schedules.

The spring exam schedule for 1966-67 is planned officially with a holiday and eight days set aside for exams.

In planning the proposal, I was under the belief that the students would rather give up Mercy Day temporarily so that they could benefit from the significant advantages in the new schedule.

The Senate's decision to accept a new proposal or keep Mercy Day must be into the calendar committee next week.

I am asking that now the entire Student Body express their important and needed opinions.

I would greatly appreciate it if all students would come forth with their feelings in letters addressed to the Senate office c/o Student Body President and put them in the campus mail now.

This would most definitely assist the Senate in making a wise and clear decision based on what they better know to be the general consensus of the students.

Keep the museum

Dear Editor:

I think we should keep Macbride museum because schools use the displays to study birds and other animals. People like to see all the interesting animals too.

Maybe you can build a building in the City Park and put the museum there. It could be built in the lower part of the City Park. It would be easy to get to there. There would be a lot of parking places too.

Group Seeks Trade School, Better Parks

A proposed area vocational education school and a $600,000 park-recreation bond issue were topics of discussion at the Thursday night meeting of the Iowa City School Study Council.

The School Study Council is interested in the improvement of local school offerings.

E. Robert Stephens, research assistant of the University Education Information Center, outlined a plan for building a vocational school that would serve Johnson and seven surrounding counties.

The plan is part of a $6 million allotment set aside for the development of area community colleges and vocational schools by the last state legislature.

Stephens presented data showing industry's increasing demand for people with technical skills.

He said Iowa has often been passed over by industries because of its inability to provide trained technical employees.

"Vocational education is a must in this state," Stephens said.

Robert Osmundson, a member of the Iowa City Park and Recreation Commission, gave details on a proposed $600,000 park and recreation fund. The bond will be considered on Dec. 7.

If the bond issue is passed, Osmundson said, the money will be used to acquire new park sites and to improve existing facilities.

Osmundson also circulated a petition calling for signatures in support of a proposed $200,000 southeast swimming pool.

Series Opens With Lecture On Fiction

Transforming autobiography into fiction is an "absolute terror," said William C. Murray, assistant professor of English, Thursday.

"It is essentially bad because actuality usurps one's imagination too much. When one concentrates on what happened, imagination ceases," Murray said.

MURRAY WAS addressing the opening program of the Iowa City Public Library's Literary Forum series after reading a short story he completed two weeks ago.

Entitled "Faith of our Fathers," Murray's story is about a 28-year old man who returns to his homeland, Ireland, to lay to rest the ghost of his father.

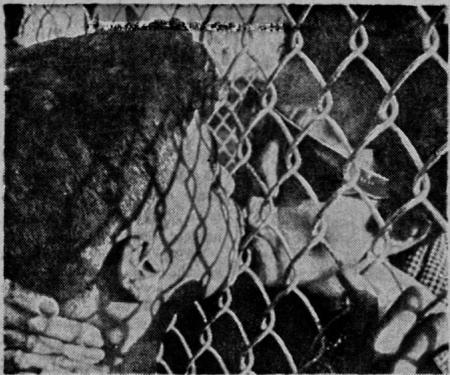

At 18, the young man had rebelled against his tyrannical father and gone to America. Ten years later, tired upon completing his doctoral thesis, unsure of his love for a woman he planned to marry, the young man returned to Ireland to reunite with his family.

AFTER VISITING his father's grave, the man finally realized he had returned to make sure his father was dead and he had to assume a father role. He could then return to America with a sense of peace.

Murray explained the story was not autobiographical but that he had used details from a recent trip to Ireland. Murray said that with each draft the story got further away from actuality.

Murray's first novel was "Michael Joe: A Novel of Irish Life," which won the Meredith Press Writing Award of $2500 in 1964.

Poets' Works Translated In Workshop

"Something has to go with the translation and with me it's the rhyme," Christopher Levenson, G. Bristol, England, said Thursday about his translations of German and Dutch poetry.

Levenson and Peter Clothier, G. Halifax, N.S., Canada, translated poetry yesterday at 4 p.m. in the Union Music Room.

Clothier translated pre- and post-surrealist French poetry, including the works of Guillevic and Bonnefoy.

Levenson translated poems by Enzenberger, Eich and Huchel. Levenson also played a record of electronic music by Dutch composer Henk Badings.

An electronic movement in music consists of a first movement written in conventional style and a second movement constructed as a "typical" electronic play of rhythm and sound, without either harmonic or melodic properties.

Clothier and Levenson are both in Translation Workshop, which was started three years ago. Students in the Workshop translate both poetry and prose.

Youth's Case Set For Jury

The case of the State of Iowa versus Ronald Kleinfelter, 17, who is charged with breaking and entering the Eggleston Oil Co., 119 W. Burlington St., with three companions on May 27, is expected to go to the jury for deliberation today.

Summations by prosecuting and defense attorneys ended Thursday. It was the second day of the trial.

About $10 in cash and merchandise were taken from the oil company. Some cigarettes and shaver items reported to have been taken in the break-in were found in Kleinfelter's possession the day following the incident.

Defense attorney John T. Nolan is asking for acquittal, stating that his client has been wrongly charged.

Kleinfelter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kleinfelter of Iowa City.

Girls Like 'The Little Things', Fraternity Men Are Told

If the boy is considerate of his date and makes sure she is enjoying herself he will have a better time, a panel of the Panhellenic Council Executive Board told members of fraternity pledge classes at a seminar Thursday evening in the Union Illinois room.

Carolyn M. Smith, A4, Sioux Falls, S.D.; Mary Lou Nebel, A4, Burlington; Sis Swanson, A4, Lake City; and Janie Christianson, A3, Bronxville, N.Y., served as panel members on the subject "Manners and the Male" at the third in a series of pledge seminars sponsored by Inter-Fraternity Council.

The girls agreed the "little things" were necessary, but girls especially appreciated boys who were considerate of their comfort and feelings as well. "Get to know as many people as possible. Don't limit yourself to a few. Now's the time to meet the people who will be your friends throughout college," Miss Smith said.

Discussion included exchanges, skips, dating, calling hours and manners. Ideas for exchanges were suggested by the panel to provide variety and interesting functions for both fraternities and sororities.

Program To Push Druggist's Role

"Your undercover agent, the pharmacist" is the theme for the National Community Health Week (Nov. 7 to 13) program sponsored by Kappa Epsilon, national women's professional pharmacy society.

"The purpose of the program is to emphasize the little known activities of the pharmacist," Phyllis Olson, P3, Ventura, said Wednesday.

"People don't realize that a pharmacist does more than just count pills," she said.

"Besides billing prescriptions and compounding drugs," she continued, "they serve as advisors to doctors, public health officials, and veterinarians."

The group is sponsoring displays and posters at Osco, Pearson's, and Whetstone Drug Stores, Mercy Hospital and the Pharmacy Building.

Trackmen Travel To Big Ten Meet

Iowa's cross country team will travel to Minneapolis Monday for the Big Ten conference meet and its last chance to salvage some glory this season.

Coach Francis Cretzmeier said a first division finish is possible for the Hawks, who have been troubled by injuries and illness all season.

Larry Wiczorek will be running for the first time this season. Wiczorek has been out with a hairline fracture of his leg and his return should give Iowa more strength, according to Cretz.

Cretzmeier also said that Ken Messer had been coming along very well the last couple of weeks and should give a good account of himself.

Other Iowa runners will be Ron Griffith, Pete McDonald, Ted Brubaker and Ron Greenlee.

Intramural Sports

Bush House of Hillcrest established itself as a contender for the Hillcrest league touch football championship Thursday night, as they scored a 25-19 victory over Loehwing.

Bush, picked as a possible darkhorse before the playoffs began, had to go into overtime to defeat a stubborn Loehwing team that refused to give up.

After trailing the entire game, and behind 19-12 with only 10 seconds remaining, Loehwing's quarterback, Bob Nelson, hit Roger Muse with a 7 yard touchdown pass to bring his team to within one point at 19-18. He then hit John Schweyke with a pass for the extra point and sent the game into overtime.

In the overtime period, however, Bush's Rick Middleton, who had already passed for two touchdowns and ran for one himself, hit Jim Shriver with a 28-yard touchdown pass to give Bush the victory.

Bush, now 3-0-1, and Steindler, 4-0, are the only remaining undefeated teams in the Hillcrest playoffs.

In other quarterfinal action in the Hillcrest league, O'Connor upset previously undefeated Calvin, 18-0, behind the fine quarterbacking of Al Norman.

Norman put on a one-man show for Calvin, scoring two touchdowns himself and passing for a third. One of his touchdowns came on a 50-yard pass interception.

In the third quarterfinal game played Thursday night, Higbee pulled a minor upset, as they defeated previously unbeaten Ensign 6-0.

Steindler, the favorite in the Hillcrest playoffs, moved into the semifinals bracket Wednesday night by defeating Bordwell 40-37.

Spartan-Irish Game Won't Be Televised

NEW YORK (AP) — There is no possibility the Notre Dame-Michigan State football game on Nov. 20 will be carried on network television but it might be telecast to the home areas of the two colleges an NCAA official said Thursday.

Asa Bushnell of the NCAA television committee, said the four regional telecasts already scheduled for Nov. 20 preclude the possibility of the game at South Bend, Ind., being added to the NBC schedule.

Gary Snook To Face MSU

Quarterback Gary Snook will play against Michigan State Saturday despite the death of his father, coach Jerry Burns announced Thursday night.

All day Thursday there was speculation as to whether Snook would play Saturday, or leave immediately for California.

The Hawkeye quarterback missed Thursday's practice, but met with coaches at 5:30 p.m. It was after this meeting that Burns made his statement.

"Gary is sure that his father would have wanted him to play," Burns commented. "He will leave Saturday night for California, and the funeral is scheduled for Sunday."

A very subdued Hawkeye squad went through what Burns termed "another good practice" Thursday afternoon. The Hawk coach claimed that spirit has been high all week.

However, the practices have been limited because of injuries to key personnel. Burns and his staff are still quiet on who is injured, but there are definitely some regulars who will either miss action completely, or who will be less than 100 per cent ready Saturday afternoon.

Members of the team held a short meeting after practice without the coaches, but there was no indication what the subject was.

Over The Sports Desk

By AN IMPATIENT ONLOOKER

There is nothing unusual about calling some football game the mismatch of the season, it happens every year. It is just too bad it has to take place in Iowa City this Saturday.

Of course the Big Ten has a gentleman's agreement that one must always say, "On any given Saturday any team can rise to the occasion and knock off any opponent."

This is a nice gesture, but there is a rumor that Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty couldn't keep a straight face when he gathered his team together and warned them about Iowa.

Reportedly the whole team cracked up when some sophomore asked, "Where's Iowa?"

What makes Michigan State think Iowa is an easy touch? Take your pick — the 1965 Spartans are the best football team MSU has ever had, and the Hawkeyes have these guys who keep coming back every Saturday for a lesson in humility. Iowa's football team is so humble it's embarrassing.

Michigan State has been so powerful this year that people are starting to talk about, "the best team in Big Ten history." The Iowa-Indiana game already decided who the worst team in the Big Ten is.

To further complicate matters it appears now that Iowa "fans" will get to see the walking wounded in action. It was reported yesterday that the Hawkeyes are having trouble with injuries and might appear on crutches.

It might be a good idea. Seven teams better than the Hawks have tried to play football against Michigan State this year, but no one has tried sympathy on them.

Certainly a change is in order for the locals. In their seven games the Hawks have been inept, inefficient, inconsistent, and embarrassing.

The Spartans have been good on offense that their top three scorers just happen to be the top three scorers in the conference. They have so much depth that the top scorer, Bob Apisa, hasn't been a starter this week.

Iowa is so bad that the leading scorer is a 10 pound show worn by a sophomore who plays hockey in high school. Of course the Hawks have tried to remedy this situation by managing to fumble, draw a penalty, or throw an interception whenever it looked like the ball was within field goal range.

Just for a change it might be a good idea to kick the field goal on the first down after the ball gets within the 35 yard line. Why wait until they're out of range to lose the ball?

Actually the Hawkeyes could win a moral victory if they go within scoring range. Two conference teams were held to minus yards on the ground by Michigan State, and last week Northwestern broke loose for several yards.

Iowa will counter this defense with an almost unbelievable offense. At halfback, coach Jerry Burns has two choices. One of them doesn't know the plays and the other one may never be seen again if he disappears into the mammoth Michigan State line that averages 246 pounds.

At fullback Burns can call on any of his 190 pound wonders. Since they're all hurt (ing doesn't make any difference. In all fairness, this is a good game to get hurt before the kick-off.

Of course there is always a chance that the Iowa passing attack could come to life this week. There once was a time when Iowa startled the Big Ten with quarterback named Gary Snook.

Old time Iowa fans remember Snook as the young man who set so many passing marks in some distant season.

Snook remembers too. He remembers the year after the records were set. That season the pass receivers began wearing five-thumb gloves to give every one a chance. And pass patterns they went out for passes like beatnik heading for his dra board.

There was also a problem figuring out who was actually on the team. The Hawkeye offensive line let so many people through that Snook was never sure which team he was playing on.

Of course the Iowa offense is incidental anyway. People come to see the defensive team.

But the vaunted Iowa defense is only a shadow of its former self. If ever a team was held together by a hop, a prayer, and a roll of tape it is the Hawkeye defensive unit.

A bruising Michigan State team can be expected to cram the hop down their throats, choke off all prayers, and break the tape.

It will signify the end of a self respect the Hawkeyes have carried through a dismal year.

Cage Tickets To Be Scarce

By STEU BETTERTON
A growing student body and a widespread interest in this year's basketball team are causing some changes which will affect university students. This information comes from Francis "Buzz" Graham, Business Manager of Athletics for the University. The biggest change is the distinct possibility that some students will not be able to get inside the Field House on game nights.

A second change is that the expected overflow of students will watch the games on closed circuit television in Macbride Hall.

Graham explained that for the first time the University is going to handle student tickets for basketball games in the same manner as football tickets.

Five days before each home game, 6,000 tickets will be made available to students. The tickets will be good for one of the four balcony sections in the Field House.

Student tickets will be available for two days, and in the event any are left they will be sold over the counter. Students who fail to pick up a ticket before they go on sale will be out of luck.

Graham is concerned that everyone understand the ticket situation, because it is possible that all 12 home games will be sell-outs, and no tickets will ever be sold at the games.

The Hawkeye ticket manager doesn't want anyone, student or otherwise, coming to an Iowa game without a ticket and then being refused entrance.

The plans for the closed circuit telecasting have been going on for over six months. Forest Evashevski, Athletic Director, didn't know there would be 16,000 students at Iowa this year, but he knew there would be a lot more than 6,000, the number of seats available.

There has been no official statement yet on the TV plans, but it is known that a television cable necessary for closed circuit operations has been leased for two years.

The Athletic Department has also conducted experiments with equipment at three football games this fall, and Macbride Hall has been reserved for nine of the 12 dates the Hawkeyes have home games. On the other three dates the hall was already reserved.

If and when a telecast is presented it will be a first for the University. No other school has attempted a similar program.

An early rush for season tickets triggered Graham's optimism for a possible season sell-out. Faculty and staff members get first choice at the season tickets, and they ordered 3,000 in one week.

On Monday orders were accepted from the general public, and in the first two days Graham's staff handled 1,500 requests.

This is significant because 1,800 is considered very large, and this year 2,000 does not seem like a wild estimate.

Sales of the season tickets end on Nov. 15, and on that day Graham is expecting a rush of orders for individual games. It is at this point that every seat in the 13,000 seat Field House could be sold for the rest of the year. Graham has mixed emotions about the ticket situation of a season that hasn't even started.

He admits that from a financial standpoint it is great. It is also a plus factor for the Hawkeyes, because the home court advantage with the full house is a tough combination on any opponent.

However, with 13,000 seats available and the possibility of support from the entire state, there is a very good chance of some hurt feelings.

And from past experience, Graham knows that he will be the one to hear about it.

Medical Group Will Meet Here

The Central Chapter of the Society of Nuclear Medicine will meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in Lecture Room 3, Medical Laboratories. Some 40 members are expected to attend the meeting, which will deal with new methods in the application of radioisotopes to medicine.

Among the eight reports will be "A New Look at Pancreatic Scanning" by D. L. Tabern, John Kearney and Anne Dolbow of the Lewis A. Weiss Memorial Hospital, Chicago, and "Production and Characterization of Iodine-123 for Medical Investigations" by Homer B. Hupf, James S. Eldridge, and Joe E. Beaver of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

"The group was founded to aggregate people interested in the application of radioisotopes to medicine," said Dr. Robert Cech, clinical assistant professor of internal medicine, Thursday.

Cech estimated that there were 4,000 members of the society in the United States. Members include physicians, radiologists, physicists, engineers and biologists.

"The group is a fusion of efforts," he said. The society publishes a monthly magazine called the Journal of Nuclear Medicine, which contains articles about research in the field.

Cech said interest and application were the only prerequisites for membership.

NDEA Loans Top 3 Million Here

By MORRY ALTER
Staff Writer

Over the last eight years University students have received a total of $3.5 million under the provisions of the National Defense and Education Act (NDEA), said John Moore, director of financial aids.

Moore said in an interview Wednesday, the program, which was set into law Sept. 2, 1958, had the immediate goal of augmenting the supply of highly-trained manpower in the security-oriented fields of science, mathematics and foreign language. In 1958 the infant program made loans totaling $23,000, he said.

"However," he added, "NDEA loans are now available to college students in nearly every academic field.

THE ONLY EXCEPTIONS, according to Moore, are students in medicine, dentistry and nursing. Since NDEA's beginning, Moore said, the program has grown considerably. For the academic year 1962-63, 464 students borrowed a total of $3,000.

"Whereas our figures for the current academic year are not yet complete," said Moore, "it's going to round off at approximately 50 students borrowing a total of about $1.1 million."

Commenting on the program's degree of success, he said a large percentage of the students who borrowed through NDEA probably did not have completed their education without such help.

"THERE'S NO DOUBT that the University has faith in NDEA aid of its willingness to allocate the necessary matching funds," said Moore.

The University, explained Moore, furnishes one ninth of the total amount allocated under the program each year.

Eligibility for NDEA loans, he said, is determined by two considerations, academic record and financial need. "The high school graduate," he said, "must be in the upper half of his graduating class and have a score of 22 or better on his American College Testing examinations."

The second semester freshman must have a 2.1 grade average, sophomores, juniors and seniors, a 2.5 he said. M.A. candidates must maintain a 2.5 grade average, while doctoral candidates must have a 2.75 average.

FINANCIAL NEED, Moore said, is usually determined by having parents furnish a confidential financial statement.

"The difference between the cost of an academic year and the family's ability to pay determines the need figure, or the amount we can loan under the program," said Moore.

Undergraduates may borrow up to $1,000 annually, he said, whereas graduate students may borrow up to $2,500.

The loans, said Moore, may be repaid over a ten year period with a "one year grace period" following graduation during which the student is not required to make any payments.

Interest on the loans is computed at 3 per cent on the unpaid balance.

NDEA HAS MADE it possible for 750,000 students in the United States to borrow over $619 million dollars in the last seven years. In 1964 the Congress provided a further three-year extension for the program.

The most recent amendment to the program was the Higher Education Act of 1965, which extended NDEA's coverage to almost all areas of education from kindergarten through graduate school.

Moore said the Higher Education Act will enable his and other university financial assistance departments to offer outright grants, rather than loans, to persons who are in need of total or near total financial assistance.

Dad Of The Year To Be Announced Tonight At Rally

Dads Day observances will begin with a pep rally on the steps of the Old Capitol at 6:30 tonight. At the rally, the Dad of the Year will be announced by Miss University of Iowa, Sheila Bauer, A3, Livingston, N.J., who will appear with him during the weekend activities.

Following the pep rally, a reception for Dad of the Year will be held at 8 p.m. at the housing unit of the nominator. The Dad will meet Pres. Howard R. Bove; faculty; administrative representatives; members of Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK), national men's honorary and scholastic society; members of the Mortor Board, National women's honorary and scholastic society; and parents.

THE DAD of the Year was selected from 29 candidates nominated by students. The selection was made by ODK on the basis of the Dad's contribution to the University.

The Dad will meet previous winners at a luncheon of the Iowa Dads Association at 11 a.m. Saturday in the North Gym of the Field House. At the luncheon, the Old Gold Singers will perform and Forrest Evashevski, athletic director, will introduce the fathers of the varsity football players and the Dad of the Year and his family. M. L. Huit, dean of students, will speak. There will be a short business meeting and the group will adjourn at 12:30 p.m. Reservation for the luncheon are no longer available.

Dad of the Year will be presented again during the half-time ceremonies at the Iowa-Michigan State game, which starts at 1:30 p.m. He will again be accompanied by Miss University of Iowa.

FOLLOWING THE GAME, open houses will be held in the dormitories sororities and fraternities until 5:45 p.m.

Housing units will be decorated by their members for Dads Day observances.

The Dad of the Year will be presented for the last time publicly at the 7:30 p.m. Dave Brubeck Quartet concert Saturday. Miss University of Iowa will introduce him to the audience after the intermission, but he will not be presented to the 10 p.m. concert audience. Tickets for the Brubeck concert are still available at the Union East Lobby desk, Campus Record Store and Whetstones.

Co-chairmen from ODK for the 43rd annual Dads Day are Gene Krekel, L3, Burlington, and Richard E. Mundy, A4, Manchester. Huit is the faculty advisor.

Baker To Offer 'Happy' Course In Spring Term

Midterms got you down? Don't head for the Burlington Street Bridge, hang on till spring and then sign up for The Pursuit of Happiness.

Taught by Joseph E. Baker, head of the European literature and thought program, the course offers a round-table survey of the ideals of happiness.

"It's not necessarily an optimistic course," Baker said Thursday. "One of the readings, Sartre's 'Nausea,' is a pretty unhappy book."

"But the purpose of the course is to study all ideas about happiness through the centuries so that we can gain a better understanding of it."

Baker said the classes will discuss Aristotle's "Ethics," Bryan's "The Lion Tamer," Voltaire's "Candide," Santayana's treatment of esthetics and happiness in "Thesis of Beauty," and Freud's psychological approach in "Civilization and its Discontent."

"Happiness is something most people aren't willing to think about," Baker said. "When students finish the course they may not be any happier, but they have a better idea of what they're seeking."
