

'A Night On Venus' Opens Here Tonight

The playwright's job is to create full characters, not merely types, said Don Davis, G, Sapulpa, Okla., Monday.

Davis, whose award-winning play "A Night on Venus" opens at 8 tonight at the Studio Theatre, said recently that he thought real people should be portrayed as accurately as possible.

"Although you can't expect perfection in the theater," he said, "there should be respect for the audience."

This respect calls for an honest portrayal as possible, he added.

DAVIS EXPLAINED that the human element in producing a play causes differences of opinion between the playwright and director, but "this is to be expected."

Referring to his play now being done by the Studio Theatre, Davis said he felt the director and the cast were doing a good job.

Tickets for the opening night and Thursday performances are available at the Union east information desk. Tickets are free to University students. General admission is $1.

Davis' earlier play, "See the Man Die," was done by the theater last semester and currently is being performed off-Broadway in New York City.

"A Night on Venus" is set in the top floor of a lighthouse off the coast of Texas where the five characters — a millionaire literary critic, his two permanent guests, a militant coed and a Cuban refugee — are gathered.

THE MILLIONAIRE is in love with his guest's wife, and the understanding when the play opens is that, as soon as the novelist husband is solvent, the wife will leave with the millionaire.

The secondary plot involves the coed who is the millionaire's niece, and the refugee, employed as the lighthouse handyman. The coed has been expelled from college because of her endless involvement in various causes and is at the lighthouse to obtain money to finance a trip to help the Navahoes in New Mexico.

The friction between the millionaire and the husband and between the two young people is the central point of the play.

The play won second place for full length plays in last year's National Collegiate Playwriting Contest, sponsored by Samuel French, Inc., New York City.

"See the Man Die" took third place in the awards.

"A Night on Venus" is directed by Jean Scharfenberg, associate professor of speech and dramatic art. The five cast members are Paul Pancotto, A3, River Forest, Ill.; Margaret Moore, A3, Iowa City; Tal Russell, G, Iowa City; Nancy Baker, A4, Waverly, and Bob Ernst, A3, Humboldt. The set was designed by Michael Griffith, G, Iowa City.

ROBERT DOWNING of New York City, who has directed a number of Broadway shows, will speak at 3:30 p.m. today in the Green Room, Studio Theatre. A native of Sioux City, Downing was a member of the University all-state High School Players in 1931 and began his career with tent shows. Downing will attend the opening of "A Night on Venus."

Friday, Hoby Morrison, theater reviewer for "Variety," the show business newspaper, will attend the play. Morrison also will speak to students earlier that afternoon.

The Friday 3:30 p.m. matinee at the Studio Theatre will be a one-act play directed by Francis Hamit, A3, Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

HANK, THE NOVELIST, played by Tal Russell, G, Iowa City, reconciles his wife, Pal, Margaret Moore, A3, Iowa City, in a scene from "A Night on Venus." The original comedy by Don Davis, G, Sapulpa, Okla., opens the Studio Theatre's season tonight at 8. ## Doppmann To Play Work By Mozart In Union Tonight

William Doppmann, associate professor of music, will be featured on the piano at 8 tonight in the University Symphony Orchestra's second concert of the season in the Union Main Lounge.

WILLIAM DOPPMANN
Symphony Soloist

All tickets for the concert have been distributed, but the program will be broadcast live by WSUI-AM and KSUI-FM.

DOPPMANN, described as a "pianistic giant" by the Washington Post, will perform in Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 24 in C minor, K. 491.

Written between December 1785 and March 1786, the work calls for the largest orchestra used for a Mozart concerto.

Contrary to the popular conception of Mozart's music as always cheerful, smooth and courtly, there is in this concerto a sense of enormous power in reserve that is associated with Beethoven.

MOZART PLAYED the piano part in the first performance at his own subscription concert April 7, 1786.

In commenting on the concerto as a whole, John N. Burk, author of "Mozart and his Music" said, "This is Mozart's ultimate venture, his furthest exploration of the piano concerto, for the three that were to follow were to be a refinement of what he had already done."

The concert will open with the orchestra, under the direction of James Dixon, associate professor of music, presenting Beethoven's Fourth Symphony.

THE SYMPHONY was written in Beethoven's second period of writing, which followed his formal break with traditional forms of composition and the completion of the composer's only opera, "Fidelio."

The Fourth Symphony is often overlooked because of its placement between the composer's third and fifth symphonies. The work's position has been described by Robert Schumann, a German composer and music critic of the early 19th century, as that of a "Greek maiden standing between two Norse giants."

Hector Berlioz, a French composer and music critic of the mid-nineteenth century, described it as "generally lively, nimble, joyous, or of a heavenly sweetness."

THE FOURTH SYMPHONY seems to have provided Beethoven with an escape from the disappointment over the failure of his opera.

The symphonic elegy, "In Memoriam: Anton Webern" by Ernst Krenek, will follow the Beethoven symphony.

Krenek, now an American citizen living in southern California, came into contact with the musical avant-garde in Vienna during the late 1920s and early 1930s and met such composers as Anton Webern, Alban Berg, and Arnold Schoenberg.

A DISTINCTIVE and characteristic feature of avant-garde composition is its use of the 12-tone scale, in which every note of the chromatic scale is given more or less equal rights in relation to the other notes. There is no "tonic" or other prominent note allowed in this system.

Webern describes as inevitable the discovery of this technique, whereby no note of a 12-note row may be used twice before the others have been heard.

Senate Asks Changed Plan For Tickets

By SHARON ROSEBERRY
Staff Writer

The new distribution plan for student basketball tickets was attacked by the Student Senate at its meeting Tuesday night.

The Senate passed a resolution requesting that the Board in Control of Athletics change the ticket plan so that every student would have a chance to attend basketball games. Steve Teichner, A3, Winchester, Mass., submitted the resolution.

The new distribution plan provides that students pick up their tickets with their identification cards on a first-come, first-serve basis several days before the game.

TEICHNER, who called the plan an exploitation of the student, pointed out in his resolution that the student paid $10 a year through his student fee for athletic tickets. Because there are only 6,000 student basketball tickets available for about 16,000 students enrolled this year, some students will not receive the basketball tickets to which their student fees entitles them, Teichner explained.

Teichner suggested refunding the $10 athletic activities tickets portion of the student fee to the individual student, and then requiring students who wish to attend games to buy their own tickets.

If this suggestion is not followed, then some other plan which will allow all students a seat at basketball games should be adopted, Teichner said. This might mean buying back tickets from the general public to make seats available to the students.

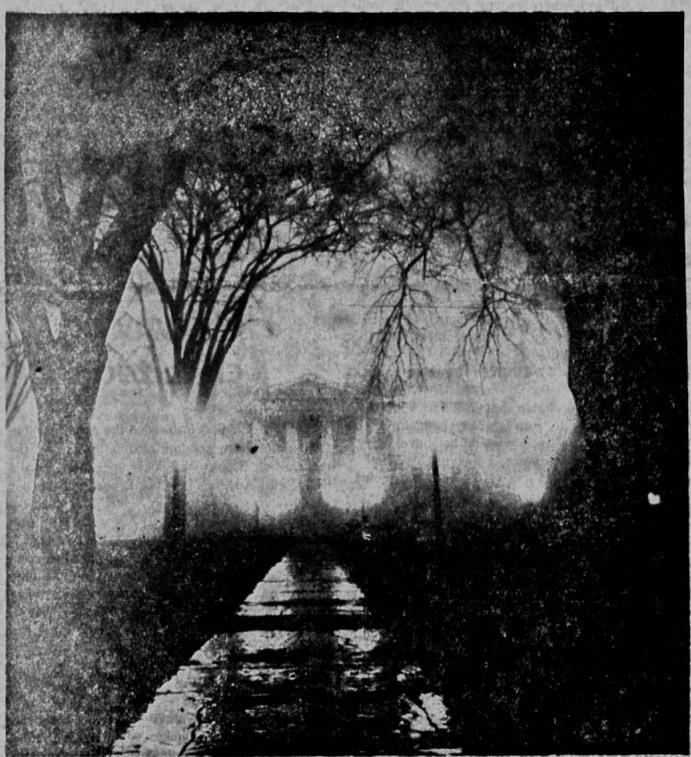

The resolution for lengthening final week by eliminating Mercy Day, which was proposed at the last Senate meeting, was withdrawn by Teichner.

IN OTHER business, the Senate voted to support a Thanksgiving "Fast for Freedom," which will be held Thursday by the University Friends of Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee, (SNCC). Proceeds from the fast will be sent to Holly Springs, Miss., to help finance civil rights work there.

Another resolution dealing with civil rights was proposed to the Senate, this one calling for a Student Senate donation of $600 to Mississippi Support Project (MSP). The resolution will be voted on in two weeks at the next Senate meeting.

MSP is a program of cooperation involving the University, Johnson County, Marshall County, Miss., and Rust College, a Negro college in Marshall County. The project aims at promoting understanding between the communities and to provide material support to the southern community.

THE SENATE also passed a resolution calling for the College of Liberal Arts to re-examine the foreign language requirements. The resolution asked each language department to re-evaluate its teaching policies.

Iowa City, Coralville Delay Action On Annexation Plan

Action on the annexation proposal between Iowa City and Coralville was postponed unanimously by the Iowa City council Tuesday night until after the newly-elected councilmen, Loren L. Hickerson and Robert H. Lind Sr., take office in January.

The council's decision substantiated the "gentlemen's agreement" for an annexation moratorium that the councils of Iowa City and Coralville reached at an informal meeting Monday night.

At the council meeting 12 letters were read concerning the annexation.

Seven were in favor, three were against and two were neutral. Several commercial interests went on record favoring the annexation east of Iowa City while other private property owners were opposed.

THE AREA considered for annexation is 6.5 square miles, part northwest and west of Coralville and part northeast of Iowa City. The first area, including the Johnson County home and Oakdale, is being disputed by Coralville, which wants to annex some of the same land.

Donald L. Diehl, an attorney representing Coralville, said that Coralville could extend services to the area north of Iowa City could. Diehl said Coralville hoped to have residents work out their own problems and both communities could have residents who really wanted to be there.

In other business, the council completed legal action for a special election Dec. 7 on the issuing of $200,000 in bonds for a new swimming pool and $450,000 in bonds for parks in northeast and southern Iowa City.

The council authorized the city attorney, Jay Hanohan, and the city manager, Carsten D. Leikow, to work on a plan by which municipal services would be extended to University Heights at approximately the same cost as Iowa City citizens receive them.

IN OTHER business, the council passed an ordinance directing the issuing of $900,000 in sewer revenue bonds, extended water and sewage services to the west side high school, and authorized the filing of an application for a grant to acquire open-space land.

After the reading of a petition regarding alleged undermanning of the police force, the council directed the city manager to investigate the size and disposition of the Iowa City Police Department.

Assistant Coaches Are Also Affected

By RON FROELICH
Staff Writer

Jerry Burns was dismissed as head football coach by the Board in Control of Athletics Tuesday.

The decision was announced in a statement issued Tuesday night by Hugh E. Kelso, professor of political science and chairman of the board.

According to Kelso's statement, it was the board's decision "to declare the position of head football coach at the University of Iowa open at the end of the 1965 season."

IN ACCORDANCE with the agreement between Burns and the board, the board has offered him other duties in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics for at least one year, Kelso said.

The action was taken at the conclusion of the regular Big 10 season to proceed without delay in the search for and selection of a new head football coach, Kelso said.

The board's decision on Burns also affected his assistant coaching staff.

"The board has decided," Kelso said, "that the football coaching staff should be continued on salary for a reasonable time beyond Dec. 31, 1965, the termination date of the current employment with them, to provide an opportunity for them to secure other positions."

BURNS' ASSISTANT coaching staff includes: Whitey Piro, Pin Ryan, Ray Jauch, Archie Kodros and Wayne Robinson.

Last year, the board declined to give Burns a contract of any specific length.

Burns, Evashevski, the board members and the assistant coaches could not be reached for comment Tuesday night. They were all reported to be in a meeting. The location or purpose of the meeting was not known.

Karl Noonan, football captain, said Tuesday night: "I'm sorry to hear it from a personal standpoint. Nobody on the team seemed to know this would happen."

This was Burns' fifth year as head coach. He was backfield coach under Forest Evashevski until Evashevski was made Athletic Director. Evashevski had picked Burns to follow him as the head coach.

IOWA HAD an 8-22 Big Ten record under Burns. His best showing in the Big Ten was a tie for fifth place in 1962 when Iowa had a 3-3-0 record.

Over-all, Iowa's record since Burns took over is 16-27-2, including the only victory so far this season, 27-7 over Oregon State on Sept. 25.

This year's record is the worst since 1952 when Evashevski began as head coach. That year the football team won 1 and lost 7.

AS HEAD COACH, Evashevski's football teams won 52 games, lost 7 and tied 4 for a .651 winning percentage. His 1956 and 1958 teams won the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl games and his 1960 team shared the conference title with Minnesota.

Burns graduated from the University of Michigan in 1951 and came to Iowa in 1954 as co-coach of the freshman squad. He was made assistant varsity backfield coach in 1955 and backfield coach in 1959.

Burns previously held coaching positions at the University of Hawaii, Honolulu, Whittier College, Whittier, Calif., and St. Mary's high school, Detroit.

He was born in Detroit on Jan. 27, 1927.

It was reported yesterday that Iowa might be interested in hiring Ray Graves, head coach at the University of Florida, Gainesville, as Iowa's head football coach.

Evashevski made a trip to Daytona Beach last week to give a speech. Graves was reported to have said he had not discussed being Iowa head coach with Evashevski.

"All I've heard are rumors," Graves said.

Although he said he would be interested in the position, he said, "Iowa would have to express an interest in me first."

Florida has a 6-2 record this season and is expected to meet Missouri in the Sugar Bowl game. Graves, who took the Florida job in 1960, is also the school's athletic director.

Elizabeth Gives Powers To Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II signed seven orders Tuesday giving Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government wide powers to restore Britain's authority over the breakaway colony of Rhodesia.

Wilson told the House of Commons again he opposes the use of military force to impose a settlement on Rhodesia. But he said Britain may in certain circumstances intervene militarily if law and order break down among Rhodesia's 225,000 whites and 3.8 million Africans.

Basketball blues

THE UNIVERSITY IS BESET with growing pains, and sports fans will experience one of the growniest of them when basketball season begins.

This year, for the first time, the fans will have to pick up cage tickets before they ever go to the Field House. Shades of football! In the past, students have always been able to meander over to the Field House anytime on a basketball evening and watch the game by merely showing their identification cards. No more will things be so simple.

Students must now plan ahead, take their IDs to the Athletic Office or the Union a few days before a game, and get tickets in advance. Why all the bother? Is this just a plot to confuse students so they won't attend basketball games? It doesn't appear so.

Francis (Buzz) Graham, athletic business manager, tells us that he thinks as many students as are interested in basketball will be able to get seats for all but a few of this season's games.

Graham says that 6,000 seats will be reserved for students. If the students don't pick up all 6,000 tickets, some may be sold to the public. The reason for this year's new policy is to avoid confusion at a few of Iowa's scheduled games.

Graham says it is possible that at two or three of Iowa's home games there will be more people interested in going than there will be seats. Things could get pretty sticky if 2,000 or 3,000 fans had to be turned away from one of the biggest games of the year.

Graham says that last year 6,000 seats were reserved for students. Some of these were sold to the public right before the games, and "no one was turned away."

The board of athletic control is responsible for the change in ticket policy this year. Graham says the board acted under the assumption that very few students will be deprived of seeing Iowa basketball with this policy.

The people who set policy on how the basketball games are to be operated, then, do not appear to be putting the interests of the students beneath the interests of "paying customers."

We hope that the assumptions about student attendance at basketball games are justified. If they are correct, the new policy will mean more red tape for students, but it appears to have become a necessary evil.

If, on the other hand, students are turned away in large numbers from the ticket windows because 6,000 seats are just not enough for a student body of 16,000, the policy should be changed.

The primary consideration at basketball games (as at any other ball game) should be the student. Students should not be turned away from ball games so that others may buy tickets. Students have already bought their tickets through student activity fees.

Students can do little more now than watch and wait. When the basketball games begin, we will see how well the new ticket policy works. If it works to exclude many students from many games, it will be time to speak — loudly.

Conservative calls for new Asia pact

By JULIAN GARRETT
For Young Americans for Freedom

In view of the current situation in southeast Asia, it would seem that the free world's system of defense in that area could stand a re-organization. The Southeast Asian Treaty Organization (SEATO) has been rendered practically useless by changes in policy by some of its members. It is time we looked for a replacement.

In spite of the talk one sometimes hears, the United States does have some allies in the area of Southeast Asia. It would seem to be high time that a more appropriate use was made of the potential strengths of these allies. The first step in this direction would seem to be the formation of a comprehensive defense pact of non-Communist nations in the Southeast Asian area.

This pact would include along with the United States, several nations of the old SEATO group such as the Philippines, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, and Great Britain since she still has some interest in the area. Such nations as South Viet Nam, Malaysia, South Korea, and the Formosan-based Nationalist Chinese, which have had or now face a serious Communist threat, should be willing to take part in the defense pact suggested above.

THE PURPOSE of this pact would be basically to protect the member states from the threat of Communism both in the form of overt military invasion and guerrilla warfare. Since the nations mentioned above have a combined population of roughly 100 million, they should be able to furnish enough manpower to significantly reduce the need for United States ground forces in this area.

There might also be certain psychological advantages in having Asian troops to fight in Asia when it becomes necessary.

Of immediate concern to this group of nations should be the formation of a highly trained anti-guerrilla force to be used against Communist led 'wars of national liberation' which may spring up in the underdeveloped nations of this area. Of course any such force would only be used on the invitation of the Government of the threatened nation.

If this pact were to come into being in the not too distant future, as it should, there would seem to be no reason why its resources could not be made use of in Viet Nam.

Many of the suggested members are in fact already helping in one way or another in the fight against the Viet Cong.

The nations mentioned here as possible participants in the new Asian defense pact are not intended to constitute an exclusive list. They are, however, thought to be the most likely participants.

Other non-Communist nations would, of course, be welcome. In fact United States diplomacy should be aimed at encouraging other nations to take an active part.

ONE SUCH nation is Japan. She should certainly be included in any long range plan for the defense of non-Communist Asia. It would seem obvious that Japan cannot go on year after year depending on others for her defense. The necessary steps should be taken to allow Japan to rearm herself. Rearmed, Japan would provide a much needed balance against the power of the Red Chinese.

If the Red Chinese keep putting pressure on India's northern border the day might well come when she would be willing to take part in a mutual defense pact.

In case of a serious outside conflict with the Red Chinese, India would obviously need outside help, especially weapons and supplies. It would also seem to be in India's self interest to prevent Communist takeovers in other smaller nations of Asia.

In view of the neutralist position that India has always taken the suggestion that she might participate in an anti-Communist pact will seem somewhat unrealistic, as it undoubtedly is right now. This fact should not, however, prevent us from considering future possibilities.

In conclusion it is suggested that the adoption of the proposals set out here would improve the ability of the non-Communist nations of Asia to resist Communist imperialism, in whatever form it takes.

Reader: 'Lindsay offers nothing new'

To the Editor:

Reflections upon the election of John Lindsay as Mayor of New York City. Apparently, in the diffuse talk of the more liberal circles of our society, especially among the diaper-waving crowd of peace-warriors, there seems to be the attitude that with the election of John Lindsay as mayor of New York City, he has once again descended somewhere among our cryptic wallings.

Those leaders and workers struggling to cope, in as realistic, practical and democratic a manner as possible, with those complexities and absurdities that both threaten and sustain republicanism, suddenly feel the sweat of their brows shaken by another babble of Glorias and Hosannas from the choirboys up in the balcony: "All by himself, John Lindsay has thrashed, or eked out a victory over the black forces of our civilization." He has been elected mayor of N.Y.C. "Praise be to him. (And ourselves.)"

This holy choir banks their faith upon two declared miracles:

- 1.) Lindsay survived and defeated a corrupt regime.
- 2.) His election reflects the people's sudden revelation of a need for change, of a need to clean up N.Y.C., its government, and the New York Yankees.

THERE ARE, HOWEVER, a few more aspects to Lindsay's ascension:

- It is most probable that if Wagner had not chosen not to run for Mayor again, then the big sexy Lindsay would not have risked sharpening his lance, polishing his shield, painting his armor white, and letting his charger out of the barn.
- As a coronary (sic) to this argument, it is apparent that the vote reflected no sudden awakening of the people to the corruption about them — a pretty badly naive assumption for our holy choir to make about mankind — and no sudden desire to change.

Since Wagner decided not to run, the people simply tried to choose the better of the two candidates. By the narrow margin of Lindsay's victory, they saw little distinction between the two men. They certainly saw the illusion of an attempt to change, an illusion our holy choir never seems to perceive above the noise of their psalms.

THEY GAVE Sex-lindsay a totally Democratic government to prop up. It will be interesting to see if, while the system tries to maintain a line of order against corruption, Lindsay can charge around the structure and find some whole in which to plug his finger. It will be amusing to see whether he can achieve anything as an alien leader of a foreign power (I know that this isn't the way it is supposed to be in a Republic, but remember Richard Denner) or whether he can manage to share in the credit for anything new that might be achieved.

Wagner's men tried to fight corruption and keep the city clean, just as any city government in our country does, and just as Lindsay would like to. Unfortunately in our large, and now in our small, cities, you must first contain corruption in order to control it. Then you might be able to apply some cure. Lindsay offered no more than what already existed and represents no more than what went before him — except that he has fewer wrinkles. He will need more wrinkles before he is done.

Meanwhile, the choirboys continue to practice up in the balcony. Yet, none of them knows how to play the organ. They just fiddle with the stops.

Long praised

To the Editor:

It probably is a little preposterous to sing about any one man on a great defensive team such as we have this fall. However, to me, Dave Long was an all-American defensive end, if we ever had one. Seldom do they turn his end, he tackles in the middle of the line and on the other end of the line, and is in there fighting all the time, and he has the ability to do it. If it is possible, would surely like to see some group get back of him and boost him for what he really is: one of the great defensive ends in the country.

Flag waving criticized

To the Editor:

Thursday evening I attended the American Legion's Viet Nam support march. Following the march, Col. Brooks W. Booker spoke on "What's Right with America." I had hoped that Booker would support — explain, clarify, defend — Johnson's Viet Nam policy. I was to be disappointed, however, because Booker's purpose, it turned out, wasn't to educate and give concrete arguments supporting American policy, but only "to wave the flag," as he proudly announced at the beginning of the speech.

If people are ever to understand the issues involved in Viet Nam, educational programs such as lectures and debates would be most helpful. Understanding is the prerequisite of solid support.

The audience was composed of college students and adults. I think Booker could have credited his audience with the knowledge that freedom, equality, justice, democracy and America's high standard of living, are "good" and that totalitarianism is "bad" only. Instead, he chose to ramble on about these classical virtues.

If Booker would have tried to teach, to argue, to defend some specific points of America's policy, his speech would have been of more value. Flag waving was the only result of the speech. No learning took place and I doubt if any opinions on either side were swayed in the least.

Personal touch

To the Editor:

The other day I found an air mail letter in my mail box. It was postmarked Austin, Texas, and the plain white envelope it came in had three little words in its upper left corner. They were "The White House" and the letter read as follows:

"Dear Mr. Heymann: I am replying to your letter to the President of Oct. 21.

"On the alleged policy of 'managed news,' I can assure you there is none. My office has been, and will continue to be, an outspoken advocate of freedom of the press.

"There is no policy of controlling or in any way influencing the mass communications media except where national security matters preclude the dissemination of certain information.

"Thank you again for your letter. Sincerely, Bill Moyers, Special Assistant to the President."

How sweet and reassuring those words were! Reading them over and over dispelled my doubts completely. And that Mr. Moyers, who must indeed be a very busy Special Assistant, should have troubled himself to personally write me was truly gratifying.

But later I showed my friends and they, on examining it, assured me that in spite of how genuinely personal it appears, it was without doubt written by a secretary using a special machine.

Students hit dorm health service

To the Editor:

We just couldn't keep the extreme confidence we feel in the University health service to ourselves. (Recently) its true competence was shown in rare form. A girl on our floor was talking on the phone when for some unknown reason she doubled over in excruciating pain.

We immediately called the one nurse on call for the three dorms which house more than 2,000 girls. The nurse happened to live in Currier and our home is in Burge. Because this was the case, the girl had to walk over to Currier.

It gives us a true feeling of security to think that if we were at death's door, we would probably be asked to open it and crawl over to Student Health.

In all seriousness, we feel that the present system of emergency health service should be changed. There should not be only one nurse on call for all the girls in the dorms, but at least one nurse on call in each — preferably two. We leave you with this question — if two girls were in immediate need of a nurse, which girl, under the present system, would go unaided?

(According to Mrs. Carol Rickey, assistant counselor in the Office of Student Affairs, Iowa is the only university in the Big 10 that employs nurses on the dormitory staff or has any medical aid available within the dorms. The nurses are hired and paid through the Residence Halls Office and work under the direction of the Residence Halls Office and Student Health. They are all full-time students as well as registered nurses. In emergency situations, Mrs. Rickey said, the nurses would immediately come to the ill student rather than requiring that the girl be brought to her. Mrs. Rickey added that the services of Student Health are always available to students, and a doctor is on call there at all times.—Ed.)

Vive le rock 'n roll

To the Editor:

In reply to the letter by Mr. Leroy Searle (Nov. 12): I, unlike many other students on this campus, try to appreciate all kinds of music. I like to expose myself to all kinds, classical, jazz, folk and rock and roll. It is my belief that a good radio station should offer a variety of music to fit a variety of tastes.

A varied program is culturally enriching. The person who exposes himself to nothing more than classical music is as purile as the person who gorges himself with rock and roll. Since there are no AM stations which reach Hillcrest which play Rock and Roll, I think it would be a good idea for WSUI to fulfill its purpose as a University radio station by giving a well-rounded bill of fare.

In addition, every dance and every party, even those sponsored by the CFC, have rock and roll bands. It would seem to me that Mr. Searle means to imply that anyone who ever attended one of these functions has adolescent tastes. If so, there seem to be a lot of adolescents running around Iowa City complaining about the lack of good radio stations.

Lights out, or how to learn to love the dark

By ART BUCHWALD

"Chief, I got this great idea for a science fiction movie."

"Okay, shoot."

"It takes place in New York City, you know. It's about 5:30 at night and suddenly all the lights go out. The whole blinkin' place is dark."

"Now, wait a minute, let's not go too far. That's not the half of it, chief. The lights only go out in New York City, they go on in Boston, Vermont, Maine, New Hampshire, parts of Canada. The whole Northeast is black."

"Charlie, you've certainly got a wild imagination, but go ahead."

They discover that there is a break in the electricity somewhere up near Niagra Falls, but they can't find it. People are stuck in elevators, on subways, they can't get home, there is no heat in the houses, their television won't work. The only contact they have with the outside world is by battery-operated radios. Can you imagine it? Thirty million people without electricity."

"Now, wait a minute, Charlie. There's something wrong with this. The public isn't going to buy it, science fiction or no science fiction, could one power-break up near Niagra knock out the entire Northeast section of the United States? Nobody would believe it."

"Sure, they will. They'll buy anything, beauty of it is that the electric companies find the break. That's what makes the suspense."

"Charlie, you know and I know that in the century in the United States of America's greatest technological country in the world, a single Russian with an axe could cut off electricity in one town, much less a part of the United States. Heavens, man, they alternate circuits in case one goes out. It didn't, a single Russian with an axe could cut the whole country."

"I know, chief, but let's just say it was a thriller to beat all thrillers."

"I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll call the electric company and ask them if your premise is possible. If they say okay, we'll go ahead on the project."

"Miss Darling, I want to speak to the electric company... Hello, I want to ask a question. It is at all possible, if one circuit goes that electricity could be cut off from a half major cities on the East Coast?... He's kidding, Charlie. He thinks it's some sort of a No., I'm serious, sir. You never heard of anything so ridiculous?... You have plans to die such an emergency?... This is the States, not the Soviet Union?... Well, you very much, I didn't think it was possible. I just wanted to make sure... There you Charlie, we'd look like fools if we ever such a premise."

"Chief, call the Defense Department. Ask if it could happen."

"Okay, Charlie... Hello, General, I'd ask a question. Could one break in an electrical circuit black out the Northeast part of the States and parts of Canada?... What? You think we're trying to make another Strangelove?"

"The Defense Department is getting tired of all these crazy scare movies that no basis in fact?... Well, thanks, Gene. You see, Charlie, if we made such a we'd be the laughing stock of the country, going to have to come up with something believable. The public isn't that gullible."

"Maybe you're right, chief. When I was a kid, I knew it was pretty far-fetched even for fiction. I guess I'd better stick to most least people believe in them."

Admires moral courage

To the Editor:

The letter of Mr. William Tucker in Saturday Iowan was one of the most pieces of sick humor I have ever written. There are many of us who are not in with the principles of actions of various groups, but we must at least admire the courage of a man who can burn himself to underscore his deep convictions.

I suggest that in the future Mr. Tucker find his "inspiration" to constructive thought to how the senseless waste of human South Viet Nam can be terminated.

SCIENTISTS SWEEP STARDUST
WASHINGTON (AP)—Space scientists reported Tuesday that they had apparently succeeded in sweeping up bits of meteorites from the skies with a rocket.

The Aerobee booster was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Tuesday in New Mexico to penetrate the band of meteorites now making their periodical appearance near Earth.

The collected particles will be submitted to scientists for analysis.

TABBED FOR SUCCESS IN A VAN HEUSEN SNAP-TAB

VAN HEUSEN
Big things begin for the man who shows his know-how. He chooses shirts with the authentic styling of the Van Heusen Snap-Tab, for instance. There's no mistaking the crisp, neat cut of the collar, the smooth, business-like fit of "V-Taper" tailoring. It's the look most likely to succeed in executive circles. And with pretty girls.

Think Now, Act Later, Prof Urges

Now is the time for thinking about the process of human evolution, but not the time for doing anything about it, according to George E. Brosseau, associate professor of zoology.

In a speech Tuesday noon to Omicron Delta Epsilon, an honorary economics fraternity, Brosseau said that man should ask questions about the evolution of the human race. However, he said, man is not well-enough equipped to control the direction of evolution.

Brosseau said that as the world's population grew, there was more random breeding, thus slowing evolution. He took what he called a "positive" approach to the subject, saying that if man is to have any control over future generations, he must employ "differential control."

Man does not now have enough knowledge of human heredity and environment to employ the limited knowledge, he emphasized. He said that this generation should amass as much knowledge as possible to pass on to future generations for their implementation.

Brosseau said he thought planning of the human race could one day become the accepted thing when enough is learned to make the idea feasible.

ALUM AWARDED
A former University student, Brig. Gen. Everett McDonald, has been awarded the first Oak Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit Award. McDonald is now stationed with 822nd Air Division in Albany, Ga. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McDonald, 443 First Ave.

Firemen Aided

Tuesday was such a cold, blustery day in Iowa City that someone accommodated city firemen by bringing a fire to them.

When a cigaret started a fire in the back seat of a car belonging to John Diephuis, Bonaparte, about 10 a.m., Diephuis drove the vehicle to the fire station. The blaze was extinguished with only slight damage to the back seat cover.

Texas Prof Visits Iowa

Dr. M. T. Jenkins, professor of anesthesia at the University of Texas Southwest Branch, will be a visiting professor at Iowa's College of Medicine today through Saturday.

While at Iowa, Dr. Jenkins, who is also chief of anesthesia at Parkland Memorial Hospital, Dallas, Tex., will speak to the Iowa Society of Anesthesiologists and present formal lectures and clinical teaching exercises in the Department of Anesthesia. The Texas physician's visit is sponsored by the Iowa Society of Anesthesiologists.

VAN HEUSEN "417"

You know Van Heusen's Agent 417. He's the man who has that secret way with women. It's his "V-Taper" shirt with the snap-tab collar that does it. Shows up his rugged, rangy physique, and lets a woman know this man's keeping pace with the action. Try "417" in shirts, sweaters, sport shirts — and discover the secret yourself.

California To Be Topic Of Lecture

The Iowa Mountaineers will present a color film-lecture entitled "Incredible California" at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Macbride Auditorium. Donald Shaw, film producer and writer, will narrate.

Admission at the door will be 90 cents for adults and 50 cents for children under 14. Season tickets, called passports, are $5 for any 7 of the remaining 14 programs in the 1965-66 Mountaineers Film-Lecture series, and $9.50 for 14 admissions. Children's passports are $2.50 for any seven programs.

Shaw pictures the deserts, mountains, ocean, cities and people of California in his film. Scenes of the desert show Palm Springs — the city of 3,000 swimming pools, pink poodles and French restaurants featuring German food — and the Imperial Valley with its canals, cotton and date groves. Giant redwood trees and views in the Sierras are featured in sections of the film presenting California mountains.

A cable car ride in San Francisco and a stop at the Farmer's Market in Los Angeles are highlights of the film's coverage of California cities.

More than 25 campus groups will have their pictures taken at Hawkeye Photo Make-Up Night tonight in the Union ballroom.

Indigent Mothers Throughout State Use Iowa Hospitals

By K. S. ROYCE
Staff Writer

Expectant mothers in Iowa who are indigent can use the facilities of the University Hospitals even though they may live in the far corners of the state. Those who must travel many miles to enter the Hospitals usually arrive several days before delivery.

An expectant mother who uses a hospital near her home for delivery does not normally arrive until the first labor pains, usually within 24 hours of delivery.

But because the long distances involved in bringing some expectant mothers to the hospitals, they cannot wait for the first pains and a local doctor must estimate the time of delivery.

CONSEQUENTLY there have been cases when an expectant mother came to the hospitals up to six weeks early, Miss Thea Sando, director of social service at the General Hospital, said recently.

"When hospital tests show that she arrived too early, she is sent home until she is closer to delivery time," Miss Sando said. "Normally, however, she is placed in Westlawn (a building near the General Hospital) where she receives an 'education' to prepare her for childbirth," she said.

Westlawn deals specifically with obstetrics. Douglas Williamson, assistant superintendent of the General Hospital administration, said, "One of the reasons for sending an expectant indigent mother here is that the Hospital is also a teaching institution, and our medical students gain experience — of course, under close supervision."

The expenses involved in the care of indigent mothers are paid by the state.

PREGNANCIES, together with orthopedics (the correction of deformities) and cleft palate cases, are the three categories exempt from quota restrictions.

For all other medical problems, the number of indigent Iowans who can use the services of the University Hospitals is predetermined by county quotas based on population.

The availability of nearby hospitals or the adequacy of local facilities are not considered by the state when it makes up the quotas after the state census is taken.

Some counties do not reach the quota. Others, however, especially the highly rural areas with low population and no hospitals, have a greater need for the University Hospitals facilities.

"But a county, through its department of social welfare, can refer an indigent patient to a hospital in a nearby county," Miss Sando said.

In that case, the cost is paid by the county and private funds. Each county sets its definition of indigence.

AN INDIGENT PATIENT is admitted to the General Hospitals only at the recommendation of a community doctor through the county welfare department. The case must then be authorized by a juvenile court judge.

If a county has reached its quota and feels that a patient must nevertheless be admitted to the Hospital, it can refer the patient by paying the costs.

Miss Helen Porteus, assistant to the director of social service, said, "Of the 300 or so unwed mothers admitted here, most are indigent cases."

Portuguese Proves Popular

By SHARON ROSEBERRY
Staff Writer

Enrollment in the University's new Portuguese classes is double what was expected, Mary L. Daniel, assistant professor of Romance languages said recently.

Miss Daniel, one of three persons in the United States who has a Ph.D. in Portuguese, teaches the two courses in Portuguese that were added to the Department of Romance Languages this semester.

The two sections of the elementary Portuguese course have a combined enrollment of 55, and the Brazilian civilization course has an enrollment of 10.

SINCE THE Portuguese courses are new here, they are still developing, Miss Daniel said. An advanced Portuguese course will be offered next year and, possibly, in two years a Portuguese literature course will be added, she said.

Portuguese, which is new not only to the University, but to education throughout the United States, was rarely taught 10 years ago, Miss Daniel said.

The National Defense Education Act, which was passed six years ago, helped finance and promote the teaching of languages, including Portuguese, in universities, she said.

MISS DANIEL said a wide range of students were enrolled in her classes, including freshmen with no background in foreign languages and graduate students working for M.A. degrees in Spanish.

Portuguese, which is similar to Spanish, is not a difficult language, according to Miss Daniel.

"The main difference between Portuguese and Spanish is in pronunciation," she explained. The student's reaction to the new department has been good, she said, "They seem to be going 'rung-ho' for it. It's a badge of distinction to be first."

PERHAPS one reason the course is such a success is due to Miss Daniel, who was described by one of her students as "a very personable teacher."

According to the student, "Miss Daniel teaches on a one-to-one basis. It's more like a discussion than a lecture."

Miss Daniel has taught at most educational levels — from 6-year-olds to the middle-aged. She taught elementary school Spanish in Key West, Fla., which has a large Cuban population. Her classes were voluntary for children in the second through sixth grades, she said.

Her pupils were American children "who wanted to learn to speak Spanish so they could talk to their neighbors," Miss Daniel explained.

MISS DANIEL also taught a year of high school Spanish and adult evening Spanish classes in Key West.

Later she taught at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Daniel could not decide which age group she enjoyed teaching most.

"It's all tremendously rewarding," she said.

"If you had asked me when I was in kindergarten what I was going to do, I would have said I was going to teach Spanish," she said.

So, she said, she went to the University of Wisconsin, in Madison, her home town, and studied Spanish.

SHE BECAME acquainted with Portuguese at this time. She took it as a second language, she said.

Miss Daniel was awarded an NDEA fellowship for four years of study in Portuguese at the University of Wisconsin. After completing her study last spring, she taught summer school at Madison and then came to Iowa City.

"I like the town," she said. "It has a certain quiet charm of its own. It seems to be so typical of what we mean when we say America."

FAMED CHAPLIN DIES—

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Lt. Col. Edmund J. Fleming, the last surviving chaplain of Merrill's Marauders, is dead at the age of 82.

Fleming, chaplain of the World War II guerrilla unit in Burma, was chief chaplain at Niagara Falls Air Base.

He was found dead Monday in his quarters. A coroner said he died of a heart attack.

Cancer Test For Women Neglected, Says Physician

Because they didn't take a simple medical test, more than 200 Iowa women and 10,000 others in the United States will die this year, says a University of Iowa physician.

The test is the "Pap" smear, a painless procedure that can be done by any physician. The cause of deaths is cancer of the cervix.

Dr. Robert M. Kretzschmar, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology, says that while the death rate from this form of cancer has been cut in half in the past 20 years, the disease could be almost eliminated if women would have a Pap test yearly.

HE SPOKE to more than 100 nurses who recently attended a nursing institute on prenatal and perinatal care here.

"Cancer of the cervix continues to take its tragic toll despite massive education programs undertaken by the American Cancer Society, the American Federation of Womens Clubs, and medical and other health organizations," Dr. Kretzschmar said.

"Nationally, only 15 per cent of the women had taken a Pap test during the preceding year. Only 12 per cent of Iowa women had done so. The percentage ranged from a low of 6 per cent for women in Alaska to a high of more than 30 per cent in the District of Columbia," Dr. Kretzschmar said.

Cancer of the cervix often exists in an incipient, symptomless form for many years before the disease develops. If it is discovered in this early, non-invasive stage it is almost invariably curable, said Dr. Kretzschmar.

It also is during this stage, when no symptoms of disease are evident, that a diagnosis can often be suggested by the Pap test, named after Dr. George N. Papanicolaou, who developed it in 1943.

Cyclones Prepare For Tilt

AMES (AP) — Iowa State's football team held its next-to-last heavy practice session Tuesday as preparations continued for the Cyclones' final game, at New Mexico Saturday.

The Cyclones worked out for about 90 minutes in chilly, windy weather, covering everything they will use against the Lobos. "We are very concerned about New Mexico's offense," said

Coach Clay Stapleton.

"We feel the Lobos' offense is better than their defense. Their quarterback, Dan Quintana, was Western Athletic Conference athlete of the year last year, and will be the best quarterback we will face all year.

"Their running backs, who in this case include their quarterback as well, have the best speed we've faced this season."

Freshman-Varsity Game Opens Basketball Season

by STEU BETTERTON
Staff Writer

Amidst a great deal of hope, basketball will open at the University Friday night. The occasion is the annual Freshman-Varsity game.

The contest is set for 7:30, and the crowd is expected to surpass the 6,000 fans who witnessed last year's game. The crowd will be on hand to see Ralph Miller basketball, a brand that Iowa fans endorsed heartily after last season.

In his first season at Iowa, Miller surprised the Big 10 and won the admiration of local fans. His Hawkeyes came through with a 14-10 record, a victory over national champion UCLA, and a surprise fifth place finish in the conference.

Friday night, eight of the first nine men off last year's squad will be on hand, and this strong band of veterans is expected to take up where they left off last year.

THE PROBABLE starters for the varsity will be George Peoples, 6-8, center; Gerry Jones, 6-4, and Gary Olson, 6-5, forwards; Chris Pervall, 6-2, and Denny Pauling, 6-3, guards.

Pervall led the Hawkeyes in scoring last year with a 21 point average. Peoples and Jones were also in double figures, with 17 and 13 points per game respectively.

Both Miller and freshman coach Lanny Van Eman say that this is a serious game, and both teams will be going all out to impress local fans. Van Eman is sure that this game is very important to his freshmen, and says it will be something they will remember throughout their college careers.

Decidedly the underdog, the frosh will concentrate on minimizing their mistakes and taking nothing but high percentage shots. Van Eman admits that his squad will play more conservatively than he would like.

One very slight advantage the frosh will have is the tallest man on the floor. Freshman center Vic Rogers is 6-8, barely beating out the varsity's Peoples.

ROGERS HAILS from Antioch, Ill., and Van Eman credits him with good shooting ability, and strength as a rebounder.

The rest of the freshman starters will be Ron Norman, 6-3, Freeport, Ill., and Fred Crum, 6-4, Pittsburg, Pa., forwards; Chris Phillips, 6-3, Sac City, and Rollie Kitt, 6-2, Carroll, guards.

It was announced Tuesday morning that an admission charge of $1 will be made for all non-students. Students will be admitted free with their ID cards. After Friday night's contest Miller will have another week to get the varsity ready for the regular season. The home season will open Dec. 2 against Pepperdine College of Los Angeles.

AFL Reported To Have Held Secret Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League, bitterly criticized by college authorities for scheduling its annual player draft on Nov. 20, reversed its draft Tuesday and set back the draft until Nov. 27.

That is the same date the rival National Football League has announced it will hold its draft.

The decision was made by Commissioner Joe Foss in Kansas City and announced by the league's spokesman in New York following reports Tuesday that the AFL had held a preliminary draft of six rounds on either Nov. 20 or Nov. 9.

This was promptly denied by AFL officials.

John Niland, offensive right guard for Iowa, was one of eight players reported to have been drafted by the AFL. Niland was supposedly drafted by the Denver Broncos.

The AFL announced last Wednesday its first decision to hold the draft on Nov. 20, a week before the college season virtually ends.

The pro leagues have no signed agreement with the National Collegiate Athletic Association on draft dates, but the NCAA has strongly urged that the pro leagues draft no earlier than Nov. 27. The NFL had agreed to hold off its draft until then.

The AFL in New York announced that Foss, in Kansas City, had talked on the telephone with James Corbett, who was in Baton Rouge, La., and had been assured by the college official that the National Collegiate Athletic Association would condemn any flagrant cases of "baby-sitting" that would deprive college draftees of their bargaining rights.

Corbett, athletic director of Louisiana State University, the chairman of the NCAA's public relations committee.

The AFL has accused the NFL of "baby-sitting" — or guarding — player prospects so that players could be signed before AFL officials could contact a talk to the player.

Intramural Action

Steindler house of Hillcrest and Beardsly house of Quadrangle won 1965 touch football championships in their respective leagues Tuesday night in two games that were dominated by cold weather.

Steindler, the Hillcrest pre-playoff favorite, lived up to its ranking by scoring a 7-0 victory over Calvin, while Beardsly, a team that knocked off Quadrangle pre-playoff favorite Beardsly in the quarterfinals, squeaked to a 2-0 win over Larrabee.

A brisk 35 mile an hour wind and temperatures that dipped into the 20's kept the scoring down in both games.

Steindler scored early in their game and employed a stout defense to keep Calvin in check the rest of the way.

Their only scoring came early in the first half, when quarterback Dave Dimke skirted his end for 11 yards and a touchdown. Jim Middleton then booted the extra point to give Steindler its final margin, 7-0.

After that, neither team was able to make a serious threat, mainly because the icy winds numbed the receivers fingers and consistently blew passes astray, making any kind of an aerial game nearly impossible.

Numb fingers also played an important part in helping Beardsly win the Quadrangle championship.

The only scoring in that game came midway through the first half when Larrabee quarterback Doug Keiper fumbled a center snap in the end zone for a safety.

The cold winds stymied both sides the rest of the way, although one Beardsly drive progressed as far as the Larrabee 1-yard line before being halted.

The weather also played an important role in the semifinal games that were played in the social fraternity league Tuesday night.

In that league, Phi Epsilon Pi and Phi Kappa Psi advanced into Thursday's championship game by outlasting their opponents and the weather.

Phi Epsilon Pi, last year's champion, advanced to the final game by defeating last year's runnerup, Sigma Nu, 13-0, while Phi Kappa Psi staved off a late Sigma Phi Epsilon assault to upset the pre-playoff favorites 6-0.

Phi Epsilon Pi struck early in the game for their victory, getting two quick scores in the first half.

Their first score came on a 40-yard pass play from Bob Prinz to Dick Strauss. Strauss then added the extra point to give Phi Epsilon Pi a 7-0 lead.

They then came back moments later to score their final touchdown on a fourth down pass from Prinz to Gary Abrams. The play covered 20 yards.

Dave Schapira came up with two important interceptions to thwart Sigma Nu's only serious threats.

Sigma Phi Epsilon proved to be a little too late in their game, as they found themselves standing on the Phi Kappa Psi's one yard line when time ran out.

After Phi Kappa Psi had scored a touchdown with one minute remaining in the game, Sigma Phi Epsilon took the ensuing kick off and drove to the Phi Kappa Psi 2-yard line.

With time running out quarterback Ron Reppe then got off two futile plays, with his last effort, a run, failing when he was forced out of bounds on the 1-yard line. The game ended before he was able to get off another play.

STEINDLER QUARTERBACK Dave Dimke lofts a pass in the Hillcrest championship touch football game Tuesday night before Calvin defenders can get to him. The pass went incomplete, but Steindler won the game 7-0 later on Dimke's 11 yard run.

Van Brocklin Won't Resign

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Stormy Norm Van Brocklin changed his mind Tuesday and returned as head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, saying humbly that he had made a mistake and was grateful for the opportunity to rectify it.

"There is no explanation," Van Brocklin said of his impetuous decision Monday to quit the Viking post.

"I just became depressed, but I later realized I didn't want to quit," he said.

The announcement that Van Brocklin was returning came earlier, through Vikings officials. Through Jim Finks, general manager of the National Football League club, Van Brocklin quipped:

"The next time I resign, I'll be within four of Buddy Parker's record." He referred to the several resignations of former Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Buddy Parker.

Finks and Viking President Max Winter both looked relieved and relaxed as they met the press shortly before noon to announce Van Brocklin's change of heart.

Winter had said Monday night that the Vikings were prepared to do anything within reason to retain Van Brocklin, even if it meant tearing up his current contract, which has 1 1/2 years to run and pays the 39-year-old coach about $40,000 a year.

But both Van Brocklin, in announcing his decision to quit in despair after Sunday's 41-21 loss to Baltimore, and the Viking management insisted money and contract were no issue at all.

Burlington Ordered To Forfeit Season

BURLINGTON (AP) — Burlington Community College's basketball team has been ordered to forfeit all 25 of its scheduled games during the 1964-65 season, it was learned Tuesday.

The Iowa Conference Athletic Committee, in issuing the order, said Burlington unwittingly used an ineligible player all last season.

The committee composed of deans of Iowa junior colleges, said Burlington had to forfeit all regular season games and three regional tournament victories. However, the National Junior College Athletic Association ignored the matter and let Burlington's three national tournament victories stand.

Burlington finished second last year in the national tournament.

Spartans Get Big 10 Nod

CHICAGO (AP) — The unbeaten No. 1 ranked Michigan State Spartans, winners of their first undisputed Big 10 football title, formally received Tuesday a unanimous vote of conference athletic directors for their third Rose Bowl trip.

The Spartans seek their 10th straight victory in closing out their regular schedule against No. 4 Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, Ind. Their Rose Bowl opponent Jan. 1 will be either Southern California or UCLA. That decision will be reached Saturday when those two teams have a showdown.

Michigan State's Rose Bowl choice marked the first time in history of the Big 10 contract for the game that the conference made an official selection before the end of the regular season.

John Huntley To Deliver 1st In 'Last Lecture' Series

John Huntley, associate professor of English, will present a lecture on "A Meeting of the Minds," at Union Board's first Last Lecture of the year at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Union Illinois Room.

Huntley received his B.A. in Liberal Arts from the University of Chicago in 1948, his B.A. in English from the University of Michigan in 1950, his M.A. from the University of Connecticut in 1952 and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago in 1961.

A Fulbright award winner in 1956, Huntley is one of the leaders of the Mississippi Support Project. He recently visited Mississippi to learn more about the situation there and to see what the support project can do. The Last Lectures are designed to give various speakers a chance to present to students their views on a certain subject, according to Pat Young, N3, Alton, Ill., chairman of the series. The name Last Lecture is used because the speaker is to give his lecture as if it were the last public talk he was going to give, Miss Young said. The actual topic is left to the lecturer.

Geography Students Learn By Watching 'Boob Tube'

By TOM FENSCH
Staff Writer

Instead of the old movie technique of "following the bouncing ball," students in Introduction to Geography, 44:1, "watch the flickering screen."

The geography students learn from lectures that are shown on video tapes in the Old Armory. There are 31 tapes that vary from 15 to 25 minutes each.

"The entire geography course was changed when we began to use closed circuit television," said Kennard W. Rumage, associate professor of geography, recently.

"More than 20 hours were spent developing each tape," he said. "Television uses a tremendous amount of material and visual aids. It is very demanding and, of course, some students complain about having to watch the boob tube to learn."

"The tapes are equivalent to regular 50-minute lectures and have an advantage because student assistants lead discussions of the material immediately after the tape is over."

Television was added to the geography course in September, 1963 and was used once a week.

Now 650 students are involved in lectures broadcast three hours every Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

A 125-page guidebook was published by the department to help students adjust and take notes during the lectures.

Because of television, specialists in geography may be available from the Big 10 schools to lecture at any school, said Rumage.

Park Expansion Needed, Speaker Tells Kiwanis

Iowa City's rapid growth has made passage of the $650,000 park bond issues Dec. 7 imperative, Richard W. Buxton, Park and Recreation Commission member, said Tuesday.

Addressing the Kiwanis Club, Buxton cited the population growth of 7,000 in the last five years as the reason for the park deficiency here.

"Authorities in this area agree that a community the size of Iowa City (40,000) should have 440 acres of parks," Buxton said. "The 153 acres provided by the bond issue will not bring our total to 440, but will be a major step in the right direction."

Present Iowa City parks amount to 183 acres.

The first bond issue, for $450,000, would provide for large parks in southeast and northeast Iowa City, smaller neighborhood parks in the south and southwest, improvements to City Park, a tennis center near City Park, and five new playgrounds in other areas.

The second bond issue, for $200,

000, would provide a new 50-meter swimming pool in southeast Iowa City. The pool would be more accessible to residents of that area and would relieve crowding of the present facility in City Park.

Buxton also reviewed the many studies of Iowa City's park needs during the last 10 years to point out the thoroughness of research behind the proposal.

"This is to show the voters that this is not a spur-of-the-moment enterprise," he said.

Briton, DeGaulle Will Hold Talks

LONDON (AP) — Edward Heath, leader of Britain's opposition Conservative party, will meet President Charles de Gaulle and other French government leaders in Paris Monday.

Heath, who led the ill-fated negotiations to get Britain into the European Common Market said Tuesday that he intended to discuss his party's revival of interest in a British linkup with the continent.

Prof To Discuss Poet's Work

Joseph Summers, chairman of the English department at Washington University, St. Louis, will speak on the topic "On Reading Andrew Marvell's 'The Garden'" at 8 p.m. Friday, Senate Chamber, Old Capitol. Summers, who studied at Harvard University, taught at College and the University of Connecticut. He is a specialist in Renaissance and 17th century literature. The speech is sponsored by the Humanities Society.

Project AID To Raise Fund For Student Scholarships

Project AID will conduct a drive for donations Saturday before and after the Iowa-North Carolina State football game.

Members of the organization will be carrying large gold and black containers and will seek donations at the south entrance of the Union and outside the Field House.

Project AID, under the sponsorship of the Student Senate and directed this year by Dean Deering, A3, Bennett, annually raises funds for student scholarships. This year three full-tuition scholarships were awarded.

Diet Therapy To Be Topic Of Conference

Diet therapists will attend the fourth conference on "Diet Therapy . . . U.S.A." Thursday in the Union Michigan Room.

Topics to be presented are post-surgical dietary complications, the effects of radiation, drugs and medication, hypervitaminosis, and experiments in the treatment of duodenal ulcer.

University faculty participating are Dr. Edward E. Mason, professor of surgery; Dr. Richard E. Peterson, associate professor of nuclear medicine; Dr. George M. Owen, assistant professor of pediatrics, and Dr. Genevieve Stearns, professor emerita of orthopedics.

Dr. Elwood Buchman, Dr. David T. Kaung, and Mrs. Ruth L. Nash of Veterans Hospital will also participate. Chairman of the day is Mrs. Roberta McHenry, dietitian at St. Luke's Hospital, Davenport. Mrs. Mary M. Collins, Cedar Rapids, will summarize the meeting.

The conference is sponsored by the College of Medicine's Department of Internal Medicine, the Nutrition Department of University Hospitals, the Iowa Medical Society, the Iowa Dietetic Association and the Iowa State Department of Health.

The series of talks was planned to aid diet therapists to keep pace with the expanding knowledge of nutrition, to use this knowledge in planning effective therapeutic diets, and to adapt techniques of teaching to the counseling of patients for better diet acceptance and adherence.

Berkeley Prof Will Lecture On Viruses

Heinz Fraenkel-Conrat, professor of molecular biology at the University of California, Berkeley, will address the Iowa section of the American Chemical Society Thursday.

The public lecture will be at 7:30 p.m. in 321 Chemistry Building.

Professor Fraenkel-Conrat, a native of Germany, is primarily interested in macromolecules — the proteins and nucleic acids. The separation of the two components from viruses and their study in biological and chemical terms, as well as the reconstitution of complete virus particles from the two components, have been his main concern during the past decade. In 1958 he won the Albert Lasker Award and the California Scientist of the Year Award.

He earned a medical degree at Breslau and a Ph.D. Degree in biochemistry at Edinburgh.

The talk will deal with simple viruses composed only of ribonucleic acid and proteins, which are used to explain principles of genetic information transfer.

Grad Student Recital Scheduled For Sunday

Betty Wallace, G. Benton, will present a piano recital Sunday at 2 p.m. in North Music Hall.

The program will open with "Arabesque, Op. 18" by Schumann. Other numbers she will play are "Sonata in C Major, K 330" by Mozart, "Four Preludes" by Rachmaninoff, and "Scherzo in C Sharp Minor, Op. 39" by Chopin.
