

Pat Madden Okay In San Francisco; Due At Home Soon

Patricia Ann Madden, 31, Iowa City, the object of a month long search by the Johnson County Sheriff's office and the Iowa State Criminal Bureau of Investigation, has been found working in a restaurant in San Francisco.

Miss Madden's father, Iowa City Public Works Director Lawrence Madden, flew to San Francisco Monday morning to bring her back to Iowa City.

THE WHEREABOUTS of the 18-year-old University coed, who has not been seen here since Oct. 8, was learned from James Alexander, 27, of San Francisco. Alexander said he talked with Miss Madden Friday in the restaurant.

Alexander told Johnson County Sheriff's Deputy Francis W. Suplee that Miss Madden told him she was from Iowa City but did not say that a search for her was under way.

Suplee said two San Francisco papers had circulated the story of Miss Madden's disappearance.

ALEXANDER was on his way through Iowa from San Francisco to Rush, Ky. Suplee said Alexander discovered that a search was underway for Miss Madden by talking to a University coed on the bus.

When the bus arrived in Des Moines, Alexander called police there, who called Johnson County authorities. Suplee talked with Alexander at the bus depot when the bus arrived in Iowa City.

Then Suplee called San Francisco police to verify Miss Madden's identification. Miss Madden was not in her room at the YMCA there when police arrived. The YMCA rents to both men and women.

AUTHORITIES were ordered to leave a note for her to call her father when she returned. Miss Madden called her father about 11 p.m. Sunday.

Suplee said Miss Madden indicated in her conversation with her father that she wanted to return home.

The University freshman was

PATRICIA MADDEN Found in San Francisco

last seen in Iowa City about 11 a.m., Oct. 8. Three days later her coat, one shoe and her purse were found on the bank of the Iowa River near the Union. Three hundred dollars which she withdrew from her savings account at a local bank was not found.

JOHNSON COUNTY POLICE and the Iowa City Coast Guard Auxiliary dragged the Iowa River in Iowa City three times in an attempt to find her or clues to her disappearance.

All previous tips, including one that she had been seen hitch-hiking with a male companion near Moline, Ill., were checked but revealed no new information.

University records show Miss Madden had not attended classes four days prior to her disappearance.

58 Die In Ky. Jet Crash

On Final Approach, Then Slams Into Hill

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A jet airliner heading for a landing in a driving rainstorm at Cincinnati's airport with 62 aboard smashed into a Kentucky hillside and exploded Monday night.

Hospitals listed only four survivors.

"We just didn't make it. We didn't see the hill," mumbled one survivor, one of six crew members on the American Airlines plane.

"I knew it was going into that hill and I started screaming before it hit," said Mrs. Ralph E. Sprague, who watched the plane bank and start down toward a runway after the flight from New York City.

U.S. Adherent On Red China Bid For U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States urged the General Assembly Monday to maintain a closed-door policy toward Communist China, saying that to seat the Peking regime would be to yield to "undisguised blackmail."

The Soviet Union put in a plea for admission of the Chinese Communists and expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists, and accused the United States of trying "by hook or crook" to keep Peking out.

The exchange occurred on the opening day of the annual debate on the China issue.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said that to admit the Chinese Reds would encourage Peking "on its present path of violence" and shake the very foundations of the U.N. He said Peking would not develop the United Nations "but subvert it."

Goldberg charged the Chinese Communists with supporting aggression against South Viet Nam and Laos and threatening Laos.

Soviet Delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko took special exception to Goldberg's remarks on Viet Nam, saying the United States had launched a "monstrous policy" there that amounted to a "criminal operation."

Ambassador Huot Sambath of Cambodia, an ardent supporter of Peking, declared Nationalist-held Formosa was a part of China, and that only the Peking regime "represents the territory and people of China."

The airline said the crash was its first involving passengers since March 1, 1962. Since the last crash, the statement said, the airline had carried an estimated passengers more than 28.5 billion passenger miles.

Jack F. A. Flynn, son of F. M. Flynn, president and publisher of the New York Daily News, and John Kirchstein, director of research for television station WPIX in New York, were reported aboard the American jetliner.

One of the first men on the scene was J. P. Dalwick, on whose farm it crashed. He said he found a man and a woman, both in airlines uniforms, on the ground in front of the plane. The man muttered, "We just didn't make it," then passed out, Dalwick said.

Two of the survivors were identified as Elmer C. Weekly of Saratoga, Calif., the first officer; and Tonia Ketchell, a stewardess.

Miss Ketchell was reported in very critical condition in a Covington, Ky., hospital. Weekly sustained internal injuries, the hospital said.

Other survivors were identified as Israel Horwitz, 49, Closter, N.J., director of Classic Records for the Decca Record Co., and Norman Specter of Valley Stream, N.Y., an electrical engineer.

Survivors had to be carried half a mile down the steep hillside. An airport official said it was certain the 58 were dead. One man died in a hospital after he stumbled from the wreckage. No effort was being made to recover the other bodies until daylight because of the possibility of more explosions.

Mrs. Gilbert Dalwick, who lives across the road from the Dalwick farm, heard passengers crying for help. She and two other neighbors carried two survivors out.

"It sounded like a clap of thunder and then I looked out and saw it was a plane crashing," she said.

Sprague's wife said the plane was very low. It banked like it was heading for the runway atop the hill, she said, "but it was very low and dropping fast."

THE CRASH of the American Airlines jet took place at Constance, Ky., as shown in the map. The plane was flying from New York City to the Cincinnati area airport with upwards of 100 passengers. Early reports said there were few survivors.

Technical School Proposed To Include Johnson County

Johnson County and six surrounding counties were recommended for an area vocational-technical school Monday by the State Advisory Committee on Junior Colleges.

The vocational-technical school is part of a plan established by the last state legislature calling for the development of area community colleges and vocational schools.

The legislature authorized $6 million to develop four schools in 1966.

Recommendation by the advisory committee is the first step in getting final approval for the establishment of one of the four schools in this area. Final approval, if it comes, will be from the State Board of Public Instruction.

Marshall R. Field, Johnson County School Superintendent, said Monday he does not expect to hear from the state board for at least three months.

"I'm very optimistic," Field said, "I don't see how they could turn us down."

Field is secretary of a steering committee which submitted a study showing the area's need for a vocational school.

Linn, Benton, Cedar, Iowa, Jones, Washington and Johnson counties are included. Delaware County was in the proposal, but the junior college committee excluded it from this proposed school area to place it in a proposed area in northeast Iowa.

A projection of current and future school enrollments in the seven counties indicates the school would have an enrollment of about 1,000 students.

A site committee recommended building the school near the Highways 218-30 intersection at the south edge of Cedar Rapids.

Word-Battle Gets Hot In Aluminum Wrangle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The aluminum controversy grew hotter Monday with industry spokesmen defending their price increase and Democratic congressional leaders attacking it as inflationary.

L. E. Hickman, executive vice president of the Aluminum Company of America, said Alcoa has no intention of cancelling its one-half-cent-a-pound price increase.

"EVERY PRICE increase must be tested in the market place," he added, however.

Democrats and party leaders of the House and Senate lined up behind the Johnson administration's decision to release 200,000 tons of stockpiled aluminum. Most of them endorsed the administration contention that the boost is inflationary.

A young Republican leader on the other hand, accused President Johnson of "blatantly blackmailing" the aluminum companies in an effort to control prices in all industry.

State Sen. Tom R. Van Sickle of Kansas, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, said the President "is now plunging his powerful hands into the pockets of private industry."

"On the one hand the President uses the national stockpile to blackmail a major industry, and on the other hand meddles with consumer prices in order to satisfy the demands of the labor leaders," he said.

HOUSE SPEAKER John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and other Democratic leaders cited defense needs and the war in Viet Nam as reasons for holding the price line.

"There is a serious moral issue here," McCormack said in a statement. He contended that those responsible for national security had no other course than to order the release of the surplus.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and House Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma also issued statements criticizing the industry's price increase plans and supporting the administration.

SECRETARY OF Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler have insisted that the move was not prompted by the industry price boosts.

McNamara acknowledged, however, that the government sales are "bound to relieve some of the pressure on prices."

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, told the same news conference Saturday that price boosts are unjustified and inflationary.

J. H. McConnell, president of Reynolds Metals Co., contended the planned increase to 25 cents pound actually represents only a partial recovery from the 13 1/2 per cent drop that occurred in the 1961-62 period.

Day Of Battle In Viet Nam Kills 110 VC

BIEN HOA, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Airborne troops, searching the Communist Iron Triangle 25 miles north of Saigon, killed 110 Viet Cong guerrillas in a fierce battle Monday that lasted all day, U.S. officials reported. They said the strong enemy force wore steel helmets and uniforms of a type not seen in South Viet Nam before.

"The enemy made every effort to strip all of the bodies of everything, including identification and all usable equipment," said Brig. Gen. Ellis Williamson, commander of the 173rd Airborne Brigade at Bien Hoa.

The Viet Cong apparently abandoned the area under heavy U.S. fire. U.S. casualties were reported as moderate.

Williamson said his troops were on a search and sweep operation 15 miles north of Bien Hoa when they came upon a well-fortified jungle position.

"The enemy remained in position and kept firing," Williamson said. "We have had a real close-at-hand jungle-type fight. There is no question but that this was a main force outfit."

He said the Viet Cong wore gray fatigue-type uniforms and in addition to their steel helmets carried rucksack-type packs.

Education Loan Bill Signed

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson came back Monday to the campus where he once worked as a janitor and signed legislation he said will swing college doors open to a million more Americans every year.

In the gymnasium of Southwest Texas State College, where he received a bachelor of science degree 35 years ago, Johnson signed a $2.6-billion higher education act he called "a new adventure in learning." He said:

"It means that a high school senior anywhere in this great land of ours can apply to any college or university in any of the 50 states and not be turned away because his family is poor."

The President noted that of 2.7 million boys and girls graduated from high school last spring, about half went on to college.

"This bill will provide scholarships and loans and work opportunities for one million of the 1.3 million that did not get to go to college."

It was a sentimental day for the President. He walked once more down a corridor he used to sweep to earn money.

For a while he was secretary to the college president. He signed the education bill on the oak desk he used then. Afterward, he gave souvenir pens to former teachers and classmates.

The new law provides for scholarships up to $1,000 a year awarded on the basis of need alone. It opens the way to part-time jobs paying students as much as $500 a year. It sets up a plan for loans that can be repaid after graduation.

It also authorizes a national teacher corps, but Congress balked at providing money for that. Johnson said Monday that when Congress reconvenes in January, he intends to ask again for the funds.

The President and Mrs. Johnson whirled in by helicopter from their ranch 40 miles away.

They first visited the nation's largest job corps center, at Camp Gary, where more than 2,000 young people are training as part of the anti-poverty program. The camp is eight miles from the college.

Pearson Fails To Win Seats From Tories

TORONTO (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson failed to win a majority in Monday's election, but his Liberals will remain the largest party in Canada's Parliament.

JOHN DIFENBAKER'S Conservative party upset pollsters' forecasts by scoring several gains — but still not enough to put him ahead of the Liberals.

Pearson called the election in an effort to gain a clear-cut majority in the House of Commons.

THE LIBERALS held only 127 of 265 seats when the last Commons was dissolved for the election.

Incomplete returns late Monday night gave the Liberals 115 seats and it appeared likely they could win at most 125. Both Liberal and Conservative leaders seemed to accept the prospect of a minority government as a fact.

THE CONSERVATIVES had 87 seats at this stage.

Foreign Secretary Paul Martin spoke of the possibility of a coalition government made up of the Liberal and New Democratic parties. Between the two they will have a majority of the seats in Commons.

Indication were the Conservatives would wind up with 10 or 12 seats more than the 92 they had when Parliament was dissolved.

THE RESULT WAS a rebuff to Pearson who had made the question of a majority government the main issue of the campaign. It raised the possibility of another election soon.

THE LIBERALS scored some gains in French-speaking Quebec, but not as many as they had expected.

IN ONTARIO the Liberals just about held their own. A strong showing by the New Democratic party cost the liberals here as elsewhere in heavily populated areas.

The Conservatives ran strong in the prairie provinces as expected.

PEARSON'S LIBERALS lost six seats to the conservatives in four Atlantic provinces.

Pearson and Diefenbaker were re-elected to Parliament. So were virtually all the Liberal Cabinet members, including Foreign Secretary Martin.

FBI Policy: Quiet Arrest After Burning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men who burn their draft cards in public are likely to be arrested — if they are arrested at all — far from the cheering crowd.

FBI agents are under informal instructions not to lend themselves to public spectacles by making arrests on public platforms, it was learned Monday. Officials feel that to do so would multiply the publicity the protesters seek and make them martyrs in the eyes of their friends.

The FBI refused to comment on its policy toward arresting draft card burners — who, under a new law, face penalties of up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

But five self-proclaimed pacifists who burned what they said were draft cards in New York City Saturday left their Union Square platform as free men.

Subjects may be arrested, the source said, after they have left the scene — preferably in the seclusion of their homes.

Another reason for the delayed arrests is that the decision on whether and when to make the arrests is to be made by the Justice Department here.

THE PEKING GOVERNMENT representing China in the United Nations would amount to "yielding to undisguised blackmail" and would only encourage Peking "on its present path of violence," U.S. United Nations ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said Monday to the General Assembly.

Princess Visits Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Princess Margaret and her husband charmed the elite of movieland Monday in a whirlwind round of appearances at a gay night spot on a bustling studio.

Monday night they were guests at a charity ball attended by cluding the cream of Los Angeles and Hollywood society. The ball was held on a movie set depicting a French Riviera villa.

Lord Snowdon sat next to Harvey. Also at the table were Actress Sandra Dee, her husband

Bobby Darin, Rock Hudson, and Shirley MacLaine. On Lord Snowdon's left was young British actress Hayley Mills.

The touring princess and Lord Snowdon arose early after dancing until 2 a.m., toured a department store and an art museum, then motored to Universal Studio for lunch with a host of actors and an afternoon visit to sets.

More than 100 stars turned out Sunday night for a gala dancing party at a popular spot called the Bistro. Princess Margaret danced with Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly and Danny Kaye.

Charges Filed After Crash

A CHARGE OF FAILURE to yield the right of way was filed by Iowa City police against Donald B. Vogel, G. San Jose, Calif., Monday afternoon with failure to yield the right of way when his car collided with a truck driven by Phillip G. Hotka, 1908 G St., about 3:30 p.m. The accident occurred at the corner of Bowery and Summit Streets.

Damage to Vogel's car was estimated at $250 while Hotka's truck was not damaged.

Siamese Twins Separated

A PAIR OF 7-MONTH-OLD Siamese twin girls were successfully separated during a four-hour operation at North Carolina Memorial Hospital Monday.

Doctors said they were in satisfactory condition but still in danger.

No one would estimate how long the twins will remain in the hospital. Doctors said they considered the next seven to 10 days a crucial period.

The girls were born last April to Mrs. David Allen of High Point. Her husband works in a furniture plant.

The girls were joined in the lower hip region, their bodies fused from the hip to a common navel.

Senator Predicts 2-Year War

SEN. JOHN STENNIS (D-Miss.) said Monday a strong buildup and at least two years of rugged fighting will be necessary to win the war in Viet Nam.

Stennis, chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, spelled out at a news conference a proposed solution to the Viet Nam problem and predicted that Red China would not move to stop a victory drive by U.S. forces.

"We must win the war," Stennis declared. "We are committed to it. To tuck tail and run now would be to admit defeat to the world."

Grange Discusses Food Paradox

THE MASTER OF THE National Grange said Monday the United States and other nations must solve the paradox of abundant agricultural production in some countries while others are short of food.

"It is now crystal clear, from the experience within the lifetime of many of us assembled here today, that we cannot isolate ourselves from the military and political problems of the rest of the world," Herschel D. Newsome said in the opening speech at the 99th convention of the Grange in Topeka, Kan.

"Does it not then logically follow that we must recognize the impossibility of insulating ourselves from the food and agricultural, health and nutritional, as well as economic and social problems therein?"

Newsome said any solution must embrace safeguards to prevent the economic ruin of the farmers who produce the abundance.

17th Amish Parent Charged

THE LIST OF AMISH FARMERS charged with violation of Iowa school laws grew to 17 Monday when Daniel Beachy was served with a summons to appear Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Minnie Wengert.

Oelwein school authorities said Beachy has a son who became seven years old Oct. 21. Like the other Amish, Beachy is charged with failure to send the boy to a school where teachers have state certificates.

Fourteen other Amish fathers were fined the usual $20 plus $4 costs Monday by Mrs. Wengert. Appearances for three were made by one of their spokesmen, Dan Borntrager.

Authorities have begun attaching property of the Amish for non-payment of fines and related costs. Livestock and cash belonging to one and the corn of another have been attached.

Dads Day concert

DAVE BRUBECK GAVE AN OUTSTANDING Dads Day Concert Saturday, as was expected, but there was a major flaw in the operation. The first concert was entirely too short.

As usual, the concert didn't start exactly on time (at 7:30). After playing about five numbers, the Brubeck quartet "took five," which was actually more like 15, because they needed a rest in order to keep up the pace for two shows.

After the intermission, four or five more numbers were played. Then everything was over. Although it was only a few minutes past nine, Brubeck could not continue playing because there had to be enough time to get the crowd from the 7:30 p.m. concert cleared out so the crowd for the 10 p.m. show could move in.

The music was tremendous, while it lasted, but many left the concert with a thirst for more which was not to be quenched.

It is not the fault of the Brubeck quartet, the Union or the Central Party Committee (which sponsored the affair) that the concert was too short. This is just the nature of things involved in having two concerts in one evening — there just isn't enough time. Even if there was enough time, most performers wouldn't have the stamina required to put on two full two-hour concerts of top quality in one evening.

The answer, of course, is an auditorium which could hold enough people to finance a single concert of the Brubeck quality at a low cost per ticket. Unfortunately, present University policy is oriented toward more, rather than fewer, two-concert-a-night programs in the future.

Lindsay's victory

THE VICTORY OF JOHN LINDSAY in New York is being widely discussed by political forecasters and party partisans.

Conservatives claim that mayor-elect Lindsay is not really a Republican, and that his victory means nothing to the Republican party. This may be because the conservatives do not want to see the Republican party influenced by the abilities of a liberal to get votes.

Liberals claim that mayor-elect Lindsay is a real Republican, and he can even get votes (which anyone is unusual for a real Republican). Many speak of Lindsay as Presidential material. This may be because the liberals want to see the Republican party influenced by liberal leadership.

Many of the persons who have been spreading their many theories about Lindsay and his adventures in New York politics are overlooking one of the basic issues involved in the matter — what will he do with the job now that he has it?

New York has organized crime, crooked city officials, polluted air, traffic problems, race problems, violence in the streets, and it's running out of water.

Lindsay's future — in or out of the Republican party — will largely be determined by how well he is able to handle the many problems he has taken on. It is questionable whether anyone could make a good record in running the city of New York. If Lindsay is able to do well, there is no doubt but what he'll be in good shape politically. But this is a big "if."

In the meantime, the smart money is making no predictions about Lindsay, the GOP or who's going to run in 1968. Now is the time to wait and watch.

Klan foolishness

A GROUP OF TEXAS STUDENTS broke up a Ku Klux Klan rally Sunday, or rather, they integrated it.

Anyway, the rally of hooded hoods in their nice white sheets was turned into a sort of football rally-halloween party by the students who insisted on hooting, dancing around and generally upsetting things.

In this day and age of protests, counter protests, demonstrations and disruptions, it is rather pleasant to find a note of humor introduced to the scene. This is especially true since the KKK was the butt of the thing. It's difficult to imagine anything more worthy of a good joke than the Klan — of course, it's difficult to think of anything funny enough to outdo a Klansman taking himself seriously.

We hope the attitude demonstrated by University of Texas students is catching. The best way to handle groups like the Klan is to laugh them right out of town, or else put too much starch in their sheets.

Who discovered Chris Columbus?

By ART BUCHWALD

While everyone is arguing over who discovered America, there is a controversy now raging amongst the Indian tribes over who discovered Columbus.

The Chief of the White Hawks has just issued a statement saying that his ancestors were the first to greet Columbus when he landed, and produced the text of the conversation Columbus had with his uncle many centuries removed.

"Greetings, White Father," the chief said as Columbus stepped ashore. "What brings you to New Vinland?"

Columbus is said to have looked at his map. "New Vinland? I thought this was the New World."

"It was, White Father, but then Lief the Lucky discovered it."

"Does anyone know about this?"

"Only you and I and some monk map-makers."

"Can you keep your mouth shut, Indian?"

"What did you call me?"

"Indian, I promised Queen Isabella I'd find a new route to the East Indies. Therefore, you're an Indian."

"And what are you, White Father?"

Self-determination has 'no relevance' in Kashmir dispute

To the Editor:

A slogan which specially appeals to a certain section of the people in Pakistan and their leaders is a cry of self-determination for the people of Kashmir. It is necessary to remind them constantly that this slogan has no relevance where a nation's territorial integrity is involved.

If the principle of self-determination had been followed by Abraham Lincoln in respect of the Southern American States during the Civil war, there would have been no U.S.A. today.

Are the Chinese who claim to support self-determination for struggling peoples everywhere, prepared to extend that principle to the peoples of Tibet or Sinkiang? Is Pakistan prepared to extend it to the brave Pathans, striving for Paktoonistan?

OR. IS PAKISTAN prepared to concede self-determination, or even autonomy, to the people of East Pakistan, who are oppressed and denied democratic rights?

There is no Kashmir problem. Not only has Kashmir legally acceded to the Union of India, but the people have expressed their will to remain in India in three free elections. The Security Council resolution of 1948 on which Pakistan has been relying with dubious validity in her demand for a plebiscite, has been rendered inoperative essentially by Pakistan's own refusal to comply with the condition laid down by the Council itself, that it should withdraw its armed forces from Kashmir.

This characteristic of blatantly disregarding the U.N. was manifested again in the recent conflict: Pakistan honored the cease-fire order, repeatedly and recklessly, in the breach.

One wonders if it is not futile to attempt anything in the nature of a rational dialogue with such a leadership.

Reader calls Van 'instant iconoclast'

To the Editor:
In a recent editorial, Jon Van expressed his thoughts on an issue deeply affecting the University and moreover the world. I'm referring, of course, to the editorial attacking "image seeking groups."

What Mr. Van failed to see is that it is precisely he, and his type, that the groups are trying to impress. In the past when ragged, bearded, blue jean-and-sandal-wearing pickets marched for a cause, it was the "liberals" who expressed their amazement at the "self destroying appearance" of the protesters.

Today, for the most part, the beards have been shaved off, and the blue jeans and sandals have been traded in on blazers and wing tips.

So what happens after this great clean-up? Mr. Jon Van, instant iconoclast (Take one part Mencken, water down with 100 parts water, add hot air), bemoans their sellout.

THE SWIMMING POOL in the Women's Gymnasium will be open for

"I am Columbus, an explorer of Italian birth."

"Wonderful," the chief said. "From now on we'll call today Columbus Day in your honor."

"That's very nice of you, Indian. I hereby take this island and all the islands north, south, east and west of it, in the name of the Queen of Spain."

The chief looked at Columbus. "Are you some kind of a nut?"

"What do you mean by that, Indian?"

"This land belongs to us. We were here first. Our fathers, and their fathers who came before them. We don't want to be Spanish."

"Indian, we are your friends. We are going to help you. We will educate your children and build hospitals and schools and roads. We are going to give you foreign aid and give you guns and armor so you can protect yourself and be free."

"But, White Father, we are free."

"Don't argue. We know what's best for you. Now, where are the spices?"

"What spices?"

"Don't kid us, chief. You've got to have spices around here or they wouldn't call you Indians."

"They don't call us Indians. You call us Indians. You still don't know where you are."

Columbus looked at his map again. "I've got a pretty good idea. Where is Puerto Rico from here?"

The chief pointed.

"And Cuba?"

The chief pointed again.

"Then that would put us here in the Bahamas. Why didn't I think of that before?"

"Because the season hasn't started yet. It's kind of quiet now."

Columbus said, "Well, give me all the gold you've got and I'll let you off with your lives."

"You white men are too good to us," the chief said. "How can we ever repay you?"

As Columbus stuffed the gold in the sacks he said, "Just forget about Lief the Lucky. You ever breathe a word to anyone and I'll have my boys make cement moccasins for all of you."

"Don't worry about a thing, Columbus. It will be our secret. The only one I will tell the truth to is my son."

"Where is he?"

"He's going to Yale."

Meyer defended

To the Editor:

I was sorry to see that Mr. Nicholas Meyer is no longer writing your film reviews, for I thought that his comments, particularly during the past few weeks, were especially perceptive and sensitive.

This is not to say that your present reviewer is unperceptive or insensitive, but Mr. Meyer's wider experience and general superiority is, I think, fairly apparent.

Mr. Meyer also reviewed a wider variety of film, and his articles appeared more frequently, which is especially helpful to the film-goer who is undecided as to which film to see when there are several good pictures in town (an admittedly rare occurrence).

Perhaps the best solution might be to print reviews by both gentlemen: such a practice would satisfy a wider range of tastes than either of the reviewers alone.

Senator denounces Goldstein

To the Editor:

It is a shame that after a whole year's study of our final examination procedures all Mr. Goldstein can offer to improve the system is a plan to abolish Mercy Day in exchange for a slightly better chance of not having to take three finals in one day.

If taking away Mercy Day is Mr. Goldstein's proposal to "do something for the student," perhaps we students can do without his "help."

If the Student Senate is foolish enough to throw away Mercy Day, I sincerely hope Mr. Goldstein is one of the select persons who will have three finals on what would have been Mercy Day.

Goldstein's plan will never get my vote.

Orchids for reviewer

To the Editor:

The recent book review by Murray Moulding of "The Travelers" deserves an orchid — in fact, two of them — one for the critic and one for The Iowan for its good sense in seeking out persons of literary talent to handle such departments.

One would hope that Moulding's contribution will be but the first of a series — if not by that writer, at least by others equally competent.

It is rare that a reader is rewarded with such mature and sensitive evaluation in this area.

Looks like another case of mislabeling

It's how we play the game

To the Editor:

The University of Iowa football team is now well down the road of one of the sorriest seasons in a generation.

There have been burnings in effigy and murmured hopes of the coming of a magic name like Broils, Devany or Wilkinson.

With few exceptions the dissatisfied do not publicize their wrath because this would be taken as "poor sportsmanship" and there would be charges of, "Think you could do any better (which is beside the point)?" and "He's got one of the finest football minds in the country (which a coach needs almost as much as an impressive won-lost record)."

Granted, it is hard to follow a good soft-shoe or dog act. Ask the men who tried to follow Red Saunders and Bud Wilkinson. But, a decision must finally be made whether or not to give the sword swallowing the crook because the audience is growing restive or leaving. The crux of the question is: Why do we play football?

ACCORDING TO THE NCAA it is to mold mind and character, and perhaps these aims are accomplished. According to some university officials, it is played to keep alma mater in the thoughts of alumni. And these alumni, having passed from the reflective to the acquisitive stage, find it impossible to measure their school against another by any standard other than that of football prowess; no more civilized than the concern a grizzly bear shows when he finds claw marks higher on a tree than his own.

And there is another reason for playing which nobody mentions much: making money. The football program pays for the track team and coaches, the baseball team and coaches, the fencing team and coaches, the swimming team and coaches, the wrestling team and coaches, and, if the student body keeps growing (Do you doubt it?), it will also pay for the basketball team and coaches.

So what for are we playing? Sports or profit? If for sport, then there is no sense in switching coaches. If we play for sport, we play to win; it cannot be counted whether we won or lost, only how we "played the game." If this is accepted, then everything the team patriots have said must be taken as sufficient: we tried.

IF WE PLAY for profit, then let us can the coach and test the limits of ethical standards. Offer the new man $40,000 per year — the floor-shim set will cough it up — and "fringe benefits."

Let us look to the far horizons for all-city, all-state, all-American, bone-crushing, meteoric, "material." Never mind whether high or low graded; never mind police records.

Victory will become the only standard on which to base praise. Alumni will have every right to vilify the coach.

NEITHER OF THESE courses will be followed, and neither the herbivore or carnivore will be satisfied with the outcome. Next year will likely not bring a 9-1 record (Ah Playboy, thy omniscience hath fled!), and quite likely there will be a different pair of shoulders to saddle with praise or blame. Quite likely the team will continue to be a semi-amateur outfit, judged against professional standards, and the spirit of the fan will continue to be only partly responsive to sportsmanship.

One trivial consolation remains: the "players, the coach and the athletic director all knew what the risks were and elected to take their turn in the arena; if the cruel emperor Opinionis Publicus turns thumb down that is the breaks: winners one week, sportsmen the next.

Congressional leaders discuss patriot penalty

By BRYAN HALL
Iowan Columnist

Friday witnessed a top-secret meeting of Congressional leaders in the hope of devising a way to avert total disaster. The key issue was whether or not to ask the President to call a special session of Congress. It was ultimately decided that this would not be necessary immediately.

The meeting was occasioned by discovery of a basic flaw in the Eighty-ninth Standard of Patriotism Law. This bill made it illegal to destroy the symbol of the draft, the card, but apparently forgot about the danger of destroying the one thing truly vital to the selective service system: the body. Many of the legislators felt that if a recent case proves to be more than just an isolated incident, it may become necessary to rubber-stamp an anti-body burning bill.

The difficulty in enacting such a law, of course, centers around the penalty for violation. Leaving the skeleton in jail for a 100 years or so has been done before, but is generally admitted to be of little effect. One suggestion was that the family and friends of the violator be investigated and intimidated by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

ANOTHER WAS that the body be sent to Red China, since that was obviously what the demonstrator deserved.

The idea enjoying the most support, however, is that the violator be denied a Christian burial. We asked one senator if he felt the Supreme Court would uphold such a law in light of its recent rulings on the separation of church and state. He felt certain that it would.

It's a well-known fact that an American patriot is the purest Christian possible. God is always on the American side. To question the United States in time of war is to doubt God.

THIS IS A case where disbelief in the Government is disbelief of God, and the traitor should be denied the benefits of both.

Several of the legislators pointed out that this is not in any way a return to McCarthyism. They noted that McCarthy convicted by innuendo and insinuation. Under the Patriotism Law the Congress has established a standard of conduct, and any alleged violation is given a fair trial in a court of law. Further, they pointed out that it is not unusual for things to be rationed in time of war, evidently referring to freedom of speech.

One legislator summed up the whole problem of burnings and protests this way: "This is really getting serious. The last one didn't even have a beard!"

Gormly explains draft satire

To the Editor:

The news media gave extensive coverage to the anti-war demonstrations on Oct. 15 and 16, but the reasons why the students demonstrated were largely ignored by the reporters.

Into that news vacuum came the news that organized draft dodging is being pushed by the Students for a Democratic Society. I didn't see any correction noting that it was simply the proposal of one man that was not adopted by the organization.

The Des Moines Register put the text of a leaflet on draft dodging on the front page and gave the Chicago Tribune's explanation that it was being "distributed by leftist groups." Neither the Register nor five larger metropolitan newspapers that I examined carried a subsequent UPI story that the leaflet was the work of an individual who said it was "a satire on the anti-draft movement."

He said the official reaction showed "a terrible lack of sense of humor."

Any official from President Johnson to the mayor of Deep River, as well as anyone wearing a uniform, could get his views published in the papers, often at some length, by denouncing the students. And the students remained sitting ducks with no opportunity to get their side of the issues before the public.

A faculty member at the University of Iowa reports that the demonstrators he knows are among the brightest students at the University. At the University of Chicago, where high intelligence is required of students admitted, a poll showed 55 per cent of the students opposed U.S. policy in Viet Nam and favor American withdrawal.

A sensible man will withhold critical judgment of the demonstrating students unless and until the news media present their side of the issues.

Recognition Rules Codified By Senate In Resolution 17

By SHARON ROSEBERRY Staff Writer

Resolution 17, adopted at the last Student Senate meeting a week ago are the criteria for groups applying for University recognition.

All groups that have students as members, use University facilities, or effect student morale or welfare must have University recognition.

All groups that have students as members, use University facilities, or effect student morale or welfare must have University recognition.

THE APPLICATION for recognition from a new group is studied by the Senate Standing Committee. The committee then makes a recommendation to the Senate, usually approving recognition for the group as an official campus organization.

The Senate then reviews the groups application for recognition to the Office of Student Affairs, which gives final recognition and makes a recommendation.

If a group is not granted a certificate of recognition by the Office of Student Affairs, it may appeal its case to the Committee on Student Life, which will review the previous decision.

BEFORE RESOLUTION 17 was adopted, Standing Committee Chairman Dan Nicol, A3, Mulford, said, the Senate had no specific rules for evaluating organizations. It followed the general outline of student organizations in the "Code of Student Life," the guidebook of University regulations. The Senate also used its own judgement as to what constituted a useful student group, Nicol said.

Some prospective student groups felt recognition of organizations depended too much on the personal opinions of student senators, Nicol said. So the Senate adopted the set of written rules.

The criterion set down in Resolution 17 are basically the same as those used before, said Nicol.

THE RESOLUTION contains 6 clauses concerning the process of student organization recognition. It must give a copy of its constitution to the Office of Student Affairs and the Student Senate.

The group will be reviewed by the Standing Committee and then the Senate as a whole. The Senate will make recommendations on the group to the Office of Student Affairs.

AN IMPORTANT part of the Resolution is the criteria for the constitution of the proposed organization which are:

the group must have a minimum number of officers, it must provide for the regular, democratic selection of these officers, it must have a minimum of two scheduled meetings a semester, it must show that the organization is financially able to support the programs for which it was established.

A GROUP may be exempted from following these criteria if it can show good reason why the criteria are not applicable to its particular situation.

"We left them as flexible as possible," Nicol said, referring to the clauses in the Resolution. The clause on constitutions is a good example of this flexibility, he pointed out.

British Professor Interprets Language Of Shakespeare

Shakespearean authority Ronald Watkins used acting and lecturing to interpret Shakespeare's dialogue and methods during two lectures in the Union ballroom Sunday and Monday.

The British-born Watkins will give his final lecture, "The Method in Practice: The Storm Scenes in King Lear" at 8 tonight in the Union ballroom. The lectures are sponsored by the English Department and the Humanities Society lecture Series.

In his Sunday talk on "The Conditions of Performance and Their Influence on Shakespeare's Method of Writing," Watkins recreated the atmosphere and feeling of the early Elizabethan theatre.

SHAKESPEARE wrote for a definite audience that was familiar with his language and his historical references, Watkins said.

"Shakespeare created magic with the spoken word," Watkins said, explaining that many scenes in Shakespeare's plays depended more on word images than props and scenery for effect.

Comparing the small size of the Globe Theatre where many of Shakespeare's plays were first produced to today's productions, Watkins said that in the early theatre there was a feeling of intimacy with the audience.

Today's productions no longer have this closeness, he said, which may cause some difficulty in understanding the plays.

MONDAY, WATKINS spoke on the "Actor's Task in Interpreting Shakespeare," charging the actor with the major responsibility in conveying the play's meaning to the audience.

"The spoken word is the chief medium of appeal," Watkins said. Too often the actor concentrates more on characterization than on interpretation, Watkins said, and the play loses its effect.

To be successful in Shakespearean drama, Watkins said, the actor must have "the realization of all the pictures conjured up in the poet's text." He called this the "extra something" needed for the Shakespearean actor, and also said it was the reason why Shakespeare is the most difficult of all playwrights to perform successfully.

Watkins used numerous scenes from Shakespeare to illustrate his point that interpretation is crucial. "There is no real reason why any group should have any particular difficulties with these rules," said Nicol.

AFTER A group has been recognized and becomes active, Student Senate retains its responsibility for the group. The final clause in Resolution 17 states: "The Student Senate shall reserve the right to review any actions taken by an organization which has been given recognition. If, in the view of the Student Senate, the organization has violated the standards established by the Student Senate or the Code of Student Life, the Student Senate shall have the power to publicly withdraw its recognition."

Organizations which are sponsored by an academic department do not have to be evaluated by the Senate, Nicol said. Groups of this kind, a French poetry club for example, simply apply directly to the Office of Student Affairs for recognition.

Nicol said it was assumed that a group organized by an academic department would automatically meet the Senate criterion for recognition.

Watkins then outlined a hypothetical manual for the Shakespearean actor, explaining points that should be used when handling Elizabethan dialogue.

The first point stressed the need of the actor to communicate the sense of the play which includes hesitation and emphasis of words, particularly in delivering the puns.

THE SECOND need is balance, Watkins said, pointing out that Shakespeare's plays are perfectly balanced poetry. If the actor is not aware of this, his reciting of the lines are like the "playing of music without regard for marks and phrases of expression," Watkins said.

His final point was that much of the deliberate effects contained in the dialogue must be delivered so that they appear spontaneous.

Throughout his talk, Watkins acted out much of what he explained, concluding that characterization is important in Shakespearean drama, but is second to interpretation.

Bishop Talks On Draft Card And Motives

DES MOINES — Iowa Methodist Bishop James S. Thomas suggested Monday that the burning of a draft card may be related to an urge to become involved.

Addressing Methodist leaders from Iowa gathered for a study of the Book of Acts, Bishop Thomas said: "The burning of a draft card may not be unrelated to a hunger for involvement and renewal. The nervousness of a nation that feels the sky might fall when 10 or 12 draft cards are burned says something about the faith of that nation."

MCDONNELL also built the other Mercury and Gemini spacecraft used for manned orbital flights. Geminis 8 through 12 still are under construction here.

The unauthorized strike was not expected to interfere with the Gemini 6 and 7 flights Dec. 6. Those capsules already are at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

BUT PRODUCTION of McDonnell Phantom jet fighters used by the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines also came to a standstill after as many as 50 pickets gathered at each of the 12 gates. Many of the jets are being used by U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Picket lines were set up shortly after midnight when the contract between District 9 of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, and McDonnell expired.

THE STRIKE was voted almost unanimously after the machinists rejected the company's latest contract proposal and turned down an extension recommended by union leaders.

Strikers said they sought an across-the-board wage hike of 20 cents an hour for each of the next three years plus numerous fringe benefits. They said McDonnell had offered a pay increase of six to eight cents an hour.

Strike Halts Gemini Work

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Gemini spacecraft production was halted Monday when 16,000 machinists walked off their jobs at McDonnell Aircraft Corp. in a dispute over what strikers called prespace age wages.

"First man in space with horse and buggy wages," read one picket sign in front of the huge complex where Mercury spacecraft "Freedom 7" was built. Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. became America's first man in space when he rode in that capsule in 1961.

MCDONNELL also built the other Mercury and Gemini spacecraft used for manned orbital flights. Geminis 8 through 12 still are under construction here.

How Good Is MSU? Wait Until Nov. 20

By STEU BETTERTON
Staff Writer

Michigan State's football team continued to roll on last Saturday, but Duffy Daugherty still wasn't ready to commit himself.

Every week someone asks the Spartan coach if his team is going to the Rose Bowl, and after clinching a tie for the Big Ten title against Iowa, Daugherty still could only comment, "You fellows don't seem to understand the rule."

"We have to be voted in; ask me after the athletic directors have their meeting."

The Spartans' coach also sidestepped the question, "How good is this team?" Daugherty told reporters to wait until November 20 to get an answer.

He had told his players before the Iowa game that there were three goals to be reached. One was to beat Iowa and insure themselves of at least a tie for the conference championship.

PLAYING THEM one at a time, the MSU coach said now his squad would shoot for Indiana and an undisputed title.

Then on November 20 the Spartans will go after a win over Notre Dame. If they win that one Daugherty will lay claim to the national championship, and he will tell everyone how good his team is.

Daugherty was also asked if he was aware that Clinton Jones had tied a Michigan State and Big Ten record with his four touchdowns. He knew, but said that he would have considered it the worst kind of "running up the score" if he had permitted Jones to go for a fifth score.

SENIOR QUARTERBACK Steve Juday also figured in the after game comments. Daugherty claimed that no quarterback in the nation has done the job as his three year veteran.

"This boy makes 90 per cent of his own calls, and I consider that very unusual in this day and age." Then Daugherty added, "A quarterback is judged by his ability to get that ball across the goal, and Juday has obviously had tremendous success."

DESPITE a week of secret practices Iowa's offense was still pretty much the way the Michigan State coaching staff had planned. According to Daugherty the only surprise was the Hawk-

The MSU head man also made it clear that he thought the game was an extremely hard hitting affair regardless of the 35-0 score. He said that from the sidelines the intensity of the hitting was high for the entire ball game.

Hayes Cites Iowa Defense

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)

— Old nemesis Iowa comes to town Saturday to help Ohio State wrap up its 1965 home football schedule.

The staggering Hawkeyes have won one game all season, are in last place in the Big Ten with an 0-6 record and have lost their last 11 conference games.

But the Hawkeyes are wary of the Hawkeys.

Coach Woody Hayes signalled the alert at a luncheon Monday and Buckeye scout Esco Sarkinen echoed the warning. "You can't overlook the fact that Iowa has the second best defense in the conference," Hayes pointed out.

And Sarkinen added: "This team has been wounded and beset with complications but the Hawks are mighty dangerous."

Ohio State, in a second-place tie with Minnesota with 4-1 records, has had some interesting duels with the Hawks, including last year when Ohio nipped Iowa 21-19.

In six of the Hawks' losses, the point difference has been very little, and a break here or there could have turned the tide.

The Iowans have beaten only Oregon State, 27-7 and have bowed to Washington State, Wisconsin, Purdue, Minnesota, Northwestern, Indiana and Michigan State.

The Buckeye scout said Michigan State players praised the Hawks as the hardest hitting defensive team they met all year.

"That certainly is a fine compliment, Sarkinen said.

The opposition has almost doubled the score on the punchless Hawkeyes, rolling up 126 points to Iowa's 74.

Ohio leads in series, 15-10, with two games ending in ties.

SMU Remembers Arkansas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The memory of a 44-0 beating will spur the Southern Methodist Mustangs this week as they prepare to meet mighty Arkansas in a game that could go far in deciding the Southwest Conference football championship.

That was the score Arkansas poured on SMU last year when Mustang fortunes were at their lowest ebb.

This year Southern Methodist is championship threat and Mustangs will aim at a victory that could at least give them tie for conference title.

Coach Hayden Fry is as optimistic as coaching decorum dictates, although Arkansas undoubtedly will be a heavy favorite to make SMU its 21st straight victim.

— Over The Sports Desk — Hawks Full Of Praise For Unbeaten Spartans

By JOHN CLOYED
Assistant Sports Editor

Michigan State has been picked as the number one team in the nation in the polls the last couple of weeks, and no one in the Iowa dressing room after Saturday's game disagreed with the polls.

Most people remember the flock of fine running backs that Michigan State threw at the Hawks, including coach Jerry Burns, who said, "It wasn't enough that they had to hit us with Apisa, Jones and Lee — but they put in a sub quarterback who can run better than anyone we've got."

The sub was Jimmy Raye and although it was usually pretty obvious from the press box that Raye was going to run the ball whenever he got his hands on it, the Hawks couldn't stop him.

But if Michigan State's backs seemed spectacular, it was the blocking that made them look that way. At least that was the consensus among the players after the game.

AS DEFENSIVE TACKLE Bill Restelli put it, "Jones had the holes. I'm not taking anything away from him, he's a good half-back, but blocking makes the team."

He went on, "They hit well, not harder than most, but more often. They stayed with their blocks and got the block they went after. They had good blocking on everything they tried."

Leo Miller, who plays next to Restelli in the middle of the Iowa defensive line, agreed with him.

"They weren't the hardest hitting club we've faced, but they were aggressive. They didn't give up and the second effort makes them good," he said.

Miller added, "They earned the win. They kept going all the time and took advantage of the breaks because they didn't stop."

PAUL USINOWICZ was another Hawk that made a lot of contacts Saturday, but with the Spartans' defense instead of offense. Usinowicz played tight end and was charged with providing protection for the Iowa passers most of the time.

"They really hustled," he said, "That's the key to their success. You'd hit them and they'd come back with the second effort."

John Hendricks said the game was the roughest he had ever been in. Hendricks is a sophomore that played in the defensive line a great deal Saturday. He has been starting at an offensive tackle spot.

"I wonder where they got all those boys," he said. "They must scrounge the caves. They're a fine team. I don't think anybody will beat them this year."

They're a real good ball club," said end Cliff Wilder, "They've got a lot of depth, they hit, and they can move. Duffy's got more guys than he knows what to do with."

"THEY HIT HARD on every play and never gave you anything," commented guard John Diehl.

Maybe Burns was thinking of the blocking when he said Michigan State was a better all-around ball club than either Michigan or Notre Dame was last year.

Burns said he tried to give Iowa's passers protection by sending out only two receivers and holding the rest of the team back to block. But that wasn't enough.

"WHEN THEY BLITZED, they just knocked over all our blockers," he said.

Burns said he tried to set up the passing attack by establishing a ground attack

"We tried running at what we thought were their weakest positions. But we found out they didn't have any weak positions," Burns said.

Most Iowa fans will add a loud amen.

QUARTERBACK PHIL SCHOOLEY barely gets this pass off in Iowa's 35-0 loss to Michigan State. No. 75 for Michigan State is Tony Conti. The aggressive rush put on by the Spartan line resulted in many of Schooley's passes being knocked down.

Luxury Surrounds Fighters

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — None of the Hemingway-Schulberg stuff for Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson — you know, remote training camps deep in the woods, roaches, crickets, the slap of leather against flesh.

Roaches, crickets and solitude moved over long ago to make room for Las Vegas and the Nov. 22 heavyweight title match between champion Clay and former champion Patterson.

Both are training in luxurious showrooms of hotel-casinos where good crowds — flecked with electric-blue suits and orange capri pants — pay $1 admission and lounge in padded booths.

Each fighter works out on stage amid a regiment of handlers, photographers, celebrities and hangers-on.

Last week, Patterson stoically sparred three rounds while comic Jack E. Leonard and singer Eddie Fisher swapped insults before a crowd of 500 in the showroom of his hotel.

In his showroom, Clay spars under batteries of klieg lights, pausing for loud asides to his audiences and television interviews.

When Clay hits the speed bag, he is majestically raised four feet on an elevated stage. The crowds sip drinks and see Clay silhouetted against a powder blue background.

As for the fight itself, Clay said "I'll whomp him good for seven rounds and knock him out after."

Patterson, twice champion himself, said only, "I want to win."

Betting odds favor Clay at 15-5, 5-14 and 1-3.

Stapleton Demotes Tackle Brazon

AMES — Iowa State football coach Clay Stapleton demoted offensive tackle Larry Brazon to the second team and moved Ted Tuinstra to the No. 1 unit in his place Monday.

He said Brazon hasn't been playing up to the rest of the offensive line, and "we're going to give Ted a chance to show what he can do for us" on the first string.

YOU, TOO, CAN BE INFERIOR

The second gravest problem confronting college students today is inferiority feelings. (The first gravest problem is, of course, the recent outbreak of mout among sorority house canaries.) Let us today look into the causes of inferiority feelings and their possible cures.

Psychologists divide inferiority feelings into three principal categories:

1. Physical inferiority.
2. Mental inferiority.
3. Financial inferiority.

(A few say there is also a fourth category: ichthyological inferiority—a feeling that other people have prettier fish—but I believe this is common only along the coasts and in the Great Lakes area.)

Let us start with the feeling of physical inferiority, perhaps the easiest to understand. Naturally we are inclined to feel inferior to the brawny football captain or the beautiful homecoming queen. But we should not. Look at all the people, neither brawny nor beautiful, who have made their marks in the world. Look at Napoleon. Look at Socrates. Look at Caesar. Look at Lassie.

What I mean is you can't always tell what's inside a package by looking at the outside. (Sometimes, of course, you can. Take Personna Stainless Steel Blades, for example. Just one glance at that jolly blue and white package—so bright and pert, so neat but not gaudy—and you know it has to contain blades of absolute perfection. And you are right! Personna gives you so many shaves per blade it takes a math major to count them. And they are luxury shaves—smoother, comfortable, kinder to the kisser. Moreover, Personna comes both in Double Edge and Injector style. And as if this weren't enough, Personna is now offering you a chance to grab a fistful of $100 bills from a $100,000 bowl! The Personna Stainless Steel Sweepstakes is off and running, and you're all eligible to enter. Visit your friendly Personna dealer today to get details and an entry blank.)

"...when it came to tying granny knots."

But I digress. Let us turn now to the second category—mental inferiority. A lot of people think they are dumber than other people. This is not so. It must be remembered that there are different kinds of intelligence. Take, for instance, the classic case of the Sigafos brothers, Claude and Sturbridge, students at a prominent Western university (Dartmouth). It was always assumed that Claude was the more intelligent just because he knew more than Sturbridge about the arts, the sciences, the social sciences, the humanities, and like that. Sturbridge, on the other hand, was ten times smarter than Claude when it came to tying granny knots. But no matter; everybody looked down on "Stupid Sturbridge," as they called him, and looked up to "Clever Claude," as they called him. But who do you think turned out to be the smart one when their granny almost got loose and ran away? You guessed it—good old Stupid Sturbridge.

We arrive now at the final category, financial inferiority. One way to deal with this condition is to increase your income. You can, for example, become a fence. Or you can pose for a life class, if your college is well heated.

But a better way to handle financial inferiority is to accept it philosophically. Look on the bright side of poverty. True, others may have more money than you have, but look at all the things you have that they don't—debts, for instance, and hunger cramps.

Always remember, dear friends, that poverty is no disgrace. It is an error, but it is no disgrace.

Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity is the pre-playoff favorite as the quarterfinal round of the Social Fraternity league touch football playoffs begin. First game is today at 4:15 on Finkbine Fields.

The "Sig Eps" rate as favorites on the strength of four impressive victories over formidable opponents during the regular season.

Their record thus far shows a 20-0 decision over Alpha Epsilon Pi, a 35-20 win over Sigma Pi, a 25-0 victory over Pi Kappa Alpha, and a 23-17 win over Delta Tau Delta.

They will receive their first test today when they face Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 2-1, on field 7.

OTHER GAMES today pit Delta Upsilon, 3-1, against Phi Kappa Psi, 2-1, on field 5; Sigma Nu, 3-0, against Delta Tau Delta, 2-1, field 8; and Phi Epsilon Pi, 3-0, against Phi Gamma Delta, 4-1, field 9.

Phi Gamma Delta won their spot in the playoffs last night by defeating Beta Trieta Pi 16-6 in a playoff game.

Phi Gamma Delta, along with Sigma Nu and Phi Epsilon Pi, goes into the playoffs as a possible darkhorse.

IN OTHER action tonight, Bush house of Hillcrest faces Calvin on field 4 and Steindler faces Higbee on field 6 in two key semi-final games in the Hillcrest league playoffs.

Bush, 3-0-1, advanced to the semi-final round last Thursday by defeating Loehwing 25-19, while Calvin advanced by default after it was found that a player on O'Connor, which had beaten Calvin 18-0, was ineligible.

In the other game, playoff favorite Steindler, 4-0, 40-37 quarterfinal winner over Bordwell last Wednesday, faces Higbee, 3-1, who beat Ensign 6-0 in its quarterfinal game last Thursday.

BATTEY CHARGED—

ST. PAUL, Minn. — The Minnesota Tax Department charged Minnesota Twins catcher Earl Battey Monday with failure to file a state income tax return for 1962.

R. E. Franz, deputy commissioner of taxation, said Battey was named in a complaint which listed Battey's income for 1962 at $27,083.

A "Must" for Modern Living

Slow-working appliances, flickering lights, and blown-out fuses occur when electrical needs have outgrown your home's wiring system.

For FULL HOUSEPOWER in your home, you need the following minimum wiring requirements:

A three-wire 100 ampere service entrance — a minimum for the average home.

Proper number of branch circuits — with wires large enough to carry full power from the service entrance to all lights, appliances, and equipment.

Plenty of convenience outlets, lights, and switches — eliminating extension cords and dangerous "octoplugs."

Call the Home Wiring Division of Iowa-Illinois for planning assistance in modernizing your home wiring. There's no charge for this service.

College Quiz Bowl Will Debut Sunday

The second annual College Quiz Bowl series, which begins at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Union Indiana Room, is modeled after the well-known television program, except for one thing — no commercials.

Two teams of four students will be competing against one another on such topics as politics, science, literature and history.

Bruce French, A3, Reinbeck, will be moderator.

Application blanks will be delivered to all housing units and are also available at the Union new information desk. Applications, open only to undergraduate students, are due Wednesday.

"The Quiz Bowl has proven to be an informative and exciting way to spend part of your Sunday afternoons before hitting the books," said Mary Schantz, A3, Iowa City, program chairman.

A traveling trophy plus individual awards will be presented to the winners.

College Quiz Bowl will be continued on Nov 21, Dec 5 and 12.

Reserve Book Stations Aim At Easing Crush At Library

By JOYCE OLSON
Staff Writer

Dormitories, Schaeffer Hall study hall, and football ticket lines at the Union are not the only places feeling the University's growing pains this fall. The University Library has felt the pressure almost every night, when its 1,500 chairs are all occupied.

"A few years ago it was an unusual day when 5,000 students used the library. Now the average attendance is 5,200 students per day," said Leslie W. Dunlap, director of the library, Thursday.

TO RELIEVE PRESSURE on the main library building, library officials are urging use of the reserve book stations in Burge and Quadrangle dormitories.

Located in the northeast corner of the basement, the Burge reserve room is open to residents in Currier and Kate Daum, as well as Burge. The Quadrangle reserve room is directly opposite the public cafeteria between the television room and KWAD headquarters in Quadrangle.

The reserve rooms were started last spring when book stacks, counters and new lights were installed in former study rooms at both dorms. The rooms were stocked with reserve materials available at that time.

"THE PROJECT CAME into full bloom this fall," Dunlap said. Each reserve room now contains two copies of about 600 books that are required reading for University courses numbered under 100.

In this way, Dunlap said, freshmen and other students taking core courses may use reserve materials without having to go to the main library or departmental libraries.

The rooms are open daily from 7:50 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Students who borrow books may take them to their rooms or study lounges and return them through book slots at any hour.

BOTH ROOMS ARE staffed by full time employees. Mrs. Naomi O'Keefe works at Burge and Mrs. Patricia Lowber at Quadrangle. Students are employed for evenings and Saturdays.

The reserve rooms were planned mainly as a convenience for students, but the number of students using the rooms has been disappointingly low, Dunlap said. "Perhaps all the students haven't yet started to study," he added, jokingly.

Dunlap expressed hope that more students would use the reserve rooms in the future.

"We think the location and facilities can be a real advantage to students," he said.

STEFAN STULIGROSZ conducts the internationally known Poznan Choir. The 72-voice male choir will appear at the Union Main Lounge Wednesday at 8 p.m. Songs from the old masters as well as modern Polish composers are scheduled to be sung.

Poznan Choir Is Institution 515 Years Old

By TED HOLLAND
Staff Writer

Not even Hitler's invasion of Poland in 1939 could halt the Poznan Men and Boys' Choir, which will appear at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Main Lounge.

World War II canceled plans for a United States tour when many choir members were killed and Dr. Waclaw Gieburowski, the director, was imprisoned.

Stefan Stuligrosz, then 19, formed a small chorus of eight men and sixteen boys, and, practicing secretly, kept the choir alive. Stuligrosz today is director of the 75-member choir.

FREE STUDENT tickets for the concert are available from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today and Wednesday at the Union east information desk. Tickets are also on sale to the public.

The choir will sing selections ranging from 16th century church music to contemporary Polish music.

The University Cultural Affairs Committee is sponsoring the group, which includes doctors, engineers, clerks, laborers, and technicians among its 25 adult members. Boys between the ages of 8 and 15 make up the rest of the choir.

Membership in the choir, which was founded in 1450 at Poznan, is considered a great honor. Fifteen boys are annually selected from 300 applicants to replace those whose soprano voices have changed.

Selections are made on the basis of examinations in regular academic work as well as vocal ability. Those selected study Gregorian and Polish music and rehearse with the choir for a full year before they are permitted to sing in concerts.

ON TOUR, the boys are always accompanied by a teacher and a nurse. Arrangements are made for them to see points of cultural interest as they travel.

Since 1950 the choir has been subsidized by the Polish Ministry of Art and Culture and has traveled more extensively. The group sang in Berlin in 1951, the Soviet Union in 1958, Romania and Bulgaria in 1960, France in 1961 and the United States in 1963. During the latter trip the choir entertained the late President Kennedy at the White House.

FBI's Witnesses Out Of Pope Trial

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — An attorney for accused bank robber-slayer Duane E. Pope succeeded Monday in cutting off the prosecution testimony of three FBI agents, called to help link the youth to killings at Big Springs, Neb.

Attorney Robert B. Crosby of Lincoln successfully contended that the evidence was redundant and unnecessary because Pope, 22, already has admitted the facts of the robbery and shootings, and his involvement.

Judge Robert Van Pelt held that the intended testimony was not necessary to the case, but in at least one of the objections, said he was not holding that the evidence was necessarily prejudicial to Pope.

Judge Van Pelt also told the jury his ruling "should not be construed as critical of the government for bringing in these witnesses."

Similar defense objections blocked the introduction of several alleged items of evidence, including fingerprint cards.

Pope, of Roxbury, Kan., is charged with killing three persons and wounding a fourth while robbing the Farmers State Bank of Big Springs of some $1,500 last June 4. That was five days after his graduation from McPherson (Kan.) College.

Earlier Monday, Darwin F. Culver, clerk in a McPherson, Kan., sporting goods store, testified he sold a used .22 caliber revolver to Pope last May 15, about three weeks before the killings.

Chinese Ideology Is Lecture Topic

Michael F. M. Lindsay, Lord Lindsay of Birker, and an authority on Chinese foreign policy, will speak on "Chinese Communist Ideology as a Misunderstanding of Science," at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Old Capitol Senate Chamber.

The lecture is the second in a series of five lectures during the 1965-66 school year on Chinese Civilization and Affairs.

Lindsay will also conduct seminars on "The Development of Chinese Communist Agrarian Policy" from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and Friday in the Union Ohio State Room. Students in all departments at the University are invited to attend the seminars.

A graduate of Oxford, Lindsay taught at Yenching University in Peiping, China, from 1937 to 1941 and was technical advisor to the Chinese 18th Group Army from 1942 to 1945.

Lindsay visited mainland China in 1949 and 1954 and toured Taiwan in 1958 and 1961. He was professor of international relations at Australian National University in Canberra from 1951 to 1959, and has taught at Harvard, Yale, and University College in Hull, England.

His books include "China and the Cold War," published in 1955 and "Is Peaceful Coexistence Possible?," published in 1960.

Vandals Damage 9 Autos

Vandals damaged nine cars parked north and east of downtown Iowa City over the weekend.

Maynard Hebl, Rural Route 1, reported the largest loss. Tools valued at $175 were reported stolen from his auto that was parked in the alley behind the 100 block of East Jefferson Street. He said three tires were also slashed.

Paul Hammer, G, Deer Creek, Ill., reported to police early Sunday that his car tires were slashed and the hood scratched.

James R. Webb, A4, Fort Madison, said four tires and the front seat of his auto were cut while the car stood in front of his residence at 120 N. Clinton St.

The glove compartment was also ransacked and its contents thrown into a car nearby, he said.

Thomas Henry, A2, Iowa City, reported that his car had been ransacked Saturday night and the glove compartment entered and tires slashed Sunday night. He and Webb live at the same address.

Terry L. Brinker, A3, Cedar Rapids; Karmen L. Huyser, A3, Pella; and Jerry J. Wellik, A3, Britt, all reported slashed tires Sunday. They lived at 222 N. Clinton St.

A tire was cut and dashboard damaged in the car of Mrs. Joseph Fuhrmann, 10 N. Johnson St., Saturday night, she told police.

The ninth victim, Agnes Smith, 21½ E. College St., said two tires and both seats in her car were slashed Saturday night.

Library Gets Career Data

Career monographs containing educational and occupational information have been donated to the Iowa City Public Library by the Optimist Club in conjunction with Youth Appreciation Week.

The week, which started Sunday and runs through Saturday, is an international affair sponsored by the Optimists.

According to James Sangster, 816 Willow St., president of the local Optimist chapter, the week is dedicated to appreciating youth's contributions to the community.

The gift was made at the suggestion of local school counselors, Sangster said. The monographs are valued at $215.

Optimists are also displaying bumper stickers and distributing merchant window displays.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story is the first in a two-part series about Johnson County Civil Defense.

By BILL PIERROT
Staff Writer

Within the last few weeks, the federal government has approved a request to match funds of $407 for the Johnson County Civil Defense. The money was awarded in two grants, one of $8,907 for a two-way county fire radio system and another of $5,500 for a county civil defense radio system.

This grant was another step in the continuing effort of Wayne Walters, Johnson County Civil Defense chairman, to increase this county's readiness to meet disaster.

THE PRIMARY MISSION of Civil Defense is to save lives," Walters said in an interview recently. "We are concerned with natural and man-made disasters. Our day-to-day function is preparation to save lives.

"The population is more interested in natural disasters because it can see and understand them."

Walters said money used for civil defense came from the county treasury and from the towns in the county. Local towns are assessed cents per person. The money goes into the Civil Defense fund. The county adds whatever is needed.

EXPENDITURES must be approved by Walters and the chairman of the Civil Defense board, Ed Kessler, who is currently also the chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

The Civil Defense board consists of the county board of supervisors and the mayor or his representative of each town in the county.

The federal government matches expenditures for personnel and administration. The money for the radio systems was awarded under these circumstances. Walters said that acquiring the radio systems had been one of his biggest projects.

"WE ARE CONCERNED about communication because any disaster now that would knock out the telephones would leave the towns in the county without outside connection," Walters said.

The new fire radio system will have a 60-watt base station to be located in the basement of the county jail. Each town in the county will have a two-way mobile radio unit. The system is intended to provide more radio communication for daily fire protection and in case of other disasters.

Walters said he was willing to speak to any local group and also had two courses available to the public. The courses can be taught any time that 15 or more people want the class. One is a medical self-help course that "is similar to but goes beyond a regular first-aid course," Walters said. The other course is called "Living in the Nuclear Age," and covers family actions in case of natural or nuclear disaster.

'Fanny Hill' To Be Tested In High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed Monday to review a ban on the book "Fanny Hill," thereby opening the way for a re-examination of its obscenity standards.

"JOHN CLELAND'S" memoirs of a woman of pleasure, commonly known as "Fanny Hill," is the story of an 18-century London prostitute. The book is banned in Massachusetts and under attack in other states.

In agreeing to review the ban, the court grouped "Fanny Hill" with two other obscenity cases. One is that of Eros magazine publisher Ralph Ginzburg, the other of Edward Mishkin, a New Yorker arrested when police found allegedly sadistic literature in his basement.

AFTER HEARING arguments on the three, probably next month, the court will have the opportunity to decide whether it wants to change its eight-year-old standard for determining what is obscene literature.

The present obscenity test is "whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to prurient interest."

THE "FANNY HILL" case is being brought to the Supreme Court by the book's publisher, G. P. Putnam's Sons, with a claim that circulation should be permitted under the "free speech" guarantee of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

Photographer Being Tried

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP) — The trial of a newspaper photographer arrested while taking pictures at the scene of a fatal airplane crash was continued Monday until Nov. 23 in Municipal Court here.

James Albright, 26, a photographer for the Council Bluffs Nonpareil, was charged with interfering with an officer at the scene of the crash Saturday, which claimed the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Walker of Council Bluffs.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Don Danford and Sgt. Earl Pace filed the charge.

Danford said officers were conducting their investigation and collecting personal effects of the Walkers at the time, and everyone had been asked to leave, including Albright.

He said deputies destroyed Albright's film, and added: "we're extremely sorry this happened."

Albright is free under $50 bond.

Trial Set Today In Assault Case

David Stalkfleet, 19, of 429 Kirkwood Ave., will answer a charge of assault and battery in Iowa City police court this morning.

According to police, they charged the youth following a fight at Stalkfleet's Hide 'A' Way Tavern, 1012 S. Gilbert St., Saturday morning. Wayne F. Stalkfleet, the boy's father, reported the incident, police said.

2 Youths, 19, Arrested For Possession of Beer

Two 19-year-old youths were arrested Saturday and charged with possession of beer.

The youths, Raymond Alberhasky, 1820 N. Dubuque St., and Robert J. Kleinschmidt, Oxford, were arrested by police on the 1100 block of E. Burlington St. Kleinschmidt was also charged with speeding and making excessive noise. No bond was set for either youth pending trial this week.

Mental Retardation Grant Given To Hospital School

The Hospital School last week received a $16,200 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service to be used on a project entitled "Planning Personnel Training Program for the Mentally Retarded."

"There is no comprehensive plan now; that is the purpose of the grant," said Donald Harris, project planner.

The one-year grant pays the cost of staffing an office for the study, which is headed by Raymond Rembolt, director of the Hospital School.

The study is seeking university-wide involvement in training programs for the mentally retarded, said Harris. A work study group, functioning under an administrative committee, is composed of deans, department heads, and directors of schools within the University.

The study has been further divided among the following committees: physical education and recreation, home and family life, pre-vocational and vocational therapy, physical therapy and occupational therapy, speech and hearing services, nurses, education, social work, psychology, medicine and dentistry.

The plans developed by each committee will be coordinated by the work study group and sent to the administrative committee for final approval.

Lost Man Found Sleeping In Boat

A Cedar Rapids man who was reported missing and presumed drowned was found sleeping in his boat near Cou Falls on the Coralville Reservoir about 7 a.m. Monday by Johnson County Sheriff's officers.

According to police, the man, Wilder Thompson, left his home in Cedar Rapids Sunday for a fishing and hunting trip on the reservoir. When he did not return Sunday evening his wife called Cedar Rapids authorities who, in turn, notified the Johnson County Sheriff's office.

Searchers were about to abandon efforts and start dragging the reservoir when Thompson's boat was spotted.

Thompson told police that his motor had died and that he was unable to restart it. He said it was near dark and he was lost. Police said Thompson did not have a paddle or oars in the boat.

goals

Personal objectives are about as varied as viewpoints on what constitutes success.

Consciously or not, a man's goals are modified from time to time. Even so, the man who can set his sights early and stay on course is a good deal better off than the man who wavers.

Having the opportunity to work independently and develop your resources to their fullest potential may fit in with your career objectives. If so, you should investigate the field of life insurance sales and sales management. The business offers many challenges, and Provident Mutual can give you an early start by beginning your training in our Campus Internship Program for college students.

It might pay you to find out more.

9-State Workshop Evaluates Nursing

More than 50 faculty members from schools of nursing in nine states are attending the workshop "Evaluation of Learning in Nursing," which will end Friday.

Concepts and objectives of measuring progress in learning, and test writing are discussed by James Maxey, G. Iowa City, who is a Ph.D. candidate in educational statistics and measurement.

Maxey earned a B.A. from Illinois State Normal University, and an M.S. from the University of Iowa. He has taught at Iowa City High School after receiving his M.A.

Three other Ph.D. candidates who will serve as leaders of group discussions are Robert Forsyth, South Greensburg, Pa.; Marjorie Moore, Iowa City, and Darrell Sabers, Salem, S.D.

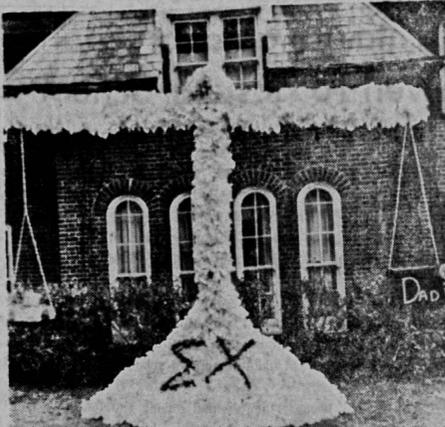

A second session of the workshop is scheduled for Feb. 7-11. Participants will work on various projects during the interim period.

Pearl Zemlicka, assistant professor in the College of Nursing and conference coordinator, is in charge of the workshop.

Student's Guitar Stolen In Union

Tim Steffa, A3, Cedar Falls, reported to police the theft of his $110 Goya guitar from the Union on Thursday evening before he was to perform for a Town Men-Town Women hot-nut-nut.

He said that the guitar was in a brown alligator case and that there were extra strings inside.

THIS SIGMA CHI SCALES symbolizing that "Dads are worth their weight in gold" was awarded first place in the Junior Interfraternity Council's Dads Day Display contest. The contest was open only to pledges in the Greek system, and winners were announced during half time of the Michigan State game. The winning display was destroyed late Saturday night by vandals.

Bowen Asks Activities Study

A study to obtain more effective student participation in student government and activities will be made this fall, Pres. Howard R. Bowen has announced. A special committee composed of four students and three faculty members will study the roles of student organizations and propose the means for more meaningful participation in them.

WILLIAM PARISI, A4, Chicago Heights, Ill., committee chairman, the committee will try to involve everyone connected with student activities and organizations.

"We hope to get a good consensus from the advisers of organizations," Parisi said Monday.

"The main concern is with making participation in University organizations a meaningful educational experience for each individual," he said. The committee hopes to crystallize problems encountered in student activities and enable an even-flow of information between the President's office and student organizations, Parisi said.

OTHER STUDENTS serving on the committee are: Frances Strauger, A4, Le Mars; Larry Seufferer, L3, Elkhart; and Lee Theisen, G, Iowa City.

Participating faculty members are: Robert Boynton, associate professor of political science; James Dickinson, assistant dean of education; and Allan Vestal, professor of law. M.L. Huit, dean of students, will serve as an ex-officio committee member.

According to Parisi, the committee will finish its study and submit its recommendations to Bowen by the middle of January, 1966.

MISSING JURORS—

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Just one juror showed up for duty Monday in the district and county courts of Long Island's Nassau County.

That was 369 fewer than expected. The result was adjournment of all jury trial cases for the day.

The sheriff's office, which is responsible for mailing out notices of jury duty, said it had a record of the notice being mailed in bulk but:

"We have checked with every person in charge and brought out our files, but nobody knows what happened."

Panelists Cite Modern War On Poverty

The administration of the anti-poverty program is as challenging as writing the law itself, according to Rep. John R. Schmidhauser (D-Iowa).

Schmidhauser was the first speaker at the closing session of the Urban Policy Conference held Thursday through Saturday.

"Those who are to be helped by the Community Action Program will have a role in the program itself," he said.

The Community Action Program is part of the Economic Opportunity Act passed in 1964.

UNDER THE program, representatives of various groups in the county, including the impoverished, join to help the disadvantaged on the local level with aid from the Federal Government.

Schmidhauser said the main advantage of this program over the anti-poverty programs of the 1930's is that the 1964 program includes active participation by the disadvantaged.

Another panel member, C. Edwin Gilmour, director of the Iowa Office of Economic Opportunity, said, "The programs of the 30's were designed for the problems of the 30's."

However, the country needs a new approach to poverty, he said. A new policy of rehabilitation and retraining could be substituted for the unproductive national policy that has existed, he said.

THE NEW ANTI-poverty program should help the poor help themselves, Gilmour said. Iowa has made more progress in their anti-poverty campaign, he said, than any other state in the Midwest.

Gilmour said 93 out of 99 counties in Iowa have already organized or have begun to organize community action programs. The conference, sponsored by the Institute of Public Affairs and the League of Iowa Municipalities, closed at noon Saturday.

Professor Of Art To Give Exhibition

John H. Schulze, professor of fine art, will give an exhibit at the Toren Gallery in San Francisco this week. The one-man exhibition contains three large color prints and 50 black and white photographs representing three years' work.

The photographs, varying in subject from Midwestern landscapes to character portraits, were taken in Mexico, San Francisco, and Iowa. The San Francisco showing will be the third one-man exhibition of Schulze's photography outside the Iowa area this year.

QUINTUPLETS UNITE — ST. BRUNO, Que. (AP) — The four surviving Dionne quintuplets had a weekend reunion in this Montreal suburb with a dozen former schoolmates. Annette, Yvonne, Cecile and Marie, now 31, hadn't seen their friends in 13 years. The fifth sister, Emilie, died Aug. 6, 1954.

Seminar Courses Offered Students In Scandinavia

Miss Barbara Weiss, the field representative of the Scandinavian Seminar, will visit the University Friday to discuss with faculty and students the seminar program for the 1966-67 academic year in Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden.

The Scandinavian Seminar, now in its 17th year, offers American students the opportunity to study in a folkhogskola, a Scandinavian residential school for young adults. The students live in Scandinavian families, speak the language and take part in community life.

Miss Weiss, a Scandinavian seminar alumna, 1962-63, will be available to answer questions concerning applications, qualifications, curricula, college credit procedures, apprenticeships, and any other matters relating to the seminar program.

Students wishing further information may visit Miss Weiss from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday in the Union Purdue Room.

Dorothy Kilgallen, 52, Dies; Heart Attack Believed Cause

NEW YORK (AP) — Dorothy Kilgallen, a syndicated newspaper columnist and nationally known radio and television personality, was found dead in bed Monday. She was 52.

A heart attack was believed to have caused her death, although there was no official medical pronouncement. A member of her family said she had not been ill. An autopsy was ordered, but police called it routine.

MISS KILGALLEN had appeared Sunday night in her regular slot on the CBS television quiz show, "What's My Line?" Afterward, she wrote her "Voice of Broadway" column for the New York Journal-American and numerous other papers in which it was syndicated.

She had retired to a bedroom of her East 68th street home and apparently was reading a book when death overtook her. The book was found lying open beside her when her hairdresser, arriving to keep an appointment, discovered the body shortly after noon.

Miss Kilgallen was the wife of producer Dick Kollmar, 54. They lived in a 22-room Manhattan town house, from which they made regular treks together to dine in smart New York restaurants, attend first nights in the theater, and stop often in the wee hours in the fashionable midtown supper clubs.

THEY WERE the parents of three children, sons 14 and 23 years old, and a daughter, 21.

A slender, brown-haired woman, Miss Kilgallen had followed the footsteps of her father, James L. (Jimmy) Kilgallen, as a star reporter in the Hearst organization. He father now works for the Hearst Headline Service after many years with the now defunct International News Service.

Miss Kilgallen remained to the end a hard-driving newspaperwoman who excited a mixture of envy and admiration from her male competitors. In later years, however, her fame from radio and television eclipsed her newspaper reputation with the general public.

French Poet To Lecture Here Friday

The French poet, Francis Ponge will lecture on "Problems of Significance" in French at 8 p.m. Friday in the Senate Chamber of the Old Capitol.

He will also read selections from his poetry Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Shambaugh Auditorium.

The poet was born in Montpellier, France, in 1899 and won his first poem at the age of 16.

In 1960 his poetry achieved recognition as a result of a study of his work done by the Doucet Publishing House. The book "Grand Recueil," containing most of his writings was published in 1962.

Ponge attended Sorbonne University in Paris. His first works were published in the Mouton Blanc and later in the literary weekly Nouvelle Revue Française. Two of his poems written in the 1920s, are "Connaissance de l'Est" and "Parti pris des choses."

In 1931 he married Odette Chabanel and began working for the Hachette Publishing House. During the occupation of France he worked to organize a group of resistant journalists.

At the request of the surrealist writer Louis Aragon, he worked as a literary and art director of the magazine Action during 1946-47. While continuing to write, he taught during 1952-62 at the Alliance Francaise in Paris.

Ponge is currently on a lecture tour of the United States. His lecture here is sponsored by the Department of Romance Languages, the Graduate College, and the Poetry Workshop.

INDIA ASK REPATRIATION—NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India has asked Communist China to return three Indian soldiers they allege were kidnaped Sept. 26 along the Sikkim-Tibet border.

NASA Taps Bassett, See For New Crew

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The space agency Monday named astronauts Elliot M. See Jr. and Charles A. Bassett II as the two-man crew for the space flight of Gemini 9, which will include a space stroll around the world by Bassett.

See, 38, a native of Dallas, Tex., and a civilian, will be the command pilot, Bassett, 34, from Dayton, Ohio, is an Air Force captain.

Paul Henry, public affairs officer for the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the rendezvous and docking mission, which would last two or three days, currently is scheduled for the third quarter of next year. However, it could come as early as next May.

Neither Bassett nor See has made a space flight.

"The mission will call for EVA—extra vehicular activity—that will last at least one revolution," Hancy said.

The primary purpose of the mission will be to have Bassett and See rendezvous with an orbiting Agena rocket and link up with it. Hancy said the present plan is for the rendezvous to take place on the space craft's third revolution of the earth.

Management Top Of Parley Today

Thirty businessmen and administrators are scheduled to attend a conference on managerial skills and practices today.

The third of a four-day session, the conference is designed to help businessmen keep abreast of recent management developments. The conference series is sponsored by the Bureau of Labor and Management, College of Business Administration.

The final conference will be Nov. 23, during which Duane E. Thompson, management program director of the bureau, will speak on "Management Direction and Control," and Don R. Sheriff, director of the bureau, will examine "Analyzing Performance Failure."

French Poet To Lecture Here Friday
Francis Ponge will lecture on "Problems of Significance" in French at 8 p.m. Friday in the Senate Chamber of the Old Capitol.
He will also read selections from his poetry Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Shambaugh Auditorium.
The poet was born in Montpellier, France, in 1899 and won his first poem at the age of 16.
In 1960 his poetry achieved recognition as a result of a study of his work done by the Doucet Publishing House. The book "Grand Recueil," containing most of his writings was published in 1962.
Ponge attended Sorbonne University in Paris. His first works were published in the Mouton Blanc and later in the literary weekly Nouvelle Revue Française. Two of his poems written in the 1920s, are "Connaissance de l'Est" and "Parti pris des choses."
In 1931 he married Odette Chabanel and began working for the Hachette Publishing House. During the occupation of France he worked to organize a group of resistant journalists.
At the request of the surrealist writer Louis Aragon, he worked as a literary and art director of the magazine Action during 1946-47. While continuing to write, he taught during 1952-62 at the Alliance Francaise in Paris.
Ponge is currently on a lecture tour of the United States. His lecture here is sponsored by the Department of Romance Languages, the Graduate College, and the Poetry Workshop.

Making Friends With "Him"
President Johnson and his pet beagle, "Him," give an affectionate welcome to Paul Carter Hawkins, national poster child for Cystic Fibrosis, at a luncheon in the White House. The three-year-old boy is one of the youngest children participating in the March of Dimes' "Operation Dystrophy" drive. Funds raised in the drive finance a massive scientific attack on dystrophy and other disorders of the neuromuscular system.
